To the Democratic, Republican and Independent Voters of the 2d Councillor District

We wish to ask your support at the coming election for CHARLES W. GUY, candidate for Governor's Council from this district.

Mr. Guy is now engaged in the furniture business under the name of the C. W. Guy Furniture Co., 86 Canal Street, Boston, but has always voted in this district.

Born in Dover, Mass., and resided in Westwood, Dedham, Medfield, Hyde Park and Norwood, and for the past 18 years being a resident and Taxpayer of Quincy, he is alive to the needs of your district.

Mr. Guy is a descendant of Timothy Guy, who gave the war whoop at the Boston Tea Party in 1773, and is the originator of the Newsboys Benefit Day.

He is the author of several books. A man of strong principle and a strong temperance man, who if elected would do justice to whoever was in the right.

Born on a farm and having worked as a farmer and shoemaker, and by honest effort has risen to a position of honor that those who know him need no recommendation, and those who do not know him need only to ask their acquaintances and judge for themselves. C. W. Guy, Campaign Committee.

CLUB WOMEN HELD UP

Were Returning Saturday Night from Clubhouse

One of the most daring holdups and robberies ever perpetrated in Quincy took place shortly after 10 o'clock Saturday night on Madison street, Atlantic, when two young fellows held up Mrs. Charles R. Safford and Mrs. Rednor P. Coombs. The two ladies had been at the club house of the Quincy Women's club during the evening, and left for home on the 10 o'clock car.

They left the car at the bridge, near the Atlantic depot and started to walk down Madison street toward their homes on Clive and Billings streets. The street is a short one but rather lonely, yet the ladies felt no fear as they were near home. They had not gone far before they noticed two young men behind them. Even this did not frighten them. On the contrary it was with some relief that they saw the two men for they thought they would be a protection.

The two men quickened their steps, and before the two ladies had gone far the men were close to them. As they started to pass one of them stepped up to Mrs. Safford and pushing a revolver in her face grabbed her handbag. At this Mrs. Coombs shouted for help and ran to the house of William Granahan a short distance away. She pounded on the door, at the same time crying out for help. Her cries brought Mrs. Granahan's sons to the door and as soon as they were informed of what had happened they ran to where Mrs. Safford was.

In the meantime the cries of Mrs. Coombs and Mrs. Safford had evidently frightened the two men, for without waiting for anything more they ran toward Hancock street. The street at this point is rather dark, and neither of the two ladies were able to obtain any description of the two men, other than they appeared to be young.

Both Mrs. Safford and Mrs. Coombs were badly frightened and their screams could be heard for a long distance. When recovered they were escorted to their homes by the sons of Mr. Granahan. Mrs. Safford's bag contained something like a dollar in change, in addition to some tickets of the Women's club and some small articles. As soon as they reached home the police were notified by telephone, but as no accurate description could be given of the two men there is but little chance of apprehending them.

There have been frequent holdups in Atlantic, particularly near the Neponset bridge which is infested with a gang of hoodlums from Neponset, and is unsafe for any person to attempt to walk across the Neponset bridge at night unaccompanied. The gang of toughs are not allowed to loiter on the Neponset side for the force of officers there is sufficient to keep them moving and to drive them into Quincy territory. In Quincy, however, the force is so small that it is next to impossible to get after the gang which would require the undivided attention of one officer.

MEMORIAL SERVICE

Loving Tributes at St. Chrysostoms to E. L. Snyder

A memorial service in commemoration of the late E. Landis Snyder filled St. Chrysostom's church on Sunday evening and caused extra seating accommodations to be provided. Besides the large audience of members and friends of the church, there were present many prominent men of Quincy and vicinity and teachers of the public schools.

The devotional exercises were conducted by the Rev. Carlton P. Mills of Winchester, former rector of the church, assisted by Rev. James B. Goodrich of Concord, N. H., formerly of the Milton church. At the organ was Mrs. Wright, nee Helen Sibley, who was the organist of the church at the time when Mr. Snyder was choirmaster.

Among the old choir present were: Clarence Loud, crucifer, H. H. Albee, George Anderson, Robert Sibley, Clifford Bean, Lawrence Bean, Archie Briggs, Mr. Southworth, Mattie Nichols John Smith, Ray Fowler, Thomas Wilkinson, George Hay, Willet Safford, Loyal Safford, George Parlee, Ellis McTear, Bruce Morgan and Frank Fulton. Among the hymns in the memorial service were: "Abide with me" and "Thy Will be Done.

Mr. Mills, in his eulogy of Mr. Snyder spoke of the two memorial services that were being held that night—two so similar and yet so different. Similar because each was a memorial service, but while one was being held with great distinction, and ceremony in Grace church, New York city, the other embodied in a simple service was being held here.

Yet, said Mr. Mills, if comparisons were possible to make, could we say that that great service held in it any finer tribute of respect, affection and love than this held here.

We are here tonight, he said, because we wanted to come and gather as old friends and companions of Mr. Snyder with his life in our minds and let it, with all its simple, sweet nobility, stand out before us.

Mr. Snyder was an undoubted Christian. He was not given to talking the Christian life but he showed it in every possible line of activity. He went about without heralding, without labeling the Christian life but nevertheless his character showed the undoubted fact that he had been with Jesus."

"I have never known a man more thoroughly protected from the guile, deceit and hypocrisy and by the actual virtue possessed in doing things right."

He spoke of Mr. Snyder as never stinting his services and of identifying himself with whatever he undertook.

The same was true in the schools as in the church. He was indefatigable and never spared himself. He possessed high ideals in his work with the schools and a standard which seemed beyond reach. This was shown possible of accomplishment, however, by their splendid work at the public musical exhibitions.

Mr. Mills remarked his love for and his power over boys and spoke of Mr. Snyder as a very original man and one of marked personality. In closing he referred to him as one whose life would always be a benediction to the community and to the church.

Rev. James B. Goodrich added a few words in which he told of his first acquaintance with Mr. Snyder when he came, in 1895, from Pennsylvania as organist in his church in Milton.

He spoke of the positive nature of the man and how strongly he adhered to his opinion if he believed he was in the right.

"He did his work faithfully and well" said Mr. Goodrich," and his life is an example to everyone of us. If everyone were more like Mr. Snyder this world would be a great deal better. I will not add anything more."

At the close of the meeting a hearty greeting was tendered Mr. Mills, his wife and daughters Margaret and Dorothy by his former parishioners.

At a meeting of the vestry of St. Chrysostom's church last week resolutions upon the death of Mr. Snyder, signed by P. L. Davidson and H. H. Albee were adopted.

Mr. Snyder's death occured last August at his home in Middletown, Pa., whither he had retired upon a leave of absence in April owing to ill health caused by overwork. At the funeral services which were held in Lancaster, Pa., this city was represtated by Thomas B. Pollard, head master to the Washington school.

HALLOWE'EN PARTIES

Never More Numerous in Quincy Than This Year

The birthplace of President John Adams was an ideal place for a Hallowe'en party with its large fire places and other antiques, and members of Adams chapter of Junior Sons and Daughters of the Revolution had a jolly time Saturday evening with games, stories and refreshments.

Miss Lucile Elwell of Putnam street gave a most enjoyable Hallowe'en party Saturday evening. The usual fortune telling games, bobbing for apples, popping chestnuts guessing pumpkin seeds and so on were entered into with spirit and a merry time resulted. During the evening refreshments of cider, apples, nuts, cake and candy were served. The cake caused much merriment as it contained a ring, thimble and dime. It seemed most strange but no one found the thimble.

Miss Minnie Hilderbrand of Cummings avenue, gave a jolly Hallowe'en party, Saturday evening. Her young friends were welcomed in by ghosts, who acted their parts well. Games suitable for the evening were played and dancing enjoyed until midnight. The "following of the maze" secured for each one a souvenir of the occasion. Refreshments of sandwiches fruit, pop corn, peanuts, candy and cider were served.

Those at the party were the Misses Anna V. Cain, Isabel C. Cain, Edna McDonald, Jessie McDonald, Ruth Hilderbrand, Gertrude Herne, Bertha Herne, Sadie Heaney, Bessie Lavery, and Messrs. Edward Carlson, David Blum, Hugh McDonald, John Stanton, Joseph Stanton, Charles White.

A Hallowe'en and surpise party was tendered Miss Edith Atkins of Bromfield street on Friday evening by a number of her young friends. Games were played and a Hallowe'en supper served. The rooms were prettily decorated in orange and black. Among those present were: Miss Elizabeth Beattie, Miss Marion Congan of Somerville, Miss Helen Croucher, Miss Helen Ketchum, Miss Mildred Hirtle, Miss Bertha Given, Mrs. E. D. Atkins, Misses Edith, Robina and Helen Atkins, Roy Brett of Braintree, Herbert and Charles Atkins of Revere, Willard Sumner, Harrison Perkins of Boston, John Conroy and John McCarthy.

The Hallowe'en party given by the young ladies of Mrs. Butler's class at the Memorial Congregational church, proved a great success both socially and financially. The credit of the successful affair is due to the Misses Winnifred Cole, Hazel Davidson, Miriam Newcomb, Margaret Read, Alice Waterhouse, Gladys Willey and Marjory Young.

Miss Elsie Badger of Clive street and Mr. Clarence Snow of Somerville entertained twenty out-of-town friends on Hallowe'en. The usual stunts were enjoyed and the refreshments and favors were in keeping with the spirit of the evening.

ATTENTION WORKINGMEN.

At the meeting of the political committee of the Quincy Central Labor Union, held after the meeting at Hibernian Hall, Friday evening, the following vote was passed:

"After listening to Representative Thomas' explanation of his attitude as a member of the Legislature toward the various labor bills which came befor him, and giving it due consideration, we do condemn his action in voting to sustain the Governor's veto of the 8 hour bill and his voting against the peaceful picketing bill, and declare him unfriendly to organized labor. We notice that in his defence of his record he failed to mention that he voted against the peaceful picketing bill, one of the most important labor bills which came before the Legislature during the last session."

NICHOLS FOR MAYOR

Republicans Have Contests for Other Offices

Several contests were disclosed Saturday night when the Republican nomination papers of candidates to be voted for at the caucuses Nov. 16, were opened. For the party candidate for mayor, however, there is no contest and ex-Councilman Walter F. Nichols of Ward Five is the nominee.

Lists of candidates for councilmen were filed from all wards although some of the wards, particularly Wards Two and Four have incomplete lists.

CANDIDATE NICHOLS.

The most lively contest will be over the nomination of councilmen at large, for there are seven candidates seeking the five nominations to be made. Ward One has two candidates, Wards Three, Four and Five one each, and Ward Six two. In Ward Six papers were filed nominating Councilman Cherrington as councilman at large and also as councilman from the ward. He will probably decline one of these nominations.

For Ward Councilmen there are contests in Wards One, Three, Five and Six. Ward One has five candidates, Ward Three six and Wards Five and Six four each. Ward Two has but one candidate, and Ward Four but two.

There is no contest over the members of the School Committee to be elected.

There are also contests over members of the ward committees in Wards One and Three, two lists being filed from each ward. In Ward One the second list was filed two minutes after the first list.

The complete list of nominations made is as follows:

For Mayor,—Walter F. Nichols of Ward Five.

For Councilmen at Large,—Edward J. Sandberg of Ward Four, Charles E. Cherrington of Ward Six, Charles A. Hadlock of Ward Six, Alfred H. Gilson of Ward One, Alexander Clark of Ward Three, Ernest W. Branch of Ward One, Charles M. Bryant of Ward Five.

School Committee at Large,—Edward H. Bushnell of Ward Two.

School Committee from Ward One,—Dexter E. Wadsworth.

School Committee from Ward Five—William G. Curtis.

Councilmen from Ward One,—Joseph L. Whiton, Jr., John D. McKay, Charles C. Hearn, James M. Nowland and Charles A. Erickson.

Ward Committee from Ward One,—Harry L. Crane, Henry P. Kittredge, Theodore H. Hermanson, Charles H. Johnson, Arthur L. Thomas, George W. Abele, John O. Hall, George T. Westland and Ira M. Whittemore.

Second list,—Andrew Johnson, Edgar G. Cleaves, Frederick E. Tupper, Franklin G. Taylor, Charles Pearson, Thomas M. Butler, Henry P. Furnald and William P. Taylor.

Councilmen from Ward Two,—George H. Corliss.

Ward Committee from Ward Two,—Arthur W. Newcomb, Rollin H. Newcomb, Edgar F. Hayden, Daniel Scouler, Jr., Albert T. Whitman, Henry G. Studley, Percy H. Holman, Herbert F. Tucker, Eugene C. Hultman.

Councilmen from Ward Three—Robert R. Craig, George A. Bolster, John R. Richards, George Gouthier, Malcolm McKenzie and Alexander D. Booth.

Ward Committee from Ward Three,—Daniel McLennan, Alexander Emslie, Malcolm McKenzie, Albert J. Williams, Edward Pierce, Newman A. Savage, Alexander D. Booth and George A. Bolster.

Second list,—Robert B. Craig, Edward D. Marnock, John R. Richards, Daniel F. Tenney, Murdock A. Campbell, John Bissett, Alexander Clark, George Gouthier and John Capaccioli, Jr.

Councilmen from Ward Four,—John J. Clark and J. Leonard Ferguson.

Ward Committee from Ward Four,—Edward J. Sandberg, Louis K. Badger, Weston A. Turner, William H. Teasdale, John W. Thompson, Victor E. Serburg, August Williams and J. Leonard Ferguson.

Ward Councilmen from Ward Five—Arthur W. Loud, Fred R. Snow, Felix Favorite and Arthur C. Gardner.

Ward Committee from Ward Five,—William M. Chase, Richard R. Freeman, Herbert Y. Follett, Walter S. Pinkham, William J. Leslie, Walter G. Field, Frederick G. Thayer and Felix Favorite.

Ward Councilmen from Ward Six—Charles E. Cherrington, Washington G. Woodward, Ralph W. Hobbs and John Moir.

Ward Committee from Ward Six,—Frank E. Badger, Herbert S. Barker, Lyndon D. Gurney, Horace T. Jenkins, Robert E. Jones, Louis F. R. Langelier, Edward F. Parlee, Ernest E. Sodergren and Washington G. Woodward.

It will be noticed that in several of the wards but eight are named for ward committee when each ward is entitled to nine.

Councilman Charles L. Bean of the Wollaston ward intended to file papers for renomination, but failed through a misunderstanding of the date upon which they were to be opened. He supposed that the papers were not to be opened until this week and was greatly surprised this morning when informed by the Daily Ledger that the time for filing nomination papers had expired Saturday night. When asked if he should run on nomination papers at the election, Councilman Bean said that he could not answer at present as to just what he should do.

Voters who feel only a passing interest in the fortunes of the Republican state ticket this year because they regard it as certain that the figures on the morning after election day will tell the same old satisfactory story, should remember the important fact so often repeated and never fully appreciated, that every vote counts. The Republicans of Boston failed by just four votes to elect a Republican congressman in the 10th district last fall and hundreds of Republicans afterwards said that if they thought the party candidate had any chance they would have voted.

CLOSE FIGHT IN BAY STATE

Both Sides Claiming Victory on the Eve of Election

REPUBLICANS CLAIM 25,000

Concede That Democratic Vote of Last Year Will Be Swelled by 30,000, but Claim That Farmers' Vote Will Be Too Much For Democrats to Overcome—Vahey Predicts That Landslide Will Occur

Boston, Nov. 1.—With the rank and file imbued with the spirit of battle, the heavy guns on the firing line, and the leaders of both camps exhorting their followers to bring out a big vote, the two great political parties approach the battle of ballots tomorrow.

Both sides are claiming victory, and the statements sent out by the leaders of both camps carry their usual optimistic predictions, but in the hearts of the leaders themselves and in the private councils of the respective camps there is an underlying feeling of uncertainty.

Although in the 321 towns and 30 cities of the commonwealth the fight for the governorship takes precedence, in metropolitan Boston the fight for the district attorneyship has overshadowed the gubernatorial fight. Both Hill and Pelletier claim victory, the former by 10,000 and the latter by 12,000.

One indication of the closeness of the fight for governor and lieutenant governor is the prediction that Colonel Doty of the Republican state committee makes in his official estimate of the Republican plurality when he says that the Republicans will win the state by only 25,000.

Last year Governor Draper defeated Vahey by over 60,000. But the fact that this is an off year, with a heavy falling off in the vote to be expected, and the strong fight waged against Draper by organized labor for his veto of the eight-hour bill, are counted on to cut deeply into his plurality.

Vahey himself predicted at a conference at the Quincy Houe that there was going to be a Democratic landslide similar to that of the Douglas year. His assurance was born of the confident prediction by Chairman Donovan that Boston would roll up a majority of 25,000.

Basing their opinions on these figures, many of the Democrats are saying that if Vahey gets a plurality in Boston of 25,000 that, with the splendid work done in organizing the Democratic party throughout the state, Vahey will be a winner.

Opposed to these views, the Republicans point to the regular Republican majorities which always roll down to the city and say that this year the staid, as-it-was-in-the-beginning-is-now-and-ever-shall-be, Republican farmers' vote in the towns will be too much for the Democrats in Boston to overcome.

The towns have always been the bugaboo of the Democrats, but this year there are great hopes of cutting down the Republican majorities on account of the popular planks in the Democratic platform and because of the disaffection on the Republican side manifested at the primaries.

Elections will be held tomorrow in many states and cities throughout the country. Three states will elect governors and full state tickets, namely Massachusetts, Rhode Island and Virginia.

New Jersey will elect both branches of the legislature, the members of the upper branch hving a voice in the selection of a successor to United States Senator John Kean in 1911.

Pennsylvania will elect a state treasurer, auditor general and judge of the supreme court.

Nebraska will elect two judges of the supreme court and three university regents.

TROOPS ORDERED OUT

Trouble Over Election Is Feared In Kentucky Feud Centre

Frankfort, Ky., Nov. 1.—To avoid what may possibly develop into a general massacre at Jackson, the feud centre of Kentucky, Acting Governor Cox last night ordered troops to Jackson to protect the officers of election tomorrow.

The call for troops was made by Judge Adams, who is the present Republican nominee for circuit judge. It was in response to a telegram from an official in Breathitt county, stating that the situation was exceedingly critical at Jackson, there being a large body of armed men on both sides and a fight imminent.

Record Cod Catch

Gloucester, Mass., Nov. 1.—Captain Geel of the fishing schooner Tatler, hailing from this port, has broken the cod record with a catch of 500,000 pounds, the biggest ever made by any vessel along the Atlantic seaboard.

Pacific Fleet at Manila

Manila, Nov. 1.—The United States Pacific fleet, Rear Admiral Sebree commanding, entered Manila bay two days ahead of its schedule. Citizens have prepared a program of entertainment for the officers and enlisted men.

A FOOTBALL TRAGEDY

Cadet Byrne Succumbs to Injuries Received In Game With Harvard

West Pont, Nov. 1.—Cadet Eugene C. Byrne, the big left tackle, who was injured in the Harvard game Saturday, died Sunday. From the time he was taken from the field until his death doctors kept him alive by artificial respiration. The injury has been diagnosed as a fracture of the second or third vertebrae, and the respiratory nerves were completely paralyzed.

When it was seen that all hope was gone a hurried telegram was sent to Byrne's mother at Buffalo and she started at once, arriving at the academy last night.

The death of their fellow student was announced at reveille and as the cadet officer of the day read the tidings a quiver ran through the long line and with tears filling their eyes stalwart young soldiers silently broke ranks and returned to quarters. At the service in the chapel many of Byrne's comrades broke down and sobbed.

Late last night it was decided to abandon the rest of the football schedule for the season.

Fatality In Philadelphia

Philadelphia, Nov. 1.—As a result of injuries received in a football game between the Medico Chi and the Philadelphia College of Pharmacy Saturday, Michael Burke, 24, died Sunday. His skull was fractured by being thrown heavily to the ground.

Indian Football Player Killed

Kansas City, Nov. 1.—Roy Spybuck, 19, an Indian football player of Haskell university, died Sunday from injuries received in a game at Buckner Saturday afternoon.

ROBBERS' AWFUL WORK

Murder Farmer's Wife and Daughter and Loot Their Home

Perth Amboy, N. J., Nov. 1.—Silas H. Marks, a farmer living near here, returned to his home late last night and found his wife and daughter murdered. There were fresh footprints outside the house.

Marks tried to telephone to Perth Amboy, but found the wires cut and drove to this place. It was discovered by the authorities that telegraph and telephone wires out of here had been cut.

The murderer or murderers ransacked the house and carried away a small chest containing $1600.

STEAD HAS A CHAT WITH GLADSTONE

"Spirit" of Former Premier Again In Political Arena

London, Nov. 1.—The Chronicle gives a long report of a purported conversation held with the spirit of William Gladstone by William Stead, through the medium of the spirit of a dead American newspaper woman, whom Stead calls Julia.

Gladstone's spirit is represented as having answered numerous questions, saying, among other things, that he agrees with the principles of the budget and that he thinks the house of lords will act most unwisely if it rejects it. He advises the government not to dissolve immediately if the house of lords passes the bill, but to await a more favorable opportunity.

The spirit of Gladstone is further made to say that it is distasteful, although not harmful, to him to be thus brought back to the old political arena. It adds: "I desire to detach myself from this set of disturbances and to go my way in the manner I desire."

"INSULT" TO THE SOUTH

Objection to Rockefeller Taking Charge of Hearts and Stomachs

Atlanta, Nov. 1.—John D. Rockefeller's gift of $1,000,000 to fight "hookworm" in the south has stirred the ire of Bishop Candler of the Southern Methodist church, who denounces the oil magnate's action as an insult to this section.

Bishop Candler says: "It is to be hoped that our people will not be taken by Mr. Rockefeller's vermifuge fund and hookworm commission. This habit of singling out the south for all sorts of reforms, remedies and enlightenments is not for your benefit, and the too ready acceptance of these things on the part of some of our people is not to our credit. Mr. Rockefeller would take charge of both our heads and our stomaches."

"Count" Gubata a Waiter

Paris, Nov. 1.—The romance surrounding Count and Countess Gubata, who were arrested on the charge of having obtained jewels by fraudulent means, has collapsed, the police having discovered that Gubata was a waiter in various hotels in Ausria.

Stays Spanish Executions

Barcelona, Nov. 1.—Premier Moret telegraphed the authorities here to suspend the execution of all court-martial sentences until the cases could be examined by the government.

Train Kills Two Students

Lewistown, Pa., Nov. 1.—A train struck and instantly killed John Deviley, aged 20, and Willis G. Deemer, 19, both of whom were first year students at Juniata college.

Insurgents Probably Successful In Battle With Government Forces

Panama, Nov. 1.—A cable message from Managua states that a battle has been fought between the government forces and the revolutionists.

The message was brief and failed to give the result of the fight. From this it is supposed that either the battle was indecisive or that the government forces lost.

President Zelaya controls the cable office at Managua, and it is reasonable to be supposed that if the government forces had won a victory the facts would have been sent broadcast.

A wireless message from Bluefields says a vessel arrived there yesterday with a large supply of arms and ammunition from the Guatemalan government and that the revolutionists are now abundantly supplied with fighting material. This is interpreted here to mean that the expected has happened and that President Cabrera of Guatemala is now openly aiding the revolutionists.

Eight Men From Asylum Search For Them Without Avail

Taunton, Mass., Nov. 1.—Though the police of adjoining cities and towns are aiding in the search, no trace has yet been obtained of the whereabouts of Carroll Parsons and Clarence Greenleaf, the insane patients who escaped from the Taunton asylum Thursday evening.

Since then eight men connected with the institution have been searching for them and the woods between here and Fall River and New Bedford have been scoured by the police without avail.

Both are about 25 years old and believed to be traveling together. They are usually of quiet demeanor but at times have been violent.

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE

Address of Prof. Hermann S. Hering, C. S. B.

Quincy Music hall was filled Sunday evening by an attentive audience, to hear the address on "Christian Science" by Prof. Herman S. Hering, C. S. B., of Concord, N. H. Braintree, Weymouth, Milton, Boston and more distant towns, and all parts of Quincy, were represented. Lewis W. Strang of Weymouth and Boston, welcomed all in behalf of the First Church of Christ, Scientist, of Braintree, and introduced the speaker of the evening.

Prof. Hering expounded the principles of Christian Science in an able and convincing address which delighted followers of the church and interested many who have not made a study of Christian Science. His address in part follows:

In addressing an intelligent audience upon the subject of "Christian Science: The Science of Salvation," it is well, first of all ,to reach a mutual understanding as to the meaning of the terms. Science means exact, systematized, and demonstrable knowledge of facts, laws and causes, while according to Smith's Bible Dictionary salvation means "deliverance from temporal evils and earthly destruction," in other words deliverance from evil. Hence "The Science of Salvation" means in substance that demonstrable knowledge which affords deliverance from evil.

Salvation to be Worked Out.

St. Paul admonishes us to work out our own salvation with fear and trembling. This Scriptural command means far more than the common belief that salvation is assured by simply having belief or faith in Jesus as the Son of God. Such saving faith is vitally necessary, but it is only the beginning of our salvation—its spiritual basis.

Then must follow the working out of our deliverance from evil, our separation from sin, from the bondage of this world, from limitation, failure, sickness, disease, death.

"Saving faith," the recognition that Christ Jesus is the Son of God and that he brought salvation to all mankind, includes not only the glad acceptance of what Jesus was and did, but of what he said we can and must do. He said, "I am the way, the truth and the life," and he also said "He that believeth on me the works that I do shall he do also."

Working out our own salvation means to secure the mastery over the ills of this world, to destroy them by the demonstrable knowledge of God received through Christ Jesus and to establish harmony, health, happiness in every day life. Hence our salvation is not fully worked out until we have dominion over all discord and everything that causes it. This necessarily includes dominion over matter and its laws, to which we are in such bondage, dominion over evil and its sensation, sin and sorrow, dominion even over death and its terrors. It means to attain to perfect harmonious living to bring about God's kingdom on earth.

Unless we work out our salvation, we will not gain the victory over the world, the flesh and the devil, as we are commanded.

If mere faith or belief in Jesus is all that is necessary for salvation, why are so many promises in Revelation made to "him that overcometh," and especially "He that overcometh shall inherit all things; and I will be his God and he shall be my son?" (Rev. 21:7.)

It is our aim to show that Christian Science is the Science of salvation in and through Christ; that it reveals the Principle of being and awakens that spiritual understanding which enables us to work out our own salvation practically and effectively; that it discloses the cause and occasion of discordant conditions here on earth, the nature of the bondage that holds us to evil; that it reveals the absolute truth of being, the truth about God and His universe, including man, and the modus operandi, by which, we can proceed to free ourselves from evil and attain true manhood and womanhood, in "the liberty of the sons of God."

Salvation Through Mind.

In working out our salvation we must first see that salvation or deliverance from evil is a mental process, takes place in mind; that it is a transformation through Mind and that it is both ethical and philosophical.

The Bible declares that "to be carnally minded is death; but to be spiritually minded is life and peace."

All will admit that evil is primarily mental; that evil aims, and purposes, all misjudgment, hatred, envy, jealousy ,are mental ,and that the correction of these mental conditions must be mental ,through education and experience ,the awakening and establishment of right thought.

If law is mental the supposed law of disease must be mental. Therefore such wrong law can be altered, corrected and repealed by the law of Truth and right ,the law of God.

We are all familiar with the physical effects of fear ,anger and other strong emotions. Such effects having a mental cause obviously can be healed mentally and Christian Science teaches that all disease, whatever its name or nature, has a mental origin and is a mental phenomenon, an experience of the mortal material human mind, which is healed by the divine Mind.

Objection to Giving Up Matter.

This leads to the troublesome question, What shall we do with matter? The world has always resisted strongly the idealistic teaching of the supremacy of Spirit over matter, which is taught everywhere in the Bible; and one of the leading objections to the Bible today is this, that many of its statements are visionary and impractical; in fact, the endeavor has been made to discredit Bible records of spiritual demonstration and to explain them materially, or flatly deny their reliability.

In "Retrospection and Introspection" Mrs. Eddy says: "During twenty years prior to my discovery I had been trying to trace all physical effects to a mental cause; and in the latter part of 1866 I gained the scientific certainty that all causation was Mind, and every effect a mental phenomenon."

The importance of the mental factor, the power of mind in human affairs, is being more and more generally conceded and the day is hastening on when the truth of Mrs. Eddy's statement will be recognized.

The world hesitates to admit that matter is only a mental phenomenon because such admission refutes matter's fundamental claim to be substance and life. Especially is mortal thought disinclined to consider that the divine Mind and its ideas alone are real and that human phenomena are merely projected human concepts, because this means that a large part of what the human mind has believed to be true must be classed as false.

Regarding Material Causation.

Christian Science teaches that matter and material existence are phenomena of mortal mind, a concept of existence obtained through the physical senses, a misapprehension of reality held by human consciousness when uninstructed by Science, an appearance instead of an actuality. It is simply an imitation or counterfeit.

Now it is not the appearance but only the original that has power, intelligence and substance. The manifestation of growth, action or being in matter is but a material concept of spiritual facts.

The objects, action and power expressed in a "moving picture" are not in the picture and we do not associate them with the picture but with the original which the picture reproduces. Similarly, life, growth ,action, power, substance, law, et cetera, are not in matter, physical existence or the material consciousness; but in divine Mind, the only cause, Truth is reflected being, and should be so thought of.

When we recognize God as the only Mind, the onl cause, Truth is reflected in consciousness and existence is harmonious. When we believe causation to be material or in mortal mind we put our trust and dependence in a shadow ,a false belief, and existence solcalled, is discordant, liable to disease, disaster, death. In order to work out our salvation we therefore need to understand causation.

Consciousness is Eistence.

Our conscious existence is obviously what we are conscious of. Of our real existence we may not be conscious. Everything that we know or see or believe all our thoughts, acts, or experiences go to make up our universe, our sense of existence, our consciousness.

As we gain our concept of existence largely through the physical senses, it is very important that we be able to weigh and sift their testimony. We all know how deceptive these senses are. The distant house is not actually small because it seems to be so, neither does the sun move because it appears to move. So also hearing, taste, touch and smell are all fallible. In fact, the impressions received by the senses and recorded mentally require explanation and rectification to make them coherent and intelligible.

These senses bring to our consciousness only impressions ,from which we form a concept of things. If therefore the testimony of the physical senses is so unreliable and unsatisfactory it is apparent that the consciousness gained though these senses, cannot be true and reliable.

Matter a Sense-Impression.

Material objects may be defined as objectified mental impressions, and since material sense is unreliable and untrue ,these impressions are a seeming only ,that is counterfeits of reality. What is the true nature of substance ,or what is back of these appearances ,material sense does not and cannot determine. Only a sense that can perceive truth and reality can declare this. A mortal's universe is a projection of the concept of existence which he has obtained through his five senses and through the educational influences of his childhood and youth.

If we can see existence as mental instead of physical, we have taken a great step onward. The next step is to learn what is true and real and thus correct our impressions and obtain a truer consciousness of existence.

The Mortal Body is Mental.

Through Christian Science we are beginning to understand that the mortal body is mental; that it is an embodiment of conscious and unconscious mentality, the devehowever mortal thought of self-hood, the externalization of a personal sense of physical being. This explains why it is so responsive to thought.

The prevailing belief that life is in matter, in a mere sense-impression, accounts for the ills of the flesh. Is it any wonder that the body gives out under the strain put upon it so long as we declare that our life depends upon it, upon a false concept that cannot even sustain itself? Think of the responsibility, the burden, we place upon it, making it not alone our dependence in normal living, but also the scapegoat of all excesses! Is it any wonder it does not "make good?"

We take an advanced step when we see that the body is mental instead of physical and that we do not live in a matter-body but in consciousness.

Bodily conditions are relieved in so far as we realize that God, the infinite divine Principle, is our Life.

Mrs. Eddy says in Science and Health (Page 14.) "Become conscious for a single moment that Life and intelligence are purely spiritual,—neither in nor of matter,—and the body will then utter no complaints. If suffering from a belief in sickness, you will find yourself suddenly well Sorrow is turned into joy when the body is controlled by spiritual Life, Truth and Love."

What is Mind?

The ordinary human concept of mind is that which thinks, feels or wills, the intellect, or the activity of the brain. Christian Science reveals the fact that Mind is divine Principle ,the infinite Life, Truth, Love, omnipotent, omniscient, omnipresent ,the all-inclusive, eternal, unchanging, all-wise being, the only cause and creator.

This is a very different Mind from that which is supposed to result from the action of the gray matter called brain.

Christian Science makes it clear that material existence is not the manifestation of this divine Mind, but the phenomenon of the counterfeit, called mortal mind.

It is this false concept of existence that does all the wrong thinking; that believes in sin, disease and death; that claims there is life and intelligence in matter.

Since God is Mind, this Mind is good ,and its effects must always be good never evil. As real thinking is the activity of the divine Mind, the only real thoughts or ideas are good. Therefore everything that is evil, pertains to evil or results in evil is not Mind nor included in Mind, hence is not real. Human thought, will power, hypnotism, mental suggestion or magnetism are all capable of evil, and hence are not Mind or the activity of Mind, are not of God, and so are not good but essentially and entirely evil.

Healing Methods.

The difference between the method of healing through mental suggestion, or hypnotism, and that of the divine Mind, the Christ healing, must be clearly seen.

When the effort is made to heal by suggestion ,the operator endeavors by means of hypnotism to make the patient believe that he is not sick. He attempts to change the belief but the cause of disease remains and in time manifests itself even in worse forms. The patient is no better off, he has not risen in the scale of being, he has no more manhood ,or moral courage ,and does not know any more about God and His Christ than before.

How is it possible for anyone to believe as has been said, that Christ Jesus healed through hypnotism, when hypnotism is the dominating activity of the carnal mind, and the Bible declares "the carnal mind is enmity against God?" How could Jesus as the Son of God use a power that is opposed to God? He said "Of mine own self I can do nothing. The Father in me he doeth the works."

It may be needless to say that the teachings of Christian Science are in no wise the same as those of the Emmanuel Church Movement. The projectors of that movement themselves have emphatically declared this.

Christian Science Healing.

The true Christian Scientist reflects the divine Mind, stands on the basis of God, man and the universe as Spirit and spiritual, as Love and its manifestation, as Mind and its ideas—perfect and harmonious. Hence he understands the unreality of matter and evil and knows that man is not sick but that the patient is simply suffering from a false mesmeric belief. From that standpoint he proceeds to correct the errors of belief with the Truth of being and thus establishes harmony on a spiritual, scientific basis.

The patient is not improved merely physically, but morally and spiritually as well, because the divine Mind, God, has reached his consciousness. His belief in matter, sin and disease is lessened and the understanding and love of God, of His Christ, and of the Bible is greatly increased. He has begun to let that mind be in him which was also in Christ Jesus, the "sound mind" which St. Paul declared God has given us.

Thus it is seen that it is not the human mind that does the healing, but divine Truth which is brought to bear upon the case by reflection. Truth is reflected by knowing. The human mind reflects Truth by knowing Truth knowing God aright.

This is a cardinal point in Christian Science healing, that it is God, divine Mind that does the healing and not human thought. In Christian Science healing the human sense serves only as a vehicle for Truth. It is the Truth alone that effects results.

Two-Fold Process in Healing.

Another cardinal point in Christian Science healing is that it works from the standpoint of the unreality of matter and evil and thus proves the allness and supremacy of God. It includes the knowing and affirmation of Truth; the recognition and denial of error.

Some people do not understand why it is necessary to deny matter. The reason is simply this, that the belief in the reality of matter seems so strongly established in human consciousness through heredity, environment and education that the mere acknowledgment or declaration of the allness of God does not always beget the conviction of the unreality of matter; and the specific denial of matter aids in destroying or lessening this claim in the human consciousness.

Cause of Sickness and Sin.

Sickness is the result of mesmerism, illusion. The human thought listens to the arguments of mortal mind instead of refusing to believe them,—hence its ills. The sick are asleep in the mesmerism of material sense and need to be awakened to man's true existence as God's child. Christian Science shows us the way to do this.

So also sin and all evil are mesmeric illusion. Sin is indulged in because the sinner believes that there is some good or pleasure in it, some advantage to be gained by indulgence. This belief in evil's reality and the pleasure it promises as its only strength, and when Christian Science reaches the thought of the sinner and convinces him that sin confers no pleasure and is but an allusion, and that indulgence in it results only in suffering and bondage, the foundation of his belief is broken and through the Christ love he awakens to a new life and is healed. If God is the infinite all, is omnipotent, omnipresent, omniscient good, as the Bible teaches, evil can have neither power nor existence.

Jesus said of evil simply, "It is a liar and the father of it," and he proceeded to solve the problem of evil in the only way it can be solved, viz., by denying and destroying it.

Mrs. Eddy Loved and Honored.

It is not to be wondered at, indeed it is inevitable, that Christian Scientists should love Mrs. Eddy for having brought to the world this Science of Salvation, the true knowledge of God and man, the spiritual understanding of the Holy Scriptures which enables them to know themselves and to demonstrate that "Saving faith" which alone leads to heaven.

We love her not only for the revelation of the demonstrable Christ Truth, which is contained in her wonderful book "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" and her other writings, but for her consecration and devotion in continuing to lead the great religious movement she has inaugurated. She has remained steadfastly at her post of duty and continued to instruct, guide, advise, admonish her followers and to lead on her great Cause in its stately progress.

Those of us who have known her personally and who have had the great privilege of being under her supervision realize in some degree what an extraordinary woman she is.

Her spirituality, her love to God and her desire to be obedient only to Him, and to follow the example of the Master—these characteristics make her the great Leader that she is.

Mrs. Eddy did not simply state her discovery to the world; she first demonstrated it and then offered it as a demonstrable Science for all mankind to profit by. This Science overcomes evil, by giving a true knowledge of God and His Christ, it enables all humanity to work out their own salvation and reach that pure consciousness, which Jesus called the "kingdom of heaven."

Closing Appeal.

"Glory be to God, and peace to the struggling hearts! Christ hath rolled away the stone from the door of human hope and faith, and through the revelation and demonstration of life in God, hath elevated them to possible atonement with the spiritual idea of man and his divine Principle, Love." (Science and Health, p. 45.)

The stone of material sense has been rolled away and the possible atonement with Truth and Love has been demonstrated. The truth about God and man and the universe has been revealed to the human understanding, and the healing Christ is at our door.

A measure of this true understanding has already been attained, and by entering into the closet and closing the door of material sense,—by thinking rightly about God and his reflection, realizing the spiritual fact and denying matter and all evil, we can purify consciousness, obtain clearer and safer views, experience greater freedom and harmony, better health, improved morals, and a final overcoming of all evil.

In closing let me read to you Mrs. Eddy's scientific statement of being, which epitomizes the Science of Salvation. "There is no life, truth, intelligence, nor substance in matter. All is infinite Mind and its infinite manifestation, for God is All-in-all. Spirit is immortal Truth; matter is mortal error. Spirit is the real and eternal; matter is the unreal and temporal. Spirit is God, and man is His image and likeness. Therefore man is not material; he is spiritual."

by local applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube is inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed, Deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever; nine cases out of ten are caused by Catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces.

ABOUT 200 PRESENT

To Organize the New Girls' Club at Women's Clubhouse

The Girls' Club in connection with the Quincy Women's Club is now an assured fact, and it promises to be a valuable auxiliary. The women were much surprised at the large number of girls who responded Saturday evening to meet at the clubhouse, nearly 200. They came from all parts of the city and were made to feel at home.

The informal program opened with music by Estes orchestra of Wollaston, and an opportunity was given for dancing. A reception followed when the girls were presented to Mrs. H. J. Gurney, the president of the Quincy Women's club; Mrs. E. W. Sheppard, the vice president; Mrs. W. S. Pinkham, the secretary; Mrs. E. S. Tenney, chairman of the Arts and Crafts Committee; and Miss Harriet E. Turner, chairman of the Philanthropic committee.

Mrs. Gurney welcomed the girls and introduced the chairmen of the two committees named who were at the head of the movement to organize a girls' club. Miss Turner explained the objects of the club, to provide entertainment and instruction for the girls; and Mrs. Tenney told of the different classes it was proposed to organize upon a very small payment per lesson.

A delightful little play entitled "The Mouse Trap" was presented by Mrs. H. J. Gurney and Miss Edith Randall.

An opportunity was offered to register for the different classes and there was an enrolment of over 100. The classes at the start will include: Millinery, taught by Miss Annie Woodward; dressmaking taught by Mrs. Jesse I. Litchfield; basketry, taught by Mrs. John T. Conway; brass work, taught by Mrs. Henry H. Schulze, and stenciling, taught by Mrs. Frank F. Prescott. All these ladies have volunteered their services without pay.

The members of the Arts and Crafts committee, the Philanthropic committee, and other club members assisted in serving refreshments, and also showed their guests about the clubhouse, the girls being much interested in the headquarters of the Quincy Woman's Club.

The Girls' Club will meet soon to organize and will devote one Saturday evening each month to sociability. The classes will meet on the other Saturday evenings.

SAGE FOR DARKENING THE HAIR.

There is nothing new about the idea of using sage for restoring the color of the hair. Our great-grandmothers kept their locks soft, dark and glossy by using a "sage tea." Whenever their hair fell out or took on a dull, faded or streaked appearance, they made a brew of sage leaves and applied it to their hair with wonderfully beneficial effect. Nowadays we don't have to resort to the old-time, tiresome method of gathering the herbs and making the brew. This is done by skillful chemists better than we could do it ourselves, and all we have to do is to call for the ready-made product. Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur, containing sage in the proper strength, with the addition of Sulphur, another old-time scalp remedy. This preparation is sold by all first-class druggists for 50c. and $1.00 a bottle, or is sent direct by the Wyeth Chemical Company, 74 Cortlandt St., New York City, upon receipt of price.

BRIEFS

The Ladies' Missionary society of the Wollaston Methodist church held their monthly meeting this afternoon with Mrs. R. B. Smith .

The battleship North Dakota left the navy yard Sunday morning for Rockland, Me., for her official trials. On the way down she went over the Provincetown course three times and developed a speed of 21.41 knots unofficial.

Work was commenced this morning rebuilding South street under the order passed by the City Council appropriating $5,000.

Little Miss Marion Gurney of Walker street entertained a number of her friends on Saturday afternoon. The occasion of the celebration being her eighth birthday.

The John Boyle O'Reiley club of West Quincy held a smoke talk Saturday night at Hibernian hall. There was vocal selections by several of the members ,and the smoke talk turned into a Democratic rally.

An anniversary High mass of requiem was celebrated Saturday morning in St. Mary's church for the repose of the soul of Robert P. Sullivan. The regular choir sang the Gregorian mass. Miss Mary McKay presiding at the organ.

P. J. O'Leary of Quincy Point fell from a moving street car near the Graham turnout Sunday afternoon and was slightly cut and bruised. He stood on the step and as the car went around the curve he fell off. The man was able to go to work this morning.

The lost child call from Box 61 was sounded at 5.42 Saturday night to summons help to search for Henry Marven, a 9 year old boy living in the Wood, Harmon block at 385 Hancock street. It seems that Saturday afternoon the boy got a ride to Quincy on a team. As he did not get back by supper time his parents became alarmed and cuased the alarm to be sounded. The boy returned soon after the alarm sounded.

A duplicate whist tournament for club members, under the Howell system, will be held at the rooms of the Granite City club tonight. Pairs will be alloted by drawing. The regular progressive tournament will be held Wednesday evening. On Saturday evening the club will hold a guest night to which members are privileged to invite friends.

A pretty ceremony took place at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Richard D. Jacobs of Farrington street on Sunday when their infant daughter, Esther Alice Richards, was christened. Rev. Carl G. Horst, pastor of the Wollaston Unitarian church, performed the ceremony, assisted by Rev. Charles W. Casson of the publicity department of the American Unitarian association, a friend of the family.

James Moorehead an dhis son did a clever piece of detective work this morning, and as a result they caught a man red handed on Revere road taking their milk bottles. Mr. Moorehead has been missing his bottles for some time and determined to watch. He visited the block on Revere road shortly after 3 o'clock and placed two empty bottles on the upper landing. Shortly after he claims that Henry Wynot entered the building and took the bottles. Wynot's arrest followed a little later. In court Wynot claimed he had a new customer in the block, but did not know just which suite customer occupied. He thought the bottles belonged to him and took them. The court placed the case on file on payment of costs.

☞ The Quincy Cooperative Bank still forges ahead—saving for and Loanings to the ePople. A semi-annual dividend at rate of 5 1-4 per cent, per annum has just been declared and about eleven hunder red depositors are made happy. Shares are now on sale as per ad in another column.

Y. M. C. A. ADDRESSES

Special Association Speakers at the Quincy Churches

It would be impossible for a newspaper to report all the kind things said in the Quincy churches about the Young Men's Christian Association on Sunday, for there were fifteen or more special services and twenty to twenty-five speakers, as announced in the Saturday Daily Ledger. Most of the speakers were from out of town and prominent in the Y. M. C. A. work, and what they said will awaken a new interest in the Quincy association, which will start a campaign this week to raise $25,000 to extinguish the debt upon the building.

At Bethany.

Dr. G. W. Tupper of the State Committee of the Y. M. C. A. was the speaker at Bethany Congregational church, and was assisted by Rev. Dr. Hardy, the pastor, and Deacon R. D. Chase, the president of the Quincy Y. M. C. A. Dr. Tupper is an authority on the work among aliens, but spoke mostly concerning the relation of the church and the Y. M. C. A. to each other. The association, he said, was an offspring of the church, but should today be a feeder of the church. He asked the question, what has the Y. M. C. A. meant to Quincy? He said it lives only as it meets the needs of the city. First, the demand of the young man away from home. Second, the physical needs of the young men of Quincy. Third, in assisting the home in training the boy. It is because the Y. M. C. A., is doing such splendid work that $63,000,000 have been expended in the United States for Y. M. C. A. buildings. Boston would raise its $500,000 and Quincy should raise the $25,000.

Hall Place Church.

At the West Quincy M. E. church S. A. Davidson asked the people to compare with him the relative cost of the jail and the Y. M. C. A. In Hartford, Conn., the jail cost a million and the Y. M. C. A. $250,000. The Y. M. C. A. has 900 members, the prison 939 inmates. It takes 10 men at a cost of $8600 to supervise the Y. M. C. A. It takes 61 at a cost of $196,000 to supervise the prison. The Y. M. C. A., budget is $17,500 and the prisons $161,000. The Y. M. C. A. members bring in $5,000 and the prisoners nothing.

The Association evening school helps a boy or man to better conditions. Statistics show that the uneducated man has a chance of less than one in 10,000 to get to the top; a grammar school boy one in 1000, a high school boy one in 400, and a college man one in 40. Reckoning $1.50 a day to the uneducated, his 2160 days of schooling would have been worth $10 a day to him in 40 years. The educational average $1,000 a year or $40,000, and the $1.50 a day man $18,000. The difference of $22,000 shows the worth of the 2160 school days.

Help the Y. M. C. A., to help the working boy and man better his education. Whether they had to leave school or did so of their own free will and accord does not change the present need. Help the Association fulfil this need.

QUINCY GEOLOGY.

Rev. Alfred R. Atwood, pastor of the Washington Street church, has been studying the glacial geology of Quincy, under the direction of Prof. George H. Perkins, Ph. D., the geologist for the state of Vermont. Last week Rev. Mr. Atwood shipped fossilized remains of geological fauna to the State Museum at Montpelier, and also to the University of Vermont at Burlington.

A representative of the Ledger saw a letter from the Vermont State Geologist to Rev. Mr. Atwood which said "I am greatly obliged to you for these fossils and on behalf of the college and state would thank you for your contributions."

Mr. Atwood tells an interesting story of the probable appearance of our city at the time of the glacial period.

EXPENSIVE RIDE.

Waldeman Mellen, Jr., of Grove street was arraigned in court this morning for evading a carriage fare. According to the testimony in the case, Mellen hired a carriage at the South Station, Boston, at 1 o'clock Sunday morning to take him to Quincy agreeing to pay $5 for the same. When the carriage reached the fountain in City Square, Mellen told the driver he would pay him when he got to the house. Arriving at the house the driver went in and up to Mellen's room when the latter is alleged to have draw a knife and threatened to cut the driver's throat if he did not get out. The driver went to the police station and Officer Curtain placed Mellen under arrest later. The court ordered Mellen to pay the carriage driver $5, and to pay the court $3.60 on account of costs.

It's a cinch we'll have an arctic winter, with Peary and Cook both blowing.

THE QUINCY CITY UNION

King's Daughters Meet with Whatsoever Circle

The Quincy City Union of King's daughters held their annual meeting on Saturday with the Whatsoever Circle in the vestry of the Wollaston Unitarian church.

The afternoon meeting opened with devotional exercises by Rev. Carl G. Horst. Mrs. H. A. Stevens of the Whatsoever Circle gave an address of welcome which was followed by a reponse by Miss Emma Saville of the Reapers Circle.

Mrs. F. S. Davis presided and introduced Harry B. Taplin, head resident of the Hale house as the speaker of the afternoon. He spoke of the fifty different activities in operation there. He also touched upon the death of Miss Douglas, who did such splendid work there and who was well known in Quincy.

At the business meeting following Mrs. George R. Badger was elected president and Miss Carrie Hatch was reelected secretary and treasurer.

At 5 o'clock a harvest supper was served by the members of the Whatsoever Circle.

The evening meeting opened at 7 o'clock with devotional exercises by Rev. Joseph Walther of the Wollaston Baptist church.

Mrs. W. P. Park of Ingleside was then introduced and told of the work that is being done there which is of a preventive rather than a rescue character.

As a whole the meeting was one of the most successful which has been held by the Union.

FATALITY AT SHIPYARD.

A man who was later identified as Frans V. Sjastrom, fell a distance of fifty feet from a staging at the Fore River yards Saturday afternoon and sustained a fractured skull, a broken arm and several fractured ribs. He was removed to the City hospital where he died later in the evening. The body was removed to Hall's undertaking rooms where it was claimed Sunday by a sister who lives at South Boston. The sister said that her brother was 21 years of age and that he came to this country from Finland in September last year. He had been employed at Bath, Me., and at Lawley's South Boston ship yard, and that he went to work at the Fire River only ten days ago. He was unmarried. Arrangements for his burial will be made today.

FUNERAL OF MISS GUSTAFSON.

The funeral of Miss Clara L. Gustafson was held Friday afternoon, Oct. 29, rom the Swedish M. E. church and was very largely attended. The services were conducted by Rev. Mr. Rydstrom assisted by Rev. Wigren. The Granite City male quartet rendered several selections. The burial was at Mt. Wollaston cemetery the bearers being Oscar Sandberg, Max Wigren, William Hodgkinson and George Phillips.

The flowers were many and beautiful and included a pillow marked daughter from Mr. and Mrs. A. F. Gustafson; a star marked sister from Oscar Emil Gustafson; a mound surmounted by a dove from F. Swanson and family; a spray of chrysanthemums from Mrs. Maria Gustafson; a spray of chrysanthemums from Mr. and Mrs. Jacobson and family; a wreath of roses from Mrs. O. Johnson and Miss Emma M. Witting; a set piece, gates ajar, from the Tubular Rivet and Stud Co. employees; a crescent from Mrs. S. Johnson, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Johnson and Mr. and Mrs. Hill; chrysanthemums from Mr. and Mrs. E. J. and J. M. Wigren; sprays of pinks from Miss Margaret and Katherine Gorman, Mrs. Charles Lincoln, Miss Anna Hanson and family, and Mr. and Mrs. Wiliam Hodgkinson; bouquets from Mrs. Bushnell, Mrs. Cook, Mrs. P. Gustafson; baskets of roses from Miss Maggie Georgian, Miss Annie McGovern, Miss Nellie Nelson and Mrs. John Nelson; chrysanthemums from Mr. and Mrs. Freeburg, Miss Alice Feeley, Mrs. Giglio; wreath from M. E. Epworth League, chrysanthemums from Mr. and Mrs. P. Peterson, Miss Souther, Miss Liza Minor and a wreath from the Ladies' Aid Society of the Grand Army.

WOLLASTON A. A. WIN.

The Wollaston A. A. opened their season Saturday afternoon when they defeated the fast Kenwood A. A. of Roxbury. The playing of Clapp, Claflin and Robbins was the feature for Wollaston, while Reilly excelled for Roxbury. The Roxbury boys kicked a goal from placement in the first half and then Wollaston got going and after a series of line plunges, Phil Clapp the old High school star placed the ball between the posts. This is a pretty good showing for the local boys who get together after work evenings and practice and there will be some red hot games before the season closes.

PANTOMINE.

A pretty entertainment was presented in the vestry of the Wollaston Congregational church on Saturday afternoon entitled "Peter Rabbit and Benjamin Bunny in Pantomine." It was for the benefit of the Wollaston Free Kindergarten, and was a success both as an entertainment and financially. The committee were: Mrs. W. H. Streeter, assisted by Mrs. J. R. Burke, Mrs. Brady, Mrs. W. A. Bense, Mrs. A. B. Hillman.

In the cast were:

Mother Rabbit.....Mildred Harrison
Mr. McGregor.....Harold Seavey
Peter Rabbit.....Esther Murray
Flopsy .....Margaret Campbell
Cottontail .....Marjorie Hogue
Benjamin Bunnie....Franklin Streeter
Little Benjamin.....Esther Campbell

During the afternoon Miss Grace Parker contributed several charming whistling solos. Preceding the pantomine, "Polly Parson's Tea Party" was presented with the following cast: Mrs. Parsons as Mildred Harrison, Polly Parson as Clarissa Brady. Her friends: Margaret Burke, Priscilla Streeter, Doris Pinkham, Olive Hillman, Sidney Simmons, Elizabeth Albee, Dorothy Bates, Thelma Fuller, Vesta Gannett.

TODAY'S COURT.

Joseph Robinson was fined $15, William Haddow $15, Daniel J. McFadden $10, John J. Lynch $5, and John Foley $15, for drunkenness at Quincy.

Harry A. Bliss wass fined $20 and Eugene Gorsldeau $10, for exceeding the automobile speed limit at Milton.

George A. Gariel was arraigned for being a tramp at Milton and was sent to the State farm.

Arthur McCormick was fined $2.90, Daniel Callahan $3.05, for drunkenness at Weymouth

Mr Snyder came to Milton in 1895, at the age of 21, as organist of the Episcopal church there. In succession he has been organist and choir master of Christ's church, St. Chrysostom's church and Memorial church, and shortly before his death had accepted the position of organist at First church.

In 1901 he acepted the office of supervisor of music in the public schools, which office he held until his death, bringing this branch of study into a high state of efficiency. Mr. Snyder was a thorough teacher and a musical composer of ability and his death came as a great shock to the community.

"INSURGENTS" ARE SMARTING

Lashed by Uncle Joe at a New Orleans Smoker

TALKS OF "PEANUT POLITICS"

Governor Stubbs May Go After Scalps of Those Who, Like Uncle Joe, Are Lukewarm on Waterways Proposition—President Taft Kept Busy Throughout Sunday as He Is Whisked About to Points of Interest

New Orleans, Nov. 1.—Speaker Cannon held the centre of the stage in New Orleans Sunday. His "defi" to insurgents to do their worst was practically the sole topic of conversation in hotels where President Taft and other distinguished guests are stopping. Governors, congressmen and plain business men who are here attending the waterways convention were intent on arguing the question of Cannon's future.

Speaker Cannon spoke at a smoker arranged by the business men of New Orleans. Just before the speaker rose he was handed a gavel as large as a croquet mallet and a cigar that looked like a fence rail.

"This," he began, "might be called a swatting maul. If it were in the hands of a presiding officer, it would represent the authority of a majority. The moment the man who holds the gavel ceases to represent the will of the majority his name is 'Dennis.'

"There has been a whole lot of foolishness indulged in by a few fellows of the minority who have not been able to swing the majority—fellows who have said that if we stood still we were blessed, and if we moved we were damned—fellows who said that this autocratic personage, the speaker, was a collosus bestriding 400 members of congress and 90,000,000 of people. That's all tommyrot and peanut politics. This is called a smoker; let's smoke."

Victor Murdock and his little band of insurgents here were certain that Cannon's challenge would be accepted. They were smarting under the speaker's characterization of insurgent talk as "peanut politics." Many of the governors also were worked up over the speaker's utterances. Stubbs of Kansas would like to make a speaking tour through the middle western states after the scalps of representatives who, like Cannon, are only lukewarm on the waterways proposition. "I think we could build some fires under these fellows," said he.

While waterways delegates, governors and congressmen were waxing eloquent in hotel corridors over Cannon's prospects the president was skipping about the city in his usual way. The most interesting feature of his day's program was a trip through the old French quarter of New Orleans. The president made this trip under the guidance of the city's historical society.

The president asked that his automobile be stopped in front of several of the old French homes in the Rue Royal and the president saw the old slave market and then boarded a revenue cutter and was carried to the New Orleans naval station. He made a hurried inspection of the station and was rushed across the river to Jackson barracks, where he reviewed the troops and then sat down to a creole luncheon. While he ate, Professor Fortier of Tulane university lectured on the history of Louisiana and New Orleans. In a speech at the luncheon, the president paid a tribute to the French people and the Spanish people.

After luncheon the president returned to New Orleans and headed for the Tulane university campus, where a big sacred concert was being held. An audience of 15,000 greeted the president there. One of the university football bleachers was near the speakers' stand and on the bleachers was a chorus of 250 voices. As the president entered the grounds the chorus, led by a full orchestra from the French opera house, struck up "Dixie." The great crowd joined in and the singing could be heard blocks away. The president wasn't scheduled for a speech there, but he made a short address.

The president left here at 3 o'clock this morning for Jackson, Miss.

KNIFE REACHED A LUNG

Wealthy Racehorse Owner Probably Fatally Stabbed by Jockey

New York, Nov. 1.—R. L. Thomas, a wealthy lumber merchant of Paris, Ky., and an owner of race horses, was stabbed by Carroll Shilling, a jockey in his employ at Sheepshead Bay racetrack. Thomas visited the track to look at his horses and try to induce Shilling to sign a contract with him to ride next year. Shilling refused to do this, saying he wished to go to his home in Texas. Thomas and the jockey, according to reports, had quite a heated argument and Thomas is said to have struck Shilling.

Shilling, when he was struck, pulled a long penknife, which he plunged into Thomas' left side. Shilling at once disappeared. The knife punctured a lung and it is feared Thomas will die.

HALLOWE'EN OF CATHOLIC CLUB

Witch Tells a Few Hair Raising Ghost Stories.

The ladies of the Quincy Catholic club had a jolly time Monday evening at the rooms of the Knights of Columbus club. It was the regular meeting of the club and after the business of the evening had been transacted there was an entertainment and Hallowe'en party. This was in charge of the entertainment committee.

The program included a piano solo by Miss Mary McCarthy; readings by Miss Mabel Dalton of Dorchester and vocal selections by Miss Teresa Keating with violin obligato by Miss Ruth Keating.

Then came a series of Hallowe'en games, and they furnished no end of fun. While the festivities were at their height the lights were suddenly extinguished. Candles took their place, which gave the room a ghostly appearance. Suddenly the outer door opened and a typical witch floated into the room. She caused cold shivers to run over the forms of the ladies which were just outlined in the semi-darkness, and there were perhaps a few gentle screams. The witch was very communicative, and after telling a few hair raising ghost stories, she made her escape.

The lights were then turned on and after a few Hallowe'en games, refreshments were served. The club will open its fall social season with one of its popular dancing parties, which will be held Nov. 10.

POLITICAL NOTES.

Democratic nomination papers have been taken out by Councilmen Carey and Walsh of the Quincy Point ward for reelection, and by James Edwards as Councilman from the West Quincy ward.

It is reported that Arthur Hultman is to take out papers as an Independent candidate for Councilman from Ward Two.

It is reported that Councilman McDevitt is not to be a candidate for reelection as a Democratic candidate from Ward Four, but that his name will go on the ballot as an Independent by nomination papers.

Councilman Flynn is a candidate for reelection from the Quincy Point ward.

Up to the present time Councilman Cherrington has not given out whether he intends to run as a candidate for councilman from the ward or for councilman at large.

The contests on the Republican ticket for Councilmen ensures a large attendance at the municipal caucuses.

DEMOCRATS HOPEFUL

Republicans See No Cause for Alarm

It is not expected that the total vote of Quincy today will be as large as at the last State election, when a phenomenal vote of 5,048 was polled out of a total of 5,693. This year there are five less names on the list and it is an off year, there being no Presidential or Congressional candidates.

Early in the morning it was remarked by several that the weather was favorable to the Democrats, as it was threatening, but the sky cleared and voting started in brisk before 7 o'clock. The polls opened at 6 A. M. and will close at 4 P. M.

The progress of the voting today is shown by precinct one of Ward One, where the total vote by hours is compared with the same hours for two years:

Hour	1907	1908	1909
7 A. M.	66	103	81
8 A. M.	117	178	158
9 A. M.	157	251	232
10 A. M.	182	288	247
11 A. M.	197	314	289
12 M.	214	331	309
1 P. M.	252	383	335
2 P. M.	578	416	363

At 1 o'clock the total vote of the city was 3,624, about 900 less than last year, as follows By precincts: Ward One, precinct 1, 335; Ward One, precinct 2, 369; Ward Two, precinct 1, 181; Ward Two, precinct 2, 300; Ward three, precinct 1, 270; Ward Three, precinct 2, 270; Ward Four, precinct 1, 359; Ward Four, precinct 2, 280; Ward Five, precinct 1, 390; Ward Five, precinct 2, 362; Ward Six, precinct 1, 220; Ward Six, precinct 2, 288.

VOTING STRENGTH.

The voting strength of the city as shown by the voting lists is compared with the last two State elections, the number of voters this year being 5,688, against 5,693 in 1908, and 5,220 in 1907:

	Nov. 1907	Nov. 1908	Nov. 1909
Ward One, pre. 1	469	507	522
Ward One, pre. 2,	534	638	647
Ward Two, pre. 1	302	348	320
Ward Two pre. 2	441	471	493
Ward Three, pre. 1	521	551	547
Ward Three, pre. 2	422	452	450
Ward Four, pre. 1	427	452	463
Ward Four, pre. 2	473	487	482
Ward Five, pre. 1			567
Ward Five, pre. 2			430
Ward Six, pre. 1	378	404	391
Ward Six, pre. 2	329	378	376
	5220	5693	5688

WARD ONE.

The vote of Ward One is almost up to last year, which was phenomenal, and is ahead of the vote at the State election of 1907. During the first hour 166 votes were cast, precinct 1 leading precinct 2 by 4 votes. At 8 o'clock the total was 325, and precinct 2 was leading by 9. Between 8 and 9 precinct 2 took a brace and was 23 ahead in a total of 441. At 10 o'clock the total was 509 and precinct 2 led by 15 votes.

One of the voters in this ward was in too much of a hurry. William O'Leary of Houghs Neck passed the entrance gate of precinct 2 all right, and took his ballot to a booth. How he got out without depositing his ballot is a mystery, but shortly after his ballot was found in the booth. The ballot was marked "cancelled" and put one side.

At 12 o'clock the ward had cast 646 votes and precinct 2 led by 26 votes. At 1 P. M. precinct 1 had cast 335 and precinct 2 a total of 369.

WARD TWO.

Many are wondering what effect the absence of 500 men on the battleship North Dakota will have on the vote of the city, especially Ward Two. The vote at 8 A. M. was much smaller than at the State election last year, a total of 315 against 440 in 1908. At 9 o'clock precinct 2 had cast 233 votes.

Up to 1 o'clock 481 voters had had their little say as to who should govern the good old Bay State during the next year. In precinct 1 the the Fore River district a light vote is being cast. This in a measure is due to the fact that quite a few of the voters are on the battleship North Dakota during her trial trips. The vote at 1 o'clock was 181.

In precinct 2 the voting was brisk all the morning. Up to 1 o'clock the number to vote was 300, which is considerably less than a year ago.

WARD THREE.

In the South Quincy ward 160 votes had been cast at 7 o'clock, 250 at 8 o'clock and 316 at 9 o'clock. This is smaller than last November.

Democrats are expecting a plurality in this ward for Michael T. Sullivan for Representative, but it is probable that William R. Thomas, the Republican nominee will carry it as he did last year. The margin will be close.

WARD FOUR.

The West Quincy ward is not up to the standard of last year. At 7 o'clock 193 votes had been cast, and precinct 2 was leading by 31 votes. At 8 o'clock the total was 296 and precinct 1 had nearly overtaken precinct 2. At 9 o'clock in a total of 323, precinct 2 was three ahead. At 10 o'clock precinct 1 was leading by two votes in a total of 358.

WARD FIVE.

For the first time in the history of Wollaston, the ward is voting today by precincts. Both precincts are however located in the basement of the Hose House, and it must be said that it is far from being an ideal voting place. About the basement are numerous buckets to catch the drippings that fall from the stable above. On one end of the cellar is an ancient chromo, which serves in a measure to take off the barrenness of the whitewashed walls. Numerous cobwebs and spiders add to the solemnity of the scene. The voters are doing considerable kicking at the place they are obliged to vote in and another year a howl will be made for new quarters.

As usual in this ward, the ballot boxes do not work. In precinct one, where the new box is in use, it registered ten votes and then went on a strike. In the second precinct the box has a jumping fit. Sometimes it jumps one number and then it will jump half a dozen.

However in spite of all these incidents, the ward is polling its usual large vote. At 10.15 precinct 1, the precinct west of the railroad, had cast 325 votes, while precinct 2 had polled 210 votes, making a total of 535 for the ward at that hour. A year ago at 11 o'clock the ward had cast 700 votes.

Up to this year this ward has been the last to be heard from at City Hall, but this year with two precincts the returns should come in early.

William P. Chase, said the be of the Democratic persuasion, had the honor of being the first citizen to cast a vote in the new precinct.

William P. Chase, said to be of o'clock was 752. Of this number precinct 1 had cast 390 and precinct 2 362. The total vote of the ward last year at the same hour was 820.

WARD SIX.

The Atlantic ward is not getting out a very strong vote, although it is nearly up to what it was two years ago. This is considered good for an off year. Voting was rather quiet in both precincts this morning, and after the first hour the election officers had little to do other than to read the newspapers.

There was a noticeable absence of party committees at both precincts, and teams for voters were not to be seen except in precinct 1, where one carriage was on duty. In this precinct the ballot box is not working right. That is, it does not register correctly. At 10 o'clock the box called for 215 ballots, when as an actual fact but 175 had voted. This number is considerable less than a year ago when the vote at the same hour was 253. The same is also true of the precinct 2. Here the vote at 9.30 was 150 as against 200 a year ago at 10 o'clock. Poland's hall where the citizens of precinct two are voting, is very attractive, as the decorations used at a recent Hallowe'en party are still in place. Suspended over the platform is a grinning head which is the first thing that meets the eye on entering the hall. Then the eye catches the long streamers of red, white and blue crepe paper. If the voters only knew how pretty the hall looked the stay-at-homes might turn out better.

This ward is the home ward of Louis F. R. Langelier, who is seeking reelection as Representative. That the ward will give him a rousing plurality goes without saying.

The total vote of the ward at 1 o'clock was about sixty behind what it was a year ago. In precinct 1, the vote at 1 o'clock was 220 as against 250 for the same hour a year ago. In precinct 2 the vote was 288 as against 228 at the same hour a year ago.

"DOCTORED' BANK BOOKS

Cashier of Bank Which Failed For $1,500,000 Convicted by a Jury

Pittsburg, Nov. 2.—After being out less than an hour, a United States jury returned a verdict of guilty against David Richardson, former cashier of the failed Cosmopolitan National bank of Pittsburg, which failed fifteen months ago for $1,500,000.

Richardson had been tried for falsifying bank books, making false returns to the comptroller of the currency, etc.

The aggregate sentence of Richardson can be 240 years in prison, with fines aggregating $24,000.

OLD AGE PENSIONS

And Saving Bank Insurance Discussed

Before the Men's Club of Christ Episcopal Church on Monday, H. Larue Brown, one of the staff speakers of the Massachusetts Savings Insurance League, spoke on this thrift movement in the development of which Quincy has taken a prominent part.

Mr. Brown who is a Boston attorney, has made a careful study of the facts of wage earners' insurance. He laid special emphasis on the value of the voluntary old age pensions which the savings banks and their agencies now provide. The system not only offers this real necessity at cost, but it offers Massachusetts wage earners an opportunity which until the passage of the Savings Insurance Act had never been open to him at all. The problem of old age is largely a class problem. It is of vital importance to New Englanders who have always been accustomed to take care of their own.

The savings insurance scheme contains the advantages of combining protection of the family in case of the premature death of the bread winner with protection of the individual against helpless old age when hands are feeble and younger men have the jobs.

An exhibit of the savings bank life insurance matter in which many Quincy people may be interested has been installed at the Boston-1915 exposition in the old Museum of Fine Arts building in Copley Square.

Before Mr. Brown's address, Merton Turner, president of the club, called on the Rev. R. E. Armstrong for a report of the success of the consultation with Judge Albert E. Avery regarding the probation of boys, which was discussed in the preceding meeting.

The rector said that after carefully considering all plans the most practicable one seemed to be cooperation with the probation officer, to the extent that if a boy was brought into court that a member of the club in whose district he lived would be notified, and means taken to inspire the boy to lead a better life. Help to be given personally by the member notified so that a constant help would be afforded the boy in any struggle he should make toward leading a better life.

QUINCY CHARITABLE SOCIETY.

The Quincy Charitable society met Monday afternoon at the Women's Club house and the regular routine business was accomplished. The following officers were elected:

President, Frederic W. Plummer.
Vice President, Arthur A. Newcomb.
Secretary, Mrs. Thomas A. Addison.
Treasurer, Mrs. Helen Bass.
Directors, Mrs. E. Granville Pratt, Mrs. Thomas Fenno, Miss Annie Newcomb and Mrs. A. L. Mitchell.

The following resigned and the directors were requested to fill their places, Mrs. Fred Jones, Mrs. Robert Teasdale and Mrs. Frederick J. Peirce.

ST. CHRYSOSTOM'S MEN'S CLUB.

A regular meeting of the Men's club of St. Chrysostom's church was held in the vestry on Monday evening.

Reginald M. Hull, late secretary of the Boston Finance Commission, was the speaker. He told of the work of the commission and spoke of the situation at Tuesday's election. He explained in detail the workings of Plans One and Two, and told why he was strongly in favor of the latter.

At the close of his speech, various questions of civic and municipal affairs were brought forward which were answered in an efficient manner by Mr. Hull.

The Pawnbrokers' Ordinance Becomes a Law

Mayor Shea has declined to sign the order passed by the City Council on Oct. 18, establishing an ordinance concerning pawnbrokers. He did not veto the order, however, but allowed it to become a law without his signature.

There are now three applications for licenses as pawnbrokers before the Committee on Licenses of the Council. Just what the Council will do with them remains to be seen. There is a feeling on the part of some of the Councilmen that the time is not yet ripe for pawnbrokers in Quincy. There are others who believe they would be a good thing. It is pointed out that there are many workmen who are obliged to obtain temporary loans and that now they either go to Boston, or patronize some local money lender, giving a chattel mortgage on their household furniture upon which they pay a large rate of interest.

The chances are that when the License committee report, on the applications pending, that there will be contests in the Council over the passing of the same.

TUBERCULOSIS FUND.

Frederic W. Plummer, the treasurer of the tuberculosis camp fund acknowledges the following additional subscription, to those already announced in the Daily Ledger:

Jeffrey R. Brackett	$25.00
James H. Stetson	25.00
Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Emery	25.00
Friend	1.00
Friend	1.00
Mrs. Ware	1.00
Mrs. F. W. Perry	1.00

The committee would like to have those who have subscribed money for the establishment of the camp for tubercular patients send the amount of their subscriptions to the treasurer, Mrs. C. A. Howland at their earliest convenience.

Gratitude is a rare virtue, but it is not entirely unknown. A Los Angeles man bequeathed $500,000 to a woman who refused, early in life to marry him.

Following the political murder of Ferrer, Spain will have hard work convincing the rest of the world that it is even semi-civilized.

Col. Bryan is quoted as saying he hopes he will never again be a candidate for public office. Mr. Bryan is conspicuous for the manner in which his hopes have been disappointed.

Is it not wonderful how the Democratic party of Massachusetts can arouse itself annually so as to believe that it has a chance of electing a Governor! Only once in the last 16 years has it been successful, in 1904, when William L. Douglas won by 35,989 plurality. In 1890, 1891, and 1892 William E. Russell was elected by very small pluralities but that was 17, 18 and 19 year ago. Yet today the Democrats are hopeful of electing their candidate for Governor, with a man like Mr. Vahey. It is an off year, and Governor Draper's plurality of 60,156 will be reduced, but a plurality of the voters of Massachusetts are sure to endorse the excellent administration of Eben S. Draper, who is the Republican candidate for renomination.

Quincy voters who are anxious to learn who is elected Governor today, need not go to Boston or out of the city, for it is a true saying—"As goes Quincy so goes the State and the Nation." It has been verified in every State election since 1889, and in every Presidential election since 1876. During these years the State of Massachusetts has given a Republican plurality fifteen years, and a Democratic plurality four years; so did the city of Quincy. The United States has been Republican in seven of the last nine elections, and Democratic at two; so was Quincy. Therefore the Quincy returns tonight will decide who is elected Governor of Massachusetts for 1910.

THE CITY COUNCIL

To Take School Lot by Eminent Domain

A regular meeting of the City Council was held Monday evening, but a brief one of 42 minutes. The most important business was the first step toward taking land by right of eminent domain for a school lot at Montclair.

Councilmen Bishop, Carey, Flaherty and Nelson were absent.

TRANSFER WANTED.

A communication was received from the Mayor with inclosure from the Assessors' department asking for a transfer of $98.10 from the appropriation for clerical to the appropriation for miscellaneous. Laid on the table until later when Councilman Bryant offered an order making the transfer, which was adopted.

HEALTH APPROPRIATIONS.

The Mayor forwarded communications from the Board of Health asking for an appropriation of $700 for the collection of garbage, and an appropriation of $1500 for miscellaneous expenses and contagious diseases. Referred to Finance Committee.

ENGINEERING.

The Mayor forwarded a communication from the City Engineer, asking for a transfer of $200 from the appropriation for salary of the City Engineer to the appropriation for engineering. Laid on the table until later, when Councilman Bryant offered an order making the transfer. Referred to Finance Committee.

NEW CONSTABLE.

A communication was received from the Mayor appointing Thomas Cotter a constable. Confirmed.

BROCKTON CANAL.

The Mayor forwarded a communication from the Dock and Water Front Commissioner giving the report of the U. S. Government survey of the Boston, Brockton and Taunton canal. Placed on file.

PETITIONS.

Petitions were received from the Quincy Electric Light Co., for location of poles on Sumner street, Chubbuck street, Beale street, and Sea street. Referred to Committee on Streets.

George H. Field petitioned for a refund of taxes. Referred to the Finance Committee.

The Old Colony Street Railway Co., petitioned for a location for poles on Howard street. Referred to Committee on Streets.

The New England Telephone Co., petitioned for attachments to poles of the Electric Light Co., on several streets. Referred to the Committee on Streets.

Councilman Gardner presented a petition for a light on the corner of Marion and Park streets. Referred to the Executive.

Several applications for minor licenses were received. Those for hackney carriages were laid on the table until later, when Councilman Hadlock offered an order granting them, which was adopted.

NEW SCHOOL LOT.

The Committee on Public Buildings, reported an order for a public hearing, Dec. 6, on the condemning and taking by the right of eminent domain of 60,000 feet of land at Montclair, bounded by Squantum street, Highland avenue and Broadway owned by John A. Norris and heirs of Horatio N. Holbrook for a public school lot.

This is the lot of land desired by the residents of that section for the location of the proposed new school, on which the Committee on Public Buildings were unable to get a price which it considered within reason. The price asked for the lot was stated to be ten cents per foot. The order was adopted.

A recess was taken at 7.50 until 8 o'clock.

SCHOOL REPAIRS.

The Finance Committee reported ought to pass on the order appropriating $500 for repairs of the Lincoln school building. Rules suspended and order passed.

CONCRETE SIDEWALK.

The Committee on Finance reported an amendment to the order for a concrete sidewalk on Hunt street charging the amount to the appropriation for permanent sidewalks. Rules suspended and order passed.

Ask your doctor all about Ayer's Sarsaparilla. Entirely free from alcohol. A strong tonic and alterative.
Ayer's Sarsaparilla is a tonic. It does not stimulate. It does not make you feel better one day, then as bad as ever the next. There is not a drop of alcohol in it. You have the steady, even gain that comes from a strong tonic. Ask your doctor all about this.

NORFOLK, ss. PROBATE COURT

TWO the heirs-at-law, next-of-kin, creditors and all other persons interested in the estate of ELIZABETH C. DOW, late of Brunswick, in State of Maine, having estate in said County, of Norfolk deceased intestate:

Whereas, a petition has been presented to said Court to grant a letter of administration on the estate of said deceased, to Albert T. Dow and Minnie I. Somes of Boston, Mass., without giving a surety on their bonds.

You are hereby cited to appear at a Probate Court to be held at Dedham in said County of Norfolk, on the third day of November A. D., 1909, at ten o'clock in the forenoon, to show cause, if any you have, why the same should not be granted.

And the petitioners are hereby directed to give public notice thereof by publishing this citation once in each week, for three successive weeks, in the Quincy Daily Ledger, a newspaper published in Quincy, the last publication to be one day at least before said Court.

Witness, JAMES H. FLINT, Esquire, Judge of said Court, this twenty-first day of October A. D. 1909.

PENSIONS FOR FIREMEN

Act May Be Submitted to Voters in December

It is probable that the question of the acceptance of sections 81 and 82 of Chapter 32 of the Revised Laws will be submitted to the voters at the municipal election for acceptance. The act is the one entitled "Pensions for Firemen in Cities."

A petition asking that the question be submitted to the voters was put in circulation yesterday. Under the law if 200 voters present a petition to the City Clerk asking that the question be put on the official ballot, it will be the duty of that official to do so. The petition, however, must be presented to him at least thirty days before the date of the election.

The law provides that if the act is accepted, the City Council may establish an ordinance fixing the rate and conditions under which firemen may be paid a pension by the city.

The original act only provided for the payment of pensions to members of the permanent force, but under an amendment passed, since the Revised Laws were published, the act was extended so as to include the members of the call force. Should the act be accepted by the citizens it will be in order for the firemen to petition the City Council to establish pensions.

There is also a law relative to the payment of pensions to members of the police force in cities, but this is somewhat different from that applicable to firemen. The law relative to the members of the police force leaves it so that the Ctiy Council can at any time establish pensions for them, while that relative to firemen must be first accepted by the voters.

AN OLD-TIME PRESCRIPTION

in a modern product. From time immemorial sage and sulphur have been used for the hair and scalp. Almost every one knows of the value of such a combination for darkening the hair and making it grow. In olden times the only way to get a hair tonic of this sort was to brew it in the home fireplace, a method which was troublesome and not always satisfactory. Nowadays almost every up-to-date druggist can supply his patrons with a ready to use product, skillfully compounded in perfectly equipped laboratories. Such a preparation is Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur, which is sold by all leading druggists for 50c. and $1.00 a bottle, or which is sent direct by the Wyeth Chemical Company, 74 Cortlandt St., New York City, upon receipt of price.

RAISED $514,377 IN FIFTEEN DAYS

Boston Y. M. C. A. Has Ample Funds For New Building

Boston, Nov. 2.—The hour of 7 last evening saw the movable money hand of the big Y. M. C. A. clock creep slowly upward on the great dial that fronted the common, pointing out the accumulated thousands, and pause for just an instant at the goal that meant the new structure for Boston—$500,000.

Thousands cheered as the hand pointed straight upward. Then the cheers were redoubled in volume as the upright pointer slowly started forth again down the face of the clock on the other side until it stopped close by the $15,000 mark.

It told the people gathered in the streets that the young men of Boston were to have a structure dedicated to their well-being and advancement, and that the campaign which had interested business men, congregations in churches, citizens in general and the public at large had been successfully terminated. The final statistics showed that the grand total had reached $514,377.

The vast sum for the new structure was raised in exactly fifteen days. It started on the evening of Oct. 14, when prominent citizens of Boston met and pledged themselves to the extent of $60,000.

The next day the dial of the great clock showed what kind of start had been made and from day to day since that time the money hand moved on and on about the dial setting forth the sums accumulated.

PILES CURED IN 6 TO 14 DAYS

PAZO OINTMENT is guaranteed to cure any case of Itching, Blind, Bleeding or Protruding Piles in 6 to 14 days or money refunded. 50c.

BRIEFS

The Fragment society has an all day meeting tomorrow in First Church parlor, with box luncheon at noon.

A large yellow cat has been lost.

A complete vote of the city for all candidates will appear in the Daily Ledger tomorrow.

A report of the City Council meeting will be found on page 2. Local news on all pages of the Daily Ledger.

W. F. Kimball of Hyde Park has bought the Cornish estate on Grand View avenue and with his family has taken possession.

Miss Lillian Purdom of Newport avenue was recently given a surprise party by fifteen young friends who presented her with a signet ring.

Bruce & Myatt have moved their express office from opposite Music hall to the store at 1598 Hancock street, under Grand Army hall.

Miss Eliza Miner of Old Colony avenue has returned from Newbury where she was the week end guest of Mrs. James Wright.

"A day in the woods" a cantata is to be presented by the children of First Church Sunday school in the chapel on Thursday evening.

John F. Daly who died at East Weymouth on Monday was a member of A. A. and S. of E. and E. R. E. of A. of Quincy.

Mr. and Mrs. A. E. Sproul and son Avard, formerly of Hancock street, this city, left last week to take up their permanent residence in Philadelphia, Pa.

The westerly street railway track between City Square and the junction of Hancock and Adams street is being raised three inches. This will enable the Commissioner to grade that side of the street so as to do away with the mud hole that has long existed on that section of the street.

The regular monthly business meeting of the Epworth League of the Hall Place M. E. church was held in the vestry, Monday evening. The meeting was called to order by the president at 8.30. In the absence of the secretary, Miss Florence Manhire, was elected secretary pro tem. The first vice president and treasurer were absent. Reports were read and approved by the league from the second, third and fourth vice-presidents. After the business of the hour was finished, refreshments were served by the fourth vice president, Miss Maud E. Hodgkinson. The debate which was to have followed the business meeting was postponed on account of the unavoidable absence of one of the speakers on the negative side of the question.

☞ The Quincy Cooperative Bank still forges ahead—saving for and Loaning to the People. A semi-annual dividend at rate of 5 1-4 per cent, per annum has just been declared and about eleven hundred depositors are made happy. Shares forty second series are now on sale as per ad in another column.

CLOSE FIGHT IN BAY STATE

Unbiased Political Sharps Say That Republican Ticket Will Have Greatly Reduced Vote—Each Side Claims to Be Sanguine of Success—Pothier and Arnold Again Opponents In Rhode Island—Bitter Contest In New York City as Result of Whirlwind Campaign—Summary of Important Issues In Other Places

Boston, Nov. 2.—In the 33 cities and 321 towns of the commonwealth the battle of the ballots begun at 6 o'clock this morning and will continue until 4 this afternoon.

Managers of the Republican party say for publication that the entire Republican state ticket will win, and that the usual number of Republican legislators will be returned to the state house.

The Democratic managers seem unusually optimistic. They are sanguine of success. The campaign on the Republican side was short. It was confined to two weeks. The Democratic campaign had been under way for a much longer period, with rallies and meetings and conferences before their opponents took an active part in the fight.

Confidential advices from some of the principal managers of the Draper-Frothingham campaign are to the effect that there will be a big falling off in the Republican vote. The most hopeful do not expect more than a plurality of 30,000 for the Republican ticket, and it would not be a big surprise to many if there should be a repetition of the 1904 upheaval, when William L. Douglas, Democrat, defeated Governor Bates for re-election.

Officials of the Democratic state committee are so enthusiastic that they believe Vahey and Foss are going to be the winners. Openly they predict a mrgin of 20,000. Privately they say they do not really expect more than 7000 or 8000.

Next in importance to the state fight is that of the district attorney of Suffolk county. All the indications point to a close contest at the polls. Whichever side wins, it is not believed that the margin of victory will be over 5000 or 6000.

The Republican state committee in this campaign absolutely abandoned that section of the state lying west of the Connecticut river. The machine officials have been taken to task sharply for doing so. There has been a great deal of Republican discontent in Worcester county, and but little effort has been made to better conditions there.

Shrewd, unbiased political observers look to see a greatly reduced vote for the Republican state ticket. They base their calculations upon the fact that this is an off year, and that Republican apathy is to be expected the year following the national election.

In the closing hours of the campaign the liquor question unexpectedly made its appearance through the charges of Chairman MacLeod of the Democratic state committee that the brewers were trying to defeat Vahey, whose record, they said, was unsatisfactory.

OUTSIDE THE BAY STATE

Minor Elections In All but Rhode Island and Virginia

In Rhode Island the same candidates for governor who opposed each other last year again head the tickets this year, Governor Aram J. Pothier being the Republican nominee and Olney Arnold the Democratic. The Democrats are making a particularly stubborn contest over the election of James A. Williams as attorney general and he has conducted a sensational campaign on the issue that the laws are not being properly enforced. The other candidates for governor are Willis H. White, Prohibition; Frederick Hurst, Socialist, and Richard Holland, Socialist Labor.

The New York Campaign

In New York chief interest has been centered in the whirlwind municipal campaign of New York city, which has been one of the bitterest ever held in the metropolis. With three mayoralty candidates in the field, William J. Gaynor, the Democratic and Tammany nominee; Otto T. Bannard, the Republican standard bearer, and William R. Hearst, leading the Civic Alliance, party lines have been shattered to such a degree that political managers are much at sea.

The issues of the campaign are the overthrow of Tammany Hall and an effort of the Republican and Civic Alliance forces to capture control of the board of estimate and apportionment, which will have control of vast outlays of money for subways and other large municipal expenditures amounting to many millions of dollars. Charges of corruption and vice made by opponents of Tammany Hall have resulted in a campaign of personalities to which other issues have in great measure been subordinated.

Mayors will also be elected at Albany, Buffalo, Rochester, Syracuse and many other up state places. In the state a full delegation to the lower branch of the state legislature, or assembly, will be chosen.

Pennsylvania and New Jersey

In Pennsylvania the chief interest is in the contest being waged in Philadelphia, where the reform element is endeavoring to break the power of the Republican organization. The reformers, under the title of William Penn party, have again placed D. C. Gibboney, head of the Philadelphia Law and Order society, in the field for district attorney against Samuel P. Rotan, Republican, renominated. Gibboney is also on the Democratic ticket, but the Democratic organization has not officially indorsed him. The street car question has been a leading issue, the reformers urging cheaper fares, while the Republicans claim that the reformers have taken up the street car issue for political purposes.

The fact that the eight state senators to be chosen in New Jersey this year will each have a vote at the session of 1911 for a United States senator to succeed Senator Kean adds about the only state-wide interest to the state's election.

In Virginia

In the campaign in Virgina the candidates to be elected are a governor, lieutenant governor, member of the general assembly and other state officers. The Democratic ticket is headed by William H. Mann, a Confederate veteran and strong temperance advocate, running, however, on a platform which advocates local option, which the Republicans also favor. The Republican nominee for governor is William P. Kent, who resigned the office of American consul general to Guatemala to make the race for governor.

San Francisco's Battle

With the continuance of the bribery and graft prosecutions, begun four years ago, as the issue, the voters of San Francisco are at the polls today for the first municipal election since the new direct primaries law was enacted. Interest in the election hinges largely upon the district attorneyship.

There are two nominees for district attorney, Francis J. Heney, chosen by the Democrats in direct primary, and Charles Fickert, Republican and Union Labor nominee.

No important issues are at stake in the election in Nebraska. The only state officers to be elected are three justices of the supreme court, two university regents for the full term and one to fill a vacancy.

Maryland, Ohio and Indiana

The chief issue in Maryland is the disfranchising amendment to the state constitution, admittedly designed to eliminate the negro as a political factor in that state. Maryland will elect a state comptroller, a new house of delegates and half the senate membership.

Municipal and township officers will be elected in every community in Ohio. The mayoralty contest in Cleveland is attracting the most attention. Mayor Tom L. Johnson is a candidate for the fifth term on the Democratic ticket. He is opposed by Herman C. Baehr, Republican.

The temperance question is prominent in the municipal campaigns in Indiana and is a leading issue in Indianapolis.

Whole Police Force Under Arrest

Gary, Ind., Nov. 2.—The entire police force was arrested last night, and troops were ordered by Governor Marshall to be in readiness to move on the town at a moment's notice in anticipation of election riots today. Two hundred deputies were sworn in by Sheriff Grant on Marshall's order and made the arrests of the police as their first official action.

ATHLETICS ABOLISHED

Medico Chi College Will Not Risk the Lives of Its Students

Philadelphia, Nov. 2.—Three deaths on college football fields Saturday have aroused foes of the game, and at a mass meeting of students of the Medico Chi college, because of the death of Michael Burke, whose skull was fractured while playing for Medico Chi against the Philadelphia College of Pharmacy, it was voted to do away with athletics altogether, while officials of the southern high school put football under the ban.

Not only football, but baseball and basketball will be done away with, and nothing was suggested in the way of athletics to take their place. Jefferson Medical college, the greatest athletic rival of Medico Chi, has no football team this year.

WARD AND GROSSETT

To Speak at Y. M. C. A. Banquet Tonight

A large sign 40 feet long and three feet wide has been placed on the front of the Y. M. C. A. building with the campaign slogan—$25,000 in seven days"—in large letters.

This evening at the Association building a grand banquet of business men will be held when the needs of the Association will be announced, and also the arrangements for the campaign which is expected to sweep Quincy as Boston has been successfully during the last two weeks. It is proposed to raise $25,000 in seven days to wipe out the debt which has hung over the building since it was erected, and at the same time secure enough funds to complete the swimming pool which was contemplated in the original plans of the building.

To secure pledges of $25,000 in seven days seems stupendous in a city of 30,000. It means an average of $4 to $5 for every family in Quincy. But Boston raised its $500,000 and more within the alotted time which closed yesterday and Quincy can do likewise. It has been done in other places of late besides Boston.

The principal speakers tonight will be Louis A. Crossett of Boston, the chairman of the State executive committee, and C. S. Ward of New York, secretary of the International Committee who successfully conducted the Boston campaign.

ELECTIONS IN ENGLAND

Socialist and Laborite Candidates Defeated In Important Electorates

London, Nov. 2.—Municipal elections were held throughout England Monday. So far as can be judged they are not likely to furnish any indication of the country's attitude towards the two great political parties, politics having ceased in recent years to have a dominating influence in municipal affairs.

On the other hand, Socialism has become one of the crucial questions in such contests, and the most noteworthy feature in Monday's contests was the defeat of Socialist and Laborite candidates, which, in many places, was overwhelming, even where there is a large working class population.

In some places Socialists held their own, but in such important electorates as Liverpool, Coventry, Huddersfield, Preston, Rochdale, Macclesfield and Bradford, they were defeated.

DRAUGHTSMEN AT BANQUET

Staff of Electric Boat Company at Quincy House

The Electric Boat Company's draughting staff met at the Quincy House, Boston, on Saturday for their annual banquet. The management of the house assigned a private banquet hall for them, and the committee in charge of the affair saw that everything was arranged in an artistic manner. Individual place cards, the clever work of chairman, W. C. Curtiss, were displayed on every plate, each one illustrating in a comical way some characteristic personal trait. W. W. Meek was appointed chairman for the evening, and after everybody had taken his place, the absence of R. Stebbins was noted and regretted. A rising vote of thanks extended to the designer of the program, Walter Rowson and then the company drank to the health of the President of the United States, and to the U. S. Navy, and proceeded to cut wide gaps in the menu.

Great merriment reigned during the partaking of the succulent repast, Jokes were enjoyed and harmless knocks were distributed to the willing victims. After "the brutes" had been fed, the field was cleared for a general merrymaking. W. W. Meek spoke in a fitting manner referring to the enjoyment that these annual gatherings bring to everyone concerned, and that he hoped to see the same assembly again united next year.

Dr. G. Eggleton followed with his address on "Temperance." His remarks were certainly very learned, and everyone left the banquet hall with new and purer sentiments in their hearts, looking forward to a cleaner and more useful life and hope for a reward in the next world.

P. Andraine was called upon to deliver his promised essay entitled "To be or not to be." He commenced by quoting facts that proved how convinced he was of his new theory, that if eloquence is by many considered equivalent to silver, silence should be equivalent to gold. His lecture was very much enjoyed and admired.

W. H. Brooks followed by asking the chair to let him have the floor for a while; the floor was given him, and he held it for quite a while.

Music was one of the features, and the company took advantage of the general good humor by singing several good selections. Solos were contributed by J. Barraja-Frauenfelder, Charles Webber, Walter Rowson, H. E. Grieshaber. Mr. Shell and Mr. Grieshaber accompanied cleverly at the piano. The company disbanded feeling that they had enjoyed a well de; served evening of innocent frolic.

BRIEFS

"HUNTING" FOR TYPALDOS

But Greek Government Is Not Particularly Anxious to Find Him

Athens, Nov. 2.—Everything here is outwardly quiet. There is little indication of what the final settlement of the political trouble will be. The government is making a diligent show of hunting for Lieutenant Typaldos, leader of the naval revolt, but many persons believe that he is actually in Athens and that the government is fully aware of his hiding place.

Typaldos and some other mutineers belong to exalted and influential families, and there are many reasons why it is undesirable to arrest him just now.

White Refuses Decoration

Paris, Nov. 2.—As a mark of its high esteem on the occasion of his retirement from his post here, the French government offered American Ambassador White the grand cordon of the Legion of Honor, the highest decoration within its gift. White, however, declined the honor. When White left Rome he declined the Grand Cross of St. Maurice and and St. Lazarus offered by the king's own hand during the farewell audience.

$25,000

Great Enthusiasm in Y. M. C. A. Circles

At Inauguration of Campaign to Wipe Out the Mortgage Debt on Building

The clock has been started! Watch it this evening and see the hand move! Each five minutes represents subscriptions amounting to $2,000! Already the hand has been moved to five minutes past, and there is great enthusiasm.

The successful Y. M. C. A. campaign of Boston has been transferred to Quincy, and already the indications are that the Quincy association will succeed in raising $25,000 as the Boston association did in raising $500,000

The sum of $25,000 is wanted in seven days, to extinguish the mortgage indebtedness on the Association building incurred at the time it was erected, and at the same time to complete the swimming pool in the basement which was provided for then.

The Quincy Association has been fortunate in securing the services of C. S. Ward of New York, secretary of the International Committee, who conducted the Boston campaign, and also Louis A. Crossett, the successful boot and shoe manufacturer of Boston.

Last evening 100 or more business men accepted the invitation of the Quincy Y. M. C. A. directors to attend a banquet at the Association building, and everyone was surprised at the enthusiasm which prevailed.

The tables were spread in the hall on the second floor, and an excellent menu was served by a Boston caterer, including: Escalloped oysters, turkey and cranberry sauce, ham and tongue, celery, rolls, chicken salad, banana fritters, ices in variety, cake and coffee.

During the dinner excellent music was furnished by the Y. M. C. A. orchestra of seven young men and was frequently applauded.

At the head table on the platform were: President Richard D. Chase of the Quincy Y. M. C. A., C. S. Ward of New York, Louis A. Crossett of Boston, Mayor William T. Shea of Quincy, Theophilus King and Rev. Joseph Walther of the Wollaston Baptist church.

President Chase welcomed all, saying it was a splendid gathering of business and professional men of the city, and showed interest in what was being attempted for the boys of Quincy. He explained that the $25,000 was not needed for current expenses but to raise the mortgage indebtedness and at same time carry out original plans which called for a swimming pool. He said we were going to have a new Town Clock and when it strikes 25 you will all know it.. Applause.

Theophilus King was introduced as the chairman of the Citizens Committee, and spoke with his usual enthusiasm. He emphasized the necessity in this campaign as well as in the church, the Y. M. C. A., and business of "getting near" the other fellow. The directors of the Quincy Y. M. C. A., were in accord with him that the association should broaden out, and we were going to do it. He had said when approached that he would help out this movement to the extent of $1000 (Applause) but now I want to make it $2000 (Cheers and prolonged applause.

Louis A. Crossett told why as a business man he was interested in the Y. M. C. A. He liked it because it was managed by business men. He reviewed the campaign in Boston which had been a spendid endorsement. Every race and people had helped, also the boot black and the millionaire. He read an endorsement of the Y. M. C. A. by President Taft, and told of some of the returns received from investment in the Y. M. C. A., which include: Large dividends in Manhood, prevention of crime, elevation of young men, service for city and home. (Applause.)

C. S. Ward received a very hearty greeting, all the audience standing and cheering for some time. He said Chairman King was a genius, and then told a story. He referred to the conference in Germany, and then reviewed the campaign during the last four years which hed been conducted by Y. M. C. A's., in Omaha, Duluth, Detroit, Norfolk, Richmond and other cities. The association is continually broadening and reaches every class of young men, those of the colleges the railroads and the shop. At one time he said eastern Massachusetts had been in the lead in Y. M. C. A. building, but was now poorly equipped. No association was doing as marvellous work, however, as the Boston.

In our campaigns we have had the untiring efforts of the business men and the newspapers. But it had been a great experience for them, and a help. Sacrifices must be made but no one will regret his part in raising $25,000 for the Quincy association. (Applause.)

Mr. King remarked that he had just received the promise of $1000 more, and enthusiasm run high.

Secretary Gay, when introduced, also received an ovation. He reviewed the plans of the campaign. At 6 o'clock each nigh t the committees would meet at the Association building for conference, and dinner would be served each night at 6.30. Then committees would report on their work for the day, and the hand on the clock would be moved along. It is now for the committees to get to work.

For an hour or more the committees remained and each member took a list of names to visit today. Great enthusiasm prevails ,and failure is impossible.

The organization is made up of Theophilus King chairman of the Citizens' Committee while Joseph A. Sedgwick is chairman of a Business Men's Committee, composed of ten

EBEN S. DRAPER

Boston, Nov. 3.—The Republican state ticket was again successful at the polls, but it has been years since the head of the ticket has been elected by so small a plurality.

Following is the successful ticket:

Governor, Eben S. Draper, Hopedale.

Lieutenant Governor, Louis A. Frothingham, Boston.

Secretary of State, William M. Olin, Boston.

Treasurer, Elmer A. Stevens, Somerville.

Auditor, Henry E. Turner, Malden.

Attorney General, Dana Malone, Greenfield.

The returns indicate that Governor Eben F. Draper's plurality over James H. Vahey, Democrat, is less than 9000 and Lieutenant Governor Frothingham only beat Eugene N. Foss, his Democratic opponent, by about 8000.

Last year Draper defeated Vahey by 60,000, and while some of his losses yesterday were due to it being an off year, there is no denying that Vahey made big gains because of Draper's alleged feeling toward organized labor, the straddle of the Republican convention on the income tax amendment, the failure of congress to revise the tariff downward and the increased cost of living. These were points that Vahey dwelt upon in his campaign and they brought him many votes from the laboring classes.

Draper came out of the towns, the Republican strongholds of the state, with about 27,000 plurality, while Vahey carried Boston by approximately 10,500.

Mill cities, in which the labor organizations had lined up a determined resistance to Draper and Frothingham, turned out solidly against the Republican ticket.

The disaffected vote, which has been rather strong for the past two years in the Republican party, showed its power in almost every portion of the state.

Returns in every municipality in the state showed that Draper and Frothingham had been unmercifully slashed. It was true of the towns. It was equally true of the cities. Every city showed the effects of the Democratic sweep. The city of Springfield gave Vahey and Foss the biggest Democratic vote that Democratic candidates on the state ticket ever got there.

In Lowell a Democratic plurality of under 1000 a year ago was swelled to a Democratic plurality of nearly 2500. New Bedford went completely into the hands of the Democrats. Brockton, which showed a Draper plurality of over 1000 last year, turned over a Vahey plurality of about 200. Fall River showed a similar result.

The labor leaders in town last night were jubilant and said that Governor Draper would not veto the eight hour bill if it were presented to him at the next session of the legislature.

The city of Worcester, which Draper carried last year by a vote of 3888, went into the Vahey column this year by a vote of 863.

There are notable Democratic gains in the legislature. Whereas there were 180 Republicans and 60 Democrats in the house last year, it is expected that complete returns will give the Democrats about 70 and the Republicans 170.

In the senate the insurgent Republicans won one place, defeating Thomas Pattison of Barnstable. John E. White of Tisbury is the victor in the Cape district after a determined fight.

LOUIS W. FROTHINGHAM

Jens Madsen of Holyoke, who is a very close friend of Speaker Walker, was defeated by Thomas McCullough, Democrat.

The Frothingham-Foss fight shows more remarkable Democratic gains than the Draper-Vahey contest, inasmuch as the Frothingham plurality last year was over 96,000 and it was reduced by 85,000.

Pelletier For District Attorney

Joseph C. Pelletier, the Democratic candidate for district attorney of Suffolk county, was elected over District Attorney Arthur D. Hill by less than 1500 votes.

The Vahey majority of 18,617 in Boston helped considerably in carrying Pelletier through. Although he had the united support of the Democratic leaders there was some evidence of knifeing in ward 19.

The fact that he fell behind the candidate for governor, however, may be attributed mostly to the fact that there was a strong independent sentiment manifested for Hill.

Thousands of dollars changed hands on the result of the Pelletier-Hill fight. It became evident in the early part of the evening that Pelletier was elected.

The Hill advocates expected a big vote in Chelsea, Revere and Winthrop, but the Democratic wave swept everything before it.

The New Boston Charter

The features of the new city of Boston charter, which was carried by 3869 votes, are:

Term of mayor four years, with privilege of recall at end of two years by not less than a majority of all the voters. Nominated by petition of not less than 5000 voters. No party designations on ballots.

City council with one chamber of nine members, all elected at large for three years; three to be elected each year after the first election. Nominated by petition of not less than 5000 voters, the same as the mayor. Voters may vote for all of the nine councilmen.

Salaries of councilmen $1500 a year.

School committee nominated by petitions of 5000 names.

Among the provisions already in force are:

The new finance commission already appointed and watching the conduct of affairs at city hall.

The City Record, the official publication of the city, as provided for by legislative act, being published.

It is made a criminal offence for a member of the city government to participate in the profits of any city contract.

The civil service commission is to approve of the fitness of heads of departments before their appointments by the mayor are valid.

The city election will take place Jan. 11. The terms of the present members of the city government and the mayor extended to the first Monday in February, when the new mayor and city government will be sworn into office.

Vahey Gratified at Result

James H. Vahey said last night:

"This election has resulted in a great moral victory for the people of this state. We almost wiped out a plurality of 60,000. I am gratified beyond expression at the result, although I expected to win.

"We have rendered a service which is found to help the state. Too much praise cannot be given to the splendid courage exhibited by Mr. Foss. He made a magnificent run.

"The Republican machine of Massachusetts knows now that the people cannot be trifled with. It has been taught a lesson that will not soon be forgotten by the independent voters of the state. The fight for the reforms in our platform has just begun. It will be waged until they are accomplished. The patriotism of the great masses of the people of the state has never been appealed to in vain."

Victory For Reciprocity

Eugene N. Foss said: "Whatever the result of the final count may be, a great victory has been won for the cause of tariff reduction and reciprocity. I consider the vote a demand on the part of the people of this commonwealth that the Republican party fulfill its pledges to the people, and that section 2 of the Payne-Aldrich act be repealed at the next session of congress, or so modified that reciprocity be substituted in place of retaliation; that the best customers of the United States, especially Canada, be treated decently. The fight has only begun. We shall have another opportunity next year."

MARYLAND

Republican Gains and Defeat of the Disfranchisement Amendment

Baltimore, Nov. 3.—Republicans made handsome gains in Maryland and have defeated the disfranchisement amendment. Returns from Baltimore city indicate a total majority against the amendment of over 10,000.

P. J. Schoolfield, Republican, has probably defeated John T. Moor, Democrat, for the state senate from Worcester county. Moor is the business partner of United States Senator Smith.

The so-called disfranchising amendment to the state constitution, admittedly designed to eliminate the negro as a political factor in Maryland, was the paramount issue in the day's election.

The constitutional amendments over which the fight developed contain the so-called "grandfather clause," providing for those who voted prior to 1869 and their descendants, and the negro who had no vote prior to that time, to whom the educational test applies almost exclusively. The white voter is protected by another clause of the amendment.

PENNSYLVANIA

Republicans Defeat Candidate For District Attorney of Philadelphia

Harrisburg, Nov. 3.—Incomplete returns from Pennsylvania show such gains for C. L. Munson, the Democratic candidate for justice of the supreme court, that, if the percentage of gain continues, he will win over Robert Moschzisker, the Republican candidate.

The Republican state organization centered its efforts on defeating D. C. Gibboney, Independent candidate for district attorney of Philadelphia, paying little more attention to the state ticket. Gibboney is defeated, Samuel P. Rotan, Republican, being re-elected district attorney by about 50,000.

Jeremiah A. Stober of Lancaster and A. E. Sisson of Erie, Republican candidates for state and auditor general, are elected with pluralities of at least 50,000. The Democrats have made gains in local offices in many counties.

VIRGINIA

Eighty Demorats to Twenty Republicans In House of Delegates

Richmond, Nov. 3.—The Democratic state ticket was elected by an approximate majority of 20,000. Half the state has been heard from, and it is probable that the figures missing will increase the Democratic lead.

An entire new house of delegates was elected. The Republicans made one or two gains in membership. This will give the minority party a representation of about twenty, against eighty Democrats.

Judge William H. Mann, the Democratic candidate for governor, was elected by a majority that is estimated at about 23,000. Bryan's majority over Taft in Virginia in 1908 was about 30,000.

TOM JOHNSON'S WATERLOO

Defeated After Serving as Mayor of Cleveland Since 1901

Cleveland, Nov. 3.—Mayor Tom L. Johnson, 3-cent-street carfare champion, mayor of Cleveland since 1901, was defeated by Herman C. Baehr, Republican nominee, by a plurality that Johnson's managers concede will reach 3300.

With the election of a Republican mayor, the Republican managers claim the election of twenty-two of twenty-five city councilmen, giving the Republicans control of the city government and predicting a solution of the traction problem speedily after eight years of warfare. Baehr swept nearly every ward in the city and dragged along with him the other candidates, though many of them ran far behind the head of their ticket.

Democrats Gain a Victory

Jersey City, N. J., Nov. 3.—It is almost certain that H. O. Wittpen, Democrat, has been re-elected mayor of Jersey City, defeating former Mayor Fagin, Republican.

The fact that eight state senators, each of whom will have a vote at the 1911 session on the matter of a successor to United States Senator Kean, were to be chosen gave the only statewide interest to the New Jersey election.

Nebraska Republicans Win

Lincoln, Nov. 3.—Indications are that the Republican state ticket has been successful by majorities ranging from 8000 up.

MAKING FIREWORKS.

Some Pyrotechnic Products Must Dry In the Open Air.

TRYING FOR NEW DESIGNS.

Staffs of Artists Continually Devising Color Schemes to Be Worked Out In Fire—The Construction of the Set Pieces—Work of the Chemists.

The first step in manufacturing fireworks is the making of the cases, or shells, as the cylinders or other receptacles in which the explosives and the chemicals are placed are called. Practically all of these are made of innumerable sheets of tissue paper pasted and rolled together until the thickness required is attained. Most of these cases are made by machinery and are delivered as wanted to the places where they are to be filled or charged with the materials that have been prepared. All the charging is done by machinery except in the big shells that throw forth sets of stars of varying colors. In these each "star" has to be placed in a certain position so as to explode in just the right way at the proper instant.

Out of doors in pleasant weather the long lines of fuse—"quick match" they are called—are made. These are wound on reels six or seven feet across. Their basis is loose cotton cord covered with various highly inflammable chemicals. "Quick match," roman candles and a number of other pyrotechnic products cannot be dried by artificial heat. They must lie in the open air until the moisture used in mixing the chemicals evaporates.

All the year around the artists on the staff of the pyrotechnic manufacturers are taxing their brains designing color schemes to be worked out in fire. Outside of the big set pieces, which are much in vogue, a great deal of attention is given to rockets, bombs and rocket bombs, of which there are innumerable kinds. When the artist has evolved some striking color effect he turns over his painting to the chemists, whose task it is to combine various combustible ingredients so as to reproduce what the painter has put on his canvas. The race between the art department and the staff chemists is unending. It is the boast of the chemists that they can duplicate in their burning colors any combination of paints that can be presented to them.

These colors are imparted by the heated vapors of certain metals. Sodium, for instance, gives a yellow light, calcium red, strontium crimson and barium green. The number of chemicals, common and rare, employed in the manufacture of fireworks is prodigious. Take blue stars, for instance. These are commonly produced by a combination of chlorate of potash, calomel, sulphuret of copper, oxychloride of copper, dextrin, stearin, black oxide of copper, copper filings and sal ammoniac.

Every fireworks manufacturer has his carefully guarded trade secrets. Pyrotechnics in its various branches and as a whole is taught in no university, and there is little printed literature on the subject.

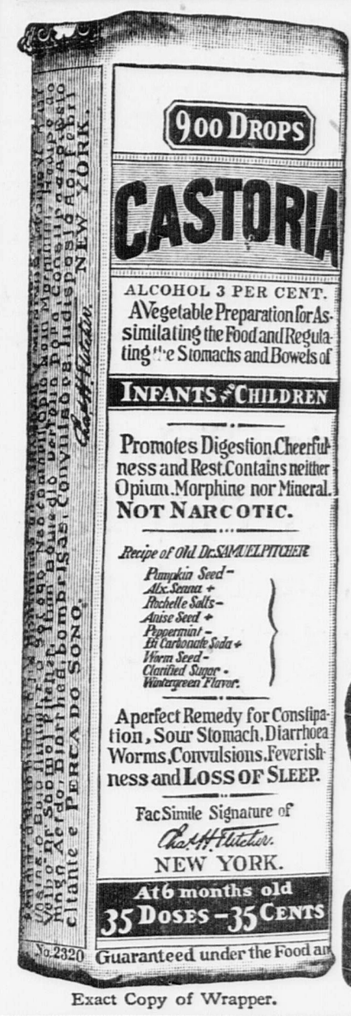

The construction of the set pieces, especially if they are large, is a huge task. First the artist draws the picture. It is complete in every detail of outline and shade of color. This is marked off into equal squares, each of which represents a square foot in the actual reproduction in fire. Sections of light boards, say, 20 by 25 feet are built and laid flat on the ground, and rectangles a foot square are marked thereon. On the section is outlined the picture that the artist has made, with the different colors indicated in their proper groupings. Loose over this is built a checkerboard framework of light lathe. Then come men with strips of rattan. They tack these to the framework, following exactly every line that has been indicated on the boards below, leaving practically a huge line drawing in rattan.

Then come men with thousands of big pins—ordinary pins, but about an inch long. These are set in the rattan an inch apart. These are followed by other men, who cut the heads off the pins. After this comes a gang of men with bundles of little fireworks, two inches long by one-quarter to three-quarter inches in diameter, in varying colors or combinations of color to correspond with the original drawing. These are called "gerbes." When ignited they emit sheaves of fire. These are stuck on the pins and glued, each shade of color in its proper place along the framework.

After this has been done another gang comes with hundreds of feet of "quick match" and connects all these thousands of "gerbes" together. Loose ends are left here and there for firing when the piece is in place ready to be set off. Then these sections are hoisted into their proper positions, and after infinite labor everything is ready for the wonderful delight to the eye, which may last between one and four minutes. So swiftly does the fire run from "gerbe" to "gerbe" through this "quick match" that the biggest "picture" that is usually shown will be aflame in every part in three seconds.

There is said to be little or no danger about firing these set pieces or even in setting off the bombs that explode with such fearsome noise. The ends of the "quick match," where the "port fire" is applied by the men who do the igniting, are carefully timed so that they have plenty of chance to get out of the way.—New York Press.

IMPRESSIONS OF PRESIDENT

As Gathered Thus Far on His Swing Around the Country

PEOPLE ARE HOMOGENEOUS

Never So Closely Allied In Hopes, Ambitions, Pride of Country and Patriotism as We Are Today—Busy Day at Jackson, Where Wets and Drys Are In a Turmoil Over Serving of Wine at Banquet

Jackson, Miss., Nov. 2.—With New Orleans behind him, President Taft is on the last leg of his long journey. He has nine days more in southern states, but he already has seen enough of the south to enable him to say that his two months' study of conditions throughout the country is practically finished. The impressions that he has gathered from the trip were summarized by him in a speech here at the fair grounds. Said he:

"I have gone from the Atlantic to the Pacific ocean, down the Pacific coast to the southwest corner of the country, through territories and the great domain of Texas to St. Louis, down the Mississippi to New Orleans, and I have made, the Lord forgive me and the Lord help those who have heard me, two hundred odd speeches and I have survived the hearing of two hundred more, and I am able to say that we never in all our country's history were as homogeneous a people, as closely allied in all our hopes and ambitions, and in all our pride of country and patriotism as we are today.

"It is possible that there are corners in this country that have escaped me where there is discontent, but if so, I have not found them. In every town, in every city and county, in every state, I have found the individual saying to himself: 'I am contented here because I know what will make this city, or this town, or this county the best in the state, and I am going to do that very thing.'

"And in respect to the ambitions of the people it was the same—everyone proud to be a citizen of the town or the county or the state, and all proud to be Americans and to rejoice and thank God that the starry flag waves over us, a united country."

The president spent sixteen hours in this city, more time than he gave to Chicago or San Francisco. Here in Jackson they say that Taft is the first president who ever discovered that the city is on the map. Everybody seemed to have in mind the words of Mississippi's famous Lamar: "If we knew each other better we would love each other more."

In carrying out this Taft celebration Jackson had a good many things to contend against. There was a state fair, a circus, a balloon ascension and a parachute drop. The circus and the balloon ascension alone would have discouraged the ordinary city, but Jackson managed to keep their circus parade and the Taft show separate.

The president's program included, besides a visit to the state fair, a luncheon at the governor's home, an automobile sight-seeing trip and a dinner last evening. The dinner had caused considerable of a fuss between the wets and the drys in the city. The drys were opposed to having wine served and they carried the matter into the pulpits of some of the churches.

The wets, however, refused to give in, and then the temperance people threatened to get out an injunction restraining the wets from using wine at the banquet. The wine drinkers carried the day by going to New Orleans and buying their supply in Louisiana. Now the teetotalers say they will carry the question of the Taft banquet to the polls.

Mississippi is a dry state. The president himself does not drink wine or anything else stronger than coffee, so that the Jackson people were raising a rumpus on their own account.

Aeroplane Falls to Earth

Hamburg, Nov. 2.—At the aviation meeting here the gasolene tank of the aeroplane of Pequet, a Frenchman, exploded. The wings of the machine caught fire and the aeroplane fluttered towards earth. When it was eighteen feet from the ground Pequet jumped from it. He was stunned, but soon recovered.

Turn About.

A young English student late one cold and wintry night found the door of his college locked against him. The young man outside argued with the doorkeeper inside, cajoled and entreated, but to no avail. Eventually he slipped half a sovereign under the door and was admitted. It was a financial deal wisely thought out on strict business lines. Once inside, he informed the janitor (falsely) that, unfortunately, after taking the half sovereign out of his purse he had dropped the purse itself on the doorstep. The attendant went out to secure it, but once on the chilly, wet doorstep the door was slammed. Then the deal was repeated, for the shivering mercenary was not allowed into his warm abode until he had slipped the half sovereign back again.

POSSE SCOURING WOODS

Determined Effort to Capture Three Daring Young Robbers

Lincoln, N. H., Nov. 2.—Residents of Lincoln and Johnson are alarmed over robberies by three young men between the ages of 18 and 21 here and a posse headed by Sheriff Carey of Lincoln has started a search for the fugitives.

Early Monday morning they came into town, armed with revolvers and rifles, and after breaking into the Profile house, a summer hostelry, and robbing it of what money they could find and valuable bric-a-brac, they turned to the general store run by P. F. Parker, where they secured several hundred dollars in money and provisions and blankets.

After threatening to shoot any one who interfered with them they started toward Johnson and are believed to be hiding in the woods near there.

Sheriff Carey and his assistants are now scouring the woods near Johnson and every man in the party is armed. The citizens claim they will bring the men back dead or alive.

PEARY REACHED THE POLE

Geographical Society Substantiates Claim of Arctic Explorer

Washington, Nov. 2.—A report declaring that Commander Peary has substantiated his claim to having reached the North Pole April 9, 1909, will be given to the public about the last of the week, bearing the endorsement of the board of managers of the National Geographical society. Soon thereafter Peary probably will go on the lecture platform.

That the National Geographical society, after proper investigation, is satisfied that Peary reached the Pole was indicated by a member of the organization, who said: "We will invite him to address us here this month. That ought to satisfy you as to what we think of Peary's exploit in the polar regions."

KIDNAPPED YOUNG GIRL FOR HER SON

Charge Against Woman Who Is Held In Heavy Bail

Atlanta, Nov. 2.—Accused of kidnapping the 14-year-old daughter of C. D. Barron, a well-to-do business man of Atlanta, as a bride for her 18-year-old son, Mrs. F. C. Lambert was arrested and held in heavy bail.

Mrs. Lambert's arrest is a sequel to a divorce suit filed by Mrs. Lucy Lambert, who alleges that she was kidnapped by Mrs. Lambert and forced to marry the latter's son.

Lambert and his mother lived near the Barrons and the former became infatuated with Miss Barron. When Barron learned of the matter he ordered Lambert to keep away from his daughter. It is alleged that Mrs. Lambert won the girl's confidence and extolled the virtues of her son, telling her what a fine husband he would make, that he would never tell her a story and that she would never regret marriage.

Finally, it is alleged, Mrs. Lambert enticed the girl to a place where her son was in waiting and had them married by a magistrate. The Barrons allege that Mrs. Lambert wanted to get a rich bride for her son, as she knew Miss Barron was an only child.

Mrs. Lambert is charged with inveigling a child under 18 years old away from its parents or guardians, which under the law is declared to be kidnapping.

CALMLY TAKES OWN LIFE

Widow of Three Weeks Dies on Her Wedding Anniversary

Cincinnati, Nov. 2.—Mrs. Clara Sater, widow of the late Magistrate Sater, wrote a note to Undertaker Pagels and then took an overdose of chloroform and turned on the gas in her bedroom. Pagels opened her letter and read: "Monday will be my wedding anniversary. Milton is dead. I miss him so much that life no longer holds any happiness for me. Please take charge of my body and of all of my effects."

Pagels rushed to the Sater home. He and a neighbor broke into the house and found the woman dead. Mrs. Sater was 63 years old. Her husband died three weeks ago.

Charged With Padding Pay Rolls

Somerville, Mass., Nov. 2.—William W. Smith, Jr., a foreman in the street department of Somerville, was arrested last night at his home on a charge of larceny of $48 from the city by means of padding the pay rolls. The complaint against him was made at the request of Mayor Woods.

WON'T SECEDE FROM CHURCH

Mrs. Stetson Submits to Boston Christian Science Officials

CALLED SELF "THE CHRIST"

Alleged Declaration at "Last Supper" In Her Home, When Glass of Lemonade Was Served Each Disciple In Lieu of Wine—Additional Charges Made by Investigators From the Mother Church

New York, Nov. 2.—Mrs. Augusta E. Stetson, in a letter given out by her late last night, announced her complete submission to the Boston officials of the Christian Science movement, and denied she intended to secede from the Christian Science church.

While Mrs. Stetson was preparing this statement her opponents in the First Church of Christ, Scientist, made public data they had gathered concerning her alleged teachings and practices.

The letter in which Mrs. Stetson announces her submission to the authorities who have placed her and twenty-six of her practitioners under discipline is expected to have great effect at a meeting of the members of the First Church to be held Thursday to receive a report from the trustees, who have been investigating.

That Mrs. Stetson gathered twenty-six practitioners about a long, narrow table at her home in West Ninety-Sixth street, adjoining the First Church of Christ, Scientist, and with them gave a representation of the "last supper," during which she declared, "I am Augusta Stetson, the Christ," is one of many charges that was to have been brought forward against her at a meeting of the members of the First Church Thursday.

Witnesses in the investigation of Mrs. Stetson's teachings made by the directors of the mother church of Christian Science in Boston have testified that at the alleged ceremony she broke bread, gave it to each practitioner with a bit of fish and a glass of lemonade in lieu of wine and told all of them that they were the same mental condition as the disciples of Christ when they sat down to the "last supper."

Revelations made yesterday concerning the nature of evidence that has been obtained in the controversy between Mrs. Stetson and the Boston officials contained a full description of the "last supper" episode, said to have been called by Mrs. Stetson a "paschal feast." These disclosures include other facts which have hitherto been kept secret.

Fearing that Mrs. Stetson at the meeting Thursday might endeavor to lead her followers away from the influence of the Boston officials, their representatives were prepared to introduce testimony against her offered in Boston during the inquiry which resulted in the infliction of discipline on her and twenty-six of her practitioners.

The subject of "mental journeys" is another phase of the situation in the First Church concerning which the opponents of Mrs. Stetson hope to be able to offer testimony at the meeting.

Among the additional charges is one to the effect that Mrs. Stetson ordered her practitioners to set their alarm clocks for midnight each night, to arise at that hour and from the time they arose until 1 o'clock in the morning concentrate their minds on mental treatment led by her.

That Mrs. Stetson had declared "Mrs. Eddy as God manifest and Mrs. Stetson Christ manifest" is another allegation brought by those who accuse Mrs. Stetson of having strayed from the true principles of Christian Science.

The Red Sea.

In the Red sea reefs of bright pink coral are clearly to be seen. Much of the rocky bed of this sea is the work of the coral insect. But probably the true reason for the name of the Red sea is because along its eastern shore lies ancient Edom. This word signifies "red." It was given to the region not from the color of its sandstone hills, but from its people. These are the descendants of him who came in faint and weary from hunting and said to his brother, "Feed me, I pray thee, with that same red pottage, for I am faint;" therefore was his name called Edom.

Only a Man.

Little Muriel flew into the house flushed and breathless.

"Oh, mother," she cried, "don't scold me for being late to tea, for I've had such a disappointment! A horse fell down, and they said that they were going to send for a horse doctor, so of course I had to stay. And after I'd waited and waited he came, and, oh, mother, what do you think? It wasn't a horse doctor at all. It was only a man!"—Everybody's Magazine.

A Concise Explanation.

"How does that man always manage to appear as the leader of you people?"

"I suppose," answered Farmer Corntossel, "that it's simply because he's smart enough to get ahead of us."—Washington Star.

AN OLD TIME HANGING.

The Dark Day When "Old Jennie" Was Executed In Maryland.

"As dark as the day when old Jennie was hung" is one of the many quaint sayings that for generations has been used on the lower eastern shore of Maryland, but from the accounts that have been given by those who lived in old Jennie's day there never has been a day since that time as dark as the day on which she was executed for wholesale murder in the neighborhood in which she lived.

The old murderess was publicly hanged in 1815 in the old jail yard at Princess Anne, and all those who remembered that particular day have passed into the great beyond long ago. The murderess was a white woman, tall and angular, and it was said that she resembled what was popularly supposed to be a witch far more than she did the up to date woman of that day. In fact, local history records that she practiced witchcraft. No one ever knew where she came from, she having "dropped down" very mysteriously into the neighborhood, where she killed a family of four.

Old Jennie was not hanged on a scaffold. In those days murderers were executed with as little trouble and expense as possible. The wizen faced terror of all Somerset was placed in a cart drawn by two oxen and placed directly under a stout limb of an old oak tree which stood in the jail yard. The rope was fixed in rude fashion around her neck, amid the hurrahs of the crowd and the curses of the doomed woman, and when all was in readiness a bunch of fodder was placed ten paces from the oxen's heads, and they were given the word to start. Obeying the command, they made a bee line for the fodder and left old Jennie dangling at the end of the rope.

That day, it has been told thousands of times, was the darkest ever known in this section. Chickens remained on their roosts throughout the entire day, while candles by the score burned in the houses that the servants might see to do their work. The local scientists of that day were at a loss to account for the strange phenomenon, and the graphic descriptions which they gave of it and which were recorded years ago make interesting reading.

The darkies and superstitious whites of those days naturally thought that the end of time had come. A great many negroes declare today that the ghost of old Jennie may be seen stalking around on the edge of the woods near where she committed her crimes any time on a dark, cloudy night, and they are very careful not to encounter her.—Oriole (Md.) Cor. Chicago Inter Ocean.

WINGS THAT WERE FINS.

Evidence That Penguin's Pinions Were Once Used For Swimming.

Ornithological puzzles are the penguins, with their curiously shaped wings and odd, unbirdlike, upright carriage. The peculiarities of their wings suggest that the penguins are descendants of birds which used their wings rather than legs in the pursuit of prey under water, and as the struggle intensified between the competing individuals the most expert at this sort of swimming would get the most food and oust less successful rivals. The winners gained advantage over their neighbors in proportion as their wings improved as swimming organs and inversely and of necessity became less suited to perform the work of flight.

In all other birds the feathers, though shed annually, are more or less gradually displaced. But in the penguins the new feathers all start into being at the same time and thrust out the old feathers upon their tips so that these come away in great flakes. Whereas in all birds save penguins the new feathers as they thrust their way through the skin end in pencil-like points, formed by investing sheaths, in the penguins these sheaths are open at the tips and attached by their rims to the roots of the old feathers, and hence these are held to their successors until they have attained a sufficient length to insure protection against cold.

The curious device for retaining the warmth afforded by the old feathers until the new generation can fill their places is apparently due to the fact that penguins are natives of the antarctic regions, although some now inhabit tropical seas.—Chicago Tribune.

Short and to the Point

A coal merchant who was a man of few words once wrote to an agent the following brief letter:

Dear Jones—";"

In due time the agent's reply came as follows:

The coal dealer's letter, translated, said, "See my coal on," which is the semicolon expressed verbally.

The agent informed the dealer that the coal was shipped by saying simply, "Col-on."—Scrap Book.

Those who attended the Y. M. C. A. banquet last evening have no doubt now about the success of the campagn inaugurated. In united effort there is strength, and 100 men are today canvassing the city for $25,000. The confidence that was neded to ensure success was instilled by Messrs. Ward, Crossett, Chase, King, Gay and others, and the enthusiasm is contagious.

Congratulations to Gov. Draper and the State officers who are all reelected and also to the Quincy senator, Eugene C. Hultman and to our two Representatives William R. Thomas and Louis F. Langelier. Reelections were in order this year, and it is complimentary to all of these that they are returned, even though the pluralities are reduced.

Brockton's new assistant superintendent of schools was selected from a list of over forty candidates. She is Miss Grace Parsons and is of a well known New York family which has been for years identified with educational matters. She comes to the work Jan. 1st.

Next to pride in family and ones native town, the state comes a close second and people from Maine have their Pine Tree State club and there are New Hampshire, Vermont, etc., clubs. On Friday evening Vermonters in this section are to have a big husking bee at Mecranics building, Boston, and the Green Mountain state will show up big.

Friends of the Quincy hospital are preparing to contribute their mite during hospital week. It is a charity worthy of support not only one week in the year but every week for its work is continuous, relieving suffering and restoring health.

Brockton is talking of a new building for its Y. M. C. A. the Brockton 1912 club having the matter under consideration.

LECTURE ON SWEDEN.

Rev. O. P. Peterson, of the First Swedish Congregational church, Worcester, will deliver a lecture on "Sweden and its people" in the Swedish Congregational church, Garfield street, this evening at 7.30. Mr. Peterson is widely known as an eloquent and forceful speaker, and the subject is of special interest to the Swedish people. It is hoped that a big audience will be present to hear the lecturer who has just returned from his extensive travels in the land of the midnight sun.

DEER AT WEST QUINCY.

F. W. Bent of West Quincy saw a handsome deer early this morning on the Furnace Brook Parkway. At first the deer was crossing the parkway near Willard street. The deer easily jumped across Furnace brook at a point where it was ten feet wide and passed into the St. Mary's cemetery. It then went through to Willard street and through the O. T. Roger's quarry and disappeared in the woods.

HULTMAN

Reelected Senator by Vote of 6,852 to 4,510

Carried Six of the Eight Cities and Towns of District—Lost in Weymouth and Randolph

SENATOR EUGENE C. HULTMAN Re-elected

Senator Eugene C. Hultman was reelected senator from the First Norfolk district by a plurality of 2,342. This is some less than last year but considering that this was an off year and that the Democratic party put forth unusual efforts all over the district he is to be congratulated.

Last year the district gave Senator Hultman 7,874 and Foley 3,711, a plurality of 4,163.

A year ago Senator Hultman carried every town in the district with the exception of Randolph, the home town of Mr. Foley which gave him a plurality. This year Weymouth gave Foley a plurality of 70 votes, as against a plurality of 419 for Hultman last year.

Quincy last year gave Senator Hultman a plurality of 1539 and this year 1099. Hultman, however, made gains in Milton and Canton, and he cut Foley's plurality in the latter's home town from 101 last year to 97.

Canton which last year gave Hultman a plurality of 68 cut it down to 24 this year, and Holbrook cut his plurality from 175 to 79. In Hyde Park the plurality remained about the same. The full vote of the district follows:

	Foley, D.	Hultman, R.	Hess. S.

DRAPER WINS

Years ago the slogan was "As goes Hull so goes the State." Of late years however, it has been, "As goes Quincy so goes the State." The election on Tuesday, particularly emphasizes this. The head of the ticket was close in Quincy and it was also close throughout the state. Gov. Draper carried the city by 92 votes and the latest figures give him the State by nearly 8,000. The total vote of the city for Draper was 2,005, and 1,913 for Vahey. For Lieut. Governor, the city gave Frothingham 2,063 and Foss 1,844, a plurality of 219 for Frothingham.

REPRESENTATIVE THOMAS.

Wards One, Five and Six gave a plurality for Draper while Wards Two, Three and Four gave pluralities for Vahey. The same was also true on the vote for lieut. governor.

Secretary Olin carried every ward except Ward Four. The same was also true of the vote for State Treasurer, Stevens carrying every ward except Four.

Local interest largely centered over the election of senator and representatives to the General Court. For Senator there was but little opposition to the reelection of Senator Hultman who carried every ward in the city with the exception of Ward Four, which gave a plurality of 238 for Foley. The city, however, gave Hultman a plurality of 1,099. A year ago the city gave Senator Hultman a plurality of 1,539.

Of the two representative districts the Fifth district was the only one that was at all close. In this district the main contest was between Representative Thomas, who was seeking a reelection and Michael T. Sullivan, the Democrat. The district is nominally Republican, but Mr. Sullivan succeeded in making inroads into the vote given Mr. Thomas last year. Mr. Thomas carried the district by 98 votes. Ward One was the only ward which he carried, but this ward gave him such a large vote that the other two wards were not enough to overthrow it. Ward One gave him a plurality of 245, the vote being 549 for Thomas and 304 for Sullivan. Hanscom received 27 votes in the ward.

In Ward Two, Sullivan carried both precincts, his vote being 367 to 223 for Thomas. It was currently reported that had not many of the voters of this ward been absent with the North Dakota that Mr. Sullivan would have received a much larger plurality, even enough, perhaps, to have elected him. In Ward Three Mr. Sullivan also carried both wards, his vote being 357 to 354 for Thomas. Candidate Hanscom received 93 votes in the district.

In the Sixth district Representative Langelier was an easy winner, receiving 1,095 votes to 693 for Flaherty, a plurality of 402 for Langelier. Representative Langelier carried every ward but Ward Four, the home ward of Mr. Flaherty. This ward gave him a plurality of 245 but the plurality for Langelier in Wards Five and Six was more than enough to offset this. Mr. Langelier's plurality in Ward Five was 441, and in Ward Six 206. Ross, the Socialist candidate received 65 votes in the district.

REPRESENTATIVE LANGELIER.

The vote in detail will be found on the last page.

COUNTY REPUBLICAN

Gives Draper a Plurality of Over 4,500

Norfolk County went strongly Republican with a plurality of over 4,500. Avon turned to Vahey as did Canton by safe margins. Foxboro by a vote of 255 to 251, went Democratic. Of the other towns Norwood, Randolph and Stoughton supported Vahey while in Quincy Draper had the scant plurality of 92 to 746 in 1908. The total vote was 14,269 for Draper against 9,755 for Vahey, a plurality of 4,514.

The vote by towns follows:

	Draper	Vahey
Avon	112	165
Bellingham	82	56

WOMEN'S CLUBS

WHAT THEY ARE DOING AND SEASON'S PLANS

"You can't be theologians," says Judge Grosscup to a woman's club, "because you haven't the power of analysis; you can't be lawyers, because you are devoid of the reasoning faculty; you are not successful scientists, because you consider only one detail at a time."

The Junior Friday club not only had a pleasant meeting on Monday afternoon but had a delightful outing as well, meeting with Mrs. Ernest D. Gourd in Needham. Following interesting papers by the B. committee a Hallowe'en social was held during which the hostess served refreshments and each received a cute Hallowe'en souvenir.

Mrs. William B. Nichols is to address the Junior Alliance of First church on Monday evening, in the regular series held in the church parlor.

The Milton Woman's club is to have a course in cooking lectures demonstrated. The subjects are to be "Marketing," "Economic use of Soups, and how to make them," "Inexpensive cuts of meat and how to use them," "Left Overs" "Supper dishes," "Practical Desserts," and a lecture on "Food Sanitation."

The Friday club will meet this week with Mrs. George G. Saville of Saville avenue, instead of with Mrs. Arnold, as scheduled. Miss Randall will be chairman of the B. committee with French and English explorations in America as the subject.

Mrs. Mary L. Wade of the Quincy Women's club gave a demonstration lecture on Emergency lunches on Monday afternoon for the Swampscott Woman's club.

Quincy Alliance meets Monday afternoon in the parlor of First church when Rev. Calvin Stebbins of Milton will give a paper on Milton. The first of a series of three entertainments was given in the chapel Oct. 29 and largely attended. It was a drama by the Jonas Perkins School Association of Braintree, with a former Quincy boy, Jo Spear in the cast. The next will be a recital on Dec. 10 by Mrs. Elsie Washburn of Boston.

The Auxiliary to the Young Men's Christian Association will meet with Mrs. King 110 Adams street, Friday, afternoon at three o'clock. Mrs. W. E. Alden will give a talk on Thomas Moore. The address will be illustrated with songs by Mrs. James H. Slade.

There was a large gathering at the New England Women's club rooms on Boylston street, Boston, on Monday afternoon. It was the opening meeting and Mrs. May Alden Ward gave a talk on Current Events as she does the first Monday of each month, as last year. It is a very popular and instructive afternoon.

ADAMS CHAPTER.

Adams Chapter, Daughters of the Revolution went to Braintree for their November meeting being guests at the home of Miss Potter on Tremont street, with Miss Potter, Mrs. Bridgham and Miss Mary L. Hinkley as hostesses.

The regent presided the usual reports being given. Several communications were read and discussed. Mrs. Porter told of the interest being taken by the Massachusetts society in the proposed monument at Annapolis to the memory of the sailors in the Revolutionary war. It was desired that each chapter appoint a committee to raise funds for the work.

Members were asked to subscribe to a whist party to be given for the cause on Friday Nov. 11, at hotel Vendome, Boston. Tickets are for Daughters and any others interested and may be procured of the regent of Adams Chapter or Mrs. William Porter, treasurer of the Chapter.

Following the business there was a short entertainment consisting of cornet solos by Mrs. Harry Snow and a paper by Mrs. William Gallagher both of which were much enjoyed.

Mrs. Gallagher's was a sketchy talk on Revolutionary incidents in New Jersey which brought out many facts not known in New England. The personal touch showing the participation of Mrs. Gallagher's ancestors in the stirring events of the times made her paper particularly interesting to chapter members, who expressed their appreciation during the social hour.

A most dainty lunch was served by the hostesses bringing to an end a most delightful afternoon.

SUSANNAH TUFTS CHAPTER.

The Susannah Tufts Chapter of the D. A. R. of Weymouth held a most interesting exhibit of antiques at the home of Mrs. A. G. Bowditch on Quincy avenue on the afternoons and evenings of October 27 and 28. The chapter has pledged itself to the education of two children in a settlement school in Hindman, Ky., and the object of the exhibit was to raise money towards this pledge.

Mrs. Bowditch is a past regent of the chapter and for about twenty years she has been an enthusiastic collector of old china, consequently she has a very valuable and beautiful collection. She also has in her home many rare pieces of antique furniture, also old portraits. These, with the addition of a number of articles loaned by other members of the chapter and their friends made a most noteworthy exhibit.

There were seventeen samplers, the oldest one bearing the date, 1724, also a large mourning piece, a most intricate creation of needle-work. In a show-case in one of the rooms were beautiful bead bags, antique jewelry, miniatures, old coins, a piece of confederate paper money, fans and a coat brush taken from the pocket of an old Revolutionary General after the battle of Bunker Hill. Pewter and silver platters and porringers were scattered about. A brocaded silk cape lined with silk attracted much attention and the descendents of the lady who wore it, know it to be at least, two hundred and twenty-five years old. There were beautiful shawls of China and India silk, delicate hand made laces as fine as a cobweb, embroidered muslin neckerchiefs, one white wedding dress, cut rather de'collete', with a beautifully embroidered panel extending the length of the front, a marvellously dainty baby dress faggoted and embroidered by hand, daguerreotypes, ambrotypes, blankets, bed spreads and two wonderful quilts of which we must speak further. One was white cotton cloth with colored flowers and green leaves cut from calico and appliqued on with the tiniest of tiny stitches and then quilted by hand. The other was white worked all over with flower designs done in French knots, tufted work and embroidery stitches and was reallly an astonishing piece of work.

One thing we must not forget to mention ws a large Japanned tray bearing this legend, "This tray was used Nov. 2, 1836 at the double wedding of John Crane and Elizabeth Nash and Thomas Crane and Mary B. Nash, two brothers marrying two sisters. It was used again at the wedding of Eliza N. Crane, a daughter of John and Elizabeth, to Nathan O. Smith, May 15, 1859. It was last used Nov. 2, 1886 at the double golden wedding of the two brothers and sisters before mentioned."

Altogether it was an exhibition that was well worth ones while to see. Besides the exhibit there was a sale of candy, aprons and mystery bundles the latter causing much amusement. As a result of the whole the chapter was able to send a check of twenty-five dollars to Kentucky.—Mrs. G. T. Taylor, Historian of the Chapter.

QUINCY WOMEN'S CLUB.

A meeting of the executive board will be held as usual on Thursday morning at ten o'clock at the clubhouse.

The next regular meeting of the club will be on Tuesday afternoon, Nov. 9 in charge of the Visiting Nurse committee, Mrs. Williams Ward Whitcher, chairman. Following the business session there will be a short talk by Dr. Curtis of Wollaston on Pure Milk and lecture by Dr. Margaret Carley on "Educational problems of public school nurses." Dr. Carley is superintendent of nurses in the Boston public schools and will come with an interesting story of the work.

The series of five demonstration lectures by Mrs. Mary L. Wade of the Home Economics committee start on Friday afternoon at 2.30 and continued each Friday afternoon through the course. They will be held at the clubhouse and each lady is asked to bring a fork spoon and napkin. The first lecture will be "an emergency luncheon."

The Woman's Exchange a sub-committee of the Home Economics department is meeting with good success and all women are invited to contribute to the exchange whether club members or not. Articles received are bread, cake, pastry, jellies, household things, etc. Orders are also taken for mending.

A class in current events is to be started next week Thursday Nov. 11, at 3 o'clock at the clubhouse under the auspices of the Art and Literature committee, Mrs. Charles Bickford, chairman. Mrs. May Alden Ward of Boston will be the lecturer. The class will meet the second Thursday afternoon of each month and there will be six lectures. Considerable interest is being taken in this class and there are many subscribers. A few more can be accommodated by applying to Mrs. Bickford.

The reception last week at the clubhouse given by the Education committee to Supt. Barbour of the Quincy schools and Mrs. Barbour, was a great success in every way as was also the entertainment and reception to young women on Saturday evening under the auspices of the Philanthropic committee.

The clubhouse is in almost constant use now day and evening with numerous classes, lectures etc., and is also a meeting place for charitable societies and social workers.

YOUNG WOMEN'S CLUB.

The first meeting of the Young Women's club Saturday evening was a delightful and surprising success.

The large parlors of the Quincy Women's club house were brilliantly lighted, and prettily decorated in anticipation of this event. About 7.30 o'clock, groups of young women began to arrive, followed by more and more of them ,until a party of over a hundred had assembled. Meanwhile, bright, lively, music, generously, furnished by three members of the Quincy Y. M. C. A. added greatly to the pleasure of everybody ,and also made it possible to have dancing.

The officers of the Quincy Women's club held a reception for the first half hour, the guests being introduced by members of the Philanthropy committee, who had general charge of the evening.

The club president, Mrs. Herbert J. Gurney, cordially welcomed the young women to share with the Quincy Women's club the use of their clubhouse, and, in her own charming way, told them how glad she felt to have the new club formed.

Mrs. Edward S. Tenney, chairman of the Arts and Crafts committee explained about the classes in embroidery, stencilling, brass work, basketry and shirt-waist-making.

Miss H. E. Turner, chairman of the Philanthropy committee, said that Miss Anna L. Woodward had kindly consented to teach millinery. A nominating committee, consisting of members of the Quincy Women's club and of the young women, was chosen to bring in a list of officers of the new club.

The little drama, called "The Mousetrap" with Mrs. Gurney, Miss Randall and Miss Hubbard taking the parts was irresistibly funny, and called forth great applause, from the young guests who showed that they appreciated good acting. Delicious cake and harlequin lemonade were served by Mrs. N. G. Nickerson, Miss Margaret L. Thomas and Mrs. Frank A. Emery, assisted by other members of the club.

Mrs. J. H. Emery and Miss Amey F. Newcomb were very busy during the evening, answering questions and receiving the fees from 72 members who joined this new department of the Quincy Women's club which is to be known hereafter as The Young Women's club of Quincy.

Any one who desires to join the club and was unable to attend the opening meeting last week will be welcome to attend the meeting and join this Saturday evening.

As there are to be evening classes in dressmaking, millinery, ect., it is desirable the club house be well lighted and the committee would appreciate a gift of a few lamps suitable to use on tables.

HOME AND SCHOOL

Interesting Addresses Before Child Nurture Club

The open meeting of the Child Nurture club of Wollaston was held Tuesday afternoon in the Wollaston school. Miss Grace Parker opened the meeting, after which Mrs. Walter S. Pinkham who had charge of the afternoon's program presided. She introduced Mrs. Charles R. Bedell of Prospect avenue, who spoke on the topic of the afternoon, "Co-operation between the home and the school." Mrs. Bedell said she had lived in a community where they held just such meetings as we are holding today. In Swarthmore, Penn., the first meeting was held at the suggestion and under the supervision of a member of the school board. She felt that the parents should be more familiar with conditions and influences surrounding the children during the school hours. They felt a most earnest desire to do all that they could to be helpful and they hoped to establish a more satisfactory understanding between parents and teachers.

The teachers afterwards said that the entercourse with parents was most helpful to them and parents found that they were helped by a better knowledge of the individual teachers and their clearer understanding of the rules that it is necessary to enforce impartially where dealing with a large number of children, and it is certainly desirable for the parent to know all sides of the child's character. The intelligent and conscientious teacher can often help the parent by pointing out traits in the child, the very existence of which were never suspected.

In Pittsburg, Penn., such meetings as these are held once a month, and were most helpful from a teacher's point of view, because parents saw the school in actual operation and were able to understand better the difficulties of the teachers. So marked was the impression made upon parents that those who came to criticise often stayed to admire and congratulate the teachers.

It is regretted that every parent in Quincy could not have heard Mr. Barbour's remarks. "Co-operation between the home and the school" is so broad it scarcely needed an argument, he said. In Germany everything is tied up with red tape, everything put in the way of a parent who wishes to visit a school. Here it is the opposite, the school is public property. Publicity of the right sort, which supports any needed reform, the better the school thrives.

Mr. Barbour spoke of the age of a child on entering school and of changes being made in other cities. The physical as well as the mental side should be considered. He hoped the time would soon come when the industrial training, of hands as well as brains, would be a reality.

But what we need most is a development of the sense of responsibility; trained to be strong, morally. So many shirk their work; do not concentrate their efforts. He spoke of environment, manners and morals. Teach our boys and girls to be honest, truthful, to look you in the eye.

Mr. Goodspeed, principal of Wollaston school, emphasized the need of united effort of parent and teachers to get the best results. Children should be taught early to obey. He dwelt on honesty, sincerity, unselfishness and service. Punctuality and regularity were too often overlooked in parents. In Wollaston school alone which was no worse than other schools of the city 1121 half days had been lost by pupils since the beginning of the school year, and he hoped parents would lessen the necessity of tardiness and dismissals.

Several topics were discussed by those present. Mr. Pinkham's suggestion to provide a sanitary drinking fountain for the building by public subscription was heartily applauded.

MASONIC VISITATION

Large Attendance at Meeting of Wollaston Lodge

The annual visitation of Right Worshipful Herbert F. French, D. D. G. M. of the twenty-fourth Masonic district, to Wollaston lodge, took place Tuesday evening, and was the occasion of the attendance of a large number of visiting brethren. The deputy was accompanied by Wor. Frank B. Granger, as district deputy grand marshal and a large suite.

The officers were received with due ceremony by Wor. Master Walter S. Pinkham and officers of Wollaston lodge. The M. M. degree was exemplified upon three candidates in a manner that drew much favorable comment from the grand officers and visitors. Music during the exemplification was by the Wollaston lodge quartet. A banquet was served after the communication.

Cape of Good Hope.

In 1487 Bartholomew Diaz sailed far enough south along the western coast of Africa not only to descry but to double the Cape of Storms, as it was then called, and as the coast was ascertained to run toward the northeast the prospect of success in the direction of India seemed now so clear that the Portuguese monarch renamed the cape "Cabo de Boa Esperanza," or Cape of Good Hope. The "good hope" was realized in 1498 by Vasco da Gama, who, doubling the southernmost point of Africa, sailed on to Calicut, thus opening up the long dreamed of route to India.

GAYNOR WINS IN NEW YORK

He Carries the City by Approximately 75,000 Plurality

IS ALONE IN HIS GLORY

Tammany Loses All Along the Line In Contest For Offices Outside the Mayoralty—Will Have No Hand In Spending Billion Dollars During Next Four Years—Sheriff's Office, District Attorney's Office and Even County Register Fall Into Hands of Men Opposed to Tammany

FOR MAYOR

W. J. Gaynor, Dem.	224,157
O. T. Bannard, Fusion-Rep.	158,389
W. R. Hearst, Ind.-Fusion	133,818
Gaynor's Plurality	70,000

This is the new city government of New York city:

Mayor, William J. Gaynor, Democrat.

Comptroller, William A. Prendergast, Fusion.

President of the Board of Aldermen, John P. Mitchell, Fusion.

Borough Presidents: Manhattan, George McAneny, Fusion; Bronx, Cyrus C. Miller, Fusion; Brooklyn, Alfred E. Steers, Fusion; Queens, Lawrence Gresser, Fusion; Richmond, George Cromwell, Fusion.

Sheriff, John J. Shea, Fusion.

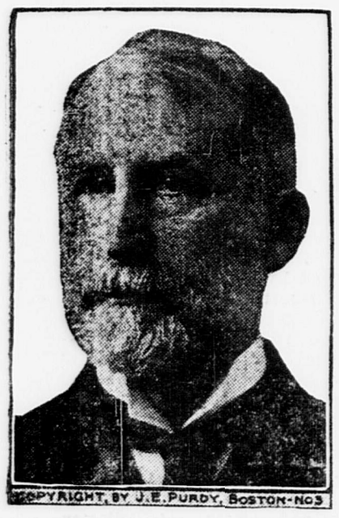

County Clerk—William F. Schneider, Fusion.

District Attorney, Charles S. Whitman, Fusion.

Register, Max S. Grifenhagen, Fusion.

New York, Nov. 3.—William J. Gaynor has been elected mayor of New York by a plurality approximating 75,000.

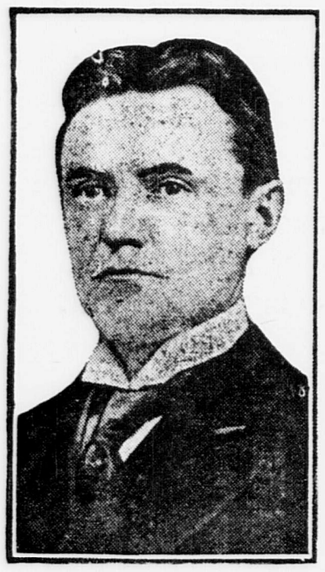

Indications are that he will be alone in his own particular kind of political glory in the board of estimate and apportionment, which spends the city's money.

COPYRIGHT, BY J.E. PURDY, BOSTON-NO3

JUDGE WILLIAM J. GAYNOR

In the next four years New York city will spend, approximately, a billion dollars. That money will be spent under the direction and by the votes of a board made up of a Tammany mayor, a Republican and fusion president of the board of aldermen, a Republican and fusion comptroller, possibly a Republican fusion president of the borough of Manhattan, Republican and fusion presidents of the borough of Brooklyn, the Bronx and Queens, and, possibly, a Republican and fusion president of the borough of Richmond.

CHARLES S. WHITMAN.

There are sixteen votes in the board of estimate and apportionment, of which the mayor has three, president of board of aldermen three, comptroller three, and the presidents of the boroughs of Manhattan and Brooklyn two each. The presidents of the boroughs of Bronx, Queens and Richmond have one each. It will be seen, therefore, that the vast sums of money to be spent by the city in the next four years will not, by any means, be under the control of Tammany Hall.

But there is more to follow. It was a bitter pill, ungilded, for Tammany to swallow—to lose the board of estimate and apportionment. But with that gone, there were visions of the fees in the sheriff's office, had Christie Sullivan got votes enough.

But Christie appears to have fallen outside the breastworks and another of the Republican and fusion stripe, named Shea, will administer the office of sheriff and apportion the fees.

Tammany hoped to annex the district attorney's office when it put up a high class man and an able lawyer in George G. Battle to run against former Judge Charles S. Whitman. But even the protection of the district attorney's office seems to have been denied the Tammany aggregation. The returns seem to indicate that Whitman, a good lawyer with a straight record, has beaten another good lawyer and good citizen with a record equally as straight.

James J. Hagan, a good and true Tammany man, running for county clerk, was also defeated.

Even the county register, of whom it has been said that he could appoint more clerks than the secretary of the United States treasury, appears to have been lost to Tammany.

And so it happens that Tammany Hall has a mayor which it does not like and who does not like it, and a board of estimate and apportionment which will spend the city's money without consulting the moguls of Fourteenth street.

Charles F. Murphy, in this election, has met his first even partial defeat since he slipped into the shoes of Richard Croker and he now sees the burning of Moscow. His friends, and also his enemies, are wondering when he will see the dawn of Waterloo.

The features of the election were the general absence of disorder and the rapidity with which the vote was cast, notwithstanding the unwieldy and complicated ballots.

Although many arrests were made for violation of the election law, the greater part of these were found to be due to clerical errors or misunderstandings. The professional repeater and the guerilla were chiefly notable by their absence. Credit for this satisfactory state of affairs was given largely to the new signature law, put into practice for the first time in a New York municipal election. Under this law every voter, after receiving his ballot, is compelled to write his name and have it compared with the signature which he made at the time of registration.

The New York Assembly

Albany, Nov. 3.—Assemblymen were elected in New York state Tuesday. Latest returns indicate that the lower house of the legislature next year will be composed of 102 Republicans and 48 Democrats. The present assembly consists of 99 Republicans and 51 Democrats, so the Republicans have gained three members.

State Troops Guard Polls

Lexington, Ky., Nov. 3.—Kentucky's election was more orderly than usual, probably because two companies of state troops stood guard over polling places in Breathitt county. However, the home of Mrs. Jim Deaton was burned and Demosthenes Noble killed. Ballots to be used in the election were placed in Mrs. Deaton's house to remain over night. She had also undertaken to feed the soldiers that were to guard the Crockettsville polling place yesterday. Her residence was set on fire during Monday night and the ballots to be used in yesterday's election burned. Messengers were immediately dispatched to Jackson and new ballots sent and the election was held under guard of soldiers without bloodshed.

Americans Carry Salt Lake City

Salt Lake City, Nov. 3.—The American party, formed to combat the Mormon church in politics, repeated its victory of two years ago and strengthened its control of the city. Bransford, for mayor, has over 8000 plurality and a majority of about 2000 over both Democratic and Republican nominees.

The entire American ticket generally was elected with him, over a fusion of Republicans and Democrats, as well as eight out of ten councilmen. With holdovers, Americans will have two-thirds of the council.

Heney Is Snowed Under

San Francisco, Nov. 3.—Returns thus far show that McCarthy has been elected mayor of San Francisco by a large majority and that Francis J. Heney, imported graft prosecutor, has been snowed under by Charles M. Fickert, Republican and Union Labor candidate for district attorney.

McCarthy was the Union Labor candidate and has a substantial lead over his Republican and Democratic opponents.

Question of Perpetual Prohibition

Birmingham, Ala., Nov. 3.—The Prohibitionists pulled out a much larger vote than was anticipated and the returns are still very meager. Following upon their conquests in Birmingham and elsewhere, the Prohibitionists secured submission to the people of an amendment which "forever prohibits" the use of liquor in the state.

Democrats Win In Kentucky

Louisville, Nov. 3.—By majorities of something like 2500, W. O. Head, Democrat, was elected mayor over James F. Grimstead, Republican incumbent. The Democratic city and county ticket was also swept into office. Returns from the state indicate that the legislature, which must pass a reapportionment bill, will be overwhelmingly Democratic.

A MESSAGE FROM MARJORIE

By Nellie Cravey Gillmore.

Copyrighted, 1909, by Associated Literary Press.

Farrington turned from the bookcase with a little gesture of annoyance. His Shakespeare, of all volumes! How stupid of Thomas to have let out his books without his knowledge or consent! Only last week he had missed his favorite, much marked copy of Rochefoucault. Presley had nabbed that.

But this was a little too much. Especially in view of the fact that "Hamlet" was playing that night and there were a couple of passages he felt he must run over.

He crossed the room impatiently and pushed the call bell. It was answered at once by the redoubtable valet.

"It seems still more of my books are missing, Thomas. I am afraid you have been careless. I can't locate that red calf edition of Shakespeare anywhere."

"You left orders, sir—begging your pardon—to accommodate any of the young gentlemen"—

"When I rushed off to Europe, eh?" A whimsical smile made its transient passage across Farrington's scowling face. "Very well. I presume you are right. I was a bit upset, I remember. You may go."

But as the man started toward the door he called him back.

"By the way, are there any bookstores hereabout?"

"No first class ones, sir."

"Any—er—first class neighbors?"

"A few, sir."

"Good! Scrimmage around and find me a Shakespeare before night and I'll"—

But Thomas had already disappeared.

* * * * * * *

Marjorie Hayward was just coming out of the front door when Farrington's man stepped up on the veranda. His request surprised her a little, but she was very glad, indeed, to be able to accommodate him.

She had a copy of Shakespeare somewhere, she said, an old, battered one, but his "master" was welcome to the use of it, certainly. And with this information she went back into the library to search for it.

What sort of people were they, anyhow, the new neighbors who had just moved in the day before and were already beginning to borrow people's books? she wondered good naturedly.

At last she came across the rusty little volume, stuffed to overflowing with old letters, clippings and scraps of memoranda.

She held it up and shook them out in a shower, a swarm of memories suddenly aroused by the long buried sight of certain familiar bits of writing, pressed flowers crumbling to atoms, yet vaguely redolent still of a dear, dead past.

With a smothered sigh she caught herself back sharply from her foolish reflections and returned to the door with the book. Thomas thanked her elaborately and hastened away. Marjorie waited till he had passed up the short stone walk of the house next door. Then she buttoned up her coat and walked down the gravel path to the gate.

* * * * * * *

Farrington took the volume eagerly, turning the yellowed leaves with deft fingers till he should come to "Hamlet." But suddenly he paused, his eyes narrowed curiously and his heart gave a startled jump. A brief extract from "The Merry Wives of Windsor" caught his attention. "Ask me no reason why I love you, for, though love use reason for its precision, he admits him not for his counselor."

The passage was heavily underscored, and below it were scribbled in corroboration the initials "M. H."—"W. F." They were hers—and his!

Marjorie Hayward! The name sent his thoughts tumbling tumultuously back over the past, sent the blood tingling even to his eyelids. How many years—nearly ten!—since he had called that name. Yet how many days, indeed, had it been absent from his heart?

The minutes flew by as he sat there wrapped in meditation. At last he began again to slip the leaves absently through his fingers, when abruptly they came in contact with something alien.

He glanced closer, almost indifferently, and started again as his gaze rested stupidly upon an envelope stuck to one of the pages and addressed in full to himself—addressed in Marjorie Hayward's clear, resolute characters half a score of years ago, when they had both lived in the same little western town.

Without a second thought as to whether he should or should not open it Farrington deliberately tore the letter from its inclosure and read:

Dear Walter—I have been thinking things over, and, after all, you must be right. I made the mistake, and I am willing to acknowledge it. We love each other too much, do we not, to let a silly quarrel separate us for life? Come to me tonight. I shall be waiting for you. As ever, MARJORIE.

For an indeterminate space Walter Farrington sat half stunned. What had happened? What could it mean? Had she changed her mind about sending the letter, or had there been some oversight, some carelessness, in the posting?

And Marjorie herself, where was she now? Could it be that she was less than a block away at this minute? Perhaps she was married. Or was she dead, and had fate chosen this ironical opportunity to thrust an added misery into his bitter memories?

Farrington was not a man to hem and haw. He thought quickly, and he acted with proportionate dispatch. He took out his watch. It was almost 8. In fifteen minutes he was ringing the doorbell next door.

But he was destined to disappointment. Miss Hayward had gone to "Hamlet." Farrington hurried down the avenue that led to the playhouse. Luckily, his ticket was to be called for at the box office. It was a good seat and commanded a sweeping view of the audience.

After the first act their eyes met—locked—across the sea of faces in the orchestra. The girl paled, flushed and paled again. Then her eyes fell away from the deep, ardent gaze riveted upon her.

After the play Farrington stationed himself at the door, but Marjorie left by a box entrance, and he went home with a sinking heart to a dream haunted pillow.

The rain washed sky was blushing pink when he opened his shutters at 6 the next morning. The flowers made a rainbow of color in the garden below, and the air was vocal with the matutinal chirping of birds.

Suddenly the door of the house across the way swung open, and a young woman in a trim brown traveling dress, suit case in hand, emerged upon the porch.

Farrington caught a desperate breath. The northbound train left in twelve minutes, and he was still in his bathrobe and slippers.

After Providence had thus delectably tossed them together again she was running away from him.

Seven minutes later, decidedly ill groomed, he whizzed up to the platform of the G. and G., jumped out and sent Thomas speeding on his way in the runabout.

Miss Hayward was just turning from the ticket window as he came up, and again their eyes met, hers evasively, his with the old compelling power she had never known how to resist.

"Marjorie!"

"Walter!" The name escaped her unconsciously.

"I just received your message, dear," he said, "and that is why I am here." He displayed to her bewildered gaze the faded writing on the yellowed paper.

"Why," she breathed wonderingly—"why, I don't understand. I wrote you that letter over nine years ago and"—

"For some reason which is not presently apparent it was never mailed. See, the stamp is uncanceled. I found it in the little old Shakespeare we used to read so often together."

"And which I have never opened since you went away," she interposed in a little tremulous whisper.

The engine bell rang. With a little exclamation Marjorie started toward the train. Farrington took her suit case from her.

"Where are you going?" he asked.

"To Pittsburg. And you?"

"Wherever you are—always."

And they stepped aboard the moving train.

What Is In a Name.

Heinemann, the European publisher, once noticed two peddlers standing side by side, selling toy dolls. One of them had a queer, fat faced doll, which he was pushing into the faces of the passersby, giving it the name of a well known woman reformer then prominently before the public. His dolls were selling rapidly, while the man beside him, who had a really more attractive doll, was doing comparatively little business. A thought occurred to Heinemann, and he tried an experiment. Calling the second peddler to one side, "My friend," he said, "do you want to know how to sell twice as many of these dolls as you are selling now? Hold them up in pairs, two together in each hand, and cry them as 'The Heavenly Twins.'" The toy vender somewhat grudgingly followed his advice. It was at a time when Sarah Grand's famous novel was at the height of its popularity, and the title of the book was on every one's tongue. Perhaps it was merely luck, but the heavenly twins dolls were an instantaneous success, and within one hour the vender of the woman reformer dolls gave up the fight, acknowledged himself beaten and moved five blocks down the street to escape the ruinous competition.—Lorin F. Deland in Atlantic.

The Supreme Gift.

Man has no wings, and yet he can soar above the clouds. He is not swift of foot, and yet he can outspeed the fleetest hound or horse. He has but feeble weapons in his organization, and yet he can slay or master all the great beasts. His eye is not so sharp as that of the eagle or the vulture, and yet he can see into the farthest depths of sidereal space. He has only very feeble occult powers of communication with his fellows, and yet he can talk around the world and send his voice across mountains and deserts. His hands are weak things beside a lion's paw or an elephant's trunk, and yet he can move mountains and stay rivers and set bounds to the wildest seas. His dog can outsmell him and outrun him and outbite him, and yet his dog looks up to him as to a god. He has erring reasons in place of unerring instinct, and yet he has changed the face of the planet.

Without the specialization of the lower animals—their wonderful adaptation to particular ends, their tools, their weapons, their strength, their speed—man yet makes them all his servants. His brain is more than a match for all the special advantages nature has given them. The one gift of reason makes him supreme in the world.—John Burroughs in Atlantic.

POTHIER VICTOR OVER ARNOLD

He Carries Rhode Island by Plurality of Seven Thousand

LEGISLATURE IS REPUBLICAN

Anti-License Wins In Four Towns and Loses In One—Vote on Constitutional Amendment Giving Governor Veto Power Is Carried—State Loan For Improvement of Providence Harbor Meets With Favor

FOR GOVERNOR

Governor Pothier, Rep. 18,912
Olney Arnold, Dem. 11,835

Pothier's Plurality 7,077

Providence, Nov. 3.—It is conceded from the vote in the Rhode Island election that Pothier, Republican, has carried the state over Arnold, Democrat, by several thousand.

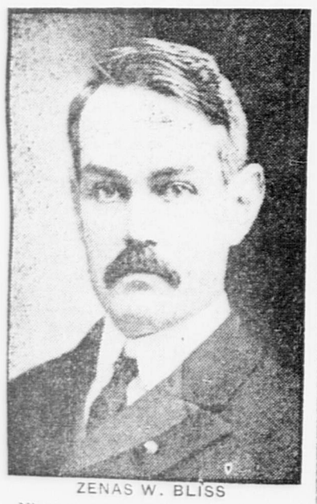

ARAM J. POTHIER

There appeared to be no marked change in the vote for assemblyman and the complexion of the next legislature will remain Republican. The most notable defeat was that of Samuel K. Allen of East Greenwich, a Republican leader of the house for many years.

The anti-license forces won in four towns and lost in but one, according to the latest returns.

Although the country towns generally rejected the amendment to the state constitution calling for a re-districting of the state into assembly districts, the large cities favored it, offsetting the country town vote on the question. The veto amendment was also being carried, as was the amendment giving the lieutenant governor the power to preside over the state senate.

ZENAS W. BLISS

Nineteen Republican senators against four Democrats were elected, likewise twenty Republican representatives against three Democrats.

The sensational campaign waged by Williams, Democrat, against Greenough, Republican, for the office of attorney general apparently brought out a stronger vote for Greenough's re-election than ever before. Read, Republican, seemed an easy victor for the general treasurership.

The vote on the three constitutional amendments appears to be very close, although it is practically certain that the one giving the governor a veto power will be carried easily. The appropriation for a loan to improve Providence harbor met with favor in many of the small towns where a reverse decision was anticipated.

INDIANA

Tom Taggert's Candidate For Mayor of Indianapolis Is Defeated

Indianapolis, Nov. 3.—Samuel L. Shank, Republican, was elected mayor of the city, defeating Charles A. Gauss, whom it was charged was backed by the brewery interests.

The temperance question was not only a paramount issue in the Indianapolis election but likewise in nearly every city in the state. The Republicans have openly charged that the brewers were backing Gauss, the Democratic nominee for mayor in Indianapolis. Tom Taggert, former chairman of the Democratic national committee, who opposed Gauss' nomination, lately entered actively into the campaign for his election.

STAVING OFF A VOTE.

A Candid Explanation by the Speaker of the House.

On one occasion in the house of representatives an unusually large number of Republicans happened to get hungry about the same time, while for some unknown reason the Democratic appetite did not require attention. Catching Speaker Cannon napping, the Democratic floor leader, perceiving that he had a majority, called up a bill and pushed it to a vote. The speaker strung out the voting in all of the various ways known to him, but at the end of the second roll call the Democratic votes were still in the majority. Though the rules of the house expressly forbade such a thing, a third roll call was ordered by the speaker, a proceeding which called out a redhot protest from one of the Democratic leaders, who demanded to know the reason for the speaker's extraordinary action. The speaker genially advised the protesting Democrat.

"The chair will inform the gentleman," said he. "The chair is hoping that a few more Republicans will come in."

A gale of strictly nonpartisan laughter swept over the house, and before it had entirely subsided enough Republicans had been rounded up by the hurrying scouts to fulfill the speaker's wish so candidly expressed.—Success Magazine.

Didn't Court Publicity.

"One of the funniest incidents in court I have ever witnessed," says a Kansas City lawyer in Harper's Weekly, "occurred in a petty court of our city. An old offender had been haled before the magistrate. After a conference with the clerk of the court his honor began sternly to address the culprit as follows:

"'I gather that you have already been sentenced ten times for violent assault, disorderly conduct, attempted'—

"Whereupon, to the amazement of all in court, the prisoner hastily interposed with:

"'I beg your honor's pardon, but would you mind not speaking so loud? My intended mother-in-law is in court, and it might damage my prospects.'"

False Colors.

Sir Augustus Harris one week end took a cab in London for Charing Cross. He had painted in black letters on box and kit bag, "Augustus Harris, T. R. D. L." They stood, of course, for "Theater Royal, Drury lane." But the cabby thought that they stood for some learned degree; that here was an innocent, helpless scientist whom he could easily bilk out of an exorbitant fare. So on reaching Charing Cross the cabby frowned down at Sir Augustus and said darkly:

"A good 5 shillin's worth, sir."

But Sir Augustus laughed and handed the man one and six, the exact fare plus a tuppenny tip.

The cabby looked at the money and sneered bitterly.

"Garn!" he said. "An' ye call yerself a T. R. D. L. Why, ye ain't no more a T. R. D. L. than wot I am!"

When Mind Acts on Mind.

The most potent influence that ever can rest upon the mind is that of another mind acting upon it. This is the highest influence of which we know anything at present. There is nothing, for example, that has power on your thought like a thinker thinking on you, as it were, or thinking to you. Nothing so arouses the affection as a great heart near yours. Like a fire, it sends out its warmth to all that are near it, whether they want it or not.—Henry Ward Beecher.

Rather Unusual.

During a trip of an English vessel one of the crew died of fever. Next day the crew was ordered aft to the quarter deck to attend the burial service. There being many sharks about, the captain ordered one of the firemen to attach two bags of coal to the corpse to make sure that it would sink. This was done, the burial service was read, and the remains of the unfortunate man had just been consigned to the waters when one of the sailors, Pat Cassidy by name, burst into laughter. In anger the captain turned and asked the reason for this untimely demonstration.

"Well," replied Cassidy, wiping his eyes, "I've seen many a man going below, but that's the fust time I've seen one takin' his own coals with him."

The Saint He Picked.

A famous lawyer in Brittany once appealed to the pope for a saint. His holiness proposed that he should go round a certain church blindfolded and lay hold of the saint nearest his hand. He stopped and grasped a certain image, crying: "This be our saint! This be our patron!"

When the bandage was removed, he found that, though he had stopped before the altar of St. Michael, to his horror he had laid hold not of St. Michael, but of the figure under St. Michael's feet—the devil!

No Place Like Home.

The usual after dinner tiff had taken place and Smithers had cooled down. After all, peace was a good thing and well worth the having, and a little more or less humble pie did not much matter. He determined to try woman's weak point—dress—and remarked in a pleasant voice:

"I see dresses are to be worn longer than usual this season."

But the hard lines at the corners of her mouth were still there.

"Well," she observed bitterly, "if they are to be worn longer than I am compelled to wear mine they will have to be made of sheet iron, that's all!"

And then they started all over again.

The Scrap Book

Righteous Indignation.

While patrolling his beat in the small hours of a recent morning a Pittsburg policeman beheld a suspicious looking little figure shuffling along in the shadows, bearing a large bundle.

"Look here!" said the officer, halting the wanderer. "Where are yez goin' at this hour, an' what 've yez got there?"

"Me go home," was the short reply.

"Where did yez come from?"

"Nort' 'ighland," grunted the little chap.

"North iv Ireland? Indade an' yez did not!" declared the officer. "What is yer name?"

"Tara Makata."

"What!" yelled the officer, now thoroughly aroused. "D'ye dare t' stan' there an' try t' kid me? Come along an' talk t' th' cap'n."

Just at that moment a well dressed couple arrived on the scene.

"Why, it is our Japanese servant!" exclaimed the woman. "He is carrying home our fancy dress costumes," she explained. "He is all right, officer."

"Oh, he's all right!" said the officer, releasing him reluctantly. "Well, thin, what th' divvle does he mane be tellin' me he's from th' north iv Ireland an' his name is Terry McCarty?"

Service.

The sweetest lives are those to duty wed,
Whose deeds, both great and small,
Are close knit strands of an unbroken thread,
Where love ennobles all.
The world may sound no trumpet, ring no bells;
The book of life the shining record tells.
Thy love shall chant its own beatitudes,
After its own life working. A child's kiss
Set on thy singing lips shall make thee glad;
A sick man helped by thee shall make thee strong;
Thou shalt be served thyself by every sense
Of service which thou renderest.
—Elizabeth Barrett Browning.

Avoiding the Rush.

A Mormon wife, coming downstairs one morning, met the physician who was attending her husband.

"Is he very ill?" she asked anxiously.

"He is," replied the physician. "I fear that the end is not far off."

"Do you think," she asked hesitatingly—"do you think it proper that I should be at his bedside during his last moments?"

"Yes. But I advise you to hurry, madam. The best places are already being taken."

The Judge's Interruption.

Marriages in Springfield, Ill., up to the time of Lincoln's own wedding had been rather informal affairs. His was one of the very first, if not the first, ever performed with the full Episcopal service. Among the bridegroom's friends who gathered in the church was Thomas C. Browne, one of the justices of the supreme court. Judge Browne was an "old timer." He had been on the bench from the very beginning, a quaint, rough, curious character. He stood close beside Lincoln during the marriage.

Old Parson Dressar, in his canonical robes, was performing the ceremony in an exceedingly solemn and impressive manner. He handed the ring to Lincoln, who placed it upon the bride's finger and repeated the formula, "With this ring I thee wed; with all my worldly goods I thee endow."

This struck the old judge as nonsense, and he cried out loudly enough to be heard by every one:

"Good gracious, Lincoln, the statute fixes all that!"

The unexpected interruption and its utter absurdity completely upset the old parson, who had a keen sense of the ridiculous, and it was some minutes before he could proceed.

Held Up.

"A friend of mine," said an automobile expert, "was doing some rather tall speeding one summer on a road that had a tollgate every five miles or so. My friend was in a great hurry. He was trying, on a heavy wager, to break a record; hence it angered him when he came to a closed gate to see the tollkeeper continue reading his paper and make no effort to let the car through.

"'Now, then, my man, hurry up and open the gate!' shouted my friend. 'Are you asleep there?'

"'You're No. 7004B, ain't ye?' said the gatekeeper without rising from his chair.

"'Yes; that's right. Hurry up!'

"'Oh, there's lots of time!' said the gatekeeper. 'You ain't due here yet for eighteen minutes, accordin' to what the last gatekeeper has just telephoned me.'"

Disinterested Kindness.

Treat people kindly, calculating to gain by their gratitude, and you will not receive the slightest remuneration for your so called kindness, but treat them kindly without any thought of gain and you will have both gratitude and profit.—Ruskin.

First Aid.

The fiance of a Louisville girl was spending the winter in Florida in connection with his father's business interests in that quarter.

"Marie," said the girl to a friend one day, "Walter has just sent me the dearest little alligator from Florida!"

"Dear me!" rejoined Marie, with affected enthusiasm. "And how shall you keep him?"

"I'm not quite certain," was the reply, "but I've put him in Florida water till I can hear further from Walter."—Harper's Weekly.

DROPPED THE "TUB."

And Like a Good Girl Pronounced the Word Correctly.

W. S. Gilbert contributed an amusing article on "Actors and Authors" to a program of the London Drury Lane theater. The following extract will be read with appreciation:

The author's greatest difficulty lies in the necessity of directing an actor's attention to an obvious mispronunciation—a feat that must be achieved without humiliating the actor in the presence of his professional brethren.

Many years ago I was engaged in rehearsing a burlesque, and a very clever young lady had to sing the couplet:

Indubitably if you do
It will be the worse for you.

The clever young lady, whose pronunciation was not always beyond reproach, delivered the lines thus:

Indubitubly if you do
It will be the worse for you.

This, of course, would not do, so I determined to alter the word to "inevitably." The young lady agreed that the alteration greatly improved the verse, but she was not to be deprived of her "tub," so she sang it:

Inevitubly if you do
It will be the worse for you.

This was just as bad, so I made it "unquestionably," and, of course, it came out:

Unquestionubly if you do
It will be the worse for you.

I could think of no other word that would answer the purpose, so, as a last resource, I said to her:

"Do you think it advisable to give the word its French accent?"

"How do you mean?"

"Why, 'unquestionubly'—that's the way it is pronounced in Paris. In addressing an English audience perhaps the simple English version of the word would be better. Try it, at all events, 'unquestionably,' 'a' instead of 'u.' 'Unquestionubly' would be all very well for the stalls, but the gallery wouldn't understand it."

"Of course," she said, "the English accent would certainly be more appropriate."

And she sang it "unquestionably" like the good girl that she was.—Argonaut.

A TUSK HUNTER'S ESCAPE.

So Close a Call the Native Really Thought Himself Dead.

Hunting elephants for their tusks involves courage, patience and infinite cunning. Frequently the hunter becomes the hunted, and the tables may be turned fatally. A writer in McClure's Magazine tells of an escape, vouched for by "an Indian dealer who never lied about anything and who claims to have seen this deliverance exactly as he reported it."

Some natives were hunting elephants in the neighborhood of Lake Rudolph, and he was with them for the purpose of trading cotton cloth for ivory. Elephants like old bunch grass that has become dry like hay, and a herd of them, attracted by "dry grazing," as it is called, came suddenly within an eighth of a mile of the camp.

One native named Juma, from the coast, an unskilled hunter, observing that the wind was in such a direction that it blew news of the herd to him rather than blowing his whereabouts to the knowledge of the herd, ran out in the open with his rifle and aimed at short range at a powerful creature which was watering a straggling shrub with water he had taken in his trunk from the pond.

Once hit, the elephant was correspondingly furious and rushed at Juma after a deliberate scrutiny of the immediate foreground to discover his whereabouts. Having determined where his assailant stood, he tore along, crazy with rage, toward the shaking savage.

Juma, with an oriental's instinct of prostration before such an overwhelming force, merely threw himself flat upon the ground.

The elephant rushed completely over him, but by accident left him safe, although choked and blinded with the disturbed and sandy soil. The great feet cleared him, and the tusks missed him.

Almost twenty-four hours passed before Juma dared believe himself alive and sound, and for the first twelve hours after the excitement he spoke of himself only in the past tense, as of one dead.

The Clothesline Test.

"Let me see her clothes on the line," said an old fashioned woman recently, "and I can tell if she is a good housekeeper." The test lies in the way the garments are hung. If the shirts are scattered around promiscuously the woman lets garbage stand on her kitchen table overnight. The shirts, like we men, should always hang together, shoulder to shoulder, and everything of its kind should hang in a row.—Atchison Globe.

Not Desired.

Having at enormous pains got her length, breadth and thickness about right, the woman heaved a sigh of relief. "No fourth dimension in mine, if you please!" she exclaimed with unmistakable feeling.

Some aver that the feminine mind is not attracted by metaphysics anyway!—Exchange.

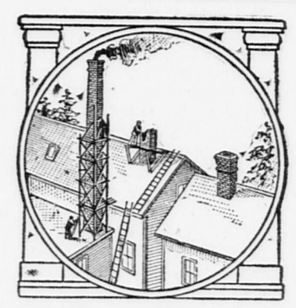

Out In the Rain.

It is particularly aggravating when you get caught in the rain with your new hat to see by the official weather report that the precipitation was only six one-hundredths of an inch.—Ohio State Journal.

Idleness makes such slow progress that misery easily catches it at the first turning of the roadway.

AN EASY AND HARMLESS WAY TO DARKEN THE HAIR.

Who does not know of the value of sage and sulphur for keeping the hair dark, soft, glossy and in good condition? As a matter of fact, sulphur is a natural element of hair, and a deficiency of it in the hair is held by many scalp specialists to be connected with loss of color and vitality of the hair. Unquestionably, there is no better remedy for hair and scalp troubles, especially premature grayness, than sage and sulphur, if properly prepared. The Wyeth Chemical Company, 74 Cortlandt St., New York City, put up an ideal preparation of this kind, called Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur. It is sold by all leading druggists for 50c. and $1.00 a bottle, or is sent direct by the manufacturers upon receipt of price.

BRIEFS

Miss Corlew gave a Hallowe'en German to the pupils of her advanced class on Saturday afternoon which was enjoyed by the young people.

The executive of Corps 103 met this afternoon with Mrs. Andrew Gardner at her home Hancock street.

Maunders "Song of Thanksgiving" will be given at Christ church on Friday evening, November 26th with augmented choir and Boston soloists.

The Pickwick club meets tonight with Mr. and Mrs. Herbert W. Beattie, Mrs. H. J. Gurney and George L. Badger will tell the club of "Such stuff as dreams are made of."

The metal used at the exhibit of the National Magazine at the 1915 exhibit in Boston is from the foundry of A. B. Packard & Son of Quincy.

The vested female choir of the Episcopal church, Braintree, will sing at Christ church on Sunday evening in conjunction with the regular choir of the church.

The prize winners at the whist party held by the John A. Boyd camp, S. of V. and W. R. C., were: Mrs. Thomas Gould, Mrs. Mary Thomas, Miss Zita Pitts, Mrs. Davidson, Mrs. D. McByrne, and W. F. Carmen.

Quite a representative delegation goes from Christ church tomorrow night to the Sailors' Haven at Charlestown, where the Men's club is to give an entertainment for the sailors. Men and women will make up the party which will leave Quincy at 6.52.

The third rehearsal of the Choral society at Colonial hall on Tuesday evening was a record breaker in point of attendance and good work. Conductor Wonson is greatly pleased with the keen interest and ability which has marked the opening rehearsals and Quincy music lovers may well anticipate a note-worthy presentation of the Messiah at the annual concert.

TRIAL POSTPONED.

The standardization trials of the battleship North Dakota were not held Tuesday as planned, for the course was so fog bound that the officers could not make out the range marks. The weather today is apparently but little better and it is doubtful if the trial is held before Thursday.

TODAY'S COURT.

George W. H. Thompson was arraigned for assault at Holbrook. Case continued until Nov. 23.

Arthur G. Baker was fined $10, Albert C. LaRoe $20, Charles B. Davis $10 and Gardner F. Greene $10 for exceeding the automobile speed limit at Milton.

Jacob B. Foss was fined $3 and Frank N. Barney $3 for drunkenness at Quincy.

Hugh McGinnis was brought in on a default warrant and fined $10.

The continued case of Maurice O'Donnell for assault on Conductor Winters was called and again continued until Nov. 13.

—"Poor man's cake." "Take five eggs, etc." So states an October magazine. What, pray ,would be a "Rich man's cake?" Eggs are worth—I mean cost—four cents each, and some poor man would find it difficult to furnish the eggs, to say nothing of the other ingredients. The name, doubtless, depends on the point of view. It might seem quite "poor" to some cooks who keep a hen that lays a golden egg.—Sciolus of Milford.

DEATHS.

DENNEHY—In West Quincy, Nov. 2, Mrs. Nora, wife of Mr. Daniel Dennehy, of 47 West street.

E. Wadsworth, J. L. Whiton. This committee is being enlarged and will be given in full later.

A young men's committee composed of the senior members of the Association is being organized to work for the Swimming Pool. One hundred boys will be let loose the last part of the campaign.

That the citizens of Quincy may be kept informed of the progress of the campaign a large clock has been placed on the top of the Court Room building facing City Square. The clock is 15 feet in diameter, and figures are used in place of the lines usually found on a clock to denote minutes. The figures start at $500 and each point denotes that sum. The hour hand points at 12, or the $25,000 mark while the minute hand points to the amount subscribed. At 10 o'clock today the minute hand pointed at $2,000, denoting that amount had already been pledged for the fund. What will it be at 9 o'clock tonight ?

QUINCY HIGH FAILS AGAIN

Lost to Melrose on Score Five to Six

Quincy High was beaten on Tuesday at Melrose by the same score as Milton beat them, 6 to 5. Both teams got their touchdowns in the first half, Quincy by steady plunging and Melrose by intercepting a forward pass when one of her men ran half the length of the field for a touchdown.

The day was wet and made the ball slippery so that continual fumbling marred the game, and the heavy ground made speed impossible for the Quincy boys. Harold Hill was the star for the local lads while Brock was the whole Melrose team.

It seems as though Quincy and Melrose are bound to play in wet weather for they have not had a good day now for three years.

Quincy carried the ball from the kick off in a series of line plunges by Veal, Hill and Bates and finally, ten minutes after play started had the ball rested on Melrose 8-yard line with third down. Harold Hill was given the ball and on a skin tackle play he placed it over the line. It was over in one corner of the field, however, and such a difficult angle that Quincy failed to kick the goal.

Shortly after this, Billy Manning essayed a forward pass, and one of Melrose men blocked it, and getting it on the bounce, ran half the length of the field, planting the ball between the goal posts. Brock kicked the goal, and as no scoring was done in the second half, the game ended 6 to 5 in Melrose's favor.

TOTAL VOTE OF CITY

Was Over 800 Less Than Last Year

The total vote of the city was 4246, against 5048 last year. The falling off, however, is not remarkable when it is considered that 1908 was Presidential year, which in a phenominal vote.

Every precinct in the city fell off. Doubtless the lack of activity on the part of both the Republican and Democratic committees had much to do with it. The Democrats held some rallies but not even a smoke talk was held by the Republicans and what effort was made to get out the vote was by the local candidates.

The following table gives the vote of the city for the past 3 years. Ward Five was not divided in to precincts until this year.

	1909 Voted	1908 Voted	1906 Voted

THE RETURNS WERE EARLY

City Hall Deserted Before 10 P. M.

The official returns from the several voting precincts of the city were received remarkably early, so that before 10 o'clock the lights in the City Clerk's office had been extinguished and everybody had departed from City Hall. The first official returns received came from the new precinct in Ward Five. That is precinct two of which Charles R. Sherman is the warden. These were received at 6.16. The first precinct of Ward Four followed at 6.30 and others came along as fast as they could be handled, so that by 7.25 everything was in but one precinct in Ward Three. This arrived at 8.07.

There was but little excitement at City Hall at any time during the evening. At one time there was quite a crowd in the corridor, but they were very orderly. Local interest seemed to center in the fight between Thomas and Sullivan for Representative, and as soon as this was settled everybody took their departure.

In the City Clerk's office where the returns were received was the usual bunch of reporters and a few of the councilmen.

THE Y. M. C. A. MAKES A RUNNING START

First Reports Far in Excess of All Expectations and Clock Hand Is Moving

SWIMMING POOL AT SOMERVILLE.

Everything went with a snap and a dash at the Y. M. C. A., last evening, and the campaign committee are now confident that they can raise the $25,000 within the seven days.

The members of ten teams and the Citizen's Committee put in a big day on Wednesday although it was rainy, and the pledges secured were very gratifying and much larger than expected.

These committees will meet every evening at 6 o'clock at the Association building, and take their supper there. They are pledged to do this, as the success of the campaign depends on it. On Wednesday evening the women of the Ladies Auxiliary, with Mrs. E. W. Sheppard as chairman served as excellent supper of hot escalloped potatoes, cold ham and corned beef, cabbage salad, rolls, apples, pears, grapes, pies in variety and coffee.

At 7 o'clock reports were in order, and Chairman Sedgwick first called upon Capt. W. G. Shaw of Team 1, who itemized the pledges his men had received without divulging the names and said his total was $215.00. (Great applause.)

Then Capt. William F. Cummings reported for Team 2 a total of $200.00, and there was more applause.

Team 3 with Capt. A. N. Murray did almost as well, with $180.00, and enthusiasm ran high.

Capt. C. B. Bailey put the total of Team 4 a little higher, $224.00, and every one was happy.

There was a chill when Capt. John L. Miller asked a few minutes delay for Team 5, for it was thought his amount was small. The request was granted.

Team 6, with George A. Sidelinger as captain had hardly organized, but reported $135.00. Good work for two men, and applause greeted them.

Capt. A. B. Cassidy of Team 7 made a new record with $388.00, and there was great enthusiasm.

Capt. C. T. Sherman for Team 8 reported $38.00, but promised more next time, and was as heartily applauded as the others.

Capt. H. Everett Crane of Team 9 almost equalled the record of Capt. Cassidy with $315.00, and was given an ovation.

Capt. H. Everett Crane of Team 9 almost equalled the record of Capt. Cassidy with $315.00, and was given an ovation.

Team 10 at Quincy Point with T. B. Pollard as captain, responded with $50,00, and the total for the evening was nearly $2,000, and everybody was happy.

Capt. Miller had not been idle, and as he called off subscriptions of $100.00 and $200.00, and a total of $795.00 for Team 5, there was a great demonstration.

The Citizens' Committee headed by Theophilus King reported the modest sum of $1,085.00, and enthusiasm was unbounded for the total for the evening was $3,625.00.

This sum added to the $2,000.00 pledged by Mr. King makes a grand total of $5,625.00, more than one-fifth of the total sum required.

The hand on the clock therefore indicates nearly quarter past the hour. Another clock has been located at Wollaston on the Hotel building, and others may be placed at Atlantic and South Quincy.

The pledge cards provide that the payments may be made at one time, or quarterly in January, April, July and October 1910.

The committee has decided that over 700 pledges will be necessary for success for it estimates that there should be:

5 at $1,000.00 each
10 at $500.00 each.
6 at $250.00 each
50 at $100.00 each
30 at $50.00 each
200 at $25.00 each
200 at $10.00 each
200 at $5.00 or less

The property of the Association is now valued at $42,000.00, all but $16,000.00 of which has been paid. It is intended with the $25,000.00 to pay off the mortgage, and also about $2,500.00 for a swimming pool and $500.00 for a running track. The pool will be 18 by 36 feet in size, and three to seven feet deep. The amount annually raised by pledges is also included.

Edward N. Huntress, the general secretary of the Y. M. C. A. at Pittsfield, was a guest of the evening, and was invited to address the committees. He told of the magnificent building at Pittsfield which cost $155,000.00, and how $40,000.00 of this amount had been raised by a similar campaign as in Quincy. Pittsfield, he said, did not get such a running start as Quincy but the teams were well organized and over 3,000 pledges were received, all that were desired. It was good experience for all enlisted, and had made the association a center of the social life of the city. It was team work that counted and had created civic loyalty and pride in Pittsfield.

Before 8 o'clock the meeting adjourned, and all the committees immediately got busy for another day. They will meet again tonight at 6 o'clock when supper will be served by Mrs. N. G. Nickerson and other ladies of the Auxiliary. See the hands on the clocks move tonight about 8 o'clock.

Wednesday evening at the association building the young men interested in raising the $25,000 gathered and five teams composed of ten men each were formed. The teams will be lettered A, B, C, D, and E. The captains respectively are as follows:—George Newcomb, Matthew Nicol, Charles Grassick, D. Craig, and E. Wetheral. Tonight there will be a supper for the boys who will form the different teams. By Friday all will be in readiness for the start and then the boys say that they will make things hum, and do their share and more towards raising the money. Their aim and slogan will be, "a New Swimming Pool."

In today's paper is presented a half tone of the swimming pool at the Somerville Y. M. C. A., which has been enjoyed by several Quincy members. One of the great advantages of such a pool is that in it young boys can learn to swim in safety. It is also an important part of the Y. M. C. A. physical training, and will be clean and sanitary. Those who are to enjoy the privileges should at this time contribute a little toward the expense. Their quarters and dimes will help to swell the campaign fund. The swimming pool is sure to become an attraction at the Y. M. C. A. within a few months.

BEAUTIFUL SNOWFLAKES

Dr. Roland Grant Shows Photos at Wollaston

The second entertainment in aid of the Wollaston Free Kindergarten was given Wednesday evening at the Baptist church, when Dr. Roland D. Grant lectured on "Snowflakes and water forms." After an informal introduction by his friend, Oscar A. Blaisdell of Grand View avenue, Dr. Grant held his audience spellbound for an hour and half. The doctor has studied this subject for 37 years, and when he found W. A. Bentley up in Vermont 17 years ago, who is as great an enthusiast in photographing the snow flakes, frost and dew effects as is Dr. Grant in studying the results obtained by the camera—he says he was supremely happy. He has a collection of 15,000 pictures and over 300 were selected and shown upon a stereopticon screen. Not one picture had been retouched or "doctored" in any manner whatever.

Dr. Grant said he did not wish his audience to consider it as a lecture but a nature study, intensely scientific. He prefaced the display of pictures on the screen by a short descriptive talk upon snowflakes, so that all might better understand the beauty and characteristics of the flakes. They represented crystalization of water and were to be considered as "divine lace work."

He said that Mr. Bentley in making his photographs in Vermont chooses a cold day, wears extra heavy mittens, so that the heat of his hands will not effect the flakes which he catches upon a piece of black slate, when he has secured one he desires to photograph he carries it under an open shed in which his camera is already set up and focused.

As the pictures were thrown upon the screen each seemed more beautiful than the last, as delicate as the most filmy lace conceivable, and of a design above the imagination of man. He showed equally marvelous pictures of frost and ice formations, and very interesting were the pictures of ice forming on a pond on a day with a slight wind blowing.

The Jack frost, hoar frost and ice formations on the window pane showed that the silent forces of nature are everywhere at work producing the glory of God. A picture of chrystalized dew upon a fall web in the grass, as first shown was merely a web of lines, but when magnified and again thrown on the screen was shown to be composed of myriads of frozen pearls, beautiful beyond description. As a final Dr. Grant showed a large design made up of 1377 snowflakes arranged in regular order, and the beauty of it caused his audience to fairly gasp in wonderment, and he kindly showed it a second time.

The last of the series will be a dramatic entertainment to be given Dec. 8 at Brasee hall.

QUINCY PASTORS ASSIST.

Rev. Dr. Edwin N. Hardy and Rev. Edward Norton took part Wednesday evening in the installation of Rev. J. Stanley Durkee, Ph. D., as pastor of the South Congregational church at Brockton. The council was held in the afternoon with Dr. Hardy as moderator, and was followed by a banquet at which Dr. Hardy was one of the after dinner speakers. The installation ceremony was held in the evening. Rev. Edward Norton of Quincy made the introductory prayer and the right hand of fellowship was extended by Rev. Edwin N. Hardy, Ph. D. Other clergymen to take part were: Rev. Edgar B. French of Brockton, Rev. A. Z. Conrad, D. D., of Boston; Rev. C. A. Vincent, D. D. of Roxbury, Rev. Allen Hudson of Brockton, Rev. Albert M. Hyde, D. D., of Brockton, and Rev. E. W. Phillips of Whitman.

POST OFFICE WANTED.

There is a great deal of dissatisfaction at present around Brewers' corner because of the discontinuance of the sub post office station there. Any one wanting stamps or mail must now go to West Quincy, South Quincy or the central station in Quincy. Murray's drug store has been the office, but finding that it required the work of one man constantly, Mr. Murray decided that without an increase of salary he could not afford to continue. As no increase was forthcoming it was discontinued the first of this month. The residents about this busy corner demand that something be done immediately, as they do not care to walk a mile or two for stamps.

COUNTY COURTHOUSE

Board of Trade Will Petition County Commissioners

The preliminary steps were taken by the Board of Trade Wednesday evening for a county court house in Quincy, when it voted to petition the Norfolk County Commissioners and request them to petition the Legislature for a building in Quincy stating that in the opinion of the board $100,000 would be sufficient for the land and building.

By invitation of the board, Hon. John F. Merrill, chairman of the County Commissioners, appeared before them as a citizen, to explain the method of procedure to get the building. In the absence of President Richards, ex-President Walter E. Piper was elected as chairman of the meeting

Mr. Merrill said the matter of a court building came up a year ago when the present building was leased. The lease has four more years to run but it was not too early to take steps for a new building. He would do all in his power to further the object. At the present time he did not think it wise to ask for another county seat, for it was no great hardship to go to Dedham and the county was small. If you ask for too much there would be opposition from other parts of the county and the object would be defeated.

The Commissioners would have to go to the legislature to get an appropriation. He was willing, however, to ask for anything that the citizens desired. A larger building to accommodate sessions of the superior court would cost from $200,000 to $300,000. It would be better to go slow. In reply to a question as to the delay at the superior court in reaching cases, Mr. Merrill said the trouble was caused by the lack of judges.

In order to start the building it would be necessary for the Board of Trade, or citizens to petition the County Commissioners who would give a hearing and if the petition met the approval of the commissioners they would go to the Legislature for the necessary appropriation.

The county is paying about $2,100 a year rent for the present rooms in Quincy.

Lawyer A. W. Thompson said that eventually there would have to be another session of the superior court, and this should be considered if a building were to be erected. It might be well to get a court building at first and then later the superior court.

T. L. Williams thought a building should be erected with an eye to the future.

Mr. Merrill said that it would be a good idea to get started as soon as possible. It would also be a good idea to consider location. He would like to see all of the public buildings erected in the vicinity of the Post Office, Public Library and Y. M. C. A. building. The Henry H. Faxon estate would make an excellent site.

The Nightingale estate at the corner of Temple street was also suggested.

F. F. Crane said that he was the agent for the Nancy Brackett estate and that a site there could be obtained at a reasonable figure.

After some further discussion the following vote was passed: That the County Commissioners be petitioned by the Board of Trade to go to the Legislature for a court house in Quincy and that in the opinion of the Board $100,000 would be sufficient for the building and land.

Mr. Crane then moved and it was voted, that a committee consisting of President John L. Richards, T. L. Williams, A. W. Thompson, E. J. Sandberg and J. D. McKay, be appointed to consider and prepare a petition to the County Commissioners, and to get such information as possible; they to present the petition when they deemed advisable.

Mr. Merrill said that a hearing on the petition by the Commissioners would probably be held in Quincy.

The only other business considered at the meeting was that of the consolidation of the Board of Trade and Citizens' Association. There was but little discussion on the subject. The following vote was passed upon motion of Mr. Crane, that a committee of three to consist of the President, T. L. Williams and J. M. Nowland, be appointed to consider the advisability of meeting a like committee of the Citizens Association with a view to the consolidation of the two associations.

A vote of thanks was extended to Mr. Merrill before adjournment.

CONCERT BY JOHNSON TRIO

Delights People at the Quincy Point Church

One of the best musical entertainments ever given at Quincy Point was that of the Marion Johnson Trio at the Congregational church Wednesday evening. The trio consisted of Marion Lee Johnson, violinist; Hazel Lafricaine, cellist; Edith M. Turner, pianist. They rendered the following selections:—Bohm, trio in G, adagio and allegro; Widor, serenade; Moszkowski, Spanish dance, No. 2; and Brahms, Hungarian dance.

An elocutionist, Miss Dorothy Brown, in an entertaining manner, rendered several selections, reading with much feeling and pleasing the audience. The violinist, Marion Lee Johnson a graduate of the Academy of Musical Art, New York city, is a charming player of the violin, thoroughly understanding the technique of her art. All lovers of classical music are high in their praise of her. Hazel Lafricaine charmed the people with her pleasing personality and cello playing. Edith M. Turner, the pianist, has composed musical selections and is a most promising accompanist, having a perfect touch.

CITIZENS' MOVEMENT.

There is quite a feeling among the citizens of West Quincy that the time has arrived for a citizens movement in the selection of candidates to represent the ward in the City Council. It is impossible to make Citizens nominations at the joint caucuses as there is no Citizens party in the ward or the city, but Citizens nominations may be made by nomination papers, and it is not too late.

HIGH WHIST SCORES.

Seven tables were in play Wednesday evening at the weekly whist tournament at the rooms of the Granite City club. The scores were above the average. George H. Field was high man with 70 percent plus, and Shirley F. Nutting second with a score of 65 percent plus. Refreshments were served after the play. The next social event of the club will be Saturday night, when friends of members will be entertained.

Had the Y. M. C. A., directors realized the success which would attend their campaign to raise $25,000, they might have made the amount $40,000 and included the purchase of the estate at the corner of Washington and Maple streets and possibly the next estate on Maple street. The Faxon lot on the corner contains 8 864 square feet having a frontage of 75 feet on Washington street adjoining the Y. M. C. A. lot which has less than 60 feet frontage. The Kingman lot which is next on Maple street contains 8,851 square feet and has a frontage of about 110 feet. The purchase of these two estates would give the Y. M. C. A. a corner lot with about 135 feet on Washington street and about 220 feet on Maple street. The government post office lot on the other corner of Maple street, and the Thomas Crane Public Library opposite make it very desirable to make a civic centre here.

A better lot for the proposed county court house could not be secured than the three estates at the corner of Washington and Foster streets adjoining the Y. M. C. A. lot. They would give a corner lot about 100 feet on Washington street and 225 feet on Foster street, containing 25,753 square feet, over half an acre. If a larger lot is desired it can be found in front of the Y. M. C. A. building adjoining the beautiful Public Library grounds, or the Nightingale estate at the corner of Washington and Temple streets.

A WOMAN BALLOONIST

Starts From St. Louis In an Effort to Capture the Coveted Lahm Cup

St. Louis, Nov. 4.—Miss Julia Hoener, accompanied by Captain John Berry, sailed from here in the balloon "Melba Third" in an effort to capture the Lahm cup. Miss Hoener is very confident that she will capture the cup. She has made three ascensions.

The start was made under favorable circumstances, the balloon being carried in an easterly direction. The balloon is divided into two compartments by use of a curtain suspended from the lode ring of the balloon. Berry won the national balloon race from Indianapolis this year.

Uncle Joe as Baseball Magnate

Wheeling, Nov. 4.—Speaker Cannon of the house of representatives is making an effort to buy the franchise of the South Bend Baseball club of the Central league and then transfer the club to Danville, Cannon's home town. There are several other citizens of Danville in readiness to buy stock in the club, but Cannon will control over half.

GRAY HAIRS BANISHED.

The old idea of using sage for darkening the hair is again coming in vogue. Our grandmothers used to have dark, glossy hair at the age of seventy-five, while our mothers have white hair before they are fifty. Our grandmothers used to make a "sage tea" and apply it to their hair. The tea made their hair soft and glossy and gradually restored the natural color. One objection to using such a preparation was the trouble of making it, especially as it had to be made every two or three days on account of it souring quickly. This objection has been overcome and by asking almost any first-class druggist for Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur the public can get a superior preparation of sage, with the admixture of sulphur, another valuable remedy for hair and scalp troubles. Daily use of this preparation will not only quickly restore the color of the hair but will also stop the hair from falling out and make it grow. It is sold by all druggists for 50c. and $1.00 a bottle, or is sent direct by the Wyeth Chemical Company, 74 Cortlandt St., New York City, upon receipt of price.

POLITICIANS GET TO WORK

Eight Candidates For Mayor of Boston Are In the Field

HIBBARD CHANGES HIS MIND

Said When Elected That He Would Not Run Again—"Honey Fitz" Will Again Try For Honors—Two Former Governors, Guild and Bates, Urged by Bostonians to Shy Their Castors Into the Ring

Boston, Nov. 4.—Curtis Guild, Jr., and John L. Bates, former Republican governors of Massachusetts, have been proposed as candidates for the mayoralty under the new city charter and its Plan 2. Bates is said to have had the matter presented to him in a delicate manner and not have been offended by the suggestion. Guild is reported to be turning it over in his mind.

CURTIS GUILD, JR.

The Bates or Guild talk became current at about the same time that certain civic interests began rounding up a committee of twenty-five which will pick an associate body of one hundred and twenty-five. The one hundred and fifty thus brought together are going into the work of finding an ideal candidate for mayor of Boston. Some of the twenty-five began the round-up with Bates and Guild in their minds.

It was probably made plain by some of the leading spirits in the new movement that the committee of one hundred, which worked for Plan 2, has put the shutters up and retired from business. The round-up board of twenty-five was composed of new men. Some of its members were Colonel Henry L. Higginson, Colonel Thomas L. Livermore, David Tilley, Charles Dasey, Randall G. Morris and Representative Rousmaniere.

JOHN L. BATES

Bates and Guild seem to have been brought up at the same time. The movement was not crystallized in favor of one or the other.

Mayor Hibbard announced his candidacy for re-election, and through one of his secretaries took out nomination papers from the office of the election commissioners.

Nomination papers for mayor were also taken out by ex-Mayor John F. Fitzgerald. Fitzgerald's papers were given to Edward C. Moore, a former employe of the election department.

Others who took out nomination papers for mayor were Nathaniel H. Taylor of the Boston Globe, Alderman Frederick J. Brand and J. H. Duckery, a negro. Dennis F. Mahoney, Frank J. Seiberslich and William H. McMasters also entered the arena last evening.

Nomination papers for the city council were taken out by Aldermen Hale, Timilty, O'Hare and Giblin; Councilmen Goodwin, Gilligan, Troy, Haywood, Dorcey, Gallagher, Donovan and Burrill.

Mayor Hibbard, in a statement, says: "I regard the adoption of Plan 2 as a vindication of my administration, inasmuch as it is evident that the people of Boston desire the continuance of the economic principles which I have introduced.

"I shall be a candidate for re-election. A statement to the contrary made by me two years ago was made in all sincerity. It was made for the purpose of convincing the people that I desired to build up no personal machine. I think I have lived up to my pledge."

MAY NEVER LIVE TOGETHER

Clews and His Wife Believed to Have Separated For Good

New York, Nov. 4.—Mrs. Henry Clews, who returned from Europe on Monday with her son, Henry Clews, Jr., says that she can not deny that one of the reasons why she went to Paris with her son was to try to effect a reconciliation between him and his wife, who was Mrs. Frederic Gebhard when he married her nine years ago. That Mr. and Mrs. Henry Clews, Jr., have not been living in domestic harmony has been known for several years, and the presence of Clews at his parents' home here for the past year, while his wife remained in Paris with their two children, indicated that they might not live together again.

Clews himself would not discuss the probability that legal steps would be taken before long. He said he had heard a story that his wife objected to him on one point because he persisted in wearing his painter's velvet jacket into his wife's drawing room when she was entertaining and to dinner.

Clews was 23, or seven years younger than his wife, when they were married in 1901. Mrs. Clews, who was Louise Morris, had just obtained a divorce from Frederic Gebhard.

GOLD MEDAL FOR PEARY

Proof of His Having Reached Pole Found by Geographic Society

Washington, Nov. 4.—Commander Peary was voted a gold medal by the National Geographic society for having reached the North Pole. The society passed upon the explorer's records and proofs and found them to be conclusive of his claim that he had reached the Pole.

The society adopted a resolution that the question of whether or not any explorer reached the North Pole prior to 1909 shall be referred to a sub-committee of experts with authority to send for papers or make such journeys as may be necessary to inspect original records. This indicates that the society proposes as soon as possible to pass upon the records of Dr. Cook.

In addition to awarding Peary a special gold medal, as a token of the highest honor the society can bestow upon him, it was also decided that a medal be given to Captain Bartlett.

JURY SELECTED IN MULLINS CASE

Fate of Two Young Men Depends Upon Their Conclusions

Cambridge, Mass., Nov. 4.—The jury selected to decide whether Peter C. Delorey, 18 years old, and Dionisios Spiropoulos, alias James Mantir, 24 years old, a Greek barber, are guilty of the murder of Annie Mullins, were taken in automobiles this morning over the roads from the home of Professor Hans C. Von Jagemann in this city, where the girl was employed as a domestic, by Marathon field, Arlington, where her body was found on the morning of March 28, 1908, with the throat severed, to the farm of Mrs. Francis Delorey in West Billerica, where the two men were then employed as laborers.

Guarded by deputy sheriffs to prevent any possibility of intercourse with the outside world, the twelve men were shown all the features and the scenes which are to figure in the trial of this murder which has mystified New England for more than a year.

All day yesterday was devoted to the selection of a jury. Out of a venire of 162 men, 123 had been examined before the jury box was full.

SUPREME COURT VACANCY

Washington Gossip Has It That Wickersham Will Have a Seat

Washington, Nov. 4.—It is the understanding in Washington among men in a position to know that George Wickersham of New York, attorney general of the United States, will be appointed associate justice of the supreme court to succeed the late Rufus Peckham, if he desires the office.

Judge Lurton of Tennessee, who had been recommended for appointment to the supreme court by President Taft at the time of the retirement of Justice Brown of Michigan in 1906, and who was regarded as Taft's probable choice, at this time appears to be eliminated on account of age.

TAFT CAPTURES SOUTHERNERS

"Secessionists, Ku Klux and the Cranky Democrats"

LOVE FOR THE PRESIDENT

He Declares That He Appreciates It, but Wants to Know Why He Was "Kicked Down Stairs"—Praises Birmingham as Leading New South In Business and Industrial Enterprises—Unites the Blue and Gray

Birmingham, Ala., Nov. 4.—A man interrupted President Taft's speech at Capitol park yesterday afternoon. The president was speaking on the relations between the north and the south. "We all love you," the man shouted.

The president paused for a moment, chuckled quietly and said: "Well, you remember that old quotation: 'Perhaps it was right to dissemble your love, but why did you kick me down stairs?'" It was five minutes before the 5000 or 6000 people allowed the president to make himself heard.

"I am quite aware," he went on, "that in addressing an Alabama audience I am talking to one that, while perhaps it loves me, it feels that interest of country requires the selection of some other candidate. I am not objecting to that in the slightest. I feel proud that while you entertain that opinion on that particular question, you give me such a cordial and heartfelt reception."

The subject that the president selected for his Birmingham address was Birmingham herself. The president ventured the opinion that the future would see Birmingham linked by water to the gulf and praised her as leading the new south in business and industrial enterprises. The president said he know of no better function that a president can perform now than constantly keep before the people the necessity of providing those laws that are to prevent abuses of corporate power and monopoly.

The president referred to the proposition to amend the state constitution by providing for an indefinite continuance of state-wide prohibition. He promptly was asked how he stood on the question.

"I am not an Alabaman," he replied, amid laughter, "and I am in somewhat the position of Brother Fox, who, when he was called upon to decide a case between a lion and some other ferocious beast, protested that he had a bad cold and had entirely lost his sense of smell."

When the president left a luncheon, the way from the clubhouse door to the waiting automobile was lined on one side by veterans of the Confederate army and on the other side by veterans of the Grand Army of the Republic. As he passed down this avenue, Mr. Taft shook hands alternately with each one.

As he shook hands with one of the Confederates, the old fellow said:

"Mr. President, you have captured the cessionsists, the Ku Klux and the cranky Democrats, all of them."

"Well, that's a whole lot," smilingly replied the president.

WOULD ABOLISH FOOTBALL

Archbishop Ryan Says That Game as Played Today Is Barbarous

Philadelphia, Nov. 4.—"Football as played at present by college teams of this country is barbarous and ought to be abolished," said Archbishop Ryan.

"Instead of Rugby, they should play association football, as it is called nowadays. Its the kind that we played when I was at college, where players kick the ball—not each other."

The archbishop's comments on football were suggested by the death of Michael Burke, the young student of Medico Chi college, whose death was due to injuries sustained in a game of football last Saturday.

CAPTAIN WRECKED SHIP

Conclusion of Board by Inquiry Which Probed Cairncrag Disaster

Halifax, Nov. 4.—The wreck of the steamer Cairncrag, near Canso, on July 26, was due to a lack of proper navigation and seamanlike care by her master, Captain James Hyslop, according to the judgment of a board of inquiry at Newcastle-on-Tyne, Eng., information of which has just reached here.

The court did not impair the face value of Hyslop's certificate, but severely reprimanded him and ordered him to pay the sum of $25 toward the cost of the investigation.

DOGS WERE HIS ONLY COMPANIONS

Hermit Dies After Writing Will on Wall of His Room

Savannah, Nov. 4.—Peter G. Leist, 50, a barber in business and a hermit in private life, was found dead in a chair at his residence on the Augusta road. Acute indigestion or heart failure is thought to have been the cause of death. An indication that Leist feared death would come soon was evidenced by the fact that he had written his will on the wall of the room in which he lived. The house was locked and a bulldog stood on guard in the bedroom. Another dog was outside the house, also keeping watch. The body was clothed in every day attire.

Leist decreed on the wall that all his property, his house and lot and adjoining lot and cash in bank, be left to his 8-year-old son, Peter G. Leist, Jr., who is now at school at Sharon, Ga., and named Henry Dryer of New York as his heir in the event of the death of his son.

When officers of the law entered the room, the dogs made no attempt to bite the intruders, but slunk under the bed and around Leist's feet, as if they realized that the crisis had been reached.

Leist passed away facing his will, as an artist might have done in viewing in his dying moments a masterpiece.

QUINCY HIGH SCHOOL

Items of Interest to Students and Graduates

No school tomorrow as it is the date for the Norfolk County teachers convention. The pupils will enjoy a vacation from Thursday until Monday.

On Friday the football team will play Dedham high at Merrymount park and they should have little trouble in disposing of them as the Dedham team is light and has not shown up very well this season.

The students have been on the anxious seat for a few days as the reports are about due.

The German club, which meets once a month, has elected officers, and they will so conduct the meeting that at the end of the year there will be more interest than ever before in this popular study. The officers are: President, Richard Favorite; vice president, Dorothy Packard; secretary, May Cleveland; treasurer, Roy Sidelinger. A double quartet has been formed and German music songs will be rehearsed.

The Golden Rod editors report that they have received a large number of excellent stories this year, Miss Eleanor Mahoney turning in the best story although the two by Miss Marion Hicks and Alvah Innis are not very far behind. Subscribers to the paper are assured some good reading. The cover design was presented by Miss Sanborn, a member of the 1913 class, and is a sensible and attractive design. A large number of exchanges have reached the editors from the other schools about Boston showing that the Golden Rod is becoming popular. Room 25 in the second corridor has been set aside for the use of the Golden Rod editors, and it will be called the Golden Rod sanctum. Meetings of the editors will be held there, and the room will be fitted up in an appropriate manner, making it in time a literary curio room. Records of old editions of the school paper and programs will be on exhibition. A graduation program for the year 1870 has already been contributed and reminders of old days are coming in every day.

Word has been received that Allison Marsh has made his class numerals in base ball at Amherst this fall. He was a member of the class of 1909, Q. H. S., and was one of the honor pupils, besides being a member of the baseball team and taking an active part in class affairs.

Miss Bertha Ried, a member of the '06 class, is in Bangor where she has held a fine position as a nurse in a private hospital for some time.

William Bullock of last year's class and a former Golden Rod editor, will leave the first of next week for Florida, where he will accept a good position in one of the large hotels.

The Boston Journal cross country run will take place November 26, and Quincy High will probably have two representatives in "Babe" Marceau, the crack B. A. A. miler, and Charles Kendall of the senior class. Marceau has a fine chance to cross the line a winner, for in the past two years there has been no runner who has come anywhere near beating him out and it will take a fast man this year.

Richard Favorite, a member of the class of '09, is laid up with water on the knee received while playing guard on the football team.

The reserved seat tickets for the High school play have all been sold, thus exceeding the highest hopes of the management and the success of the venture is assured.

Demi Gourlie, captain of the 1908 football team, has been coaching the football team the past week, and last Monday addressed the players in the gym with the result that they have improved in their spirit and play a great deal.

Frank Tirrell, Everett Prout and Harold Prout, not content with earning glory on the football field, are becoming proficient in the art of dancing evidently taking to heart during their English course the passage of Milton, which reads, "Come and trip it as you go on the light fantastic Toe." The members of their classes are already complimenting them on their lightness of foot, even on the gridiron.

Harold Gore and Warren Baker of M. A. C., were in the city over Sunday. Having come as far as Providence on Saturday with the football team, they kept on to Quincy to visit their parents and friends.

Henry Houston of the class of 1909 is the medium through which many members of the school are obtaining their attractive banners and sleeve bands. A large number have already bought them for the Dorchester game which is only two weeks away and any one can have them by speaking to Mr. Houston.

Mr. Hart, the janitor at the High school, is having an attractive house built on Butler road which will be ready for occupancy very soon.

Several names have been added to those down in their studies but others who were delinquent last term have passed and will be able to play on the football team.

There has been some talk of starting a debating club at the High school. This is a movement which should meet with the approval and cooperation of all the students. All of the High schools in and about Boston have fine debating teams and there is no reason why Quincy should not.

The Junior class at the Weymouth High school have chosen the following officers: President, Albert Humphrey; vice president, Carl Lovell; secretary, Ruth Bradford; treasurer, Thayer McBride.

Some of the fellows at the school have formed a club which they call the Iota Tau Kappa club, and it is the gathering place for them evenings where they study and play games and enjoy a social evening in each other's company. It is in the rear of one of the boy's houses, and is fitted up in fine style, the members taking great pride in its appearance. Regular officers have been installed and rules and regulations laid down, and any member breaking them will find himself on the outside of the club. There are ten members and they have a large waiting list. From 7 to 8 in the evening not a word is spoken in the room while all those present are studying. But after that there is some good healthy fun for the balance of the evening. The club is situated in Wollaston, and while it is the Iota Tau Kappa club it is familiarly known as the "Hut" and the fellows have some great times there.

ONLY ONE "BEST"
Quincy People Give Credit Where Credit is Due.

People of Quincy who suffer with sick kidneys and bad backs want a kidney remedy that can be depended upon. The best is Doan's Kidney Pills, a medicine for the kidneys only, made from pure roots and herbs, and the only one that is backed by cures in Quincy. Here's Quincy testimony:

Charles Somers, 17 Newcombe Place, Quincy, Mass., says: "It is a pleasure for me to make known to other kidney sufferers, the benefit I received from Doan's Kidney Pills. I had lame back as the result of weak kidneys, for about ten years. I could get no relief from the many remedies I tried and when Doan's Kidney Pills were brought to my attention, I procured a supply at the Cox Drug Store. Before long this remedy completely cured me. I shall always praise Doan's Kidney Pills.

For sale by all dealers. Price 50 cents. Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, New York, sole agents for the United States.

MURPHY IS NOT TO RESIGN

Victory of Fusion Forces Is Credited to Anti-Tammany Democrats, Who Will For Four Years Be In Absolute Control of Gotham's Purse Strings—Gaynor Sends to Late Opponents Some Unused Campaign Fireworks

New York, Nov. 4.—Charles F. Murphy, who succeeded Richard Croker as Tammany leader, denies the rumor that he intends to resign or that an attempt is under way to create a new order of things for the New York city Democracy.

CHARLES F. MURPHY.

Analysis shows that the election, which resulted in the defeat of the Fusion forces of every important Tammany Democrat candidate below the mayor, was more of a victory for the anti-Tammany Democrats, who had lined up with the Republicans under the Fusion banner, than for the straight out Republicans.

Anti-Tammany Democrats, elected on the Republican-Fusion ticket, will for four years be in absolute control of the city's purse strings.

The presence of Richard Croker in the city was a matter of considerable speculation to those who were studying the situation, and the announcement that he had extended his visit five days longer than previously announced, is regarded as significant.

William M. Ivins, the Republican free-lance, who launched the Hearst boom late in the campaign, offered his congratulations to the Fusion candidates yesterday. "It is the greatest victory for reform that New York city has ever seen," said Ivins.

Otto T. Bannard, the defeated Republican candidate for mayor, looms up as a possibility for the New York state gubernatorial nomination for next year.

William J. Gaynor, mayor-elect of Greater New York, lenient in his victory, sifted his papers and returned to his late opponents, Bannard and Hearst, two fat envelopes full of printed invectives, charges and suggestions—matter that was sent to Gaynor for use during the campaign. To William M. Ivins, the Republican who attacked him so bitterly, he sent a similar batch of material.

THE BAY STATE SLUMP

Effect of Election on Legislature Feared by Friends of Lodge

Boston, Nov. 4.—Republican leaders fear that the pounding the party ticket got at the polls Tuesday may have a baleful effect upon the legislature this and next year, at the critical time when Senator Lodge is preparing to seek re-election.

The Democratic membership in the legislature is increased, and there is a notable list of so-called independent Republicans. Elected this year, they may be expected to be elected a succeeding year.

The election was the closest in the state since 1892, when the late Governor Russell was elected by a margin of 2500 votes. The victory Tuesday was the narrowest ever won by the Republican party.

The average Republican pluralities during the past ten years, with the exception of 1904, when Governor Douglas was elected, have been in the neighborhood of 40,000. Last year the Draper plurality was 60,000.

$80,000 In Suicide's Pockets

Rapid City, S. D., Nov. 4.—The body of Arthur Finnigan, a cattleman, was found hanging from a beam in a barn near Pedro. Cash and certificates of deposit amounting to more than $80,000 were found in his pockets. Finnigan had sold his ranch and it is believed that the prospect of departure from the vicinity which he had called home for years had affected his mind.

Sues For $15,000

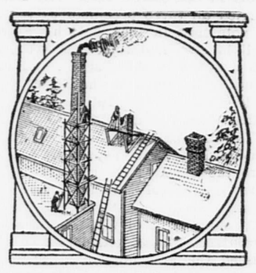

Boston, Nov. 4.—Bernard Doherty of Boston brought suit in the United States circuit court to recover $15,000 damages from Charles Francis, also of Boston, for injuries alleged to have been received in an explosion on the power boat Satellite, owned by Francis.

BRIEFS

Vaudeville Saturday night at Quincy Music hall.

Ralph W. Burnet and family have moved into the Herbert H. Albee house on Warren avenue.

Mayor Shea is having considerable trouble with his knee and the damp weather keeps him in doors.

Rev. Thomas Simms of Braintree will lecture at the Washington Street Congregational church tomorrow evening.

James W. Reid of Wollaston has had his auto license suspended by the Highway Commission for causing the accidental death of Joseph Schmitt at Roxbury.

A large cast of children of First Church Sunday school give a cantata tonight in the chapel, entitled "A day in the woods." Rehearsals indicate a fine production.

The Philip S. Dresser's who have for the past five years resided in Somerville are returning to their former home on South Central avenue, Wollaston.

Edward Hodge, Jr., of Town Hill left Wednesday for Chicago, where he expects to obtain work. Mr. Hodge is well known among the young people of Quincy and will be greatly missed by his many friends.

John N. Card has purchased the house on Montclair avenue belonging to Royal S. Eastman of Hancock street.The house has been vacant for nearly two years. Mr. Card and family moved in last week.

A meeting of those interested in the Taxpayers' Improvement Association at West Quincy will be held tonight at Dolan's hall. It is possible that the organization will be completed at this meeting.

The Boys' Messenger club of the Sunday school of the Atlantic Methodist Episcopal church is to give an entertainment in the vestry of the church on Monday evening. The program will consist of an address, instrumental and vocal music and readings.

Maguire & Heron, the granite manufacturers at East Milton, have been bothered considerably of late by sneak thieves, who have been entering their yards at night and stealing tools. They have offered a reward of $100 for evidence that will lead to the arrest and conviction of the parties.

Rev. Ellery Channing Butler, pastor of the First church, who had quite a bad fall on Tuesday is reported as doing nicely although his ankle is still badly swollen. Mr. Butler was carrying a piazza table up stairs when he lost his balance and fell. It was thought at first that he was seriously injured, but later it was learned that no bones had been broken.

CITY SCALES.

Complaint having been made that the city scales were not weighing true, they were officially tested this morning. It was found that the platform bound a little in the frame. The platform was sawed off, after which they were tested and found to be absolutely correct.

MOTHERS' ASSOCIATION.

The November meeting of the Mothers' association was held in Bethany chapel Wednesday afternoon. Although it was stormy, a goodly number were present. The president, Mrs. W. H. Doble, presided and gave a short talk on the importance of fresh air and the necessity of right breathing as a guard against and a cure for disease.

After the routine of business, the devotional exercises were led by Mrs. Ellery Channing Butler, who read the twenty-third Psalm, and took for her subject, "The Loving Father's Care."

Mrs. Willard E. Dow of Braintree was the speaker of the afternoon. An appreciative audience listened with close attention to her paper,—"The Ideal Home," which was well written and finely delivered. Miss Carrie Follett Spear sang four songs which were much enjoyed by all. At the social hour refreshments were served by Mrs. George Macfarlane.

Undue Haste.

No doubt Dennis apreciated to the full the excellent qualities of Celia, his wife, but he occasionally indulged in a sigh for the liberty of his years of single blessedness. "Yis, 'tis a good wife she makes me," he said to a returned traveler during whose absence the wedding had occurred. "And we was coorting siventeen years. Aileen an' all o' the rest said 'twas time I married or Terry Leahy would be getting the prize away from me."

"Well, man, you've no regrets, I hope?" said the friend, who had just enjoyed a delicious supper at the hands of Celia. "She's a fine woman."

"Didn't I tell you that?" said Dennis impatiently. "The only thought I iver have is wance in awhile whin it comes over me that I might 've waited another year an' still have got her, for Terry was not near so high in her esthimation, after all, as thim women made out t' me.

VOTE OF BRAINTREE

Representative Mellen Is Returned to State House

That the citizens of Braintree were alive to the fact that they had a chance to vote for the candidates to the various state offices is apparent by a hasty glance at the results of the election, printed below.

It had been predicted that the voting would be very light for this was considered an "off year" but evidently the voters did not care for the predictions, for the vote this year was but one hundred and twenty-three less than last year when the citizens had a chance to elect a President.

The cause of the large vote, this year, was undoubtedly owing to the hot fight on for representative to the General Court in the Eighth Norfolk district between Charles C. Mellen, the Republican nominee, out for reelection, and Frederick W. Whitcomb, the choice of the Democrats, who fell short in last year's vote. Mr. Mellen carried all three precincts by a larger vote than in 1908, held his ground well in both Holbrook and Avon, the other towns in the district, and as a result will return to the State House to look after the interests of the citizens in this district.

The first ballot was cast by E. G. Stoddard of Academy street, and before the clock had registered 6.30 three citizens of Precinct One had voted.

Anthony Dyke of Washington street, Braintree's oldest citizen, who has passed the 91st milestone in life's journey, arrived at the polls and cast his vote at just 9.50 A. M. He carried with him, for the first time in public, the beautiful gold-headed cane recently presented to him by the selectmen of Braintree from a well known Boston morning newspaper. Mr. Dyke was surrounded by several admiring friends and many favorable comments were heard as the beautiful inscribed cane was viewed and handed back to its owner.

SHE SMOKED CIGARETS

Mrs. Davis' Husband Made No Objections When First Married

Chicago, Nov. 4.—"Shelby idealized me and placed me on a pedestal. After all, I was just a woman and that caused the trouble between us."

So said Mrs. Anne A. Davis, 26 years old, daughter of H. C. Ansley, treasurer of the Southern railway, when testifying in her suit for ansolute divorce from her husband, David Shelby Davis, employed by the Prairie State bank. The divorce was granted, as was the right to use her maiden name.

Mrs. Davis said that her husband refused to allow her to entertain Amelia Bingham, the actress, in her apartment after she told him that it was generally reported that Miss Bingham was "backed by Duke, the tobacco magnate."

She testified that on the night Davis proposed and was accepted, she told him she smoked cigarets, smoking one of them in his presence, but he declared he loved her too much to deprive her of any pleasure and that he would not object. Later he did object.

She admitted numerous escapades, among them clandestine meetings with Amelia Bingham.

PLAYMATES IN CHILDHOOD

Romantic Courtship and Marriage of Prominent Southern People

Philadelphia, Nov. 4.—While visiting the large Comer plantation in Georgia over a score of years ago, little Maude H. Gamble, then but a child, fell into the icy waters of a spring and was pulled back to safety by young John Comer. They were playmates then and after a separation of several years a courtship was begun.

Announcement of their secret marriage in Augusta, Ga., has just reached their frieds here. They are both members of prominent southern families. Comer's father, who is now dead, was formerly president of the Central Railroad of Georgia and of the Ocean Steamship company. The plantation at Oldtown, Ga., consists of 25,000 acres and is now in possession of the son.

Mrs. Comer is the daughter of Judge Gamble of Louisville, Ga., where she lived previous to her marriage.

BRIDE OF SEVENTY UPHELD BY COURT

Does Not Fear Boyish Husband Will Dissipate Fortune

Hartford, Nov. 4.—That Mrs. Lucinda T. Goddard, the 70-year-old bride of C. R. Goddard of the Yale law school, aged 21, had shown no incapacity for handling her affairs, was the opinion expressed by Judge Marvin at the conclusion of the hearing in the probate court.

Mrs. Goddard's son wanted a conservator over his mother because he feared that his boyish stepfather might dissipate his mother's fortune.

"WETS" CARRY THE DAY

Rockefeller's Efforts of No Avail In West Chester County Fight

White Plains, N. Y., Nov. 4.—Although followers of local option made a hard battle to make fourteen towns in West Chester county dry, scattering circulars and daily almanac cards denouncing the liquor traffic, yet returns show that only one town in the county went "dry." This was Yorktown, which went "dry" by twenty-three majority.

Mount Pleasant, where John D. Rockefeller has a country estate, and who desired that his township should be placed in the dry list, went in favor of the wets by about 400 majority. Rockefeller has always been opposed to saloons in the neighborhood of his country mansion at Pocantico Hills, and it is said that he urged his employes to vote for no license.

FOR MINISTER TO CHINA

Suggestion of Fairbanks' Name Meets With Approval In Washington

Washington, Nov. 4.—Former Vice President Fairbanks, who is now in Burmah with Mrs. Fairbanks on a trip around the world, has been suggested to Secretary Knox for minister to China by Senator Cullom, chairman of the foreign relations committee of the senate.

There is nothing but approval of the suggestion wherever it has been heard.

Hold Two For Fatal Shooting

Houlton, Me., Nov. 4.—James Friel, who was fatally wounded through receiving two rifle bullets in the side and hip in an altercation with gave up all hope of ever reaching two men at his home in Amity, died late yesterday. The police arrested Charles Friel, a brother, and Allie Black, who will be arraigned on the charge of manslaughter.

"Saved From Meat Trust"

London, Nov. 4.—The arrival in the Thames of a cargo of chilled beef from Australia, said to be in tip-top condition, is heralded here as foreshadowing the relief of the British meat market "from the danger of being throttled by the American Beef Trust."

The Only Way .... Out of It

By HELOISE AMES.

[Copyright, 1909, by American Press Association.]

"This is intolerable."

"A pleasant summer morning intolerable?"

"You know very well I don't refer to the morning."

"I hope you don't refer to me."

"I refer to this position in which I am placed by my mother."

"What position?"

"When a girl comes to my age she is an independent woman having rights upon which no parent can trespass."

"You mean she ought to be independent."

"My mother has made up her mind that I—that she—that you"—

"Any one else in it?"

"You don't help me a bit. To state it boldly and correctly, she is throwing me at you."

"I trust I shall make a good catch."

"Ever since she arranged that the two families should spend the hot season together here she has kept me in misery. What could be more crucifying to a girl's pride than to have her mother show every moment that she wishes her daughter to catch a certain man? Last evening when Mr. Fitch called she treated him abominably. Her motive was apparent to every one."

"Suppose I go away?"

"You might do that—that is, if you wish."

"Oh, your mother doesn't trouble me. I would go to get you out of the muddle."

"But," she rejoined after a pause, "every one would say the man was so persecuted he went to escape being positively forced to"—

"It wouldn't do. Would it?"

There was no reply to this.

"It wouldn't do, would it?"

"Suppose," he added meditatively—"suppose I propose to you and you decline me. Wouldn't that let you out?"

"Thank you. If a man proposes to me I prefer to treat his proposal as I see fit."

"But your mother?"

"I shall neither decline nor accept any one to please my mother."

"Well, I don't see how I can help you."

"I don't either."

"It's a desperate case."

"Exasperating."

"I tell you what you do. Accept the attentions of another man, Fitch, for instance. He'll do for a dummy, and say"—

"Mr. Fitch is a very nice young man."

"That's it—nice. You can tell your mother you're doing it to egg me on."

"Do you dare accuse me of having done that?"

"I was giving you a plan to induce your mother to let us—I mean you—alone."

"You should go into the diplomatic service."

A pause.

"If there is no way out of it," he said presently, "I suppose we'll have to submit."

"Oh, it isn't as bad as that."

Another pause, this time constrained.

"We might go out there on the pier and jump off."

"Now you're talking silly."

"I have it! I'll go and propose to Marcia Eldridge."

"I've always thought a girl with a face like a pan of milk would suit you."

"I don't mean anything permanent. I could break it off in the autumn."

"If you do you needn't come back to"—

She bit her lip.

"Why don't you just tell your mother you don't want me, won't have me and she's to stop her interference at once."

To this there was no reply.

"You don't seem to think much of that proposition."

"It is about as senseless as the others."

"One more and I've done. Take the man you want, go to your mother and tell her you're engaged."

This met the same reception as the last—silence.

"I give it up."

"I would advise you to give it up if you can't think of anything less preposterous than that."

"Why preposterous?"

"Do you suppose that all the men of my acquaintance have made me carte blanche offers good for all time?"

"I didn't think of that."

A long pause. They strolled on to the pier. The sky was blue above them, and the waves were rolling in, a pale green, below them; gulls directly overhead, ships out on the horizon.

"There's a way out of it if we can only find it," he said presently.

"I'm afraid we're not bright enough. Perhaps we don't want to find it."

"That's singular. I thought we had been trying to find it all the while."

"You haven't contributed much toward that end."

"I? What have you contributed?"

"It isn't my part to find a way out of it. I took a risk of being considered unmaidenly to mention it at all."

"Let us sit down on this bench, and I'll try once more."

They seated themselves. He looked up at the sky and down at the waves, but saw neither. Then he said:

"Suppose I go to your mother and ask her for your hand."

She did not reply to this at once, but her features expressed relief.

"Don't you want my heart?"

"I have it."

"What made you think so. Certainly nothing that I have said or done."

"That pull up there told me."

NEW ENGLAND HEROES

Ten Among the Fifty Honored by the Carnegie Commission

Pittsburg, Nov. 4.—The Carnegie hero commission made the largest number of awards in cash and medals yesterday on record. They include fifty heroes and heroines, and $34,650 in cash will be distributed, besides a number of those dependent on deceased heroes, who will be pensioned for life.

The New England states, as usual, came in for a large share, ten awards being made for heroism in that section. Of the persons named in New England, four met death, and the next of kin will receive the reward.

The New England heroes were: William F. Loyle, North Attleboro, Mass.; John G. Conroy, Boston; Thomas J. Madden, Waterbury, Conn.; Albert K. Sweet, Norwood, R. I.; L. F. Clarke, Wilton, Me.; Fred L. Foss (died), Fall River, Mass.; George A. Lawrey, Pawtucket, R. I.; H. L. Mitchel (died), Plymouth, Conn.; Charles W. Hammond (died), Augusta, Me.; Michael Donlin (died), Meriden, Conn.

RIDDLED WITH BULLETS

One Negro Shot Down by Posse Which Is Searching For Two Others

Sutton, W. Va., Nov. 4.—A posse of 200 men is scouring the country for miles around here in search of two negroes, and if they find them a lynching bee will occur. Three negroes visited the home of Charles Lockwood, a farmer, and, taking Lockwood from his home, tied him to a tree, where he was given a severe horsewhipping. They then entered his home and dragged out the farmer's wife and attempted an assault upon her.

Charles Lewis, one of the negroes supposed to be connected with the affair, was shot and instantly killed by members of the posse when they came upon him. He started to run when a volley was fired and he fell dead with fifteen bullets in his body.

Lockwood is in a serious condition and may die from his injuries, while his wife also sustained severe injuries in battling with the negroes. It was her cries for assistance that brought neighboring farmers to the scene and caused her assailants to take to their heels.

From the Kitchen.

Has it ever struck one what a number of terms belonging to cuisine are applied to man under different circumstances? Sometimes he is "basted," he "boils with rage," is "baked" with heat and "burns" with love or jealousy. He is often "cut up," "devoured" with a flame and "done brown." We "dress" his jacket for him. Sometimes he is "eaten up" with care, and occasionally he is "fried." We "cook" his "goose" for him, and often he makes a "goose" of himself. We make a "hash" of him, and sometimes he makes a hash of something else. He gets into "hot water" and sometimes into a "mess." Is made into "mince meat" and is often in a "pickle." We are often asked to "toast" him, and he is frequently put into a "stew" or is in a "stew," no one knows why. A "soft" is "half baked," and one severely handled is well "peppered." A cheeky young imp is a "sauce box," and a rich father is made to "fork" out.—Dundee Advertiser.

He Knew His Business.

Kind Hearted Maiden (fishing for a stray penny in her purse)—I suppose you poor blind people feel your misfortunes keenly?

Blind Mendicant—Yes, indeed. The Lord only knows how I miss the pleasure of being able to look into the beautiful faces of the handsome and lovely ladies who are kind enough to donate—

Kind Hearted Maiden (fishing out a shilling)—Here, poor fellow, take this. I'm sure you are deserving.—London Scraps.

Perhaps.

"Now, look here, Algernon," said a parent to his son sternly, "when I was your age I was at the head of my class."

"Ah," responded the lad, "perhaps teachers were easier to fool then than they are now!"

Subscription of T. King			2,000
Grand Total to date			$8,075

On the second day of the Y. M. C. A. campaign to raise $25,000 in seven days, the subscriptions were carried beyond the $8 000. mark, which is keeping up the average of $3,000 to $4,000 per day. Great enthusiasm prevailed when the reports were made Thursday evening at the Y. M. C. A. building.

The teams and the Citizens committee met about 6 P. M. for conference and the Ladies Auxiliary served a good supper at 6.30 free to all. The menu included escalloped fish, cold tongue and ham, celery, jelly, biscuits, pies, fruit and coffee.

Promptly at 7 P. M. Chairman Sedgwick called for reports, and they were received with applause and cheers.

Team 8, Dr. C. T. Sherman captain, was the only team to do better work than on the first day its total of $172 being the high record for the evening. Other teams were nearly as high as Team 8, Capt. Cassidy's team, No. 7, being only $3 less, and Capt. Miller's team, No. 5, only $7 less.

Team 6, Capt. Sidelinger, was able to equal its work of the first day, $135 each day.

The Citizens' Committee was more successful on the first day than on the second, getting pledges of $1,255 which was $170 larger.

There was but little speaking, as all were anxious to get out on the trail, with good prospects of a large harvest.

At the top of the column the pledges of Nov. 3 and Nov. 4 are given by teams, and also the totals of each team.

SATURDAY FOOTBALL.

The Wollaston football team will play their second game of the season at Milton on Saturday, when they line up against the Cunningham Gymnasium team. Demi. Gourlie will be seen in action for the local boys, as will other former High school players. A crowd will go over with the team. Because of the showing last Saturday, when they defeated the strong Roxbury team, they should return a winner over Milton.

NO OPPOSITION TO MAYOR SHEA

Democratic Nomination Papers Show Several Contests in Different Wards.

Mayor Shea will again be nominated by the Democrats as their candidate for Mayor, four papers being filed for him. As expected there was no opposition within the party.

Nomination papers, for candidates to be voted for at the municipal caucuses of Nov. 16, were opened Thursday evening at Democratic headquarters in the Adams Building. They show more contests than usual, notably at West Quincy, where there are seven candidates seeking the three nominations for Ward Councilmen. There is a contest in Ward One over the Ward Committee.

Complete lists were not filed in every ward however. In Ward One there is but one candidate for ward councilman, and but one in Ward Six, while Ward Five has no candidate for councilmen, school committee or ward committee. Ward Three has but two candidates for councilmen. There is no candidate for the School Committee in Ward One, and no candidate for councilmen at large.

The complete list of nominations follows:

Mayor, William T. Shea of Ward Four. School Committee at Large—Dr. George M. Sheahan.

Councilman from Ward One—Archie Thayer.

Ward Committee Ward One—Thomas E. Connelly, James C. Grant, John J. Murphy, Joseph G. Mally, Thomas J. Walsh and A. F. Murphy.

Second list—Walter M. Packard, Edward J. Dunn, John W. Ryan, Philip D. Cook, William Kelley and James C. Grant.

Councilman from Ward Two—Edward P. Histon, William H. Flynn, William A. Carey.

Ward Committee, Ward Two—William A. Carey, William H. Flynn, William F. Cain, Andrew J. Fahey, Joseph J. Kelley, Dennis J. Ford, James B. Oakes, Joseph G. Kennedy and Henry W. Mullane.

Councilman from Ward Three—James M. Cantfill, James M. Faircloth.

PLEASING CANTATA

"A Day in the Woods" Enjoyed by Many

The cantata, "A day in the woods," was presented by the children of the First Church Sunday School in the chapel Thursday evening, before an audience that completely filled the room. It was a very appreciative audience and their applause was spontaneous for it was deserved.

The cantata was given under the direction of Miss Minnie Packard assisted by Miss Georgianna Lane, Miss Abbie Wood and Mrs. Perry Lawton. The pianist was Miss Ruth Penniman.

The cast included the following young people and the rendering of their parts was almost perfect: Ruth Packard, Dorothy Packard, Maria Schenkelberger, Bernice Stoddard, Eleanor Gow, Natalie Saville, Dorothy Hall, Katherine Crane, Marjorie Taylor, Constance Sears, Henry Hall, Frank Johnson, George Jennings, Ruth Whiton and Elizabeth Elwell.

The planets were: George Round, Constance Fryer, Willard Crocker, Grace Miller, Harold Round, Norma Johnson, Carl Pfaffman, Josephine Smith, Donald Parker and Richard Blackmur.

In the chorus were: Doris Taylor, Marjorie Gaudet, Mildred Stoddard, Lewis Curtis, Lewis Round, Allan Miller, Frederick Schenkelberger, Richard Morse and Roxanna Schenkelberger.

Between the acts there was a violin solo by Everett Rhodes, dance by Miss Constance Fryer, readings by Miss Ella Packard and a duet by Miss Minnie Hardwick and Miss Ella Packard.

WEST QUINCY IMPROVEMENT

New Association Organized with Permanent Officers

Ward Four Improvement Association is the title by which the new citizens' organization at West Quincy will be known, and as the title denotes, its object is to work in unison for those things that will benefit the ward. The preliminary meeting at which the idea was talked over was held a week ago and an adjournment taken until Thursday this week.

The second meeting brought together over fifty of the prominent citizens of the ward. Stephen B. Little called the meeting to order and read a draft outlining the purpose of the organization. He said the idea was to work for the improvement of the ward. That such an organization could by concerted effort obtain many things for the ward that were now impossible.

Other remarks along the some line were made by John Evans, Joseph Walker; James H. Elcock, Dr. John H. Ash, J. Leonard Ferguson, John D. Smith and John Casey.

An association was organized under the name of the Ward Four Improvement Association and these officers:

President—Stephen B. Little.
Vice President—John Evans, James F. French and James H. Elcock.
Secretary—Robert J. Teasdale.
Treasurer—Dr. John H. Ash.
Advisory Committee—Charles LeClaire, Patrick Tangney, Louis Carivigliо, Patrick Mannex, J. Leonard Ferguson, Herbert F. Doble, Joseph Walker, Frank Dufour, John Casey, John F. Burke, John R. Walters, Edward J. Sandberg, Louis White Michael Shea, Thomas J. Lamb and John Cashman.

It was voted that a committee of six be appointed to draw up by-laws for the association and report at the next meeting. The committee appointed were: John Casey, James H. Elcock, Joseph Walker, John Evans, Dr. John H. Ash and Robert J. Teasdale.

The meeting then adjourned for one week.

TAFT SIDESTEPS ARTILLERY PUNCH

Escapes Sad Experience of Other Notable Men

Savannah, Nov. 5.—President Taft is back on the Atlantic seaboard after fifty days of traveling. As he crossed the state of Georgia he received further evidence of the affection that the south has for him. The president's receptions in Mississippi, Alabama and Georgia have been the warmest he has got in any section of the country, and he reached this city very happy.

The Savannah feast last night was called a "surprise banquet." Each guest was supplied with a little basket and into it he laid his souvenirs. In each basket was a souvenir burnished copper chafing dish. Terrapin had been served piping hot in these dishes. The basket also contained, if you had laid everything away properly and hadn't flirted too much with the famous Chatham Artillery punch, hand painted William H. Taft dishes, a cut-glass decanter which had contained apricot brandy, a souvenir stick-pin, a china pin-tray that had held nuts, a red leather cigar case with your name on it—in fact, about everything that had been set before you except the hotel's silverware.

As to the Artillery punch, it has been blamed for a good many things in Savannah. Admiral Dewey was sick after he had tackled it. President Arthur, after a Savannah banquet, also was laid up for three days, but the old Chatham Artillery would never admit that a single glass of punch was as powerful as all that.

President Taft himself is a total abstainer and he was glad of it after hearing what had happened to others who weren't acclimated.

When the president was speaking a dozen white doves were turned loose in the banquet room as symbols of a reunited country. The birds circled about the room in alarm while the guests cheered wildly.

Judge Drops Labor Case

Boston, Nov. 5.—Judge Pierce handed down from the equity motion court a decision dismissing the case of contempt proceedings brought against members of the Ladies' Tailor and Dressmakers' union by three dressmaking establishments in Boston. For the past twenty-two weeks the members of the union have been on strike.

AN UP-TO-DATE DRUGGIST

says it is surprising how many old-fashioned remedies are being used, which goes to show that it is hard to improve some of our grandmothers' old time-tried remedies. For instance, for keeping the hair dark, soft and glossy, nothing equaling our grandmothers' "sage tea" has ever been discovered. Although, by the addition of sulphur and other ingredients, this old-fashioned brew has been made more effective as a scalp tonic and color restorer. Nowadays when our hair comes out or gets faded or gray, instead of going to the garden or garret for herbs and making the "tea" ourselves, we simply go to the nearest drug store and ask for a bottle of Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur. This preparation is sold by all leading druggists for 50 cents and $1 a bottle, or is sent direct by the Wyeth Chemical Company, 74 Cortlandt St., New York City, upon receipt of price.

COOK'S ARCTIC OBSERVATIONS

National Geographical Society Anxious to Inspect Them

SCIENTIFIC TEST IS WANTED

Committee Going to Copenhagen to Ask Authorities of University to Allow Them to Be Present at Examination of Data—Question of Priority In Discovery of Pole Will Eventually Be Cleared Up

Washington, Nov. 5.—The state department has declined to take any action in the polar controversy between adherents of Commander Peary and Dr. Cook. A delegation representing the National Geographic society endeavored to enlist the good offices of the department in an effort to have the authorities of the University of Copenhagen to allow the society to inspect Cook's polar data. The details of their request were not made public. The members of the delegation were Henry Gannell, John J. Edson, James H. Gore, Gilbert Grosvenor and F. V. Coville.

The Geographic society has announced its intention of passing upon the question of the authenticity of the polar observations made by Peary and Cook. In response to a telegram from the society Commander Peary submitted his data, which was approved by the society. Dr. Cook, however, has declined to submit his data to the society, but intends to carry out his promise to place it first in the hands of the scientists of the University of Copenhagen.

It is now understood to be the intention of the Geographic society to send a committee to Copenhagen to ask the authorities of the university to allow them to be present during the examination of Cook's data. It is believed here that they hoped to obtain the aid of the state department in accomplishing this purpose. The department, however, has taken a position of absolute neutrality and has declined to send any instruction to the American minister at Copenhagen to aid the society in its object.

"We must be shown," was the comment of Professor Moore, president of the National Geographic society, in speaking of "other explorers" whose records are to be subjected to a rigid scientific test looking to a speedy settlement of the question of priority in the Cook and Peary claims of discovery of the Pole. Moore declared that the society and its 50,000 members will spare no expense to have this question settled.

The resolution adopted by the board in regard to Peary's feat of exploration makes no mention of Cook. It recognizes the fact that Cook says he reached the Pole prior to April 6, 1909, however, in a clause recommending to the committee on research that a sub-committee be appointed to examine the data of other persons claiming to have reached the Pole.

Cook Preparing Records

New York, Nov. 5.—Dr. Frederick A. Cook, who is here after a lecture tour in the west, has commenced to assemble the papers and reports of his polar explorations in preparation of the data which he intends to submit to the University of Copenhagen within the next few days. He declined to say anything in regard to the resolution adopted by the National Geographical society referring the question of priority at the Pole to a committee for investigation.

FORTUNE IN HUSH MONEY

Said to Have Been Peddled Out by Deposed Railroad Official

Cincinnati, Nov. 5.—In the presence of his wife and officials of the Big Four railway, C. L. Warriner, deposed local treasurer of the road, is said to have confessed that the shortage in his accounts, variously estimated at from $50,000 to $100,000, was due to his paying blackmail to a man and a woman for the last three years.

The man to whom this money was given is said to have been an old employe of the Big Four and to have had knowledge of an earlier shortage in Warriner's accounts. For keeping silent about this shortage he demanded and received from Warriner large sums.

New Engine of Destruction

Vienna, Nov. 5.—The government is inspecting an invention of Engineer Bertuch, which consists of a diminutive aerial torpedo, which can be discharged from an ordinary rifle. It is claimed that it is capable of bringing down the largest airship from any height up to 3000 feet.

MRS. MAYBRICK WINS AGAIN

Land Decision In Her Favor Affirmed by Court of Appeals

Richmond, Nov. 5.—Judgment of the lower court in the case of Abraham Acord against the Western Pocahontas Corporation, which was appealed from the United States district court of southern West Virginia, was affirmed here by the United States circuit court of appeal. This is the case in which Baroness Roques and Mrs. Florence Maybrick, her daughter, have fought so vigorously in the courts.

Under the decree of the lower court deeds conveying 2,500,000 acres of land in Virginia, West Virginia and Kentucky to D. W. Armstrong of New York, former counsel for Mrs. Maybrick and her mother, were set aside, and Armstrong was ordered to give an accounting of all lands and money handled by him while attorney for them. They employed Armstrong as their attorney to secure deed to the land shortly after the death of Mrs. Maybrick's husband, for which she served a term in British prisons. Armstrong, they charged, sold one tract for $85,000, after which he is said to have represented that the whole property, comprising 2,500,000 acres, was worth only $10,000, and bought it himself at that price. The suit has been pending eleven years.

BOLD DAYLIGHT ROBBERY

Pair of Thieves Get Away With Package Containing $14,165 In Cash

Niagara Falls, Ont., Nov. 5.—After striking William Dobson, cashier in the office of the Canadian Express company, down with a piece of iron pipe, a lone man vaulted the counter and made off with a package containing $14,165 in cash. He had a confederate who stood outside the door, and the two quickly disappeared. All efforts to locate the pair have thus far been futile.

The package contained several consignments of money from banks here to their branches in Hamilton and Toronto. It is believed the two men made a study of the situation and learned that it was customary to ship money on a train leaving here at 4:55 o'clock.

DECLINE TO STAND FOR NOMINATIONS

Boston Will Not Have an Ex-Governor For Mayor

Boston, Nov. 5.—Neither former Governor Guild nor former Governor Bates will be a candidate for the Boston mayoralty. Certain prominent men identified with Boston's business interests have thought that either one of the two ex-governors would be an admirable candidate, but neither takes kindly to the idea.

Attention is now likely to be turned to President Storrow of the chamber of commerce. By many he is considered the best and most available man, and Vice President Rothwell believes him to be the nearest approach to the ideal candidate of any man now prominently before the public.

BALM FOR WOUNDED HEART

Affections of Delaware Man's Wife Are Valued at Six Cents

Dover, Del., Nov. 5.—Suing his former business partner, Walter Shelton, for $10,000 for alienation of his wife's affections, Frank J. Collins of Smyrna was awarded 6 cents damages by the jury.

Collins charged that his former partner fell in love with his wife and gradually diverted her lawful affection to unlawful ends.

Shelton, in his defense, offered testimony that Collins had contracted ruinous habits, had become unable to support his wife, and that he had provided for his former partner's wife only when he felt it his duty under all circumstances.

Immediately after getting his verdict, Collins was arrested for non-support of his wife, but the proceedings were found to be irregular and he was released.

EXCUSED FROM JURY DUTY

Former Banker Morse Received Summons While In Tombs Prison

New York, Nov. 5.—Charles W. Morse, the former banker now a prisoner in the Tombs, was served with a notice to appear for jury duty in the United States circuit court—the court which not long ago convicted him of misapplying national bank funds.

The summons came to Morse by mail, forwarded from his house. It was explained at the United States marshal's office that the summons was sent to Morse in the usual routine and that the financier had already been excused.

Dolls Not Toys

Washington, Nov. 5.—Dolls are just dolls and not toys at all, according to a decision of the treasury department, and thereby importers are saved the difference between 5 percent and 60 percent ad valorem duty.

Death of General Coppinger

CHURCH BREACH IS WIDENED

Mrs. Stetson Is Exonerated by Committee of Inquiry

MOTHER CHURCH IS DEFIED

First Reader of New York Christian Science Church Reprimanded For "Unscientific Bias" In Proceedings Against Titular Head of Congregation—Report Accepted After Much Clamor and a Rising Count

New York, Nov. 5.—Fourteen hundred members of the First Church of Christ, Scientist, accepted last night the report of a committee of inquiry of the church governing body into the seven charges of abuse of power and malversation of doctrine which were brought against Mrs. Augusta Stetson, the titular head of the church, by the board of directors of the mother church in Boston and upon which she was admonished and forbidden further to teach or to practice as a healer in the faith.

The report absolved Mrs. Stetson upon each of the counts in the indictment of the Boston directors and severely censured Virgil O. Strickler, the first reader of the First Church in New York, for what was termed his unscientific bias against Mrs. Stetson in the whole course of proceedings against her.

After the meeting it was said by one of Strickler's partisans that never before in the history of the church founded by Mrs. Eddy had the church body of the denomination attempted to review action taken by the directors of the mother church in Boston.

The action of the congregation did not in any way alter the status of Mrs. Stetson under the rulings of the governing body of the First church of Boston, and in substance, so said this commentator, it was an act of defiance unparalleled in the history of the church.

The final decision of the congregational meeting was not reached until after the members of the church had held their pews from 2 o'clock until 3 o'clock last night. More than once partisan lines were drawn so shortly between adherents of Mrs. Stetson and those who suported the mother church and Strickler, its chief adherent in all controversies that have torn the First church, that an uproar swayed everybody in the church for minutes at a time. An effort was made to hoist Strickler from his position as chairman of the meeting, and nearly every vote that was put was attended by such clamor that a rising count had to be made. The report was passed at the end by a small majority.

Instead of bringing concord back to the congregation, Thursday's action forecasts a wider breach between the two parties in dispute. The investigating committee's report clearing Mrs. Stetson and reprimanding the first reader was accepted under the provision that the latter part of the findings be referred back to the trustees of the church for action.

Every member of the board of trustees except Mrs. Stetson, Strickler and Mrs. Susanne Thomas, the second reader, constituted the personnel of the committee of inquiry whose report censured Strickler.

BLAME PLACED ON BUOY

Had no Light or Fog Signal to Warn Steamer Hestia of Her Danger

St. John, Nov. 5.—That the neglected condition of the buoy marking Old Proprietor ledge at the entrance of the Bay of Fundy was responsible for the wrecking of steamr Hestia and the consequent loss of thirty-five lives is the charge made by Third Officer Stewart, the only surviving officer of the Hestia.

Specifically he charges that the Old Proprietor ledge buoy has neither light or fog signal, although it is listed as having both.

He states that "it is known locally that the buoy has been in this condition for months. The Hestia must have passed within a few feet of this buoy, and had it been lighted or its whistle sounding the Hestia would have been warned and easily cleared the ledges upon which she was wrecked."

Houlton, Me., Nov. 5.—Charles R. Friel, charged with the murder of his uncle, John Friel, at Amity, by shooting, and Ellis Black, charged with being an accessory, were held for the April term of the supreme court, and they were ordered committed to Houlton jail, Friel without bail.

SLUGS FRAIL ATTORNEY

Ex-Judge In Heavyweight Class Casts Dignity to the Winds

St. Louis, Nov. 5.—Former Federal Judge Henry S. Priest, who is chief counsel of the United Street Railway company of this city, struck and knocked down in court John Gilliam, attorney for J. B. Johnson, who represents many persons suing the railway for damages.

Priest, arguing for an injunction to restrain certain holders of damage claims from suing the railway separately, asserted that Gilliam at a former hearing testified that Johnson had brought three judgments against the railway for one-third their face value by advertising for them.

Gilliam arose, saying: "The record shows nothing of the kind."

"You're a liar," shouted Priest, as he struck Gilliam in the face with his fist. He struck Gilliam twice again as he lay on the floor. Other lawyers interfered. The court rebuked Priest and ordered him into custody until he apologized.

Priest said: "I humbly apologize, but I was tired of being insulted by that man." Priest is of gigantic stature and Gilliam is 60 and frail. Gilliam's left eye is closed and cut underneath, and there is a bruise on the right side of his face and his head.

Severe.

"I wish I had a fortune, I'd never paint another picture!" declared an artist to a brother of the brush.

"Well, there are lots of people who would give you one on that condition!"

QUINCY BUILT DREADNAUGHT FASTEST OF ALL.

RECORDS BROKEN BY NORTH DAKOTA

Speed of 22:25 Knots Attained by New Turbine Battleship

Rockland, Me., Nov. 5.—In her runs over a measured mile course off here for standardization purposes, the new turbine battleship North Dakota proved to be the fastest "Dreadnaught" afloat, for she reached the maximum speed of 22.25 knots an hour, but without tidal corrections, which will be slightly against her.

This is much faster time than her sister ship, the Delaware, attained in her trials off here several weeks ago, as the latter's best speed was at the rate of 21.98 knots an hour, made with reciprocating engines.

The North Dakota's average speed was at the rate of 21.833 knots an hour, showing that she can easily fulfill the contract requirements of 21 knots. The Delaware's average was 21.44 knots.

BAND OF MERCY WORK.

The November Our Dumb Animals contains a report of the address delivered at the recent National Humane Convention at St. Paul, Minn., by Guy Richardson, secretary of the Parent American Band of Mercy, who gave a brief survey of the history of the movement from the formation of the first Band of Mercy by Mrs. Catherine Smithies in England, in 1875, to the widespread interest in this country today through the establishment of the American Bands by Mr. Angell and Rev. Thomas Timmins, in 1882.

"For seven years this enterprise was carried on under the auspices of the Massachusetts S. P. C. A., but with the growing interest in other states its management was transferred to the American Humane Education Society when that organization was formed in 1889. Since then this Society has controlled and financed the American Bands of Mercy, having formed 70,000 branches during the last twenty years at a cost of about $50,000. Over $30,000 of this amount has been expended just for the outfits of literature and badges which are given free to every new Band reported, but the Society feels that this is the best investment it could have made for the humane education of our youth.

"Bands are now being organized at the rate of seven for every day in the year. Many of these are formed by our state organizer, who devotes all his time to this work in the public schools of Mass.; others are reported by teachers in schools of all kinds, by clergymen, both Protestant and Catholic, and by interested humane workers all over the country and even in foreign lands.

"Our Bands of Mercy have received the endorsement of the highest officials of the state and of the public schools. Archbishops of the Catholic church, leading college presidents, and governors of states have felt that this work was not unworthy of their notice and have approved it by signing the same pledge which is offered to the children. Only this year the mayor of one of the largest cities in New England accepted the presidency of a Band of Mercy, which already numbers over seven hundred members.

"In some towns throughout the country the formation of Bands of Mercy has aroused so much interest that it has resulted in the establishment of active humane societies for adults, which are doing much practical good in suppressing cruelty as well as in educating the children to show "kindness, justice, and mercy."

HERB DOCTOR INDICTED

Manslaughter Instead of Murder In the St. Jean Case

Taunton, Mass., Nov. 5.—An indictment for manslaughter against "Professor" rFrank L. Hill of Fall River, for having caused the death of Miss Amelia St. Jean of Woonsocket, R. I., Oct. 8, was returned by the Bristol county grand jury here.

Hill was not present, being still in the New Bedford jail, where he was taken following his arraignment at Fall River.

The fact that Hill is held for manslaughter, instead of murder, under which charge he is at present being detained, caused some surprise.

Lack of direct evidence of the committing of the crime is believed to have made necessary this change by the government. Their case, they claim, is extensive as regards circumstantial and connecting evidence, but conviction for murder would require facts more definite than those as yet at hand.

MARRIED YOUNG STUDENT

Probate Judge Appoints Conservator Over Seventy-Year-Old Bride

Hartford, Nov. 5.—Judge Marvin of the probate court appointed the Connecticut Trust and Safe Deposit company conservator over Mrs. Lucinda C. Goddard, aged 70, who a few weeks ago was married to Charles R. Goddard, 21 years old, a member of the junior class in Yale law school.

The petition for a conservator was presented by Mrs. Goddard's son, Edwin Treat. Mrs. Goddard is very wealthy.

Judge Marvin stated that, while silly actions which formed so large a part of the testimony in the trial did not necessarily betoken an inability to handle her affairs, he was "unable to escape the conclusion that her subsequent marriage gives to all these actions a different character."

YOUNGSTER A HORSE THIEF

Many Other Crimes Are Charged Against a Ten-Year-Old

Ottawa, Nov. 5.—Cyril St. Armand of Thurso, 10 years old, was sentenced to six years' imprisonment for horse stealing.

When 8 years old he was convicted of an attempt to wreck a Canadian Pacific train. His youth enabled him to escape sentence for this and a number of burglaries which followed.

The theft of a team of horses, however, proved too much for the authorities to excuse.

Banker Sent to Prison

Binghampton, N. Y., Nov. 5.—Adolphus Newton of Norwich, formerly secretary of the Chenango Cooperative Savings and Loan association, pleaded guilty to the misappropriation of the company's funds, and was sentenced to prison for not less than one year or more than twenty-two months.

HAIR RESTORER

Grew a Full Growth of Hair On a Bald Head

Here's the Proof

For two or three years my hair had been falling out and getting quite thin, until the top of my head was entirely bald. About four months ago I commenced using Sage and Sulphur. The first bottle seemed to do some good and I kept using it regularly, until now I have used four bottles. The whole top of my head is now fairly covered with hair and it keeps coming in thicker. I shall keep on using it a while longer, as I notice a constant improvement.

Forward circle, the married women's sewing circle of the Swedish Lutheran church met Thursday afternoon at the home of Mrs. J. Gustafson, at East Braintree. Many attended and refreshments were served.

Hilding Carlson, a freshman at Technology, will pull on the freshman tug of war team this afternoon in the annual interclass meet at Brookline. The freshman team generally win this event and they should with the help of "Venus" do the trick this year.

Sunday evening, at the Hall Place M. E. church, Miss Elizabeth Springham of the New England Deaconess association, will speak on the great and good work done by the Deaconesses. Every year this glorious work is presented in the Methodist churches throughout New England and each year finds the interests growing deeper and stronger.

The most important feature given by the Swedish Lutheran church this year was a pipe organ concert, held under the auspices of the Young People's society of the church, Thursday evening. Prof. Frank Wrigley, European educated artist, was the organist and Mr. Chase of Boston was the soloist. The choir also sang a number of songs.

Dr. Mockridge g"ave an informal talk to the Altar Guild of St. Chrysostom's church Thursday evening. His early recollections of the church as a boy, a student, a curate, and an ordained minister, proved most interesting to his listeners. The annual election of officers resulted as follows: Miss Gertrude Hincline, president; Mrs. A. Edwin Clattenburg, secretary; Miss Louisa Allison Ross, treasurer. The Guild voted to place two stars on the church mortgage chart.

ROOSEVELT REPORTED SHOT

Considerable Doubt About Truth of Story

There was considerable excitement in newspaper row, Boston, this noon, when an afternoon paper came out with flaming headlines with the statement that ex-President Roosevelt had been shot and was dead.

The dispatch was dated from Washington. No details were given and no verifications of the report.

A short time after another afternoon paper came out with equally flaming headlines with the statement that the report of the death of Roosevelt was a fake. Excitement however is at high pitch.

HALLOWE'EN PARTY.

A Hallowe'en party was held at the home of Miss Grace Hodge, on Town Hill Monday evening. The guests assembled at 8 o'clock, coming from all parts of Quincy.

Many Hallowe'en games were played and thoroughly enjoyed by the merry crowd. Solos were rendered by F. Nelson, D. Melrose, A. Runnells and Miss Ethel McGinnis. Refreshments consisting of ice cream, cake and candies were daintily served during the evening.

Among those present were: May McKay, Marion Matheson, Annie Wardman, Ethel McInnis, Tina McInnis, Margaret Stoop, Harriet Barry, Alice Colgan, Alice Finley, Annie Russell, May Veale, Bessie Warmington, Mabel Hodge, Grace Hodge, James Flaherty, William Beattie, Charles Daly, James Brennan, Thomas Melrose, David Melrose, Shirley Crowell, William Hodge, Edward Hodge, osepJh Daly, Charles Hodge, Ernest Hodge.

MATCH CALLED OFF.

Bull dog Clifton and Fritz Hanson were matched to wrestle Thursday night in Hibernian hall and a goodly crowd passed up their bit to see the fun. Those who came early had to wait, those who came later had to wait, and before 9 o'clock they were all waiting, but in vain for no one put in an appearance and so the match was called off. The disappointed gathering wended its homeward way sadder but wiser sports. It is a safe bet that the next time there is wrestling in Quincy the hall will have to be packed with dead heads from Missouri for they'll all want to be shown.

☞ One of the greatest treats ever given Quincy people, will take place Saturday night at Quincy Music hall. At a great expense the management have secured for the night the famous Horton Comedy Four, in their modern comedy playlet, "Just Like a Man." This company leaves to play the Keith circuit next week and it was a favor to the management that they consented to play Quincy. A new moving picture just received from Italy "Nero" or "The Burning of Rome," considered by moving picture experts to be the greatest moving picture production the world has ever seen will be shown Saturday night. In fact Music hall will open on Saturday night with a show worthy the largest audience ever seen at this house.

PIPE ORGAN CONCERT

Recital at the Swedish Lutheran Church

An organ recital was held Thursday evening at Swedish Lutheran church on Granite street, the edifice being crowded to its utmost capacity. The recital was opened by prayer by the pastor, Rev. Mr. Elvin. The pastor spoke of the purpose of the recital. He said in part, this being the 20th anniversary of the church, was celebrated by the dedication of a new organ which cost $1780, of which the church is much indebted to the generosity of that world renowned benefactor, Andrew Carnegie who contributed $800. The balance was raised by the Young People's Society of the church. The pastor called attention to the extensive alterations in the church, which were necessary on account of the new pipe organ. The pastor, in closing his remarks said that the congregation would be well entertained the balance of the evening. He remarked that no man was better qualified to produce all the beautiful strains of music than Prof. Frank Wrigley, organist of Christ (Episcopal) church.

A rich and varied program was rendered with the assistance of the following voices:

Sopranos—Miss Catherine Nelson, Miss Marie Wallin, Miss Sadie Nelson, Miss Cecelia Nelson, Miss Esther Viden, Miss Anna Viden, Mrs. Agusta Kjellberg, Miss Lillian Nelson.

Altos—Miss Lillian Carlson, Miss Erickson, Miss Elizabeth Nelson, Miss Helma Viden, Miss Ida Hallquist and Miss Alice Laddengaard.

Tenors—John F. Johnson and Nels Carlson.

Basses—C. E. Hallquist, F. O. Hallquist, E. D. Wallin, U. Youngquist, Fritz Swanson and C. O. Carlson.

The organ numbers included an overture from Handel, variations and fugue on the hymn tune "Go bury thy sorrow," specially arranged by Prof. Wrigley, a fantasia pastorale from Wely, a melody from Van Blene and closed with a grand choeur in D from Guilmant.

The church and people are to be congratulated on their grand organ, and for such an excellent concert, and prosperity in general.

AT SAILORS' HAVEN.

The Men's club Christ church entertained at Sailors' Haven, Charlestown, on Thursday evening. A party nearly 100, including club members and lady friends made the trip.

There were selections by the club orchestra, the whole audiences singing the choruses, also lively solos by Carlton DeC. Beal, three selections by Leslie W. M. Smith in full Highland costumes, singing Lauder songs. Master Joe Beal gave two numbers, the rector Rev. Richard E. Armstrong a short talk, and Henry W. French amusing stories.

These actors were introduced alternately with volunteers from the sailors present. Coffee and buns were served by the ladies and the Quincy party returned on the 11.27 train.

LIFE'S BEST DISCIPLINE

Duchess of Marlboro, In a Little Sermon, Declares That It Is Work

London, Nov. 5.—At the opening of a workingmen's chrysanthemum show in the East End, the Duchess of Marlboro delivered a short address, contending that the elevation of mankind could only be attained by hard work, not flowery oratory.

"There are a lot of people nowadays," said the duchess, "who go around talking and indulging in beautiful, wordy pictures of what the world might be like, and what they would make it if they had the power. They talk so much and so well, sometimes, that people begin to think they are really heralds of some wonderful millennium, when men will not allow the mto be present during the be men, when governments will be perfect, when all that is impossible will suddenly become possible."

The duchess said she believed in the sound judgment of workingmen and did not believe that they could be hoodwinked in that way. "Life's best discipline," she declared, "is work."

BRUTAL TRIPLE MURDER

Farm Hand Makes an Effort to Wipe Out Whole Family

Ogdensburg, N. Y., Nov. 5.—There is great excitement in the village of Quill Lake, Canada, over the murder of George Thorburn, a farmer, his wife and his wife's mother, by a hired man, a Hungarian named Mecc. Thorburn was shot and his body thrown into the cellar. The body of Mrs. Thorburn was found in the brush near their home and the body of Mrs. Thorburn's mother is believed to be in a well.

The 8-year-old daughter of Thorburn hid in an oven and escaped the monster's clutches. His 10-year-old son was clubbed into unconsciousness, but is still alive.

Posses went out in all directions and the murderer was arrested at Wynward. He admits his guilt. The reason for the triple murder is unknown as yet.

Behind the Wicket

NEW MASTER RURAL LODGE

Albert M. Parker Honored by the Brethren

The annual communication of Rural lodge on Thursday evening was the occasion of a large attendance of the members of the lodge to elect officers and listen to the reports of officers.

The reports showed several payments from the charity fund, but a larger balance than a year ago. The general fund was so large that it was voted to establish a permanent fund, and a good sum was transferred to that fund. The lodge is looking forward to a Masonic Temple in Quincy before many years.

The report of the secretary showed an increase in membership during the year, Rural lodge being one of the largest societies in Quincy. During the year there were two deaths, Past Master Frederick L. Jones and Bro. William Walter Ewell. Resolutions were adopted on the recent death of the latter.

Worshipful Master Charles Sampson declined a reelection, and the following officers were elected without contests:

W. M.—Albert M. Parker.
S. W—Frank A. Reed.
J. W.—H. Everett Crane.
Secretary—Walter E. Simmons.
Treasurer—Alexander Falconer.
Trustee of Charity Board for three years Wor. Joseph L. Whiton.
Trustee of Permanent Fund for three years—H. Everett Crane.

It was voted to have a public installation of the officers elect at an early day. Refreshments were served by Caterer Henry P. Furnald.

The annual visitation of Rt. Wor. Herbert F. French, D. D. G. M., of the 24th Masonic district to Wollaston lodge on Tuesday evening was the occasion of a large attendance of Masons, not only the brethren of Wollaston lodge, but from many of the lodges throughout the commonwealth as well as from other states. After the visitation the M. W. degrees was exemplified by Wor. Walter S. Pinkham and officers of Wollaston lodge. Wollaston lodge has grown rapidly during the past year, and there is work at every communication. Visitors always receive a cordial welcome.

D. D. S. K. Charles J. Brady will work the third degree for Dorchester council, Nov. 19.

Quincy council, Knights of Columbus, will have a strong team in the bowling league of councils in the immediate vicinity.

Cornelius M. Duggan, H. S. C., paid an official visit to Fr. Thayer court, M. C. O. F., of Boston on Wednesday evening.

St. Gregory court, M. C. O. F., of Milton, initiated seven candidates Tuesday evening.

Angelus court M. C. O. F., of Milton, will hold a whist party, Nov. 15.

Dr. John C. Frasier gave Weymouth Council, Knights of Columbus, a smoke talk Thursday evening. On Nov. 30 Daniel M. O'Brien, D. D. S. K., will work the third degree on a large class of candidates.

The regular meeting of Maple lodge, Knights and Ladies of Honor, was held this week. After the business of the evening the members enjoyed a bowling match. The first prize, an apron, went to Jane M. Keating, and the second, a scarf pin, to Horace W. Totman.

George L. Gill Rebekah lodge will hold a harvest supper at Odd Fellows' hall next Thursday evening. A good attendance of members is expected. The lodge will also hold a dance Nov. 17.

A nest of the order of Owls was instituted in Boston Sunday with 311 members.

Dorothy Q. lodge, United Order of Odd Ladies, are to hold a barn dance at Brasee's hall this week.

Quincy L. O. L. lodge hae several candidates for the degree at the regular meeting of the lodge next Tuesday evening.

Col. Abner B. Packard camp, Sons of Veterans, have several candidates to be mustered in at the regular meeting of the camp tonight.

The regular meeting of Quincy lodge of Elks will be held next Tuesday evening. There are several candidates for initiation.

The Soldiers' Home committee of Corps 103, Mrs. Edith B. Wolfe, chairman, visited the home Wednesday with fruit, jelly, tobacco and reading matter.

The work of Corps 103 will be inspected by Mrs. Abbie E. Copeland on Tuesday afternoon, Nov. 9.

St. Francis and St. Ambrose courts, M. C. O. F., will hold a social Monday evening, Nov. 20.

The Henry H. Faxon Memorial lodge, No. 159, of the International Order of Good Templars, elected the following officers at their regular meeting in Poland's hall, Norfolk Downs, Wednesday evening: Chief Templar, Arthur R. Poquett; Vice Templar, Miss May E. Young; secretary, Miss Marion Moffatt; Marshall, Miss Marion Adams; treasurer, John F. Sutherburg; financial secretary, Miss Lillian Adams; registrar, Miss Annie McCarty; pianist, Marguerite Louise Holbrook. On account of the condition of Music hall, the lodge will hereafter meet in Poland's hall. A public installation of officers will be held on Wednesday evening, Nov. 17.

GOOD PROGRESS ON NEW HOSPITAL WARD

Provides Special Apartments for Women and Greatly Increases Accommodations

The announcement that the annual Hospital week collection will be taken this year the week beginning Nov. 14, brings to mind that since the last collection there has been quite a change at that "little institution on the hill," for the new ward erected through the generosity of the late Hon. William B. Rice is nearly completed. The ward which it is expected will be ready for occupancy early in January is now in such a condition as to give a visitor a very good idea of how complete it is to be.

The new ward will cost complete in the vicinity of $25,000. The architect of the building is Edward F. Stevens of Boston, a man who has had a wide reputation in hospital work, and who says that no hospital has a better arranged ward than this will be. The contractor of the building is E. H. Sears, and he promises to deliver the building complete within the time specified in the contract, namely January 1.

The new ward is on the southeast corner of the main hospital, and is of brick and granite. Its dimensions are, including the sun room on the southwest side, 85 feet 10 inches by 36 feet 4 inches. It is connected with the main building by an inclosed corridor 50 feet long built on an incline so that an invalid's carriage or chair can be easily moved from the main building to the new ward.

The first floor of the ward is to be used exclusively for women. At the extreme southerly end is the main ward room which is large enough for ten beds. This room is high studied and well lighted, and has an entrance leading to the sun room. From this sun room is an inclined run to the ground, so that patients can be readily wheeled to the lawn. At each bed there is a cord and push button. When a patient desires the attendance of a nurse all that is necessary is to press the button which lights a red light over the bed. This light cannot be extinguished by the nurse except by a visit to the bed where the button was pressed.

Leading to this room is a broad corridor, on either side of which are small rooms, namely the nurses room, utility and linen room, doctors' room and toilet rooms, while on the opposite side are, a patients' clothing room, a toilet and bath room for patients, the latter so arranged that the bath tub sets in the centre of the room, that the attending nurse can go on all sides of the tub. There is also a diet kitchen where the food for patients is prepared, and a serving room, also a room known as an isolating room for patients.

On the second floor is what is known as the private ward. A wide corridor runs the whole length of the upper floor from which doors lead to the rooms, of which there are eleven, each being about 9 by 12 feet. Each room has one large window while the end rooms have two windows which open onto a sun balcony. From this balcony an iron fire escape stairway leads to the ground.

In addition to the private rooms for patients there are the toilet, bath, diet, and linen rooms the same as on the first floor. Each of these private rooms will be simply furnished with a bureau, chair and table. There is also in each room a small closet.

Over each door there is a little red light which is lighted by the patient by the pressure of a bulb that rests on the bed. This light once lighted cannot b extinguished with out a visit to the patient's bedside.

In the basement is the kitchen with a sub corridor leading to the main hospital kitchen. Food is cooked in the main kitchen and taken by this sub passage to the kitchen in the new ward, where it is prepared and transported to the upper floors by a dumb waiter. There is also a large elevator running from the basement to the upper floor. This elevator is of sufficient size to accommodate a bed so that patients can be easily moved from one floor to another.

A very elaborate system of ventilation has been installed by which fresh air, heated to the right temperature, enters each room. Another very noticeable thing in the new ward is the absence of square corners. These square corners are said to be great dust catchers and to avoid this all corners are round. Ample light is furnished the upper corridor by a large sky light.

The ward will be heated from the new heating plant, erected some months ago, which is situated on the Whitwell street side of the hospital. It was the erection of this heating plant that occasioned in a great measure the debt of $7,000 which the hospital now has. It is the intention of the trustees another year to regrade the grounds and make them more attractive.

Of course a nurses' home is sadly needed at the hospital and it is hoped that this will come in the very near future.

BATTLESHIP ACCIDENT.

The accident to the North Dakota is regretted as the battleship up to that time had exceeded the government requirements. Medical Examiner Jones of Quincy was one of those aboard the battleship on her trial trip and he rendered first aid to the injured men.

These included William H. Grange, a water tender; John Souden, a coal passer; A. Peterson and Peter McConnell, firemen. These were the four whose injuries were the most serious.

Souden was badly scalded, and suffered intensely. It was reported at noon at the navy yard at Portsmouth where the men were taken, that they would probably all recover. There were twelve other men who received burns but their injuries were so slight that they did not have to give up work.

The battleship left the Portsmouth navy yard this morning and is now at sea making a 24 hour run at 12 knots.

CIVIC PROBLEMS.

Beginning Sunday evening a series of four addresses will be given at Bethany Congregational church which should interest the people generally The first subject will be "Quincy's three imperative needs," to be given by the pastor Rev. Edwin N. Hardy, Ph. D., Many will want to know just what Dr. Hardy considers the most important.

A week later the subject will be: "The best man in Quincy." Judge Albert E. Avery will deliver the third on Nov. 21, or the subject, "The riches of the Commonwealth." The speaker is not announced for the last of the four, but the subject will be: "The mightiest force in municipal life." A fine musical service each evening.

—Out in Princeton, Ind., the other day two candidates for the city treasurership discovered after several weeks of an exciting contest for the place that the last Legislature had abolished the office. As neither of the candidates had indorsed the other for the position perhaps this was just as well.—Christian Science Monitor.

Over $3,000 more was added to the Y. M. C. A., $25,000 campaign fund as a result of the work of the several teams on Friday, swelling the grand total to $11,136.75 nearly half of the amount necessary. The minute hand on the clock now points nearly to the half hour and by night it should be on the upward climb. This will enable the workers, as Mr. Sedgwick said, to get under it and boost it up.

Fridaywas the first day the boys' committees were let loose and they proved to the men's teams that they were hustlers, for they succeeded in securing pledges amounting to $206, as follows:

Team A.	$40.00
Team B.	53.50
Team C	21.00
Team D	65.50
	$206.00

There was great enthusiasm when the reports of the different teams were made and a new slogan was adopted for today, that is W—O—R—K. This will be the cry today, and every one will do their uttermost to push that hand along toward the desired goal.

The several teams and committees met at 6 o'clock for a conference and there was a great movement among the different captains getting the result of the day's work in shape ready to report at 7 o'clock.

At 6.30 Secretary Gay announced that it was time to be getting down to the supper table as they were already. No second invitation was necessary. Mrs. Stephen B. Wiley of Wollaston was in charge of the supper and was assisted by a number of ladies. The menu included escalloped oysters, potato chips, cold ham and tongue, coffee, rolls, pie and fruit.

Promptly at 7 o'clock Chairman Sedgwick called for reports. First, however, he wanted captains to get their teams here every night. There are too many vacant places at the tables. Bring your friends also. Saturday is a half holiday with many, and you want to work. He wanted to see the biggest day yet. He then called for reports commencing with the boys' teams.

Captain George Newcomb of Team A was the first, and as he announced $40 as the result of the day's work there was great applause. This same applause greeted every captain as one after another told the amounts. Captain Matthew Nicol of Team B announced $53.50, Captain Charles Grassick of Team C $21.00, Captain D. Craig of Team D $65.50. Captain E. Wetheral of Team E $26.00, a grand total of $206.00.

Prolonged applause and cries of good work followed these reports. Then came the Men's teams.

Captain W. H. Shaw of Team 1 said he had been busy all day getting signs ready but had managed to gather in $135.

Captain W. F. Cummings of Team 2 had but little to offer other than to state the result of his team work was $161.

Captain A. N. Murray of Team 3 did not do quite as well as expected, but he had $83.

Captain W. G. Shaw of Team 1 said he had been writing letters to some non residents. He had received but one reply and that enclosed $50. His total for the day was $136.

There was applause as Mr. Sedgwick called upon John L. Miller for a report of Team 5. Captain Miller began be reading the small pledges: one for $1, three for $5, four for $10, one for $15, and two for $50, and so on, the grand total being $296.

Captain George A. Sidelinger of Team 6 had not been idle. He had used an automobile and had gathered in $241.

Captain A. B. Cassidy of Team 7 had received a number of small contributions and some not quite so small. The total was $259.25.

Captain C. T. Sherman of Team 8 said his workers had secured $109.

Captain H. Everett Crane said he had been looking up some men at South Quincy that Captain Miller did not dare to go to. He had the pleasure of meeting a friend in the chamber of Commerce who asked him about the campaign in Quincy. His friend said that he was interested in the work and wanted to help. He gave me $10. On the way down in the elevator, I met my friend's father whom I told of our campaign. When he heard what his son gave he said he would double it. This prompted some one in the audience to ask if there were any more in the family. Captain Crane's total for the day was $105.

Captain T. B. Pollard of team 10 reported collections amounting to $70.50.

The Citizens committee reported through Theophilus King. He said he thought Friday would be a dull day, but it was not. What we want is to get the people full of the enthusiasm disease. He reported a grand total of $1,260 for his committee, which included four of $100, one of $200 and one of $500.

Mr. Sedgwick announced the grand total as $11,136.75.

Secretary Gay spoke briefly of what Newton was doing $27,000 having been pledged the first day.

Then the teams left the dining hall to plan for the work of Saturday which is expected to be a good one. Before adjourning Mr. Sedgwick had a good word to say for the way the local papers were helping.

OCEAN CABLES ARE KEPT BUSY

No Light on Rumors of Death of Theodore Roosevelt

ARE GENERALLY DISCREDITED

Believed to Have Come First From Wall Street With a View to Affecting Stocks—Friends of Ex-President Have Received No Word of Accident—Hunting Party Supposed to Be on the Guas Ngishu Plateau

Washington, Nov. 6.—Official government circles continue in a state of tense excitement as a result of the rumor spread broadcast that ex-President Roosevent had met his death in South Africa.

Officials of cable companies deny that any message has been received in this country concerning the ex-president and no one knows where the rumor started.

It is reported to have come first from Wall street, and in a moment government business was virtually suspended. Frantic messages were sent to South African consuls, newspapers got out extras, and for a while it seemed as though the whole nation waited.

The feeling of unrest has not been wholly relieved by the denials of friends that Roosevelt is alive, for no direct information has yet been received from him or any of his party to finally set at rest the reports of his death that hourly continue to grow momentous in the light of no word from him.

President Taft wired the state department asking a confirmation or denial of the report and instructed the federal authorities to at once cable the United States consuls and foreign officers for information.

The East African department of the colonial office of the British government was communicated with and requested to investigate the alarming rumor.

The report of Roosevelt's death originated in this city. It was telegraphed all over the country in an incredibly short space of time. Newspaper extras and the bulletins flashed the news, everywhere, and its effect on the stock markets of the country for a time threatened another "Black Friday." In New York Douglas Robinson, brother-in-law of ex-President Roosevelt, wired that he heard from the ex-president a few days ago and that the latter was then well.

Lyman Abbott, editor of The Outlook, said that he has heard nothing that would tend to substantiate the rumor, and that he places no confidence in it.

At the Smithsonian Institution not the slightest word of any accident had been received.

Unless the plans of the party have changed, Roosevelt should be now on the Guas Ngishu Plateau. He left Loniani with several companions on Oct. 26, arriving at Aldama Ravine on the following day. The last word from his immediate party was from Aldama Ravine and was received in this country by way of Nairobi on Oct. 27. At that time the party was preparing to proceed immediately for Guas Ngishu Plateau. It was planned to return to Londiani in five weeks.

The Guas Ngishu Plateau is a vast open plain in the north of Kisumu Province. It is covered with grass and fringed on all sides with trees. It affords some of the best grazing lands in the British protectorate and is a hunting ground the visit to which had been eagerly anticipated by Roosevelt.

The direct route had not been determined so far as is known when the party left Aldama Ravine, but working westward by the most likely path the party would in a very few days be at Nandi Boma, which is a British military station. News of their arrival at this point might be possible through native runners in the employ of the British military authorities. In this way news might be available, but nothing has been rceived so far as known through these channels.

New York financiers did not hesitate to say that the report of the ex-president's death was the deliberate attempt of some conspirator to upset the stock market regardless of the sentimental effect such a rumor might have on the people of the country at large.

No effort is being spared by the department of state to run down the reports. The ocean cables have been kept busy from the start, but so far with no result in obtaining anything like a definite denial of the truth of the rumor.

Mrs. Astor Granted Divorce?

New York, Nov. 6.—It is reported that Referee Young, who was appointed to take testimony in the suit for divorce brought by Mrs. John Jacob Astor, has recommended a decree in her favor. Young will neither deny or affirm the report.

Boston Firm Gets Big Contract

Washington, Nov. 6.—The navy department awarded to Holbrook, Cabot & Rollins of Boston the contract for completing drydock No. 4 at the Brooklyn navy yard. The work involves an expenditure of over $1,000,000.

CASHIER SHOT BY ROBBERS

Desperadoes Who Tried to Secure $3000 Are Taken Into Custody

Halifax, Nov. 6.—Highwaymen nearly murdered Cashier George Foote of the Dartmouth Rope Works in a desperate attempt to secure $3000 he had in his possession. With a bullet through his face and covered with blood, the cashier drove up to the company's office after an exciting encounter with masked men.

While driving towards the rope works with the monthly pay of the employes three men leaped out from bushes at the side of the road and ordered Foote to halt.

The driver whipped his horse into a gallop and the wagon sped down the road. Bullets whizzed after it and Foote was hit in the cheek. The men fled to the woods, but were later placed in custody. They gave their names as Herbert Hassett and Charles Gallagher, belonging in Malden, Mass.

TAFT IN CHARLESTON

Accident to Two Men Mars President's Visit to Savannah

Charleston, Nov. 6.—Charleston, like other cities of the south, gave President Taft a flattering welcome. The president arrived here last evening, reviewed a military parade, held a reception and attended a banquet.

Senator Tillman greeted the president at the feast last night and had a place near Taft at the speakers' table. This is the first presidential banquet that the senator has participated in for a long time.

The president's stay in Savannah yesterday was marred by an accident to two men who were firing a salute in his honor. There was a premature explosion of the charge and one man had an arm blown off and another lost an eye. The president witnessed the accident, being only a short distance from the cannon.

MATRIMONIAL KNOT MUST REMAIN TIED

Queer Story Told In Court In a Suit For Divorce

New York, Nov. 6.—Declaring that the testimony was altogether unsatisfactory, Justice Thomas, in the supreme court, dismissed the complaint in the suit for annulment of the marriage of Robert and Grace Welcker, performed by Rev. William Hamilton of the Methodist Episcopal church on Nov. 14, 1904.

Allegations were made that all the parties to the ceremony were under the influence of wine at the time and that it was the result of a more or less drunken frolic. They thought it would be a great joke.

The defendant, who was Grace Welcker, it was charged in the co[m]plaint, had been married before same minister only a few months fore to Alfred Doyle.

Then when the second marriage with Welcker was arranged, Doyle, it was said, agreed to act as the best man at the ceremony and actually did so, taking the name of Joseph D. Graham.

Welcker says that after he found out that his wife was already the wife of another man, he brought the suit for an annulment.

BOSTON'S TONG RIOTS

Attorney Declares That Two Condemned Chinamen Are Innocent

Boston, Nov. 6.—Attorney Julian C. Woodman told members of the governor's council yesterday afternoon that not only were Warry Charles and Joe Guey guiltless of articipation in the tong riots, for which three Chinamen were recently electrocuted, but that he knew the names of all the Chinamen who did the shooting. Woodman made his statement after several witnesses had said that they were bribed to testify against the accused men.

Attorney Pratt promised to show that Charles and Guey were "marked for death." "I want to say," said Pratt, "that there is existing in Boston a system of peonage far greater and far more reaching than any peonage in the south."

DREAM WAS HIGH TREASON

Servia to Prosecute a Bishop For Relating His Vision

Vienna, Nov. 6.—Dispatches from Belgrade say that Bisop Nikador of Nish, Servia, is to be tried for high treason for an unfortunate dream, in which he saw a revolution in Belgrade, the deposition of King Peter and the proclaiming as king of the former Crown Prince George.

The bishop told of his vision to some friends and finally it reached the ears of the government.

Commons Turns Down Lords

London, Nov. 6.—By a vote of 219 to 54 the house of commons refused to agree to the house of lords' amendments to the Irish land bill. Efforts will be made to arrange a compromise between the two houses of parliament.

New Governor of Porto Rico

San Juan, P. R., Nov. 6.—Colonel G. L. Colton was inaugurated governor of Porto Rico today, in succession to Regis H. Post.

MME. STEINHEIL A GOOD ACTRESS

She Is Thus Considered by Experienced Court Reporters

BAFFLES JUDGE AND POLICE

Court "Trembles at Notion of Possible Judicial Error"—Dramatic Entrance Into Proceedings of Young Man Who Proclaims Himself an Accomplice In the Murder of Woman's Husband and Stepmother

Paris, Nov. 5.—Mme. Marguerite Steinheil, whose examination on the charge of having murdered her husband, Adolphe, and her stepmother, was continued in the assize court, made a wonderful singlehanded fight for her life, displaying as much skill in confounding the judge as she had in baffling the police.

When caught in the meshwork of conflicting stories previously told she had recourse to tears or with uplifted eyes and arms extended made fervent appeals to the jury. The most experienced court reporters in France consider Mme. Steinheil the most consummate actress who has ever appeared before the bar of justice.

Mme. Steinheil withstood the torturing inquisition and the relentless baiting of Judge Valles without being driven to make any damning admissions nor any modification of her version of the crime of which she is accused.

It is worth noting, however, that for many Frenchmen, when the judge shows himself relentlessly severe, as Judge Valles is doing in the present case, it is a signal that he wishes a favorable verdict for the prisoner, for his severity always reacts on the jury and public greatly to the benefit of the accused.

The words uttered by Valles: "Like everybody else, I tremble at the notion of possible judicial error," has been much commented upon.

The name of the late President Faure was introduced yesterday by the judge. Referring to two cards found on the Metropolitan railway, one for an exhibition of Steinheil's pictures and the other a visiting card of Mme. Maseline, who, the judge said, "painted a portrait of Faure, and in whose house you first met the president." To this Mme. Steinheil replied: "No. I met the president in the Alps."

The flippant tone of one of her replies struck the audience. The judge had been questioning her about sending away a watchdog just before the crime was committed. She denied ever saying that it was because the dog had a bad odor, declaring it was because the dog had spoiled some of her pictures.

"Then," said the judge, "we will leave the subject of the dog."

"I, too, think that is quite enough about an ill-smelling dog," retorted the accused.

A new sensation was added to the trial when M. Aubin, the prisoner's attorney, suddenly interrupted the proceedings to present a letter just received by him and signed "Jean Le Fevre," in which the writer stated that he wished to confess participation in the murders of which Mme. Steinheil is accused.

Immediately after reading the letter the attorney suddenly and dramatically introduced the writer. He proved to be a man of about 21 years. Amid the greatest excitement he demanded a hearing.

Refusing to reply to the preliminary inquiries as to his profession and domicile, the man shouted that he had been an accomplice in the assassination of Adolphe Steinheil and Mme. Japy. As the audience hushed into silence Le Fevre continued:

"I was an accomplice in the assasination at the home of Mme. Steinheil. Filled with remorse, I wish now to confess my part in the crimes. I was disguised as a woman and wore a wig of red hair. My accomplices wore long cloaks. We committed the murders and then escaped to the forest at Montmorency, where we burned our disguises."

The voluntary prisoner said that after destroying the immediate evidences of their crime, he and his companions escaped from the country, going abroad. One of his friends had since died, he said. Mme. Steinheil confronted Le Fevre, but said that she was unable to recognize him as one of the murderers whom she had described. Judge Valles ordered that Le Fevre be placed under arrest pending an investigation of his statement. At the same time the court warned the jury that this dramatic episode might prove to have been another attempt to baffle justice.

On further examination before a magistrate, Le Fevre said that his name is Rene Collard and that he is an actor. He admitted that he had not the slightest connection with the crime and had merely acted on chivalrous impulse to save Mme. Steinheil, of whose innocence he was convinced. He was ordered detained, pending verification of his identity.

WEYLER'S WARNING

Will Tolerate No Insults to Spain or to Her Army

Barcelona, Nov. 6.—General Cipriano Weyler has arrived here to assume the governor generalship of Catalona, to which he was lately appointed.

GENERAL WEYLER.

In addressing his official staff he said he hoped, with an olive branch in one hand and the military code in the other, to restore tranquility. On two points he would be inexorable. He would tolerate no insults to Spain and no insults to the army.

ACCIDENT MARS ENDURANCE TEST

Sixteen Men Injured, Four Seriously, on New Battleship

Portsmouth, N. H., Nov. 6.—Four men were severely scalded and twelve others were injured to a lesser extent through the bursting of a tube in one of the boilers on the new turbine battleship North Dakota, during her four-hour endurance run at top speed yesterday afternoon. The four who were most scalded were brought here and taken to the naval hospital. It is thought that they will all recover, but it is feared that John Souden, a coal passer, may lose his eyesight. The other twelve men remained on board the battleship, their hurts being treated by physicians who were on the ship.

The North Dakota passed her four-hour speed test successfully, although the accident caused the steam to be cut down so that she just made her required speed of 21 knots during the last hour of her run, which was toward this port because of an anxiety to get the injured men into the hospital as soon as possible.

KEEPS HIS MOUSTACHE

Former Vice President Fairbanks Has Discarded His Chin Foliage

Washington, Nov. 6.—Charles W. Fairbanks, former vice president of the United States, has shaved off his whiskers. Photographs of Fairbanks, taken in Japan and just received here, show that he has discarded his chin beard which he wore for so long. The deed was committed after he left this country for the Orient. Fairbanks retained his moustache.

Photographs showing the change in Fairbanks' face are in demand. They show Fairbanks in the familiar frock coat, but the soft white Fedora hat has been discarded for a silk top hat. In all the photographs soldiers are saluting and officials are bowing low.

While the photographs are too small to give a clear idea of Fairbanks' long concealed chin, it appears to be firm and well formed and worthy of exhibition to the world.

CLERKS WILL NOT STRIKE

Differences With the New Haven Road Are Amicably Adjusted

New Haven, Nov. 6.—According to an announcement made by the officials of the New Haven road the differences bewteen the clerks and the railroad company have been adjusted to the satisfaction of all concerned, after a long conference between General Manager Higgins and representatives of the clerks.

It is stated that President Mellen was finally called in and further concessions were made by both sides. It is believed that the new minimum daily scale is about $1.85. Mellen has promised to adjust irksome conditions.

Cummings and Lombard Indicted

Cambridge, Mass., Nov. 6.—The Middlesex county grand jury returned two indictments against Charles S. Cummings of the American Banking company of Boston, one for larceny and the other for uttering, and one against John B. Lombard, former treasurer of Framingham, charging forgery. Cummings, it is alleged, uttered the notes on the town of Framingham which, it is claimed, Lombard forged.

Boy Killed In Freight Elevator

Worcester, Mass., Nov. 6.—Harold Bond, 12 years of age, was almost instantly killed by a freight elevator in the Taylor building. The boy was fooling with the rope.

The Scrap Book

Breaking It Gently.

Pat had been delegated by his fellow employees to tell Mrs. Casey the news of her husband's accidental death. On the way to the Casey home Pat pondered on how to break the news to the widow. Finally he hit on what to him seemed a most humane way of preparing Mrs. Casey for the sad news.

Knowing the violent hatred which Mrs. Casey as well as all loyal Irishmen have for the A. P. A., he said on greeting the woman:

"Ah, Mrs. Casey, it is sad news I have to bring you. Your husband, Mike, has turned an A. P. A."

"Mike turned A. P. A.! The scoundrel, I hope he is dead."

"He is," answered Pat.

No Returning.

Remember, three things come not back!
The arrow sent upon its track—
It will not swerve, it will not stay
Its speed; it flies to wound or slay.
The spoken word, so soon forgot
By thee, but it has perished not;
In other hearts 'tis living still
And doing work for good or ill,
And the lost opportunity
That cometh back no more to thee.
In vain thou weepest, in vain dost yearn.
Those three will nevermore return.
—From the Arabic.

The Senator's Ticket.

A newly elected senator was on his way to Washington. He was thinking great things when the conductor came into the car with his characteristic "Have your tickets ready." The senator began to fumble in one pocket, then another. When the conductor came to him he was still looking for the ticket.

"Did you have it when you got on?" inquired the conductor, somewhat impatiently.

"Of course I did. This isn't my first trip."

"Then you couldn't have lost it."

"Couldn't have lost it?" replied the irate politician. "H—l, I lost a bass drum once."—Lippincott's.

To the Egress.

When P. T. Barnum wanted to get rid of a crowd that was lingering too long at the show he would have a big sign, "To the Egress," put up at one of the side doors. Immediately there would be a rush that way, and, hurrying to see that rare beast, the "egress," the crowd found itself outside the tent.

What Byron Thought.

Lord Byron, who was supposed to be a callous sort of person in so far as caring for the world's verdict was concerned, is said to have been completely wretched at the first production of his play, "Dearer Than Life."

It was at this performance that a long delay occurred at the end of the second act, filling the audience with impatience and the distinguished author with dread.

"What in the name of heaven can they be doing back there?" asked a critic, meeting Byron in the lobby of the theater trying to calm his troubled spirit by walking nervously about.

"I don't know," moaned the poet, with a melancholy gesture of despair.

A moment later the sound of a saw at work behind the curtain was heard, and the critic, returning to the playwright's side, inquired:

"And what do you imagine that to be, my lord?"

Byron's sense of humor came to his rescue instantly.

"I think," he said, "they must be cutting out the last act."

A Crusher.

During the encampment of several regiments of British soldiers in a certain district the wood and turf used for cooking purposes were carted by the neighboring farmers. One day a donkey cart full of turf was brought in, the driver being a country lad. As a regimental band was playing, he stood in front of the donkey and held the animal tightly by the head. Some of the "smart ones" gathered round, highly pleased, and the wit of the party asked why he "held his brother so tightly." The reply was crushing: "I'm afraid he might enlist."

What You Are Doing.

Where you are is of no moment, but only what you are doing there. It is not the place that ennobles you, but you the place, and this only by doing that which is great and noble.—Petrarch.

An Afterthought.

A filthy fellow applied for a position as porter with a large concern where help was badly needed. The manager looked him over doubtfully. Finally he handed him a half dollar.

"Go uptown and take a bath," he told him. "Then come back and maybe I'll be able to take you on."

The fellow started for the door.

"And, oh, by the way," the manager called after him, "if there's any change left take another bath."

Fitted Too Well.

A clergyman in an interior town married a woman from whom he received a dowry of $10,000 and a prospect of more. Shortly afterward, while occupying the pulpit, he gave out a hymn, read the first verse and proceeded to read the fifth, commencing, "Forever let my grateful heart;" then he hesitated and exclaimed, "The choir will omit the fifth verse." Some of the congregation read the verse for themselves and smiled as they read:

Forever let my grateful heart
His boundless grace adore,
Which gives ten thousand blessings now
And bids me hope for more.

DRUG DREAMS.

Queer Visions Conjured Up In the Brains of Daring Experimenters.

An experimenter with the Mexican drug mescal is rewarded by many and varied visions. Before him flit myriads of dainty butterfly forms, glistening, iridescent, fibrous wings of insects, revolving vessels on whose highly polished concave surface of mother-of-pearl many strange and vivid hues play. There are elaborate sweetmeats in endless and appetizing variety and living arabesques of gorgeous hues and superhuman design.

He may take up a pen for the purpose of making notes, but will find himself unable to use it. A pencil, however, proves easy of manipulation. As he writes his paper is covered with a soft golden light, and his hands, seen indirectly, appear bronzed, scaled, fantastically pigmented and flushed with red.

Tiring of the visions, he may light the gas, which immediately fills the room with a glorious radiance, while wonderfully colored shadows of red, green and violet flit here and there. Generally, it is said, no feeling of depression or physical discomfort follows the dream.

A medical experimenter in Kentucky soon after taking a large dose of hasheesh began to feel very excited; a feeling of inner joyousness possessed him; all fatigue seemed banished forever, and his mind ran riot, one bizarre idea after another rapidly passing through his mind. Later his brain appeared to split in two parts, one of which urged him to the performance of comic gestures, while the other as insistently hinted at impending death and suggested restraint and instant medical advice.

While waiting for a doctor he experienced alternate spells of lucidity and periods when all connections between himself and the outside world seemed to be severed, when a chaos of disjointed ideas and wild reveries obsessed him. The duration of these latter periods was never longer than two minutes, but each seemed an eternity. It appeared a hopeless task to follow the minute hand of his watch during its infinite round; long before the sixty seconds had elapsed he gave up the stupendous task in deep despair. The departure of the doctor synchronized with the return of the feeling of impending death, now most horribly intense.

He imagined himself surrounded by grotesque, menacing, cruel visaged monsters. He felt himself expanding, dilating, dissolving into space, as he ascended steep precipices, covered with Brobdignagian creatures somewhat like lizards, overhanging enormous abysses, the while he was overwhelmed by a horrible, rending, unutterable despair.—Detroit News-Tribune.

MAKING GOLD LEAF.

The Metal Is Beaten For Hours by Men, Then Finished by Girls.

In one of the downtown business streets may be seen sticking from one of the upper windows a massive arm and hand, the hand grasping a huge hammer and the whole sign gilded. It is the sign of the gold beaters' establishment, where thousands of the gold sheets are turned out after having been packed by girls.

Gold leaf is packed more by the aid of the breath than by the hands. The operation of transferring a sheet of almost transparent gold leaf from one place to another is so delicate that it is possible to do it only by a light puff of the breath. It takes most girls six weeks to acquire this knack, and some girls are never able to acquire it.

The gold reaches the beaters first in wide bars or nuggets and has to be weighed, melted and made into inch wide ribbons before anything else is done. The ribbon is then cut into inch squares and beaten with a hammer wielded by a man. When each leaf has been beaten thin it is transferred to a mold, where it is beaten four hours more. The beating is done with a wooden hammer weighing from seven to eighteen pounds, on a sheepskin cushion, which rests on a granite block. The gold used for beating is usually 22 or 23 carats fine. A little alloy of copper or silver is added to make it spread. It would be impossible, the beaters say, to handle perfectly pure gold.

After the gold has been beaten it is handed over to the girls, who lift the unshaped leaf from the mold with a pair of wooden pinchers, flatten it out on a sheepskin cushion by gently blowing on it, cut it to a perfect square, replace it between the leaves of the book and flatten it out with the breath.

There are twenty-five leaves in a book, and a skilled girl can pack seventy books in a day, for which she gets from 2½ to 3 cents a book.—New York Times.

Logical Result.

On the notice board of a church near Manchester the other day the following announcements appeared together: A potato pie supper will be held on Saturday evening. Subject for Sunday evening, "A Night of Agony."—Manchester Guardian.

In Later Years.

"We," remarked the young married woman, "try to see how few quarrels we can have in a year."

"We," said the old married woman, "try to see how few cooks."—Louisville Courier-Journal.

ARTS OF HOUSEKEEPING.

Unquestionably the school has drawn the interest in the child from the home, and consequently his sense of responsibility and relationship, developed through daily cooperation in family life, has been lost. How may this same school reestablish the importance of home and home duties? The American school is a product of the hurry of the age. There is a subconsciousness that the world is revolving faster, and that inventions and discoveries must be grasped before they slip away.

It is pertinent to ask the parents what they are doing as their share. They do recognize it as their right to feed, clothe, and house their offspring. They may or may not teach morals and manners, but all expect their young people to be turned out to take part in the life about them.

Shall the school do the work of the home in this matter of morals and manners as well as its own work of teaching the multipication table? I take it that the real question at the root of the present ferment in school matters is: "Shall we begin to train for future parents?" The school should not usurp, and is not desirous of taking on the duties of the home, but when these duties are neglected or repudiated, what is to be done?

Standards may be set by the school which influence the home and extend widely into the community in an encouragingly short time. The home's responsibility, assumed only temporarily by the school, can then be returned to the home where it belongs. If the human race is not to become a hive of bees, devoid of responsibility, the school must show the youth how to make a home and to maintain it. The way must be found to bring home activities within the range of the school, and to relate to these activities such studies as history and arithmetic that confessedly belong to the school. Dr. Sargent asks us to "consider the probable influence of the house industries from time immemorial, and the period of the handicrafts lasting from the tenth century until the beginning of modern times." "Need I say," he continues, "that these manifold activities have stamped their imprint upon every bone, muscle, nerve, and brain cell of the human organism, and if we would maintain it in its present integrity must we not from necessity repeat in some form or other the activities to which the present development is due?"

The practical outcome of these beliefs will be that no girl is given a diploma until she can buy material for a day's food at a given price, can prepare that food appetizingly, clear away and dispose in a sanitary manner of all wastes; until she can buy the material and make a dress and trim a hat, and do up her own aprons and collars; until she can clean a room and air it and make a bed properly, until she understands the essentials of sanitation.

These simple elementary principles of safe, daily living, the state has a right to demand of its citizens, and at present the public school is the court of judgment as to fitness for citizenship. It was the purpose for which the public school was established in Massachusetts.

If the girl learns these things at home she may be excused from going over the ground at school, but she must show that she does know them in a practical way. Few girls of today have learned the most elementary principles of this daily care. Yet new ideas are grasped most readily by the young, and it is with them that modern hygienic teaching will have the greatest influence. When they are older they learn these things only with great waste of time and energy. The college woman who has missed an early experience in the various duties of the household finds that her back and arms will rebel if she is for any reason obliged to use them in these directions.

The home can be made to feel the importance of these habits so necessary to safe living, if the school will recognize them. Therefore, it is while conditions are as they seem to be; that the school may be made a most efficient supplement to the home and may, in turn, influence the home to take up again its laid-down work.—Mrs. Ellen H. Richards at Conference of Charities.

MODERN HAIR DRESSING

has played havoc with the tresses of the fair sex, and druggists everywhere comment on the fact that they are selling large quantities of sage for making the old-fashioned "sage tea," such as was used by our grandmothers for promoting the growth of their hair and restoring its natural color. The demand for this well-known herb for this purpose has been so great that one manufacturer has taken advantage of the fact, and has placed on the market an ideal "sage tea," containing sulphur, a valuable remedy for dandruff and scalp rashes and irritations. This preparation, which is called Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur, is sold by all leading druggists for 50 cents and $1 a bottle, or will be sent direct by the Wyeth Chemical Company, 74 Cortlandt St., New York City, upon receipt of price.

THE BIGGER LEDGER.

Another week has gone and the bigger Ledger is not yet an accomplished fact although the prospects are brightening each day. The new press is being put together piece by piece and even now has assumed the shape of a sizable press.

One thing leads to another and considerable equipment is necessary to print a good sized eight-page paper. A motor to run the press is being installed; ink and paper have arrived and other things necessary are shaping themselves so that it is hoped to start printing an eight-page Ledger every day by the last of the month.

New advertisements are being booked for the first number of the bigger Ledger, which will be an edition of from 10,000 to 15,000 copies to be circulated in Greater Quincy giving the advertisers a splendid opportunity to reach the readers.

We bespeak the patience of our readers for only a short time longer when we will give them full value and more for their daily two-cent investment in home news.

In the almost constant calls for help for worthy charities one hardly knows how to discriminate or perhaps better still to divide fairly the sum which he feels he can devote to charitable purposes. If one has a certain amount set aside for the year, it may go before the year is well along and then some worthy cause cannot be responded to. In our city the calls are frequent and the causes worthy. Visiting nursing, the Tuberculosis camp, the Day Nursery, the Hospital, the Y. M. C. A., the Charitable society, King's Daughters circles and all the churches and kindred societies are doing a great work calling for generous support. It is well to look ahead and plan to help all if the purse will allow, bearing always in mind that even a little helps. Charities that are working the year through should receive every encouragement to continue their good work. Two worthy institutions are now before the public asking assistance the Y. M. C. A., and the Hospital. For nearly twenty years the Hospital has been a beacon of hope reaching out a helping hand to the sick from the hilltop. Not alone within its wall is it helpful but its well trained nurses carry comfort to many homes. Its location in our midst saves lives when quick action is necessary. This cause surely appeals to every thinking person for one may be well today and sick unto death tomorrow. So we bespeak for the Hospital as large a contribution as can be spared. It is hardly necessary to say a good word for the Y. M. C. A. in its campaign for $25,000. It is going along so prosperously that no one doubts that success will crown the efforts of its band of workers.

With Christmas fast approaching it will be good news to many little girls to know that the duty on toys will not effect dolls as dolls are dolls and not toys. With dolls at the same old price the little mothers may look forward to a merry Christmas.

MAKING LIVING COSTLY.

The Brockton newspaper which is extremely concerned about the increased cost of living and the privations which ensue to hundreds of hard-working families also prints the statement of a Brockton theatrical manager that twelve thousand persons are going to the theatres of that city every week day. The population of Brockton at the last census was a trifle short of 48,000—so that if the manager is correct in his estimate, one quarter of the people in the town patronize the local theatres every day. That is a pretty large proportion for even good times. It certainly indicates that privation is not having things all its own way in Brockton.

Suppose the manager is correct, and suppose that each patron pays the minimum price of admission, and no more—an obvious under-estimate. Then the total expenditures of a day are $1,200; of a week $7,200; of a month, $28,000 and a little more. As the average expenditure is undoubtedly somewhat larger ,this is too small a figure. Probably $2,000 a day would be nearer the actual sum.

Now we are not going to say that all this money is wasted. That depends in each individual case on the individual circumstances of the case. Undoubtedly there are persons patronizing the theatre moderately to whom the show furnishes a useful recreation. As undoubtedly there are persons amusement-crazy, patronizing the theatre excessively, to whom it is a source of mental and moral demoralization. Any fair judgment decides each case on its own merits, and does not draw hasty generalizations out of isolated instances. As related to the cost of living, the point to be made is that two thousand dollars a day is a large sum to draw out of the financial resources of a working community like Brockton for one variety of amusement alone. Considering, too, that at least a third of the population—probably more—does not patronize these places of amusement at all, or at most rarely the conclusion is forced that there must be a class which is spending on theatres money which ought to be put somewhere else. These people are pursuing a course which is bound sooner or later, to make living more difficult for most of them. Prices of meats and grain and hats and ready-made clothes and boots and shoes may be out of all reason; but a community in which a quarter of the people go to the theatre every day, with all the attendant and incidental expense, needs to look somewhat to its own habits of expenditure when it bewails the excessive cost of living.

Brockton is not an exceptional case, by any means We should never think of picking her out as an illustration except for the obvious levitation which has been extended. Hundreds of people all over this country, wealthy, poor, and all the way between ,are spending today far more than they can justly afford, and far more then is good for them if they could afford it, on sheer amusement. Directly and indirectly, the cost of living is enormously enhanced by this means.—New Bedford Standard.

Y. M. C. A. FUND.

The $500,000 necessary to the completion of the building and furnishing fund of the Boston Young Men's Christian Association was over-subscribed within the time stipulated. There is a lesson in this accomplishment that if properly applied should be worth far more than $500,000 to this or to any other hesitating community. It might be amplified into a lengthy sermon, but it can be more forcefully expressed through the homely, motto of a humble American philosopher: "Be sure you're right, then go ahead!" There is really nothing that can withstand the onward sweep of a good purpose intelligently launched and loyally adhered to.—Christian Science Monitor.

HOSPITAL WEEK.

Annual collection week for the City Hospital of Quincy will be from Nov. 14 to Nov. 21. In past years the citizens of Quincy have been generous in their response and the trustees hope that there will be no change this year. The needs of the hospital are more urgent this year owing to the large ward being erected. This new part is rapidly nearing completion. It will be fitted up in the most approved and scientific method so that the citizens of Quincy will have every facility found in most modern hospitals.

As in past years the collection will be a house-to-house one and taken up by authorized collectors who will carry with them an official endorsement from the trustees. No other persons than the ones authorized should be confided in by our people. The pastors of all the churches in the city have been asked to make announcement Sunday of hospital week. There will be no church collection, the pastors simply being asked to call the attention of their parishioners to the date of Hospital week so they may be ready to receive the collectors when they came around to the homes.

There is not much need to dwell upon the worthiness of the cause represented in Hospital week. The people of Quincy have had their hospital 19 years and the work done in alleviating pain and misery is a record which is personally known in hundreds of Quincy homes. It is hoped that the hospital will be generously remembered in every home in Quincy during the week of Nov. 14 to Nov. 21.

SIGNALS OF DISTRESS

Quincy People Should Know How to Read and Heed Them.

Sick kidneys give many signals of distress.
The secretions are dark, contain a sediment,
Passages are frequent, scanty, painful.
Backache is constant day and night.
Headaches and dizzy spells are frequent.
The weakened kidneys need quick help.
Don't delay! Use a special kidney remedy.
Doan's Kidney Pills cure sick kidneys, backache, and urinary disorders.
Quincy evidence proves this statement.

Mrs. F. Burke, 143 Quincy street, Quincy Mass., says: "I consider Doan's Kidney Pills to be an excellent remedy for kidney trouble. I used them and the results were of the most satisfactory nature. Doan's Kidney Pills were procured at the Cox Drug Store and have my highest recommendation."

For sale by all dealers. Price 50 cents. Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, New York, sole agents for the United States.

CHAUFFEUR IS SENTENCED

Reckless Driving at Milton Was the Charge

Aaron Anderson of Malden was arrested by Officer Dwyer of the Metropolitan Park police at Milton, Thursday afternoon, for the reckless driving of an automobile while under the influence of liquor. The officer testified that Anderson was driving a powerful machine and came through the parkway at a rate of speed approaching fifty miles an hour. That the car was going zig-zag, and that there were several carriages on the parkway. In the car were four besides the driver. Two of these were also arrested for drunkenness, Harry B. Porter and Thomas J. Carey and Thomas Devine was arrested for attempting to rescue a prisoner.

The officer said after he stopped the men he had a struggle with them, and that he called on two workmen on the parkway for assistance, and that two calls for help were sent to the police station.

Officer Larkin testified to seeing the car go through Quincy in the morning.

Anderson in his own behalf said he was the superintendent of the Roy Fay Motor Co., and that he had been out with the car since shortly after midnight. He ran the car to try it out. He said his car was not going over 15 miles an hour and that he had drunk only three glasses of whiskey since midnight.

The complaint against Devine was dismissed. Carey and Porter were fined $10 each for drunkenness and Anderson was sentenced to four months in the house of correction. The last mentioned appealed.

DEMONSTRATION LECTURE.

The first of a series of five demonstration lectures by Mrs . Mary L. Wade, chairman of the House Economics committee of the Quincy Women's club was given at the clubhouse Friday afternoon, and was a success in every way.

"An Emergency Lunch" was the subject. Mrs. Wade began her lecture by saying the lunch was to be made of things that a housekeeper usually has in the house, and it proved to be a most delicious and appetizing one, and certainly inexpensive which is a great item in these days of high prices for food stuff.

Mrs. Wade first made a potato and cheese soup and explained as she did it, that the flour must be blended with the butter otherwise the potato would fall to the bottom, the cheese added to its food value, and was digestable if simply melted and not allowed to cook, though it could be left out if objected to.

Her recipe for Corn Timbales made delicious ones and she told how cold meat, chicken, fish or cheese could be used in place of corn, but she chose the corn because one invariably had a can or two in the house. The timbales when ready for the oven were placed in a pan of hot water and the right temperature of the oven was discussed. The matter of seasoning is a personal taste and it is a fine taste to know how to properly season things.

Sandwich Biscuit, in which the proportion of 4 level teaspoons of baking powder to two cups of sifted flour, showed many ladies where they could economize on baking powder besides the biscuits were more palatable with just enough to make them light and no more. While cutting them out Mrs. Wade explained how to roll and cut them out to produce the rose effect that a lady asked about. The biscuits, when baked, simply melted in one's mouth.

Salt Cod Salad was a revelation in the fact that so delicious a salad could be made of the homely cod fish as one lady expressed it. After the codfish was prepared it was served on crisp lettuce leaves with a cream dressing and garnished with small pieces of cold beets.

Little Puff puddings served with a fruit sauce made of raspberry or blackberry jam, could be varied by using grape juice if one liked.

The gas stove which the Citizens' Gas Light Company placed in the clubhouse for use at these lectures, was a perfect baker.

The next lecture on Nov. 12 will be "Inexpensive Desserts" and each lady is asked to bring a fork, spoon and napkin, also a friend as the money from the sale of tickets is for the use of the Home Economics committee from which the Quincy Women's club benefits.

BRIEFS

Deacon Sherburne, superintendent of the Washington Street church Sunday school, has arranged for a harvest concert, Sunday evening at 7 o'clock.

The Ladies' Aid society of the Atlantic Methodist Episcopal church give a corn supper and entertainment in the vestry of the church Tuesday evening.

Edwin Lee of Thompson street is a freshman in the medical department of Boston university. Ed is going to make a high mark in life and his friends wish him every success.

Mrs. Effie Rhines of Miller Stile road is to open her house next Saturday afternoon and evening for the benefit of Reapers circle of Christ church.

Ex-Councilman James H. Broughton of Taylor street has purchased an estate on Newport avenue between Warren and South Central avenue, and is having the house thoroughly renovated.

Whatsoever Circle King's Daughters will hold their next meeting Nov. 8 at 8 P. M. with Mrs. C. H. Brooks, Park street.

The parish of St. Chrysostom's is working to make the Woman's Guild bazaar November 18 a success because the Guild voted that the proceeds og toward paying off the church portgage. The supper will be in the parish rooms and the sale in the rectory.

On Sunday an evening service is to be held in St. Chrysostom's church at 7.30 o'clock instead of the afternoon service at 4.30. The second Sunday of each month the sermon will be omitted, the whole evening being given up to music.

Mrs. William H. Hosmer of Atlantic street, has the sympathy of neighbors and friends having just returned from New Bedford, where she went to attend the funeral of her mother Mrs. John Harrington who died Oct. 20.

The Dorcas Society and Murray club of the First Universalist church have given to the Sunday school a kindergarten outfit, consisting of small chairs and tables, and the books and papers and other material necessary to interest the smaller children and give them enjoyment as well as learning. This class will be in charge of Mrs. G. W. Wheeler, and the children are sure of good care and training. All those children who are not affiliated with other churches are most welcome.

Officers of the Boys' club of Christ church for this season are: President John Brown; secretary, James Smith; treasurer, Peter Williams; sergeant-at-arms, Richard Tappenden. George Hanson has volunteered his services as assistant director. A social will be held Wednesday evening with games and refreshments to which all boys in the Sunday school from 11 to 14 years of age are invited.

After several busy weeks of sewing and preparation the Fragment society of First church is ready for their fair which is to be held in the chapel on Wednesday afternoon and evening. They are to make a specialty of useful and low priced articles and will also serve on e of their appetizing suppers.

DELIGHTFUL VACATION.

Miss Edith M. Tarbell of 50 Hunt street, Atlantic, returned from Seattle, Washington, on Oct. 26th after a four months' vacation full of varied and delightful experiences. She says she enjoyed everything in the way of pleasure in the city of Seattle and many happy days were spent at the big Alaska-Yukon Exposition. There were many pleasant excursions to places of interest. Mt. Ranier the highest mountain in the United States, 14,526 feet high and always snow-capped is a magnificent sight ,and is seen for miles. Many tourists take the trip every summer to the mountain which is well worth while. Seattle can well boast of its giant fir trees, these lofty giants from 36 to 60 feet in circumference and 300 feet in height can be seen in Ravenna a beautiful natural park in the city limits. The journey on the Canadian Pacific railroad affords great opportunity to view the Canadian rockies which are of sublime beauty and grandeur. Miss Tarbell picked up many odd and interesting souvenirs along the way together with a handful of hardy little flowers picked from the snowy garden at the Glacier house at the foot of the great Illecillewaet Glacier on a frosty October day, all of which are pleasant reminders of a most gratifying trip.

If YOU are a young man, and not associated with any other Quincy church, YOU are most cordially invited to come to our meeting.
A warm welcome — Hearty singing — A helpful hour together.

EIGHTY-FOURTH BIRTHDAY.

Nearly 100 friends called informally, yesterday, on Mr. Elisha Thayer of South Braintree to extend congratulations on reaching his 84th milestone in good health. Nearly as many more sent letters and souvenir postals. His oldest caller was his neighbor Anthony Dyke, who is 91 years old. At one time there were present two others whose birthday comes on Nov. 5, viz: Eleanor Torrey and Catherine Sprague. Ice cream and birthday cake were served, and Mr. Thayer also sent out ice cream and cake to some of his old friends who could not be present. Mr. Thayer was assisted in receiving and serving by his daughter Mrs. S. A. Willis, and granddaughter Clara E. Willis, and great granddaughter Harriet Hutchins, also Mrs. Charles H. Sprague and Miss Ethel Sprague. Many of the guests brought flowers, confectionery and other gifts. Friends were present from Quincy, Holbrook, Weymouth, Hanover, Gloucester and Worcester as well as the Braintrees.

THOMAS CRANE PUBLIC LIBRARY.

For one more week the attractive photographs of New Brunswick, the Gaspe Peninsula and Halifax remain in the art gallery at the Public Library. Among other pictures are the beautiful falls of the St. John river, the lakes, rivers, and salmon of the region, and the extraordinary rock formations of Hopewell Cape. The trip which the views illustrate starts at St. Stephen opposite Calais, Maine, and ends at Halifax.

The attention of the patrons of the library is called to the little folder "Regulations—Information," which is posted at the desk and upon the bulletin board. Copies may be had upon application at the delivery desk.

The circulation from the main hall on Thursday was 278, the largest daily circulation (not including Saturdays) since February. About the usual one-fifth of this was magazines, namely 54. While the library circulates more periodicals in proportion than almost if not any, other library of its size it is felt to be a matter of regret that the funds are not sufficient for the purchase of duplicate copies of more of the magazines in order that the current numbers may always be found in the reading room. In most libraries the current numbers do not circulate unless there are duplicates but in the evolution from no quiet reading room to the present beautiful one, the hope is cherished by the librarian of some time accommodating both classes of readers.

—A Nebraska woman wrote that her husband was engaged in the raising of hogs, while she was trying to raise a boy. Her husband, she said, had no difficulty in getting efficient and expensive aid from the government in his hog raising pursuits, but she had to struggle along in her own way with the boy question. With a pardonable mother's prejudice, she argued the welfare of her boy seemed almost as important as the health and happiness of her husband's hogs.—Healthy Home.

The Social Realm

Charity! decent, modest, easy, kind.
Softens the high and rears the abject mind;
Not soon provoked, she easily forgives,
And much she suffers as she much believes.
Soft peace she brings wherever she arrives;
She builds our quiet as she forms our lives;
Lays the rough path of peevish nature even,
And opens in our hearts a little heaven.
—Matthew Prior.

BOSTON AMUSEMENTS

Park Theatre.

Not in years has a play caught Boston as "A Gentleman from Mississippi" has caught it. It is the same story here as in New York and Chicago: a night or two of doubt at the beginning of each run, and then packed houses until every man, woman and child, for miles around has, over and over again, followed the fortunes of Senator Langdon and "Bud" Haines in the mazes of a genuine intrigue of political, social, diplomatic, domestic and fashionable Washington. It is because they talk out truthfully in "A Gentleman from Mississippi," that Senator Langdon and "Bud" Haines get into misunderstandings, not only with each other, and with lots of powerful men, but with the women they love. It is hard to get even room to stand at midweek afternoon performances so successful is the play and tickets are booked ahead.

Electrical Show.

The electrical show to be held in Mechanics building, Boston, Nov. 15th to 25th, will doubtless equal the record of the New York show last month, when on three different days the attendance was so large that the doors had to be closed. While the New York show was considered the best ever held there it is promised by the management that the Boston show will far excel in number of novelties and artistic decorations any exposition ever held in the East. "Everything electrical" in the nature of labor saving and comfort giving devices, and added to these many new and remarkable demonstrations in applied electricity will be shown, while the decorations will be on a grand scale. Among the many novelties to be shown will be the "Home Electrical," a perfect electrical appointed suite of rooms. In connection with this "Home Electrical" will be the Whiting Model Electrical Dairy Farm ,where there will be four milkings a day by electrical milkers, and with the aid of electric separators and churns ,the bright golden butter will be made in full view of the spectators. Chickens hatched by electricity, wireless telephones, X-Ray machines and in fact everything that can be operated by electricity will be there. The grand opening will be at 8 o'clock Monday evening the 15th, and then each day from 10 A. M. to 10.30 P. M.

The Elemendorf Lectures.

Dwight L. Elmendorf the well known traveller and lecturer, who calls his work "Delightful hours of travel," will open his season of travel letcures at Tremont Temple, Boston, November 19th. The lectures this season will be given in two courses on successive Friday evenings and Sunday afternoons. Mr. Elmendorf left New York early in January with the avowed intention of going to India. The unsettled conditions which developed there shortly after he left, brought about a change in his plans, with the result, that he decided to make the Nile Journey instead. To do this, he employed a private Dahabeah and three months was given up to research and photography, through the land of the Pharaohs. The subjects which Mr. Elmendorf will lecture on this season, are as follows, "Barbary" from Tangier to Alexandria; "Egypt" from Cairo to Luxor; the "Nile Journey" from Cairo to Khartoum"; "Sicily" the Island of Art, Mythology and Fable, and Dalmatia, from Triesie to Ragusa.

Boston Theatre.

At the Boston theatre "Three Twins" proves itself the most diverting entertainment of the musical comedy type that has been before the public in recent years and now in the fifth week of a highly successful engagement continues to draw great big audiences for every performance. If you want to laugh, and to laugh heartily; if you desire to refresh yourself with tinkling melodies ,that will for weeks linger pleasantly in your mind; and if you care for beauteous stage pictures, that are marvels of stagecraft ,even in this day of tremendous effort, go to the Boston theatre by all means, for there you will find all of this and more. In the past four weeks there have been a great many requests received on the day of a performance from theatregoers residing outside of the city for seats to be held for that evening and owing to the fact that the house is practically sold out for every performance it has been difficult to fill the orders. Therefore, Manager Levering has arranged that for each performance a block of seats is to be laid aside for the purpose of filling orders from out-of-town patrons and now anyone living within a radius of forty miles of Boston can have reservations made at the Boston theatre with the feeling of perfect security that the seats desired will be held until two o'clock in the afternoon or until eight o'clock in the evening as the request may be made. Matinees are given on Wednesday and Saturday.

Keith's Theatre.

An Arctic scene with real water and real ice floating in it and a man swimming amongst the ice will be one of the of the sensations offered by Mr. Keith in his Boston house next week, as a feature of one of the strongest bills he has yet offered. As the headline feature there will be Yvette Guilbert, the famous French artist, who has been for years the sensation of European capitals with her delightfully clever dogs. It is doubtful however, whether even this high priced artist will cause as much comment as that remarkable swimmer, Sam Mahoney, who was the only one to swim across the English Channel and who now will be the principal feature of this remarkable production of the frozen north. For this act Mr. Keith has provided a most elaborate stage setting with light effects such as have never before been seen in vaudeville. The Aurora Boreallis which will be shown, is said to be an actual reproduction of the reflections seen and painted in the frozen north by Frank Wilbur Stokes the famous American artists, who accompanied the Peary Expedition and even the sledges used by the explorers in this scene and the other costumes and properties are designed after the originals in the Peabody Museum at Cambridge.

AMERICAN MUSIC HALL.

Always on the alert to give his patrons the very best and latest novelties William Morris has arranged for next week to present at the American Music hall for the first time in Boston the original copyright pictures of the great Johnson-Ketchell fight at Colma, California. Nearly every theatrical manager in Boston has endeavored to secure the right to use these pictures but to Mr. Morris's enterprise is due the fact that he has succeeded in getting them first. This championship contest was one of most spectacular ever seen. The climax comes in the twelfth round when Johnson is knocked down only to arise immediately and knock Ketchell out proved a hair raiser. As the conditions for taking the picture were excellent every movement of the fighters is shown with absolute clearness. The vaudeville bill which will be seen previous to the picture will consist entirely of headline features.

Castle Square Theatre.

There will be plenty of opportunity to laugh at the Castle Square next week, for the play will be one of the funniest farces ever written. It is "A Bachelor's Honeymoon," and the laughter begins at the very beginning and will be kept up to the very end. Benjamin Bachelor, clandestinely breaks his widowhood by marrying an actress ,and when he returns to his home for his honeymoon he is pounced upon by his guardian sister and his three daughters. His efforts to steal a kiss from his own bride are, it is needless to say amusing, and there are entanglements arising from a provision that he is not to marry without his sister's consent that are only one means of helping along the fun. In fact, the hero is in a constant state of trouble, from being chased by a dog he supposed was mad, to being obliged to wear a suit of clothes a world too large for him. In fact, no such comic play has been given at the Castle Square since the week "Are You A Mason?" was produced and that is saying a good deal. "A Bachelor's Honeymoon" will run but a single week ,and it will be followed on November 15th by George Ade's Masterpiece of comedy "The College Widow."

Hollis Street Theatre.

Grace George will be seen at the Hollis Street theatre for only another week in her new play, a three-act comedy entitled "A Woman's Way." The time of the play is the present and the action takes place in a house on upper Fifth avenue, New York, overlooking Central Park. The novelty of the play comes in its treatment of the old divorce question. It tells how a young wife wins back her husband after she has apparently lost him to a rich and fascinating widow. It might be entitled a comedy of common sense, for the wife announces to her husband when discussing the scandal, "she is a woman—and I am a woman—you are a man. If I cannot hold you I do not want you. We will invite her here and see." The second and third acts deal with what happens when the widow arrives as a guest of the wronged woman. The young wife invites both her family and her husband's to meet the widow, assuming that she will succeed as the second wife. The novelty of having the widow thrown at his head quite overcomes the husband. In the end the young wife completely wins back her husband's love and he is only too glad to sue for pardon. Miss George, as Marion Stanton, the young wife, it is claimed, accomplishes the best work of her artistic career.

Sargent, City Engineer ,and accompanying this order, dated Nov. 1909.

Said parcel of land is owned or supposed to be owned by the following named persons:—John L. Norrie or Norris, heirs of Horatio N. Holbrook and Henrietta Holbrook.

And that a public hearing be given by the City Council to all parties interested on Monday evening, Dec. 6, 1909, at 7.45 o'clock, in the Council Chamber, City Hall, and that due notice of the intention of the city to take said land for such a purpose, and of said hearing, be given to all parties interested by publishing a copy of this order in the Quincy Daily Ledger, Quincy Advertiser and Quincy Telegram, at least 21 days before the date of hearing, and that an attested copy of this order be served upon the owner or owners of said land by a constable authorized to serve civil process, by delivering an attested copy thereof in hand to said owner or owners or by leaving an attested copy thereof at the last and usual place of abode of said owner or owners.

Adopted Nov. 1, 1909.
Attest:—GEORGE T. MAGEE,
Clerk of Council.

GREAT STUDY IS NECESSARY

Hard to Define What Constitutes "a Free White Person"

SUPREME COURT MAY DECIDE

Naturalization Bureau Changes Its Decision as Result of Hornet's Nest Stirred Up Over Former Ruling Against All Asiatics—Department of Justice Orders Attorneys to Hold Up Proceedings In Certain Cases

Washington, Nov. 6.—The ruling of the bureau of naturalization in the department of commerce and labor that Asiatics are not "free white persons" and therefore may not become citizens of the United States continues to tangle up the executive department of the government.

The state department some days ago quietly expressed its displeasure over such a broad interpretation, and now the department of justice has taken a hand by sending instructions to district attorneys throughout the country that they shall take no further proceedings with respect to naturalization cases until the department has had an opportunity to give the subject proper study.

The Turks and the Syrians are the leaders in the opposition to the ruling of the bureau of naturalization. The bureau, it seems, has been corresponding with district attorneys with reference to prospective test cases, and has been insisting that they shall back up the bureau in its contention that no Asiatic is a "free white person."

The department of justice feels that the bureau overstepped its authority in attempting to instruct district attorneys as to their duty. It is explained in the bureau of naturalization that all the department of commerce and labor wants is an interpretation of the phrase "free white persons" by the supreme court.

Whatever action the bureau has taken, it is pointed out, has been with the view of getting such a decision.

The decision of the bureau of naturalization to hold up action against the admission of "Asiatics" to citizenship is a result of the hornets' nest which has been roused over the bureau's former ruling against such peoples.

The entire matter is a great puzzle. It is impossible to draw the line sharply against all Asiatics simply because they come from Asia or are descended from people of Asiatic origin. There are many people in that part of the earth who are whites. The Russians now settling Siberia are of the white race; the Georgians are of the purest Caucasian type; the Persians, while much mixed, perhaps, have Caucasian blood; and the Arabs can hardly be called Mongolians.

The Armenians have been conquered from time to time by Asiatic hordes, and there has been considerable racial intermixture between them and other peoples, but they have preserved a distinct type, which, while Asiatic like the Persian, is not Mongolian, and their civilization is Christian.

As for Turks, how to define them, ethnologically, is a mystery. If all subjects of the sultan are to be excluded from American citizenship, Greeks and Macedonians as well as Armenians, Kurds and Arabs would also have to be rejected. The Turkish empire is a welder of races, and it still has one leg on European soil. There are Turks who are undoubtedly Mongolian in type, assuming Mongolian to include the Tartar, but there are also very many Turks, ordinarily so-called, who are anything but Mongolian in race.

Following the bureau's decision against "Turks," many court cases have arisen, and judgments have been given both for and against the government.

WARRINER'S SHORTAGE

Former Treasurer Said to Owe Big Four Railroad About $100,000

Cincinnati, Nov. 6.—Whether the railroad intends to press its case in the courts against C. L. Warriner, deposed local treasurer of the Cleveland, Cincinnati, Chicago and St. Louis (Big Four) railroad, is said to rest largely with President Brown of the New York Central lines.

Experts who have been checking up Warriner's accounts have completed their task. It is believed that the amount owing from Warriner to the railroad company is about $100,000.

Deer Hunt In New York Streets

New York, Nov. 6.—Chased by hounds out of his forest retreat on Long Island, a full-grown wild deer buck was pursued for hours through the streets of New York, finally bringing up with a crash against a plate glass window and meeting an ignoble death by a bullet from a policeman's revolver.

Woman Elected County Treasurer

Lincoln, Neb., Nov. 6.—Miss Gertrude Jordan, 28 years old, was elected treasurer of Cherry county. Until recently she had been a deputy in the office. She made the race as a Republican.

REBUKED AND FINED

It Costs Ex-Judge $500 For Slugging an Attorney In Court

St. Louis, Nov. 6.—Ex-Judge Henry S. Priest, attorney for the United Railways company, who assaulted John Gilliam, his opposing counsel, in the circuit court, was fined $500 and costs for contempt of court by Judge Muensch and barred from practice in his division until the fine was paid.

The fine was preceded by a scathing reprimand from Muensch, who ordered his remarks made a part of the court record. When the court had concluded Priest paid the fine and departed for his office.

Attorney Gilliam is confined to his home, under the care of physicians. An intimate friend says Gilliam's condition is regarded as very serious, as there is danger of erysipelas and blood poisoning. He was ill and weak when he was assaulted by Priest, and the blows greatly aggravated his condition.

FORTIFIED WITH DRUGS

Mme. Steinheil Experiences Three Days of Judicial Vivisection

Paris, Nov. 6.—Mme. Marguerite Steinheil completed yesterday a three-day questioning about the murder of her husband and her stepmother. So severe were the accusations by the three judges that the woman who was mentioned at the death of the French President Faure was completely exhausted.

In order to withstand the terrific arraignment by M. De Valles, who presides, Mme. Steinheil was repeatedly stimulated with drugs. She started in three days ago apparently with nerves of iron.

The case has reached the point in the story regarding Mme. Steinheil's placing a pearl in the pocket of the valet, Couillard, to implicate him as the murderer.

M. Valles announced that the dramatic confession in court by Jean Le Fevbre was merely a ruse whereby the youth got in to see the defendant.

CONVICTS BEATEN BY PRISON GUARDS

At Least Fifty Killed Within Three Years In Texas

Galveston, Nov. 6.—A legislative committee's investigation of the state penal institutions and treatment of convicts on farms has revealed the fact that more than fifty convicts have been killed by cruelties and whippings within a period of three years or less. The record may be much larger and presumably is, but the board of inquiry finds it almost impossible to wring evidence from convicts whom they examine. A majority of the convicts who could give positive evidence of specific cases are afraid to tell because they fear they will incur the hatred of guards.

The cases of whipping of convicts with leather straps until their bodies were a mass of bleeding wounds number more than 400 that the commission has positive evidence of, and the inquiry is not completed. The commission declares that the cruelties inflicted upon convicts by state prison officers and guards as revealed by the investigation are worse than those of Siberia. At least twenty deaths traced to beatings and cruelties were credited to Bright's disease and pneumonia.

BEQUESTS OF $25,000,000

Many Institutions Benefit by the Will of the Late John Kennedy

New York, Nov. 6.—John S. Kennedy, one of America's little-known rich men, who died of whooping cough last Sunday, left bequests of more than $25,000,000 to religious, charitable and educational institutions in his will, filed for probate here yesterday.

The gift is the largest single contribution of its kind ever made, and the beneficiaries include educational and church institutions north, south, east and west in the country, and one abroad, sixty in all.

Aside from these gifts, Kennedy left approximately $35,000,000 to his wife, his relatives and a great number of friends and employes. The widow's share will be about $16,000,000.

Laurens' Yorktown Finished

MRS. STETSON'S ADMONITIONS

Regarded as a Preliminary to Her Excommunication

WILL NOT BE LONG DELAYED

Banishment Likely to Be Hastened by Action of Congregation In Vindicating Her—Property of First Church In New York Belongs to Those Loyal to Mother Church, According to Eugene Cox

New York, Nov. 6.—Mrs. Augusta E. Stetson, teacher and leading spirit of the First Church of Christ, Scientist, of New York, who was vindicated of the charge of unorthodox apostleship by a report of the committee of inquiry, which was accepted by a majority of her congregation Thursday night, has received a second admonition from the board of directors of the mother church in Boston. It came to her Nov. 1, the same day that she sent her statement reasserting her fealty to Mrs. Eddy and the church to the papers.

According to the by-laws of the Christian Science church, which are fundamental in the regulation of the conduct of all members, a member believed to be in error may be "admonished" once and yet again by the directors of the First church in Boston. The third punitive is excommunication, from which there is no appeal.

Mrs. Stetson came under the discipline of the board of directors of the mother church on Sept. 25, when, upon seven charges, all proven to the satisfaction of the board by the testimony of Mrs. Stetson's own pupils, she was admonished, her license to teach Christian Science was revoked and her card as a practitioner was ordered removed from the Christian Science Journal.

This second admonition, so it is said by an officer prominent in the affairs of the church at large, called the attention of Mrs. Stetson to the fact that, despite the revocation of her license to teach, she had been presiding over gatherings of practitioners of the First church of New York, held in her own house; that these practitioners themselves had been admonished, and that Mrs. Stetson had been guilty of "a contumacious attitude" toward the board in Boston.

It is the opinion of several people prominent in the congregation of the First church here that the third punitive step, that of excommunication, will not be long delayed. The events of the congregational meeting of Thursday will probably hasten the banishment of Mrs. Stetson from the parent church, they think.

It was developed that the board of directors in Boston have recently gained direct proof that Mrs. Stetson was planning to make herself supreme in the Christian Science church.

Eugene R. Cox, head of the Christian Science publication committee of the state of New York, was asked if there was any possibility of a contest over the property of the First church in case the division between the supporters of Mrs. Stetson and those loyal to the mother church should lead to open rupture and schism.

"Money contributed to build the church at Ninety-Eighth street and Central park west was contributed to build a Christian Science church which should be a branch of the mother church in Boston," he said.

"All the Christian Science churches;" he continued, "are conceived to be branches of the First church in Boston. Therefore the church property cannot be alienated from the Christian Science chruch. I don't believe that a majority of the congregation could turn the church property over to another religious body not countenanced by the Christian Science church, even if it wished to do so.

"If Mrs. Stetson should withdraw from the First church here with her following, those who remained loyal to the mother church would remain in possession of the church property before the law."

The Hub's Freak Religions Excite a Chicago Man's Titters—Apple Pie and Cheese Look Worse to a German than Herrings and Chocolate—Many Visitors at the Boston 1915 Exposition See the Savings Insurance Exhibit—Harvard May Have a Building in the Camembert Style of Architecture—A Boston Painter's Anecdote of an Italian Sportsman.

Score three for the New York suffragists. Mayor McLellan has appointed three women members to the Board of Education. This has been one of the principal demands of the women's organizations everywhere, and the concession is greeted with satisfaction by the equal suffrage advocates of New York and no less by those of the Hub. They feel that it is another step in the right direction.

Apple pie and cheese, one of the dishes beloved by all New Englanders, caused consternation in the mind of a visiting German at the 1915 exposition recently. He entered the restaurant in the basement to obtain some refreshment, and was startled to note the number of persons partaking of this popular dessert. Raising his eyebrows, he exclaimed, "What? Apples with cheese?" "Sure, it's fine," replied his American escort, "Why not?" The German elevated his eyebrows and shoulders another notch. "Would you eat herrings and chocolate?" he asked in an unanswerable tone.

Boston's Y. M. C. A., campaign having been immensely successful, the smaller communities in the vicinity are following suit and starting funds for the local organizations. Newton has alreay progressed far on the road to a desired $150,000, and Chelsea is sending out invitations for contributions to a sum of $66,000 which is needed to complete the new Y. M. C. A. structure, the corner-stone of which was laid Oct. 23. If this enthusiasm continues there will be a chain of institutions extending throughout the Bay State that will be the envy of the entire country.

The diamond jubilee of the Delta Upsilon fraternity and the founding of Williams college will be celebrated by representatives from nearly every college in the country, gathered together at the Hub this week. Members of the fraternity from all over the United States as far west as Puget sound and California, are here with their wives and daughters, and entertaining programmes have been arranged for every minute of the visit. Apart from the business of the delegation there are receptions, plays, dances, sightseeing expeditions, auto rides, banquets, and, as a grand finale at which the members and their families assembled, the Harvard-Cornell football game at the Stadium.

The architectural hash which has long been an eyesore to artists and others visiting Harvard University was commented upon pointedly by a contributor to the "Harvard Prohibitionist," a publication which made its first, and probably its last, appearance at Harvard this week. One of the subjects discussed was the proposed freshman dormitory, of which the writer remarked: "In style it is pure NeoPlatonic, with an influence of Camembert. As the yard already contains an example of every other kind of architecture except the Neo Camembert, including the Roman, Romanesque and Rotten, the department of architecture has heartily endorsed this building in order that the gallery be complete." Certainly if variety is the spice of life, Harvard has every reason to be a very lively place. Another amusing commentary contained in this paper on the red tape which it is necessary to unwind in order to get tickets for the Yale-Harvard football game lies in the announcement of a new college course, "Yale Game Applications, I: Open to undergraduates. How to fill out applications for seats taught in 12 lessons to intelligent students."

Sojourners along Boston's great free art route are taking particular interest in an exhibition of pictures by Edmund H. Garrett, Bostonian, author of books on the pilgrim and puritans, and vigorous painter in oils and water colors, now current at one of the galleries. Mr. Garrett has just returned from a year spent in Italy, whence his communications to a local evening newspaper, always filled with lambent wit and quaint fancy, have been a revelation of what could be made by a skilful writer of such hackneyed subjects as Florence, Rome, Venice, Capri, and other spots injured if not ruined by the adjectives of the globe trotters. The point of view of the Italian huntsman especially amused Mr. Garrett as he painted among the pastures and olive groves of the Appenines. A sportsman equipped with newest repeater rifle, canvas hunting bags, water proof boots and more professional appliances than an American would take into the Maine woods for six weeks' shooting, stood by his easel and looked contemplative. "I see, Signor," Mr. Garrett said politely, "that the hunting is not good today." "On the contrary, it has been excellent, Signor Americano. It has never been finer. Just look." And the sportsman proudly threw open his half bushel hunting bag disclosing at the bottoms two poor little robins and a sparrow. Fortunately for those who like pictures of travel the Boston painter has secured much bigger game than his Italian compatriot. His many pictures are reminiscent of the charm of Amalfi, Capri, and other cherished Italian places of pilgrimage.

The constant stream of sociologists, educators and philanthropists wending their way through the multitudinous exhibits of the Boston-1915 exposition find one of the most interesting exhibits overarched by a tastefully lettered and illuminated design embodying the words "Who Will Pay Your Wages When You Are Old and Grey?" This is the exhibit of the State Actuary of the "savings and insurance banks." The walls are decorated with informational and artistic placard which are the work of members of the Massachusetts Normal Art School. A mass of literature is at the disposal of those interested in the subject, and the State Actuary or his representatives have many and varied questions to answer. Visitors from other states, and particularly from New York and Maryland where the subject has been under discussion, show a keen interest in the methods and results of this innovation in encouragement of thrift among wage earners and salaried workers. Some of these questions illustrate the deplorable lack of knowledge which exists in relation to the savings institutions, many people thinking that this must be a money making scheme or there would be no dividends to stockholders. The fact that savings banks in Massachusetts have no stockholders, and that all profits from their insurance business go to the policyholders has made a marked impression on the misguided ones.

"Religions made to order, and those on hand altered to suit customer," might be a fitting advertisement for the Hub, according to a recent writer in the Chicago Interior, who says that the modern Athens, like the ancient, always has an eagerness to hear "some new thing." This writer, Mr. W. B. Conant, lately made an investigation of Boston's "freak religions," —which—so say the scoffers—are used as a base for her present repute. What she once claimed in literatary attainments she now claims through her multiplicity of religious cults. Huntington Avenue seems to be the Mecca for these soul-searching groups and Mr. Conant found much of his material located in Huntington chambers, of which he wrote: "The stranger who enters Huntington chambers, on a Sunday afternoon is bewildered by the array of placards set up on either side of the entrance. Here is one that allures to the study of 'how to live forever (physically)', with added attraction of solos by an accomplished vocalist. Another placard invites to the contemplation of the 'ego' and its infinite possibilities. Another advertises the 'First Temple of Divine Wisdom of Eternity (Room 158; take the elevator')' of which a reverend woman is named as 'High Priestess.' Another clacard invites to the veneration of 'Emerson with music.' Socialists and card readers, Theosophists and Christadelphians, New Thoughtists and phrenologists vie with one another in enticing the stranger within this religious Babel." Mr. Conant remembers, it is to be hoped, that there are still congregations assembled in the churches of the older and more generally accepted faiths, so that Boston is in position to extend a welcoming hand to any visitors from Chicago or elsewhere with the assurance that, whatever their beliefs may be, they will find sympathizers in this leading community of Thought.

BAY STATE ZOOLOGICAL PARK.

Project for a Zoo in Eastern Massachusetts is Revived—Two and a Half Million People Would Get the Educational Benefit—The Massachusetts Zoological Society Would Furnish the Animals if the State Would Provide the Site—A Scheme that was Well Under Way Before the Panic of 1907.

Here is a public spirited organization that stands ready to give Massachusetts people the benefit of a real live zoo if the state will provide a place in which to put the animals.

The Massachusetts Zoological Society, formed in 1905, and having among its members some of the foremost naturalists of New England, believes that it is time to give the people of the second largest centre of population in the United States a really creditable zoological park. They realize that the matter is one which concerns the whole state, for in these days of easy travel by train and trolley a zoo in eastern Massachusetts would be frequented by Bay State people from Barnstable to the Berkshires. Later on they think there should be established in Boston an aquarium like the one at the Battery, New York which instructs and entertains hundreds of thousands of visitors to the metropolis.

Greater Boston is today the only one among the larger cities of the country which has no representative collection of living animals within its borders. New York City has the small but intensely popular menagerie in Ceneral Park and the magnificent zoological park in the Bronx which has been formed through the initiative of the New York Zoological Society. Philadelphia has animals at Fairmount Park, Chicago at Lincoln Park. The national zoological collections along Rock Creek on the outskirts of Washington are world famous. Such cities as Pittsburg, Cleveland, Rochester and Providence now have their local zoos. Springfield in this state already has the beginnings of one.

But the two and a half millions of people in the eastern half of Massachusetts must wait for the annual visit of the circus to see any wild animals stranger than the grey squirrel or the organ grinder's monkey. Or else they must round won to New York.

If there were a park to put them in the animals would easily be forthcoming. A Boston man only last spring was offered a herd of 25 deer if he could find a place for them where they would give pleasure and instruction to the whole people. He approached the Metropolitan Park Commission, which has charge of many thousands of acres of reserved land in eastern Massachusetts, and suggested that if they would construct a deer run in one of the forested reservations outside the city the animals would be at their disposal.

Unfortunately ,although interested in the proposition, the park commission found that it had no authority to spend even the very modest sum of money that would be necessary to fence off a run for these deer and to keep them under supervision. So a very excellent opportunity was lost to the Bay State, and the deer went elsewhere.

This is not the first time the subject of a zoo in eastern Massachusetts has been broached. A few years ago it was proposed that one should be established at Franklin Park, Boston. This park, in the Roxbury district, has since been given over to athletic sports to such an extent that it is now considered fortunate that the proposal of that time was not followed. The modern conception of a "zoological park," as opposed to a "zoological garden" or "menagerie," demands more space than could have been allotted in an urban park such as Franklin Park is.

About six years ago it was suggested that a modest zoo might be started in Stony Brook Woods, one of the outlying parks south of Boston. Inquiries were made as to the cost. Director W. T. Hornaday of the Bronx Zoo, who has taken great interest in the Boston project, blocked out a scheme for a collection of native animals and wild fowl that could be started for $25,000.

In 1905 the Massachusetts Zoological Society was formed by a number of enthusiasts for the express purpose of working for a Massachusetts zoo. A careful study of possible sites in the neighborhood of the largest Bay State city was made with the result that one on the southern side of the Middlesex Fells, a reservation of 3,000 acres, about seven miles north of Boston, was pronounced by Mr. Hornaday and other experts to be not merely the best in eastern Massachusetts but the finest they had seen in the neighborhood of any large American city. With never failing water and greatly diversified surface it has every possible advantage for keeping the animals in conditions that closely resemble those of their native haunts. At the same time the site is thoroughly accessible. The street car service from Sullivan Square, Charlestown, to the very entrance of the proposed zoo, makes it easily reached by the entire population of greater Boston and the new line of the Boston and Northern Company which will soon meet the cars of the Boston Elevated Company in the centre of the Middlesex Fells will render it the zoo of the cities of the Merrimack valley almost as much as of those around Boston harbor.

This site was surveyed carefully under the auspices of the Zoological Society and a relief model made for a zoological park that would preserve and as far as possible enhance the natural beauties of the place. A popular subscription was started. Many prominent Massachusetts citizens put their names down for considerable amounts, and it began to look as if the long contemplated project might be quickly realized. Just then, however, the panic of 1907 occurred, and it became evident that it would be inexpedient to call in the subscriptions. The entire plan was temporarily delayed by the advent of the hard times.

In the last few weeks the scheme has been revived. There is a feeling among members of the Massachusetts Zoological Society that if the legislature would authorize the metropolitan park commission to prepare and maintain a proper site, such as the one proposed at Middlesex Fells, they on their side would undertake to secure a fair sized collection of animals. Legislation to such effect may be sought at the forthcoming session of the Great and General Court. It is argued by the friends of the project that no other expenditure of a comparatively small sum of money could give such enjoyment and afford so much education to hundreds of thousands of people. They point to the immense crowds that gather every fair Saturday afternoon and Sunday around the privately owned menagerie in Norumbega Park, Auburndale, and at the old reservation building in Middlesex Fells where a few native animals have been kept during five years. Massachusetts is justly famous for its great museums, open to all the people; the greatest present lack is an open air museum where living mammals, reptiles, fowl and fish can be studied by every citizen.

Camper's Unique Bag.

Common twenty-five cent grain sacks make good duffle bags for campers. They should not be tied at the mouth when ready for shipment, but sewed shut. This method is a damper to curiosity and pilfering. These sacks serve many uses in camps. They take the place of and are better than baskets for carrying provisions, etc. Stuffed with browse, they make a good pillow, long enough for two. They make good sleeping bags also, for, after wrapping up in a blanket, pull a bag over your feet and you can roll from side to side without losing covers. One of these bags can be made into an easy chair very nicely as follows: Sharpen two poles at one end and tie them together loosely at the other end. Plant the sharp ends in the ground, three feet apart, and lean the roped ends against a tree. Lash each corner of the bag to the poles with cords at a comfortable elevation. Tie pebbles in each corner to keep the cords from slipping. If you don't make a chair sit on a folded bag; don't sit on the ground.—Recreation.

The First English Bible.

The first complete Bible printed in English was issued in 1535 without any publisher's name on it. It was the work of Miles Coverdale, who incorporated, with revisions, Tyndale's books of the New Testament of the Pentateuch and of Jonah and for the rest translated from German and Latin versions. It was thus only partly original and in that part just a translation of a translation. No perfect copy of this Bible is known to exist.

Coverdale's Bible is called both "the treacle Bible" and "the bug Bible," from two curious renderings. The passage in Jeremiah which we now read, "Is there no balm in Gilead?" is rendered, "Is there no more treacle in Galahad?" And in the Psalms, "Thou shalt not be afraid of the terrors by night," reads "Thou shalt not nede to be afrayed for any bugges by night." In the Ninth Psalm, "Put them in fear, O Lord," is rendered by Coverdale as, "Set a schoolmaster over them."

The Judge's Little Joke.

The error of a clerk involved in a decidedly confusing situation the German gentleman referred to in a story in the New York Times.

On a jury day in the First district court a stolid looking German presented to the justice a certificate from the commissioner of jurors. After a rapid glance at the document the justice ordered the man to raise his right hand and administered the oath.

"Your name is Herman Kaufman?"

"Yes, your honor."

"This paper," continued the court, "requests me to excuse Herman Kaufman from jury duty on the ground that he is dead. Now, remember that you have sworn to tell the truth and think well before you answer. Are you dead?"

"No-o, your honor," was the bewildered reply; "I don't think I am."

"You claim that you are alive?"

"Y-e-s, your honor."

"That will do. Now take this paper back to the commissioner of jurors."

The man did so. When the commissioner examined the certificate it bore the following indorsement in the justice's handwriting:

"The deceased, appearing before me in open court, insists under oath that he is not dead. Please investigate and if his testimony be false have him indicted for perjury."

THE NEEDLEWORK GUILD.

"If only a little bridge could be thrown from the Island of Waste to the Island of Want, how both would benefit!" said Lady Wolverton when confronted by the pressing need of a certain charity. But not content with the framing of her aphorism, she proceeded at once to build the bridge of —Needlework. This was in 1883 at Dorsetshire, England, and since that time, many of these structures have united waste and want ,with great and inspiring results. Lady Wolverton showed marked genius in organizing her Society, by making its machinery of such beautiful simplicity that it could be a burden to no one; and the condition of membership, only two new useful articles of clothing a year, was so small a demand that the Society became popular immediately. The elements of popularity and steady growth were in its very structure—no caste, no sect, no hampering prejudices.

H. R. H. Princess Mary, the President of the London Guild, collected each year thousands of garments, many of them made by her own hands, and the little maid of all work adds her mite to swell the grand total, which in England amounts to hundreds of thousands annually.

There may be many in this country who have never heard of this beautiful work; who, if given the opportunity, would be more than willing to "lend a hand." To all such—greeting from "The Needlework Guild of America."

The American Guild, modelled in part after the society in England, was founded in 1885 at Philadelphia, Pa., and received a perpetual charter in June 1896. From this beginning have sprung numerous Branches. Each Branch controls the distribution of the garments it collects. They may be given to the needy of the town, or to the charities of the nearest great city.

There is hardly a city or town in our land where such an organization would not be a power for good. It will not supplant or in any way interfere with the work of any other society, but it is so designed that it may include and stimulate the large number in every community who do no systematic work.

There is room in it for everyone—for invalids and others with limited time and strength, for the grandmas and for the school-girls, and the good which may be accomplished by these united efforts is beyond estimate. What a blessing it must be to a weary, over-worked mother, to receive new, comfortable garments for her little ones. It is said that a mother failed to recognize her pretty baby, whom she was accustomed to see bundled in an old shawl, when brought to her in a whole new suit of Guild clothes; and also that a little boy, when given a new shirt, asked eagerly, "Is it all for me?" because up to that time, by way of a treat, he had occasionally worn one in turn with his brother.

Fellow-women, we don't know what it is to be poor—so poor that when the children are in rags, hatred comes up in the mother's heart toward the easy-going, prosperous sisters who never think! The root of the trouble is lack of thought; we all have hearts when our hearts are aroused.

There are many who make semi-annual pilgrimages to the garret, and return laden with cast-off garments for the poor. Some do this in self-defense; others, because they recognize the Divine command to "clothe the naked."

By all means, keep up these charitable attacks upon the garret There is use for all the decent old clothes, and there are organizations to receive them: but only new garments are accepted. Workers among the needy claim that a moral influence is exerted by new garments.

The Guild will supplements the work of your hospitals, whose warm beds the outgoing patients must leave, often to go thence to cold, cheerless homes, with such scant, poor clothing, that relapse or another form of disease finds them an easy prey. It will aid the Homes for children, the aged and the friendless, and many other organizations which call so earnestly for warm, serviceable clothing. Drummond said, "The greatest thing a man can do for his Heavenly Father is to be kind to some of His other children."

The Needlework Guild is non-sectarian.

The object is to collect and distribute new, plain, suitable garments ,to meet the great need of hospitals, homes and other charities, and to extend its usefulness by the organization of Branches.

The plan of work is very simple. The annual contribution of two or more new articles of wearing apparel or household linen, or a donation of money, constitutes membership in a Branch.

The Quincy branch of which Miss Abigail B. Wood is president is preparing to receive its annual contributions.

American Lady SHOE
HAMILTON, BROWN SHOE CO. LARGEST IN THE WORLD

Every woman likes a trim and shapely foot. Unfortunately many, in the mistaken belief that they are making their feet look smaller, get shoes that do not fit them. The result is the opposite of that intended.
A woman's foot is naturally shapely—there remains nothing for her to do but to clothe her foot in a shoe that will follow perfectly its graceful lines—in short a shoe that fits.
The surest way to have a trim and shapely foot is to wear the American Lady Shoe
It is made on graceful lines that follow the form of the foot. A great variety of styles and sizes make it possible for any woman to be fitted in a style that pleases her fancy.
Come in and see the new styles for Fall and Winter, and let us fit you in a shoe that is suited to you. We carry a large line of American Lady Shoes in many styles, sizes, shapes and leathers.

BRIEFS

Master Otto Price of Glover place is seriously ill with typhoid fever.

The Tuberculosis Relief Committee will meet on Monday at 3 P. M. with Frederic W. Plummer.

J. A. McDonnell of Elm street is suffering with a broken arm, but hopes to be out soon, although it will be some time before he can use it.

The Woman's Guild of St. Chrysostom's church meets on Wednesday afternoon at half past two for the regular monthly business meeting.

The Young People's Religious Union of First church meets tomorrow evening in the chapel at 7 o'clock, Mr. Charles R. Joy of the Harvard Divinity school is to be the speaker and his subject will be "Channing."

Petitions containing 209 names were filed with the City Clerk on Friday, asking that the question of acceptance of the act relative to cities paying pensions to firemen be submitted to the voters at the municipal election.

The fee for sending registered matter though the United States mail is increased from 8 to 10 cents. This returns the fee for registry to the original amount in vogue some years ago. The new rate went into effect Monday.

The time for filing petitions for recounts of votes cast at the State election last Tuesday, expired Friday evening at 5 o'clock. It was thought that there might possibly be a recount of votes for representative in the Fifth district, but none were asked.

Mrs. R. G. Reed of Woodward avenue entertained the members of the Dorcas society of the First Universalist church on Tuesday evening. An enthusiastic meeting was held, several new members were voted in and plans were made for a fair to take place in December.

Willard E. Keyes of Beale street was at Dartmouth college last week, to lecture to the students of the Tuck Graduate school on "Advertising—Good and Bad," the subject being illustrated with stereopticon reproductions of some of the best examples of modern advertising.

QUINCY CHARITABLE SOCIETY.

The annual meeting of the Quincy Charitable Society was held at the Women's clubhouse on Monday afternoon and the following officers were elected:

President—Frederic W. Plummer.
Vice President—Arthur W. Newcomb.
Secretary—Mrs. Thomas A. Addison.
Treasurer—Mrs. Helen Bass.
Directors—Mrs. E. Granville Pratt, Mrs. Thomas Fenno, Miss Annie Newcomb and Mrs. A. L. Mitchell.

The following reports show the society to be in good condition:

SECRETARY'S REPORT.

In making my report for the year 1908-9 it does not vary very materially from former years.

The Quincy Charitable Society entered upon its 72nd consecutive year of business Dec. 3, 1908, with the following officers and directors:

President—Mr. Frederick W. Plummer.

Vice President—Mr. Arthur A. Newcomb.

Secretary—Mrs. Mary E. Addison.

Treasurer—Mrs. Helen A. Bass.

Directors—Mrs. Thomas Fenno, Miss Amy Newcomb, Mrs. Arthur Mitchell, Mrs. Robert Teasdale, Mrs. Frederick L. Jones Mrs. E. G. Pratt, Mrs. Frederick C. Peirce.

The society now has a membership of ninety members eleven of which comprise the executive board. The directors meetings six in number have been held regularly, the first Thursday of each month, at the home of its president from Dec. 3, 1908 to May 6, 1909 at three o'clock. At these meetings the directors make their monthly statements, and questions relating to the work discussed. As has always been the custom, no sessions are held during the summer months, but the work was nevertheless continued, by the management keeping in touch with each other as cases required, its treasurer Mrs. Bass, Miss Turner of the Conference of Charity workers and Mr. Elocock of the City Poor Department.

Forty-eight families have appreciated the comforts bestowed from this society. At the meeting of Dec. 3, 1908, after discussing the subject. Upon motion, it was voted:

Voted: That the value of membership dues remain the same. That Mrs. Pratt, Mrs. Fenno, and Mrs. Addison represent the society at the meetings of the Conference of Charity Workers. At this meeting the treasurer, reported a letter from Mr. Jeffrey R. Brackett a member, containing a substantial check, followed by words expressing his gratitude for the consistant management, in so admirably fulfilling the purpose and aims of the society. At the meeting of March 8, 1909, discussion arose relative to uniting with other charitable societys in the payment of a private nurse for a needy patient. It was a case where the services of the district nurse, failed in being applied. Upon motion it was, voted:

Voted: That the sum of two dollars be paid weekly for two weeks. At the annual meeting of the Conference of Charity Workers, held in April, Mrs. Addison reported for this society. The directors have often congratulated themselves from time to time for the new officers elected at the last annual meeting. Mr. Plummer and Mr. Newcomb have by their careful observations and timely suggestions been of great assistance to the directors making much to commend. I report the loss by death of two members Mrs. Annie Holden and Mrs. Annie Sampson. With great interest in the society, and with much esteem for those who so faithfully and judiciously administer its affairs.

Mary E. Addison.

TOMMY'S WIFE AT HIGH SCHOOL

Good Amateur Work by Classes of 1911 and 1912

The assembly hall at the High school was filled last night to hear the play "Tommy's Wife" presented by classes of '11 and '12, for the benefit of the football team. It was a farce in three acts and was well staged and the parts were taken in an exceptionally fine manner for such young performers.

The part of Pierre DeBouton, the ardent suitor of French descent, was admirably impersonated by Paul Blackmur and he was encored again and again by the delighted audience. With a great chance for some original work he took advantage of the fact and made a decided hit.

Miss Jean Arthur, as Mrs. DeYorbourgh Smith, did splendidly, her accent and imperative manner with the young artist, whom she was afraid would elope with her very impressionable but plain young daughter, set the whole house in laughter time and time again.

The scenes were laid in the studio of the young artist, Thomas Pitman Carothers, and there were many amusing situations.

Everybody was entirely satisfied when the curtain went down on the last act, that they had seen as clean a cut piece of amateur acting as has appeared on the amateur stage in Quincy for some time. Undoubtedly because of the success of the venture plays will be an annual feature to help the athletic association along. The actors and actresses received hearty congratulations all the way from the hall after the play was over. Between the acts the orchestra composed of Theodore H. Corey, '10, as first violin; William Manning '11, second violin; Charles H. Sayward, Jr., '10, cello; Roger Bates '10, cornet; and Harry B. Smith '10, pianist; rendered selections.

The cast was as follows:

Thomas Pittman Carothers, a promising young portrait painter, as yet unknown to fame — Frederick Sutermeister '11
Rose Carothers, his sister — Louise Prout '12
Dick Grannis, Carothers' chum in love with Rose — Storer Wiggin '12
Patty Campbell, a student at the Broadway Dramatic School — Evelyn Kelley '11
Mrs. DeYorburgh-Smith, a wealthy society woman — Jean Arthur '11
Sylvia, her daughter, "young and impressionable" — Marion Bolster '11
Pierre DeBouton, a French fencing master — Paul Blackmur '11
Edith Bronson, a friend of Rose, interested in charities — Dorothy Darling '11

TODAY'S COURT.

The continued case of Caroline Libby, for keeping a disorderly house at Quincy, was called. The case was placed on file on payment of $100 on account of costs.

Lester C. Rumpp was fined $10, William Sumers $10, Leon M. Abbott $10, and Horace W. Hiltz $10 for exceeding the automobile speed limit at Milton.

James F. Moran was fined $10 for drunkenness at Quincy.

Susie Viola and Ralph Cronio were arraigned for a statuatory offence at Weymouth. Cases continued until Nov. 6.

Edward Emerson was arraigned for larceny at Quincy. Case continued until Nov. 12.

BRAINTREE

Mrs. Willard E. Dow entertained at bridge Thursday afternoon.

F. Edgar Norris has returned from Connecticut where he has been the past week.

Mr. and Mrs. Edward Pretz, nee Miss Edith Turner, have gone to housekeeping in Wollaston.

Mrs. Walter O. Hastings is reported quite ill for the past week at her home on Maple street.

Miss Annie Ellis, late contralto at All Souls church, has gone to California.

Mrs. Hines of Winchester was the guest of her daughter Mrs. L. F. Small of Hollis avenue over Sunday.

Mrs. Thomas Simms of Hollis avenue, is spending a few days in New Haven, Conn.

Mrs. Ernest Chard of Middle street entertained Mrs. Hodges and daughter Edwina of Haverhill over Sunday.

Wilbur Avery of Middle street has been entertaining his father from Wolfboro, N. H., for the past few days.

Clifton W. Divoll of Middle street returned last evening from Leominster and Fitchburg where he has been spending a few days.

Mrs. Hallett of Atlanta, Ga. who has been visiting her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Boyce of Lowell street, has gone to New York for the winter.

Miss Gladys Gould was tendered a surprise party last Saturday evening by about sixteen of her young frineds of the High school. The party took the form of a Hallowe'en party, and all sorts of appropriate games were played. A dainty lunch was served.

DEDHAM HIGH IS SHUT OUT

Quincy High Scores 50 Points in 25 Minutes

There was a football game at Merrymount park yesterday but unless one were on the inside he would have been rather doubtful about it. Quincy scored in 15 and 20 minute periods 50 points, getting in that time 9 touchdowns and 4 goals shutting out Dedham. Quincy got its first touchdown a minute and a half after the game started by straight line plays. In about two minutes more another score was forthcoming and then Billy Manning started his open play. By using a long forward pass that was so well protected that there were two Quincy men on the spot for the ball they scored in the first half 33 points. Harold Hill made 4 of the touchdowns and Bates and Arthur one each.

In the second half Manning got a flying start, taking the ball over himself for what looked like a touchdown, but it was brought back to the ten yard line from where Veal carried it over in one rush.

The game was not an interesting one to watch because there was no resistance whatsoever, the Dedham lads not making a first down against Quincy. The new lineup with Prout in guard and Russ Bates in tackle put up the best game this year, as they stayed with the man who was carrying the ball, and time and again when he was completely off his feet they would pick him up and carry him until regaining his balance he had made several more yards. On one play Harold Hill was pulled and carried from the middle of the field over the line for a touchdown.

While all the local team played fine ball the best work seen on a gridiron in Quincy for some time was shown by Billy Manning and Harold Hill. Manning's one particular star play was when he ran back the kick off and came within ten yards of scoring a touchdown. While Hill's work was brilliant all the way through, the way he held his feet while carrying the ball was the best seen around Quincy in a number of seasons.

At tackle, Bates and Lakin had everything their own way, not a yard hardly being made through them. Harold Prout at guard was a big surprise, and it seems as though he had struck his stride at last for the way in which he broke through from guard and nailed plays before they got started showed that he is at last playing his right position. Blackmur and Arthur on the ends gave a fine account of themselves, Arthur being especially strong on forward passes and kicking goals. The backfield worked together and not only put up a great offensive game, but defensive as well. Frank Harmon in full back ran hard and low and many a time after the play had stopped he was going so low and his feet were digging so hard that suddenly he would shoot ahead a gain once getting a touchdown in this manner.

Altogether the game, although an easy one, was just what the local boys needed and they should give the much heralded Chelsea team a great go when they line up against them next Wednesday.

—The plan announced from Boston, of solving the problem of illiterate and impecunious immigrants by educating them and getting them into profitable employment is undoubtedly a good one and would be effective if it could be executed. But how such work is to be done for the scores and hundreds of thousands who come hither is another problem of appalling difficulty.—Framingham News.

MAN DEAD, WIFE DYING

Both Sustained Shock at About the Same Time

Wild rumors of a murder and suicide were current about City Square at 11 o'clock this morning. The rumor sent Chief Burrell and Inspectors McKay and Goodhue flying toward Quincy Point.

The story was that Patrick Doherty had been found dead at his home on Souther place, off Mill street and that his wife was found cut and bruised and dying. The story was true in some respects but lacked the sensational aspects.

Mr. Doherty was found dead and his wife was found unconscious and dying. Both are well along in years, Mr. Doherty being about 70 years, and Mrs. Doherty 80.

It was shortly after 10 o'clock when Luke Levangie, who looks after Mr. Doherty's fowl visited the house, but was unsuccessful in arousing anybody. Becoming suspicious he entered the house. He found Mr. Doherty seated in a chair leaning forward as though asleep. On the floor beside him was his pipe where it had fallen from his hands. Attempting to arouse him Mr. Levangie found that he was dead.

He then looked for Mrs. Doherty, but did not find her until he entered a fright for Mrs. Doherty was in bed the bed room. What he saw gave him but unconscious. Word was telephoned the police and to Dr. Middleton.

When Dr. Middleton arrived he found that Mr. Doherty had sustained a shock of apoplexy and had probably died immediately.

Mrs. Doherty was unconscious from a shock and was dying. According to Dr. Middleton Mrs. Doherty has had several shocks previous to that of Friday night and it is doubtful if she recovers.

The Medical Examiner was notified and Inspector Goodhue was left in charge until his arrival. Mr. Doherty was a currier by trade, and for many years was employed by John Page. He has done no active work for several years.

Medical Examiner Jones is with the North Dakota on her trial trip and it was necessary to wait until Medical Examiner Fraser of Weymouth arrived before the body of Mr. Doherty could be moved.

As a result of Saturday's work by the several teams working in the interest of the $25,000 campaign fund of the Quincy Y. M. C. A. the minute hand on the big clock now points to 26 minutes of the goal. This means that the total amount raised up to Saturday night was $13,947.77, a little more than half of the desired sum. Now that the hand has commenced the upward movement it will enable the teams to put their shoulders to the hand and with a united effort push it along until the $25 000 mark is reached.

But three more days remain in which to accomplish the desired end, but there seems to be no doubt in the minds of the workers that it will be accomplished. Last Friday the young men were turned loose and they have aided greatly in the work. This week the boys will be turned loose and as they are all hustlers some great things may be expected from them.

Saturday's contributions amounted to $2 811.02. Of this sum the Fore River Shipbuilding Co., contributed $1,000 through the Citizens committee. The odd two cents were reported by Captain John L. Miller of Team 5 and evoked some laughter when announced. It only went to show, however, that any sum, no matter how small, will be gladly received.

As usual the several teams met at 6 o'clock Saturday night for a conference, and half an hour later they filed up stairs to the hall, where an appetizing lunch was served by a committee of ladies headed by Mrs. E. R. Johnson of Wollaston. Promptly at 7 o'clock, Chairman Sedgwick rapped for order, and with a few words by way of introduction called for the day's reports.

That of the young men's teams came first.

Team A started the ball rolling with $30.

Team B. $22.
Team C $12.
Team D $12.50.
Team E $9.50.

A total of $86. for the day, which added to their work of Friday bring their amount up to $292. The report of the young men called for prolonged applause.

Then came the reports of the men's teams.

Captain Shaw of Team 1, said his workers had gathered in $137.

Captain Cummings of Team 2, $140.
Captain Murray of Team 3, $165.
Captain Bailey of Team 4, $100.
Captain Miller of Team 5, $100.02.
Captain Sidelinger of Team 6, $110.
Captain Cassidy of Team 7, $216.
Captain Sherman of Team 8, $141.
Captain Crane of Team 9, $100.
Captain Pollard of Team 10, $31.

A total fo $1,240.02 for the men's teams.

Next in order was the report of Theophilus King, chairman of the Citizens' committee. As Mr. King made the announcement that the largest contributor of the day was the Fore River Shipbuilding Co., and that they had given $1,000, there was great applause. He then went on to tell of other sums contributed the total of which he said was $1,485. These sums added made the total for the day, $2,811.02, and the grand total $13,947.77.

After a few words urging the teams to stick to the slogan W—O—R—K the meeting adjourned, and the members began to make plans for Monday's work. Sunday was an off day and gave the teams a little rest so that they could begin work with renewed vigor on Monday morning.

WEST QUINCY MAN KILLED

Found on Railroad Early Sunday Morning

William J. Fallon of 20 Miller street, a brother of ex-Representative Peter T. Fallon, was fatally injured on the railroad tracks south of the Quincy Adams depot early Sunday morning. He was found unconscious by the crew of the "double iron" freight train . He was lying near the inside of the west tracks. His right leg was cut off his right hand was cut, and he was cut on the head. He was removed to the City Hospital where he died later.

Just how the accident happened is unknown and the true facts will probably not be brought out until the inquest is held. From what can be learned Mr. Fallon was in Boston Saturday night and came to Quincy with a party of friends on the 11.27 train. When the train reached Quincy Jack Foley boarded it and joined the party all of whom left the train at Quincy Adams.

At 12.10 Officer Broberg says that there was a party of seven men at the depot one of whom was Mr. Fallon. The men were talking but making no particular disturbance. He told them that they had better go home, which some of them did. Nearly an hour later Officer Dinneen visited the depot and found three men there. One was Fallon and the other two are said to have been Jack Foley and Robert McConnell. Just how long they remained together seems somewhat of a mystery as the stories of Foley and McConnell do not agree.

Officer Thorne says that Foley told him that he left Fallon and McConnell talking together at the depot, while Officer Dinneen says McConnell told him that he left Fallon and Foley at the depot. This rather confuses matters and the opinion of the police is that one of the two men has not told all he knows.

Just what train struck the unfortunate man is as yet in doubt. There are several freight trains passing after midnight and it was probably one of these. The "double iron" whose crew found the man, is due in Quincy about 5 o'clock.

Mr. Fallon who was about 41 years of age was the manager of the Fallon Granite Company. He leaves three brothers, Peter T., John and James Fallon, and two sisters, Mrs. Thomas Cahill and Miss Nellie Fallon.

Medical Examiner Fraser of Weymouth who viewed the body, said death was due to a shock and hemorrhage.

Railroad employes at South Quincy are of the impression that it was the Plymouth express freight which passes through Quincy just before the "double iron" that struck Fallon.

BATTLESHIP VICTIMS

Two Quincy Men Were Fatally Injured on North Dakota

John T. Souden and Peter McConnell, two of the men injured on the battleship North Dakota when the boiler tube blew out, died Sunday at the Naval hospital at Portsmouth.

Both men belonged in Quincy. Souden who was 16 years of age was a son of Mrs. Alexander Souden of Water street, South Quincy. At the time of the accident he was throwing coal into the furnace and the escaping steam threw the live coals onto him burning him badly about the head and body.

McConnell, whose real name is said to be George McDonnell, was scalded by escaping steam. There were no marks or burns about his face and it is thought that he must have inhaled the steam. The police who have been looking up McConnell or McDonnell, learned that he was about 34 years of age, and that he has been employed by the Fore River Co., on two different occasions. The first time was under his right name. He returned to the Fore River some months ago and owing to some trouble about his board, he is said to have given the name of McConnell. During his last employment he boarded at 127 Arnold street. There it was learned that he was a widower, but had two children who lived with his mother-in-law at Brighton. The police will try and locate him today.

Just as the Daily Ledger went to press it was reported that a third man had died from injuries received.

ARTHUR E. SIMMONS.

Funeral services for Arthur E. Simmons, who died Friday night at the Quincy Hospital, where held Sunday afternoon at half past two at the Porter Congregational church, Brockton, Rev. Dr. Albert M. Hyde officiating. The interment was in Melrose cemetery. Mr. Simmons was taken ill in Brockton and removed to the home of his mother, Mrs. Ralph W. Jones of Quincy, formerly of Brockton. Becoming worse he was taken to the Quincy Hospital where he passed away Friday night aged 20 years. He was employed by the Old Colony Street Railway; was a member of Baraca class of the Porter church, and well known and popular throughout Brockton.

The independence of the voters will keep the majority party in the State and city guessing, and it is well that the elections are close and not all one-sided. The vote last week for secretary of State and treasurer shows that in Quincy there are about 1000 more Republicans than Democrats. The vote for secretary was 2,283 Republicans to 1,298 Democratic, and for treasurer 2,345 Republican to 1,303 Democratic. Yet with such a big margin Gov. Draper had a plurality of only 92, and Lieutenant Governor Frothingham but 219. The Governor was cut by nearly 400 Republicans, and the Lieutenant Governor by over 300. Because of the close vote in the State for both these offices it is evident that the Republicans must find new candidates for both these positions next year. Yet Gov. Draper is one of the most able business governors that Massachusetts has had, and a greater friend of labor than his rival.

We see all about us indications of the growth of the city of Quincy. First in the demand for schoolhouses which it seems impossible to fill. Then the enlargement of the Public Library and City Hospital and the movement for a county court house here, and talk of a Masonic temple. Another large new hall is nearly completed on Cottage avenue, and there has been a demand for the small stores on the street floor. Quincy is becoming more and more a business centre, one store helping another and attracting shoppers from Braintree, Weymouth and Milton as well as all parts of Quincy.

THE GREATER BATTLESHIPS.

In the sense that preparedness for war means protection and makes for peace, it is in order that we should congratulate ourselves that another great vessel—the North Dakota—has been added to our battleship fleet. We may also congratulate ourselves that the vessel as completed is a splendid example of finished American workmanship. However, the conditions are such that no matter with what complacency we may regard the occurrence, our satisfaction over it can only be momentary, because the North Dakota is far from being the last word in battleship construction—because, from present appearances, nothing this nation or any other nation may accomplish in the line of naval construction and equipment for some time to come will be the last word.

The first Dreadnought—the first Invincible, the first Terror of the seas, has long since been dwarfed, and promises speedily to become obsolete. Some of our own vessels that proudly plowed the blue in the Spanish American war are within measurable distance of the scrap heap. Some of our vessels of latest construction have already lost claim to the title "modern."

A few weeks ago the British battleship Neptune was launched. She is a more powerful vessel than any other in the British or American navy. Work has already been begun on the British battleship Devonport, intended to surpass the Neptune in every particular. This monster is to be fitted with turbine engines of 70,000 horsepower. What this means may be gathered from the fact that the engines of the American battleship Delaware are capable of developing only 30,000 horsepower, and the fact that the Mauretania, one of the twin Atlantic racers, has only 66,000 indicated horsepower. The ordinary battleship can make from seventeen to twenty-four knots an hour; the Devonport is to make thirty knots. And four vessels of this type are to be turned out of the British navy yards without delay.

In the meantime we are preparing plans for vessels that are intended to carry guns of greater caliber than those of the Devonport type. Germany, of course, with an eye on naval construction everywhere may come forward with a vessel that will far outclass the latest British and American designs.

There must be an end to this somewhere. There must be an end to it soon. The drain on the resources of the nations is too great to continue indefinitely. he North Dakota is a beautiful vessel. We can admire her even while abhorring war, for she is an expression of advanced human skill. But we could admire her much more if she were more permanent, or if her influence were less temporary. As matters stand, she can only be regarded as a very costly and very ephemeral toy.—Christian Science Monitor.

FATAL HUNTING ACCIDENTS

Two Boys Die of Wounds Received In Maine Woods

Orono, Me., Nov. 8.—Fred Dore, 12 years old, was accidentally shot and fatally wounded by a companion, Willie Martin, while hunting near Orono. Martin had aimed his rifle at a bird when Dore suddenly stepped directly in front of the gun just as the trigger was pulled. The bullet passed through his head and he died last night.

Buxton, Me., Nov. 8.—Leon Redlon, 12 years old, was out hunting with his father in the Buxton woods and the two separated. Leon laid his shotgun on a stump and placed his coat over it. Suddenly he saw a partridge and seized the gun by the muzzle and as he lifted it it was discharged, the shot entering his abdomen. He died in a few minutes.

DISHWASHER MAY BE RICH NOBLEMAN

He Receives Good News When In Dire Distress

Boston, Nov. 8.—The Post says: Edward A. Trevellyen, a middle-aged man of apparent refinement and education, who for a month past has been employed as a dish washer in a restaurant in Cambridge for wages of $4 a week and his board and room, is a nephew of the late Sir Arthur Trevellyen, a noted British peer, and will inherit his title and an income of $300,000, according to a telegram he received from a New York attorney yesterday.

The telegram, which was sent from New York, was delivered to Clarence G. Allen, the proprietor of the lunch room where Trevellyen worked, Sunday morning. As the dish washer had failed to appear Allen opened it. It was from J. P. Marshall, a New York attorney, and read:

"Your uncle died Aug. 16, leaving an income of $300,000."

Allen immediately arrived at the conclusion that Trevellyen had been intercepted and killed so as to make room for other heirs, but the dish washing peer made his appearance about 4 o'clock in the afternoon and then left, saying he was going to Boston.

For years Trevellyen has been in a stage bordering onto destitution, yet, according to his story, at any time he could have surrendered his papers that made certain his identification and could have borrowed sufficient sums of money to live comfortably.

HEAD OF WASHINGTON

It Will Appear on Five-Cent Pieces If New Die Is Accepted

Philadelphia, Nov. 8.—Dies have been made at the United States mint for a United States 5-cent piece bearing the head of George Washington, to take the place of the nickels now in circulation.

If the die is accepted it will be the first portrait coin in actual authorized circulation to carry the head of Washington.

Washington himself refused to allow such a coin to be issued during his life time. He said it was a monarchial custom, not fitted for a republic.

EXCEEDS ALL EXPECTATIONS

Uncle Sam's New Dreadnaught Surpasses Sister Ship

THE NORTH DAKOTA'S TESTS

Turbine Engines Develop Greater Top Speed and Generate Power For Low Speed at Less Expense Than Reciprocating Engines of the Delaware —Loss of a Life Attends Trial of Ship Which Leads the World

Boston, Nov. 8.—Throughout the twenty-four hours of her test at twelve knot speed, which finished Sunday, the new Dreadnought, North Dakota, maintained an economical consumption of coal and water, the average being well below the guaranteed mean amount.

The consumption tests of the North Dakota thus far have been in keeping with the remarkable speed shown in her special mile trials, all tests having developed better performances even than her builders expected.

Up to the present stage the North Dakota has far eclipsed the showing of her sister ship and rival for American naval supremacy, the Delaware. Her turbine engines during the trials thus far completed have developed a greater top-speed and have generated power for a low speed at less expense to coal and oil supplies than did the reciprocating engines of the Delaware in her trials of a month ago.

But in exceeding the Delaware's performances the North Dakota sacrificed one life, that of 16-year-old John Souden of Quincy, who died at Portsmouth naval hopsital; also injured three others, one of whom may die. The accident happened on Friday, in the course of the battleship's four-hour test. A boiler tube split, filling the fireroom with scalding steam and rendering four boilers unfit for use. Young Souden never recovered from the physical shock, although just after the accident he cried out to the officers not to mind him, but drive the ship to a record.

The coal bunkers of the North Dakota were emptied of 106.2 tons during her twenty-four hours' test. In this same test the Delaware consumed 111 tons. It had been expected that the turbine engines would require more coal than the reciprocating engines of the Delaware. The recorded water rate during the test was 22.7 pounds per brake horsepower, per hour. It was stipulated in the government contract that not more than 25 pounds should be consumed, a saving from the contract figures of 2.3 pounds per hour.

The revolutions of the North Dakota's monel nickel composition propellers averaged 143.162 a minute. The horsepower developed, including auxiliaries, was 4000.

After anchoring about five miles east of Boston light yesterday for the purpose of cleaning fires and oiling machinery and making other preparations, the North Dakota again steamed out to sea. This was the start of another twenty-four-hour test. On this trial the great battleship was keyed up to a 19-knot pitch. At this time she will be pushed continuously, devouring coal, oil and water, until the ship's clock shall have sounded twice around the bells of the watch divisions.

The North Dakota is the first battleship of the United States navy to be equipped with turbine engines. The different tests being made of these engines are of the greatest importance.

The North Dakota is exceeded in tonnage only by H. M. S. Neptune, Great Britain's gigantic battleship, recently launched, which is described as 30 percent more powerful than the Delaware. The Neptune has a displacement of 20,250 tons and will cost $2,000,000 when completed. The total displacement of the North Dakota is 20,000 tons.

As far as armament is concerned, however, the North Dakota will be in the lead, it is said. She will have the most formidable battery in the world —10 13-inch breech-loading rifles and two 21-inch submerged torpedo tubes. There is also a secondary battery of 14 five-inch rapid fire guns, four three-pounders, four one-pounders, two three-inch field pieces and two machine guns.

The main battery will launch at one broadside 850 pounds of steel. It will cost $100 to fire one of her 12-inch guns. The guaranteed speed of the North Dakota will be 23 knots, which she has already exceeded. To man her 900 officers and men will be required.

TAKAHIRA WILL NOT RETURN

Yasuya Uchida to Represent Japan at Our National Capital

Tokio, Nov. 8.—Baron Yasuya Uchida has been formally appointed by the emperor of Japan as his ambassador to the United States, succeeding Baron Kogoro Takahira, who is at present in Tokio on leave of absence.

BARON TAKAHIRA.

Baron Uchida, who is now in Tokio, was born in 1865, was appointed attache of the embassy in Washington in 1887, and later was transferred to London, where he served as secretary of the legation. Some time later he was again transferred to a similar post in Pekin. He was made vice minister of foreign affairs in Japan in 1900 and in 1901 he was sent to Pekin as ambassador, serving until 1906. In 1907, he was appointed ambassador at Vienna.

Mrs. Uchida is a daughter of a millionaire of Yamoto. She was educated at Vassar.

KING'S PLAIN TALK WITH HIS PREMIER

Fight Between Lords and Commons Must Be Averted

London, Nov. 8.—King Edward is in an earnest controversy with Premier Asquith over the budget. The king cares little about the budget itself, but he desires intensely to smooth away the conflict between the house of lords and the commons.

Of the possible results of this conflict the king has said: "It may leave me the only hereditary institution in the three kingdom."

When the king summoned Asquith to Balmoral castle he told the premier peremptorily that the fight between the lords and commons must be averted at all cost. The king proposed that Asquith drop the land taxes on condition that the house of lords agree to pass the rest of the budget. The premier refused to listen to terms which, he said, would drive practically his whole party into revolt. But Asquith offered to consider any proposition for a possible compromise with which Lord Lansdowne, the opposition leader in the house of lords, might approach him.

It is learnd that the last words the king uttered to the premier at this remarkable interview were: "An accommodation must be arrived at."

A FOOTBALL ROMANCE

Chicago Girl "Bet" Herself on a Game and "Lost" to Suitor

Chicago, Nov. 8.—There is a warm spot in the heart of Theodore Syverson of New York for the University of Chicago football team, for its victory over Northwestern, 34 to 0, won him Miss Marie Hermes for a bride. She left for New York today to become the wife of Syverson in "The Little Church Around the Corner."

Miss Hermes is an enthusiastic football fan. Three years ago she met Syverson at Marshall field. A year later he proposed marriage unsuccessfully.

Recently Syverson pressed the girl for a definite answer. "Are you willing to risk getting me on a wager?" she asked.

"I'll do anything to get your consent to our marriage," declared her suitor.

"If Chicago defeates Northwestern I will marry you," announced the girl.

"I'll accept the bet if the marriage is to take place at once if I win," replied Syverson, and Miss Hermes agreed.

Friends say Miss Hermes had been watching the "dope" on the two teams and felt assured that Chicago would win by a big score before she proposed the wager.

President Spends Quiet Sunday

Augusta, Ga., Nov. 8.—President Taft enjoyed a thorough rest Sunday and will start for Washington this afternoon greatly refreshed by the two lazy days he will have spent in Augusta, where he was treated "as home folks." It was the first Sunday since he has been "on the road" that he was not called upon for a sermon or an address of some sort and he appreciated the change.

Prominent Veteran Dead

Augusta, Me., Nov. 8.—Daniel W. Emery, for a quarter of a century a clerk in the office of the state treasurer and prominent in Grand Army and Masonic circles, died from the effects of a surgical operation. He was 70 years of age.

PROTECT MORE POWER SITES

Ballinger's Claim For Withdrawals Ordered by Him

HE EXPLAINS HIS ACTION

Says That Not a Single Power Site Has Passed Out of Possession of Government During Present Administration—Cancellation of Garfield Order Necessary to Prosecute Policy of Conserving Water

Washington, Nov. 8.—Secretary of the Interior Ballinger's widely discussed revocation of the famous "Garfield order" withdrawing from settlement a million and a half acres of public lands and the substitution therefor of a withdrawal order withholding from settlement 300,000 acres, is declared by Ballinger to have been wholly promotive—not subversive—of the conservation policy.

A lengthy explanation of his cancellation of the Garfield withdrawal was given to the press by Ballinger, who asserted that it was a logical step in the prosecution of the policy of conserving the water on the federal domain, and one which Mr. Garfield most have taken himself, had he remained in office.

"The first order was a blanket withdrawal issued to meet an emergency and without taking time to ascertain just where the power sites were located," Ballinger said.

"Intelligent prosecution of the policy demanded that as soon as possible thereafter these sites be located and the lands not needed to protect them be restored to entry. It would be an unwarranted reflection on Secretary Garfield to assume that he would not have done precisely what I did, ascertain as soon as practicable where the power sites were actually located and issue a new order withdrawing them from settlement and restoring to entry all lands not needed for that purpose.

"I found that by utilizing the geological survey, instead of the reclamation service, which had been employed by my predecessor, I could secure accurate information as to the location of the power sites. On consultation with the legal officers of my department I found that I could make withdrawal orders retroactive; that is, that I could issue withdrawal orders later which would effectually protect any power sites within any entries which might have been made in the interim. The retroactive provision of the subsequent withdrawals operated completely to conserve the sites.

"Not a single power site has passed out of the possession of the government during this administration," continued the secretary. "As a matter of fact the withdrawals ordered by me protected 50 percent more power sites than were conserved by the Garfield order. This implies no criticism of the Garfield order and merely shows that the Garfield order was tentative."

Secretary Ballinger said that his orders of withdrawal do not protect power sites with forest reservations, and explained that previously he offered to include power sites on forest reservations, but the offer was declined on the ground that the forest service could take care of such sites.

ROOSEVELT IS SAFE

Last Word From Party Said Nothing of Anything Happening to Him

Entebbe, Uganda, Nov. 8.—The rumors that harm has come to Colonel Roosevelt may be denied with assurance.

The following message from the British commissioner at Eldama Ravine was received here:

"Roosevelt was in excellent health on Oct. 28, and news of the party received on Oct. 30 reported all well. A letter dated Nov. 3 has been received from the party, which at the time the message was sent were on the Guas Ingishu plateau. The letter made no mention at all of Roosevelt. If any of the party is sick we, the nearest medical help, have received no news of such sickness."

NEW BEDFORD CURTAILMENT

Schedules of Production Reduced by All Corporations but One

New Bedford, Mass., Nov. 8.—Beginning today all the cloth mills in this city, excepting the Whitman corporation, will curtail their production. The mills will start at 6:50 a. m. instead of 6:30. This will reduce the hours of labor from 58 per week to 56, a curtailment of about 3½ percent.

This curtailment of twenty minutes a day will affect 13,714 operatives. While the loss of twenty minutes a day will not seriously affect the pay envelope of the individual operative, in the total it will amount to several thousand dollars a week.

NO MORE GRAY HAIR.

It is easier to preserve the color of the hair than to restore it, although it is possible to do both. Our grandmothers understood the secret. They made and used a "sage tea," and their dark, glossy hair long after middle life was due to this fact. Our mothers have gray hair before they are fifty, but they are beginning to appreciate the wisdom of our grandmothers in using "sage tea" for their hair, and are fast following suit. The present generation has the advantage of the past in that it can get a ready to use preparation called Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur. As a scalp tonic and color restorer, this preparation is vastly superior to the ordinary "sage tea" made by our grandmothers, and it can be bought for 50 cents and $1 a bottle at almost any first-class drug store, or will be sent direct by the Wyeth Chemical Company, 74 Cortlandt St., New York City, upon receipt of price.

Mental Assassination of Enemies Laid to Mrs. Stetson

TESTIMONY OF MRS. REMER

Head of New York Church Had Told Persons During "Audible Treatment" That They Were Ripe For Destruction—Error Commanded to Die—Present First Reader Adds His Testimony to the Controversy

New York, Nov. 8.—Adherents of Virgil O. Strickler and others who believe that Mrs. Augusta E. Stetson, for twenty-three years head of the First Church of Christ, Scientist, this city, should be excommunicated for "mental malpractice"—a subject that has agitated Christian Science circles here and the mother church in Boston—issued a statement disclosing interesting phases of the case.

This statement includes testimony given by Mrs. Kate Remer, one of Mrs. Stetson's students, before the directors of the mother church in Boston; extracts from a diary kept by Virgil O. Strickler, the present first reader of the local church, and a letter written by Mrs. Remer to Richard Verral, who, after seventeen years as a student of Mrs. Stetson, has repudiated her.

Audible treatment is the Christian Science euphonism for the casting of spells by means of hypnotic suggestions at a distance, which dark practice it is alleged was employed by Mrs. Stetson to compass the destruction of her enemies.

This is a sample of Mrs. Remer's testimony as given out:

Q—Did you ever hear Mrs. Stetson in the course of one of her audible treatments say to any person that he or she was ripe for destruction? A—Yes.

Q—Did you ever hear her say in one of those treatments: "Go to your place. If it be in God, then go there, but if not, then go to the other place?" A—Yes.

Q—Did you ever hear Mrs. Stetson say to her students assembled in one of those meetings that "In extreme cases, when you know that some one is trying to kill you mentally, it is proper for us to defend ourselves and to take them up by name and work against them?" A—Yes.

Q—Did you ever hear her make this declaration after mentioning the name of some person: "I command errer in you to die. The law of truth to error is, thou shalt surely die, but I say to you, error, die, and if it has to take its embodiment with it, what is that to me?" A—Yes.

Q—Ever hear Mrs. Stetson call herself the only witness of Christian Science? A—I think so.

Q—Have you ever heard her refer to the possibility or probability or certainty that the time would come whe she would be the only teacher of Christian Science? A—Yes.

Q—Have you ever heard her refer to the possibility that she did or would at some time receive mental communications from Mrs. Eddy? A—Oh, yes.

Q—Did she say Mrs. Eddy would speak to or through her only—or in other words, that she would be the only one through whom or to whom Mrs. Eddy would speak? A—I think she implied that.

A letter written by Mrs. Remer to Verrall on the night she gave her testimony in Boston says, among other things:

"I never was up against anything so fierce in my life. The questions are simply dreadful. They ask whether you are speaking from the fourth dimension."

An extract from a diary kept by Strickler was also made public. In this he says:

"I then repeated several of the things that she (Mrs. Stetson) had said in her treatment of Mr. —— and others, and asked her what her attitude would be at this time with respect to them, and she said she would deny she had said them, that she was now in the 'absolute' and that those things were not by her real self, therefore, she could with perfect propriety deny that she had said them.

"It began to dawn on me that by this sort of reasoning I might commit murder or arson, and if by any mischance I should be caught I could say I have never done it, and would go scot free simply because it was the darned old human that did it, and what was not me. An immunity bath is not in it with this sort of logic."

Mrs. Stetson in a statement issued last night sets up a justification of those teachings and practices which the Boston officials had condemned.

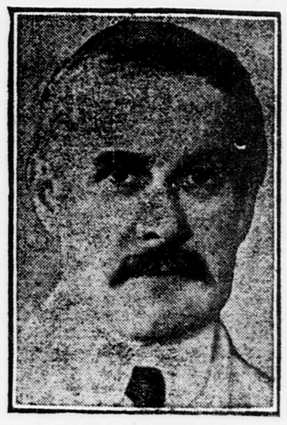

Issuance of this statement is expected to result in the immediate prosecution by the Boston officials of proceedings looking to the excommunication of Mrs. Stetson.

Foundation for this action is found in that fact that instead of making a confession of wrong doing following the second admonition administered by the directors of the mother church in Boston, Mrs. Stetson has chosen to defend those teachings and practices which the highest authorities in the church had declared to be wrongful.

Storrow Enters Into the Boston Fight For the Mayoralty

Boston, Nov. 8.—James J. Storrow's announced willingness to enter the mayoralty fight against Mayor Hibbard, former Mayor Fitzgerald and the dozen or more candidates in the field, was received with jubilation in the camp of the municipal reformers.

JAMES J. STORROW.

Storrow is president of the chamber of commerce and connected with numerous organizations. He will be tendered the support of the new Civic association, the Good Government association, the 1915 movement and the United Improvement association. Storrow will also be offered the support of the Democratic city machine in the mayoralty fight.

Nomination papers for Storrow were secured today and the papers were placed in the hands of signature solicitors without delay.

CLIP SOCIAL LISTS AT WHITE HOUSE

Objectionable Line-Up of Guests May Be Abolished

Washington, Nov. 8.—President and Mrs. Taft are considering a most important change in the social routine of the White House; a change that concerns the five state receptions given on five evenings every other Thursday beginning in January.

The change includes the doing away of the present list of invited guests for the diplomatic, judiciary, army and navy, and congressional receptions, and, of course, restricting the number of persons invited. By this means the tiresome and objectionable line-up of guests, some of whom have to stand for three-quarters of an hour before they reach the president's hand, will be done away with, and likewise the Blue room guests, which is another list inside of the ordinary list.

Mrs. Taft will reorganize the social White House. Without making it snobbish, its guests must measure to actual worth of social recognition. It will be the means whereby ever person invited will be considered the social equal of everyone else present.

FOOTBALL DENOUNCED

Boston Pastor Characterizes Death by the Game as Murder

Boston, Nov. 8.—Rev. Cortland Myers, pastor of the Tremont temple, before an audience of over 3000 people, last evening characterized the death of Cadet Eugene A. Byrne, the victim of the Harvard-West Point game, as murder.

He said: "Almost within the last week a young man of one of our country's leading institutions, in the full bloom of his young life, was trampled to death under the feet of his fellow players, whom the game had lowered to a trial of brute strength.

"Murder—yes, it was murder. It represents heathenism of the bloodiest dye that our boasted institutions are obliged to allow such practices that their prestige may be maintained. I declare to you I am ashamed of our American civilization, which allows such practices to go on unhindered or unpunished."

GIRL'S FUNERAL STOPPED

Medical Examiner Has Fresh Information Regarding St. Jean Murder

Fall River, Mass., Nov. 8.—Startling results are expected to show themselves at the hearing of the case against "Dr." Frank L. Hill, accused of the murder of Amelia St. Jean, when he is arraigned at Taunton.

For some unknown reason Medical Examiner Dunning has stopped the girl's funeral until after the hearing. He will not make public his reason and claims that he did it because of information he received outside of the police department.

HEIRS PERHAPS MISTAKEN

Bostonians Claim Ownership of Large Section of St. John

St. John, Nov. 8.—H. E. Wardroper, common clerk of St. John, received a letter from Hayes, Williams, Baker & Hersey, Boston attorneys, making a demand on property comprising a large section of the city.

The firm state that they have been retained by the heirs of William Compton to establish their claim to 1104 acres of land, a portion of which is now occupied by the city hall.

At city hall it was said in reference to the matter that the city has a clear title to the land on which the city hall stands and that the lawyers have probably made a mistake.

Records show that William Compton drew lot No. 1104 in the original granting and it is thought the number of the lot has been misunderstood as meaning acres. Lot No. 1104 is now part of St. James street and includes residences known as the Sears terrace.

—An effort is to be made at the coming session of the Legislature to make Columbus day a legal holiday in this state. Such a holiday recently established in New York, is now declared a great mistake, and protests against such action is heard in other states. It is generally conceded that Massachusetts already has plenty if not too many legal holidays, and the present proposition finds favor only in limited circles. The appropriate observance of Columbus day is all right for those especially interested in it, but the interference with business and the enforced idleness of thousands who would prefer the day's work, would not be beneficial to the welfare of the general public.—Milford Gazette.

Mental Assassination of Enemies Laid to Mrs. Stetson

TESTIMONY OF MRS. REMER

Head of New York Church Had Told Persons During "Audible Treatment" That They Were Ripe For Destruction—Error Commanded to Die—Present First Reader Adds His Testimony to the Controversy

New York, Nov. 8.—Adherents of Virgil O. Strickler and others who believe that Mrs. Augusta E. Stetson, for twenty-three years head of the First Church of Christ, Scientist, this city, should be excommunicated for "mental malpractice"—a subject that has agitated Christian Science circles here and the mother church in Boston—issued a statement disclosing interesting phases of the case.

This statement includes testimony given by Mrs. Kate Remer, one of Mrs. Stetson's students, before the directors of the mother church in Boston; extracts from a diary kept by Virgil O. Strickler, the present first reader of the local church, and a letter written by Mrs. Remer to Richard Verral, who, after seventeen years as a student of Mrs. Stetson, has repudiated her.

Audible treatment is the Christian Science euphonism for the casting of spells by means of hypnotic suggestions at a distance, which dark practice it is alleged was employed by Mrs. Stetson to compass the destruction of her enemies.

This is a sample of Mrs. Remer's testimony as given out:

Q—Did you ever hear Mrs. Stetson in the course of one of her audible treatments say to any person that he or she was ripe for destruction? A—Yes.

Q—Did you ever hear her say in one of those treatments: "Go to your place. If it be in God, then go there, but if not, then go to the other place?" A—Yes.

Q—Did you ever hear Mrs. Stetson say to her students assembled in one of those meetings that "In extreme cases, when you know that some one is trying to kill you mentally, it is proper for us to defend ourselves and to take them up by name and work against them?" A—Yes.

Q—Did you ever hear her make this declaration after mentioning the name of some person: "I command errer in you to die. The law of truth to error is, thou shalt surely die, but I say to you, error, die, and if it has to take its embodiment with it, what is that to me?" A—Yes.

Q—Ever hear Mrs. Stetson call herself the only witness of Christian Science? A—I think so.

Q—Have you ever heard her refer to the possibility or probability or certainty that the time would come whe she would be the only teacher of Christian Science? A—Yes.

Q—Have you ever heard her refer to the possibility that she did or would at some time receive mental communications from Mrs. Eddy? A—Oh, yes.

Q—Did she say Mrs. Eddy would speak to or through her only—or in other words, that she would be the only one through whom or to whom Mrs. Eddy would speak? A—I think she implied that.

A letter written by Mrs. Remer to Verrall on the night she gave her testimony in Boston says, among other things:

"I never was up against anything so fierce in my life. The questions are simply dreadful. They ask whether you are speaking from the fourth dimension."

An extract from a diary kept by Strickler was also made public. In this he says:

"I then repeated several of the things that she (Mrs. Stetson) had said in her treatment of Mr. —— and others, and asked her what her attitude would be at this time with respect to them, and she said she would deny she had said them, that she was now in the 'absolute' and that those things were not by her real self, therefore, she could with perfect propriety deny that she had said them.

"It began to dawn on me that by this sort of reasoning I might commit murder or arson, and if by any mischance I should be caught I could say I have never done it, and would go scot free simply because it was the darned old human that did it, and what was not me. An immunity bath is not in it with this sort of logic."

Mrs. Stetson in a statement issued last night sets up a justification of those teachings and practices which the Boston officials had condemned.

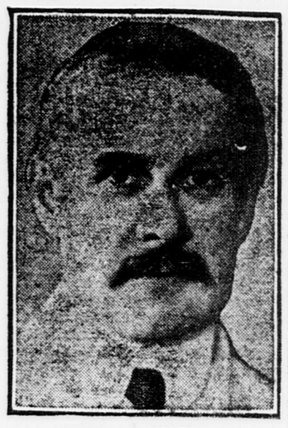

Issuance of this statement is expected to result in the immediate prosecution by the Boston officials of proceedings looking to the excommunication of Mrs. Stetson.

Foundation for this action is found in that fact that instead of making a confession of wrong doing following the second admonition administered by the directors of the mother church in Boston, Mrs. Stetson has chosen to defend those teachings and practices which the highest authorities in the church had declared to be wrongful.

Storrow Enters Into the Boston Fight For the Mayoralty

Boston, Nov. 8.—James J. Storrow's announced willingness to enter the mayoralty fight against Mayor Hibbard, former Mayor Fitzgerald and the dozen or more candidates in the field, was received with jubilation in the camp of the municipal reformers.

JAMES J. STORROW.

Storrow is president of the chamber of commerce and connected with numerous organizations. He will be tendered the support of the new Civic association, the Good Government association, the 1915 movement and the United Improvement association. Storrow will also be offered the support of the Democratic city machine in the mayoralty fight.

Nomination papers for Storrow were secured today and the papers were placed in the hands of signature solicitors without delay.

CLIP SOCIAL LISTS AT WHITE HOUSE

Objectionable Line-Up of Guests May Be Abolished

Washington, Nov. 8.—President and Mrs. Taft are considering a most important change in the social routine of the White House; a change that concerns the five state receptions given on five evenings every other Thursday beginning in January.

The change includes the doing away of the present list of invited guests for the diplomatic, judiciary, army and navy, and congressional receptions, and, of course, restricting the number of persons invited. By this means the tiresome and objectionable line-up of guests, some of whom have to stand for three-quarters of an hour before they reach the president's hand, will be done away with, and likewise the Blue room guests, which is another list inside of the ordinary list.

Mrs. Taft will reorganize the social White House. Without making it snobbish, its guests must measure to actual worth of social recognition. It will be the means whereby ever person invited will be considered the social equal of everyone else present.

FOOTBALL DENOUNCED

Boston Pastor Characterizes Death by the Game as Murder

Boston, Nov. 8.—Rev. Cortland Myers, pastor of the Tremont temple, before an audience of over 3000 people, last evening characterized the death of Cadet Eugene A. Byrne, the victim of the Harvard-West Point game, as murder.

He said: "Almost within the last week a young man of one of our country's leading institutions, in the full bloom of his young life, was trampled to death under the feet of his fellow players, whom the game had lowered to a trial of brute strength.

"Murder—yes, it was murder. It represents heathenism of the bloodiest dye that our boasted institutions are obliged to allow such practices that their prestige may be maintained. I declare to you I am ashamed of our American civilization, which allows such practices to go on unhindered or unpunished."

GIRL'S FUNERAL STOPPED

Medical Examiner Has Fresh Information Regarding St. Jean Murder

Fall River, Mass., Nov. 8.—Startling results are expected to show themselves at the hearing of the case against "Dr." Frank L. Hill, accused of the murder of Amelia St. Jean, when he is arraigned at Taunton.

For some unknown reason Medical Examiner Dunning has stopped the girl's funeral until after the hearing. He will not make public his reason and claims that he did it because of information he received outside of the police department.

HEIRS PERHAPS MISTAKEN

Bostonians Claim Ownership of Large Section of St. John

St. John, Nov. 8.—H. E. Wardroper, common clerk of St. John, received a letter from Hayes, Williams, Baker & Hersey, Boston attorneys, making a demand on property comprising a large section of the city.

The firm state that they have been retained by the heirs of William Compton to establish their claim to 1104 acres of land, a portion of which is now occupied by the city hall.

At city hall it was said in reference to the matter that the city has a clear title to the land on which the city hall stands and that the lawyers have probably made a mistake.

Records show that William Compton drew lot No. 1104 in the original granting and it is thought the number of the lot has been misunderstood as meaning acres. Lot No. 1104 is now part of St. James street and includes residences known as the Sears terrace.

—An effort is to be made at the coming session of the Legislature to make Columbus day a legal holiday in this state. Such a holiday recently established in New York, is now declared a great mistake, and protests against such action is heard in other states. It is generally conceded that Massachusetts already has plenty ,if not too many legal holidays, and the present proposition finds favor only in limited circles. The appropriate observance of Columbus day is all right for those especially interested in it, but the interference with business and the enforced idleness of thousands who would prefer the day's work, would not be beneficial to the welfare of the general public.—Milford Gazette.

A large vote is being cast at the special town meeting in Braintree today to fill the vacancy on the board of Selectmen. The candidates are Albion C. Drinkwater and George H. Holbrook.

Dr. Manchester of Prospect avenue, secretary of the Diocese of Massachusetts assisted the rector, Rev. A. Edwin Clattenburg, at St. Chrysostom's church Sunday morning at the 10.30 o'clock service.

GRANITE CITY CLUB.

A large number of guests were entertained Saturday evening by the Granite City club at its rooms in the Savings Bank building. There was no special reception committee, for each member constituted himself a committee of one to see that the visitors enjoyed themselves. During the evening they enjoyed billiards, pool or cards as individual taste dictated. There was continuous music by Norris orchestra, so that those who did not participate in the various amusements could indulge in social intercourse while enjoying the music. Refreshments were served by the entertainment committee.

WOLLASTON A. A. WINS.

The Wollaston A. A. defeated the Cunningham Gymnasium team on Saturday by the score of 9 to 6. Cunningham scored a touchdown in the first half when the ball was thrown over Gourlie's head on an attempted punt near Wollaston's goal line. Powell of Milton got the ball and carried it over the line.

Wollaston then got busy and rushed the ball to Milton's 30 yard line, and then on a trick play through tackle Phil Clapp took the ball over for Wollaston's first score. As Clapp kicked the goal the score stood 6 to 6 at end of the first half.

In the second half, Wollaston essayed a forward pass, and getting away with it Mansfield carried it to the 35 yard line. Robbins kicked a pretty field goal and the score stood 9 to 6 in favor of Wollaston. In the last part of the last half, Milton had the ball in Wollaston's territory all the time but the spendid defence by the local lads kept them from scoring.

☞ C. Patch & Son offer a timely suggestion in their ad today. Cold weather is coming on and it should not find you with an empty coal bin.

CIVIC PROBLEMS OF QUINCY

Dr. Hardy Tells of the Three Imperative Needs

"The need of a vision, a plan and program" "Cooperation" and "Civic Consecration" are Quincy's three imperative needs, said Dr. Hardy at the Bethany church Sunday evening. It was the first of a series of addresses on Civic problems.

In opening his address, Dr. Hardy, quoting from a report of a special commission to look into country life said: "The real problem is in the hands of the ministers and country churches." The great work of the church is to deal with human lives; the making of character, manhood and womanhood. It deals with all ages and classes and nationalities, and all people in all their relations with life. It is of great importance therefore that the church give its greatest work to make better men and women. All people come under the scope of the church, and a church is remiss in its duty that does not deal with them. Quincy has contributed her share toward making this great nation. Some of the important events of the country started here in Quincy. The great task of regenerating the city comes back to the church.

It behoves us therefore to make a better city so that when we become a part of Boston we make it better. Quincy is no mean city. It is beautifully located. It has fine scenery, parks and playgrounds. Fine transportation facilities, quarries and an unsurpassed water front. We need, therefore, first of all a vision, a plan and program.

Sometimes in our great cities we do not know where we are going. We need a plan. We need a topographical plan of our city. To have a vision of what the city might be. A plan of the coming Quincy. There are hundreds of things that might be done.

Brewer's corner, the square at the West Quincy depot, the Adams birthplaces might be made beauty spots. City Square might be improved a little. Granite men would do well to erect a monument to demonstrate the possibilities of Quincy granite. We need a vision of all these things. It is a tremendous problem. Here Dr. Hardy made reference to the good work of the Anti-Tuberculosis Society.

Quincy's second imperative need is cooperation. Quincy lacks this. There is very little cooperation between the different villages of the city. We must learn to mobilize our forces.

Lastly there is need of civic consecration. We must consecrate ourselves to this great civic problem. It is an outrage that there is not a public waiting room in City Square. The public should demand waiting room facilities. There is great need of a smoking room at the Quincy depot. There are many things in Quincy that need correcting. They are undermining the young men.

During the service, in addition to singing by the congregation Mrs. Emma S. Moore sang several selections.

The address next Sunday evening will be on "The best man in Quincy."

EXHIBIT FROM QUINCY.

One of the best exhibits of the year by the Massachusetts Horticultural society of Boston is the fall chrysanthemum show which always attracts considerable attention. Three of the most striking vases exhibited this season are by James Nicol of this city, his yellow and white chrysanthemums calling forth much favorable comment. His greenhouse on Coddington street is the mecca for lovers of this flower and on Sunday the public was privileged to enjoy, the sight, some three hundred plants being in bloom. Mr. Nicol's greenhouse is private as he grows the flowers as a pleasure and recreation, aside from his regular duties as superintendent of Mt. Wollaston cemetery, but flower lovers are always welcome guests.

QUINCY POINT CHURCH.

Large congregations were in attendance Sunday at both the morning and evening services, at the Washington Street church. In addition to the sermon by the pastor, Rev. A. R. Atwood, the communion was celebrated at the morning service and there were baptisms and reception of new members. At the evening service a harvest concert was given under the direction of superintendent Sherborne and Sunday school which has a membership of over 300. Several young men from this school, march in the State S. S. parade in Boston next Sunday afternoon.

FAREWELL PARTY.

A surprise was tendered Miss Hilma Anderson Saturday night, at the home of Miss Ellen Holmgren, who planned the party. A large gathering met at Mr. Samuelson's home and from there marched to surprise Miss Anderson who is leaving for Europe the 30th of the month. Mr. Holmgren presented her a beautiful locket and ring, in a little speech, saying how good she had been and well deserved the token. Ice cream, fruit, coffee and candy were served, songs sung, jokes cracked etc., until the party broke up at three o'clock . It was a splendid affair and everybody fully enjoyed themselves.

SERIOUS FALL.

William Morrissey was seriously injured early Sunday morning at the stable of Bruce & Myatt on Hancock street. It appears that Morrissey entered the stable between 5 and 6 o'clock to feed the horses. He went to the hay loft to give the animals some hay and failed to notice that the scuttle hole was open. While working about the loft he stepped into the hold and fell a distance of twelve feet to the floor below, sustaining serious if not fatal injuries. He was found on the street floor of the stable some time later, and was hurried to the City Hospital, where his injuries were pronounced to be of a serious nature. Sunday afternoon it was found necessary to operate upon the injured man. He is now resting comfortably, but his condition is considered serious.

DOUGLAS IN COLLISION.

The six-masted schooner, William L. Douglas, built at Quincy, while running before a strong northwest wind Friday night, Nov. 5, struck the four-masted schooner Marguerite when off Vineyard Haven. A big hole was stove in the Marguerite, while the Douglas was not very badly damaged. However, her port anchor was broken and all her head stays were carried away.

ENDOWMENT FUND.

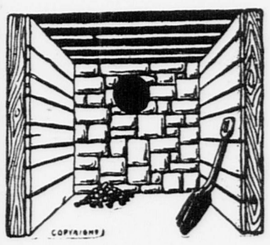

The Swedish Lutheran church had the pleasure of a visit on Sunday from the Rev. Ekblad and Professor Kempe, of Rock Island, Illinois. Pastor Ekblad preached the sermon and after the services the two visitors solicited subscriptions for an endowment fund to be raised by the Augustana Synod Theological seminary, which fund is ot be raised by the Augustant Synod of the Lutheran church before next spring.

WILL CONTEST.

A Boston paper reports that Volney Mitchell of Atlantic, Asa Mitchell of South Boston and Mrs. Mary C. Ireland of Portland, Me., children of the late Asa Mitchell of Beachmont, are contesting his will in the probate court, alleging undue influence on the part of his widow, their stepmother.

Mitchell left about $50,000 and was in the building and contracting business. The children, Asa and Mrs. Ireland are not mentioned in his will, which was executed on Sept. 19, 1908. The property is left in trust for the benefit of the widow and the son Volney, although the latter is not to receive anything for 10 years, unless the widow dies within that period, in which case he gets all. If he dies before then, she gets all.

JEWISH SCHOOL.

To Be Established at Quincy Point on Cyril Street.

Permission has been granted by the Inspector of Buildings to F. W. Grant to move the office building formerly used by the South Shore Grain Co., on the old Graham estate, to a lot at 22 Cryil street. The building is a one story affair and is 18 by 30 feet, and has been purchased by the Talmod Tora association of which Samuel Castleman, Joseph Levounich and David Silverman are trustees. It is to be altered over into a school building for Jewish children and will accommodate about 50 children.

CANDIDATES FOR COUNCIL.

It is reported that Councilman Bean who neglected to file nomination papers through on oversight will run on nomination papers for councilman from Ward Five. It is also reported that ex-Councilman Broughton will run on nomination papers for councilman from Ward Five.

Councilman Cherrington for whom papers were filed for Councilman from Ward Six and Councilman at Large has withdrawn from the ward contest at the caucus and will run for councilman at large.

PRESIDENTS BRIDGE.

The southerly end of Presidents bridge on Adams street will be closed Wednesday morning, for the balance of the week, during the rebuilding of said bridge. As this is the section of the bridge where the street car tracks are located it will necessitate passengers transferring at the bridge. Teams desiring to cross the bridge will have to cross the northerly end of the bridge and use Bridge, Thayer or Alleyne streets to Hancock street, or they may use Upland road and Dimmock street to Hancock street.

CITY COUNCIL READY TO CALL A HALT

No More Street Loans to be Recommended by Committee on Streets This Year

An adjourned meeting of the City Council was held Monday evening, and although called largely to hear the report on the State election there was considerable business transacted. The veto of the Mayor of the Woodward Ordinance was taken from the table and sustained, and a new order amending the ordinance offered. Councilmen Bean, Carey, Cherrington Flaherty, Freeman, Nelson, Nowland, Richards and Russell were absent.

PETITIONS.

The Telephone Co., petitioned for attachments on North Payne street. Referred to Committee in Streets.

Several applications for minor licenses were referred.

WATER EXTENSIONS.

The Committee on Water Supply reported an order appropriating $5,000 for the extension of the water system of the city. Referred to the Finance Committee.

The Committee on Water Supply reported ought not to pass, on order 375, for a reduction of the water rates of the city as the fixing water rates is not in the power of the Council. Laid on the table.

TO NEXT COUNCIL.

The Finance Committee reported reference to the next City Council on the following orders;

Appropriating $600 for retaining wall and catch basins on Willard street. Accepted.

Appropriating $1,000 to rebuild South Walnut street. Accepted.

Appropriating $500 to rebuild Larry place. Recommitted.

Appropriating $500 to grade rear of High school lot. Order rejected.

In regard to the order to grade the rear of the High school lot, Councilman Bryant said that the Commissioner of Public Works had agreed to remove the gravel which had been dumped on the street in the rear of the building and the appropriation therefore was not necessary.

HOUGHS NECK SCHOOL.

The Finance Committee reported an amendment to the order appropriating $20,000 for a school building at Houghs Neck. The amendment changes the date of the approval of the plans by the School Committee to Oct. 28 and the date of the bonds from Oct. 1 to Dec. 1.

Councilman Gilson raised a point of order as to the right of the Finance Committee to change the date of approval of the plans. The School Committee had notified the Council that plans were approved Sept. 7, and therefore Sept. 7 was the legal date. He asked the City Solicitor as to the notifying the Council of date of approval of plans.

City Solicitor McAnarney said that under the charter any letter from the School Committee approving plans should be certified to the City Council.

Councilman Bryant said that the letter approving modified plans had been addressed to him as chairman of the Finance Committee, and it was among the papers with the order.

The City Solicitor replied that the approval should be certified to the City Council. It might be done at any time before final action was taken. The charter was clear on that point.

Councilman Bryant made some allusion to the Public Buildings Committee being remiss in its duty which brought a reply from Councilman Gilson that plans and specifications had been acted upon by the Public Buildings Committee.

Councilman Moir said the Public Buildings Committee had nothing to do with them. The chairman of the committee adopted an entirely new method of putting this matter through. He assumed the function of the committee.

Councilman Gilson, chairman of the committee, denied this. The committee was called together to act on the plans and specifications and the gentleman was not present.

The report of the Finance Committee was then accepted the order read and referred to the Ordinance Committee.

The committee on Licenses reported an order granting a pool table license to Koury Bros. Adopted.

PUBLIC HEARINGS.

The Committee on Streets reported an order for a public hearing Nov. 15, at 7.45 o'clock on petitions of the Telephone Co., for a location for poles and attachments. Adopted.

An order for a public hearing, Nov. 15 ,at 7.55 o'clock, on petition of the Street Railway Co., for a location for poles. Adopted.

An order for a public hearing, Nov. 15, at 8.05 o'clock on petitions of the Electric Light Co., for a location for poles. Adopted.

OTHER REPORTS.

The same committee reported an order granting the Citizens Gas Co., permission to lay mains on Bates avenue. Ordered to second reading.

The same committee reported an order granting the Telephone Co., permission to make attachments on various streets . Ordered to a second reading.

The Committee on Elections reported the result of the State election of Nov. 2, which was declared to have been as read.

NEW BUSINESS

Councilman Bryant offered an order refunding Eliza J. Davis the sum of $4.00 for taxes overpaid. Referred to Finance Committee.

Councilman Bryant offered an order refunding Ellen Fegan the sum of $10.20 for taxes overpaid. Referred to Finance Committee.

Councilman Abele offered an order for a fire alarm box on the corner of Dimmock street and Upland road. Referred to Committee on Fire Department.

Councilman McDevitt offered an order for a light on Willard street near the O. T. Rogers granite quarry. Referred to the Executive.

WOODWARD ORDINANCE.

Councilman Abele offered an order amending the Woodward ordinance.

Councilman Gardner raised the point of order that this same ordinance was now before the Council in the form of a veto.

The chair ruled the point well taken.

Upon motion of Councilman Abele the communication of the Mayor vetoing the Woodward ordinance was taken from the table and sustained.

Councilman Abele then offered an order amending the Woodward Ordinance. The amendment adds several sections. These provide that all investments shall conform with the requirements of the law relating to Savings Banks. That the President of the Council shall annually in October appoint a committee of three to examine the fund, investments, etc. It also provides that all applications for loans shall be made in writing on a blank form which is attached.

The order was read and referred to the Committee on Ordinances.

CAR SERVICE.

Councilman Flynn offered an order for a special committee of three to confer with the Street Railway Company relative to better car service and a suitable waiting room in City Square. Adopted. The committee appointed are: Councilmen Flynn, Smith and Abele.

Five days' total		$16,433
Balance needed		$8,567

The fifth day of the Y. M. C. A. campaign to raise $25,000.00 resulted in pledges of $2476.25 which carried the total to $16,433.00. This leaves the amount to be raised in two days, $8,567.00. Ordinarily this would seem impossible, but the Y. M. C. A. workers are not at all discouraged. All are enthusiastic and confident that the balance will be secured before midnight on Wednesday.

After their daily custom, the teams and committees met last night at 6 o'clock at the Y. M. C. A. building for conference. The day had been inclement, and a few thought it might have been a "Blue Monday," but some of the teams had done their best day's work.

The menu is varied every night at the suppers, and Mrs. W. G. Shaw and her assistants served clam chowder and pickles, a beef loaf, rolls, biscuits, pies, cocoa, ice cream and cake.

The Young Men's team was the first to report and it passed its record of Saturday by $29, having secured pledges of $115. Applause.

Capt. Shaw of Team 1 had had one of his best days, and reported $143. This passed all days except Nov. 3.

Team 2, Capt. Cummings, had the best report of the evening, $249, which was a record breaker for the team and carried its total to $876. They intend to pass the $1,000 mark.

Capt. Murray of Team 3 reported $145, which carried the team total to $638.

Capt. Bailey of Team 4 had the second best report of the evening, having received subscriptions from the Walther men's class of the Wollaston Baptist church and the Ladies' Benevolent society of the Wollaston Congregational church, a total of $197.

Capt. Miller and Team 5 continue their good work, and $164 for the evening made their grand total $1,520.

Capt. Sidelinger of Team 6 reported $45 and has a total of $666 for five days.

Capt. Cassidy of Team 7 was third best for the evening with $167.25, and is second among the teams with a grand total of $1,199.

Capt. Sherman of Team 8 added $63 and carried his total to $523.

Team 9, Capt. Crane, also went over $100 and with $724 is among the leading teams in the race.

Capt. Pollard of Team 10 reported $45 and has a total of $209.

The Citizens' Committee propose to keep their total above $1,000 every day and have a total of 6,090 for their five days' work besides $2,215 contributed by Chairman King.

With a determination to raise a large part of the balance that evening the men got away early, and hope to raise today fully $4,000 of the $8,567.-50 needed to make the $25,000.

The Quincy Y. M. C. A. is to be congratulated on the success that has thus far attended its efforts to raise $25,000. The average of $3,600 per day however, has not been pledged, so that strenuous efforts will be necessary today and tomorrow. The daily subscriptions have been:

The committee is sanguine of success and if necessary is prepared to work late tonight and tomorrow night. Time will be up at midnight Wednesday night, but the committee hope to complete their labors at an earlier hour. It would be much better for any who have not contributed to do so before sunset Wednesday, rather than run the risk of being pulled out of bed. Where everyone helps the fund necessary is easily secured, and it will be a satisfaction to all subscribers in years to come that they contributed toward a Y. M. C. A. building for Quincy.

The press generally is laudatory in its reports of the achievements of the battleship North Dakota. No product of the Fore River shipyard at Quincy has achieved a National reputation so suddenly as this mammoth 20,000 ton dreadnaught. She is the fastest of her class, and at the same time economical in the consumption of coal. Perhaps the most satisfactory feature to the company is the success of the Curtis or American turbines, which have been developed by the Fore River and are now fulfilling all expectations. Success means new work for the Quincy shipyard.

The new ward at our Hospital is expected to be opened by the first of February. With the new open ward for women and the many rooms for private patients ,all as perfect as are to be found anywhere, the facilities for caring for the sick will be vastly increased. It is not to be understood, however ,that any of the money contributed during Hospital week Nov. 14-21 is for the new ward. All funds collected then are devoted to pay the current expenses of the institution this year and any excess will be used to reduce the debt incurred over a year ago in enlarging the heating plant.

The "1915" Boston Exposition opened in the old Art Museum building, Copley Square, Boston, Monday morning has proven itself unlike any public show or fair that has been presented in this part of the country. Probably it is absolutely unique either in America or elsewhere. While intended to have an educational purpose to show what the city contains for its welfare and improvement, there are in the 200 separate exhibits numerous graphic features, working models, mechanical devices and groups of workers such as are always interesting to those who like to see things being done.

ADVERTISEMENTS MADE VOTES.

One fact connected with the campaign in Massachusetts stands out clear and conclusive. It was the Democratic advertising campaign which nearly won it the state. It matters not if the logic was fallacious, the arguments insincere ,the promises preposterous, they were read and believed by many because they were not met and refuted by the other side and they came within a hair's breadth of winning the election. It was all one sided. Perhaps next year the Republicans will also present their side of the situation.—Framingham News.

BOSTON'S OPERA SEASON

Opens Under Favorable Auspices In New Temple of Music

Boston, Nov. 9.—The Boston opera house, that required $1,500,000 to create—completed, embellished, the realizatioins of dreams of years' standing—opened its doors last night.

The glories of the building broke upon the eyes of the elect of the city as they gathered. The splendors of the beautiful house met the vision of men and women who represent untold wealth, holding positions in society that mark them as fair favored among their fellows, and when the gleaming lights from the great centre chandelier high over thei rheads shone out resplendent ere they passed from its doors when it was all over, each one felt satisfied with what had transpired and what is yet to come.

"Nordica," "Constantino," "Homer"—names to conjure by in the halls of music, sang upon the stage, but "La Gioconda" and the parties to its production were not in themselves the centre of interest among the 3000 people that the great audience numbered.

Women, emblazoned with diamonds, turned their glasses here and there that they might view every portion of the great edifice, seek out the boxes where those as favored as themselves found paces of vantage, and after the sweep and the glances that gave them this information, perchance then turned to stage and characters presented thereon.

The artists participating in the achievement of the opening night found acoustic properties that marked the new opera house that Boston today contains as one of the finest in the world.

They were greeted enthusiastically at times. The curtain calls were fairly frequent, the solos liberally applauded.

HEALTH BOARD IS ACCUSED OF GRAFT

Said to Have Imposed Upon Ice Cream Peddlers

Newburyport, Mass., Nov. 9.—Charged with accepting a gratuity, the three members of Salisbury's health board were brought into the local court and pleaded not guilty to the charge. The board consists of John F. Pike, Furmer Greeley and Alden Moody.

The alleged graft is the result of dealings with Italian ice cream peddlers, who claim that they paid $25 each for licenses to peddle ice cream at Salisbury beach last summer, when the license fee is only $1.

WHOLESALE VACCINATION

Immigrants on Big Ocean Liner Were Exposed to Smallpox

Boston, Nov. 9.—A Bulgarian immigrant suffering from smallpox was found in the steerage of the White Star liner Canopic when she reached quarantine from Naples and the Azores. Dr. Carson, the port physician, detected the man's condition while inspecting the steerage and at once ordered him removed to the smallpox hospital on Gallop's island.

He then ordered the vaccination of all the immigrants on board as well as members of the crew who had been in the steerage. In consequence, the steamer was delayed ninie hours at quarantine and 1162 passengers and a number of he crew were kept under surveillance aboard the ship over night.

In addition to the 1162 passengers in the steerage, the steamer carried 82 first class and 154 second class passengers.

FAKE DEATH TALE

It Is Disposed of by Dispatch From Roosevelt to His Wife

Rome, Nov. 9.—Mrs. Theodore Roosevelt received a dispatch from her husband, the former president, in which he declared there is no basis for the rumors of an accident to him and saying that he is well.

The cablegram was sent from Nairobi. This dispatch from Roosevelt sets at rest for once and all the fake rumors of a serious mishap to him which agitated the world.

Mrs. Roosevelt, on hearing of the reports, had made arrangements to hasten to Africa should she learn that her husband was ill.

Railroad Clerks Demand Increase

New Haven, Nov. 9.—The freight clerks of the Boston and Maine railroad have put in a claim for a complete revision of their wage system. They demand a raise from $1.75 to $2.25 a day and a curtailment of their working hours.

Little Fellow Drank Poison

Lewiston, Me., Nov. 9.—James Brynes, 7 years old, is dead as the result of his drinking the contents of a bottle of poison which he picked up in an alley near his home.

Salt Lake City Shaken

Salt Lake City, Nov. 9.—This city was shaken by an earthquake. The shock was slight, but was felt all over the city.

Twelve Thousand Miners Strike

Sydney, N. S. W., Nov. 9.—Twelve thousand miners in the collieries of Newcastle and Maitland have struck.

LIVES IN GOVERNOR'S HANDS

Last Fight to Save Two Chinamen From the Electric Chair

Boston, Nov. 9.—Warry Charles and Joe Guey, for whom final arguments for pardon were made before the pardon committee of the governor's council, will not know their ultimate fate much before Thanksgiving.

Charles W. Bartlett for the defendants, and ex-Acting District Attorney Dwyer made their final arguments yesterday. Governor Draper leaves tonight for a trip to New Orleans and will not be able to give the pardon his attention until his return.

Mr. Dwyer, in his final argument, said that he was surprised that the defendants' counsel had brought forth no new evidence to show that the defendants did not commit the crimes charged againt them, but that instead the case stood just where it stood when the men were convicted.

Mr. Bartlett argued that the executive department of the government has a perfect right to decide that the judicial branch has erred.

TRIALS SATISFACTORY

Turbines of Battleship North Dakota Show Their Superior Efficiency

Boston, Nov. 9.—The new battleship North Dakota, which completed her trial trips yesterday, anchored at President Roads last night and proceeded to Fore River today to receive the finishing touches preparatory to delivery to the government.

H. G. Smith, general manager of Fore River Shipbuilding company, reported the trials satisfactory in every particular.

The turbines with which this ship is equipped have showed their superior efficiency by a coal consumption of only 295 tons, which is 20 tons less than was required by the recoprocating engines on the battleship Delaware, which recently completed her trials.

PAPERS IN CASE KEPT FROM PUBLIC

Mrs. Astor Granted a Divorce From Her Husband

New York, Nov. 9.—Mrs. John Jacob Astor was granted an interlocutory decree of divorce from her husband, Colonel Astor, by Justice Mills, sitting in the supreme court in this city. All papers in the case were sealed and the proceedings were most carefully guarded.

Mrs. Astor, it is claimed, will receive $10,000,000. Furthermore, it is declared that Mrs. Astor is to have possession of the daughter, Alva, while Astor is to have the son, Vincent. It is understood that Mrs. Astor will not receive any of her husband's real estate.

RECORD CATCH OF FISH

The Tattler Brings Half a Million Pounds of Cod to Gloucester

Gloucester, Mass., Nov. 9.—The fishing schooner Tattler arrived in this port with the largest fare of salted fish ever brought to Gloucester. In the cargo was a full 500,000 pounds of cod, valued at $17,000, a percentage of which will be divided among the twenty-seven men of the crew.

Captain Geel told of a hurricane Wednesday night that nearly cost the lives of five members of the crew.

The schooner was thrown on her beam ends in the storm. Seaman Chemist was thrown overboard, while four other men were hurled against the jumper boom and a coil of cable with great force.

As soon as the Tattler could be hove to a rope was thrown out for Chemist, who managed to grasp the life line and was pulled to safety.

FOREIGNERS PARTICIPATE

Funeral of Chinese Dowager Empress, Who Died Twelve Months Ago

Pekin, Nov. 9.—The funeral of the dowager empress of China, who died twelve months ago, took place today, the procession starting from this city on its eighty miles of funeral route to the eastern tombs.

The Chinese foreign board issued a thousand tickets to foreigners who witnessed the start of the funeral procession. The guards of the different legations stationed in the capital participated in the cortege inside the city.

Nine Perish In Fire

New York, Nov. 9.—Trapped in an inferno of exploding and lava-like celluloid, nine persons were burned to death in a $500,000 fire which destroyed the Robert Morrison & Son comb factory in Brooklyn. Many others were injured in the panic of employes and in the attempts to save the injured.

Lynn Has 86,000 Population

Lynn, Mass., Nov. 9.—Figures received at city hall show that the population of this city is about 86,000, indicating a gain of nearly 20,000 over the national census of 1890.

The ladies have been busy sewing for several weeks and have a large supply of useful and fancy articles to be sold at reasonable prices. The supper committee is prepared to serve two suppers, the first one at six o'clock and the other at seven.

RED WIDOW SCORES

Public Hoots Prosecutor at the Trial of Mme. Steinheil

Paris, Nov. 9.—Mme. Steinheil appeared much calmer Monday in her trial on the charge of having killed her hsuband and mother. The prisoner had evidently regained her old confidence and was cool and collected.

Monday's proceedings are considered a distinct victory for the defendant, as no direct evidence implicating the accused was produced. On the contrary, several of the state's witnesses testified in her favor.

Dr. Aceray, physician and friend of the Steinheil family, testified that Mme. Steinheil seemed to be a devoted wife. Her first words when he arrived on the scene of the crime were: "Save my mother; save Adolphe."

After some questions as to what Mme. Steinheil told the doctor in regard to her husband's making poppy, the advocate general broke in: "Your contradictions are extraordinary. You can withdraw."

This caused the first serious protest that has been heard from the general public in the audience. The audience hooted repeatedly, despite the advocate general's threats to take severe measures.

$100,000 Church Fire

New York, Nov. 9.—Trinity Methodist church of West Brighton, S. I., is in ashes. The church cost $100,000 and practically all that was saved was the great organ recently installed at a cost of $10,000.

SAGE FOR DARKENING THE HAIR.

There is nothing new about the idea of using sage for restoring the color of the hair. Our great-grandmothers kept their locks soft, dark and glossy by using a "sage tea." Whenever their hair fell out or took on a dull, faded or streaked appearance, they made a brew of sage leaves and applied it to their hair with wonderfully beneficial effect. Nowadays we don't have to resort to the old-time, tiresome method of gathering the herbs and making the brew. This is done by skillful chemists better than we could do it ourselves, and all we have to do is to call for the ready-made product. Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur, containing sage in the proper strength, with the addition of Sulphur, another old-time scalp remedy. This preparation is sold by all first-class druggists for 50c. and $1.00 a bottle, or is sent direct by the Wyeth Chemical Company, 74 Cortlandt St., New York City, upon receipt of price.

WELL EQUIPPED OFFICIAL.

A Washington dispatch says William J. Battison of 229 Beale street, Wollaston who has been appointed as Consulting Expert Agent of the Census Bureau in connection with the wool and woolen industry, has been for twenty-four years the geheral agent of the National Association of Wool Manufacturers in Boston, and is recognized in New England as a foremost authority on the history and development of textile manufacturing in America. He has written much on this subject, and has had broad experience in statistical work.

Mr. Battison was special agent expert clerk of the eleventh census, and was also expert special agent in charge of the wool manufacture and of hosiery and knit goods in the twelfth census. He was associated with the late Dr. John L. Hayes, first secretary of the National Association of Wool Manufacturers, and also with his successor, S. N. D. North, who left the office of the association to become the director of the census. Of Mr. Battison's report on the wool manufacture in the twelfth census, the Yorkshire, Observer, published in the heart of the great English wool manufacturing industry, said:

"The English census department has never yet laid hands upon an official with the qualification and enthusiasm for his subject displayed by Mr. Battison" and that "It is hard to say whether in reading this report we are more amazed at the fulness and completeness of the information it contains in regard to every department of the wool industries of the United States, or ashamed by the utter and lamentable absence of any similar statement in regard to these industries in our own country."

This appointment will not interfere with his connection with the National Association.

MAY BE COURT MARTIALED.

William Genson, a jackie on the revenue cutter Androscoggin, which is undergoing repairs at Quincy, will probably be court martialed after he gets released from his fine of $10 for drunkenness, for which he was arrested Sunday night. Genson and another jackie got into a mixup in City Square Sunday night ,when they were approached by an officer of the cutter who ordered them to take their car. The two started for the car but instead of taking it Genson is alleged to have given the officer an insult and ran away. He was later arrested by Officer Bishop in court and was fined $10. It is probable that he will be court martialed for insulting the officer.

RUBBER FOOTWEAR ADVANCING.

Until new areas where rubber can be successfully cultivated are brought into use, the public will have to pay more for its waterproof footwear. On Sept. 20, an advance of six and one quarter per cent, net, was made by the manufacturers in the price of rubbers and overshoes. This followed a similar advance on May 1, making twelve and one half per cent increase since the last rubber shoe wearing season closed. And unless some break in the crude rubber market comes in the meantime, wholesalers say that another advance will be necessary by January 1st.

NO-LICENSE CONFERENCE.

The annual No-License conference of the State will be held tomorrow at the Ford building, Boston, under the auspices of the Massachusetts No-Leicense League. Lieut. Gov. Frothingham will open the conference at 9 A. M. and it will continue until 9 P. M. From 6 to 7 P. M. there will be a conference banquet. Ex-Gov. John L. Bates will preside in the evening, and Dr. Alexander F. Chamberlain of Clark University will speak or "Conditions in the largest cities of the world without license." All interested are invited to all sessions of the conference, and the banquet.

WRIGHT UNFIT TO BE JUDGE

Opinion of President Gompers of the Federation of Labor

DISCUSSES CONTEMPT CASE

Declares It to Be Duty of Citizens to Refuse Obedience to Court Decisions When Judges Transcend Their Authority—Says "Good Will Come Out of the Attempt to Seal the Lips of Men of Labor"

Toronto, Nov. 9.—President Gompers lost no time in presenting the Bucks Stove company injunction case to the delegates of the American Federation of Labor, in convention here. In his annual address he fired a hot shot at the American courts.

The court of appeals of the District of Columbia a few days ago upheld the sentencing of President Gompers, Vice President Mitchell and Secretary Morrison of the Federation to jail terms for disobeyinig an injunction prohibiting the boycott of the Bucks Stove company.

After reviewing the history of the controversy President Gompers said: "Concretely stated, the decision of the court declares that no matter whether the injunction of Justice Gould was right or wrong, valid or void, we were compelled to obey.

"Against that, at least for myself, I enter a most emphatic protest. When a judge so far transcends his authority and assumes functions entirely beyond his power and jurisdiction; when a judge will set himself up as the highest in the land, invading constitutionally guaranteed rights of citizens; when a judge will go so far in opinion, decision and action that even judges of the court of appeals have felt called upon to characterize his action as unwarranted and foolish—under such circumstances it is the duty of the citizens to refuse obedience and to take whatever consequences may ensue.

"I repeat and emphasize that the doctrine that the citizen must yield obedience to every order of the court, notwithstandinig that order transcends inherent, natural, human rights guaranteed by the constitution of our country, is vicious and repugnant to liberty and human freedom, and that it is the imperative duty to protest.

"Out of this attempt to seal the lips of the men of labor I believe will come good. We have come too far in the march of human progress for any set of influences to drive us back into slavery.

"The language and manner of Justice Wright in delivering his opinion upon the suit of the men charged with disobeying the terms of the injunction, the fact that he had given his opinion or permitted it to be given out in advance, the whole mockery and formality of asking us whether we had any reasons to assign why sentence should not be pronounced, when he had determined on the sentence in advance; all these, as well as the matter and manner of the arrangement for the scene and the delivery of the opinion and sentence, indicated the unfitness of the man to wear the judicial robe and occupy the judicial position."

Touching upon the eight-hour bill, Gompers remarked that many strenuous efforts have been made to obtain an amendment to the federal eight-hour law, so as to extend its beneficent provisions to all government employes and employes of contractors doing work for the government.

"We should press the demands for a bill for an eight-hour day to cover the field here described and hasten the time when the unnecessary and uneconomic ten-hour day will have forever passed in our wonderfully productive workshops, bearing ever in mind that reducing the hours increases the pay, adds longer and happier years of life, reduces disease and is a never-failing preventative or cure for the pest white plague."

VICTORY FOR INSURGENTS

Yankee Marksmen Help Them In the Nicaraguan Rebellion

Colon, Nov. 9.—Confirmation of an insurgent victory over the government troops at Paso Las Lajas was received here by wireless from Bluefields.

The rebels killed 200 government troops. General Chamorra, leading the government soldiers, was killed by American sharpshooters. The Yankee marksmen were mainly responsible for the insurgents' victory.

Jew Colony Would Be Failure

Chicago, Nov. 9.—"If the Jews of America were all gathered together in a community where there was no other creed or people, they would not live by their own efforts forty-eight hours." This declaration was made by Samuel Alschuler, a Jewish scholar, in an address to a Jewish society of research in this city.

Civil Law Restored In Catalonia

Madrid, Nov. 9.—The Spanish government has restored the constitutional guarantees in the Catalonian provinces of Barcelona and Gerona, which were suspended last July when the revolt broke out in those provinces.

SURPRISE PARTY.

Miss Mildred Smith was tendered a surprise party Friday evening, Nov. 5, at her home on Washington street by the W. W. F. club. The young people arrived shortly after 7 o'clock and after Miss Mildred had recovered from her surprise at seeing so many of her friends the young people proceeded to enjoy themselves. The usual party games were played for an hour or more when there was a lull in the festivities during which refreshments were served . Then there came another surprise for Miss Mildred when Miss Marjorie Brooks, with a few words, presented her with a gold pin in behalf of those present. Party games were then resumed and the hour for departure came all too soon. Miss Mildred proved a capital entertainer and the evening was one of rare enjoyment for all.

Why Cough

Ask your doctor if all coughs are necessary. If not, then why cough? Ask him about Ayer's Cherry Pectoral.

J. C. Ayer Co., Lowell, Mass.

Stop coughing! Coughing rasps and tears. Stop it! Coughing prepares the throat and lungs for more trouble. Stop it! There is nothing so bad for a cough as coughing. Stop it! Ayer's Cherry Pectoral is a regular doctor's medicine for coughs and colds.

BRIEFS

Four weeks to the City election of Tuesday ,Dec. 7.

Mr. and Mrs. John F. Sullivan of Copeland street mourn the death of an infant son on Monday.

Miss Grace Spear of Marshfield Hills is the guest of her aunt, Miss Lucy Spear of Adams street.

A corn supper and entertainment will be held tonight at the Atlantic M. E .church.

The annual ball of the Quincy Firemen's Relief Association will be held at Music hall Friday evening.

One of the social events of the season is the dance of the Quincy Catholic club to be held Wednesday evening.

It looks as if the Y. M. C. A., committee must raise $5000 on the last day of their campaign—tomorrow, but time will not be up until midnight.

George Ryden of Whitwell street has gone to the Philadelphia Navy yard to accept a fine position under the Government.

The funeral of Patrick Doherty of Souther place, was held Monday from St. John's church. Mass was celebrated by Rev. P. J. Scannell. The burial was at St. Mary's cemetery.

Mrs. A. A. Ellsworth and Mrs. G. G. Ellsworth of Braintree were the guests of their cousin Madam Nordica at the opening of the New Opera House in Boston last evening.

The Women's Auxiliary of the Y. M. C. A. and the Christian Science church at Braintree are getting subscriptions from members for the Y. M. C. A. fund.

The Boston American football team has been suspended by the Boston and District Soccer league on the charge of playing recognized members of the Fore River A. F. C. of Quincy.

A two weeks' mission by the Redemptorist Fathers is being held at St .Mary's church. Rev. Michael Gannon, C. S. S. R., is in charge of the mission ,assisted by Rev. Francis Gallagher C. S. S. R.

It was reported at the City Hospital this morning, that William Morrissey who was so severely injured at the stable of Bruce & Myatt Sunday morning, passed a comfortable night. He was holding his own and the attending physicians held out some hope for his recovery.

Prof Adrian Plate, magician. is to give an entertainment at Quincy Mansion school, Wednesday evening, at 7.45. He comes highly endorsed by clergymen, Y. M. C. A's, clubs, etc. Personal friends of the school are invited to subscribe and enjoy the entertainment.

Mrs. A. Isabelle Davis of Spear street read with the Boston Ideals, a well known musical club of Boston at their concert in Plymouth, last week. The Old Colony Memorial, a Plymouth paper, says, "Mrs. Davis gave her numbers with great expression and dramatic power."

Mrs. C. B. Miner was hostess this week for the Jolly Eight Whist club, entertaining the club at the home of Mrs. Glenn, 1 Read park, Quincy Point. After two hours of whist adjournment was made to the dining room where a collation was served and a jolly time enjoyed. Mrs. Glenn and Mrs. Oxford were guests of honor.

NORTH DAKOTA COMING BACK

Will Be Put Into Commission About January 1

The battleship North Dakota completed her government trials on Monday. She more than met all requirements and stands today as the Queen of Uncle Sam's navy. She returned to President Roads on Monday afternoon where she now remains at anchor .

General Manager Smith and the other Fore River officials returned to Quincy Monday afternoon highly pleased with the North Dakota's work. In these trials Curtis American turbines have showed their superior efficiency, their coal consumption being only 295 tons. This is twenty tons less than the amount required by the reciprocating engines of the Delaware, the sister ship of the North Dakota.

The North Dakota will probably remain at anchor in Presidents Roads until Thursday, when the tide is higher, when she will return to the Fore River docks to be completed.

It will require five or six weeks to give her the finishing touches, and it is expected that she will be turned over to the government at the Charlestown navy yard about the first of the year.

FUNERAL OF W. J. FALLON.

The funeral of William J. Fallon, who was killed by the cars at Quincy Adams Sunday morning, was held this morning from St. Mary's church. The services were very largely attended and the casket was almost hidden beneath a wealth of beautiful flowers. Requiem mass was celebrated by Rev. William Duffy, and the Gregorian mass was sung by the regular church choir. The burial was in the family lot at St. Mary's cemetery, the bearer being James F. Burke, Michael Shea, John Duffy, Edward Farrell, Bernard Donahue, Michael Hartery, Louis J. White and James Kelley.

DUPLICATE WHIST.

The weekly duplicate whist tournament for pairs under the Howell system was held at the rooms of the Granite City club Monday evening with six pairs in play. The result was as follows:

H. F. Tilden and J. Q. Cudworth	4 1-3 plus
J. H. Lalley and J. W. Nightingale	2-3 plus
H. A. Jones and C. Fouche	1 plus
H. H. Hill and W. E. Piper	even
R. T. Anthony and A. W. Loud	1 minus
W. R. Thomas and J. H. Penniman	5 minus

TODAY'S COURT.

John H. Lyons was fined the costs amounting to $9.16, and Charles S. Neal, the costs amounting to $7.40, for violation of the automobile law at Cohasset.

WEST QUINCY ASSOCIATION.

A very enthusiastic meeting of the Ward Four Improvement association committee on by-laws was held at Dr. Ash's residence Monday night. They will be ready to report at the regular meeting on Thursday evening, Nov. 11. West Quincy is fully awakened after their long sleep. All the citizens of the ward are earnestly invited to attend the next meeting. The committee consisted of Dr. Ash, John Evans, John Casey, Joseph Walker, James Elcock and Steven Little.

WOMAN TO BE DEPORTED

Had Earned $8000 to Bring Her Husband to This Country

Boston, Nov. 9.—After earning $8000 on the hurdy-gurdy to bring her husband to this country from Italy, Mrs. Evaristo Magnieri has been ordered deported with her husband because he was detected in an attempt to smuggle watches into this country on their arrival here.

Mrs. Magnieri is still in a hospital, where she was taken on her arrival along with her new born babe. The husband has made an appeal to Washington to be permitted to stay here with his wife.

CITY COUNCIL

CITY CHARTER.

Councilman Moir moved the special committee to consider advisability of revising the city charter be discharged. Motion lost.

OTHER BUSINESS.

Councilman Smith offered an order for a light on Town Hill street. Referred to Executive.

Councilman Bryant offered an order placing the receipts from Miscellaneous Highways to the appropriation for Highways. Referred to Finance Committee.

Councilman Bryant offered an order placing the receipts from property owners for gypsy moth work to the appropriation for Gypsy moth. Referred to Finance Committee.

Councilman Moir moved the Committee to foster new industries report at the next meeting. Voted.

Councilman Flynn offered an order for a fire alarm box on the corner of Chubbuck and South streets. Referred to Committee on Fire Department.

Councilman Moir moved that the special committee on Boulevards report at the next meeting. Voted.

Councilman Moir moved that the special committee on junk licenses report at the next meeting. Motion lost.

NO MORE STREET ORDERS

Upon motion of Councilman McDevitt the order for $500 for Larry place was taken from the table.

Councilman McDevitt asked why the Finance committee had reported as it did.

Councilman Bryant said the committee had decided that no more street orders should pass this year.

Councilman Gardner said if we have reached the limit we may as well stop here.

Councilman McDevitt took the committee to task for not doing more for West Quincy. During his remarks he said the Committee did not need any Moxie it had nerve enough without it. He had voted for all street orders.

Councilman Whiton looked upon the policy of voting for all street orders as ruinous. It was a question of finance what orders should pass. We have borrowed over $100,000 for streets this year.

Councilman McDevitt had no apology to make for asking for an appropriation for Larry place.

Upon motion of Councilman Smith the order was recommitted to Finance Committee.

Adjourned at 8.48 until Nov. 15.

OCTOBER WEATHER.

Much More Sunshine Than Usual—Temperature Normal.

L. A. Willis of the Blue Hills observatory reports: The weather during October was seasonable and agreeable with normal temperatures, little rain and an excess of sunshine. The mean temperature of the month was 50.1 degrees which is one tenth of a degree higher than the average. The highest reached was 81 degrees on the 9th and the lowest was 26 degrees on the 30th.

The total rainfall of 1.46 inches was only one-third of the usual amount and the smallest for October since 1897. Rain fell on nine days and the greatest amount in any day was .66 inch on the 22nd.

From the 1st to 11th there was no rain and the weather was continuously pleasant. The total amount of sunshine of 217 hours was 29 percent more than usual and the most in October since 1905. There was less cloudiness and less relative humidity than is customary and the mean wind velocity was slightly below the average.

The maximum velocity was 50 miles per hour from the northwest on the 29th. The prevailing wind direction was west and there was a marked absence of north and east winds. Auroras were observed on the nights of the 13th and 18th.

MEDAL OF HONOR.

James King, a water tender on the U. S. scout cruiser Salem, has been awarded a medal of honor and a gratuity of $100 ,for extraordinary heroism in the line of duty, on the occasion of an accident to one of the boilers on that ship while at sea Sept. 13.

NON POLITICAL ADMINISTRATION

Promised by Walter F. Nichols If Elected Mayor

To the Voters and Taxpayers direct and indirect, of Quincy:

I desire to state that in allowing the use of my name as a candidate for the Republican nomination for Mayor, I do so with a complete knowledge of the political conditions in our city and a lively realization that election implies some sacrifice of personal interests and convenience. Having recently served seven consecutive years in the City Council in daily touch with the city business, I have had ample opportunity to learn that our charter imposes great responsibilities and individual accountability in matters of detail upon the Executive.

Believing that it is one of the most sacred duties of American citizen to vote and likewise to assume his full share of the burden of conducting public affairs, upon the request of a considerable number of dis-interested voters, I have taken this step.

The trades and deals among dis-affected professional politicians engaged in playing the game—the activity of office holders— office seekers—persons having some pet scheme of their own to advance or who profit in the distribution of the city patronage—are the foundation of corrupt and inefficient municipal government. I wish to state frankly that I am not the Candidate of any machine—of any man or set of men—but rely solely for support upon the rank and file of the voters with whom the public interests are of first importance.

There are vital issues in our city affairs which are paramount to and which should not become be-fogged by talk about "Reciprocity with Canada" or the "personal popularity" of any candidate.

The theory of non-partisan municipal elections has gained much popular favor to which I heartily subscribe. Were it not that the present election laws, and the system now in vogue for conducting our City Election, call for partisan nominations, I should welcome the opportunity to run without party designation. It is with this understanding that I accept the Republican nomination. My opponent being an active Democrat accepts the Democratic nomination.

In conclusion, I ask the earnest support of all who agree with me in the position I have taken, and in return pledge myself if elected to give to the City a non-political administration.

Walter F. Nichols.
Quincy, Nov. 8, 1909.

"Hark the Herald Angels sing," Beecham's Pills are just the thing. "Peace on earth and mercy mild." Two for man and one for child.

A great many years ago, some wag created this perversion, but its happy jingle along with the sober truth it suggests has made this verse a by-word with millions of people. It illustrates the great popularity in which Beecham's Pills are held and the wonderful good that they are doing. Every year shows a marvelous increase in this popularity and it is an established fact that in the communities where Beecham's Pills are used the health and morality of the people are enhanced.

Every reader should know Beecham's Pills—learn their power to keep the system in good order, preserve the vigor of glorious youth—to cheer and brighten old age. They regulate the bowels, help the liver, aid the kidneys, promote digestion and prevent the coming of serious sickness.

Thousands of men have been made sturdy and strong—thousands of women have been made healthy and happy, through use of Beecham's Pills. Anyone who does not know them is doing without one of the greatest known helps to health and happiness.

DISCOVERY OF THE POLE

Board Is Named to Pass Upon the Question of Priority

Washington, Nov. 9.—The board of managers of the National Geographic society appointed the following committee to pass on the question whether the North Pole was discovered before 1909; meaning by that Dr. Cook:

J. H. Gore, formerly professor of mathematics, George Washington university; Rear Admiral Pillsbury of the navy, and Dr. C. W. Hayes, chief geologist of the geological survey. A change of the committee which passed on the Peary records is made in accordance with the recommendation of the committee on research of the society and because it was thought that this would be fairer to Dr. Cook.

BELLS WILL RING WHEN $25,000 IS RAISED

Y. M. C. A. Teams Must Raise $5,641 Before Midnight Tonight

Over $5,000.00 to be raised before midnight tonight to reach the goal of $25,000.00.

This is the W-O-R-K before the Y. M. C. A. teams today in their campaign to wipe out the debt on the Association building in seven days.

Chairman King says the "W" and "R" must be eliminated from W-O-R-K which will leave only "OK."

President Chase told all at the start that everybody in town would know when the clock struck 25, and arrangements have been made to ring the church bells, toot the quarry whistles, and 25 blows will probably be struck on the fire alarm.

None of the campaign committee has any thought of failure. All are determined on success, although they must do better work than on any day since the campaign opened, in fact almost twice as good. They are finding it a work of pleasure, however, and valuable experience.

The blessing at the supper last evening was asked by Rev. James A. Matheson of the First Presbyterian church.

A fine menu was served by the Ladies Auxiliary, with Mrs. G. B. Bates as chairman. It included roast beef and gravy, white and sweet potatoes, pickles and piccalily, rolls, doughnuts, pies, coffee, grapes. Chrysanthemums adorned each table and there was one at each plate for the the button hole.

At 7 P. M. came the reports, and the new teams organized by the boys under college names came first. They made a surprisingly good showing having raised nearly $100 as follows:

Carlisle School, Capt. Charles Johnson	$4.52
Springfield Training School.. Capt. Howard Bishop	$6.70
Amherst College Capt. Paul Coombs,	$9.25
Harvard College Capt. Everett Stewart	$9.50
Brown University Capt. Howard Cantley	$13.36
Yale University Capt. Sturgis Hunt	$13.36
Bowdoin College Capt. Earl Gilliott	$14.50
Dartmouth College Capt. Carl Ahlstrom	$22.65
	..$93.88

Each of the above teams was enthusiastically applauded as it made its report.

Then came the five teams of young men who raised $137 as follows, each announcement being received with cheers:

Team A	$30
Team B	25
Team C	15
Team D	10
Team E	57

The reports of the Men's teams will be found at the top of the page. Capt. Crane's team made the best showing of the evening with an even $200; Capt. Miller of Team 5 was second with $181, and Capt. Cummings of Team 2 third with $171.

In totals for the six days Capt. Miller's team is first, Capt. Cassidy's second, Capt. Cummings third, each with over $1,000. Six other teams are nearing the $1 000 mark: Capt. Crane, Capt. Bailey, Capt. Murray, Capt. Shaw, Capt. Sidelinger, and Capt. Sherman. Team 10 has made a good showing. The young men's teams have already raised over half a thousand, and the Citizens Committee nearly $10,000. The latter committee plan to raise one-half of the $25,000.

The subscriptions of Tuesday included $1,000 from the Tubular Rivet and Stud Co., of Wollaston, and cheers were given the company.

Encouraging remarks were offered by Chairman Sedgwick of the Business Men's teams, Chairman King of the Citizens Committee, and E. W. Hearn, the State Secretary of the Y. M. C. A.

To insure success at roll call tonight the teams should report the following sums:

ANTI-TUBERCULOSIS ASSOCIATION ANNUAL

New President and Officers Elected---Reports of the Work and Finances

The annual meeting of the Quincy Anti Tuberculosis association was held Tuesday evening in Electa hall. The attendance however was not as large as anticipated. Dr. J. F. Welch presided and after the records of the previous meeting had been read the nominating committee reported a list of candidates for officers Mrs. F. S. Davis declined to again serve as treasurer, and Charles A. Price was nominated. The ballot for officers resulted in the election of the following:

President—Henry M. Faxon.

Vice Presidents—John A. Gordon, M. D., and Mrs. Forrest B. Royal.

Secretary—Frederic W. Plummer.

Treasurer—Charles A. Price.

Board of Managers—Mrs. Francis Abele Albert L. Barbour, F. Ramon Burke, M. D., Mrs. Joseph A. Dasha, Miss Mabel Gragg, Ralph W. Hobbs, Mrs. Charles A. Howland, Wendell H. Hull, Nathaniel S. Hunting, M. D., Elmon R. Johnson, M. D. Perry Lawton, Mrs. R. McLennan, W. J. Middleton, M. D. Thomas B. Pollard, Daniel B. Reardon, M. D., John T. Reynolds, M. D., Hon. William T. Shea, Mrs. Eugene H. Sprague, Robert J. Teasdale and Mrs. W. W. Whitcher.

In the absence of the president and first vice president, the second vice president, Mrs. Royal, was called upon to preside. Mrs. Royal spoke briefly of the work of the past year, particularly of the plan of Dr. Welch which was education of the people by the people. She also spoke of the work for the tuberculosis camp.

The report of the tresurer showed the receipts of the year to have been $246.06, the expenditures $86.25, leaving a balance of $161.81.

Mrs. W. W. Whitcher of the education commmittee told of the distribution of cards.

Dr. F. Ramon Burke, of the relief committee, reported that during the year there were seventeen patients. Of this number one was cured, two helped, one sent to Rutland, one improved, one under the care of the Board of Health, and three incurable had died. Of the balance some refused treatment and others were cared for at home. The receipts had been $103.50 and the expenditures $33.

Dr. Burke also made a report for

GLAVIS TELLS OF HIS REMOVAL

Believes President Was Grievously Unfair In the Matter

MAKES A PUBLIC STATEMENT

Monopoly of Over 100,000 Acres of Alaska Coal Lands Now Owned by Government Would Be a National Menace—He Repeats Land Office Charges and Sees Prospect of Grants to Fraudulent Claimants

New York, Nov. 9.—In an article prepared for Collier's Weekly of Nov. 13 and copyrighted by that publication L. R. Glavis, removed in September from the office of chief of field division of the general land office, says: (Copyrighted, 1909, by P. F. Collier & Sons.)

"From 1902 to 1909 I was in the field service of the general land office, for the last two and a half years as chief of field division. In September, 1909, I was summarily removed from my position without a formal hearing by Richard A. Ballinger, secretary of the interior, by authorization of the president of the United States. That removal was accompanied by the publication of a letter of the president to Mr. Ballinger. I believe that my removal was unfair. I believe the president's letter was grievously unfair, because in it the president gives weight to a charge against me which I never had the opportunity to see or answer. The president states in his letter that I withheld from him information favorable to my superiors. I do not know of any such information withheld by me, nor am I conscious of doing my superiors injustice. Nevertheless, I should not now make any public statement of the matter were it not still possible to save for the government many thousands of acres of coal lands which I believe the land office may in the near future grant to fraudulent claimants.

"The coal lands of Alaska owned by the government amount to over 100,000 acres. They are the future coal supply of the nation, of almost inestimable value. Possession of them by private individuals means great wealth. A monopoly of them would be a national menace.

"On Nov. 12, 1906, President Roosevelt withdrew all coal lands in Alaska from public entry, but previous to that time there were about 900 claims filed, covering about 100,000 acres, nearly the whole of the coal fields. The law attempts to prevent monopoly of such claims by limiting the amount of each claim and providing that each claimant must take up the land in his own interest and for his own use. This law has been interpreted by the supreme court of the United States to forbid speculating in coal lands before entry, either by dummy entrymen or by previous agreements to consolidate claims after entry. Of these 900 claims to Alaska coal lands, among them the so-called Cunningham group, the majority are fraudulent. (It is asserted that the Guggenheims are seeking a monopoly of the Alaska coal fields.)

"As to the action of the land office on these claims, I assert that the land office ordered the Cunningham claims to patent without due investigation when Commissioner Ballinger knew they were under suspicion; that while in office Commissioner Ballinger urged congress to pass a law which would validate fraudulent Alaska claims; that shortly after resigning from office he became attorney for the Cunningham group and other Alaska claims; that soon after he became secretary of the interior his office rendered a decision which would have validated all fraudulent Alaska claims. A reversal of that decision on every point was obtained from Attorney General Wickersham.

"I assert that in the spring of 1909 the land office urged me to an early trial of these cases before the investigation was finished and when Secretary Ballinger, as the president has stated, knew that the Cunningham claims were invalid. When I appealed to Secretary Ballinger for postponement he referred me to his subordinates. The department of agriculture intervened. I was superseded in the charge of the cases, and the man who superseded me indorsed my recommendations, and the postponement was granted. Immediately thereafter I made my report on the Cunningham cases to President Taft and was dismissed from the service for insubordination.

"The president has chosen to treat my report as a charge of criminality. I made no such charge, nor do I make it now. The president's letter is a defense of Mr. Ballinger and Mr. Dennett (commissioner of the general land office) from charges not made in my report to him. I was not investigating either Mr. Ballinger or Mr. Dennett, but the Alaska coal cases."

(The forthcoming article in Collier's Weekly is expected to reopen the entire Pinchot-Ballinger dispute over the disposition of public lands. One of the most bitter official controversies ever known in Washington may follow, and the result may be the retirement from office of either Secretary Ballinger or Gifford Pinchot, chief of the forest service.)

Woman's World

LADY ARTHUR GROSVENOR.

A Titled Englishwoman Who Plays Gypsy During the Summer Months.

In these days of rapid travel by motor and electric traction there is something refreshingly novel about the adventures of a titled Englishwoman—Lady Arthur Grosvenor's method of holiday making by caravan. The illustration shows this lady on one of her expeditions, accompanied by a friend and her favorite dogs. While out on these journeys Lady Arthur Grosvenor does all her own cooking over a regular campfire. She makes it a rule to rise at 5 every morning. Breakfast is ready "in the open" by 6, and a little later the wagon is on the move for the day's journey, covering usually about fifteen miles. Now and then some of Lady Arthur Grosvenor's society friends accompany her for a day or two; but, as a rule, the life proves too strenuous for them. Lord Arthur Grosvenor frequently goes along with his wife on these strange tours, but he is not so fond of the life as Lady Arthur Grosvenor herself. In her own social circle she has become known by the nickname of Sarah Lee.

Lady Arthur Grosvenor's camping out life has given rise to a fad among the upper ten in England. A month or two out of the year many of them attempt to practice the "simple life" by camping out on the lawns of their country mansions, walking barefooted on the grass and limiting themselves to farinaceous diet. There are not many, however, who have the hardihood to go in for the "real thing" to the extent indulged in by Lady Arthur Grosvenor.

These gypsy adventures have made her the talk of England for some little time, and quite a number of her society friends cut her because of her strange whim. She goes all over England, however, and seldom takes the trouble to explain her identity. On one or two occasions she found it necessary to extricate herself from an embarrassing position by letting it be known that she was a titled lady simply enjoying an outing. As a rule, English farmers are not at all partial to nomads of the tramp persuasion, as Lady Grosvenor often found to her great inconvenience. Gypsy wagons are not permitted to camp by the roadside, nor can they occupy a field or a meadow without the consent of the landlord. Lady Arthur Grosvenor on several occasions found great difficulty in obtaining the necessary permission and was often moved on by the police from place to place. Now and again, when arriving late at night at some village, her van has been surrounded and somewhat unceremoniously moved on before her ladyship could explain her identity.

Gypsies have an unenviable reputation for pilfering and wherever they go are looked upon with great suspicion. However, despite all the drawbacks, Lady Arthur Grosvenor has stuck to gypsying for several months out of each year and is said to have become quite proficient in the art of buying and selling. She often carries a stock of household necessities, such as brooms, mats and wickerware, and enjoys the experience of going into the farmers' cottages and disposing of her goods.

Warns Against Votes For Women.

A scientific warning against all this suffrage business has been spoken by Dr. Max G. Schlapp, professor in the Cornell University Medical school. The professor addressed the women members of a New York club and made clear his opinion that women can't vote and maintain the birth rate. His views seem sufficient to give every suffragette sober reflection. "Women are becoming more and more active," he says. "They seem about to assume the suffrage. But the sex already is overburdened. The curves on statistical tables show a tremendous decrease in the birth rate since 1870. Other curves show an increase in insanity and nervous diseases. The lesson is that life processes have been disturbed and that an acute pathological condition exists. Statisticians contend that the mother love, the love of offspring, is diminishing with the greater functional activity. Woman is spending too much energy by adding to her functional burdens, robbing herself of her formative powers." Whatever the aggressive leaders in the fight for equal rights may say about it, there can be no doubt Dr. Schlapp has presented a new aspect of this growing suffragette problem.

FROM $1,000,000 TO $350,000

Insurance Company Agrees to Reduce Its Capital Stock

NEARLY $640,000 IS LOST

New York and Masaschusetts State Insurance Officials Discovered Impairment During Examination of American Credit Indemnity Company—Liabilities Largely In Excess of Amount Reported

Albany, Nov. 9.—The capital of the American Credit Indemnity company of New York, which has offices throughout the country, has been impaired to the extent of $639,980.56, and has been ordered to reduce its capital stock from $1,000,000 to $350,000, according to an announcement made by Superintendent of Insurance Hotchkiss.

The impairment was discovered by examiners of the New York and Massachusetts state insurance departments.

A statement signed by Hotchkiss and Frank H. Harrison, commissioner of Massachusetts, says the examination of the company has been completed and a report of the financial condition of the concern as of Aug. 31, 1909, has been put on file.

The condition of the company having been found by the examiners to require a reduction of the stock from $1,000,000 to $350,000, the representatives of the company agree immediately to initiate such action.

In the Dec. 31, 1908, statement of this company, filed with the departments, it claimed an unimpaired capital of $1,000,000, and in addition a surplus of $178,048.01, or a total surplus to policy holders of $1,178,000.48. The examiners figured the surplus to policy holders as only $360,119.44, thus showing an apparent reduction in surplus to policy holders since the first of the year of $817,971.04.

The examiners found that since Dec. 31, 1908, the liabilities were largely in excess of the amount reported in the annual statement of that date and that the capital of the company was, on Dec. 31 last, impaired to the amount of $381,110.59 on the basis allowed by the New York law.

The surplus to policy holders on that date was really $618,889.41. The difference between the surplus to policy holders on Dec. 31, 1908, as above stated, and the present surplus is largely accounted for by the fact that the examiners found that the amount charged in the past as reserve for losses was inadequate and they have computed this item upon a basis which they believe will be sufficient to protect fully the interests of the policy holders.

In view of the fact that the capital stock of the company will be promptly reduced to $350,000, the examining departments have determined that it may continue to write busineiss.

BREAD SUPERSTITIONS.

Peculiar Ones Still Prevail In Rural France.

There are some curious superstitions about baking bread in the course of religious seasons which seem so easy to prove fallacious that one has difficulty in understanding why they are still believed. One would think that some day a mistake would occur and the discovery be made that there was no force in them. Probably, owing to the constitution of the believers, the failure of the expected result would be ascribed to some supernatural cause rather than the real one, and the belief would be continued. Most of these superstitions are found in France, the greatest bread eating country on the globe.

For instance, in upper Brittany bread baked on Good Friday, it is declared, becomes black. In Charante it is held that he who eats of bread baked on All Souls' day will become diseased. The flames will burst out of the oven in one's face if bread is baked on the feast of St. Nicholas, say the good people at Aube, so it is not done. In Burgundy the people believe that if bread is baked in the course of Rogation week all bread baked during the remainder of the year will turn moldy. The inhabitants of the Black mountains believe the same thing. The Sicilians refuse to bake on Good Friday, because they fear that in some manner they will burn the Saviour.

The beliefs which other Europeans used to have in early times demonstrate how illogical is all this superstition. These used to think that bread baked on Good Friday would not grow moldy, and the hot cross bun was included in this belief. Some one has shrewdly suggested that the spice preserved them. A piece of bread baked on this holy day, perhaps because of its holy character, was supposed to have miraculous powers if preserved. The house containing it would not catch fire. It was useful for preventing whooping cough and if fed to cattle ill of certain diseases would cure them. The natural deduction from all this is that in one country bread baked on a certain day will work ill and that baked in another on the same day will work good, which means that bread baked on that day is about the same as bread baked on any other.—New York Tribune.

POINTED PARAGRAPHS.

Every mother is a trained nurse, with the two unimportant exceptions of the uniform and the wages.

There isn't any greater waste of time than that spent in worrying because others are not doing their duty.

A man may think he is boss of his own home, but after his wife has been sick once or twice he finds it is the doctor.

There are a great many ways of becoming unpopular, but one of the surest is to rush in where angels fear to tread.

When a man comes home and asks if "mother is home" what he really wants to know is if she is in the kitchen cooking.

Filling a Full Bottle.

At a race course the other day a sharper wagered £5 he could put more water into a black bottle than any person present. An individual present at once filled the bottle with water and passed it to the sharper, saying: "There; I think she's as full as she can get. If you can crowd any more water into her, mister, go ahead."

Without saying a word the sharper corked the bottle tightly. Then he turned it upside down, and in the large hollow which is found at the bottom of most bottles he poured about a gill of water. "I'll trouble you to hand over the money," he said to the stakeholder when he had done the trick.

He received the stakes and coolly walked off.—London Mail.

Jackals and Crocodile Eggs.

Jackals and hyenas are very fond of crocodile eggs. The former is the more successful poacher of the two. Natives of central Africa say that the jackal has sixteen eyes, with one of which he watches the eggs and with the fifteen others he looks out for the crocodile. The hyena, on the other hand, being very greedy, has all his eyes on the eggs and so often falls a victim to the watchful crocodile in motionless hiding. The natives say, too, that the crocodile sometimes knocks its prey off the bank or off the canoe with its tail and then seizes it with its wide open jaws.

HERB DOCTOR'S CONFESSION

It Completely Cleans Up the Tiverton Suit Case Mystery

GIRL DIED IN HIS OFFICE

He Began to Cut Up Body When He Found It Getting Cold and Before He Realized Awful Mistake He Was Making—Tells Where He Hid Head and Jewelry and They Are Recovered

Taunton, Mass., Nov. 10.—Frank L. Hill, the Fall River skin and herb doctor, through a confession read in Judge Stevens' court here, where he was arraigned to plead to the indictment of manslaughter, cleared the mystery that shrouded the pitiful death of Amelia St. Jean at Fall River by confessing that she died in his office and that he cut up her body and distributed it in Tiverton and in that city.

Hill retracted his former plea of not guilty and pleaded guilty. Hill's attorney, Frank J. Higgins, said:

"We pleaded not guilty in the lower court because we knew that there was not sufficient evidence to bear out the claim of murder; that at the very most manslaughter could be charged. Now that the charge has been changed we are prepared to tell the whole story."

Hill told where he had flung the head and hidden two rings and the locket of the dead girl, and the missing head and the articles of jewelry were found just where he said they had been left.

The girl's head was found in the grass on Robeson street, Fall River, opposite St. Patrick's Cathedral, at the foot of the hill. It was wrapped in a black skirt of the victim. The locket and rings were found in a corner of an old house off Bay street road, not far from where the clothing of the girl had been hidden. The police had searched this house, but had failed to discover the locket and rings. Nobody, however, had ever searched in the vicinity of the cemetery for the head.

Hill declared that the girl died as the result of an attempt on her part to treat herself in his office. He said that she fell in a faint on the floor and that he had tried for more than two hours to revive her, but failed.

Then, he said, in a frenzy of fear, when he found that the body was getting cold, he began to cut it up. He cut off one of the girl's legs first. Then he said he saw that he had made an awful mistake, but there was nothing to do but to go ahead.

Hill mentioned Munroe, the letter carrier, only in his statement. He said that Munroe sent the girl to him.

Hill was taken back to New Bedford and locked up. He will be sentenced in a few days.

The funeral of the girl was held up last week upon the order of District Attorney Swift, and it is thought that this was done because he believed that the head would soon be recovered and assembled with the rest of the body for burial.

FORTUNE TO BRICKLAYER

Detectives Searching For Bostonian Who Is Heir to $250,000

Pittsburg, Nov. 10.—James J. Corbett, a bricklayer, and said to be a Bostonian, is heir to $250,000. Only a few days ago he was in McKeesport looking for work. All that is necessary for him to do is to get into communication with a Boston attorney and the money will be turned over to him.

The fortune has been left him by his brother, William J. Corbett, who died a few days ago.

Upon the death of William J. Corbett the case was put in the hands of William H. Scharton of Boston, who has private detectives searching for Corbett.

WOMEN CAST BIG VOTE

It May Upset a School Election In a New Jersey Town

Asbury Park, N. J., Nov. 10.—Women's votes may upset the legality of a school election held at Bradley Beach, near here. Opponents of woman suffrage maintain that more women's than men's votes were cast for the authorization of an $85,000 issue of school bonds recently.

They assert that the issue was carried against the best judgment of the masculine part of the community. The dispute is to be carried into the courts.

Oral Betting Held Legal

Albany, Nov. 10.—Oral betting does not constitute bookmaking within the meaning of the so-called anti-racing track gambling laws. This in effect is the decisioin of the court of appeals, affirming an order of the lower courts for the discharge from custody of two men who were indicted on a charge of bookmaking.

Loeb's Action Endorsed

New York, Nov. 10.—Merchants of New York stamped with official approval the drastic measures adopted by Collector Loeb of the port of New York, to check swindling by importers.

One expects a rich city like Newton to succeed financially in all its undertakings, but in Quincy it must be a struggle. Nothing has happened of late, however, to show the possibilities of Quincy like the Y. M. C. A. campaign to raise $25,000. We congratulate ourselves that we are doing well, but Chelsea which recently went through a conflagration is doing even better in a campaign to raise $66,000. The Chelsea report of yesterday for one day's work was $8,400.50; much better than any day in Quincy. It should be possible for the Quincy committee to raise the balance of $5,641 before midnight tonight and we believe it will. But everybody should help, and then share in the glorious achievement.

It is good news that the Finance Committee of the City Council has decided to call a halt in street loans, but it comes rather late. The Council of 1909 has been extravagant in authorizing loans, and the financial outlook of the city is somewhat discouraging. The city debt is too large, and increasing rather than diminishing, the interest account has become a burden; the tax rate is too high and also the valuation on property. How would it do to inaugurate a whirlwind campaign among the councilmen and ex-councilmen and past and present city officials to wipe out the debt of the city in 30 days? Much could easily be accomplished by Quincy without incurring a debt if the city was free from debt.

All honest men says the Haverhill Gazette will approve what Judge Anderson of the federal court of Indianapolis said regarding the freedom of the press and its duties to the public. Here are his exact words: "A newspaper has a public duty to perform. It is its business to discuss these political questions. It is not only its privilege, but it is the duty of the owners of the paper to, in the language of a former president, 'to print the news and tell the truth about it,' and it is the duty of the owners of the paper to tell the people of the United States what the facts are as far as they can find out, and see that proper inferences are drawn, and if the indications point to the wrongdoing of anybody it is their duty to talk about it, speak out and talk about it." The famous jurist makes it clear that a newspaper not only has the right to discuss public questions but that it is in duty bound to do so,—not only bound to discuss them, but to draw inferences from the fact. It is well that the public, as well as the newspapers, should understand this. The question is not what a newspaper may do, but what it ought to do. It is clothed with great privileges, but only that it may perform its duty to the public. The newspaper that does this contributes to the maintenance of self-government.

ODDS AND ENDS.

Great men accomplish great things by reason of the way being paved to that end.

Justice is the balance-wheel of all the virtues.

We measure our success by the amount of effort we contribute.

Our education begins when we cast aside our books.

The spirit of human kindness is best appreciated when the milk comes from the top of the jar.

We ought to so live that the world might grow better for our existence.

A man who sets aside his honesty for personal gain will be bankrupt in the end.

Men advertise their own wares for others to wear and that is wear it pays.

If all is well that ends well and death ends all then death does not end well.

Don't worry over the future
The present is all thou hast,
The future will soon be present
The present will soon be past.

BATTLESHIP HERO HONORED

Funeral of One of Victims on the North Dakota

The funeral of John F. Souden was held from his mother's home at 317 Water street on Tuesday at 2.30 P. M., the home which he left but a short week ago, happy in the anticipation that he was to be one of those who would help to drive the giant battleship North Dakota to victory, and prove her the Queen of the sea.

Resting in an oak casket, about which were heaped myriads of floral tributes from sorrowing, sympathetic friends, the burned and bruised body of the unfortunate lad, was laid in its last resting place, as the Rev. Chas. B. Ames of the First church, almost overcome with emotion consigned him to his Maker.

A large number of relatives and friends including over 100 of his fellow employes at the Fore River shipyard, attended the services, and the scene as they were assembled about the bier of the hero of the initial run of the battleship, was most impressive. Men who had worked beside him day by day in the yards, who had seen him leave a happy, laughing, boy, proud of the chance to be of the first crew of a notable ship were there to bid a sad farewell to the now mutilated remains. Young men who had known him since boyhood, grown to manhood with him, and shared part of his joy and sorrows, looked for the last time upon the face of their comrade and chum.

Beside his grave at the Mount Wollaston nearly 200 who knew and admired him in life stood with uncovered heads and sorrowing hearts as the paster performed the committal service.

The pall bearers were: Hough Opie Edward Carson, Richard Leighton, William Fader, Arthur Mulligan, Albert Curry, John Wallace and Harold Gourley.

Some of the largest floral pieces were:

Standing pillow of roses, chrysanthemums, carnations, hyacinths and ferns, with the inscription in the center, "Our Shipmate," from the crew of the battleship North Dakota.

A design, gates ajar, made of roses and calla lilies from the Hemlock, A. C.

Standing crescent of carnations, roses ,asters nad asparagus fern from the employees of the assortment room of the Tubular Rivet and Stud Co.

Another standing wreath was also sent by the Hemlock A. C.

A wreath of asters, chrysanthemums and asparagus fern from the Fore River Shipbuilding Co.

A cross from the Electrical department of the Fore River Shipbuilding Co.

An anchor from South Quincy friends.

PLEASANT SURPRISE.

A surprise was given Mrs. Andrew Anderson Tuesday evening at her home on Buckley street by the married ladies sewing circle of the Swedish Lutheran church of which she is president. The surprisers met at the home of Mrs. Ekblom and took possession of Mrs. Anderson's room while she was out. Mrs. Sandberg was sent to bring Mrs. Anderson home and on her return she was surprised to find her house full of guests and the table covered with refreshments. She was also the recipient of a purse of money and congratulations on her birthday Mrs. Bjorkman making the presentation in a few well chosen words.

The evening was passed socially and was a very happy occasion for hostess and guests.

FEDERATION MEETING.

The Brockton Woman's Club is making elaborate preparations for the entertainment of the Massachusetts State Federation Thursday at the all-day session at the Porter church. Delegates will be present from a large proportion of the 244 federated clubs and the day will be a red-letter one in the history of the Brockton club.

The federation special will arrive at the Brockton station at about 9.35 and Mrs. Kent has appointed a committee to meet the guests at the train and there will also be a committee at the church.

The Commercial club will keep open house all day and a special committee will receive the guests at the clubhouse.

Many members of the club will give private luncheons on the federation day. The directors of the club will be hostesses for the officers of the federation at the Commercial clubhouse. The churches in the centre of the city will be opened during the noon hour and at St. Paul's Episcopal church an organ recital will be given throughout the hour. Luncheon will be partaken of at the Porter church vestry, the hostess club serving coffee and tea. The vestry will be elaborately decorated and every effort will be expended for the comfort and pleasure of the visiting delegates. A bureau of information will be opened in the church vestibule. The ladies of the club who have motor cars will be hostesses for auto rides about the city during the day.

QUINCY WOMEN'S CLUB.

Mrs. Herbert J. Gurney opened the business session of the Quincy Women's club promptly at half past two Tuesday afternoon and the usual reports were given by the club officers.

The Arts and Crafts reported seven classes started on four days a week and asked for patronage at the exchange. On November 23d there will be a display of photography in the Arts and Crafts room and members are asked to come early as the light is much better before three o'clock.

The Philanthropy committee reported 130 members in the Young Women's club beside many applications. The Home Economics will establish an exchange room in the centre to be open 3 or 4 days a week if sufficient encouragement is given.

The program of the afternoon was in charge of Mrs. Williams Ward Whitcher, chairman of the Visiting Nurse Committee, and was opened with two songs, "Fair Spring Beginning" from Sampson and Delilah and "Before the Dawn" by Chadwick, beautifully sung by Mrs. Lillie Stoddard of Scituate, Mrs. Charles Sampson accompanying at the piano.

Dr. William F. Curtis of Wollaston in beginning his interesting talk on "Pure Milk," said that Quincy had never experienced an epidemic which could be traced to infected milk but that such an epidemic was likely to occur in any place, at any time; for although milk was an ideal food, it was also an excellent breeding place for all forms of bacteria and might easily be the means of spreading such diseases as typhoid and scarlet fever, diphtheria, tuberculosis,etc. To support these statements, Dr. Curtis read an extract from the report of the State Board of Health, in which it was stated that 59 cases of typhoid fever in Jefferson were milk-born. The first people contracting the disease all having partaken of milk which had been handled by a maid, at one of the large hotels, who was in a condition to transmit the disease in this way. Milk to be pure and germ-free must be protected from all forms of dust, must be cooled quickly, covered and kept at a low temperature. Dr. Curtis advocated increased vigilence in inspection of all milk producing centres, comparison between states protected and unprotected by state laws and inspectors showing that the worst conditions existing in protected states were the best conditions in those unprotected. He advocated higher prices for milk as increased care in handling means great expense to the producer. Pure milk at 10 cents a quart was a cheaper and better food than beef at 20 cents a pound. In closing, Dr. Curtis reminded his listeners that the proper care of milk from cow to consumer included care in the home and also of the scientific fact that no matter how much we safe guard cows' milk it can never take the place of mothers' milk for young children and that the generation bottle-fed will never be in the vanguard of civilization.

Dr. Margaret Carley, superintendent of nurses of the Boston schools, after a brief history of the movement which was started in London by Dr. Malcolm Morris in 1891, gave an interesting account of the work in Boston. This began in a small way in 1896 and now supports 30 nurses in 65 districts with over 90 thousand children in the schools, making an average of 3000 children to each nurse. A system of supervision and observation in which the teacher is the most important factor brings every child needing medical inspection into contact with the nurse and school physician, if necessary. A card system is the basis for a concise record of all work done and from these estimates Dr. Carley gave a few statistics showing that simple yet contagious diseases which were most common in all public schools had been reduced from 90 percent to 12 percent in two years' time, and in all probability would finally be eradicated. In 75 percent of all cases where children seemed deficient, backward and undeveloped mal-nutrition is the cause. Much work is done in teaching the children and parents proper food values and the necessity of fresh air and sunny rooms. The problem of out-door school classes is an important one as aenemic children will gain from 60 percent to 90 and 95 per cent in a short time when studying out of doors.

The school nurse is the connecting link between school and parent and requires tact above all things else. The Boston nurses wear no uniform, a red cross pin being the only distinguishing mark. Other cities taking up the work on similar lines are Winchester, Brockton, Brookline and Concord, New Hampshire.

Dr. Carley held the closest attention of her listeners and in closing gave them this motto—"Let your (education) light so shine that all men may see your good work.'

Both speakers were heartily applauded.

Club members appreciate the practical cooking lectures being given on Friday afternoons at the clubhouse under the auspices of the Home Economics committee, Mrs. Mary L. Wade, chairman and teacher. It is expected there will be an increased attendance Friday for the second lecture in the course.

The Art and Literature committee is busy with arrangements for the Current Events classes the first one being held tomorrow afternoon at three o'clock at the clubhouse. Mrs. May Alden Ward is the lecturer and the class is to meet the second Thursday afternoon of each month until April. This committee has arranged for a lecture by Mr. Thomas A. Watson of Braintree and also a recital. The recital is to be by Miss Beatrice Herford at First church chapel on Nov. 19.

A special meeting of the Executive Board is to be held at the clubhouse Tuesday morning at ten o'clock to consider revision of by-laws.

An Accommodating Boy.

A Newark woman who lives in an apartment house changed her iceman not long ago, and the next day the youth who drove the team for the new man put the piece of ice on the dumb waiter in the basement to be hoisted up. She pulled away.

"Heavens," she exclaimed, "that new iceman certainly gives good weight!"

After much effort she got the dumb waiter up to the kitchen level. To her amazement, there was a small boy sitting upon the ice. With what little breath she had left she demanded:

"What in the world did you make me pull you up here for?"

"Why," replied the youngster, "I thought maybe the cake would be too heavy for you to lift, so I came up to help you off with it."—Lippincott's.

Navigators' Date Line.

The international date line is an irregular line drawn arbitrarily on the map of the Pacific ocean near the one hundred and eightieth meridian of longitude, marking the place where navigators change their date on the transpacific voyage. This change is necessary on account of the lengthening of one hour for every fifteen degrees of travel westward. By traveling eastward a day will be gained, westward a day will be lost.—New York American.

DIVIDED INTERESTS.

Editor of Ledger:

Some things in Quincy are hard to understand. Why do we have two or three of every thing, for instance, the Board of Trade and Citizens Association, the Anti-tuberculosis Relief association? I joined one and subcribed money to the other thinking they were one and the same thing.

A notice in last week's Ledger said a meeting would be held with Frederic W. Plummer, president, Mrs. Charles A. Howland, treasurer ,on Monday. Another notice read the annual meeting of the Anti-tuberculosis association of which Dr. Welch was president and Mrs. Frank S .Davis, treasurer would be held Tuesday night.

Is it well in such a good and needy work that the public should be confused by having two associations? Will the work prosper under such conditions? A Subscriber.

BEAUTY SPOTS.

Editor of Ledger:

Just what does Dr. Hardy mean when he says in his admirable talk Sunday evening that "There are hundreds of things that might be done. Brewers corner, the square at the West Quincy depot, the Adams birthplaces might be made beauty spots." Does he claim that the Adams birthplaces are unattractive or to be classed as looking like Brewers corner?

I was under the impression that the Quincy Historical society and Adams Chapter ,D. R., had made the places very attractive since they took them in charge.

Just what has Dr. Hardy in mind regarding the two old houses? Probably either society would welcome suggestions.

INHERITED PLUCK.

Editor Daily Ledger:

I see by the papers that when young Souden was in the agonies of death on board the battleship North Dakota he urged that the trial be kept up rather than that the vessel be headed for a place where his injuries might be attended to. There was good blood in that boy. Any one who knew the man from whose loins he sprang would expect the young fellow to exhibit just that brave spirit. When his father, the late Alexander Souden, found that the concern of which he was a member was in business difficulties out of which it could not extricate itself it did not depress his spirit in the least. He faced the world with as much determination to get on his feet again as any younger man could show. And when he was advised to file a petition in bankruptcy as the only apparent way of discharging his debts, the plucky old man answered "Never." He went to work with a vim and although he lived but a few years after that he succeeded in paying his debts. Johnnie Souden was a worthy son of a worthy sire. The unconquerable spirit will always manifest itself, in business perplexities as in physical pain.

SURPRISE PARTY.

Al Marnock Receives a Mission Lamp and Other Gifts.

Al Marnock of 24 Newcomb street received the surprise of his life Tuesday evening, when about 50 of his friends and neighbors appeared at his home to help him celebrate his birthday. The party surrounded the house and with the blowing of horns and ringing of cow bells, etc., summoned Al to the door. When he appeared he thought he was to be invited to run for mayor of Quincy, but the crowd soon explained the object of their visit, which so astonished him as to render him speechless. The party entered the house where Al was presented a beautiful mission lamp from all the party, and also received many beautiful tokens appropriate to the season from individual friends, among them being a beautiful culiflower decorated pumpkins, a shower boquet of onions, the last ear of summer's corn, and "Mut," besides other vegetables too numerous to mention. Al proved game, and thanked the crowd. He sincerely hoped they would come again and bring more. The crowd then proceeded to enjoy themselves with music and dancing and recitations. Henry Furnald served one of his famous buffet luncheons.

HEROIC TESTS OF NO AVAIL

Doctors Perform Autopsy and Find That Death Was Due to Rupture of Aorta—Hypnotist, Who Is Charged With Manslaughter, Will Contend That Man Was Alive When Cut Up and That Dissecters Caused Death

Somerville, N. J., Nov. 10.—So insistent was "Professor" Arthur Everton, under arrest here for causing the death of Robert Simpson, a subject whom he hypnotized at the Somerville theatre Monday night, that Simpson was merely in a cataleptic state that he was allowed to try unsuccessfully to revive the supposed dead man yesterday afternoon.

In this effort he had the aid of another hypnotist, "Professor" Davenport of Orange, N. J., whom he summoned by telephone.

While the two hypnotists used heroic tests to revive Simpson, three doctors stood by with operating aprons on waiting to perform an autopsy.

Everton was arrested yesterday charged with manslaughter, after he had worn himself out trying to bring Simpson back to life. The autopsy was to have been held at 2 o'clock yesterday afternoon, but Everton made such strong pleas for another chance that he was permitted to try it. Before beginning his work of revival with Davenport he explained that he was nervous Monday night and lost his "control."

Only one Somerville man of medicine who examined Simpson was opposed to an immediate autopsy. That man was Dr. Halstead.

"While I am satisfied in my own mind that Simpson was dead," said Halstead, "I am oposed to performing an autopsy so soon. There are authentic cases of extended catalepsy in which the patient was to all appearances dead."

Nevertheless the autopsy was authorized by Chief of Police Bellis, County Prosecutor Reger and County Physician Long. The physicians to perform the autopsy last evening were Dr. Long, Dr. McConaughy and a member of the staff of the Somerville hospital.

In view of Everton's contention that Simpson was alive the autopsy will furnish him with the most novel defense upon record should he be indicted by the grand jury and placed on trial for manslaughter.

His contention then will be that Simpson was alive when the doctors cut him up, and that the death of the man should be laid at the door of the dissecters.

Everton has employed counsel and will fight the case. Dr. Quackenbos, professor emeritus of Columbia university and one of the leading authorities on hypnotism in the country, said that it was not unlikely that Simpson's was a case of suspended animation and that an autopsy should be made with caution, or perhaps deferred until there was no possiblity of life. But the examination last night showed that death was due to probably natural causes.

Eight physicians assisted in performing the autopsy and they issued a signed statement at its close stating that death was due to rupture of the aorta, one of the great blood vessels close to the heart. This indicated, according to the coroner, that death was primarily due to natural causes and that the man had probably been suffering for some time from an aneurism or similar affection of the ruptured vessel.

Death was practically instantaneous and evidently occurred just as Simpson was coming out of the trance. Whether the strain he was put under when Everton stood on his body during its rigidity caused the rupture cannot be ascertained.

The result of the autopsy will more than likely bring about Everton's release on bail.

SANK IN FEW MINUTES

Thirteen Men Lost When Two Heavily Laden Ships Come Together

Block Island, R. I., Nov. 10.—Two ships under full sail crashed into each other off here just after midnight Sunday and both sank in a few minutes. Only two Filipino sailors, neither of whom can speak English, were saved out of both crews, which comprised thirteen men altogether.

The collision was between the British barkentine John S. Bennett, from New York to Halifax with a big cargo of coal, and the four-masted schooner Merrill C. Hart, from Thomaston, Me., for New York, laden with stone.

There were eight men in the crew of the John S. Bennett. A crew of five men were carried on board the Merrill C. Hart.

Meagre details were secured from Captain Bullock of the schooner William Jones, which picked up the two Filipinos, members of the Bennett's crew. Bullock said that about 1 o'clock Monday morning as he was passing Block island he made out a vessel's lights near at hand. He approached close enough to speak her and her captain hailed him, begging for assistance. "We have been in collision and are sinking," came the cry of the Bennett's skipper.

Captain Bullock at once brought his ship aboout and made ready to get out a boat to go to the rescue of the barkentine's crew. Before the boat could be lowered into the water, however, the Bennett had vanished beneath the surface.

TUTTLE TO LEAVE BOSTON AND MAINE

Plans Are In Readiness to Make Mellen President

Boston, Nov. 10.—Charles S. Mellen will at the next meeting of the directors of the Boston and Maine railroad be elected its president, to succeed Lucius Tuttle, who will retire. That meeting will take place next Tuesday. No formal or definite action was taken at yesterday's meeting. A bylaw intervened to prevent. But the plans were in readiness, and unless some wholly unforeseen circumstance arises to frustrate them will be carried out next week.

It may be taken for granted that Tuttle's withdrawal will carry with it that of two directors, Edgar J. Rich and Earl A. Ryder. Ryder has been the clerk of the corporation and Rich its general solicitor. Under the bylaws the election of directors to fill their places must go over one week.

Under this program the New Haven's dominance of the Boston and Maine system, but thinly disguised in the recently enacted holding bill, comes clearly out into the open.

Suffragettes Hurl Stones Through Window of Banquet Hall

London, Nov. 10.—The celebration of the king's 68th birthday and the inauguration of Sir John Knill as lord mayor made London an especially lively centre of interest Tuesday.

The banquet at the Guild hall last night was the scene of a suffragette incident. The lord mayor was responding to the toast to the king, when a crash of glass was heard and a stained glass window fell in fragments into the banqueting hall.

Shouts of "votes for women" resounded through the room, causing considerable excitement and some amusement. Two women who had gained the roof and thrown the stones were arrested. Another suffragette in the vestibule was ejected.

EX-PRESIDENTS HEAD REVOLT

Morales and Jiminez Join Forces to Overthrow Caceres

AGAIN ON DOMINICAN SOIL

Arms, Ammunition and Large Force of Fighters Slip Away From Neighboring Islands Despite Close Watch of Consuls—Rumors That Revolution Is Being Financed With American Capital

San Juan, P. R., Nov. 10.—Information from San Domingo received here reports ex-President Morales to have landed in that republic with a strong expedition and to be operating with the rebel forces of General Navarro on the frontier between Hayti and Santo Domingo.

Evading the vigilance of the authorities in Porto Rico and Saint Thomas, Morales is reported to have left the latter island on Oct. 24, crossed over to Vieques, where a vessel laden with arms and ammunition and a gathering of his followers awaited him, and after successfully running the gauntlet with the coastguardsmen in Porto Rican and San Domingan waters to have landed in the republic near the Haytian frontier.

Morales' operations have been executed with considerable boldness and adroitness. For some time past he was known to be conspiring and a close watch was set upon his actions by the San Domingan consuls in this island and St. Thomas, but in spite of this fact he is said to have imported a large supply of arms and ammunition, had them conveyed from St. Thomas to Vieques, where they were shipped on board the vessel chartered for the expedition, notified his followers in Porto Rico and St. Thomas to meet him at the starting point at the proper time and got fairly away before his absence from St. Thomas was discovered. He was accompanied by General Toribio, who sought asylum in St. Thomas a couple of months ago after his defeat by the government troops near La Vega.

A number of San Domingan political refugees residing in this island who were unable to set out with Morales' expedition are reported to have left San Juan last evening on the steamer Ferdinand de Lesseps for Cape Haytien, whence they will proceed across the frontier to join the rebel forces.

It is stated that the long-standing difference existing between ex-Presidents Morales and Jimenez has been settled, and that they have joined forces in an effort to overthrow President Caceres' government. They are supported in their design by many of Caceres' followers who have taken exception at the high-handed manner in which Minister Velazquez has handled the finances of the republic and are angry at their ineffecutal efforts to have him removed from office.

It is rumored that the revolution is being financed with American capital. Caceres' followers are said to have circulated the report that Morales and Jimenez are fighting with a view of promoting annexation to the United States, and the followers of the latter retaliate by accusing the administration of conspiring to turn the republic into an American protectorate; thus both parties are using the fear of American intervention to stimulate their supporters to their greatest effort. Nothing is so abhorent to the San Domingan as the idea of the loss of national independence and the rule of a foreign power.

OLD POWDERHORNS.

They Were Once Important Implements of Warfare.

TREASURED AS HEIRLOOMS.

Handed Down From Father to Son and From Friend to Friend—Engraved and Ornamented, They Were Used as Gifts Instead of Jeweled Swords.

Modern inventions have robbed warfare of much of its romance and the soldier of much of his old time picturesqueness. Although the powderhorn as an implement of war disappeared long before the magazine gun of today was dreamed of, it wasn't so very long ago, as a matter of fact, that men were carrying powderhorns. Some of the soldiers in the Mexican war, for example, used them.

The powderhorns carried by the fighters in the early days of this country were often of comparatively simple workmanship, but they were cherished and handed down from father to son and from friend to friend. Strange to say, though cherished in this manner, collectors have had a very hard time in locating any great number of the powderhorns used in this country, and this in spite of the large numbers used in the seventeenth and eighteenth centuries.

In the French and Indian war the English and Americans carried 10,000 powderhorns, it has been estimated, to say nothing of the number carried by those on the French side. In the Revolution there were, according to the best estimates, about 10,000 powderhorns in use in the American army without counting those on the British side. The European troops had long discarded them, of course, but their colonial allies naturally were equipped with them.

A few years ago Isaac J. Greenwood presented to the New York Historical society a collection of water color pictures of powderhorns he had found still in existence.

Although the search was prosecuted with great diligence, the number of powderhorns actually located and sketched was not much more than 400, showing how quickly the horns have been disappearing.

Powderhorns are supposed to have come into use almost simultaneously with the invention of gunpowder. A way had to be found to carry the powder and keep it dry, and men quickly found that there wasn't anything better or cheaper in mediaeval times for this purpose than the horns of an animal.

They were in general use in the sixteenth century and were brought to this country by the first settlers. The oldest horn whose picture appears in the collection was found near Schenectady, N. Y., and bears the date of 1683.

It was generally the horns of their own cattle that the farmer fighters of America used. The loss of a horn in nowise impaired the usefulness of the animal, and bulls frequently were called upon to make the sacrifice. Such horns were easily obtained and wouldn't rust and could be carried in the rain and through streams without the powder in them getting wet.

They were always worn under the left arm by a strap that went over the right shoulder, the curve in the horn conforming to the shape of the body and serving to keep it out of the way of the wearer. There was a stopple in the small end, and without being unslung the powder could be poured into the right hand and thence into the gun.

Boiled, scraped and cleaned and colored with an orange or yellow dye, which was the way most of the powderhorns were prepared, they lent themselves more readily to ornamentation by the owner than did any other part of his equipment, and it is this fact which has made them particularly interesting as historical relics. Admiring friends in the days when powderhorns were in general use instead of presenting a hero with an engraved sword gave him a finely decorated powderhorn.

Sometimes the horns were made to order and the engraving done by professionals. Many of these horns were beautifully colored, the most popular shade being a sort of orange tint.

Perhaps the most remarkable examples of the engraving are to be seen on the geographical horns whose pictures appear in the Greenwood collection. These geographical horns took the place of pocket maps for the early pioneers. They were the work of professional engravers in places like New York and Boston.

Some of the horns in the collection contain practically complete maps of the old trails and waterways. One of the best of these bears the date of 1767 and shows New York with its harbor filled with ships and New York state as far as Lake Champlain and Ontario. The Hudson valley, with its settlements, appears on most of the geographical horns discovered. One horn shows the country between Elizabethtown and Pittsburg, each little settlement being carefully noted.

The horns thus filled a double purpose, supplying the traveler with a map and carrying his powder for him. One of the best specimens in the collection shows Havana, as well as the trail from Albany to Oswego. It is believed to have been owned by a soldier in the English army which captured the Cuban city and who later served in the colonies.—Washington Post.

STRONG STORROW MEN

Committee of Nine on Hunt For Candidate For Mayor of Boston

Boston, Nov. 10.—The convention of the new municipal organization of 100 met last night under the leadership of Richard Olney, and elected a committee of nine men who will confer with both of the big political committees and prsent a candidate for mayor to the convention Wednesday of next week. There had been 150 invited by the committee of twenty-five.

The committee is admittedly made up of men who are to be regarded as strong Storrow men. And yet, while friends of Storrow dominated the convention, the name of the candidate for mayor was not once mentioned.

The mayoralty committee is to plan meetings with the political leaders before next Wednesday and try to decide upon a candidate to oppose ex-Mayor Fitzgerald.

TO APPEAL CONTEMPT CASE

Federation of Labor Will Carry It to the Supreme Court

Toronto, Nov. 10.—The executive council of the American Federation of Labor, in its report to the convention, recommended that an appeal be taken to the United States supreme court from the jail sentences imposed on President Gompers, Vice President Mitchell and Secretary Morrison for contempt in the Bucks Stove and Range company boycott case.

The council also recommends that an appeal be taken on the original injunction case, the alleged violation of which resulted in the contempt proceedings against the three labor leaders.

THEFTS MAY REACH SUM OF $2,000,000

Warriner's Shortage Admitted to Be at Least $1,000,000

Ciacinnati, Nov. 10.—Apparently well founded reports suggest that the shortage of Charles L. Warriner, formerly local treasurer of the Big Four Railroad company, who is now accused of embezzling $643,000, may exceed $1,000,000 and may possibly reach $2,000,000.

These reports are supported by the fact that the railroad officers caused Warriner's arrest on a charge of embezzling $54,500 and later admitted that the amount would be at least $100,000.

When the sum was raised to more than half a million dollars, rumors began to circulate that the total embezzlement might reach a figure which would set a new record in such cases.

"TISSUE OF FALSEHOODS"

Ballinger Decares That Glavis' Statement Is Utterly Unwarranted

Washington, Nov. 10.—Secretary Ballinger of the department of the interior issued the following statement: "My attention has been directed to the text of an article purporting to have been written by Mr. L. R. Glavis which is to appear in Collier's Weekly and advance copies of which have been furnished by that weekly to the press. The Glavis story is a tissue of falsehood and insinuations utterly unwarranted, in view of the facts easily obtained by anybody who wants them.

"The statement of Glavis has gained nothing either as to its veracity or justification in the interval since its presentation to the president, and in view of the complete vindication by the president of myself and other officers of the department concerned, I will make no further statement at present."

CANNOT GO ASHORE

Immigrants Held on Liner Because of Discovery of Case of Smallpox

Boston, Nov. 10.—The 1162 steerage passengers, detained on the steamer Canopic because of the case of smallpox in the steerage discovered by Dr. Carson of the board of health, will not be released today.

Dr. Carson spent several hours yesterday afternoon examining the passengers and will report his findings to the board of health today. Until it has been passed upon, it will not be known whether some of the passengers will be released or all detained at Gallup's island.

MUST STAY SINGLE

Aurel Batonyi Cannot Wed During Life of His Divorced Wife

New York, Nov. 10.—The marriage of Aurel Batonyi, the society whip, and his wife, Mrs. Frances Work Burke-Roche Batonyi, was formally dissolved when Justice Dowling in the supreme court signed the interlocutory degree of divorce recently obtained by the wife.

The decree forbids Batonyi marrying again during the life of the plaintiff. His ex-wife has made no application for alimony.

No London Election Reform

London, Nov. 10.—The house of lords rejected another government measure, the London elections bill, which aimed at the removal of some anomalies peculiar to London, fixed all the elections on the same day and abolished plural voting.

A SNAKE STORY.

The Yarn That Was Spun by a Traveler In Australia.

An Australian traveler says that he was one day walking in the thick scrub, collecting specimens, when he came upon a large light brown snake, a species of python, coiled upon the ground.

He was by far the finest one he had ever seen at large. He was probably ten or twelve feet long and as thick as a man's leg at the knee.

He looked savage enough to devour a man, and at first the collector felt half inclined to run away.

He recovered himself, however, and was on the point of shooting the serpent with a charge of dust shot in order to carry home his skin when it occurred to him that he would be worth five times as much if he were taken alive.

"I had," he says, "a leather strap with a buckle in my game bag, and with this I determined to noose the snake.

"I started toward him, but when I came near he partly uncoiled, opened his mouth very wide, thereby disclosing his sharp teeth, and, hissing spitefully, struck at me. I dodged behind a small tree and, leaning out as far as I dared, tried several times to noose him.

"After I had teased him for some time he suddenly started off at full speed. I caught my gun and by dint of hard running through the thick scrub managed to head him off. He coiled, and again I tried the noose, but he put his head under his coils in a very sulky manner. I reached out from my shelter behind a tree and caught him by the tail, but he pulled away with great force and glided off again.

"This time he took refuge under a fallen tree and before I could head him off was gliding down the hole of some wild animal.

"I reached the spot just as the last two or three feet of his body were disappearing, and, seizing his tail with both hands, I hung on desperately. With my feet braced against a limb of the tree I pulled till the tail cracked and snapped as if it would break asunder. Sometimes he pulled me to within a few inches of the hole, and then I would brace myself against the limb and drag him halfway out.

"At last I grew so tired that I had to let go my hold, and with many regrets I saw the last few inches of the tail disappear beneath the earth."

THE DUTCH KITCHEN.

Largest Room In the House and Has a Bed In the Corner.

Holland, of all countries, is a memorial to the unceasing labor of man's hands. It exists not because the sea, higher than its green stretches, suffers it to, but because man by the labor of his hands and of his brain has kept the water back. The Dutch people have not only earned their land—they have made it.

"When have they found time to do it all?" you ask yourself. But you are to know more of the work which in Holland never ceases. Of the work which goes on within those houses you know nothing until at Delft you make your first acquaintance with a Dutch kitchen.

The kitchen is properly a large room as compared with the other rooms in the house, for it is the gathering place at all times for the family. The table is round and stands not quite in the center of the room, but so that the mistress, sitting at one side, can reach her hand out to the stove without rising.

In one corner of the kitchen is such a bed as you have never seen before. The stiffly starched white muslin curtains make it look like a blind window, but the grandson pulls the curtains back, and in the recess formed by the closet on one side and the corner of the room on the other you see the place where your hostess sleeps. There are a high feather bed and many coverings.

The stove is a brick one, set in a deep old fireplace. The old mantel is piled with brass vessels, which the old woman uses as though they were common tin. On one side is a china statue of the Virgin. On the other side under a glass globe is a waxen statue of Queen Wilhelmina in her wedding gown.—New Idea Magazine.

The Oldest.

Three old sports were chatting after a copious dinner, when one of them said, "I bet $5 my name is the oldest."

The bet was immediately accepted, and he produced his card, reading "Mr. Abel."

"Oh, dear $5!" said the second, showing his card. "I am Mr. Adam."

"Mine is the bet," replied the other, producing his card, and they could read "Mr. B. Ginning" printed on it.—Judge's Library.

A Bright Boy.

"Now, Tommy," said the teacher, "you may give me an example of coincidence."

"Why—er," said Tommy, with some hesitation—"why—er—why, me fadder and me mudder was both married on de same day."—Harper's Weekly.

Shrewd Girl.

Ella—Bella is an economical girl.

Stella—There is no doubt about that. She is engaged to a clergyman, and he says that she asked him if he couldn't perform the marriage ceremony and save the wedding fee.—New York Press.

National Pride.

Sleepy Silas—I see dis paper says England and Wales have 750,000 paupers. Weary Watkins—Dat's just like de English, allus blowin' about somethin'!—Yonkers Statesman.

THE STEINHEIL JEWELS

They Force Woman to Relate Things She Has Long Concealed

Paris, Nov. 10.—Mme. Steinheil's battle yesterday in the long efforts she is making to shake off the accusation of double murder, was occupied almost entirely in regard to jewels in her possession, jewels of double mystery, where they came from, and where they are now.

There is a mystery in the jewelry possessed by the artist's wife, whose name is connected with the name even of the late French president. These secret friends of high station form whole chapters in the career of the mysterious woman. It is discovered that the jewels are souvenirs of those concealed chapters.

By connecting these jewels with the murders, the prosecution is forcing Mme. Steinheil to relate things which even her family did not know. To save herself from conviction of murder she is telling it all.

She had told that the robbers who, she says, committed the murders, stole her jewelry. The government has learned that certain of these jewels she had herself disposed of, having a jeweler melt them down. She says this was to conceal from her daughter where she got them.

When Jeweler Soulloy was called Mme. Steinheil fought over his testimony inch by inch. Every jewel that Soulloy spoke of brought interruptions from Mme. Steinheil. She repeated her story of possessing jewels in duplicate. The advocate general called this statement feeble.

PAINTERS HAVE NARROW ESCAPE

Not Seriously Hurt After Taking a Drop of Sixty Feet

Hartford, Nov. 10.—By the upsetting of a scaffolding at the home of Ferdinand Hart two painters were hurled down from a cupola, a distance of sixty feet. The ground was soft and marshy, and both escaped serious injury.

Another painter, who was working with them, grabbed a rope as he fell, and remained dangling in midair. He at once began to cry for help and his chums, having recovered their wits, rushed to the nearest firehouse for aid. A ladder truck responded, and a quick dash was made to the scene of the accident.

The painter was still hanging for dear life. A ladder was quickly raised and he was brought down more scared than hurt.

TAFT'S LITTLE JOKE

He Tells Tarheels That They Beat Boston In Its Tea Party

Wilmington, N. C., Nov. 10.—There was a quiet slap at Boston made by President Taft during a banquet here last night, when, referring to North Carolina's share in the Revolutionary war, he said:

"I understand that you suppressed the stamp tax and emptied out the tea a very considerable time before they had that tea party in Boston harbor."

His 13,000-mile journey through thirty-three states and territories all but concluded, President Taft left for Richmond, where he will stop today until late afternoon, leaving then for Washington to spend the night at home in the White House.

PEARY DODGES SOUTH POLE

Explorer's Wife Denies That He Is to Head Expedition

Washington, Nov. 10.—Commander Peary, who has taken up his residence with his familiy in Washington for the winter, is not contemplating an expedition to the South Pole. While the commander stands ready to furnish expert knowledge and advice to any explorer about to embark on a trip to the far south, he is not preparing to make any such trip himself.

Mrs. Peary declared, when informed of a report that the commander would head an expedition to seek the South Pole within the next five years, that she knew positively that this was untrue.

NO CLUE TO MURDERER

Young Woman Becomes the Victim of a Most Fiendish Attack

Cairo, Ills., Nov. 10.—Miss Annie Pelley, a clerk in a local dry goods store, was murdered here. Children found her mutilated body in an alley. An examination showed that she had been gagged and choked to death and made the victim of a fiendish attack. There is no clue to the murderer.

Miss Pelley was 24 years old. She came here from Anna, Ills., a few months ago.

3000 Abyssinians Killed In Battle

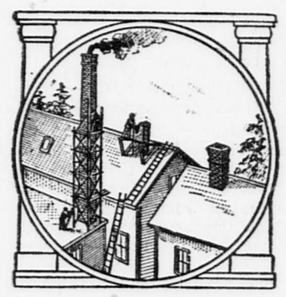

Berlin, Nov. 10.—Three thousand were killed after seventy-five hours' fighting in a battle between the forces of Prince Abate and Prince Abrahe, minor Abyssinia rulers, according to the Cologne Gazette. The force of Abate was victorious and Prince Abahe was captured.

To Have $16,000,000 Subway

New York, Nov. 10.—Expenditures of nearly $16,000,000 for a new eight-mile subway in Brooklyn is called for in contracts signed by the public service commission.

AN OLD-TIME PRESCRIPTION

in a modern product. From time immemorial sage and sulphur have been used for the hair and scalp. Almost every one knows of the value of such a combination for darkening the hair and making it grow. In olden times the only way to get a hair tonic of this sort was to brew it in the home fireplace, a method which was troublesome and not always satisfactory. Nowadays almost every up-to-date druggist can supply his patrons with a ready to use product, skillfully compounded in perfectly equipped laboratories. Such a preparation is Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur, which is sold by all leading druggists for 50c. and $1.00 a bottle, or which is sent direct by the Wyeth Chemical Company, 74 Cortlandt St., New York City, upon receipt of price.

CURRENCY QUESTION

Of Greater Importance Than the Tariff

At the regular meeting of the Wollaston Unitarian club on Tuesday evening, Congressman John W. Weeks of Newton addressed those present on the subject of "Currency." Mr. Weeks is a member of the National Monetary Commission, and is prominent in Boston banking circles as a member of the firm of Hornblower & Weeks. He spoke of currency as the most important question with which Congress would have to deal in the next two years—not excepting the tariff.

The financial and banking history of the country was taken up by Congressman Weeks who said that all panics were due to the same fundamental causes. He instanced the panic of 1907, giving its cause as over capitalization, speculation, tying up funds in fixtures and, in short ,to the general extravagance of the people of this country.

CONGRESSMAN WEEKS

Mr. Weeks told of the banking system of the country, and how in the time of a panic, or short money, the country bank draws on its correspondent in the city these in turn drawing on the banks of the reserve cities, these banks calling in their currency from the banks of the three central reserve cities. In this manner the whole brunt falls on New York, Chicago and St. Louis, New York banks bearing the most strain. Is it strange, he said that these do not always stand the pressure.

Clearing house certificates and checks were spoken of and their use in the time of panic demonstrated. Clearing house certificates have been issued nine times in the history of the nation, and one step further was taken in the panic of 1907 in the issue of clearing house checks. In all these times not a dollar has been lost, all having been paid when the pressure was over. The system, he said, is however, demoralizing inasmuch as it breaks down the system of domestic exchange.

Congressman Weeks spoke of the preventative measures taken by Congress after the panic of 1907 and of the appointment of a committee on Banking and Currency. This committee is made up of eighteen members and, Mr. Weeks said, is generally of as many minds.

After outlining the systems of banking and currency in force in Europe and Canada, he gave a scheme which in his mind would improve the financial conditions of the country. This has for its main idea a central bank, which shall be made a close corporation—no person to hold more than one hundred shares. To destroy any political effect one-third of the directors shall be appointed by the national banks, one-third by the public and one-third by the president. This bank should receive all government deposits and do business only with the government and the national banks.

At the close of Mr. Weeks' address, he was extended a rising vote of thanks. The usual roast beef supper was served. An invitation was received from the Wollaston Congregational club to their next meeting, when "Boston—1915" will be the subject.

Exposure to Wet, dampness and cold, invariably results in a sudden chill, which if not attended to immediately, will cause a cold. By mixing a teaspoonful of Perry Davis' Painkiller in half a glass of warm water or milk, the whole system will be heated and the danger of cold avoided. Avoid substitutes, there is but one Painkiller, Perry Davis'. Price 25c., 35c. and 50c.

GAMBLER'S LUCK.

The Lackey Who Changed Places With His Former Master.

Some years ago a remarkable occurrence transpired at Nice, which is very near to Monte Carlo. A notorious habitue of the casino, who had made his money principally there, had set up an English vehicle, a pair of horses, "tiger" and all, and cut quite a swell driving in the neighborhood, says Illustrazione. One day he was riding in the environs of the town when his servant, sitting upon the raised box behind, who had been feeling somewhat uneasy at not receiving his wages for some time, seeing his master quite alone, ventured to ask him through the back window if he would not make it convenient to pay him. The master was in a good humor and asked:

"How much is it, La Fleur?"

"One hundred and twenty-five livres, may it please you, monsieur."

"Very well; here it is," said the master, spreading the sum in paper currency upon the seat of the vehicle. "Now, La Fleur, have you a pack of cards with you?"

"Certainly," answered the obsequious lackey. "I always carry them, monsieur," producing the cards at once.

"That is well. Now, I will be banker, and you shall play against me. I will take the front seat, the back one shall serve for our table, and you can look through this back window."

The lackey assented to this, amused at his master's condescension. Luck was rather on the master's side, but both men became quite eager in the game, thinking of that, and that only. Little by little the footman's money went until all that was left of his wages was 5 livres. He began to feel anxious, when suddenly his luck turned, and he won the whole sum back, with every sou his master had about him.

Piqued at his loss, the master wagered a horse, which the lackey won; then its mate, next the harness and lastly the carriage itself. Luck ran all one way, and the servant, La Fleur, won everything. The master took out his watch and put it down against a given sum. The cards were shuffled, and the lackey won.

"I have nothing more, La Fleur. You have cleaned me out," said the half desperate gambler.

The servant was in high spirits at his strange run of luck.

"Here are a hundred livres, monsieur. I will stake them against your position. If you win they are yours. If you lose we change seats."

"Agreed!"

The cards were shuffled, La Fleur won, and the vehicle returned to Nice with its former master occupying the servant's box behind and La Fleur sitting inside!

The Last Speaker of Cornish.

In the little village of St. Paul, near Penzance, there is a monument erected to the memory of Doll, or Dolly, Pentreath, who attained the age of 102 and was the last woman who spoke the Cornish tongue. This is the inscription: "Here lieth interred Dorothy Pentreath, who died in 1777, said to have been the last person who conversed in the ancient Cornish, the peculiar language of this country from the earliest times till it expired in the eighteenth century in this parish of St. Paul. This stone is erected by the Prince Louis Lucien Bonaparte, in union with the Rev. John Garnett, vicar of St. Paul, June, 1860. 'Honor thy father and thy mother that thy days may be long upon the land which the Lord thy God giveth thee' (Exodus xx, 12)."—London News.

The Youngster Hushed.

When the great French chemist Chevreul attained his hundredth birthday he was entertained at a public dinner, at which his son, a high official in the department of justice, sixty-seven years old, was also present. The old man made a speech and in telling an anecdote made a slight slip, which his son corrected. Old Chevreul turned around quickly and said in a sharp tone, "Hush, youngster, when I am talking." And the "youngster" held his tongue.

An Odd Perquisite.

One of the most curious perquisites in connection with English coronations is the right of one of the peers to claim the bed and bedding used by the heir apparent on the night preceding the coronation. In olden times this was a perquisite of considerable value, as the "bedding" usually consisted of richly embroidered coverlids of velvet or silk, with priceless hangings of cloth of silver and gold.

Besides, the courts have decided that dealing in futures without the actual delivery of the goods is gambling pure and simple.—Puck.

The One to Blame.

"It is the duty of every man and woman to be married at the age of twenty-two," said the lecturer.

"Well," said a woman of thirty, with some asperity, "you needn't tell me that. Talk to the man."—Philadelphia Ledger.

His Popularity.

"Are you popular with the Kash girls?"

"Dashed if I know. Each one always introduces me as a friend of her sister."—Cleveland Leader.

ANTI-TUBERCULOSIS ASSOCIATION

the tuberculosis camp committee. The committee had organized with Dr. Hunting as chairman and a committee from each ward had been appointed. It was the desire of the committee to erect a permanent camp and later smaller camps about it. Henry M. Faxon had given the land for the purpose. It was proposed to erect a camp about 30 by 30 which would cost $800. Plans for it had been prepared by Perry Lawton, civil engineer.

The committee now had $729 in cash and enough more pledged to bring the amount up to $1,097.55. There was also $300 from the Granite Manufacturers' association making about $1,500 in sight.

R. J. Teasdale thought more frequent meetings of the association should be held.

Dr. Welch said that the work of carrying on the association was devolved upon the board of managers. There had been seven meetings of this board. Dr. Welch said much had been accomplished the first year in effecting an organization. It takes time for any organization to settle down to active work ,especially if its range is as wide as this association. The education of the people was the first thing perhaps, and the other things will follow. He was glad to hear of the work of the camp committee. To be effective it must be permanent. This is a feature of the educational work. Dr. Gordon, the speaker said, had felt the time was not right for a dispensary. The camp is the logical place for it. We are indebted to the Quincy Women's club for the offer of a room at its clubhouse. He hardly thought that was the place as it would deter some from going there. We have accomplished much by bringing the attention of the people of Quincy to the necessity of looking after tuberculosis patients.

Dr. Welch said he thought the association was over organized. His experience had been that associations were apt to be burdened with committees. We have committees some of whose members have never attended a meeting. It looks as though we were forcing honor upon them. Committees should be abandoned and there should be an executive board of six who should have general charge.

A rising vote of thanks was given the retiring officers and the meeting adjourned.

LOST CHILDREN.

The cause of the excitement in West Quincy on Tuesday was due to the loss of the 4 year old Elma Landry and 3 year old Joseph Saltimaci, who reside on Bates avenue. The children went for a walk to meet their fathers and somehow took the wrong street and went towards South Quincy. A lost child alarm was about to be pulled in when Charles Furbrush and Bartlo Cusatilo came home with the two children and stated that they were found on Miller street crying.

BURGLARS AT BRAINTREE.

The home of Mr. and Mrs. F. Everett Winslow at the corner of West street and Mt. Vernon avenue, Braintree, was burglarized early Monday night while the newly married couple were in Boston. Many of their wedding gifts of solid silver were taken. It is thought the postman frightened the burglar off about 5 P. M.

ACCIDENT FATAL.

William Morrissey, who was injured early Sunday morning by falling from the hay loft to the main floor at the stable of Bruce & Myatt, passed away this morning. It was realized from the first that his injuries were of a very serious nature, and the only hope was an operation, which was performed Sunday. Although the operation was successful, but slight hopes were entertained for his recovery. He had a fairly comfortable night Monday, but failed during the day and Tuesday night he sank rapidly until his death at 1 o'clock.

Mr. Morrissey was 49 years of age. His trade was that of a stone cutter, at which he was employed for a number of years.

During the administration of ex-Mayor Sears in 1898 he was appointed a special police officer, and did faithful work as such for several years. He then left town and found work at his trade, remaining away for several years. Since his return he has followed various occupations but principally that of the care of horses. His funeral will be held Friday from St. John's church.

Vol. 23 No. 253 QUINCY, MASS., THURSDAY EVENING, NOVEMBER 11, 1909 PRICE TWO CENTS

Y. M. C. A. FUND OVER SUBSCRIBED

Great Enthusiasm as Total Goes to $26,000 Then $27,000

About $8,000 Raised on Last Day of Most Remarkable Campaign in Quincy's History

Successful beyond all expectation!

Grand total for Y. M. C. A. did not stop at $25,000, but was carried over 26,000 and $27,000 to almost $28,000 and subscriptions are still coming in.

Marvelous work was done on the final day when about $8,000 were raised.

A large number of people share in the grand achievement, not only the Citizens Committee, but the Men's team, the Young Mens teams, the Boys teams, the Ladies Auxiliary, the local press, the officials of the Y. M. C. A., and the thousands who have signed pledges.

Everybody who in any way contributed to the grand result is happy that they were permitted to help.

The city of Quincy has been awakened as it never was before, and these same men are confident that with the same united effort they could accomplish almost anything they might attempt for the welfare of Quincy. The experience has been valuable to all concerned.

Very few when they gathered at the supper tables last night realized that the goal had been reached. They epected a little skirmishing would be necessary after the 7 o'clock reports, or that one or two gentlemen would come forward and pledge the balance. But no balance was required.

The final supper of the campaign was a grand love feast and there was no undue haste to leave the table to get out to W—O—R—K. The work had all been done admirably. The blessing was asked by Rev. H. G. Gay of Reading, father of General Secretary Gay.

Mrs .Gilbert Rhodes of Wollaston was chairman of the supper committee and the ladies who assisted her were mostly gowned in white. Chrysanthemums adorned the tables, and the menu included: Macaroni, cabbage salad, ham, corned beef, mashed potatoes, rolls, coffee, ice cream and cake.

A large number of ladies were in the gallery, and by 7 o'clock interested gentlemen, ladies, boys and girls crowded onto the floor. All were anxious to learn the result. A clock was placed upon the platform indicating the $19,359 mark reached Tuesday night, and then by $500 degrees up to $25,000. On one side was ""W—O"" and on the other "R—K."

After the supper Chairman Sedgwick said all the teams had worked hard and faithfully and he wanted to thank each member. He also complimented the ladies on the suppers served during the campaign. (Cheers and applause.

BOYS WORK.

First came the reports of the Boys' teams and the little fellows had done remarkably well:

Harvard	$9.50
Amherst	6.80
Dartmouth	9.00
Carlisle	17.10
Bowdoin	21.10
Springfield Training	19.22
Brown	30.11
Yale	13.10
So. Quincy Extension Club	45.00
Total	$170.93

The applause which greeted each report showed that the work of the boys was appreciated.

YOUNG MEN'S TEAMS.

The young men had also been very successful more so than the report below shows, as there were additions later:

Team A	$36.00
Team B	18.00
Team C	14.00
Team D	46.00
Team E	18.50
	$133.00

Cheers were given the Young men.

MEN'S TEAMS.

The ten Men's teams reported $2,744.00, and later there were several additions. The reports were as follows, but additions are credited in the summary at the top of the page:

Team 1, Capt. Shaw,	$206.00
Team 2, Capt. Cummings	265.00
Team 3, Capt. Murray	163.00
Team 4, Capt. Bailey	170.50
Team 5, Capt. Miller	1,000.00
Team 6, Capt. Sidelinger	131.00
Team 7, Capt. Cassidy	236.50
Team 8, Capt. Sherman	247.00
Team 9, Capt. Crane	246.00
Team 10, Capt. Pollard	80.00
	$2,744.00

When Capt. Murray announced a contribution from the Quincy Daily Ledger, he complimented the press on the work done during the campaign, and moved a rising vote of thanks, which was given with a will.

When Team 5 was reached Capt. Miller pleaded for a little more time that he might make a good showing. It was reserved until the last, and when Mr. Miller reported an even $1,000 the house fairly shook.

Six of the teams had raised over $200 each on the final day, but every team shared equally in the applause as announcements were made.

LADIES' REPORT.

At this point unexpected assistance came from the Ladies Auxiliary. It was not generally known that the ladies would make a cash contribution at this time, as they are continually serving suppers and helping in many ways. Mrs. Herbert W. Pinkham, the president, reported however a very generous contribution of $1,047.65 to the fund, as follows:

Annual pledge	$450.00
Cash from membership,	64.50
Pledges from membership	401.50
Outside friends	58.00
Civic Betterment Committee,	15.00
Unity Circle, King's daughters,	25.00
Wollaston Baptist S. S. class	3.65
Ladies' Missionary Society of Park and Downs church	5.00
Bethany Circle,	25.00
	$1,047.65

Again the ladies were cheered to the echo.

CITIZENS' COMMITTEE.

Chairman King was in no hurry to get out to work after supper. He had given up the Massachusetts No-License League banquet to be present, and had neglected business during the week to help along the Y. M. C. A. campaign. He found it difficult, he said, to keep pace with his wife and son, and told many family secrets which revealed his home life, and amused all. He acknowledged gifts of $100 from John R. Graham, $250 from ex-Mayor C. F. Adams, $25 from Horace Eaton, $100 from Mrs. John Quincy Adams $200 from the Quincy Quarries Co., $500 from the National Granite Bank, $500 from Mr .and Mrs. T. King, $250 from Frank A. Day of Boston, and other sums none in excess of $500, but the total of the committee for the day was $3,531.00. Great applause.

The hand on the clock was moved to three minutes past the hour for the total was over a $1,000 in excess of the $25,000 wanted. But the hand kept going as the clock had not run down, and the grand total was nearly $28,000.

Mr. King spoke of the intention to liberalize the Y. M. C. A. to include men of all churches in the city and his willingness to cooperate in the future. He closed with a lengthy prayer for blessings which the association had received.

Remarks followed by President R. D. Chase, and the captain of each team, Harry Brooks for the boys' teams, Chairman Sedgwick, Mrs. H. W. Pinkham, Secretary Gay, Assistant State Secretary Coburn and others.

George H. Brown moved a heartfelt vote of thanks to Theophilus King, which was given by rising and cheering.

Cheers were also given for W-O-R-K, for the Y. M. C. A. officials, for Clarence Burgin, and others.

All then united in singing "Praise God from whom all blessings flow."

The men and boys were then gathered about the platform and photographed, and later the Ladies' Auxiliary was photographed.

About 8 o'clock when it was known that $27,000 had been raised 27 blows were sounded on the fire alarm bells and whistles, and church bells of the city were rung. A bugler also announced victory from the top of the W. G. Shaw's building when the hand started on its second round.

The town clock was striking 9 when the Y. M. C. A. men and women marched up Washington street to music. They halted in front of the Shaw building and cheered the clock, the Y. M. C. A. and almost everybody. Everyone was happy over the splendid success.

LAST WORD WAS OF HURRICANE

Communication With Island of Jamaica Cut Off

FEARS OF GREAT DISASTER

Possibility That Earthquake May Be Responsible For Unusually Long Period of Silence—Upheaval of Waters Has Perhaps Rendered Cables Unfit For Use—Halifax Cable Officials and Merchants Anxious

Halifax, Nov. 11.—Mystery surrounds the cutting off of all communication with the island of Jamaica.

The island, so far as information as to what is going on there, or what may have occurred, is shut off from the rest of the world, and dread forebodings are springing up concerning the welfare of its inhabitants.

Not a word has come over the cables since Saturday, and all attempts to secure a response to the operator's signals on this end have proven utter failures.

The last cable received on that day stated that a hurricane of unprecedented severity was then sweeping over the island and contained the report that all the land lines had been destroyed.

Reports from Albany, N. Y., indicate that the possibility exists that an earthquake may have shaken the island, as the seismograph at the New York state museum recorded earth movements yesterday, beginning at 1:38 a. m. and ending at 2:40.

The earthquake causing the movement appeared to be of distant origin, but the exact distance could not be determined.

Cable officers here hold the opinion that some upheaval in the waters near Jamaica may have either broken the cable, or caused such damage to its outer parts as to render it unserviceable.

All communication with Jamaica ceased on Saturday night, when a storm, attended by very heavy rains, began. Efforts to restore the cable connections of the Direct West India company have failed. It is thought that the cable huts are down.

Tests made from the Halifax office indicate that the cable was all right, but that the land lines from Bulls Bay, where the cable lands, to Kingston, ten miles away, were down.

This interruption has so far baffled all attempts to get into communication with Kingston. There is no station at Bulls Bay. It is simply the landing place of the cable and therefore the company has been unable to get any messages through. But as any ordinary interruption in this small stretch of land wire could be repaired in half a day, and it is a very exceptional circumstance when a day elapses with this communication destroyed, the worst is apprehended by officers of the cable company here, as over four days have now gone by and this line is still down.

That linemen have been unable to ford the Hope river, which is generally dry, but after a rain becomes a raging torrent, is thought to be one of the reasons why the wires have not yet been repaired. This river lies between Kingston and Bulls Bay and also between Kingston and Hollands Bay, where the West India and Panama companies' cables land.

Although the West India and Panama company has a station at Hollands Bay, about forty miles from Kingston, they have also been unable to get any messages through, and since Monday all communication with Hollands Bay ceased.

All the accumulation of four days' messages is held up, and apart from the anxiety as to what has actually transpired on the island both companies are very anxious to get in communication and get this business off their hands. Their anxiety is shared by all Halifax merchants doing business with Jamaica.

A BIG APPLE CARGO

Liner Carries Many Thousand Barrels From Boston For Liverpool

Boston, Nov. 11.—An apple apiece for about one in every thirteen persons in the British Isles gives an idea of the size of the consignment of apples carried from Boston on the Leyland liner Cestrian, for Liverpool.

She had 13,696 barrels and 1483 boxes of the fruit, which means in the neighborhood of 3,000,000 apples. It was the largest apple shipment of the season, to date, and larger than any one shipment all last season.

Immigrants Discharged From Canopic

Boston, Nov. 11.—Half of the 1162 immigrants aboard the White Star liner Canopic, which has been held under quarantine since her arrival here on Monday with a case of smallpox aboard, were discharged yesterday by Dr. Carson, port physician, as immune.

Justice Moody Gaining

Washington, Nov. 11.—The condition of Associate Justice Moody is steadily improving and he expects to resume his seat on the supreme bench by Jan. 1 next, according to advices received by Chief Justice Fuller.

COMPROMISE IS BLOCKED

Settlement Agreed Upon by Sugar Men Is Forbidden by Court

New York, Nov. 11.—On the eve of final adjustment, the litigation between the American Sugar Refining company, generally known as the sugar trust, and the Pennsylvania Sugar Refining company, a smaller concern, which it put out of business, came to a sudden stop in New York.

On the application of George G. Battle and H. S. Marshall, Judge Holt granted a restraining order which forbids in effect the compromise agreed upon whereby the so-called trust was to pay George H. Earle, Jr., receiver of the Pennsylvania Sugar Refining company, $750,000, and was to return to the bondholders $1,250,000 in bonds held as collateral for a loan to Adolph Segal.

Segal, as president of the Pennsylvania Sugar Refining company, accepted this loan, giving the bonds as security, which in turn enabled the American Sugar Refining company to bring about the closure of the smaller plant.

SPEEDING CAR IS WRECKED

Woman's Death Will Result From Joy Ride In Wanamaker's Car

New York, Nov. 11.—Harry A. Steffens, chauffeur for Rodman Wanamaker, got his employer's luxurious touring car from the garage and took a party of three women and four men on a joy ride. Soon after midnight Frank Gorey, another Wanamaker chauffeur, who was running the car, steered it into a big rock at the roadside at Elmhurst, L. I., and wrecked it.

Gertrude Mason, one of the women guests of the chauffeur, who has given two fictitious addresses, was so badly injured that her death is momentarily expected. Ray Howard is badly hurt. All the other occupants of the car escaped serious injury.

MAY DROP THE CASE OF MME. STEINHEIL

Circumstantial Evidence Shows Signs of Weakening

Paris, Nov. 11.—The testimony Wednesday in the trial of Mme. Steinheil, charged with the murder of her husband and stepmother, was distinctly favorable to the defendant.

The state's circumstantial case seems to be rapidly breaking down, and it is already rumored that the trial may be abandoned and a new investigation may be ordered.

Anti-Dreyfus papers have again begun to revamp their previous insinuations that the crime involved a political plot for the destruction of evidence regarding the death of ex-President Faure. His death, the anti-Dreyfusards have never ceased to claim, was due to foul play, because, as they allege, Faure opposed the revision of the Dreyfus case.

The anti-Dreyfusards seek to give color to their insinuation by emphasizing the veiled threats which Mme. Steinheil repeatedly made in open court to reveal her relations with prominent men in every walk of life, if driven to it.

MAE WOOD IS ILL

Her Trial For Alleged Perjury and Forgery Is Delayed

New York, Nov. 11.—The case of Mae Wood, who has been under indictment since June, 1908, for perjury and forgery in connection with her sensational suit for divorce against former Senator Thomas C. Platt, was brought up suddenly in the court of general sessions. But the defendant did not appear and the prosecution asked that her bond of $5000 be forfeited.

Counsel explained that she was ill on a ranch in Colorado. District Attorney Jerome announced that it was by mistake that the case was called at this time, and adjournment was taken until Monday.

TAXES OUR LAKE VESSELS

Canada Retaliates For Certain Provisions In the Payne Measure

Ottawa, Nov. 11.—The Canadian minister of marine has ordered that harbor master's dues be collected hereafter upon United States vessels entering Ontario ports. This marks the end of a reciprocal agreement with the United States which has been in force for twenty-four years.

The recent Payne tariff placed a tonnage tax of 10 cents a ton per year on Canadian vessels trading to great lake ports in the United States, the provision becoming effective last month.

Suffragettes Fined $25.

London, Nov. 11.—Two suffragettes who broke the window at Guild hall during the height of the lord mayor's banquet were fined $25 each, with the alternative of a month at hard labor. The prisoners were Amelia Brown and Alice Paul.

Mrs. Frohman Gets Divorce

Reno, Nev., Nov. 11.—Margaret Illington Frohman, wife of Daniel Frohman, New York theatrical manager, obtained as absolute decree of divorce from Judge Pike. The hearing occupied only twenty-five minutes.

MAGNETISM.

Some of the Peculiar Properties of This Strange Force.

The true nature of magnetism as such, of course, is not known. All that we can be sure of is that magnetic attraction does not radiate outward in all directions as does light, but simply acts along lines consisting of closed curves and called lines of force, these lines connecting the two poles and not extending very far outward between them. These curves may be found very nicely by placing a horseshoe magnet under a thin sheet of paper and sprinkling iron filings on top. The filings will collect along the lines.

Now, as to the different kinds of magnets, there are natural, artificial and electro magnets. The natural ones are found as magnetic ore in the earth, the artificial ones are made by stroking a piece of iron or steel with a magnet, and the electro magnets are caused by the action of an electric current.

Some peculiar things have been noticed in regard to magnetism, among which are the following facts:

It has been observed that fire irons that have rested in one position during the summer months are often highly magnetized, no doubt having been caused by the magnetism of the earth itself by the process known as induction. Other iron articles that stay in one position and do not come in contact with fire or other heat are often found in the same condition, such as iron bars to jail windows and iron railings in front of houses.

The most peculiar observation made, however, was that the upper part of the steel tire of a carriage wheel attracts the north pole of a magnet, while the bottom part, or part in contact with the earth, attracts the south pole. This is in the northern hemisphere only and is fully in accord with the theory of induced magnetism. Of course in the southern hemisphere, where the earth is under the influence of the south magnetic pole, the conditions are reversed.

A magnet dipped into boiling water loses a great part of its magnetism, which is miraculously restored to it on becoming cool again.

A sharp blow given to a magnet will cause it to lose its magnetism. Also the application of heat will have a like effect.

If a magnetic needle be placed over a rapidly revolving plate of copper, although it be separated from it by a thick plate of glass, the needle will revolve in the same direction as the plate.—Exchange.

THE ELEPHANT IN BATTLE.

Most Docile Yet Courageous and Faithful of Animals.

Of the docility of the elephant there is no need to multiply examples. It is said that in India native women sometimes when called away intrust their babies to the care of "the handed one," confident that they will be safe and tenderly handled.

But of all elephant stories surely the finest is that which tells how the standard bearing elephant of the Peishwa won a great victory for its Mahratta lord. At the moment when the elephant had been told to halt its mahout was killed. The shock of battle closed around it, and the Mahratta forces were borne back, but still the elephant stood, and the standard which it carried still flew, so that the Peishwa's soldiers could not believe that they were indeed being overcome and, rallying, in their turn drove the enemy backward till the tide swept past the rooted elephant and left it towering colossal among the slain. The fight was over and won, and then they would have had the elephant move from the battlefield, but it waited still for the dead man's voice.

For three days and nights it remained where it had been told to remain, and neither bribe nor threat would move it till they sent to the village on the Nerbudda, a hundred miles away, and fetched the mahout's little son, a round eyed, lisping child, and then at last the hero of that victorious day, remembering how its master had often in brief absence delegated authority to the child, confessed its allegiance and with the shattered battle harness clanging at each stately stride swung slowly along the road behind the boy.—London Times.

A Little Crowded.

A backwoodsman went to New York city for the first time, says the Saturday Evening Post. He stopped at a Broadway hotel which was pretty well downtown. Next morning his nephew, who lives in New York, came to take him out and show him the sights. They walked down Broadway until they got to Canal street. The backwoodsman stopped and contemplated the great congestion of traffic there, hundreds of trucks going every way.

"Son," he said to his nephew, "you have a nice city here, but it 'pears to me that your folks is a hull passel behind in their haulin'."

Must Suit All Tastes.

"My wife wonders why the papers waste so much space on mere news."

"What does she read?"

"Oh, she reads the weather probabilities, the bargain probabilities, the marriage notices and the love story. But an item about a big battle or the fall of a dynasty looks piffling to her."—Louisville Courier-Journal.

Animals He Had Met.

Little Harry was visiting in the country and while there became very much attached to his cousin's pet dog. "Haven't you any animals at home?" he was asked.

"Oh, yes," replied the little fellow. "We have roaches and flies."—Chicago News.

GOOD PROMOTERS.

They Must Possess the Power of Inspiring Confidence.

A story is told about a young fellow who applied at a big banking establishment for a position and who upon being told that all the clerkships were filled said quite confidentially, "I've never worked at the promoting business, but can't you send me to some friend of yours who needs a promoter?"

Strange indeed it is that almost every one of the successful promoters of the present day is a man who went into the exceedingly difficult work with scarcely more preparation than had gone the venturesome youth of this yarn.

Gifted with good address, control of the English language, fluency of speech and determination, a man who embarks in the field has in his possession the qualities that have made many promoters rich and powerful. Many of them were lawyers to begin with. Others were life insurance agents. One or two sold stock in a small way. Gradually each of these men came to see that carving out a new way for himself would give him a wider and more substantial future. And then at that moment the promoter was born.

But whether these promoters have won their spurs by organizing big concerns or corporations or by selling those already in the field there is not one of them but will tell you that most of his success was due to his power to inspire confidence. A promoter that can't make "the other fellow" believe in him and in his proposition might better be cleaning the streets. He never will succeed.

The successful promoter must be able not only to look men in the eye, but he must also be able to face the most discouraging circumstances and fight his way through them. "Fail" is a word the meaning of which he must never learn.

And the rewards? They range from millions to a fee of $7 that was once paid to a promoter who successfully promoted the amalgamation of two competing bootblacking establishments.—San Francisco Chronicle.

THE HINDOO FOOT.

It Is Quite Different From Ours In Its Formation.

In the native quarters of the towns of India the strange spectacle may be seen of a butcher seizing a piece of meat in his hands and cutting it in two with a stroke of his knife held between the first and second toes of his foot. The shoemaker uses no last, but turns the unfinished shoe with his feet, while his hands are busy in shaping it. So the carpenter holds with his great toe the board he is cutting, and the wood turner handles his tools as well with his toes as with his fingers.

This use of the feet to assist the hands in their labor is not, however, the mere result of practice, but is principally due to the fact that the Hindoo foot is quite different from ours in its anatomical conformation. The ankle of the Hindoo and the articulation of the back of the foot permit considerable lateral motion. Then the toes possess a surprising mobility. The great toe can be moved freely in all directions, and the first and second toes are separated by a wide space, sometimes as much as five-eighths of an inch across at the base of the toes and two inches at their extremities.

The articulation of the hip is also peculiar, and this renders it easier to use the toes in handling the objects by enabling the Hindoo to sit in a squatting posture much more comfortably than we can do. A similar formation of the feet and toes is found among the Annamese, but it is not, as might be supposed, a common thing among barbarous and savage tribes.

One naturally thinks of the resemblance to a monkey which a human being using both feet and hands in the manner described above must present, and yet the Hindoo foot is not at all like the foot of an ape or monkey. The great toe is not opposed to the other toes like a thumb, as occurs with the monkey, and accordingly the pedal dexterity of the Hindoos is not to be taken as an indication of simian descent.—Pearson's Weekly.

Other Uses For Teeth.

The teeth, says the Medical Fortnightly, are said to have a higher office than that commonly assigned to them—namely, that of merely crushing or masticating the food. They are to be regarded as endowed with a tactile sense, a discriminating faculty corresponding to that possessed by the muscles and nerves of the eye and ear. They have an extreme delicacy of discernment both as to whether the objects comminuted be suitable as food or such as will irritate the delicate lining of the digestive passages. They speedily detect the smallest particle of cinder that has found its way into a freshly baked biscuit.

A Transmigrator.

Black Sarah was busily employed about our small northern kitchen when I had occasion to go out there and by way of being pleasant said, "You are from the south, are you not, Sarah?"

"Law, yes, miss!" was the answer.

"Born in the south?" I continued.

"Originally bawn in Richmond, miss," was the astonishing reply.—Woman's Home Companion.

Our Way In Life.

It does not take much to determine the lives of most of us. We naturally follow the examples about us, and, as a rule, we rise or fall according to the strongest current in which we live.—Success Magazine.

Wipe out the past, trust the future and live in a glorious now.—Towne.

CRANE INCIDENT BOBS UP AGAIN

Hints That Knox Bowed to Great Financial Interests

VIEW OF STATE DEPARTMENT

Minister Himself Responsible For His Resignation, Inasmuch as It Was Tendered to President Without Knowledge of Secretary of State, Who Had Merely Asked For Explanation of Interview In Chicago

Washington, Nov. 11.—Official circles are stirred again by a renewal and restatement in concrete form of insinuations, long current here, that Secretary of State Knox bowed to monster financial interests in New York in causing the dismissal of Minister to China Charles R. Crane.

From all that can be gleaned here in high quarters, the state department is inclined to hold Crane rather than Knox responsible for Crane's abrupt resignation. Men conversant with the affair are said to assert that the resignation was sent to President Taft without the knowledge of Knox that the minister was about to resign.

According to the understanding here, belated as it is, when Knox and Crane met, the chief purpose of the secretary's questions related to the publication in a Chicago paper of statements relating to the present treaty between China and Japan, which apparently could have been inspired only by Crane.

The minister was questioned sharply on this point, but the situation was left by Knox in statu quo, with the understanding that Crane think the situation over, determine in his own mind his own sense of responsibility and confer later with the secretary of state. It was during this modus vivendi, so to speak, that the state department was surprised to learn that Crane had sent his resignation to the president.

On Crane's side, the statement is made that he felt hurt because the state department had kept silent during the public discussion in the press of the Knox-Crane episode and had permitted him to be subjected to a "pounding." The state department, on the other hand, had followed its custom, under Knox, of paying no attention to unofficial utterances.

The state department apparently is unmoved by the charges linking its policies closely with leading financiers in New York on the theory that when money was needed to maintain American interests and prestige in the east it could be got only from the men who had money. It is said here that before his departure for the Pacific coast Crane was studiously entertained by all representative members of the state department, when the issues with which he would be expected to deal with were discussed fully.

BACK IN THE CAPITAL

President Taft Completes Trip of Thirteen Thousand Miles

Washington, Nov. 11.—After an absence of more than three months, during which he has made a 13,000-mile trip through the west and south, President Taft slept last night in the White House.

He left the capital Aug. 6. He returned to the tune of cheers, but he tarried only a moment with the various welcoming parties. His objective point was the White House and Mrs. Taft, and as quickly as he could get away from the brief speeches of welcome he climbed into his automobile.

There was no demonstration at the White House. The special police there kept the curious outside the grounds and the big swinging doors of the White House quickly swallowed the president.

TAYLOR HAS DISAPPEARED

Told a Startling Story Which the Police Pronounce a Fake

Newburyport, Mass., Nov. 11.—After an investigation by the local police and railroad detectives, George Taylor, the brakeman who aroused the entire city by his tale of having been assaulted on the Boston and Maine freight tracks, beaten into insensibility, robbed and then laid across the tracks in the path of an approaching locomotive, has suddenly disappeared.

The police announce that his story is undoubtedly a fake one. It is understood that the officers would like to interview Taylor, but his whereabouts are unknown.

Doctor's Wife a Suicide

Newburyport, Mass., Nov. 11.—Her mind believed to have been unbalanced following two years of sickness, Mrs. Susan A. Dickens, wife of Dr. J. B. M. Dickens of this city, committed suicide by hanging in the laundry.

Harriman's Exchange Seat Sold

New York, Nov. 11.—The seat held by the late E. H. Harriman on the New York Stock Exchange was sold, but the purchaser and the price paid were not announced. Seats in recent years have averaged about $80,000 each.

SHORTAGE OF $643,000

Maximum of Warriner's Stealings From the Big Four Railroad

Cincinnati, Nov. 11.—The Big Four railroad officials deny emphatically that they have grounds for suspecting that former Treasurer Warriner's alleged shortage may go as high as $2,000,000 and assert their belief that the maximum has been reached in the sum named, $643,000.

It is learned that Warriner in his statement to his superiors told them that when he came here from the Cleveland office of his company he brought with him a shortage of $30,000 in his accounts at Cleveland.

His downfall, he states, dates from that event, he having covered that shortage only to fall into the clutches of the man who he alleges has blackmailed him ever since. This shortage continued to grow till it was soon swelled to $200,000 before he realized his position.

MORSE CASE GOING TO SUPREME COURT

Former Banker and "Ice King" In the Last Ditch

Washington, Nov. 11.—Petition for a writ of certiorari to have the supreme court of the United States review the judgment of the circuit court of appeals of New York in the case of Charles W. Morse, the "Ice King," convicted of misapplication of the funds of the National Bank of North America, was filed in the higher tribunal by Martin W. Littleton, counsel for Morse.

Formal presentation of the motion will be made by Littleton next Monday. Morse is under sentence of fifteen years' imprisonment in the federal prison at Atlanta.

PARKS PLEADS GUILTY

Fined $4000 For Organizing Paper Pool In Restraint of Trade

New York, Nov. 11.—John H. Parks, author of a pooling plan and combination under which the Manila and Fibre Paper Manufacturers' association was operated and who was indicted last July by the federal grand jury for violation of the anti-trust law, surrendered himself to the authorities and pleaded guilty to the indictment. Judge Hough fined Parks $4000.

Twenty-three of the twenty-four companies which made up the Manila and Fibre Paper Manufacturers' association pleaded guilty more than a year ago to violating the Sherman anti-trust act and were each fined $2000. Parks went to Europe at the time of the investigation and had been there sinice.

ACTRESS LOSES GEMS

Vesta Victoria's Pearl Necklace, Valued at $50,000, Disappears

London, Nov. 11.—Her $50,000 pearl necklace, once the property of a New York society woman, vanishing while she was watching the procession in honor of the inaugural of the new lord mayor, Vesta Victoria, a vaudeville actress, has asked Scotland Yard to recover it for her.

The ornament was bought in New York in 1907. Its former owner, the actress told the London police, was the wife of a banker. She sold it after her husband had become involved financially.

LEFT HALF A MILLION

Head Waiter In New York Restaurant Conserved Financial Resources

New York, Nov. 11.—James Theilman, for the last ten years head waiter at Delmonico's, and before that a waiter at the same restaurant since 1872, saved and invested his tips so wisely that on his death recently he left an estate valued at $500,000.

This became known when his widow applied for letters of administration, in default of a will.

Nine Miners Lose Lives

Wilkesbarre, Pa., Nov. 11.—Nine men lost their lives in a fire following an explosion in a colliery at Nanticoke. With one exception all the dead miners were Slavs.

A TELEGRAPH JOKER.

He Knew What the Crowd Wanted and Delivered the Goods.

ELECTION RETURNS TO SUIT.

Swung States and National Chairmen Into Line In His Reports and Gave the Boys of the Mining Camp the Time of Their Lives.

A funny incident happened on the night of the national election of 1896 in a little camp tucked away in the mountains of southwestern Colorado, where the only means of quick communication with the world were a single uncertain telegraph wire and a single more uncertain telegraph operator. Naturally only the merest scraps of election news reached the camp, but before the certain news of McKinley's election could have been got the uncertain operator had fallen a victim to his favorite vice and, further, had fallen beneath the table.

The only other person who knew anything about telegraphy was "Shorty," the local wit and humorist, who volunteered to write out the election returns as they clicked off from the telegraph instrument. Political sentiment was aflame for Bryan. News of his election was not only sought, but demanded, for the average American miner is as sanguine concerning the uncertainties of politics as he is concerning the uncertainties of mining. The volunteer telegrapher was noted for an obliging disposition. He was the "genial" of the camp.

The "boys" had placed stores of giant powder at various points. They had cleaned and oiled their six shooters and refilled their cartridge belts. Bonfires were ready to be lighted on the hillsides, and natural enthusiasm had been stimulated at the Metropole, the Cosmopolitan, the Fashion, the Trocadero and less pretentiously named oases in the desert of mining camp existence—in fact, every preliminary to the grandest celebration the San Juan country ever had known.

Shorty was not the man to neglect an opportunity like that. The first bulletin he handed to the waiting crowd stated that New York and Indiana were in doubt and it looked like a close election, with the chances favoring Bryan. That whetted the crowd's keen appetite for returns to razor edge. The second bulletin sent their spirits up with a leap. "Bryan has carried Kansas, and the Democrats are claiming Iowa."

"Whoopee!" from the crowd.

Shorty bent his ear to the clicking sounder and inscribed "Bulletin No. 3—Illinois joins the Bryan column with 50,000 majority. Indiana certain. New York very close."

When the deafening chorus had died down a young member of the party asked the leader, "Hadn't we better begin to set off the giant?"

Before the leader could answer Shorty reproved him by word and look. "Don't go off half cocked," he said. "It's always best to wait until you are sure. You can't be too conservative in a case like this."

After a long pause, in which the crowd displayed much impatience, the imperturbable and conservative Shorty transcribed bulletin No. 4, but before passing it out he said:

"Now, boys, don't do anything rash. Wait for the actual returns."

Bulletin No. 4 read, "Senator Jones claims Ohio and Pennsylvania for Bryan."

Under ordinary circumstances a doubt might have been expressed concerning the probability of such states reversing their political records, but the crowd was convinced of an impending landslide for their favorite and yelled with delight. "Now we are beginning to get the news," remarked Shorty when the cheering ceased, and he began to write bulletin No. 5 as follows:

"New York gives Bryan 100,000 plurality; Indiana, 40,000. Returns from Wisconsin and Minnesota indicate large Democratic gains."

The crowd heard only the first sentence. Shouting, cheering, yelling, screaming, it broke for the street.

"Hold on!" called Shorty. "Here's another."

Bulletin No. 6, "Quay concedes Pennsylvania to Bryan."

Another fragment broke from the crowd and ran down the street shouting the news. The new operator's pencil was traveling rapidly over the paper, while his friends and fellow citizens crowded closely upon him and read as he wrote bulletin No. 7, "Mark Hanna has locked up Republican headquarters and gone home."

The roar of the crowd was drowned by the roar of exploding giant powder. Buildings shook, windows rattled, accompanied by the crash of broken glass. The celebration was on, and Shorty McIntyre was alone.

The celebration lasted for two days. The morning after election the regular operator had recovered sufficiently to transcribe messages announcing McKinley's victory. Those who were sober enough to understand them didn't believe them. After several warnings of what would happen to him if he didn't quit "trying to fool people" the operator desisted and joined in the general jubilation. Not until the arrival of the Denver papers on the second day did that camp awake to a realization of the outcome of the election, and then there was not sufficient energy left to vent even indignation upon Shorty, much less to take revenge. On the third day the volunteer operator was more popular than ever, for all admitted he had given them the time of their lives.—New York Post.

"IN THE HOUR OF DEATH."

A Note on the Authorship of a Well Known Poem.

The question is often asked in newspapers and magazines, "Who wrote the poem beginning 'In the hour of death, after this life's whim?'"

The answer is given that nothing is known of the author. It is true this poem was published with only the initials of the writer in the University Magazine in 1879. But I hold the manuscript of the poem, and I have also Blackmore's letter that accompanied it. Blackmore has been so long dead I do not feel that there can be any harm in giving his letter to the public. I subjoin an exact copy of it; also of his poem.

AGNES E. COOK.

"Teddn., Jan. 5, 1879.

"My Dear Sir—Having lately been at the funeral of a most dear relation, I was there again (in a dream) last night and heard mourners sing the lines inclosed, which impressed me so that I was able to write them without change of a word this morning. I never heard or read them before to my knowledge. They do not look so well on paper as they sounded. But if you like to print them here they are, only please do not print my name beyond initials or send me money for them. With all good wishes to Mrs. Cook and yourself, very truly yours,

"R. D. BLACKMORE.

"K. Cook Esqre LL. D."

Dominus illuminatio mea.

I.

In the hour of death, after this life's whim,
When the heart beats low, and the eyes grow dim,
And pain has exhausted every limb,
The lover of the Lord shall trust in him.

II.

When the will has forgotten the lifelong aim,
And the mind can only disgrace its fame,
And a man is uncertain of his own name,
The power of the Lord shall fill this frame.

III.

When the last sigh is heaved and the last tear shed,
And the coffin is waiting beside the bed,
And the widow and child forsake the dead,
The angel of the Lord shall lift this head.

IV.

For even the purest delight may pall;
The power must fail, and the pride must fall,
And the love of the dearest friends grow small,
But the glory of the Lord is all in all.

DISCIPLINE.

The Way Binks Tried It on His Six-months-old Baby.

Binks had sent Mrs. Binks on a visit to her mother, and he was on the job with the six-months-old baby.

In the night the baby woke and cried. Binks looked at his watch—three-quarters of an hour till bottle time. He said to himself:

"Let him yell. He's a healthy little Indian, and he must be disciplined."

Then Binks tried to sleep.

But Binks couldn't sleep. Every cry grew more pathetic and abused and heartsick and discouraged. Each cry said more and more plainly: "I have no friends or relatives. I'm unhappy and uncomfortable and want some one to be good to me."

But Binks, the stubborn and stiff necked, stuck it out, though each cry stabbed him clear through.

Finally (maybe he set it forward a bit—who knows?) Binks' watch announced the arrival of bottle time. He went to the icebox for the food, heated it and took it to his now faintly sobbing infant son.

But the infant son could not take the bottle. He choked on the first swallow, then put up his hands and renewed his wordless plea to the big man he could see dimly through his tears.

Then that father said, "Discipline be hanged!" Maybe, though, it wasn't "hanged" he said, but the vowel sound is right, anyway. He took up that baby, and the baby stuck to his daddy like fly paper. Further attempts to lay him down were futile. He wanted no food but heart food, no milk but that of human kindness. So the big man laid that baby beside him on the pillow; the baby put one rose petal hand to his father's stubby cheek, gave a long, quivering, satisfied sigh and slept for six unbroken hours.

As Binks lay there, afraid to stir lest he disturb the little one and feeling like a horse thief because he had let the love hungry infant cry his heart out, he repeated frequently:

"Discipline be hanged!"—Chicago News.

She Was Willing.

He—Do you know that as long as I have known you I have never seen you dressed in white? She—Indeed! Are you, then, so partial to the color? He—Not exactly that, but whenever I see a girl dressed in white I am always tempted to kiss her. She—Will you excuse me for a quarter of an hour?

Didn't Believe In It.

The Squire—That's a splendid horse, Giles. I suppose you feed it daily with punctuality.

Giles—Naw, zur. None o' yer noo-fangled foods vur me. Just 'ay and oats—oats and 'ay.—London Telegraph.

Business.

Miss Coy (at the garden party)—Let you kiss me? Certainly not. I've only known you an hour. Mr. Hustler (looking at his watch)—Well, then, suppose I come around in an hour and a quarter?—Boston Transcript.

CAUGHT THE BISHOP.

One Surprise That Was the Forerunner of Another.

That was a good old comedy bishop who one fine day entered a large jeweler's establishment in Regent street, London, to make an extensive purchase of valuable presents. He selected them with great care as regards their artistic value, but quite regardless of cost. The proprietor and his assistants buzzed round his lordship. The selected valuables were packed in separate parcels at his suggestion, neatly tied and sealed, and he had just taken a seat in the private office of the proprietor and was feeling in his pocket for his check book when two men, who had been peering in at the glass door leading to the street, walked up the shop and stood behind the bishop. They were plainly dressed, sharp looking men and thus bluntly addressed the jeweler:

"What has this man been ordering?"

The bishop looked up, saw the men, turned pale, clutched the sides of the chair, dropped his glasses and looked as if he would bolt. Before he could stir, however, the handcuffs were on his wrists.

"Bishop, indeed!" said one of the men. "He was a colonel yesterday. Here, 'bishop,' come along to Vine street. 'Bishop,' indeed! Ha, ha! Well, that's a good 'un!" And, turning to the astonished jeweler, he continued: "Just copped him in time, sir; lucky for you. Oh, by the way, you might get one of your assistants to bring round these parcels he has selected. We must enter them at the police station. We have a cab at the door. We have been tracking the bishop all the morning."

Without a word the "bishop" followed the detectives into a cab, and all three got in as the assistant came out with the valuables.

"Here," said one of the detectives through the window, "place those in here—they will be safer—and you get on the top with the driver."

It was not far to Vine street; but, as usual, the traffic was congested in Oxford circus, and the cab had to halt occasionally. It was, however, soon at the police station. The assistant jumped off the driver's seat and opened the door.

The cab was empty!—Strand Magazine.

PRESENTIMENTS.

Incidents In Which Coming Events Cast Their Shadows Before.

Coming events cast their shadows before them. The writer is led to believe this because several incidents in the lives of his parents corroborate the theory that presentiments of good and evil do come to persons unawares. I will mention two of them.

In the summer of 187— my father late at night was returning to his farm from the little town of Malton. He had stayed unusually late. When he reached the farm all was quiet. Removing the harness from his horse, he proceeded to the carriage house and hung it in its place.

He came out and closed the door. As he did so he heard the harness fall. It was very dark. He went back into the house and found the harness still hanging in its place. The same occurrence took place again. He went back again and found it in its place.

When the third time he heard the sound of falling harness he did not go back.

Several weeks later his barn burned, and it happened that the same harness was in the barn loft, a valuable set. He attempted to save it. The staircase burned behind him, and he was compelled to jump for his life from a window. His previous experience came to him vividly. He saved the harness, but at the risk of his life.

Another vivid incident I recall was my mother sitting by the fire with a sick baby. The nurse was present, too, and both were wide awake. Her father appeared to her and advised her as to the baby's treatment and other family matters. He vanished as quickly as he had come. The next day she heard of his death.—London Tit-Bits.

A Rural Enoch Arden.

"In our little town in a western state," said Brown, "there was a half witted sort of fellow named Bill Wilkes. One day Bill took to the railroad tracks and never reappeared for about six years. In the meantime his wife, Bettie, took in washing and supported the family. One day Bill came back. He went around to the kitchen door, softly opened it, stuck in his head and said, 'Boo, Bettie.' Bettie turned around from her washtub. 'Te, he,' said Bill; 'I scared ye, didn't I, Bettie?' Whenever I see a stage husband return to his family I think of Bill's greeting after six years' absence, 'Boo, Bettie; I scared ye, didn't I?'"—New York Times.

Apfelsine.

Messina furnished early in the nineteenth century a new word for the German language. It was from there that oranges were first shipped to Germany, and the fruit was known for a long time after its advent as "apfel aus Messina"—apple from Messina. After many years "apfel aus Messina" degenerated into "apfel Messina," and finally it became "apfelsine," the name by which oranges are still known among German speaking people.

Quite Sufficient.

Mrs. Jones (inspecting a milliner's window)—I don't see what it is that keeps those women's heads turning around all the time. Mr. Jones—Why, my dear, just a bonnet itself is sufficient to turn any woman's head.—Lippincott's Magazine.

Y! M! C! A! Rah! Rah!! Rah!!!

It looks as though all that was necessary to win out to victory in raising a big sum for a worthy object was a King-ly impetus well backed up.

Congressman Weeks by his address at Wollaston made several converts to his plan for a central bank for government business although the currency question is too deep for the majority of citizens. They desire, however, that the government should not be controlled by Wall street.

It is an encouraging sign of the times when party candidates promise a non-political administration. Walter F. Nichols, the Republican candidate for Mayor, did this in his letter of acceptance. His independence in other directions also pleases many voters.

It would seem that the Anti-Tuberculosis Association has three distinct objects at present, first to fight against the disease and educate the people; second, for the immediate relief of cases; and third, to establish a tuberculosis camp. For each of these three objects there is a fund, so that citizens can help along the lines they wish.

Well done, Quincy Y. M. C. A.! We congratulate you, and the people of Quincy! The campaign has not only been successful, but has given the city an object lesson, showing what can be accomplished by team work and determined effort. Instead of making it harder to raise the annual contribution for the Quincy Hospital many believe that the recent campaign has loosened the purse strings and that the hospital fund will be raised easier. All parts of the city helped the Y. M. C. A., and all parts of the city will help the Hospital. The late William B. Rice and his family have certainly been generous to the city, and the people should continue the good work.

BOYS' CLUB.

On Monday evening the Boys' Messenger club of the Atlantic Methodist Episcopal church held an entertainment in the vestry of the church which was well attended, there being present about fifty boys and girls between the ages of seven and sixteen and about twenty-five older people. The program was as follows: Selection by the Sunday school orchestra, reading by George A. Rumpf of Roxbury, piano solo by Marguerite Louise Holbrook, song by Mr. Rumpf, selection by the orchestra. An address on temperance by Mr. William E. Thomas of Brighton. Mr. Thomas is district chief templar of the International Order of Good Templars, and the address he gave was very interesting, which was proven by the attention given by the youngsters as well as the older ones. Ice cream and cake were sold after the entertainment.

BROTHERHOOD MEETING.

The Knights of Daniel Brotherhood of St. Paul's M. E. Church, Fort street, hold their monthly meeting Friday evening, at 7.45 in the vestry of the church. Young men are heartily invited to attend. A good program has been arranged for the evening as follows:

Song.
Bible reading and prayer.
Solo, Wm. B. Carlson.
Essay. "How should a young man form his life between the age of 15 and 20 years," Harry Anderson.
Violin solo, Elmer Carlmark.
Essay. "What I should do, if I had possession of $50,000."
Wm. B. Carlson.
Song by quartette.
Essay. "What I think Paul would do if he lived in our times, resided in Quincy and was a member of the Knights of Daniel," Joel Kjellander.
Song.
Benediction.

FRAGMENT SOCIETY FAIR

Popular Supper Served Early in the Evening

The annual fair and supper of the Fragment society of the First church was held Wednesday afternoon and evening in the chapel of the church and was a pronounced success in every way. The attendance during the afternoon was not large but the absence of a crowd enabled the ladies to get in readiness for the anticipated rush during the evening hours.

The tables which were arranged about the sides and centre of the chapel, presented an unusually attractive appearance. The color scheme was a most effective one, the booths being decorated with pink crepe paper with ornamentations of autumn boughs whose foliage had the attractive autumn tints. The tea room which was located on the platform was particularly attractive.

The ladies in charge of the several tables, and those in charge of the supper room, were all gowned in white which helped to carry out the color scheme and add to the attractiveness of the scene.

The supper which was served at 6 o'clock was of the usual excellence, the menu including cold meats, salads of various kinds, macaroni and cheese, baked beans, rolls, cake pies of all kinds and coffee.

Although the dining room will seat a large number there were so many who desired to partake of the supper that it was necessary to set a second table. There was an abundance of food, however, and those at the second table had no cause for complaint.

After supper there was ample opportunity to admire the many pretty things offered for sale at the various tables, and as a reasonable price was marked on the articles they met with a ready sale.

At the right of the entrance was the Utility table in charge of Mrs. J. Henry Emery. Her assistants were: Mrs. F. S. Davis, Mrs. Robert Josselyn, Miss Ada M. Nightingale, Miss Lucy Spear, Mrs. John O. Holden, Miss Mary Holden, Mrs. Edward Russell, Mrs. Laura Tirrell, Miss Mary Field.

At the extreme end of this table in the corner near the pastor's study was the Palmist's booth in charge of Miss Marion Howe, who wore a gypsy costume.

At the left of the entrance was the Fancy table, in charge of Mrs. Thomas Fenno, who was assisted by Miss Ellen Fotler, Mrs. E. H. Angier, Mrs. James H. Stetson, Mrs. Henry Holden, Mrs. W. H. Nichols, Mrs. John Gow, Mrs. Russell A. Sears, Mrs. Fred H. Smith, Mrs. Henry Hall, Mrs. Paul R. Blackmur, Mrs. Thomas Bixby, Mrs. Harry L. Rice, Mrs. Luther S. Glover, Mrs. Charles A. Price, Mrs. Laurance Sturtevant, Mrs. Ellery C. Butler and Mrs. Henry M. Faxon.

On the opposite side of the chapel was the Mystery table in charge of Mrs. Edward B. Marsh, assisted by Miss Belle Nightingale, Miss Mary Nightingale, Mrs. George P. Mead and Mrs. A. W. Anderson.

The colored Dina figure, in which was a grab bag was also in charge of these ladies.

Adjoining this table was the Preserve and Junior Alliance tables. The former was in charge of Mrs. Helen Bass and Mrs. J. C. Morse, and the latter in charge of Miss Sophia French, Miss Hazel Dewhurst, Miss Ruth Bass and Miss Ruth Packard.

In the centre of the chapel were two booths, one the Confectionery booth, in charge of Miss Maria Whitney, Mrs. George Ryder, Mrs. A. L. Remick, Mrs. William Whitney, Mrs. Perry Lawton, Miss Emmie Newcomb, Miss Georgianna Waldron, Miss Harriet Waldron and Miss Marie Bass.

The Frappe table was in charge of Miss Mary E. Dewson. Miss Minnie Packard, Miss Mollie Harris and Miss Catherine Saville.

The tea room was located on the platform and was presided over by Mrs. W. H. Teasdale assisted by Mrs. George Hall and Mrs. Brooks Keyes.

The supper was served at 6 o'clock in the dining room of the chapel by the following ladies: Mrs. E. G. Pratt, Mrs. Osborne Rogers, Mrs. George G. Saville, Mrs. George T. Magee, Mrs. N. S. Hunting, Mrs. James Edwards, Mrs. Henry L. Kincaide, Mrs. Henry W. Tirrell, Mrs. John Christiansen, Mrs. Wilson Marsh, Mrs. James Walker, Miss Lizzie Rogers and Mrs. Charles Bickford.

Danderine

EVERYBODY CAN HAVE BEAUTIFUL HAIR NOW, and they don't have to wait weeks and months for results either. You will notice marked improvement after the very first application.

Danderine is quickly and thoroughly absorbed by the scalp and the hair soon shows the effects of its wonderfully exhilarating and life-producing qualities. It is pleasant and easy to use—simply apply it to the scalp and hair once a day until the hair begins to grow, then two or three times a week till desired results are obtained.

Grows Hair and we can PROVE IT!

A lady from California writes in substance as follows:
I have been using your wonderful hair tonic for several months and at last I am now blessed with a wonderful suit of hair that measures over 48 inches in length; the braid is over 8 inches around.

Another from New Jersey:
After using sixth bottle I am happy to say that I have as nice a head of hair as anyone in New Jersey.

This Great Hair-Growing Remedy can now be had at all druggists in three sizes, 25c, 50c and $1.00 per bottle.

VICTORY AT FOOTBALL

Quincy High Downs Chelsea High

Quincy High showed some class on Wednesday when the football team took the much heralded Chelsea team into camp by the score of 11 to 6.

The first team worked so hard in their effort to run up a good score against the Chelsea lads that they were nearly all removed from the game in the second half, and it was then that Chelsea made its touchdown. They were aided a great deal because of the gathering darkness which made it an almost impossibility to judge who had the ball

To start the game Russ Bates kicked off the ball, going nearly to Chelsea's goal line. Chelsea was held and forced to kick on their own 25 yd. line. Lakin blocked the punt and Bates fell on it for Quincy on Chelsea's 20 yd. line. Hill was given the ball on a tackle play through Lakin and a great hole being opened for him he went through for a touchdown. Arthur failed to kick the goal and the score stood 5 to 0 in Quincy's favor with only 5 minutes of the first half gone.

Chelsea received the kicks off again and the man was nailed in his tracks by Prout. In a series of plunges, the best that Chelsea could do was to gain five yds and the ball was Quincy's on their opponents 41 yard line.

Quincy advanced the ball to the 10 yd. line, but there the Chelsea defence stiffened and Quincy was forced to punt.

Hill gained 20 yds. through right tackle and by plugging the same hole again the ball was brought to the 10 yd. line, where Chelsea held them for downs, and punted to Billy Manning who ran the ball in 10 yds.

With the ball on Chelsea's 30 yd. line, Hill was sent through tackle again for 8 yds and on the next play he slid off the end and went over the line for the second touchdown. Arthur kicked the goal amidst some wild cheering.

Quincy then kicked off and on the run in Harold Hill was laid out, but resumed play. On a trick play Chelsea gained 8 yds. but could gain no more, and were forced to punt, Bates being downed on his 35 yd. line. Thrown back for 5 yds. Quincy punted, and lost the ball; Chelsea kicked. Billy Manning received the ball but was penalized after a 20 yd. dash for hurdling. Quincy then kicked, Hill getting off a long low punt. Blackmur then made the star play of the day, bringing the man down on the spot by a nice tackle.

Chelsea then tried an onside kick which they nearly got away with, Veale just getting the man. A forward pass was illegal but then the whistle blew for time up.

Score the first half—Quincy, 11, Chelsea, 0.

Quincy received the ball on the kick off in the second half Blackmur running it back 15 yds. Billy Manning then tried a forward pass which went wrong and it was Chelsea's ball. Quincy held for no gain and when they got the ball again they were penalized 25 yds. on the first play for holding in the line. Hill was sent through tackle for first down, Quincy then lost ten yards on a trick play. Another forward pass which did not work put the ball on Quincy's 5 yd. line.

On the next play Quincy was off side and the ball was put still further back until it rested on the 1-2 yd. line. Then standing in the shadow of his own goal post Hill got off a punt which McClellan caught and before any of the Quincy men awoke he was on the way to the goal, but Tommy Veal once more got in the way and spilled him on the 10 yd. line. Chelsea plugged tackle for 5 yards and then punted, Prout receiving the ball on his own goal line and running it to the 25 yd. line.

Hill was taken out and several of the linemen and almost a whole sec- It was so dark by this time that it Russ Bates punted, and Chelsea getting the ball in a series of line plays up to the 30 yard line, attempted a goal from the field, which missed. Quincy took the ball out 25 yds. and lost it in three rushes. It was so dark by this time that it was impossible to tell who had the ball, and on the next play a Chelsea man got clear and ran 65 yds. for a touchdown. After this the ball was taken by Chelsea to within 20 yds. of Quincy's goal, but here the local boys held, and the ball was punted out of danger, Chelsea getting it in about the middle of the field. It was now too dark to play and as there were only 2 minutes left by the consent of both sides the game was called because of darkness with the score 11 to 6 in Quincy's favor.

The Boston Globe had a block of their sporting page this morning given over to cartoons of Wednesday's game between Chelsea and Quincy. Busty Arthur, Harold Hill and Tommy Veal, and last but not least Billy Edwards were all remembered by the funny man's pencil.

The senior class of the Whitman high school is to have a series of socials, to raise funds for use at graduation.

The Schoolmaster Club met at the school Wednesday evening.

Miss Minnie Packard is teaching history and arithmetic in room 26 in the absence of Mr. Blazo who is sick with ptomaine poisoning and will probably be out for some time. Miss Packard was a popular member of the class of '05, and has since been graduated from Wellesley college.

Woodlock, referee of the game Wednesday, is registered by the central board. The managers thought that it would be best to have a man who was well known officiate as it would save unnecessary arguments, and the wisdom of this move was borne out by the game.

The first period Wednesday was given over to a class meeting and Mr. Cleveland spoke of the recent reports and the success of the play. Concerning the play given by the Sophomore and Juniors last week for the football team, he said that it was a great success. The manager reports that about $140 were realized to be used by the Athletic Association to defray football expenses. This will put the association clear of debt at the end of the season and will mean a clear start in basketball. The play will without doubt become an annual feature, as it was well received and also worth seeing. Much credit is due Miss Brown for the way in which she coached the play, making it the success it was.

Hilding Carlson of the class of 1909 is pretty happy over the fact that his class won the tug of war at the Technology field day and incidently by copping this event they won the field day for their class. He was a member of the tug of war team.

The Masters' club met at the High school Wednesday evening with the President F. W. Plummer presiding. Rev. R. E. Armstrong spoke taking as his subject, "Observations in the Philippines." His talk was interesting and enjoyed by all members.

The High school football team goes to Hyde Park tomorrow to play a return game having once defeated them in Quincy 6 to 5.

SERIOUS RUNAWAY.

W. R. Lofgren of Cottage street is laid up in the house as the result of a runaway on Tuesday evening, and his son Ival Lofgren is also under the doctor's care. Mr. Lofgren has a badly bruised foot where the wagon passed over it, and the boy is severely cut about the face and ear. The accident happened at the foot of the hill on Revere road about 7 o'clock in the evening, when he was driving home from work. The horse was going at a good pace down the hill when he struck a post at the foot of the hill and becoming frightened started to run, throwing Mr. Lofgren and his son to the ground. The wagon passed over his foot and the boy was cut across the ear and one side of his face. Two men who were in the back of the team at the time jumped out and ran to the assistance of the others. They were taken to their home where Dr. J. A. Gordon attended them. Mr. Lofgren is unable to walk as he seems to have ruptured some of the blood vessels of his foot.

The post which they hit is in the dark part of the street at the foot of the hill and it is hard to see it until almost upon it. The horse, after throwing the men out, continued to the barn which is but a short distance away on Cottage street.

Financial Peace Finally Effected In the Eddy Family

SUM OF $290,000 SET ASIDE

George W. Glover, Son of Head of Christian Science Church, Has $245,000 For Himself and Family, and Adopted Son Will Receive $45,000—Each of Them Agrees Never to Contest His Mother's Will

Boston, Nov. 11.—A settlement has been completed of the world-famous "next friends" suit brought against Mrs. Mary B. G. Eddy by her son, George W. Glover of Lead City, S. D., and her adopted son, Dr. Ebenezer J. Foster Eddy of Waterbury, Vt. Alfred Farlow, the local publication secretary of the Christian Science church, made the following statement;

"A family settlement between Mrs. Mary Baker Eddy and George W. Glover, a son, and Ebenezer J. Foster Eddy, an adopted son, has been concluded and the deeds evidencing the terms of said settlement have been duly executed and delivered. Under these settlement arrangements and the trust heretofore established by Mrs. Eddy, George W. Glover and his family receive the sum of $245,000, and Ebenezer J. Foster Eddy the sum of $45,000.

"On Feb. 25, 1907, Mrs. Eddy conveyed to Frank S. Streeter, Archibald McLellan and Irving C. Tomlinson $125,000 in trust for her son George and his family, which these trustees now hold. To that trust fund of $125,000 is now added $50,000 of the present payment to George W. Glover, making the total amount held by said trustees the sum of $175,000, which, added to to the balance of the moneys now paid, make $245,000 either paid to Glover or set apart in trust for the benefit of himself and his family.

"The two sons, in consideration of these moneys, have executed deeds relinquishing all their present and prospective rights or expectant interests in their mother's estate, either as heirs-at-law, or as legatees under any will now or heretofore made by Mrs. Eddy; and the sons respectively covenant that neither they nor anyone claiming under them will contest or retard the probate of any will which their mother may leave, or attempt to set aside any gifts, deed or other disposition of property which she has heretofore made, or make any further claim at any time to any portion of her property or estate. They also severally acknowledge that full particulars regarding her estate have been exhibited to them. The details of this settlement have been under consideration since last September.

"William E. Chandler, John W. Kelly and Martin & Howe were counsel on behalf of the sons, and Henry M. Baker with Frank S. Streeter represented Mrs. Eddy. The settlement deeds were submitted to Samuel J. Elder and were approved by him."

FOUND DEAD IN HOTEL

Prominent Connecticut Man Registered Under Assumed Name

New York, Nov. 11.—Edwin Hills, vice president of the First National bank of Plainville, Conn., a member of the Connecticut state legislature, and a merchant of prominence, was found dead in bed last evening in a room at the Gilsey house, this city, to which he was assigned late Tuesday night.

The signature on the hotel register of "Charles French and wife, New Haven, Conn.," was written by Hills, according to the night clerk, although three blocks away, at the Hotel Imperial, was Mrs. Hills in an agony of suspense over her husband's disappearance. He had left her early Tuesday afternoon.

The Art of Saving.

I believe that if somebody could invent unique ways of saving money the public would have an assured future. Men, women and children would regard saving as a game and play it with all their heart. There are penny savings banks where newsboys and bootblacks carry their tiny savings, but other children regard their penny bank at home with unfriendly eyes. There are working girls who put away their five cent pieces and fatten their small bank accounts by walking instead of riding and making other petty sacrifices. But the majority of working girls spend as fast as they can earn and declare that they cannot help it.

One reads of a man who began his career by regarding every dollar as a worker and getting all the profit he could. With that quaint conceit in his head saving became a pleasure, and he won riches without realizing that it was a struggle. I know of more than one woman who receives each night from her husband every dime he has received in change through the day, for he is careful to avoid spending such a piece of money. These, with her own savings in the same direction, make a respectable weekly showing.—Kansas City Journal.

Only Seeking Information.

The average New York boy is not a wonder of wit and wisdom, but most of them know a good thing when they see it. Also the contrary. Not long ago one of them saw a sign in front of a Sixth avenue place, "Boy Wanted." He was looking for something of that kind and walked in. There was nobody in sight, and he stood gazing. Presently the proprietor, a most grouchy person, appeared.

"What do you want here?" he inquired with scant courtesy.

"Well," replied the boy, disturbed by the man's manner and hesitating, "do you want a boy here?"

"That's what the sign says, don't it?" snapped the man.

"Yep," responded the boy, getting his second wind.

"Then we want a boy."

"Aw right," grinned the boy, backing away. "You git one. You can't have me," and he wiggled his fingers at the man and went out quickly.—New York Herald.

Tire Themselves Getting Ready.

Washington Irving tells a story of a man who tried to jump over a hill. He went back so far to get his start for the great leap and ran so hard that he was completely exhausted when he came to the hill and had to lie down and rest. Then he got up and walked over the hill. A great many people exhaust themselves getting ready to do their work. They are always preparing. They spend their lives getting ready to do something which they never do. It is an excellent thing to keep improving oneself, to keep growing, but there must be a time to begin the great work of life. I know a man who is almost forty years old who has not yet decided what he is going to do. He has graduated from college and taken a number of postgraduate courses, but all along general lines. He has not yet begun to specialize. This man fully believes he is going to do great things yet. I hope he may.—Success Magazine.

The Paper They Were Written On.

The average author would probably laugh at the statement that at one time in the world's history manuscripts, simply as such, irrespective of the nature of the text, were immensely valuable. In ancient times manuscripts were important articles from a commercial point of view. They were excessively scarce and were preserved with the utmost care. Even the usurers were glad to lend money on them when the owners were obliged to offer them in pawn. It is related in an ancient tome that a student of Pavia, who was reduced by his debaucheries, raised a new fortune by leaving in pawn a manuscript of a body of law, and a grammarian who was ruined by a fire rebuilt his house with two small volumes of Cicero through the ready aid of the pawnbroker.

Highest Cross In the World.

The highest cross in the world is said to be that which caps the loftiest peak of the Harz mountains. The cross is in reality a tower, and it commands a magnificent view of the country around. The height of the tower is 120 feet, and it stands on a mountain 1,731 feet above the sea level. A stair of 200 steps leads to the top of the cross, but there is an elevator of which people may avail themselves who for any reason wish to avoid the long climb.

Grateful.

Young Lady—Give me one yard of—why, haven't I seen you before? Draper's Assistant—Oh, Maud, have you forgotten me? I saved your life at the seaside last summer. Young Lady (warmly)—Why, of course you did. Then you may give me two yards of the ribbon, please.—Illustrated Bits.

Lettuce Salad With Fried Cheese.

Dress the lettuce in the usual way with French dressing. Have a mild cheese, rather dry, cut in strips like French fried potatoes, dip the strips in beaten egg, roll them in fine breadcrumbs and drop them into boiling fat to brown as quickly as possible. Serve with the lettuce.—Boston Post.

Passing Events.

Time is a sort of river of passing events, and strong is its current. No sooner is a thing brought to light than it is swept by and another takes its place, and this, too, will be swept away.—Marcus Aurelius.

Vengeance should be left to women.—Petrarch.

A WEST POINT HAZING

It Knocked All the Egotism Out of the New Cadet.

SINGING HIS OWN PRAISES.

He Was Kept at It to His Own Mortification and the Delight of the Upper Class Men—A Clipping From His Home Paper Started the Trouble.

Hazing at the United States Military academy, West Point, has in the past ten years been so frequently followed by punishment and otherwise discountenanced that it has practically become a thing of the past. A third of a century ago the modes of hazing were varied and many of them unique. A certain graduate who hailed from south of Mason and Dixon's line and from west of the Allegheny mountains told this story of his own experience:

He was a tall, rawboned fellow when he entered the academy as a "plebe" and had been assigned to a room with a bright little chap, with whom he soon became very friendly and confidential. Several weeks after he had entered the academy he received a letter from his good mother, in which she had inclosed a clipping from their county newspaper.

The article mentioned the fact that young Mr. —— had received an appointment to West Point and had left for that place several days before; that, whereas they extended congratulations to the young man, the United States government was to be much more greatly congratulated upon obtaining as one of its embryo soldiers a man from their community, the son of such a noble sire, whose sire and great-sires had been equally noble, a young man above reproach, of great intellect and bound to make his mark in any calling he might elect, etc.

This article inspired its recipient with pride and pleasure. He found it impossible to refrain from showing it to his roommate and an hour after having done so was accosted while going downstairs by an upper class man who had been drilling him and had been very severe. At this meeting the upper class man, who was about half his size, looked at him solemnly, removed his cap and said: "Mr. ——, I humbly beg your pardon for having been so stern with you. I did not know until a few moments ago what a distinguished and intellectual young man you were. You honor us by becoming one of us."

The pleased "plebe," never for a moment scenting mischief, grinningly replied: "That's all right, Mr. ——. I forgive you."

That evening while the "plebe" and his roommate were engaged in study there was a knock at their door, and there entered the upper class man who had accosted and apologized to the "plebe" on the stairs, he being accompanied by a dozen other upper class men. He thus addressed the "plebe:" "Mr. ——, here are a number of your brother cadets who are desirous of knowing what a particularly distinguished man they have among them. You will therefore kindly read what your newspaper says of you."

The "plebe" was inclined to demur, but the determined manner and steely eye of the little upper class man compelled obedience. Embarrassed, he stumblingly read the whole article, at the conclusion of which the little upper class man stated that the reader had mumbled in parts, had failed to enunciate distinctly and required the poor "plebe" to read it again. This having been done, all shook hands with him in an apparently most deferential manner, after which the little upper class man stated that they would call the next evening augmented by other cadets and that in the meantime the "plebe" would commit the article to memory and be in readiness to repeat it when they called.

His manner brooked no disobedience. The call was made the next evening, the number of cadets being nearly double that of the previous evening, and he repeated the article, being prompted by the little upper class man. Before the departure of his visitors he was informed that he would be visited the next evening by a still greater number of cadets, and he was ordered to be prepared to declaim the article depicting his virtues.

The visit was made and the declamation rendered. He was then informed that he would be again visited the following evening and would prepare himself so as to be able to render the article in song. This visit was made, the room being fairly packed with cadets, and the poor "plebe" was required to stand on a table and howl the article from start to finish, for he had not the faintest understanding of how to sing or turn a tune. In after years he said that if he had ever had any egotism in his composition it was completely knocked out of him by having to handle that article as he had to handle it.—J. W. Duncan in Lippincott's.

AN EASY AND HARMLESS WAY TO DARKEN THE HAIR.

Who does not know of the value of sage and sulphur for keeping the hair dark, soft, glossy and in good condition? As a matter of fact, sulphur is a natural element of hair, and a deficiency of it in the hair is held by many scalp specialists to be connected with loss of color and vitality of the hair. Unquestionably, there is no better remedy for hair and scalp troubles, especially premature grayness, than sage and sulphur, if properly prepared. The Wyeth Chemical Company, 74 Cortlandt St., New York City, put up an ideal preparation of this kind, called Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur. It is sold by all leading druggists for 50c. and $1.00 a bottle, or is sent direct by the manufacturers upon receipt of price.

ALIBI PROMISED FOR ACCUSED MEN

Opening of Defense For Alleged Slayers of Annie Mullins

Cambridge, Mass., Nov. 11.—Immediately after the government rested its case in the trial of Peter C. Delorey and Dionisios Spiroupoulos, alias James Mantir, charged with the murder of Annie Mullins, a motion was made by Frank McDermott, attorney for Delorey, that the jury be instructed to bring in a verdict of acquittal for his client.

Judge Fox ruled that unless counsel wished to rest Delorey's case there, the motion should be made later, after the defense had closed.

In the opening of the defense it was charged that Mrs. Elizabeth K. Delorey caused the arrest of James Mantir and her nephew because the former had brought suit against her for $100 she owed him. The "confession" of Delorey was branded a falsehood put in his mouth by his aunt and the police at the North Cambridge station, and which he was forced to repeat by "third degree" methods.

An alibi for both men was promised and it was announced that Peter Delorey would take the witness stand in his own behalf.

NEWTON BREAKS RECORD

Raised $150,000 For Y. M. C. A. Building Fund In Seven Days

Newton, Mass., Nov. 11.—A new world's record was established here when at the close of the seventh day of what was to have been a ten days' campaign for the raising of $150,000 for the Y. M. C. A. building fund, that amount was attained and even surpassed by nearly $6000.

Addresses were made at the final banquet last night in the Y. M. C. A. building. A vote of thanks was tendered the Boston newspapers for their work toward making the campaign successful.

FORTUNE AWAITING HIM

Missing Man Marked Plainly Is Sought by His Friends

Boston, Nov. 11.—A right hand with the figure '5" tattooed on the back is worth about $300,000 to the man who bears it, if he can also show on the same arm a "J. C." and prove that he is the brother, James Corbett, principal heir to the estate of William J. Corbett of Pittsburg.

So pressing is the desire of the other heirs to the estate to settle up the dead man's affairs that a liberal reward has been offered for information about the whereabouts of the missing James Corbett.

James Corbett has always been fond of the sea, and it is the idea of his half brother, Frederick Barlow, that he is now working along the water front of some large city or perhaps on the Great Lakes.

The missing heir, for whom the reward has been offered, is about 5 feet, 6½ inches tall. He is 60 years old and should weigh about 150 pounds. He has gray eyes and dark complexion.

OF LONG-LIVED FAMILY

Lynn Miss Passes Away at the Ripe Old Age of 102

Lynn, Mass., Nov. 11.—Miss Phebe Ann Wade, the oldest woman in Massachusetts, died at the home of her niece, Mrs. Kenneth D. Wentzel, in this city. She was 102 years old.

Her father lived to the age of 97, her grandmother to the age of 100 and one of her uncles died in his 100th year. She never attributed her long life to any special cause or diet.

On her 102d birthday, last March, Miss Wade declared she did not regret having remained single, and that if she had to live her life over again would do just as she had done. During her later years she was afflicted with blindness, but otherwise retained her faculties perfectly until her death.

DRUG DREAMS.

Queer Visions Conjured Up In the Brains of Daring Experimenters.

An experimenter with the Mexican drug mescal is rewarded by many and varied visions. Before him flit myriads of dainty butterfly forms, glistening, iridescent, fibrous wings of insects, revolving vessels on whose highly polished concave surface of mother-of-pearl many strange and vivid hues play. There are elaborate sweetmeats in endless and appetizing variety and living arabesques of gorgeous hues and superhuman design.

He may take up a pen for the purpose of making notes, but will find himself unable to use it. A pencil, however, proves easy of manipulation. As he writes his paper is covered with a soft golden light, and his hands, seen indirectly, appear bronzed, scaled, fantastically pigmented and flushed with red.

Tiring of the visions, he may light the gas, which immediately fills the room with a glorious radiance, while wonderfully colored shadows of red, green and violet flit here and there. Generally, it is said, no feeling of depression or physical discomfort follows the dream.

A medical experimenter in Kentucky soon after taking a large dose of hasheesh began to feel very excited; a feeling of inner joyousness possessed him; all fatigue seemed banished forever, and his mind ran riot, one bizarre idea after another rapidly passing through his mind. Later his brain appeared to split in two parts, one of which urged him to the performance of comic gestures, while the other as insistently hinted at impending death and suggested restraint and instant medical advice.

While waiting for a doctor he experienced alternate spells of lucidity and periods when all connections between himself and the outside world seemed to be severed, when a chaos of disjointed ideas and wild reveries obsessed him. The duration of these latter periods was never longer than two minutes, but each seemed an eternity. It appeared a hopeless task to follow the minute hand of his watch during its infinite round; long before the sixty seconds had elapsed he gave up the stupendous task in deep despair. The departure of the doctor synchronized with the return of the feeling of impending death, now most horribly intense.

He imagined himself surrounded by grotesque, menacing, cruel visaged monsters. He felt himself expanding, dilating, dissolving into space, as he ascended steep precipices, covered with Brobdignagian creatures somewhat like lizards, overhanging enormous abysses, the while he was overwhelmed by a horrible, rending, unutterable despair.—Detroit News-Tribune.

MAKING GOLD LEAF.

The Metal Is Beaten For Hours by Men, Then Finished by Girls.

In one of the downtown business streets may be seen sticking from one of the upper windows a massive arm and hand, the hand grasping a huge hammer and the whole sign gilded. It is the sign of the gold beaters' establishment, where thousands of the gold sheets are turned out after having been packed by girls.

Gold leaf is packed more by the aid of the breath than by the hands. The operation of transferring a sheet of almost transparent gold leaf from one place to another is so delicate that it is possible to do it only by a light puff of the breath. It takes most girls six weeks to acquire this knack, and some girls are never able to acquire it.

The gold reaches the beaters first in wide bars or nuggets and has to be weighed, melted and made into inch wide ribbons before anything else is done. The ribbon is then cut into inch squares and beaten with a hammer wielded by a man. When each leaf has been beaten thin it is transferred to a mold, where it is beaten four hours more. The beating is done with a wooden hammer weighing from seven to eighteen pounds, on a sheepskin cushion, which rests on a granite block. The gold used for beating is usually 22 or 23 carats fine. A little alloy of copper or silver is added to make it spread. It would be impossible, the beaters say, to handle perfectly pure gold.

After the gold has been beaten it is handed over to the girls, who lift the unshaped leaf from the mold with a pair of wooden pinchers, flatten it out on a sheepskin cushion by gently blowing on it, cut it to a perfect square, replace it between the leaves of the book and flatten it out with the breath.

There are twenty-five leaves in a book, and a skilled girl can pack seventy books in a day, for which she gets from 2½ to 3 cents a book.—New York Times.

MAKING FIREWORKS.

Some Pyrotechnic Products Must Dry In the Open Air.

TRYING FOR NEW DESIGNS.

Staffs of Artists Continually Devising Color Schemes to Be Worked Out In Fire—The Construction of the Set Pieces—Work of the Chemists.

The first step in manufacturing fireworks is the making of the cases, or shells, as the cylinders or other receptacles in which the explosives and the chemicals are placed are called. Practically all of these are made of innumerable sheets of tissue paper pasted and rolled together until the thickness required is attained. Most of these cases are made by machinery and are delivered as wanted to the places where they are to be filled or charged with the materials that have been prepared. All the charging is done by machinery except in the big shells that throw forth sets of stars of varying colors. In these each "star" has to be placed in a certain position so as to explode in just the right way at the proper instant.

Out of doors in pleasant weather the long lines of fuse—"quick match" they are called—are made. These are wound on reels six or seven feet across. Their basis is loose cotton cord covered with various highly inflammable chemicals. "Quick match," roman candles and a number of other pyrotechnic products cannot be dried by artificial heat. They must lie in the open air until the moisture used in mixing the chemicals evaporates.

All the year around the artists on the staff of the pyrotechnic manufacturers are taxing their brains designing color schemes to be worked out in fire. Outside of the big set pieces, which are much in vogue, a great deal of attention is given to rockets, bombs and rocket bombs, of which there are innumerable kinds. When the artist has evolved some striking color effect he turns over his painting to the chemists, whose task it is to combine various combustible ingredients so as to reproduce what the painter has put on his canvas. The race between the art department and the staff chemists is unending. It is the boast of the chemists that they can duplicate in their burning colors any combination of paints that can be presented to them.

These colors are imparted by the heated vapors of certain metals. Sodium, for instance, gives a yellow light, calcium red, strontium crimson and barium green. The number of chemicals, common and rare, employed in the manufacture of fireworks is prodigious. Take blue stars, for instance. These are commonly produced by a combination of chlorate of potash, calomel, sulphuret of copper, oxychloride of copper, dextrin, stearin, black oxide of copper, copper filings and sal ammoniac.

Every fireworks manufacturer has his carefully guarded trade secrets. Pyrotechnics in its various branches and as a whole is taught in no university, and there is little printed literature on the subject.

The construction of the set pieces, especially if they are large, is a huge task. First the artist draws the picture. It is complete in every detail of outline and shade of color. This is marked off into equal squares, each of which represents a square foot in the actual reproduction in fire. Sections of light boards, say, 20 by 25 feet are built and laid flat on the ground, and rectangles a foot square are marked thereon. On the section is outlined the picture that the artist has made, with the different colors indicated in their proper groupings. Loose over this is built a checkerboard framework of light lathe. Then come men with strips of rattan. They tack these to the framework, following exactly every line that has been indicated on the boards below, leaving practically a huge line drawing in rattan.

Then come men with thousands of big pins—ordinary pins, but about an inch long. These are set in the rattan an inch apart. These are followed by other men, who cut the heads off the pins. After this comes a gang of men with bundles of little fireworks, two inches long by one-quarter to three-quarter inches in diameter, in varying colors or combinations of color to correspond with the original drawing. These are called "gerbes." When ignited they emit sheaves of fire. These are stuck on the pins and glued, each shade of color in its proper place along the framework.

After this has been done another gang comes with hundreds of feet of "quick match" and connects all these thousands of "gerbes" together. Loose ends are left here and there for firing when the piece is in place ready to be set off. Then these sections are hoisted into their proper positions, and after infinite labor everything is ready for the wonderful delight to the eye, which may last between one and four minutes. So swiftly does the fire run from "gerbe" to "gerbe" through this "quick match" that the biggest "picture" that is usually shown will be aflame in every part in three seconds.

There is said to be little or no danger about firing these set pieces or even in setting off the bombs that explode with such fearsome noise. The ends of the "quick match," where the "port fire" is applied by the men who do the igniting, are carefully timed so that they have plenty of chance to get out of the way.—New York Press.

Without a friend the world is a wilderness.—Latin Proverb.

DACHSHUNDS.

As Fighters of Badgers They Have No Canine Equals.

The good natured, philosophic German dachshund has always been regarded as more or less of a joke in this country. Even in the fatherland he is a staple for jesting. His elongated body, his crooked legs, his animated tail, his resemblance to a sausage—who could fail to make some sort of joke about a dachshund?

But the dachshund has a very serious side and a work in life.

"Dachshund" means "badger dog."

Now, the badger is an animal that, generally speaking, needs neither game laws nor sympathy, because he is able to take care of himself and fight his own battles. Naturalists place him as a link between the bear family and the weasels. He has about all the strenuous characteristics of both, with some of his own in addition.

Badger baiting was formerly a barbarous rustic sport that drew trade to country inns and taverns. A badger was placed in a barrel, and the man whose dog could bring him out got a prize. A single dog seldom did it. A full pack might—sometimes. The badger is a tremendous burrower, and the jolly dachshund of the jokes has been trained for centuries in Germany to go into his burrows like a ferret after rats and drive the badger out or fight him. In some German and Austrian cities there were formerly badger baiting tourneys in which crack dachshunds entered a pit with an able-bodied badger and fought for points. It is said that such contests are still held in Vienna. For spirit, endurance and agility the dachshund has no peer in this work, and a bulldog pitted against a badger would probably find himself cutting a poor figure.

So, make the jokes about the dachshund if you will, but give him credit for his prowess and for that gentleness, characteristic also of the best bulldogs, that makes both an affectionate companion to man and a loyal playmate to children. Give the dachshund credit, too, for intelligence. He has it in large degree. Few dogs are keener.—New York Press.

COIN CURIOSITIES.

A Great Variety of Materials Has Been Used For Money.

Among the early Roman copper coins was one that weighed nine and one-half ounces and must have proved inconvenient small change for the Roman matron when she went shopping. China of all countries, ancient and modern, exhibits the greatest variety in the matter of coins. The earliest money on record, about 2000 B. C., consisted of shells and cowries. The cowry was used for small change, while tortoise shell and purple cypraea shells, the latter ranging in size from a few inches to a foot and a half in length, represented money of a higher value. A decrease in the supply of shells and increasing prosperity called for a more handy medium of exchange, and cash, the coin with a square hole in the center, came into existence and remains in use to this day.

Among the earlier Chinese coins was one of porcelain about three-quarters of an inch in diameter and a quarter of an inch thick, bearing the legend "Eternal Prosperity." A very curious knife money was at one time used in the state of Tsi. It was of copper shaped like a bill hook, about seven inches long and fitted at the end with a ring. During periods of metal scarcity in China iron, lead, tin, baked earth, grain, silk and shells have been used as a circulating medium.

In Japan an iron coinage, begun about 1636, has existed up to the present day. A curious coin made of a mixture of silver and copper was long in use in Japan. It varied in size from a small pea to a large bean. Lead coins were also used there for five centuries. Glass was employed as a substance for coin for many centuries in Egypt, while wooden money is mentioned in many of the Buddhistic writings.

Russian Superstitions.

In Russia much rain is considered a good omen. It is believed that the downfall washes away the evil spirits, who would otherwise be hovering in the air ready to work woe to the monarch about to place his crown on his head, the bride on the point of plighting her vows, the babe on its way to the font or whosoever might be the hero or heroine of the moment. Further, the superstitious moujik believes that each stream of water has its Rusalka, or good spirit, a lovely maiden with yellow hair floating down her back, who spreads plenty around, but should the water fail, so that her hair dries, she will die, and famine or other disaster ensue.

No Romance.

He dropped her hand with a sigh of defeat.

Mutely she looked into his eyes, as though seeking in his glance some message that would convey the word she sought.

With one slow look at her hand as it lay where he had let it fall, he shook his head slowly and said:

"Give them the trick. You haven't a trump."—Puck.

Universal Experience.

The distinguished citizen had returned from a trip abroad.

"Did the old world give you the glad hand?" they asked him.

"Oh, yes," he said, "or, rather, it gave me the expectant hand. It wasn't the glad hand until I had put the tip into it."—Chicago Tribune.

In Dresden 300 years ago "epicures" used to eat Venetian oysters that had been on the way three weeks.

A Ludicrous Experiment.

Holmes was one of the many eminent men who have attempted to solve the riddle of the universe. In his case the result was ludicrous. From the sublime thoughts that came to him while under the influence of chloroform he thought he might arrive at some solution. Placing himself in his armchair, with pen, ink and paper at hand, he inhaled the anaesthetic. As drowsiness stole over him the nature of things seemed revealed. By a vigorous effort he seized his pen and wrote—he knew not what, for before he had finished he fell back unconscious. When he recovered he turned with trembling anxiety to the sheet of paper, on which, written in scrawling characters, but quite legible, he found the awful revelation, "A strong smell of turpentine pervades the whole!"—London News.

The hour of the funeral of William B. Morrissey has been changed to 10 o'clock A. M. Friday at St. John's church.

At Quincy Music hall tonight will be seen Hilton and Lewis a team of fun makers that will drive away the blues also four thousand feet of moving pictures.

The walks and drives of Bethany church have been resurfaced this week with crushed stone, making the road to religion easier ,and improving the property.

Savings bank life insurance policies aggregating $5,500 were written by Instructor Ganley of the Massachusetts Savings Insurance League at Fore River for the week ending Nov. 7.

Thomas Pendergas and Robert Eagan two of the starters on the Old Colony street railway, have given up their positions as starters, and will hereafter be employed as conductors. Thomas Devaney and George Arbuckle have been appointed as starters.

An enjoyable house warming was held Wednesday evening at the new bungalow of the Bachelor club on Gordon street, Norfolk Downs. There was music dancing and refreshments, and a general good time was enjoyed by all. The officers of the club are Frank Doring, William Flalriza and Arthur Axberg. The house warmers included the parents and friends of the members of the club.

G. Emery Green secured the high-percent, 72 plus, at the weekly whist tournament of the Granite City club Wednesday evening, while Henry P. Fitton was a good second with an even 66 per cent. Mr. Green won 40 points and lost 15, while Mr. Fitton won 33 and lost 17. The other scores were above the average. Ice cream, cake coffee, crackers and cheese were served after the play of twenty-five hands.

A special meeting o fthe Epworth League of the Hall Place M. E. church was called by the president Monday evening at 7.30, at the parsonage. After the usual opening Devotional exercises the meeting was informally placed in the hands of the pastor, Rev. C. H. Raupach, the fourth vice president. Plans were made for a concert to be given by Prof. Maynard. Informal discussions were in order during the evening.

Mrs. Edward Hodge of Town Hill and Mr. Samuel Tutton of South Quincy have the sympathy of their many friends in the death of their mother Mrs. John Tutton of Medford, Mass., who passed away at her home Saturday, Nov. 6. The funeral was held from her late residence in Medford on Monday. There were many beautiful floral offerings testifying to the high esteem in which she was held by all. Mrs. Tutton was a resident of Quincy for a number of years previous to her removal to Medford several years ago.

RAINBOW FAIR AT ATLANTIC

Great Success by Ladies of Memorial Church

The "Rainbow Fair" given under the auspices of the Ladies' Benevolent society of the Memorial Congregational church opened Wednesday evening at Atlantic Music hall. It was very largely attended and generously patronized, the color scheme of rainbow hues making the hall gay and attractive . During the evening effective tableaux were presented under the direction of Mrs. George Washington Woodward. They were adapted from the children's float of the Fourth of July celebration, and were most picturesque.

Articles of all values were offered for sale from a ton of coal down to the small articles in the express grab.

The success of the affair is due in a great measure to the untiring efforts of the executive committee, Mrs. Harry Read being chairman, assisted by Mrs. Chase Pope, Mrs. William Cummings and Mrs. Charles Cherrington. This committee also had charge of the flower table.

The other booths were presided over as follows:

Candy table—Miss Maud Read, chairman; the Misses Jean Arthur, Nellie Buckley Winnifred Cole, Hazel Davison, Pearl Keay Alice Waterhouse, Gladys Willey and Marjory Young.

Fancy table—Miss Lulu Kolb, chairman, Mrs. A. Bede, Mrs. Paul Butler, Mrs. Albert Hall Mrs. P. Lauson, Mrs. Ralph Hobbs, Mrs. A. Polson and Mrs. Henry Von Emden.

BRILLIANT SOCIAL EVENT

Dance of Quincy Catholic Club at Music Hall

One of the most successful social events of the season was the dance of the Quincy Catholic Club on Wednesday evening, at Music hall. It brought out a large number of the younger set as well as several of the young matrons.

The hall looked particularly attractive. Flags of the national colors, red, white and blue, were festooned about the windows and platform front. Along the front of the platform was a mass of tropical plants, in the centre of which was a cluster of rich chrysanthemums. Little clusters of white carnations along the front added a little color to the scheme. Back of these was Cuff's orchestra which furnished entrancing music for the dancing.

The gowns of the ladies were handsome creations of the dressmaker's art, and were of the prevailing style, and the scene was beautiful to look upon.

The special guests of the evening were Rev. John J. Coan, Rev. John J. Casey and Rev. Patrick Scammell of St. John's church.

Frappe was served during the entire evening by Miss Alice Mahoney, Miss Carmeil Brogan, Miss Helen Brogan and Miss Esther Dasha.

From 8 until nearly 9 o'clock there was a promenade concert during which the officers of the club received.

The patrons were: Hon. William T. Shea, Dr. J. P. Murphy, John W. McAnarney, Michael T. Sullivan, Thomas H. McDonnell, Robert E. Foy, Henry McGrath, John Heaney, John H. Dinegan, John Lyons, Eugene W. O'Connor, John Mahon, Dr. George M. Sheahan, John O'Hara, Edward J. Parker, Joseph D. Griffin, Dr. Daniel Reardon, Michael J. Walsh, Dr. James Maloney, Maurice P. Spillane, Dr. C. J. Lynch, P. F. Talbot, Frank F. O'Reilly, G. B. Powers E. J. Fegan, Timothy J. Collins and R. H. Walsh.

The floor director was Thomas J. Dunphy and the aids: Leo J. McMaster, J. J. McAnarney, C. C. Hearn, E. D. Barrett, Joseph D. Dasha, L. W. Lyons, John J. Deasy, J. W. Walsh, George B. Gavin, R. E. McDonnell, E. J. Murphy, Joseph Harkins, W. L. Russell, T. J. Carey, D. J. Deasy, W. E. Elcock, T. J. O'Connell, W. J. Biganess E. L. Bean and J. A. McGowan. They were distinguished by gold sashes of the club colors.

Humor and Philosophy

By DUNCAN M. SMITH

FOR A CHANGE.

If you were I
And I were you,
Just changed about,
I wonder who
Would get the worst
Of such a deal
And just how you
And I would feel.

If I were you,
It seems to me,
At several points
A chance I see
To quite improve
Upon your plan
And make of you
A better man.

If you were I,
Could you indeed
Along my lines
Of work succeed,
Or would you make
A wretched mess
And bring upon
Yourself distress?

I wonder if
We'd ever sigh
If I were you
And you were I
And wish again
On bended knee
To be the ones
We used to be.

His Limitations.

"I hear your family is going to take you into society, Uncle Charley?"

"Well, they do it at their own risk."

"Ain't you going to act nice about it?"

"Oh, I suppose I will have to stand for the clawhammer coat and the accordion hat, but I'll be dinged if I will eat soup with my fork."

RAINBOW FAIR AT WOLLASTON

A large number attended the "Rainbow fair" held by the ladies of the Wollaston Methodist church on Wednesday evening in the vestry. The name was suggested by the scheme of decoration, each of the seven booths assuming one of the primary colors.

The vestry was most attractive, artificial wisteria being the general scheme of decoration. In the afternoon a special entertainment was provided for the children.

The evening's entertainment proved of more than ordinary interest as the performers were all from the younger members of the Sunday school. Roy Ewerts, accompanied by Miss Ethel Smith, contributed a most pleasing violin solo and "The Owl and the Pussy-cat," as sung by Rodney Gott, accompanied by his mother, Mrs. Luella E. Gott brought down the house.

The star feature of the evening, and the last on the program, consisted in a nurses' drill by seven little ladies under the direction of Mrs. W. B. Ferguson. The drill proved such a success and called forth so much applause that it will be repeated tonight.

Prominent among the little nurses was Elizabeth Stevens in the costume of a colored "mammy." The other little girls were: Gladys Schaerer, Doris Winters, Ida Hoyt, Florence Palmer, Gladys Hirtle, Ethel Brown, Ruth Cropper Myra Gott.

The fair was under the general management of Mrs. George Crothers assisted by the following committees:

Fancy Goods—Mrs. C. H. Durgin and Mrs. J. A. Sedgwick.

Utility Table—Mrs. George Taylor, Mrs. E. H. Ewartz, Mrs. C. M. Given and Mrs. Wesley Wiggin.

NO-LICENSE REPORTS

Encouraging News from All Parts of State

Among those from Quincy who attended the banquet at Ford hall, Boston, Wednesday, which marked the third annual conference of the No-License workers of Massachusetts were D. King Mrs. Theophilus King, Cyrus T. Sherman Mr .and Mrs. Paul W. Kribbs, Carl Prescott and Winthrop Sherman.

Ex-Governor John L. Bates, one of the vice presidents of the league, presided, and in opening told of the temperance tidal wave that has swept the South, that Oklahoma excluded, the traffic in her constitution, declared as false the statement—"that no matter what happened in industrials the stock in distilleries was as safe an investment as that of sugar refineries." There has been a decided change.

Prof. Alexander Chamberlain told what had been accomplished in Worcester in keeping the big city in the No-License column for two years running.

Hon. William E. Blodgett, ex-Mayor of Woburn ,told of the conditions of that city under no-license and under license.

Rev. Albert L. Squiers of Fitchburg attributed the falling of that city into the saloon element to underground methods of a single individual.

There were also brief addresses by Charles A. Bliss of Newburyport, Harry W. Jeffries of Chelsea, Roy M. Berry of Gloucester, Milton T. Bailey of Hudson, William C. McNamara of Lynn, Fred W. Moore of Millbury and Arthur W. Robinson of Natick all of whom told of the no-license work in their cities and towns.

At the morning session Lieut. Gov. Frothingham extended the greetings of the commonwealth ,and then there was a series of addresses and papers during the day. Much of the success of the conference was due to D. King of Quincy the chairman.

Mistake In the Bill.

A gentleman, says Modern Women, who recently returned from a tour in Spain tells this story:

I left Seville on foot after a stay of a week and was twenty miles away when I was overtaken by the landlord of the hotel in which I had stayed. The innkeeper rode beside me for nearly an hour before he found courage to make known his business.

"'F the senor and God please," he began apologetically, "I made a mistake in his bill yesterday."

"How?" I inquired.

"I forgot to make a charge for his candles to light him to bed."

"But it was moonlight, and I had no candles."

"Then, senor, with the help of God, I forgot to charge you with the moonlight."

The charge amounted to 2 cents in American money, and he had hired an ass and ridden twenty miles to collect it. I was amused and astonished. Then I accused him of being a robber and offered him a cent to settle the bill. He worked up a beautiful smile and held out his hand.

"I will take it, with thanks, senor," he said. "God will bless you for an honest man!"

WARSHIPS AT FORE RIVER

Eight Are Now Under Construction in This City

A larger number of government vessels are under construction at the Fore River shipyard than Quincy people are aware. The monthly report of Rear Admiral Capps, chief constructor of the navy, shows that there are eight at present: the battleship North Dakota, now over 97 per cent completed; the torpedo boat destroyer Perkins, now over 59 per cent completed; the torpedo boat destroyer Sterret now over 58 per cent completed; torpedo boat destroyer No. 34 now less than 6 per cent completed; and four submarine boats,—the Snapper over 99 per cent completed, the Salmon 87 per cent completed, the Shipjack and Sturgeon less than 9 per cent completed.

During October at Camden, N. J., work was started on the battleship Arkansas. The South Carolina was delivered to the government at Philadelphia this week. The Delaware at Newport News is over 97 per cent completed, the Florida at New York over 38 per cent, and the Utah at Camden 50 per cent.

SOLDIERS' BURIAL.

Spanish War Veterans at Funeral of W. E. Morrissey.

The funeral of William E. Morrissey was held this morning at 10 o'clock from St. Johns church and was very largely attended. Aside from many relatives and friends, there was a large delegation of camp John A. Boyd, U. S. W. V., of which he was a past commander. There was a profusion of beautiful flowers, including a large set piece from the Spanish War Veterans. Mass was celebrated by Rev. John J. Casey, the choir rendering the Gregorian mass. The burial was at St. Mary's cemetery, being escorted by the Spanish War Veterans. At the cemetery the remains were committed to mother earth with three volleys by the firing squad and taps by the bugler.

MUSIC HALL.

One of the best shows ever seen in Quincy was viewed at Music Hall last evening, when the management out-did themselves in every possible way. The vaudeville acts of Fagan, the rapid fire talker, and Hilton and Lewis, comedy artists, both brought forth tremendous applause. The pictures too, were exceptionally good, another big two-hour show tomorrow evening.

☞ Is there a boy in the city who wants to earn a bright five dollar gold piece? The boy selling the most Ledgers between now and New Years will be awarded five dollars in gold, beside earning good commissions each day on the papers sold. The contest is open to any boy commencing Nov. 15 and ending Jan. 1, 1910.

RECORD IS LITTLE HIGHER

North Dakota Displays 22.27 Knots on Her Return

The Queen of the Seas is home again. At 9.50 this morning she was docked at the Fore River amid salutes from all the whistles in the vicinity of the works and of the craft anchored in the river. Just after 9.30 the gigantic battleship came in sight of the bridge with flags flying and brooms raised, denoting a clean sweep of the seas. On her turrets were painted in great white letters the ship's greatest speed during her test, 22.27, this being a little more than was credited to her at the trials.

With four tugs along side, two at the bow and two at the stern, the huge ship took the curve just below the bridge in a graceful fashion and at 9.37 passed through the draw, where over two weeks ago she passed out an unknown quantity, but returning the fastest ironclad warrier afloat.

A large crowd gathered to witness the return of the battleship which in so short a time has come before the world's notice, and they cheered and shouted as without a mishap she cleared the draw and was turned toward her berth at the Fore River docks, where the finishing touches will be administered before she takes her place as a regular member of Uncle Sam's naval family.

NO SEA SICKNESS.

When New Route to Europe is Opened by Airship.

H. H. Clayton, formerly of the Blue Hill observatory lectured at the 1915 Boston exposition Thursday night. He said that the danger of ballooning was much exaggerated, the fear being in part due to the natural dread all feel when first traveling by a new method or in an unfamiliar element which has all the terrors of the unknown. He reviewed the history of ballooning in Europe and America, described the methods of management of spherical ballons, which, he said, could not be guided horizontally but could be easily steered vertically, and then passed to the dirigible type, like Count Zeppelin's in Germany.

Mr. Clayton said that when these great airships had been developed to the point where they could carry a hundred or more passengers they could take advantage of the great air highways and travel from continent to continent with a speed and a directness not possible by any other method of travel, suggesting that it would be possible for a large airship traveling about 40 miles an hour by its own motor and adding this speed to the speed of the air currents, to cross the Atlantic ocean in about two days and return as quickly.

WANTS OF WEST QUINCY

Civic Pride Demand Many Improvements

A largely attended meeting of the Ward Four Improvement Association was held Thursday evening at St. Jean's hall on Copeland street. President Stephen B. Little presided, and the first business of the evening was to hear the report of the committee on by-laws. These by-laws provided that the organization shall be known as the "Ward Four Improvement Association" and any resident of the ward, over 21 years of age, may become a member. The object of the association is to make West Quincy a more desirable place of residence and business.

The officers include a president, three vice presidents, secretary, treasurer, an advisory committee of 22, also special committee on membership, auditing, railroads, etc.

After the adoption of the by-laws there was a discussion on some of the needs of this section of the city. One of the first things desired is a new depot, and the removal of some of the old buildings in the immediate vicinity of the depot. It was pointed out that these old buildings had become an eyesore, and that they gave the ward a blackeye, as they were the first things to be seen by a stranger coming by train.

Another improvement desired is the extention of the street railway line which now terminates at East Milton, over Granite avenue to Minot street, Dorchester, where connection could be made with the Adams street line for Dudley street, Boston. It was pointed out that the present way of reaching Dudley street was a round-about one through Quincy and that the proposed line would give a direct route.

Better street railway facilities were also desired for the large number of West Quincy people employed at Wollaston. A special committee consisting of James H. Elcock, Chas. J. McGilvray, W. F. Lakin and James F. Burke were appointed to work in conjunction with the special committee on railway improvements of the City Council.

Among those to speak at the meeting were W. F. Lakin, James F. Burke, James H. Elcock, Charles J. McGilvray, Dr. John H. Ash, Robert J. Teasdale and Councilman John D. Smith.

The next meeting of the association will be held Friday, Nov. 26.

PAROCHIAL SCHOOL PLANS

Building 148 by 58 With Hall and Ten Class Rooms

Ground was broken this week for the new parochial school for St. Johns church, which is to be erected on Phipps street, a permit for the building having been issued by Inspector of Buildings, Warren S. Parker. The architect is F. Joseph Untersee of Boston, and the contractors, J. J. and T. F. Mack of Salem.

The building has a frontage on Phipps street of 148 feet, and a depth of 58 feet. It will be three stories high, of brick construction, and will cost in the vicinity of $50,000.

In all there will be ten class rooms, and the building will accommodate about 500 pupils. In the basement besides the heating apparatus and toilet rooms, there is to be a large reading room and bowling alley. On the first floor there are to be four class rooms, 25 by 32 feet, with wardrobes. All these rooms face on the Phipps street side, so as to receive the sun practically all day. On the Gay street side of the building there is a corridor 12 feet wide extending the whole length of the building.

The entrances to the building are on either end of this corridor. Here also are the stairways leading to the floors above. On the second floor there are also four class rooms, the same size as those on the first floor, and a Sisters' room in the centre, 11 by 19 feet.

On the third floor there are two class rooms and an assembly hall. The hall is 62-8 by 38-6 feet. On one end of the hall is a stage 13 by 30-8 feet.

NARROW ESCAPE.

Carriage Struck by Electric Car on Hancock Street.

Stephen K. Tarbox of Quincy avenue while driving along Hancock street early Thursday evening was thrown to the street and badly bruised about the head and body, when the team was struck by an electric car. The accident happened at the corner of Standish avenue and Hancock street at about 7 o'clock. Driving along in his buggy, Mr. Tarbox failed to hear the approaching car and turned directly across the tracks. The car smashed into the carriage and he was thrown to the ground where he lay bleeding about the head. It was thought at first that he had been seriously injured, and there were thoughts of placing him aboard the car and rushing him to City Square, but he soon recovered, and was able to continue on his way home.

THE PRESS APPRECIATED

Young Men's Christian Association Return Thanks

Editors Quincy Daily Ledger:

Before the echoes of the late campaign die away, the officers and friends of the Y. M. C. A. wish to make public acknowledgment of the important part which the Quincy newspapers bore in the grand achievement. The generous space and attractive head-lines allowed on their first pages must have been given at no small sacrifice, while the uniformly confident and optimistic tone maintained throughout the seven days' struggle, and the attractive manner of reporting each day's progress were no small factors in bringing about the spendid climax of Wednesday night.

Quincy is fortunate in having newspapers which may be depended upon to line up instantly and heartily in favor of every good cause.

WORK OF DEACONESSES.

Interesting Talk at the Hall Place M. E. Church.

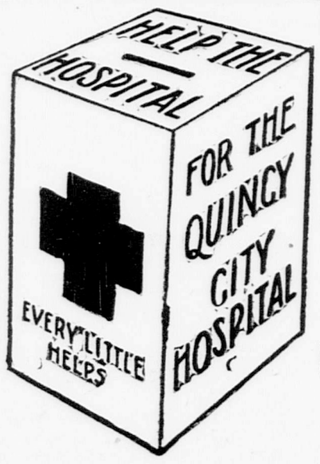

"That one half of the world does not know how the other half lives" was certainly proved to be true Sunday evening at the Hall Place M. E. church, when Miss Elizabeth Springham, of the New England Deaconess Association gave a very interesting talk on the Deaconess work throughout greater Boston as well as other New England States. Miss Springham has been laboring in Maine for the past three years, only arriving in Boston for the winter work last week. She is well known throughout Methodist Circles.

Methodists never tire of hearing of the glorious work of Deaconesses and the large congregation at the Hall Place Methodist Church certainly enjoyed every moment of the time spent in listening to Miss Springham.

Rev. C. H. Raupach, who had the privilege of working with Miss Springham in an evangelistic campaign in Maine, shortly before his coming to West Quincy, spoke a few words at the close of the services in hearty appreciation of the pleasure his people had enjoyed in listening to the interesting talk.

Stop Cough

Those hard night coughs of the children! What shall you give them? Just what your mother gave you, and just what her mother gave her! In some families, Ayer's Cherry Pectoral has been the only cough medicine for seventy years. Once in the family, it stays. Keep it on hand.

Ask your doctor if he endorses Ayer's Cherry Pectoral for the coughs and colds of children. Do as he says.

CONGRESS MAY INVESTIGATE

Official Status of Ballinger and Pinchot Is In Doubt

WASHINGTON HEARS OF PLOT

Chief Forester Placed In Embarrassing Position by Rumors of Cabal Formed For Purpose of Renominating Roosevelt In 1912—Taft Not Worrying, as It is Known That Ex-President Would Oppose Proposition

Washington, Nov. 12.—President Taft and his cabinet, as individuals, at least, have definitely refused to become excited over the published story, which has Washington by the ears, that a "Roosevelt cabal," has been formed in the west for the purpose of renominating Roosevelt in 1912. It can be stated positively that neither the president nor his advisers have taken enough interest in the story to discuss it even informally among themselves.

GIFFORD PINCHOT

Washington takes it for granted that Roosevelt himself would be the first man to break up such a cabal, if it existed, if for no other reason than that it would constitute a serious reflection on his own good faith. It is inconceivable also that the alleged plotters would rally about Senator La Follette in line with their purpose or even would recognize him, for the Roosevelt men know that the radicalism of La Follette is not the radicalism of Roosevelt.

The weakness of the so-called Republican insurgent movement in the west has been that it is headed by avowed aspirants for the presidency—like Beveridge, Cummins, Dolliver and La Follette, and these men are no more desirous of seeing Roosevelt return to the White House than the conservatives themselves.

Gifford Pinchot, chief forester, is being placed in a very embarrassing position by the linking of his name in connection with Secretary Ballinger and the Alaskan coal lands and the Roosevelt cabal rumor. Whatever personal feeling Ballinger may have regarding Pinchot, this is not shared by President Taft or the remainder of his cabinet. They believe that Ballinger's only purpose is to bring the coal land operations within the law.

The steps taken by Ballinger are held to be strictly legal, and the administration is not disposed to blame Ballinger because existing law did not cover the situation sufficiently. Pinchot is held to be acting strictly in the interest of conservation, and his simple denial that he is not concerned with any anti-Taft or pro-Roosevelt movement is taken at its face value by the administration. Even in the Alaskan coal land cases Ballinger stands alone in his attitude toward the chief forester.

The dragging of Roosevelt's name into the Pinchot-Ballinger controversy and the rumors of an alleged plot in Roosevelt's interest have given a twist to the whole situation which almost certainly will lead to an investigation by congress, before the future official status of Ballinger and Pinchot can be determined by President Taft.

Insiders always have believed that the relations of these two officials are "impossible," but the sentimental effect of the removal of either would be so great that the administration would not dare risk it until congress had satisfied itself and the country as to the underlying facts.

Both officials, through their friends, are letting it be known that they would welcome investigation, if they are not actually courting it. Disinterested opinion in Washington suggests that the status of both men will be found clear if such investigation is made.

Taft Approves Pearl Harbor

Washington, Nov. 12.—President Taft has approved the recommendation of the joint army and navy board for making Pearl Harbor, in the Hawaiian islands, the great naval station in the Pacific.

Census Supervisor Appointed

Washington, Nov. 12.—Lynn M. Hays of Burlington has been appointed supervisor of the census for the state of Vermont.

ATHLETIC RECREATION

President Lowell of Harvard Says That It Should Be Encouraged

Boston, Nov. 12.—If Harvard graduates or undergraduates harbored any doubt as to President Lowell's attitude with regard to athletics, they were very effectually dispelled last night, when at the dinner given at the Hotel Somerset in honor of the university crew of 1909 Lowell stated that athletics should by all means be encouraged and that even more of the students should avail themselves of the opportunity for healthful athletic recreation at Cambridge.

"Athletics and other things go together," said Harvard's president. "Athletic exercises never hindered the intellectual development of the Athenians. And while, as president of Harvard university, I am desirous of bringing about more scholarship, I am equally desirous of bringing about an even stronger devotion to athletics."

PROSECUTION WEAKENS

Does Not Think Mme. Steinheil Principal In Double Murder

Paris, Nov. 12.—In concluding the government's evidence the prosecution gave the impression that Mme. Steinheil cannot be convicted as the principal in the murders of her husband and her stepmother.

The judge advocate admitted that the murder of the mother did not appear to be sufficiently established, but he was convinced that the prisoner called her husband and assisted in his murder.

The prosecutor joined in the earlier declaration of M. de Valles, the presiding judge, that he would raise before the jury the general question of the complicity of the accused. This was interpreted as an acknowledgement that the evidence was not sufficient to maintain the charge that Mme. Steinheil was the principal and that therefore he would ask for her conviction as an accomplice.

AMELIA ST. JEAN DIED NATURALLY

Conclusion of Doctors After Hill Had Pleaded Guilty

Taunton, Mass., Nov. 12.—After Frank L. Hill had been subjected to a lengthy examination in the superior court here, Judge Stevens postponed until a later date the sentencing of the Fall River herb doctor, who has pleaded guilty to an indictment charging manslaughter in causing the death of Amelia St. Jean, the Tiverton suitcase victim.

As Hill has pleaded guilty to a charge of manslaughter, Dr. Gunning caused a sensation by announcing that in the opinion of medical experts the girl died from natural causes.

Under the searching questioning of District Attorney Swift, Hill went over in detail the story which his attorney told at the time Hill pleaded guilty.

WORLD LABOR UNION

Suggestion Put Before American Federation's Convention In Toronto

Toronto, Nov. 12.—Affiliation of the American Federation of Labor with the International Labor Congress of Europe and other international bodies was proposed in a resolution presented at Thursday's convention.

Over fifty resolutions in all were offered at the close of the afternoon session. Several of these had to do with minor jurisdictional disputes in various organizations.

One resolution suggests that "the time has come for the wage workers to become a factor in politics," and urges the early formation of a labor party.

Coxe For Supreme Court

Washington, Nov. 12.—Vice President Sherman came to Washington to lay before the president the name of Judge Alfred C. Coxe of the Utica circuit, as a candidate for the position on the supreme bench made vacant by the death of Justice Peckham.

Mrs. Read Stricken In Court

Denver, Nov. 12.—Seized with violent convulsions during her trial on the charge of attempting to secure $100,000 from Mrs. Genevieve C. Phipps on the threat of death by dynamite, Mrs. Allen F. Read lies at the point of death.

Stock Broker a Bankrupt

Boston, Nov. 12.—George E. Waring, a stock broker, claiming Willard A. Parsons and Charles H. Whitney as partners, filed a voluntary partnership petition in bankruptcy. The liabilities amount to $6066.09, and the assets $645.22.

Heroine and Brother Perish

Winnipeg, Man., Nov. 12.—Ethel Arnett, 17 years old, and John Arnett, 12 years old, were burned to death in a fire which destroyed the Revere House at Innisfall. Ethel Arnett had escaped, but returned to save her brother.

To Continue Dramatic Censorship

London, Nov. 12.—The joint committee of the house of lords and the house of commons which was appointed to inquire into the censorship of the drama, reported in favor of continuing the censorship.

The Term "Copper."

While many police officials believe that the term "copper" as applied to policemen had its origin in the use of the copper badges that were formerly worn, an authority states that the word may be traced back to the Normans in the twelfth century and that it is a corruption of "catch." The Normans not only applied it to the catchers of criminals, but to the implements used in catching or holding them. There were "hand cops," or handcuffs, in the twelfth century, and the Anglo-Saxons used foot cops. In the "Yocabulum, or the Rogues' Lexicon," written by George W. Mateel in 1859, copped is thus defined:

"Copped—Arrested. The knuck was copper to rights, a skin full of honey was found in his kicks poke by the copper when he plucked him. The pickpocket was arrested, and when searched by the officer a purse full of money was found in his pants pocket."

This is the derivation of copper. There is an implied compliment in the sobriquet.—London Saturday Review.

Blood Travels Fast.

The speed at which the blood circulates in the veins and arteries of a healthy man is something surprising. All day long, year in and year out, the round trips continue from the heart to the extremities and back again. The red blood corpuscles travel like boats in a stream, going to this or that station for such service as they have to perform, and the white corpuscles, the phagocytes, dart hither and thither like patrol boats, ready to arrest any contraband cargo of disease germs. The mileage of the blood circulation reveals some astounding facts in our personal history. Thus it has been calculated that, assuming the heart to beat sixty-nine times a minute at ordinary heart pressure, the blood goes at the rate of 207 yards in the minute, or seven miles per hour, 168 miles per day and 6,320 miles per year. If a man of eighty-four years of age could have one single blood corpuscle floating in his blood all his life it would have traveled in that same time 5,150,808 miles.—Exchange.

Afghan Frontier Tribes.

There is an interesting little story in Dr. T. L. Pennell's book "Among the Wild Tribes of the Afghan Frontier" which illustrates the attitude of the frontier tribes to their great neighbors. A political officer was talking with the headmen of some independent tribes, and he asked them what part their people would take in the event of war between Russia and England.

"Do you wish us to tell you what would please you or to tell you the real truth?" was their naive reply.

"I adjure you only to tell me what is the 'white word'" (meaning the true statement).

"Then," said an old graybeard among them, voicing the feelings of all present, "we would just sit here upon our mountain tops watching you both fight until we saw one or the other of you utterly defeated; then we would come down and loot the vanquished till the last mule! God is great! What a time that would be for us!"

One Comfort.

Dick was a very clean little boy, and dirt disgusted him. One day he found a poor little starved kitten crouching in a ditch at the roadside, and he carried the wet, muddy little waif home with him. He took it to the hydrant and carefully rinsed off all the mud, but the shock was too great for the sick kitty, and the breath of life departed. Dick went with her to his mother, who exclaimed at the sight of the wet, drooping kitten, "Why, Dick, what have you done?"

"She was all mud, and I washed her," Dick replied.

"Oh, Dick," his mother said sorrowfully, "I'm afraid she's dead."

Dick looked shocked and grieved for a moment; then his face lighted up with a gleam of comfort as he exclaimed, "Well, she died clean, anyway."—Delineator.

The Tiger's Skin.

Whether its color helps the tiger in its furtive life or not, it is a royal livery that it wears. The "spoil of lions," but for their manes, have not much majesty. A cowhide may be handsomer. But a throne can ask no more sumptuous trapping than a tiger's skin, and if a jury were to be impaneled to select the noblest looking animal now in the zoological gardens the verdict would almost infallibly be unanimous in favor of the Siberian tiger. It is difficult to imagine anything more beautiful, more full of dignity and of the simple grace of strength than one of these gorgeous, deep furred brutes.—London Times.

More Cautious Now.

"Yes," said the popular actor, "I had to refuse the part. It was beyond my powers."

"That's strange," replied his friend. "There was a time when you would undertake any part."

"Ah, yes! That was when I was an amateur, and amateurs, you know, will attempt anything."—Exchange.

Expected Back.

Prisoner—Can I speak with the convict Jack for one moment? Jailer—No; he has just left, after finishing his time. But ask me again in about a week.—Fliegende Blatter.

Not Her Pose.

Yeast—Does your wife ever sit with her chin resting on her knees? Crimsonbeak—No; my wife seldom sits with her chin resting at all.—Yonkers Statesman.

Take heed of many, advice of few.—Spanish Proverb.

WILL RETIRE MEN AT SEVENTY YEARS

Pension For Veterans on New York Central Road

Boston, Nov. 12.—Every employe of the New York Central lines of 70 years or older will be compelled to withdraw from the service on Jan. 1 and retire on a pension.

Official word received by A. H. Hanson, general passenger agent of the Boston and Albany road, embraces the latter road in the list of lines to be affected by the pension plan.

Throughout the entire system over 100,000 employes are enabled to partake in the gratuity plan on their reaching 70 years. The annual cost to the system is placed at $500,000.

All departments are included. In order to receive the pension employes must have been in the continuous service of the road for ten years.

BANK CASHIER KILLED

President Wounded by Holdup Man, Who Is Placed Under Arrest

Louisville, Nov. 12.—J. G. Fawcett, cashier of the Merchants' National bank in New Albany, Ind., was shot and killed, and President J. K. Woodward, of the same institution, seriously wounded by a man who entered the bank and attempted to hold up the officials and their assistants.

The assailant, a young man of about 21, is supposed to be named Hall.

After his murderous work he ran to the Ohio river and started for the Kentucky side in a skiff. The New Albany police, after a hot pursuit in a motor boat, succeeded in capturing the man and landed him behind the bars of the New Albany jail.

MANTIR ON WITNESS STAND

Greek Fails to Weaken Under a Rigid Cross Examination

Cambridge, Mass., Nov. 12.—James Mantir, the Greek accused with Peter C. Delorey of the murder of Annie Mullins, took the witness stand in his own behalf yesterday and in a simple, straightforward manner accounted for himself on March 27, 1908, when the Cambridge domestic met her death on a lonely field in Arlington.

He was on the witness stand from 9 o'clock in the morning until court adjourned at 4 o'clock in the afternoon, the last three hours under a rigid cross examination, but not once did he weaken, nor manifest any anxiety, nor contradict himself on the important points of his story.

When the government concludes its cross examination of Mantir Delorey will be called by the defence to explain why he "confessed" to the murder of Annie Mullins the night of his arrest.

HITCHCOCK'S MEN GOING

Four Assistants Slated to Leave the Postoffice Department

Washington, Nov. 12.—Postmaster General Hitchcock is considering plans for a general reorganization of his department between now and Jan. 1. The under officials in the department have been hearing for a day or two that the four assistant postmasters general will step out. These are Charles P. Grandfield, first assistant; Joseph Steward, second assistant; A. L. Lawshe, third assistant; P. V. McGraw, fourth assistant.

The best places in the postoffice department are all filled by men who were there when the Taft administration came in, and the expectation since March 4 has been that the old assistants would in time be released.

GETS EIGHT DAYS IN JAIL

"Heir to Fortune" Could Not Pay Small Fine For Being Drunk

Cambridge, Mass., Nov. 12.—Edward A. Trevellyan, who recently claimed to be the heir of a fortune of $300,000, was arrested here and fined $5 for drunkenness. He could not pay and was sentenced to the house of correction for eight days.

Trevellyan is the man who worked as a dishwasher for George G. Allen in a Cambridge restaurant and who was supposed to have fallen heir to an estate in England that would give him an income of $300,000 a year.

Three Killed In Powder Mill Explosion

Wilmington, Del., Nov. 12.—A press mill and a grinding mill at the powder works of the Du Pont company, west of Wilmington, exploded, killing three workmen and injuring seven others. Besides wrecking buildings belonging to the company, several dwellings in the neighborhood were badly damaged.

New New York Comptroller

Albany, Nov. 12.—Governor Hughes has appointed State Superintendent of Banks Clark Williams as state comptroller to succeed the late comptroller, Charles H. Gaus. He is to serve until Jan. 1, 1911. Williams' resignation as superintendent of banks has been accepted by the governor.

Scarlet Fever Closes School

Chelsea, Mass., Nov. 12.—Fifty pupils of the sixth grade of Carter school will have a vacation util Monday, owing to the discovery of a case of scarlet fever there. The board of health closed the grade and fumigated the room. There are twelve cases of scarlet fever.

The Boy and the Book.

"The late Edward Everett Hale," said a Boston magazine editor, "was a great student of child life.

"Dr. Hale once dilated to me on the incorrigibly bad taste in books that children have. He instanced the case of his own son, now a famous architect, whose taste he had a hard time forming.

"The little boy, it seemed, cared only for the sensational in literature. Jack Harkaway and Deadwood Dick seemed to him the very topmost pinnacle of literary excellence. He yawned over the splendid historical works his father read to him.

"One day, however, Dr. Hale had a gleam of hope. The little boy brought him a volume of English history and said:

"'Will you read me some more out of this, please?'

"'Why, certainly, my boy,' the father answered cordially. 'What part would you like to have?'

"'Read me,' said the little boy, 'about Mary, queen of Scots, getting her head cut off and the blood all running down her back.'"

Division.

The new teacher glanced smilingly over the school and was delighted to see so many bright young faces among her new charges.

"Now, children," she said, "so that I may find out what you know I will test you on arithmetic. Maggie Wilkins, if I were to divide three bananas among seventeen boys what would be the result?"

"A riot," said Maggie, speaking up like a little drum major.

"Possibly," said the teacher, "but that is not what I mean. Tommy, you may take the question. Three bananas among three boys—that would be one banana apiece for each boy. Now, three bananas among seventeen boys would be what?"

"Three bananas, mim," answered Tommy.

"I know, but three into seventeen is"—said the teacher.

"Three bananas would go into seventeen boys once and none over," said Tommy confidently.

It was then that the new teacher resigned.—Harper's Weekly.

The Wilderness.

This theater of bloody conflicts is a vast sea, so to speak, of a dense forest—a second growth more than a century old. It is made up chiefly of scrubby, low limbed, stubborn oaks and disordered, haggard pines, for the soil is cold and thin, with here and there scattering clumps of alien cedars. Some of the oaks are large enough to cut two railroad ties, and every once and awhile you come across an acre or two of pines ten to twelve inches in diameter, tall and tapering, true to the soaring propensities of their kind. But generally, and above all where the battle was fought, the trees are noticeably stunted and so close together and thick lower limbs so intermingled with a thick underbrush that it is very difficult indeed to make one's way through them.—Atlantic Monthly.

Meredith's Advice to Stead.

W. T. Stead tells a characteristic story of George Meredith, which is all the more appreciable as it is told against himself.

"He was a true friend," says Mr. Stead, "not less faithful in criticism than he was cordial in his appreciation. Of the former I remember well the neat way in which he put me out of conceit with my first attempt to write a story. I sent him my little effort with fear and trembling. My trepidation was not without warrant. 'I have read "From the Old World to the New,"' he wrote. 'Some of the characters are interesting and well drawn. One of them especially reminds me of Cecil Rhodes. But if any one of your friends tells you that he likes the story as a story don't believe him.'"

Swiss Flags.

The Swiss flag is red, and it bears a Greek cross in its center. The Switzers declared their independence in 1307, and at the battle of Morgarten, 1315, where the Austrians were defeated, they carried a plain red flag without any device. During the seventeenth century a white cross was added, though it is said that the cross appeared on some Swiss flags as early as 1339. The different cantons of Switzerland have different coats of arms and different flags.

Verdi's Secrecy.

Verdi observed great secrecy concerning his operas, even to his business associates, and it is said that the first intimation his business managers, the Ricordis, received of the composition of "Falstaff" was a toast offered by Boito, who at supper one night, when the publisher and his wife were present, slyly glanced at Verdi and proposed a health to the "fat knight," at which it seemed Verdi and Boito had been working for months.

An Aspersion Suspected.

"That is quite a remarkable Rembrandt," said the connoisseur.

"Sir!" rejoined Mrs. Cumrox.

"Yes, Rembrandt, you know, the great painter."

"Oh! I thought you said 'remnant.'"—Washington Star.

The Fraction.

"Humble as I am," said a loud voiced orator at a meeting, "I still remember that I am a fraction of this magnificent empire."

"You are, indeed," said a bystander, "and a vulgar one at that."—London Express.

Curious.

If a man is bettered his condition is improved; if he is "bested" he is really "worsted."

If the hook worm is the really and truly cause of laziness then surely the little insect is not a Southern provincial but a cosmopolitan in the widest sense.

Dandelions and the Hurdy-gurdy are still with us although the almanac says winter is not far away.

"No wretch ere felt the halter draw with good opinion of the law." The hauling contractors and hucksters in Washington, who have been arrested, convicted and fined through the agency of the Animal Protection Society have a bill in Congress to surpress the Society and substitute a bill for the prevention of cruelty to animals, prepared by themselves. Now let the ex-residents of Sing Sing prepare a bill for the suppression of burglary.

And now after all the labor and expense discovering the North Pole by two Americans, it appears that we have no title to it, inasmuch as, according to the dictates of International Law, occupation is a prerequisite to possessorship. What a disappointment to American emigrants.

When Quincy people read of a $28,000 fire in Waltham they can congratulate themselves that this city has escaped large fires for several years because of the efficiency of our fire department.

Good luck to the Chelsea Y. M. C. A. which must raise a balance of $27,197.25 in four days. Quincy thought she did well to raise a like amount in seven days.

Now that President Taft is back in New England he has completed his 30,000 mile circuit of the country. New England has an attraction for the Presidents.

The Globe says: "With the extension of Boston's foreign commerce the need of increased docking facilities becomes more and more apparent. In the six days ending last night 15 steamers have arrived here from Europe, the far east and South America, and many of them have been obliged to anchor in the harbor because of lack of berthing room." Those docks proposed on the Neponset river should be started. Ample opportunity is offered there to enlarge from year to year. With a belt line around Boston connecting all the railroads freight could be promptly handled.

The Cambridge Y. M. C. A., has received three $5,000 subscriptions toward its campaign for $150,000 started today. No such large pledges were received in Quincy, but everybody helped, and that is what is needed for success; a determined united effort.

NOVEL BUT REASONABLE.

The salt-water state of Massachusetts is, naturally one of the first to make the art of swimming obligatory on the pupils of the public schools, and Boston, taking the lead, has ordered both male and female pupils of the public high schools to take instruction in swimming under competent instructors. The obligation will probably be removed in the case of those students who are found to be physically not fit for the ordeal, which will remove much of the objection from the requirement. For the other pupils it will be a good thing, both from the standpoint of physical development and from the ability to preserve oneself in case of danger from drowning. The requirement seems strange because of its novelty, but not because of its foolishness.—Barre (Vt.) Times.

INDEPENDENT CANDIDATES

Dame Rumor Hints at One for Mayor

Only four days remain before the joint caucuses will be held to nominate candidates for Mayor, Councilmen at Large, Councilmen from the wards, and members of the School Committee at large and from wards. Although there are contests on both the Republican and Democratic tickets no one would for a minute expect that there was a caucus approaching.

The most interest perhaps is centered in the contest among the Republicans for Councilmen at large and for Councilmen from Ward One. There is considerable speculation over the result.

There have been persistent rumors for several days that after the caucuses an independent candidate for Mayor will be put forward. It is not a Republican Independent who is to enter the contest, according to rumor, but a Democratic Independent. Yet thus far the name of the gentleman has not been mentioned.

Down in Ward Five, the Wollaston ward, there seems likely to be a hot contest for ward councilmen. There are four names on the lists for the caucuses. Aside from this it is reported that after the caucuses there will be one or two gentlemen who will run independent for the office of councilmen.

COALING WARSHIPS.

Coaling seems to be destined to become a matter of vital importance to warships, not only because of the absolute necessity of the fuel, but because of the dangers which have been revealed by the fact that high explosives have been found in a number of instances of late, in the coal for the bunkers of British war vessels. Unless coal supplies are closely guarded night and day, and every bushel put aboard is closely inspected, it would be comparatively easy to destroy the mightiest of ships with sticks of explosive properly adjusted in lumps of the fuel. This danger has received more or less consideration during times of war, but never in days of peaceful service have ships been menaced as British cruisers and battleships seem to be at the present time.—Framingham News.

BRIEFS

A summer day.

Beginning today the Daily Ledger will print several illustrated columns telling how to make Christmas gifts.

The pledges to the Y. M. C. A. fund on the final day are printed on one of the inside pages today, together with a complete list of contributors.

The Houghs Neck Independents defeated the Manets of Houghs Neck at basket ball Wednesday night by the score of 20 to 7. Hodgkinson and Trask excelled for the winners, and Morey for the losers.

Mr. Martin Heaney, a long resident of Quincy, passed away this morning at the residence of his son, Joseph L. Heaney, of 31 Quincy street, aged 86 years. Funeral services will be held from St. John's church Monday morning at 10 o'clock. The burial will be at St. John's cemetery, Clinton.

Mr. and Mrs. Herbert R. Morton of 960 Hancock street opened their home Thursday evening for a whist party for the Dorcas society of the Universalist church. Seven tables were in play, souvenirs for the best scores being awarded to Mrs. Charles Simpson, George Shattard, Mrs. W. E. Howes, Mrs. James Smith, Arthur C. Merritt and Mrs. Cora Carmen. The consolation prize was awarded to Mrs. Edward Smith. Light refreshments were served.

SURPRISE PARTY.

Miss Agnes Gilraine was pleasantly surprised Wednesday evening at her home on Carruth street by many friends. She was presented with a handsome gold ring in behalf of those present, Miss Anna McCarthy of Wollaston making the presentation. During the evening games were enjoyed also music, Miss Zita Pitts and Miss Florence Mathews rendering piano solos and Miss Agnes Gilraine vocal solos. Ices and cake were served.

Among those present were: Annie McCarthy, James McGuiness, Florence Mathews, Catherine White, Zita Pitts, Marguerite Gilraine, Christie Daly. Annie E. Collagan, Richard Knaffman, Frank O'Brien, Lulhan Galvin, Arthur Agnew, Ernest Burns, Doris Bellucher, Billy Merrill, Lizzie McGee, Ambrose Mullaney, Edward Phelan, Mrs. Gilraine, Agnes Collagan, Mae Gilraine, Edith Denton, Charles Murphy, Shorty Rowes. Henry Wickstrum, Beatrice E. Phelan, Lillian Mewis, Bob Carrigan, Jack Gilraine and Lawrence White.

The Key Under the Door.

"It is customary for the back door key to be put halfway under the door so that I can reach it when coming off duty late at night," remarked an artist to a London Tit-Bits writer. "The other morning at breakfast my landlady said to me, 'Do you know, I had an awful fright last night. I put the key halfway under the door, as usual, when, to my horror, I saw it drawn slowly out of sight. I of course thought some one had got the key and would unlock the door and come in, so I quickly bolted it and shouted through the keyhole, "My word, if you don't bring that key back!" Not daring to retire to rest, I sat quietly listening for a time. Then I got a table knife and pushed it under the door to see if the key had really been taken right away and to my surprise drew the key back again. So, very cautiously, I unlocked and unbolted the door, looked out and found not a burglar, but our own wicked cat, who, while sitting on the doorstep and seeing the key pushed under the door, must have drawn the key out of sight with her paws, thinking I was playing with her.'"

An American Joke From England.

The typical American, says a contributor to the English Illustrated Magazine, although partial to making jokes, is often quick tempered and unable to recognize a joke made by another, with results that are sometimes unpleasant.

Thus, a senator was once at a fashionable dinner party at Washington when he was asked what fish he would take.

"Waal," he said, "I reckon I'll take plaice."

A wit who chanced to be present remarked, with a twinkle in his eye, "Ah, senator, still a place seeker?"

"Yaas," answered the senator, at the same time whipping out a revolver and shooting the wit dead, "but what's that to you, you dern'd stranger?"

Afterward, when the joke was explained to him, the senator confessed that he had acted rather hastily, and to show that he bore no grudge he went to the funeral of the inopportune wit.

A Queen Elizabeth Joke.

Queen Elizabeth liked her jokes, and, although her pleasantries were of a less sanguinary turn than her father's, she must have been even more formidable than usual when disposed to be frolicsome. A tale may be found in one of Lord Essex's letters with regard to a new dress belonging to one of her maids of honor, over the possession of which the owner had been rash enough to exhibit some elation. The young lady, it seems, was several inches taller than her majesty, hardly perhaps quite a nice or loyal thing to be. Having desired that the dress should be made over to her custody, the queen, first carefully selecting an extremely wet day, was pleased to put it on and trail it for yards behind her in the mud, the owner of the humiliated garment having to appear as delighted with the royal fun and condescension as the rest of the lookers-on.—London Tatler.

And All With Company There.

"Now, children," said the mother as a whole roomful of company had come in, "suppose you run off and play by yourselves."

"All right, mother," replied Edith. "Can we go up and play Hamlet and Ophelia?"

"Certainly," smiled the mother, while her guests looked on at the tableau.

"Goody," replied Edith. Then, turning to her sister, she said, "Now, Maude, you run up to mamma's room and get all her false hair that you can find."—Ladies' Home Journal.

Love.

Properly there is only one verb for love. It is not "amo." It is not "aimer." It is not the softest Italian verb. No printed language of man knows it. But the violin knows it, and the wild bird knows it; even the sea knows it. The rose is it, and the moon is it, and the look of a man's eyes into a woman's is it, and the look of a woman's eyes back again is it. But no man or woman can say it in any language that endures.—"Love Letters of the King."

Wanted No Trimmings.

Little Ollie was much frightened at a thunder shower, and her father told her she shouldn't be, as the rain was good for the grass and her flowers.

Looking up through her tears, Ollie said, "W-well, why c-cant we have j-just plain r-rain?"—Exchange.

At His Best.

Blobbs—The doctor told Guzzler drinking was the very worst thing he could do. Slobbs—I guess that doctor didn't know Guzzler or he would have realized that drinking is the best thing he does.—Philadelphia Record.

Strong Proof.

"Sued for a breach of promise, eh?"

"Yep."

"Any defense?"

"Temporary insanity, and I expect to prove it by the love letters I wrote."—Washington Herald.

Utter Contempt.

"I s'pose you wouldn't marry me if I were the only man on earth?"

"I wouldn't even be engaged to you," responded the girl, "if you were the only man at a summer resort."—Kansas City Journal.

Nancy A. Herrick, being duly sworn, deposes and says: When I was a school girl I had a head of heavy, long, dark brown hair, that was so plentiful, rich and glossy, that it was the envy of many of my young schoolmates, and attracted the attention and remarks of strangers. After I was married and as I grew older, my hair commenced to come out just a little at first, but gradually as time passed it came out more and more, and began to turn gray. I was induced by many good reports heard of Sage and Sulphur, to try a bottle. My hair was quite gray and thin on top when I commenced using Sage and Sulphur, and you may imagine my satisfaction when I found that it was fast coming back to its natural condition, becoming thicker, darker, smoother and glossier than it had been for a long time. I continued the use of Sage and Sulphur and my hair is now in a splendid condition, as heavy and as dark and smooth as when I was a girl of sixteen. From my experience I believe it is one's own fault if they lose their hair, or let it get gray or harsh. It is now four years since I commenced using Sage and Sulphur, and still use it, and my hair still keeps thick, dark, smooth and glossy.

NARROW ESCAPE.

Fred Ramsey of Holbrook road had a narrow escape from death Wednesday, while screening gravel in a pit in Belleview Park. The bank caved in completely covering him and if Fred Bevis who happened to pass the pit a little after two o'clock had not heard groans and investigated, it might have proved fatal. He knew that Ramsey had been working there and was not long in coming to the conclusion that the bank had caved in and buried the man alive. Bevis, guided by the groans succeeded in uncovering Ramsey's head and face, then with the aid of three or four other men who were working nearby, shoveled him out and took him to his room in a wheelbarrow. Doctors Curtis and Record of Wollaston were called and after an examination ordered his removal to the City Hospital. As near as can be figured out, Mr. Ramsey must have been buried about an hour. No bones were broken but he was badly cut about the head and bruised about the body.

CLUB WOMEN AT BROCKTON.

The Massachusetts State Federation of Women's Club held its autumn meeting by invitation of the Brockton Woman's Club at Brockton on Thursday. The guests were greeted by Lena I. Hoyt, president of the hostess club, and Miss Georgie A. Lella I. Hoyt, president of the hostess club, and Miss Georgie A. Bacon, president of the Federation, responded on behalf of the Federation.

Three new clubs were presented for membership: Gardner Woman's Club, president, Mrs. Helen L. Lowell; Ladies Unity Club, president, Mrs. Annah F. Osgood; Springfield Thursday Club, president, Mrs. J. A. Bill.

The general subject for the day was "The City." Mr. Benjamin C. Marsh spoke on "Conditions of Congestion in American Cities," and Rev. John Hopkins Denison on "Significance of the Boston 1915 Movement."

From one-thiry until two o'clock Mr. Carl Lamson presided at the organ. A 'cello solo by Mr. Lawrence E. Shaw and a soprano solo, "The Holy City," by Mrs. Florence Ferrell followed.

The rest of the afternoon was given to an illustrated lecture by Dr. George Kriehn of New York upon "The City Beautiful; the Ideal and its Realization."

Quincy clubs were well represented. A fuller account of the meeting will be given in the Club Column in the Nov. 17th issue of the Ledger.

Paul Revere Woman's Relief Corps is to hold a memorial service Nov. 23 for President James A. Garfield.

Reynolds W. R. C. of Weymouth met Monday evening in Odd Fellow's hall, East Weymouth having as special guests the state officers.

At the meeting of John Adams commandery, No. 355, Thursday evening, in Greenleaf hall, the work was put on in a manner creditable and pleasing to members and candidates. The commandery was especially favored by the following visitors: Deputy Grand Commander and Staff from Boston, Grand Recorder Past Commander Fred H. Wilson of Boston, Past Commanders Pope, Thomas S. Delano, George W. Higgins and George W. Weeks of St. Johns Commandery of Brockton and J. F. Russell of Puritan commandery of New Bedford. All these were very pleasing and instructive in their remarks and congratulated John Adams Commandery on the progress being made in new members and degree work. The grand recorder's address was especially gratifying as it showed the order to be in a very flourishing condition especially in eastern Massachusetts.

Cornelius M. Duggan, H. S. C., was one of the speakers at the union meeting of St. Columbkille, St. Genevieve and P. A. Collins courts, M. C. O. F., at Allston, on Wednesday evening.

The newly elected officers of St. Stephens chapter, R. A. M., were installed Wednesday evening by Ex. Elihu T. Spear assisted by Ex. John Morgan as grand captain of the host.

The Sans Souci Dramatic club will present the New England drama "Down East" under the direction of Mrs. A. Isabelle Davis, next week for the benefit of Bay View L. O. L. lodge.

Grand Patriarch Kingsley and suite paid an official visit to Wampatuck encampment at Weymouth, on Wednesday evening. The patriarchial degree was worked.

T. H. Mumane, baseball editor of the Globe, gives a talk on the national game before the Dorchester Council Knights of Columbus, Nov. 22.

Monatiquot lodge, Knights of Phythias, received a visit from Delpha lodge of Weymouth and Hingham lodge of Hingham on Monday evening.

Cornelius M. Duggan, H. S. C., paid a visit to John Henry Newman court, M. C. O. F., of Everett, on Sunday and addressed a public meeting.

Gen. Sylvanus Thayer Post, G. A. R., and the Woman's Relief corps of Braintree are to unite in a grand fair and have appointed committees to arrange all the details.

Blue Hill lodge K. of P. of Randolph is to observe its third anniversary on Dec. 3.

Rt. Wor. Edward B. Pratt of the 25th Masonic district completed his visitations on Wednesday evening with Orphans Hope lodge at Weymouth, Leavitt W. Bates, worshipful master. As usual the lodge extended a hospitable greeting and performed excellent work.

The supper given by the George L. Gill Rebekah lodge Thursday night was one of the best ever held by that society ,there being over 150 present. The menu consisted of beans, cold meat, salads, pies, cakes, fruit and coffee. The supper was in charge of Noble Grand Mrs. Charles Barron. After the supper an entertainment was given under the direction of Miss Bernice Clarke. There was a piano solo by Miss Florence Flowers, vocal solo by Miss Eva Jones, reading by Master Herbert Fuge, vocal solo by Miss Lottie Barnicoat and a mandolin solo by Master Herbert Fuge.

BEAUTY SPOTS OF QUINCY

Rev. Dr. Hardy Replies to His Critic

Editor of the Ledger.

I am very glad to answer the query raised in Wednesday's issue concerning the "Beauty Spots" of Quincy, and especially regarding the birthplaces of the Presidents. My manuscript reads as follows: "Nearly every large city in this country, and multitudes of smaller ones, are being topographically re-planned and this is being done at an enormous expense. Now it seems to me that Quincy needs a definite topographical plan which shall include and utilize the Metropolitan Park system within the limits of the city and the State reservations that adjoin us. Quincy will be of necessity the great South Shore thoroughfare to Boston. It possesses wonderful possibilities because of its twenty odd miles of waterways, its wide plains and lofty hills. Quincy has the men amply qualified to topographically plan this city so that its beauty may be greatly enhanced. Something ought to be done to beautify a score of the smaller squares of the city. Squares like that at Brewer's Corner, Depot Square at West Quincy, the crossroads near the old Adams houses, Fort Square, and many other places at the Point, in Wollaston, the Downs and Atlantic."

The reference was to the square rather than to the buildings. I saw this summer a similar square which had been transformed. Against a wall was a narrow patch of beautiful flowers. A few flowering shrubs had been set out, the roadsides had been regraded and were well grassed over. At once attention was arrested by the attractiveness of the spot.

Fortunately, the square near the Adams houses, is one of the prettiest squares in the city now, and yet I wish more might be done to impress the stranger who passes with the historic significance of the place. Many of our cities with a comprehensive topographical plan in which every part is definitely articulated would seize upon such a square as furnishing exceptional possibilities for civic advancement and enrichment. As one of the curators of the Quincy Historical Society I rejoice in all that has been done, and am proud of it.

There are many evidences that Quincy is just awakening to municipal consciousness. Esprit de corps is being rapidly developed, and there is a positive increase of civic pride. All these things are prophetic of the better day just before us. And I know of few organizations in the city which have done more to hasten the coming of this better day than the Quincy Historical Society and the Adams Chapter of Daughters of the Revolution.

RUNAWAY ACCIDENT.

Dexter E. Wadsworth had a narrow escape from a serious injury Thursday afternoon when his horse took fright on Dimmock street and dashed the carriage against the railroad bridge. Mr. Wadsworth and a party of friends were riding along the street when a large automobile suddenly came upon them. The horse started with a jump and dashed the carriage against the bridge.

Mr. Wadsworth kept his control of the horse, but the carriage was quite badly smashed. His friends got a bad fright and their ride was postponed until some future date.

A Woman's Age? Forget It.

Man has no right to question woman's age—to even think about it. A woman, bless her, is as old as she makes out or makes up and not a day older. Man is out of his latitude when he begins trying to locate woman's age longitude. It is her privilege to conceal her age in any form or manner she may choose, and it is man's prerogative to assist her as much as possible rather than hinder or question her in any way. Man owes it to himself to see that she is supplied with every means of concealing her age or any new wrinkle which she chooses to keep from the gaze of the overcurious public. Man is not supposed to be young or beautiful. He couldn't be if he wanted to be and wouldn't be if he could. With woman it is different. She wants to be and can be and is, whether she wants to be or not, and it is a whole lot better for her and for her admirer or admirers, as the case may be, that her age be carefully guarded under that charming veil of mystery which should ever be hers by right of possession. Forget that she has an age, brother, and you will be happier, and so will she, but don't, for heaven's sake, forget that she has a birthday.—Boston Herald.

The Fighting Editor.

The fighting editor is no joke in Paris. There, if a paper calls a man a liar or a thief, the man takes it seriously, and, visiting the office, he demands a retraction or a fight. It is the fighting editor who receives him. The fighting editor sits in a Louis Seize study, smoking a cigarette and reading a new novel with a yellow cover. He is faultlessly dressed in deep black—the duelist's color. The ribbon of the Legion of Honor is in his buttonhole. His brilliant eyes and clear skin proclaim his perfect condition. His alert, supple carriage shows his military training. The fighting editor never writes a line, but is responsible personally for every word in the paper every day. On a plain, outspoken sheet like Le Matin, which keeps him pretty busy, his salary is very large—$40 a week or so. A conservative journal like Le Temps, having little use for a fighting editor, pays the man no more than $20.—Exchange.

Buttered Bread With His Thumb.

Cat's meat is the only survival of a way of serving meat that prevailed in this country before the introduction of forks, for it was the custom in mediaeval times to serve roast meat on a spit and to pass it around the table for each guest to cut off what he liked, a method that did not allow one person only to secure the carver's titbits. In France one still finds chicken livers and bacon served on small spits, and to the Britisher it always suggests at first sight the food of the domestic cat. It is probable that many people continued to prefer fingers to table utensils, even after these were perfected and in general use, for knives were certainly invented at the period when Charles XII. chose to butter his bread with his royal thumb.—London Chronicle.

A Wave of Water.

There is no necessary connection between the advance of a wave and the forward movement of the water composing it, as may be seen by running the fingers along the keys of a piano. An inverted wave travels along, but the keys merely move up and down. Similarly a wave may often be observed running along the ripe ears of golden grain, while the stalks are firmly rooted in the soil. The onward progress of a sea wave is easily perceptible, and by watching some light substance floating on the surface the fact is revealed that the water is not moving with the same velocity.—Chambers' Journal.

A Hint and a Hump.

A woman there was, and she wrote for the press, as you or I might do. She told how to cut and sew a dress and how to cook many a savory mess, but she never had done it herself, I guess, but none of her readers knew. She told how to comb and dress the hair and how out of a barrel to make a chair—'twould adorn any parlor and give it an air—we thought the tale was true. Oh, the days we spent and the nights we spent, with hammer and saw and tack, in making a chair in which no one would sit, in which no one could possibly sit, without a crick in the back.—Economical Housewife.

A Legal Query.

Tired of the long winded oratory of the attorney for the defense, the judge interrupted him.

"Mr. Sharke," he said, "may I ask you a question?"

"Certainly, your honor. What is it?"

"Language," said the judge, "we are told, is given to conceal thought or words to that effect. Inasmuch as you don't seem to have any thought to conceal, I would like to know why you are talking?"

Not Misfits.

Mrs. Crimsonbeak—It seems strange to me, if matches are made in heaven, that there should be so many unhappy marriages. Mr. Crimsonbeak—Oh, you forget it is the matches that are made there, not the misfits.—Yonkers Statesman.

"Yes, but, like de rest of us, he des couldn't stand prosperity." — Atlanta Constitution.

It's the easiest thing in the world to point out the proper course for others to pursue.

BODY RIDDLED WITH BULLETS

Five Hundred Shots Fired as Negro Is Strung Up

WOMEN FIRST TO PULL ROPE

Negro Who Made "Partial Confession" of Murdering a Woman Is Taken From Sheriff After a Long Chase—Ten Thousand People Witness the Corpse Being Dragged Through Streets and Publicly Burned

Cairo, Ills., Nov. 12.—Will James, the negro suspected of being the murderer of Miss Annie Pelley, was killed here last night by a mob. James was strung up to the public arch; the rope broke, and at least 500 shots were fired into his body.

He made a partial confession and implicated another negro, Arthur Alexander, for whom the mob is now searching.

James was lynched in the most prominent square of the city and was hanged to the arch at Eighth and Commercial streets. Women present were the first to pull the rope. When it broke the frenzy of the mob was uncontrollable and they fired volley after volley into James' body, shooting him to pieces.

The mob then dragged the corpse through the main streets for more than a mile, to Twenty-sixth and Elm streets, and burned it where the murder was committed. At least 10,000 people witnessed the lynching.

James was found with Sheriff Davis between Karnak, Ills., and Belknap by the Cairo crowd who went up yesterday afternoon. The mob overpowered the officers and took the negro from them, and after a talk it was decided to bring the prisoner back to this city and lynch him.

The mob which chased the sheriff and the negro was so large that it scoured the entire country from Karnak to Vienna, Ills., a distance of sixteen miles.

When found by the mob the negro was handcuffed between two officers, and all three were lying on the bank of a creek.

All three were so weak from hunger, exposure and the futile attempt to elude the mob that they were not able to make much resistance.

Sheriff Davis said that he deplored the lynching. He made every possible resistance in his power, but the crowd was so large that he could do absolutely nothing.

MRS. STEVENSON ACCUSED

Blamed For the Troubles of Her Husband and Stepson

San Francisco, Nov. 12.—Mrs. Lloyd Osbourne, who recently brought suit for maintenance against her husband, the novelist and stepson of Robert L. Stevenson, is now here and says in a long interview that when the trial comes up she proposes to lay bare the seven years' fight made against her by Mrs. Stevenson, who forced Osbourne to leave her, she says, because she had control of the Stevenson estate during her life.

Osbourne, she declares, never spoke unkind words to her and would have been a model husband but for his mother's arbitrary influence.

Incidentally Mrs. Osbourne says Mrs. Stevenson was directly responsible for Stevenson's break with Henley and many of the novelist's other troubles.

Bowling Alley Proprietor Must Pay $25 Damages to Negro

Worcester, Mass., Nov. 12.—George D. Brown, a negro resident of this city, was given a judgment of $25 by a jury in the superior court in his suit against Harry W. Searles, proprietor of a bowling alley, for alleged discrimination of color.

The suit was the (result of some trouble Brown and several other negroes had with Searles in his bowling alley. Brown testified that with his friends they went to the bowling alley and were told by Searles that they were not setting up pins for negroes.

THE MAN IN THE STAGE.

A Tragedy of the Olden Days In New York City.

A good many years ago, long before skyscrapers and rapid transit were thought of and New York was just a big growing town, they used to tell a story that was ghastly enough to curdle the blood of the most skeptical and to keep people of nervous temperament awake of nights.

The tale went that of a summer night a husband and wife, returning home from the theater, entered a Fifth avenue stage far downtown and for many blocks were the only occupants. A little above Fourteenth street, however, the stage came to an abrupt stop, the door was opened, and three young men entered. One of the three had evidently been drinking heavily, for his companions were obliged to help him to his seat. The door was closed behind them, and the stage continued its journey northward.

About ten blocks farther on one of the young men rose and, bidding his friends good night, stopped the stage and alighted. A few minutes later the second of the three said, "Well, good night, Dick," pulled the strap, stepped to the sidewalk and walked off through one of the side streets. There remained in the stage only the husband and wife and the young man who was obviously under the influence of liquor and who sat in a crouching attitude in a corner of the stage under the dim flickering lamp.

After a time the husband noticed that the young man's head seemed to be drooping as if in sleep, and, fearing that he might be borne beyond his destination, he rose, tapped him on the shoulder and called attention to the number of the street they had just passed. There was no response, and the husband repeated his words, leaning over as he did so. Then he suddenly straightened up, turned to his wife and said quickly, "We will get out here."

She began to protest, but he simply repeated the words, pulled the strap and helped her to alight. As they stood under the corner lamppost she turned questioningly and asked him why he insisted on their getting out of the bus so far below their destination.

"Because," he replied, "that young man's throat was cut from ear to ear."

HORSESHOE LUCK.

An Old Myth That Goes Back to the Greeks and Their Sea God.

Of all the emblems for good fortune the horseshoe stands among the first. Everybody knows it is unlucky to pass a horseshoe on the road without picking it up. It is a luck emblem of the greatest power. We are indebted for this statement to old tales centuries in age that have descended from father to son, from mother to daughter, through the years.

The old myths repay research. The luck of the horseshoe has a most respectable beginning. It is traced to the religion of the old Greeks and their sea god, Poseidon, who was identical with the Roman sea god Neptune.

To Poseidon horses were sacred, and to him they were sacrificed. Poseidon was believed to have created the first horse when he struck the ground with his trident and a horse sprang from the hole, which afterward became a spring. The sea god was the lord of springs. To him all springs were ascribed. In the shape of a horse he sometimes wandered by the shores of his ocean domain, and where he struck his hoofs deeply there the waters gushed out and permanent springs were found. This is the reason why horseshoes are reckoned lucky. Going to the root of the matter, one sees a nature myth as the root principle. From the sea all rain comes, and to the sea all springs owe primal origin, and to the rain and the fresh waters, sea derived, we owe all fertility on earth.

The old Greeks therefore worshiped Poseidon as the fortune giver through his springs. They gave him horses, his precious beasts, and they adored the footprints of horses when they found them, for they might be the very footprints of the god himself.

When the horses came to be shod the transition of the luck emblem from the footprint itself to the shoe mark, practically the same thing, was easy.

Pegasus, the winged horse, from whose hoofs the water springs gushed copiously when he came to earth, has been credited with the origin of the horseshoe luck.

The horseshoe was a specific against earthquakes. It would keep a house safe from harm by earth shaking. Again one perceives the sea myth—Poseidon was the shaker of the earth. —Team Owners' Gazette.

Obeying the Autocrat.

That fine old New Englander, Dr. Oliver Wendell Holmes, laid down the rule that the law of the road entitles a man to two looks at every pretty woman. This fair and proper limit provokes no complaint in Kansas City, and it is not commonly exceeded, though we would have to go far afield to find a locality with more women worth looking at than are seen on the streets of Kansas City every day.—Kansas City Times.

Had All the Others.

"Were you ever in love?" asked the sweet young thing.

"No," replied the bachelor, "but you can't mention any other fashionable disease that I haven't had."—Detroit Free Press.

The Timely Preparation of Useful Christmas Presents --- Bags Always Popular and Appreciated. Priscilla Bag---Silk Bedroom Slippers

The girl who has time for a little fancy work at home, either making things for herself or preparing for Christmas, should start work on the butterfly handkerchiefs.

They have been sold in the shops for some time, imported from Paris and costing quite a bit of money.

A girl can make them at home if she is clever with her needle. If she has been doing any of the butterfly applique in underwear which has been the fashion this season she will be expert enough to start on this other work.

The foundation is a sheer fine handkerchief with a tiny hemstitched edge. Either one or several butterflies are cut from sheer colored silk mull and applied to the linen.

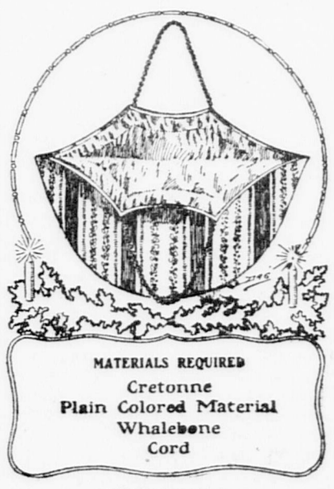

They can be all of one color or in different colors and embroidered at the edges and up the center to give the coloring of a real butterfly.

Some girls may prefer just one butterfly with widespread wings in a faint color, such as lavender, pink, yellow or blue.

If she makes a set for a Christmas gift it will be pretty to put a different colored one on each handkerchief.

Bags Popular Gifts.

Bags of all kinds are always well liked presents. They may be made flat or round and be for either useful or ornamental purposes, but in any guise they are most acceptable. Some of the bags this season are built on a foundation of covered cardboard, and the most beautiful of all are of pompadour ribbon gathered round a flat basket, which forms the bottom. More useful, but quite as attractive in its way, is the Priscilla bag seen in the cut. To make it cut a 12 by 14 inch circle of cretonne, fold the sides together and shape as illustrated. Line with some harmonizing plain material, making two little pockets on the inside for needles, thimble and scissors. The busy mother will be glad to receive this gift.

Artistic Shield Cover.

With lawn and remnants of valenciennes lace and insertion are easily made sets of shield covers, one to fit the medium sized shield and one the next smaller, which many women prefer with transparent frocks.

The covers are made in double bag form cut the shape of the shield, but a little larger, so that they can easily be slipped inside. The back of the shield is made of plain lawn, while the front is trimmed with rows of insertion and edged with lace. Sometimes the insertion outlines the shape of the shield; again it runs diagonally across it.

The covers are placed in a dainty tissue lined box before going on their way as Christmas presents, each one provided with the smallest white safety pin for easy adjustment.

A Comfortable Present.

Every year the bedroom slipper appears in a new form. This Christmas you will probably make a pair of these comfortable foot coverings for some

MRS. STETSON'S PIERCING EYES

Shone In Icy Blast Luminous With Faces of the Dead

"DEATH TREATMENT" STORY

Mrs. Babcock, After Having Given Last of Her Property to Head of Christian Science Church In New York, Went Through a Most Terrible Experience In Her Home at Midnight—Relief In Testament

Boston, Nov. 12.—That Mrs. Augusta E. Stetson, deposed leader of the First Church of Christ, Scientist, of New York, threw upon her the "death thought" in the form of an icy blast which was luminous with faces of the dead and through which she could see the eyes of Mrs. Stetson, was the formal accusation made before the trustees of the mother church in Boston last July by Mrs. Maude K. Babcock, former student and fellow practitioner of Mrs. Stetson.

This accusation is the most astounding revelation that has been made in connection with the controversy that resulted in Mrs. Stetson's deposition from the New York church following charges of improper practice.

She declared that the "death treatment" was given her by Mrs. Stetson after she had impoverished herself by gifts to the New York Christian Science church. She says the last $10,000 of her independent fortune she gave toward the organ in the New York church and that two years ago by reason of her gifts she was driven to secure employment in a New York department store. She went without food on one occasion for four days because Mrs. Stetson would give her no money.

Mrs. Babcock came to Boston at the request of Archibald McLellan and John V. Dittemore, trustees of the mother church, to whom she had related her story in New York. She repeated her accusations here and says that at the end of her recital two of the trustees of the mother church were weeping.

Mrs. Babcock declares that the "death treatment" was given her at midnight, Feb. 13, 1903. It came after she had given the last of her property to Mrs. Stetson, she declares. She had even given Mrs. Stetson the deed to her house.

"I went up to her and put my arms around her neck. 'I love you, Mrs. Stetson,' I said, 'I am the most faithful of your students and I urge you to give up the idea of leadership.' We went down the hall of her home with our arms around each other and I said good-by, leaving the deed to my home in her possession. That was the afternoon of Feb. 13, 1903.

"That night in Cedarhurst, L. I., at midnight, I got the death treatment."

Then follows Mrs. Babcock's description of the dreadful experience. She said:

"At midnight I was awakened by an icy blast sweeping through the windows. My teeth chattered. My heart fluttered. Luminous waves rolled toward me covered with the faces of the dead. I felt like a man being electrocuted. It seemed indeed that my soul went from my body; that I saw through the walls of the house. And in this hour of agony I saw Mrs. Stetson's blue eyes all around the room.

"Staggering to the bathroom, I drew a tub of steaming hot water and got into it, but I could not feel the temperature of the water. I was as cold in it as during the first moment when the icy blast of the death treatment enveloped me. I was wrestling, 'not against flesh and blood, but against principalities, against powers, against the rulers of the darkness of this world, against spiritual wickedness in high places.'

"As I sat there my husband staggered up the stairs and into my room.

"'My God,' he exclaimed, 'what has happened to me. Coming out on the train I felt as if I were going to die. I am suffocating.'

"The only thing that seemed to relieve me from the death agony through which I was passing was to read my Testament. I refrained from reading 'Science and Health' because Mrs. Stetson had told me during the afternoon that I was disloyal to Mrs. Eddy.

"When, some time afterward, I asked Mrs. Stetson why this dreadful thing had happened to me, she said: 'God smote you because you lifted your voice against the Holy One of Israel,' meaning Mrs. Eddy.

"I was attacked at night when I was supposed to be off guard and defenseless.

"Before a number of people in the Hotel Touraine, just prior to the June communion in 1903, Mrs. Stetson said: 'I had to knock Maudie's head off to make her see truth, and she might have passed out, but God triumphed and she is here with us today.'

"I received a second death treatment ten days after the first. I then told Mrs. Stetson that I would take back the deed to my house and sell it and give her the proceeds."

Mrs. Babcock declared that this plan was carried out.

MEDIUM IS HIDING

Mme. Paladino's Manager Is Afraid Newspapers Will Get Her

New York, Nov. 12.—Eusapia Paladino, the Italian medium who is supposed to be tarrying in New York that she may fill a contract to puzzle the guessers of the American Society for Scientific Research and other similar bodies, is among the missing.

Spirits have less to do with the eclipse of Signora Paladino than a taxicab and a manager named Carrington, who admits that he has given word to the medium to lie low lest the newspapers get her.

During three seances which Mme. Paladino on the steamer Princess Irene she transmitted what she said were messages from the dead, caused tables to rise in the air, and made mysterious white arms appear in the dark room and embrace one of the astonished passengers.

The performances, which would have been sufficiently uncanny on shore, seemed indescribably weird and mysterious on a ship rolling in the desolate open sea.

CORBETT IS FOUND

Fortune of $250,000 Awaiting Bricklayer Who Was Near Starvation

Pittsburg, Nov. 12.—James J. Corbett, a bricklayer out of work, and heir to a $250,000 estate in Boston, was found in an almost starving condition by Pinkerton detectives, who notified him of his good fortune. He will start for Boston immediately to claim the estate.

James Corbett was located at Morganza, where one of the charitable county homes is situated. Corbett, after searching diligently for work, at last had been forced to ask the city for assistance. He said last night that while he knew his brother was wealthy, they never had been on extremely friendly terms, and it was a great surprise to him that he should come in for the amount of money the lawyer's letter indicated he would receive.

CEASING OF CABLE COMMUNICATION

Causes Grave Fears as to the Situation In Jamaica

New York, Nov. 12.—Meagre dispatches received here indicate that either a hurricane or an earthquake has devastated the West Indian islands.

There is no doubt that some terrestrial disturbance of a grave nature has occurred, but the fact that the cable lines are not working hints at a seismic outbreak, and this is borne out by a dispatch from Havana telling of a report there of a submarine upheaval between Jamaica and Hayti and of an earthquake at Kingston.

No communication can be obtained between New York and the West Indian islands, with the exception of Cuba, Hayti and San Domingo.

This condition has existed since last Saturday, and in the meantime details of floods and torrential rains have been received, indicating a serious situation of affairs.

FOR WORTHY BOSTON GIRLS

Lillian Nordica Makes a Gift of $1500 Opera School Scholarship

Boston, Nov. 12.—Mme. Lillian Nordica announced last night that she had presented the Boston opera school a $1500 scholarship for Boston girls.

Mme. Nordica has been quoted many times as expressing much love for Boston, the city where she received her first musical training, and also for the girls of New England who are striving to make for themselves a place in the musical world.

It is thought that she had in mind her early struggles in obtaining a musical education when she presented this scholarship to be used for the benefit of worthy Boston girls.

THE PHILIPPINE TYPHOON

Populous Towns of Northern Leyte Are Reduced to Ruins

Washington, Nov. 12.—The destructive character of the recent typhoon which passed through Tacloban, in the Philippine islands, is indicated by a cablegram received at the war department from the governor general of the islands.

It laid waste the populous towns of northern Leyte, passed through Capiz and thence passed out over the China sea. The army post at Dagami also was destroyed.

West to Leave Capital Board

Washington, Nov. 12.—The resignation of Henry L. West, one of the commissioners of the District of Columbia, was received at the White House. West is one of former President Roosevelt's strongest admirers.

Locusts Damage Wheat Crop

Chicago, Nov. 12.—Fresh confirmation of damage to the Argentine crop of wheat by locusts created considerable excitement in the wheat pit here.

THANKSGIVING AMONG INDIANS

By AMOS CUTLER

Copyright, 1909, by American Press Association

It is generally supposed that Thanksgiving day originated among the pilgrims of New England, but as a matter of fact the Indians had celebrated their thanksgiving feasts and dances centuries before the white man came to impart to the red brother his rifles, firewater and a new religion and civilization. America seems to have been dedicated to the thanksgiving habit from a much earlier day than was supposed. Some of the Indian tribes celebrated the festival not only once a year, but twice and even oftener. When the crops were growing they were thankful. When the young corn was milky in the ear they were thankful again. Part of the tribes had a day for gratitude, also for invoking luck in the hunt when the rabbit season appeared. Others, such as the Poncas, held a dance and a feast at about the same time as our Thanksgiving, their idea apparently being to offer up to the Great Spirit acknowledgments for the completed harvest.

INVOKING LUCK IN THE HUNT.

The ceremonies were most elaborate and were not only filled with a true religious sentiment, but with a spirit of poetry. Thanks were offered for the crops which sustained the Indian's life, for the herbs and roots that cured him or warded off disease, for the game, for the birds that apparently had the favor of the Great Spirit in that they could do what man could not, for the fishes, who had the same power in water that the birds had in air, and for all the blessings that nature lavished on her children. The Indian, like all primitive people, had a form of nature worship, regarding himself as a part of the universal scheme, a child of the universal mother.

One peculiar feature of all the Indian's religious ceremonies—the dance—has never been understood by most white people. Originally it was a form of prayer, as inseparable from praise or petition as singing or making medicine. These dances were not the leisurely or elegant pastime of the paleface, but exercises into which the red men entered with all their souls and bodies, especially with their bodies. Into such a frenzy would they work themselves that they would fall out of the dance literally exhausted.

THE THANKSGIVING DANCE.

In these latter days since the Indian has been crowded off into ever narrowing reservations the Thanksgiving of the white man has been adopted perforce. On that day the allotment of beef has been made at many of the posts. Thus it has become the one day in the whole year when the red men could escape the hated plow and indulge to the full in the original feasting and dancing. Thanksgiving with most of the Indians is the supreme holiday. And why should it not be, since he is its real originator?

Thanksgiving In Moses' Time.

In some respects our Thanksgiving resembles the Jewish feast of tabernacles. That was a national institution appointed by the great Jewish lawgiver, Moses. It was also called "the feast of ingathering," held annually at the end of the harvest season. By dwelling during the feast in crude booths, or tabernacles, built of the branches of olive, palm or pine trees outside the walls of Jerusalem and within the streets, the Israelites were reminded of the struggles of their forefathers in the wilderness, unhoused, sometimes in despair, then filled with hope, ever pushing on in search of "the better country," where they might develop their national life. This feast recalled God's gracious guidance in past history and acknowledged present blessing in an abundant harvest. Its peculiar characteristic was the spirit of rejoicing, praise and thanksgiving.

Misplaced Sympathy.

You think of the turkey
Perhaps with a sigh.
"Poor fellow!" you ponder.
"So soon will he die!"
But think for a minute
Before he is dead
How many poor fellows
Will doubtless be wed.
And well ere the end of
The turkey begins
There's many a man who will
Doubtless have twins.
So waste not your pity,
For if he but knew
The turkey might be just as
Thankful as you.

Persian Cities.

Teheran, Persia's capital, is one of the least interesting cities of that ancient land. The houses are mean, the streets narrow and dirty, and even the palace of the shah is far from being a thing of beauty. It has no history worth mentioning and is only redeemed by the birth of Haroun-al-Raschid in a neighboring village. Its importance comes from the presence of the court, but it undergoes a sad decadence in summer, when the unhealthful climate drives the greater part of the population to more sanitary places.

Ispahan, the former capital of Persia, is far different. That city was once girdled by a wall of twenty-four miles, and Shah Abbas in the sixteenth century loaded it with magnificence. It contains splendid mosques and ancient palaces which appeal to the imagination. But Ispahan, too, has fallen upon evil days.

"Houses, bazaars, mosques, palaces, whole streets," writes a traveler of a few years ago, "are to be seen in total abandonment, and one may ride for miles without meeting with a single living creature except perhaps a solitary jackal looking over a mall or a fox running to his hole."

The Smithy Settled It.

One of the candidates at an English election was announced to address a meeting in a Yorkshire village well known to horse dealers and breeders as the center of a district noted for its hackneys and roadsters. The candidate was an eloquent speaker, but for some reason or other he failed to make any great impression on the horse loving farmers. However, the local blacksmith came to the rescue by summing up the respective merits of the rival candidates in the following laconic little speech:

"Friends, this feller"—the candidate—"rides a 'oss. T'other feller rides a mortycar. You breeds 'osses, an' I shoes 'em, so wot is theer to argy aboot?"

In such a district and before such an audience the brief, businesslike speech of the blacksmith was not without effect, for it touched the pockets as well as the hearts of those present.—London Mail.

Poison In the Middle Ages.

In the middle ages so little was known of toxicology that all sudden and mysterious deaths were attributed to poison, but in the light of modern knowledge many of these, says the British Medical Journal, are now easily explained by such diseases as appendicitis and gastric ulcer. Even the Borgias can be absolved from many of the poisonings laid to their charge. Nevertheless from early times in Italy poison was a favorite means of "removing" an enemy. In England, France and Germany cruder methods of vengeance prevailed, and it was not until the sixteenth century that the Medici introduced poisoning into France. The fashion spread with terrible rapidity, and poison was employed in every rank of society to get rid of inconvenient persons. The art introduced into France by Catherine de' Medici and her followers took root so deeply as to blossom later into the black magic of Louis XIV.'s reign.

Monuments to Wellington.

Has any British national hero more monuments to his fame in London than Wellington? There is the Achilles statue by Westmascott in Hyde park, cast from cannons taken at Salamanca, Vittoria, Toulouse and Waterloo, at a cost of £10,000, defrayed by "the women of England." The equestrian statue by Boehm at Hyde park corner is the second equestrian statue erected in that locality. The former one, by Wyatt, costing some £36,000, was removed to Aldershot when the arch which it crowned was moved. Then there is the colossal equestrian statue by Chantrey at the west front of the Royal Exchange, the monument by Bell in the Guildhall, the monument by Stevens in St. Paul's, which was over twenty years in hand, and a stone statue by Milnes, erected in the Tower of London near the Waterloo barracks.—London Chronicle.

Flower Gardens of the Sea.

The sea has its flower gardens, but the blooms are not on plants as they are on the land. It is the animals of the sea that make the gardens, the corals of the tropical waters particularly making a display of floral beauty that fairly rivals the gorgeous coloring and delicate grace presented by land flowers. So closely do they resemble plant blooms that it is hard to believe that they are wholly animal in organization. A naturalist says that among the coral gardens there are fishes of curious forms and flashing colors darting about, just as the birds and butterflies dart about plant gardens on land.

Not Much to Make Up.

"Fo' goodness' sake," impatiently exclaimed Mr. Coonley during the poker game, "speak up lively an' say what yo' am a-gwine to do, Mose! Why, it don't take me mo' den two seconds to make up mah mind."

"If it did," replied the player addressed, very deliberately, "you'd suttainly be loafin'!"—New York Sun.

Wrong Either Way.

Isabel—I'll never have another photograph taken. Dorothy—Why not, dear? Isabel—Oh, if it looks like me I don't like it, and if it flatters me my friends don't like it.—Exchange.

A Mean Critic.

"How realistic your painting is! It fairly makes my mouth water."

"A sunset makes your mouth water!"

"Oh, it is a sunset, is it? I thought it was a fried egg!"

Fire is not extinguished by fire.—Italian Proverb.

GRAY HAIRS BANISHED.

The old idea of using sage for darkening the hair is again coming in vogue. Our grandmothers used to have dark, glossy hair at the age of seventy-five, while our mothers have white hair before they are fifty. Our grandmothers used to make a "sage tea" and apply it to their hair. The tea made their hair soft and glossy and gradually restored the natural color. One objection to using such a preparation was the trouble of making it, especially as it had to be made every two or three days on account of it souring quickly. This objection has been overcome and by asking almost any first-class druggist for Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur the public can get a superior preparation of sage, with the admixture of sulphur, another valuable remedy for hair and scalp troubles. Daily use of th's preparation will not only quickly restore the color of the hair but will also stop the hair from falling out and make it grow. It is sold by all druggists for 50c. and $1.00 a bottle, or is sent direct by the Wyeth Chemical Company, 74 Cortlandt St., New York City, upon receipt of price.

First Mortgage Bonds.

By reason of the insistence of many investors that their bonds be of "first" mortgage it may be said that the importance of the word "first" is dependent upon the circumstances, says Moody's Magazine. A bond may be first in fact. It may be so only in a relative sense in that it indicates the order in which the bond was put out by the issuing company or the use of the term "first" in the name of a bond, undesirable and loose though it be in such instances, may be upon the slight ground that the mortgage is indeed first on some part of the property, while on other parts it may have but a third or fourth claim. It is therefore obvious that the mere presence of this term in a title does not necessarily make the bond an absolutely prior lien. It has been estimated that 95 per cent in number and 95 per cent in value of steam railroad "firsts" are first liens in name only.

BRIEFS

Harvard vs Dartmouth on Saturday.

Dr. N. S. Hunting and Dr. S. W. Ellsworth are away on a gunning trip.

The Firemen's Relief Association is favored with good weather for its annual ball.

F. C. Foy of Whitwell street has moved his store to Braintree, where he will continue in business.

The draughtsmen of the hull and engine rooms at the Fore River shipyard are arranging for their annual banquet at Colonial hall.

The annual meeting of the Massachusetts State Federation of churches will be held in Brookline on Tuesday, Nov. 23.

Mr. and Mrs. Joseph DeYoung of North Weymouth observed their silver wedding anniversary on Wednesday.

A memorial meeting in honor of the late Henry B. Blackwell is to be held Saturday afternoon at half past two at the Park Street church Boston.

The Racin club is planning an entertainment to take place in January. There is quite a bit of talent displayed by these young men and Atlantic people have something to look forward to.

Mrs. Rhines of Miller Stile road is opening her house tomorrow afternoon and evening for the benefit of Reapers circle of Christ church, and church people and friends are interested in making the affair a success.

Mr. and Mrs. John Collins observed their fifth wedding anniversary on Tuesday evening. Whist, music and dancing were enjoyed. Several of the guests clubbed together and presented a mission stand and jardiniere for a fern. Refreshments were served.

The craze for amateur photographs, says the Boston Record, leads to strange incidents. A Quincy girl, an amateur photographer, sent to a snake catcher, who has been making some good finds in the Blue Hills district, and had him bring some creeping "beauties" to her for posing purposes.

C. W. Guy, the well known furniture man, is a great lover of flowers, and all of the spare time he can get from his business he spends in his garden on Butler road. He is particularly fond of roses and has many varieties. Thursday on his return from his Boston store he visited his garden and plucked quite a bunch of handsome red roses. It is somewhat remarkable why the frost did not kill them.

The handsome trophy awarded by the Brockton fair to William J. Hackett of the Fore River apprentices, for winning the Marathon race is on exhibition in the windows of Sandberg Bros. jewelry store. The trophy stands two feet high, and is a very handsome affair. In addition to this there are a number of cups which have been won by the Fore River apprentices during the past season.

—It is a simple diet for stout men on which Dr. C. E. Barker, the President's trainer, desires to keep Mr. Taft. As epitomized it runs:—A chop or a piece of beefsteak, gluten crackers, and a cup of coffee for breakfast. Only fruit for luncheon, and soup, meat, green vegetables ,and a light dessert—custard, for instance, without much sugar—for dinner.

ENGLISH SCHOOLS.

Quaint Customs That Are Maintained With Religious Care.

The head master of Manchester Grammar school, in a speech at Rochdale, referred to a custom at Rugby school which forbids a boy of less than three years' standing to turn up his trousers and insists on his doing so after that period.

The custom is only a minor instance of the quaint practices that exist at all the great public schools in England and are maintained with religious care, though in many cases their origin is obscure or unknown. The Shrove Tuesday tossing of the pancake at Westminster school, with its ensuing scramble for the largest fragment, which gains for its possessor a guinea from the dean, is perhaps the best known among them. A curious custom at Marlborough requires every boy to bring to school with him a cushion, technically termed a "kish"—with the "i" long. This article is his inseparable companion in school time and, in addition to the ordinary functions of a cushion, is employed to carry books from one form room to another.

At Shrewsbury school, at the beginning of each term, "hall elections" are held for the posts of hall crier, hall constable, hall postman and hall scavengers. The genial brutality of youth often selects for the position of hall crier either the most nervous boy in the school or one who is afflicted with a stammer.

The new boy in the schoolhouse at Rugby is early called upon to take his part in "house singing." At this function, which is held in one of the dormitories, he has to render a song to the satisfaction of his audience, the penalty being the swallowing of a mouthful of soapy water.

Another ancient school custom is the parade of the Christ's hospital bluecoat boys before the lord mayor at the Mansion House on St. Matthew's day, when the "Grecians," who correspond to "sixth formers" elsewhere, receive a guinea each and the rank and file of the school are presented with new shillings.—London Mail.

BURGLARS' TOOLS.

Most of Them Made by Supposedly Respectable Mechanics.

Every little while, said a detective recently, the police arrest a man with a set of burglar's tools in his possession, and one naturally wonders where they all come from.

It is easy to buy a gun of any description, and the most reputable person would not be ashamed to be seen purchasing the most wicked looking knife ever made. But who would know where to get a "jimmy" or a device for drilling into a safe or any of the many tools used by the professional burglar in the pursuit of his calling?

There are places in the large cities where these things are made and sold to the users, but such places are exceedingly scarce. It may seem a little strange to learn that most of the tools used in burglaries are made by mechanics who are looked upon as respectable men in the community.

When a burglar wants any particular tool made he goes to a mechanic who can do the job and pays him perhaps five times what it is actually worth for making the tool and keeping quiet about it. Many detectives can recall cases of this kind that have come to light.

One in particular occurred some years ago when an escaped convict named Williams went to a blacksmith and got him to make a lot of drills to be used in safe cracking. He personally superintended the tempering of the steel, but when the job was nearly completed it leaked out, and Williams was arrested. In this instance the blacksmith knew nothing of the use to which the tools were to be put. Most of the tools used by burglars are secured in the same way.—Philadelphia Inquirer.

Shoemaker's Candles.

I well remember some seventy years ago seeing flat candles in use. To produce what was known as the flat candle, which was also sometimes called "shoemaker's candle," two newly made "dips" were pressed close to each other while soft and then again lowered into the hot fat, thus holding them together as one candle with two wicks. The size could then be increased if desired. This flat candle was most generally used by shoemakers and tailors, but was made use of in some households whenever an extra bright light for working or reading was required.—Cor. Dickensian.

Too Much Like Work.

"Haven't you a home?" asked the sympathetic citizen.

"Yep," answered Plodding Pete. "I had a nice home, but de first t'ing I knew it had a wood pile and a garden and a pump, and den it got so much like a steady job dat I resigned."—Washington Star.

Impossible.

"How do you overcome insomnia?"

"Say the multiplication table up to twelve times twelve."

"But I can't get the baby to learn it."—Cleveland Leader.

Not Slept In.

"Porter, this berth has been slept in!"

"No, sah! I assure you, sah! Merely occupied. It's the one over the wheels, sah."—Puck.

Taking Him Down.

Brown (very proud of his firstborn)—Ah, even now my wife says he is just like me in many of his little ways! Smith (gravely)—I hope she corrects him for it.

NEW VOTERS REGISTERED

Several Were Registered at Meeting Last Evening

The Registrars of Voters met at City Hall Thursday evening to add names to the voting lists. It was the last opportunity to get registered before the caucuses, and there was quite a rush, 42 names being added. The number from each precinct was as follows: Ward One, precinct one, 2; precinct 2, 8. Ward Two, precinct one, 1; precinct two, 3. Ward Three, precinct one, 9; precinct two, 4. Ward Four, precinct one, 3; precinct two, 1. Ward Five, precinct one, 5; precinct two, 5. Ward Six, precinct two, 1. Among those to get registered was Rabbi Julius Sandaloirtz, who was piloted to the registration room by Councilman Flynn.

HOUGHS NECK WANTS.

Division Superintendent Gammons of the Old Colony street railway, appeared before the Houghs Neck Associates at their meeting this week to learn the grievances relative to car service. He found nearly everybody had a chip on his shoulder, but promised to do what he could and will take up the subject with the directors. The plans for the new schoolhouse the improvement of Sea street, a local sewerage system, a weather signal station, fire and police protection, and other public affairs were discussed.

CURRENT EVENTS CLASS.

The class in current events under the auspices of the Art and Literature committee of the Quincy Women's club, Mrs. May Alden Ward, lecturer, started most auspiciously Thursday afternoon at the clubhouse over a hundred being present. Mrs. Ward spoke of politics and government of cities in this and foreign countries and was most interesting.

Club members and guests were much pleased with Mrs. Ward and it looks as though the class would increase its members each meeting. There will be five more meetings on the second Thursdays of each month until May and it is not too late to join the class.

MILTON.

A wedding which interested many on Wednesday was that of Miss Mary E. Morrissey of this town and Edward J. McCoffrey of Providence at St. Gregorys church. The groom is a business man in Providence, and the bride has been a teacher in Milton, her native town. Alderman Joseph Gaynor of Providence was best man and Miss Alice V. Morrissey the maid of honor. A reception was held at the residence of the bride's mother, Mrs. James Morrissey of Russell street. Mr. and Mrs. McCoffrey will live in Providence.

TODAY'S COURT.

Rudolph M. Ulrich was fined $20, Perry H Keeney $10 and Ray J. Carger $5 on account of costs for exceeding the automobile speed limit at Milton.

WANTS AN ACCOUNTING

Mrs. Betts Files Bill Against J. H. Dinegan

Mrs. Annie H. Betts, wife of Frederick E. Betts, filed a bill in equity in the Norfolk Superior court at Dedham on Thursday, against John H. Dinegan of Quincy, for an accounting of $17,400.

Mrs. Betts says that about Oct. 29, 1901, the complainant had on deposite in a back in Quincy $17,400; that about that time certain legal proceedings were threatened against her husband, which, the complainant was informed by the respondent would jeopardize her own property and interests, and more particularly the $17,400 on deposit.

The complaint states that, acting on the advice of counsel of respondent, the complainant withdrew from the bank said amount and paid the same in cash to the respondent as depository to be used in the legitimate defence of her husband, the said Frederick E. Betts, the balance to be accounted for; that about Jan. 6, 1906, the criminal proceedings against Betts were terminated and said respondent was thereby relieved of all liability as bail and surety; that the complainant has received from the respondent certain instalment payments from time to time, the last having been made December, 1903, but the total amount is not known. Powers & Hall are counsel for the complainant.

TWO INQUESTS.

Inquests were held by Judge Avery this morning on the deaths of Augustino Bova, the little child that was killed on Water street by being run over by an ice wagon ,and on the death of Luigi Paradoni who was killed by being struck by a rock in the quarries.

Played It to the Limit.

Many writers have declared that an Irish gentleman's hospitality is unlimited, but this is a slight exaggeration, as is shown by a story borrowed from a book of Irish memories.

Jerry McCartie was often the guest of friends who on account of his pleasant ways extended to him that sort of old Irish hospitality which enabled a visitor in my own family who came for a fortnight to stay for six years.

In McCartie's case the visit stretched to nearly double that time. After eight or nine years, however, his kinsman got a little tired of his guest and let him know of his old mansion's proposed renovation and that he had signed a contract for having it painted from garret to cellar.

"By George," said Jerry, "it's fortunate that I don't object to the smell of paint, and it will be well to have some one to keep an eye on the painters now that the wall fruit is ripening."

Some months passed. Then his host informed him that he was going to be married, adding, "I thought I'd tell you in good time, so that you could make leisurely preparations to go, as the lady and you may not hit it off as well as you and I do."

With tearful eyes Jerry grasped his cousin's hand, saying:

"Oh, Dan, dear, you have my hearty thanks for your consideration; but, dear, dear boy, surely if you can put up with her I can."

Woodchopping as a Sport.

In Tasmania is to be found a national pastime that is special and particular to that state alone—the sport of woodchopping. It says much for the grit and vigor of Tasmanians that this really serious and arduous work should be regarded as the finest sport. At Hobart and Launceston they have their turf meetings, their cricket, football, golf, cycling, and so forth, but to a woodchopping contest people will flock from far and near—men, women and children—and watch the ax wielders hewing away at huge blocks of timber as if life and reputation depended upon the issue. Thud, thud, thud, go the axes, and the splinters fly in all directions, the judges calmly sitting near, taking notes of the strokes, the spectators cheering the competitors from time to time as frantically as if they were race horses. To be a woodchopping champion means something to a man in Tasmania.—Dundee Advertiser.

Look Prosperous or Pay In Advance.

"While there is a good deal of the American spirit prevailing in Sydney and Melbourne, they do things there in a peculiar way," said a traveling man. "It is hard to get used to them.

"They have excellent restaurants there, but they run on a peculiar plan. A man goes in and sits down at a table, and a waiter, generally a woman, hands him the bill of fare. He makes out his order on a slip, and before he is waited on the waiter goes to the cashier and has a little private talk with him. The cashier looks over at the customer, and if he appears to be good for the bill he is served; otherwise he is asked to pay in advance. The meals are good and cheap. The same careful scrutiny is made when a fellow registers at a hotel. Good looks will go further than any amount of baggage."—Omaha Bee.

Clear Waste.

"He has a quick temper, you know," was the excuse given by a friend for a boy's rude act.

"Is he quick at his lessons?" was the question.

"No," was the reply.

"Is he quick at sports?" the questioner went on.

Again the answer was "No."

"Is he quick in obedience?"

"No."

"Well," said the questioner, with a twinkle in his eye, "if he has so little quickness he'd better use it where it will do him some good. It's clear waste to put it on his temper."

The Town of Bushire.

Residents of a miserable seaport on the Persian gulf called their town Bushire (Boosheer). It has narrow, dirty, ill paved streets. The city is visited by earthquakes and simooms and stints its children of wholesome air and fresh water. It appears, however, to have enjoyed high repute among the ancient Elamites, who have left buried about under moldering heaps bricks with cuneiform inscriptions. In summer the citizens of Bushire live in a heat that is almost unbearable.

Her Sorrow.

"P-papa," sobbed small Sadie, "m-my canary is d-dead!"

"Never mind, dear," replied her father; "I'll buy you another one."

"Oh, I'm calm now," rejoined Sadie, "but when I first saw the poor little thing I cried like a child."—Exchange.

After the Race.

"So your horse was distanced, was he?"

"Yes."

"Did you have anything on him?"

"I thought I had a jockey on him, but it seems I didn't."

GRAND BALL OF FIREMEN

Many Former Chiefs and Engineers Present

The eighteenth annual concert and ball of the Quincy Firemen's Relief Association last evening was a success in every way. Nothing was wanting. The attendance was large and the music fine. The hall looked very attractive with its mass of bunting of the national colors, while on the platform was a mass of potted plants and ferns, dotted here and there with massive chrysanthemums. At the right of the platform was a large fire alarm gong connected with the fire alarm circuit, which would have summoned the firemen had their services been needed.

CHIEF WILLIAMS.

The affair was graced by several former chief engineers, among whom were John Whitney Hall, Walter H. Ripley, A. L. Litchfield and Frank C. Packard; also ex-Engineers James H. Elcock under the town government and Benjamin King, the veteran o fthe Boston department. The city government was represented by Councilman Cherrington and Flaherty of the Committee on Fire Department, Chief of Police Frank E. Burrell, and Tax Collector Timothy J. Carey. There were also representatives from all the departments in the immediate neighborhood, and James H, Gould of the Firemen's Standard.

EX-CHIEF LITCHFIELD.

Wilson's orchestra furnished the music and from 8 until 9 o'clock gave a pleasing concert, the selections including:

March, "Carnival Maid"	Schulz
Overture, "Raymond"	Thomas
Concert Waltz, "Vienna Woods"	Strauss
Selection, "Gay Hussars"	Kalman
Zylophone Solo, "Anima"	Linke
Gerald A. Sullivan
Finale, "The American Eagle"	Schroder

6 point Concert program here

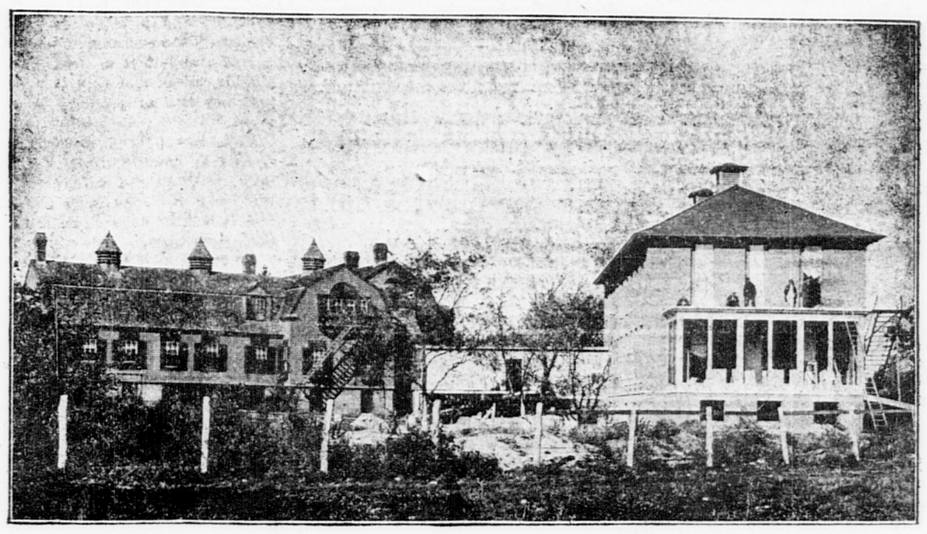

At 9 o'clock the order was given to form for the grand march, which was to open the ball, and a few minutes later seventy-five couples were on the move. The march was under the direction of Leo J. McMaster, and was executed without a hitch and with a precision that would have done credit to a military organization.

As the marchers circled the hall they were handed the dance programs by two young misses prettily gowned in white, Miss Mildred Hanson and Miss Mary Scanlon. The alignment

QUINCY'S GREATEST CHARITY.

Annual Hospital Collection to be Taken Next Week--Needs of the Institution and What It Accomplishes

Beginning tomorrow, and continuing until Nov. 21 the annual hospital collection week will be observed. To those who have lived in Quincy for any length of time there is no necessity of explaining "Hospital Week." To others it may be said briefly, that every year in November a house-to-house collection is made for the purpose of gathering together by public subscriptions sufficient funds to pay the current expenses of our City Hospital. The average running expense of the hospital is about $16,000 a year, which is generally met by receipts of about $5,000 from patients; $4,000 from the city, and $3,500 from the endowment fund, leaving from $3,000 to $4,000 to be contributed by the citizens of Quincy.

That the hospital is a public necessity in Quincy no one doubts. During the past 19 years its worth has been daily demonstrated and in the course of a few weeks, with the addition of a new ward it will be in a better condition than ever before to serve the people of Quincy. There is no telling who the hospital will benefit next. There is no man, woman or child immune from accident or disease, and when such afflictons come, as come they are sure to, then the value of a hospital is appreciated. Sickness, disease or accident make no distinction in their visits, and if there is one place in the city depending, in part, on the public for maintenance, that makes absolutely no distinction of class, creed or circumstances, that place in the City Hospital of Quincy.

Those interested in the work realize that the people of Quincy have had their generosity well tested during the past few weeks, but are confident that the city's greatest charity—the City Hospital—will not suffer on that account. The hospital should be a matter of personal pride to every resident of the city, because there is no telling whom it will benefit next or when. The uncertainty of life and the absolute certainty of sickness and disease that come into everyone's life, no matter how carefully one may try to avoid it, makes it all the more necessary that the city be equipped to meet those dangers when they confront us. Therefore, the citizens of Quincy are asked to be as generous as they can to the collectors who will go around during the next week. Each collector will be supplied with an identification blank, properly signed, and also with envelopes in which those disposed may place their gifts. The envelopes will be distributed the first part of the week and will be collected later in the week. Please have your envelope ready when the collector calls the second time.

During last year 353 patients were admitted, 188 males and 165 females. Those who payed numbered 181; there were 11 part paying cases, and 161 patients were treated free. Of the patients treated 83 were medical cases and 270 surgical cases. The average cost of a patient a day was $2.12, the average number of patients a day was 17, and the average time in the hospital, per patient, was 16 days.

During the past year the hospital lost one of its best friends in the death of the Hon. William B. Rice, who made the hospital possible, and who never lost interest in the grand work of sustaining the institution. One of the last acts of his life was to make possible the new ward which is now rapidly approaching completion and, even after his death, he made provisions for carrying on a similar line of work by bequeathing a large amount of money for the erection of a home or hospital as seemed best.

In connection with the City Hospital is an organization of women concerning which the public at large hears very little but which is doing lots of good work in a quiet, systematic way. This is the Hospital Aid Association. An article on this association was prepared for the little paper called "Our Hospital," issued today, but as the forms were locked up and filled to overflowing when the article was ready, it was regretfully crowded out. In order that the members of the association may know that their work is appreciated, the article as written for "Our Hospital is herewith quoted:

"One of the organizations of Quincy which is doing an immense amount of good for suffering humanity, but is doing it quietly and unostentatiously, is that of the Hospital Aid Association. During the year 1908 the association held eight regular meetings, and in November a stocking social was held. Throughout the year the members of this association have worked hard and have given unstintingly of their time to the cause of the hospital. If anybody in the city has anything that could be of use to the hospital in the way of money, linen, preserves or bandages, any member of the association would be glad to receive them. The officers of the association are as follows: President—Miss Charlotte Burgess; first vice president—Miss Gertrude Sampson; second vice president—Mrs. David Jewell; secretary—Mrs. Walter Sargent; treasurer—Mrs Charles A. Howland.

RULING THEME IS PERSONALITY

Inauguration of Shanklin as President of Wesleyan

NOTED MEN IN ATTENDANCE

President Taft Congratulates University on Selection of Educator, Rather Than a Business Man, as Its Head, and Points Out Duty of College Men Toward the Nation—Senator Pays Tribute to New President

Middletown, Conn., Nov. 13.—President Taft sat in a chair which once belonged to President George Washington on the stage of the Middlesex theatre at the installation of Wesleyan's new president, Dr. William Arnold Shanklin. The chair came from Washington's New York headquarters and is the property of the Middlesex Historical society.

The ruling theme of the day was that of personality. The union of the educational force of east and west was celebrated, but far more were the achievements of Wesleyan in building character and turning out men extolled by the various speakers, and a brilliant future was bespoken for the institution under the new regime.

It is doubtful if any college president's inauguration was ever attended by both the president and vice president of the United States. But President Taft and Vice President Sherman sat together on the stage, and with them were Senator Root, United States Commissioner of Education Brown, Arnold Shanklin, consul general to Panama, and many others. The gathering of delegates from all the other colleges and universities was a tribute of which Wesleyan may well feel proud.

While the installation exercises were taking place Middletown was celebrating the event of President Taft, the first president of the United States to visit her since Andrew Jackson came, with a civic and military parade of great length and brilliancy, and last evening there was an illumination and automobile parade which did the city proud while President Shanklin was receiving the many guests at his home on High street.

The exercises attendant upon the installation filled the Middlesex theatre to overflowing and occupied several hours. The program included an invocation by Bishop Burt of the Methodist church and the induction by Henry C. M. Ingraham, LL. D., of New York, president of the board of trustees. President Shanklin responded briefly to this and Professor Rice, who has been acting president during the interim between the resignation of President Raymond and the coming of President Shanklin, welcomed the new president on behalf of the faculty.

The bestowal of degrees of doctor of laws on President Taft and Elihu Root were features of the ceremonies.

A plea for the college man to take his part in shaping the affairs of the nation and an argument against placing money getters at the head of educational institutions were the main points of President Taft's address.

"I do not know how great an influence the college men have in this nation, but I do know that they must take part in nation's affairs if they want to se their land go forward and upward," said the president. He congratulated the university "that it did not listen to the cry that it must get a president who was full of business and would go out and raise money in any quantity, making education a second thought.

"A business man is not expected to be a college president, neither should an educator expect to be a success as a business man. He was raised at a pedagogue and should remain one."

Senator Root in his address confined himself almost wholly to an appreciation and tribute to Dr. Shanklin. He declared the world was filled with many men today who when they have won fortune know nothing to do but to go on and increase that fortune.

"You of Wesleyan, however," he added, "educate men to a broader view of life, to literary and scientific ambitions. The pendulum has already swung too far in the way of instructing men to do one thing for themselves, instead of educating them to do great things for the world by being great men."

Taft at Dedication of Arsenal

Hartford, Nov. 13.—President Taft added a New England end to his long western and southern trip by a visit to Hartford, participating in this city yesterday in the dedication of the magnificent new state arsenal and armory, where he climbed on a table to speak. The president left at 10:30 p. m. for Washington, where he will arrive this afternoon. He went direct to his train from a state ball in the armory.

Made Boy Eat From Dog's Dish

Poughkeepsie, N. Y., Nov. 13.—James Kelley and his wife, Mary, of Pine Plains, were indicted here on a charge that the Kelleys beat 6-year-old Charles Williams, a boy "farmed" out to them; that they starved the child and made him eat from the dog's dish outside the kitchen door.

SUGAR WEIGHING FRAUDS

Former High Official of American Refinery Company Is Arrested

New York, Nov. 13.—After many months of quiet work behind the scenes by the government investigators who have been scrutinizing the ins and outs of the complicated sugar import frauds, there suddenly came the indictment and arrest of an important former officer of the American Sugar Refining company.

He is charged with conspiracy to defraud the government by false weighing of sugar, and he is James F. Bendernagle, for more than thirty years superintendent of the refinery in Williamsburg, the largest plant of the American Sugar Refining company.

Bendernagel's resignation from this responsible position was announced by the company only Thursday. He was arrested at his home in Brooklyn, where he was awaiting news from the grand jury, which he evidently expected.

When arraigned before Commissioner Benedict and asked to give $5000 bail for his appearance at an examination set for next Monday, he produced a roll of bills from a waistcoat pocket and counted out the required amount in cash.

GUILTY OF KILLING GIRL

Young Cambridge Man Will Be Sentenced to Prison For Life

Cambridge, Mass., Nov. 13.—John W. Brown of Cambridge celebrated his 21st birthday by pleading guilty to murder in the second degree before Judge Morton. The penalty is imprisonment for life. He will be sentenced Wednesday.

Brown shot and killed Miss Laura Bland, 16 years of age, and wounded Mrs. Emma Caraglia, her sister, 28 years old, when they refused to admit him to the Bland home at Newton. Brown was in love with Josephine Bland, a sister of Laura, the murdered girl.

He had been engaged to Josephine, but failed to appear at the Bland home on the day set for the wedding. When he did appear on Feb. 19 the sisters of the girl refused to admit him, as they had always oposed his suit. He broke into the house and shot Laura dead. Then he fired at Mrs. Caraglia. He missed her. Josephine hid in a closet and escaped. Brown then fired a shot into his breast, inflicting a slight wound.

SAYS THE PEOPLE WILL RISE SOME DAY

Comment of La Follette on Elections of Last Week

Madison, Wis., Nov. 13.—"There will come a day when the people will rise in righteous revolt against these enemies of the nation and drive them from the high places they have taken by stealth and treachery."

This is the statement made by Senator La Follette in his weekly magazine in commenting upon the defeat by the money interests of Tom L. Johnson of Cleveland and of Francis J. Heney of San Francisco in last week's elections. He says such results are "no discouragement."

He rejoices over Massachusetts' protest against the tariff law by cutting the Republican plurality from 112,000 in 1907 to 9000 this year. He says the election returns show "that the rank and file of the Republican party in Massachusetts are in open rebellion against the manner in which party pledges were repudiated by the Aldrich-Cannon machine in congress."

WITH BABE IN HER ARMS

Mother Deliberately Kills Herself and Little One With Gas

Burlington, Vt., Nov. 13.—When Mrs. Frank Brodeur tired of this world she carried with her into eternity her 4-months-old baby. Mrs. Brodeur turned on a gas cock, closed doors and windows in the kitchen of her home, and then seated herself in a chair in the middle of the room with the little baby in her arms.

In this posture she was found by her husband, Frank Brodeur, a motorman, when he returned home from work last night.

Mrs. Astor In New York

New York, Nov. 13.—Eluding reporters and photographers, Mrs. John Jacob Astor, who obtained a divorce on Monday last from her husband, arrived in New York. She was in French Lick Springs, Ind., when the divorce was granted.

Defaulter Goes to Prison

New Orleans, Nov. 13.—Wyatt H. Ingram, defaulting trust officer of the Hibernia Bank and Trust company, was sentenced to twelve years in the penitentiary. Ingram's shortage amounted to about $100,000.

Car Kills Buck Deer

Palmer, Mass., Nov. 13.—A Worcester trolley car ran down a herd of four deer just before reaching Palmer. A large buck, evidently blinded by the electric headlight, stood its ground, and was struck and killed.

Milk Train Kills Three Men

Port Jervis, N. Y., Nov. 13.—A milk train on the Erie railroad ran down a gang of track laborers during a fog. Three were killed and the fourth badly hurt.

WHOLE TOWNS WIPED OUT

Death, Wreck and Ruin Everywhere Visible In Island of Hayti

Boston, Nov. 13.—A special dispatch from Port au Prince, Hayti, to The Post says:

While this whole island has been rocking with earthquake tremors for four days, it has been swept by a cyclone of unparalleled violence and deluged with such a flood from the heavens that its whole little world is a quaking bog.

The face of the land is distorted with chasms and upheavals and whole farms have slipped and slid about like coins in a wet platter.

Port de Paix, torn and demolished by wind and flood, lies in ruins with nineteen dead already found in its wreckage.

Gonaives is razed, its houses blown flat and its terror-dumb inhabitants roused again only by new horrors when a great earth upheaval shook the ground and the bed of the sea and sent a billow of destruction across the land.

Many lie dead in Cape Haytian, drowned by this same sea flood which curled up the customs house there like a leaf and left it a scattered ruin. Death, wreck and ruin is exerywhere and the loss of property is incalculable.

Rain has poured steadily, accompanied by terrific thunder and lightning, interspersed with quiverings of the earth for four days continuously and it is four days since the sun has been seen here.

All communications with the interior of the island have been destroyed.

CAN'T FUSS OVER FOOD

Why a St. Louis Miss Became Wife of "Human Ostrich"

St. Louis, Nov. 13.—Mrs. Terrence O'Grady, who until yesterday was Miss Gertrude Arnoldy, and is now the wife of the "human ostrich," said that she had fallen in love with O'Grady when she saw him eating tacks at one of his exhibitions.

"I thought I would like to cook for a man like that," she said. "He can't fuss at what I prepare for the table."

The couple were married by Justice Martin Moore. Mrs. O'Grady says her husband has promised to teach her the art of eating tacks and glass.

SAYS CONFESSION WAS A PURE LIE

Delorey Now Denies That He Ever Saw Annie Mullins

Cambridge, Mass., Nov. 13.—"The confession that I made to the police was a pure lie. It was all a lie. I never saw Annie Mullins. Mantir and I were never in Squires field together. I slept at home all night on the night Annie Mullins was murdered and worked for Mr. Harding the next day."

That in brief was the story told on the witness stand by Peter C. Delorey who, with James Mantir, is charged with the murder of Annie Mullins. The courtroom was jammed as he made his sensational denial. He had followed Mantir on the stand, the two accused youths being the first witnesses called by the defense. Mantir had, under five hours of grilling cross examination, stuck to his story that he was at Billerica the night of the crime.

ERROR IN COMPASS

Neglect of Master Also Contributed to Great Marine Disaster

Montreal, Nov. 13.—A court of wreck commissioners here has just completed an inquiry into the cause of the wreck of the steamship Hestia on Old Proprietor Ledge, Oct. 15, in which thirty-five seamen were drowned. The commissioners found that the wreck was due to the following:

"An error in the compass, aided probably by the fact that the vessel carried a cargo of 800 tons of iron.

"Neglect of the master to take soundings when in sight of Gannet Rock.

"Insufficient allowance for tides and the set of the wind; error of judgment on the part of the master in allowing his ship to get the bearing of the Gannet Rock light."

IMMIGRANTS QUARANTINED

More Than Two Hundred to Be Held Eight Days For Observation

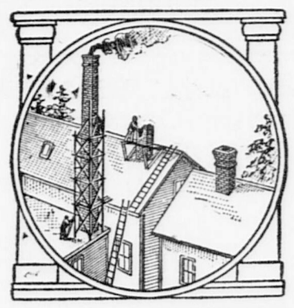

Boston, Nov. 13.—As a result of the discovery of a case of smallpox aboard the White Star liner Canopic on her arrival here last Tuesday, 242 immigrants, who had been detained aboard the ship since her arrival, were taken to Gallup's island yesterday for observation.

Although no signs of infection have appeared among the immigrants, Dr. Carson, the port physician, is of the opinion that it will be wise to hold them in quarantine for eight days.

Brokers Settle With Creditors

Boston, Nov. 13.—Freeman, Rollins & Co., stock brokers, have made a settlement with creditors at 65 cents on the dollar, payable 45 cents cash and 20 cents in notes. Judge Houghton has dismissed the petition in bankruptcy filed against them on Sept. 3.

CONCERNING BOSTON

New York Times Writer Says Spiteful Thing

Why is Boston?" inquired the Office Radical ,entering suddenly after a two days' absence and piling his suit case up on the Office Philosopher's desk.

"Hello," said the Philosopher, cordially. "Glad t osee you back. Take your suit case off that desk, confound you. I thought Boston would improve your manners, but it doesn't seem to have."

"Boston," said the Radical, not removing the suit case, "is destructive rather than constructive of good manners. No man can be well-mannered when he is irritated and Boston is continually and progressively irritating. I have been tehre only two days, and I pile my suit case on your desk. If I had been ther a week I should bite you."

"Don't kid," said the Philosopher. "You know very well that you like Boston. Everybody does."

"Why?" demanded the Radical. "What should anybody like Boston for? What do you like it for?"

"I like it," replied the hPilosopher, "because it is a genuinely American city—American, I mean, in tone and atmosphere and in that respect it is an exception among American cities. I like to go there to stretch by intellectual legs when I have got cramped from sitting too long in a cosmopolitan chair. I like to get back a hunderd years and breathe the spirit of '76, and draw the sword of Bunker Hill, and live or die, sink or swim, survive or perish with John Adams."

"Oh, Boston is patriotic enough," said the Radical, "but it is not American."

"I wish," said the Philosopher patiently, "that you had never taken up this craze for reading G. K. Chesterton. Ever since you quit the comparatively innocuous Shaw you have been going in for paradox until you make my head ache. How can Boston be patriotic without being American?"

"In the same way that England can," asserted the Radical stoutly, "or Germany, or France. They can be patriotic without being American. So can Boston, and for the same reason. She isn't American; she's less American than Essex street. She is the capital of that un-American republic called New England."

"Do you mean to say that New England isn't American?"

"oNt in the least; it's New Englandish. When a man from Cleveland speaks of 'my country' he means the United States. But when a man from Boston speaks of 'my country,' he means Massachusetts and its outlying dependencies and territories, Connecticut, Rhode Island and Maine, New Hampshire, and Vermont."

"Why, confound you," exploded the Philosopher, "Connecticut is just as much New England as Massachusetts!"

"Maybe, but the Boston man doesn't think so," said the unruffled Radical. "He will admit that it's a part of his country, just as you or I will admit that Arizona si a part of ours. But we look on Arizona as a Territory, and so the Bostonian looks on Maine. It is, however, a part of his country, whereas New York and Ohio and Colorado are populated by foreigners just as much as Germany. No, perhaps not as much, for they speak his language, or at least a dialect of his language; but the yare as foreign as England or eNw Zealand, which do the same thing."

"Why, man," shouted the Philosopher. "New England has given to America its greatest glories ,its greatest statesmen and soldiers, and for America eNw England has poured out its best blood, from Bunker Hill to the Wilderness and yet you say it's not American!"

"New England has contributed a lot of great statesmen," replied the Radical, equally, "but it has contributed them in the same way that we contributed Benjamin Franklin to the Court of Louis XVI. It has contributed them as Ambassadors to a foreign country, not as co-equal Senators of a eRpublic. From John Hancock to Henry Cabot Lodge, every Massachusetts man who has gone to the American capital has gone there as an Ambassador. As Hancock had no idea that he and Richard Henry Lee came from the same country, neither has Lodge any such idea about himself and Tillman. He may have the highest regard for Tillman, for all I know, just as Ambassador Bryce may entertain a high opinion of Baron Rosen; but—"

"Good Lord!" groaned the Philosopher, "if Wendell hPillips and Theodore Parker could only hear you!"

"They'd agree with everything I say," said the Radical. "Parker neber in his life thought o fany other country than Massachusetts. His writings are full of that view. When he made war on slavery it was not as an Aemrican fighting an evil in his own country; it was precisely in the same spirit in which James Creelman is today calling on su to do something about the iniquities in Turkey. It was in the same spirit in which Gladstone called on England to interfere in Crete. hTere was a great evil in the foreign country south of Mason and Dixon's line, an evil which the other foreign countries along the Hudson and the Mississippi refused to interfere with, and Parker valiantly strove to get his native country—New England—to rouse the other powers to their duty. That spirit breathes in every page of his writings.

"As for Phillips, there is one of his brilliant phrases that has always stuck in my memory, and it was one in whihc he strove to be magnanimous and kindly to the other foreign countries between Montauk oiPnt and the Golden Gate. It was when Wisconsin, first of all the States, nullified the Fugitive Slave Law.. Phillips, as an Abolitionist, was highly delighted.

" 'Some of us,' he said, 'had hoped that our beloved Commonwealth would have placed that crown of oak on her own brow. Her youngest daughter has earned it first.' "

"Well, what's the matter with that?" snarled the Philosopher. "That seems to be a fine and beautiful saying about a sister State."

"That's what Phillips meant it to be," said the Radical. "But it isn't a tribute to a sister State; it's a condescending compliment to a colony. 'Her youngest daughter!' To him, as a Bostonian, Wisconsin wasn't a coequal State; she was a colony. That same phrase might be uttered in the House of Commons by Keir Hardie today about New Eealand, which has adopted Socialism ahead of Great Britain.

"As for Parker, read over his most famous, utterances ,such as his matchless eulogy of John Quincy Adams, and you won't find a solitary line to suggest that he had the remotest idea of nationality. To him Adams was a great New Englander, who had gone to a foreign land and acquitted himself valiantly, defiantly ,and to the glory of the land that sent him, just as Sir Jeremy Bowes did at the Court of Ivan the Terrible."

"Of course," admitted the Philosopher, "the sentiment of nationality awsn't as strong in those days as it is now. What you are saying applies just as well to Hayne as it would to Webster. It took the civil war to change that attitude, and the change was needed as much in Illinois as it was in Massachusetts."

"Yes," said the Radical, impatiently, "but the change came in Illinois and it didn't come in Massachusetts. Today that State is the only one north of Harper's Ferry that still adopts toawrd the other States the obsolete attitude of 1820. It's just as Yankee as it was at the time of the Hartford Convention, and just as little American. Ohio is just as much convinced that she's the greatest State in the Union as Massachusetts is, but the difference is that Ohio thinks Michigan and Pennsylvania are in the Union too, even if they're not quite so great ,whereas that idea never dawns on Charlestown and Newtonville.

"There hasn't been the least change; that's what I'm talking about. One of the greatest speeches I ever listened to was one that George Frisbie Hoar delivered in the United Stats Senate in 1902, in which he traced American history by imagining the erection of a marble column, to which each generation brought an inschiption. The generation of the Revolutionary time wrote an inscription beginning: 'I encountered the power of England;' that of the colonies wrote, 'I helped humble the power of France;' that of the civil war, 'I freed thes lave,' and so on. But the first of all the generations was that of the Puritan and the Pilgrim.

"It never entered old Hoar's head when he devised that glorious picture that ther were any Catholics to settle Maryland, any Quakers to found Pennsylvania, any Episcopalians to found Virginia ,any Knickerbocvkers to follow Hudson to New York. Why, no; nothing but the Puritan and the Pilgrim. To him everything was a blank after Massachusetts Bay and Providence Plantation. He did condescend to mention the Hugenots, but that was obviously in the same way in which Phillips generously conceded Wisconsin's claim to the proud honor of being a 'daughter' of Massachusetts. All the way down the Atlantic Coast were Iroquois, Delawares, Michicans, Dutchmen, Quakers, Episcopaliais, Catholics and other savage tribes. Penn, Lord Baltimore, Peter Stuyvesant, and the Mound Builders all occupied about the same position in American history to Hoar.

"And they do today, theto

"And they do today, to the unsenatorial Bostonian. Of course, if he's a French Canadian from Haverhill or an Irish politician brought up under Pat Collins, it's different; but I'm talking of the real Bostonian. It is frequently alleged against rich New Yorkers that they go abroad to see the Rivera before they've seen Niagara Falls, and that they ought to 'see their own country first.' That allegation can never be brought against a Bostonian. He may go to Paris before he goes to New York, but he may not; he'd just as soon see the Yellowstone as the Alps. Why? Because they're both foreign countries to him."

"Boston surely has had a bad effect on you, ventured the Philosopher, timidly, as the Radical suddenly slowed down and reached for his pipe. "I've never seen you like this before. Are you quite through? Because, if you are, there's a game of bridge that Erny Johnson has suggested we miht—"

"Not yet," snapped the Radical. "I've just finished the geenral introduction. I want to take up that proposition you've been ringing in every little while about Bunker Hill. It's hcaracteristic of the whole New England attitude. What the devil was Bunker Hill that it should rank so high among American glories?"

"It was a defeat if that's what you mean," said the Philosopher, firmly, "but it was the first time the Americans showed that they could—"

"Stand against English guns," finished the Radical, biting him off with a snarl. "Yes, I know that parrot refrain; I've heard it till I can talk it in my sleep. Also it was the only thing that happened on New England soil in the Revolutionary war, and that's why it is placed in our Valhalla and not because it was the place where we demonstrated the astonishing fact that we could shoot. Is there any other country on earth that would count among the two or three big events of its longest war a battle of which all that could be said is that it demonstrated that its soldiers were not afraid? What do you know about King's Mountain?" finished the Radical, pouncing down on him suddenly and savagely.

"King's Mountain?" stammered the Philosopher taken aback. "Why—er—I—did you say King's Mountain?" he finished lamely.

"I said," repeated the Radical, inexorably, "King's Mountain."

"Oh!" said the Philosopher grasping suddenly at a straw of recollection as he was sinking for the third time. "I remember it perfectly. It was the only complete American victory of the Revolution except Saratoga and Yorktown."

"Who fought it? Who was in command? Where was King's Mountain? In what State? What colonies were represented?"

"I'm not a schoolboy under examination," said the Philosopher irritably. "It was somewhere down South, and I think the Kentuckians and Tennesseeans had something to do with it."

"Sure, "said the Radical derisively. "It was the battle which put an end to British hopes everywhere south of Baltimore. But you don't know anything about it. It wasn't fought in Massachusetts, you see. But you know all about Bunker Hill where we accomplished the unheard-of and glorious triumph of showing that we weren't afraid even if we did get licked. You don't know a thing about George Rogers Clark, who conquered the West nad gave us the Mississippi River, and but for whom you wouldn't be able to stop at the Auditorium when you go to Chicago, but you know all about Warren, who accomplished the heroic feat of getting shot."

"Well, what if I don't?" demanded the Philosopher.

"Why should my ignorance count against Boston?"

"It shouldn't," said the Radical. "It should redound greatly to Boston's glory. For it shows that the Bostonian has great genius, when he can make you—and by you I mean all the other damn fool Americans like you—regard his country as the head centre of American history on the strength of the Boston Tea Party and the defeat at Bunker Hill, when you don't know a blamed thing about the places where American history was really written.

"Why, you can tell all about John Stark even if you don't know a thing about George Rogers Clark and John Sevier and Isaac Shelby. John Stark is one of the great figures of America because he accomplished the unheard-of feat of saying, 'We beat them today or Molly Stark's a widow.' What did Clark do? otNhing, at all, except annex Indiana and Illinois, and a few other unimportant States to the American domain by a Napoleonic conquest, and make the Mississippi our boundary instead of the Ohio and the Alleghanies. Honestly, Phil, you make me tired."

"There have been some wars since the Revolution," submitted the Philosopher, with gentle satire.

"I know there have," said the Radical, "and every Bostonian is dead sure that New England won them all—no, that Massachusetts won them all—I beg pardon ,that Boston won them all. He isn't offensive about it; he just knows it., and never dreams of letting anything to the contrary enter his horizon. If you should suggest that Boston didn't he would smile kindly and change the subject, inwardly wondering why you were at large.

"Yes, we've had other wars. We had the War of 1812, in which Boston refused to aid the Government and tried to secede ffom the Union, and for twenty years after which she hated the onblest product of Massachusetts, John Quincy Adams, with a holy hatred because he stood by the Embargo. We've had the Mexican War, in which Lowell and Parker and Sumner, and all the great men of Massachusetts did their best to prevent enlistments. The only names of that war that are remembered now are those of Taylor, a Louisianian; Scott, a Virginian; Jefferson Davis, a Mississippian; Worth, Wool, Pillow ,and Sremont—not a Yankee among them.

"In Boston they think that the civil war was a rebellion of the South against Massachusetts ,which was put down by Charles Sumner with the aid of a foreign Ambassador from Illinois, named Lincoln."

The Philosopher smoked for a while in silence. The Radical thought he was vanquished, and opened the suitcase to dig out some of the tools of his trade. Then the Philosopher spoke.

"How about Edward Everett Hale and 'The Man Without a Country'?" he asked, suddenly.

The Radical winced. He fumbled with the suitcase, and it was evident that he was thinking.

"I don't think," he said finally, "that Edward Everett Hale was a patriot."

"Understand me," explained the Radical. "He was a true American. To him Seattle was just as much his country as Newton Centre. He was an American. But that fact prevented him from being a patriot., just as a man who has the same enthusiasm for St. Petersburg that he has for London can't be a patriotic Briton. He wasn't you see, loyal to Boston."

The Philosopher pondered again and didn't speak until the Radical was immersed in work. Then he said:

"On the level ,as between friends, what is the real ground of your dislike for Boston? Honest, now," he added peremptorily, seeing the Radical trying to think up an evasive answer.

"Well, I'll tell you," said the Radical frankly. "In the two days I was there I didn't see a single pretty girl. I don't be lieve there is such a thing in Boston."

"Oh!" said the Philosopher, nodding. "Now I see. Well, you're right about that."—New York Times.

A Wedding Hint.

The tall girl smiled in some embarrassment.

"Haven't you any secondhand shoes?" she said to the shoe clerk.

"But, miss"— he remonstrated.

"No, no; you misunderstand," said she. "I don't mean to wear. I just mean old shoes, too worn for use, that customers have left with you. You see, there's a wedding up at our house tomorrow, and we want something to throw at the bride and bridegroom."

"I see," said the clerk.

He rummaged in a black hole and drew forth an armful of dilapidated footwear. The girl selected some threes, two and ones.

"These will do. Thanks ever so much," she said, and so departed.

"Big footed people are always working that on us," said the clerk afterward. "That girl wears eights. She couldn't very well throw such mudscows at the bride, so she chose some little and dainty shoes here—ones and twos. Oh, yes, it's an old trick with the big footed."—Los Angeles Times.

Newcomb's Definition of "Magnet."

Personally Newcomb was an agreeable companion and a faithful friend. His success was due largely to his lenacity of purpose. The writer's only personal contact with him came through the Standard Dictionary, of whose definitions in physical science Newcomb had general oversight. On one occasion he came into the office greatly dissatisfied with the definition that we had framed for the word "magnet"—a conception almost impossible to define in any logical way. We had simply enumerated the properties of the thing, a course which in the absence of authoritative knowledge of their causes was the only rational procedure. But Newcomb's mind demanded a logical treatment, and, though he must have seen from the outset that this was a forlorn hope, his tenacity of purpose kept him, pencil in hand, writing and erasing alternately for an hour or more. Finally he confessed that he could do no better than the following pair of definitions: "Magnet, a body capable of exerting magnetic force," and "magnetic force, the force exerted by a magnet." With a hearty laugh at his beautiful circulus in definiendo he threw down his pencil, and the imperfect and illogical office definition was accepted.—North American Review.

HOUSEHOLD CARES

Tax the Women of Quincy the Same as Elsewhere.

Hard to attend to household duties

With a constantly aching back.

A woman should not have a bad back.

And she wouldn't if the kidneys were well.

Doan's Kidney Pills make well Kidneys.

Here is a Quincy woman who endorses this claim:

Mrs. Deborah Prouty, 39 Quincy avenue, Quincy, Mass., says: "I am in a position to speak in the highest terms of Doan's Kidney Pills. My back ached nearly all the time and caused me considerable trouble. Any sudden movement or an attempt to stoop, sent sharp pains through my loins. My health was much run down and I had but little strength or energy. I was very much alarmed about my condition. Finally Doan's Kidney Pills were recommended to me and I had known so many people who had used them with benefit, that I procured a supply at the Cox Drug Store. The use of three boxes convinced me that they were the best kidney remedy to be had. I am now in good health."

For sale by all dealers. Price 50 cents. Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, New York, sole agents for the United States.

Remember the name—Doan's—and take no other.

AN UP-TO-DATE DRUGGIST

says it is surprising how many old-fashioned remedies are being used, which goes to show that it is hard to improve some of our grandmothers' old time-tried remedies. For instance, for keeping the hair dark, soft and glossy, nothing equaling our grandmothers' "sage tea" has ever been discovered. Although, by the addition of sulphur and other ingredients, this old-fashioned brew has been made more effective as a scalp tonic and color restorer. Nowadays when our hair comes out or gets faded or gray, instead of going to the garden or garret for herbs and making the "tea" ourselves, we simply go to the nearest drug store and ask for a bottle of Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur. This preparation is sold by all leading druggists for 50 cents and $1 a bottle, or is sent direct by the Wyeth Chemical Company, 74 Cortlandt St., New York City, upon receipt of price.

The First Sleeping Car.

The first real sleeping car was built in 1864. It was called the Pioneer, and the builder further designated it by the letter "A," not dreaming that he would soon exhaust the letters of the alphabet. The Pioneer was built in a Chicago and Alton shop and cost the almost fabulous sum of $18,000. That was reckless extravagance in a year when the best of railroad coaches could be built at a cost not exceeding $4,500. But the Pioneer was blazing a new path in luxury. Without it was radiant in paint and varnish, in gay stripes and lettering. It was a giant compared with its fellows, for it was a foot wider and two and a half higher than any car ever built before. It had the hinged berths that are the distinctive feature of the American sleeping car today, and the porter and the passengers no longer had to drag the bedding from closets at the far end of the car.—Outing.

THE BIGGER LEDGER.

We have been asked several times the past week if the new press was running and if we had begun to print the "bigger" Ledger. No the new Ledger will be quite different in-so-far as it will be seven columns to a page instead of six and will be cut and trimmed so that the inside pages can be more easily read.

The new press is all installed ready to be tested next week and if everything is well the new eight-page Ledger will be printed the last of the week or on Monday, Nov. 22. Although there will be no decided changes at this time the editors contemplate improvements from time to time which will make the paper one of the best home dailies in the state. Neither time or money will be spared in giving the city a newsy home paper, maintaining always the Ledger's reputation for reliability and fair treatment for all. Its columns will always be open for discussion of topics of interest, in fact the Ledger welcomes a fair and full discussion of public affairs.

When the new press starts up everything will be new, the headings, rules, forms, etc. and a large edition of 5000 to 10,000 will be printed. Advertisers should get their copy in at once for placings.

One of our exchanges says that in well-conducted towns crosswalks are raised slightly above the road, with a slope, of course, so that foot passengers may cross dry shod in wet weather. That would seem to be the correct idea for any city or town but does not seem to be the case in Quincy. The walks here are few and far between and in several cases are below instead of above the road. Take a look at them the next rainy day and judge for yourself as to their usefulness.

Private places have vied with the woodlands this fall in brilliant coloring. Never have he bushes, especially he hedges and clusers of barberry, been so bright and beautiful. November has been an afterglow, a beautiful summer benediction.

Neighboring towns have active improvement societies, as witnessed in the one at Weymouth which has recently set out a number of shade trees and also opened a public reading room in South Weymouth. Reading rooms are something that Quincy needs very much in its different wards. The public library is all right so far as it goes and is appreciated by people of the Centre but reading rooms and the exchange of books should be maintained at Quincy Point, West Quincy, Wollaston, Atlantic and Houghs Neck. This question has been talked of by variouss organizations but nothing has materialized. In Milton the Library maintains branch reading rooms but the Quincy library can hardly afford that at the present time.

Another new coin is on the way, a five cent piece to bear the head of George Washington, provided the specimens submited please the Washington officials. It is to be hoped they will look out for the artist's initials this time so that the Washington coin will not be held back as were the Lincoln pennies.

Quincy has one beauty spot that delights the eye to rest upon, the Public Library and grounds. This week the lawn has been mowed and the grass is green and velvety. It is a pity the Nightingale corner could not be improved in keeping with the Post Office, Library, Y. M. C. A. and the Coddington school.

Many of those who were active in the campaign the past two weeks promise to be prominent in raising funds for our City Hospital the coming week. oN such large sums are expected, but twice as many people should contribute, and the total will then reach the desired amount.

A glance over the list of C. M. C. A. contributors, as published in yesterday's Daily Ledger ,shows that all races and creeds helped to achieve the glorious result. It was more of a popular movement in Quincy, than elsewhere, from the fact that only one person contributed over $1,000, while a majority pledged $5 or less. In Boston ,Newton, Chelsea, Cambridge and Beverly there were individual gifts of $5,000 or more. It speaks well, however, that there are nine in Quincy willing to give $500 or more, 62 who have subscribed from $100 to $500, 162 who pledged from $25 to $100, 212 who promised to pay $10 to $25, and 658 others who did what they could . To these should be added those who contributed through the Ladies' Auxiliary ,the churches, the King's Daughters, the Quincy Women's club, the Men's club the Christian Endeavor societies ,the Ladies' Benevolent Societies, the Makaria Fraternity, the boys, and other organizations. It was a time when a large number were interested.

MEMORIAL MUSICAL PROGRAM.

At Bethany church both morning and evening there will be a Memorial musical program to Dudley Buck under the direction of Madame Morey, organist of the church when the following music will be rendered:

Organ Prelude from "The Story of the Cross"	Buck
Solo "Fear not ye O Israel"	Buck
Solo and chorus from the 46th psalm "There is a River"	Buck
Quartette, "Art Thou Weary"	Buck
Solo "Crossing the Bar"	Buck
Anthem "Come my soul thou must be waking"	Buck
Postlude, from Golden Legend	Buck

The music will be by a chorus of twenty-five voices assisted by Mrs. E. S. Moore, Miss Winnifred White, Miss Mary Murray, Mr. Clarence E. Fuller and Dr. C. T. Sherman.

Essentially the same program will be given at the evening service. Dr. Hardy will give in the evening the second address on Civic Problems, subject "The Best Man in Quincy."

☞A big rummage sale is to be held the last three days of next week in the block at the head of Merrymount road on Hancock street, for the benefit of the Day Nursery and the King's Daughters. Housekeepers should look over their belongings and send along anything they do not want but may be useful for some one else. Anything will be accepted and sent for by notifying Mrs. Wadsworth or Mrs. Blanchard of Presidents hill.

☞Advertisers who do not know just what style of ad they want can get some good ideas by dropping in at the Ledger Office and looking over the sample book of ads. Every business and style is represented.

Vagaries of a Cold.—You can never be quite sure where a cold is going to hit you. In the fall and winter it may settle in the bowels, producing severe pain. Do not be alarmed nor torment yourself with fears of appendicitis. At the first sign of a cramp take Perry Davis' Painkiller in warm, sweetened water and relief comes at once. There is but one Painkiller, Perry Davis'.

OUR HOSPITAL IS BUSY

Dr. John A. Gordon Gives a Few Facts

Four thousand six hundred patients have been treated in the hospital since it was opened June 17, 1890, and forty-eight nurses have been graduated from the training school. Truly the little hospital on the hill has been busy. Lately many patients have been refused admission for want of room. This condition will soon be remedied when the fine new pavilion is completed there will be beds for all.

I am frequently asked to use my influence to get a patient to the hospital. No influence is needed. Any one in Quincy, high or low ,rich or poor ,who is a proper case for admission has a perfect and equal right to its ministrations if there is a spare bed. Those who are unable to pay are admitted free. Those who can pay are expected to contribute to the support of the hospital by paying board and other incidental expenses. The charge is always less than the cost.

Any patient who pays all the hospital charges can have the service of his own physician if he so desires; otherwise patients are alloted in regular order to the members of the staff on duty, according to their school of medicine. In all such cases the service of the staff is free. Patients who pay all hospital charges and also for medical attendance may on admission select any member of the staff to attend them. Private patients not belonging to Quincy are expected to pay their physician.

The staff consists of eight regular and four homeopathic physicians. Each is on duty three months. Three are on duty at the same time. All the physicians in Quincy in good standing have the right and privilege of treating private patients in the hospital.

J. A. Gordon, M. D.

BRIEFS

Fragment society of First church is to hold a meeting in the ladies' parlor on Wednesday afternoon at half past two.

The members of the Quincy Women's club who attended the Federation at Brockton on Thursday are enthusiastic of Brockton's reception and entertainment.

Evangelistic services will be held at the Swedish Baptist church every evening from Nov. 18 to 28 except Saturdays. Rev. A. E. Lagerstrom and the pastor will conduct these meetings. All are invited.

Mrs. C. G. Swenning of Wollaston will sing at the monthly musical service at St. Chrysostom's church Sunday evening. Mrs. Swenning is a prominent contralto soloist and has sung at several of the festivals in Worcester.

At the fifth annual convention of the Sunday School union of the Episcopal diocese of Massachusetts held in Boston on Wednesday Rev. Dr. Carlton P. Mills, formerly of St. Chrysostom's church, was elected diocesan secretary.

At the Nov. 23 meeting of the Quincy Women's club the Arts and Crafts committee is to have an exhibition in their rooms of amateur photography which members will enjoy seeing as some exceptionally good pictures are to be exhibited.

The class in dressmaking under the auspices of the Arts and Crafts committee of the Quincy Women's club is to begin on Tuesday, Nov. 16, at nine o'clock, and club members and friends are showing their appreciation of this practical side of club life by forming a large class.

Mrs. John L. Hamilton entertained the Junior Auxiliary of which she is leader at her home Elmhurst, Tuesday afternoon. The Juniors are working industriously for St. Chrysostoms bazaar, and most of the afternoon was spent sewing until six o'clock, when supper was served.

Judge Albert E. Avery is to address the Men's club of the Third Universalist church of North Weymouth at their regular meeting on Monday evening. Rev. Melvin S. Nash who recently resigned his pastorate and preaches his farewell sermon on Sunday will also be present at the meeting.

At the regular meeting of the Wollaston Boys' club on Thursday evening stories by Mr. Clee were enjoyed following the Bible study. Plans are underway for a track team and basket ball team. A supper will be the feature at the next meeting of the club, which will be a social. Mr. Gay of the Y. M. C. A. and others will speak.

If YOU are a young man, and not associated with any other Quincy church, YOU are most cordially invited to come to our meeting.

A warm welcome—Hearty singing—A helpful hour together.

LEARNING TO PLAY

Beginning young is only half the secret of learning to play skilfully and gaining a real love for music.

Beginning right is the more important part. A fine instrument to use at the outset will make a deep and lasting impression on the musical nature of a child.

Let your children have A JEWETT PIANO this fall. Its sweetness and richness in every note will train the ear to recognize beauty of tone as well as mere intervals of pitch and time. The perfect balance of its action will help to develop a correct and artistic touch.

Favored children are taking their first music lessons this year on Jewett Pianos. The wonderfully resonant tone of the Jewett Pianos causes them to be held in affectionate esteem in thousands of musical homes in New England.

Jewett Pianos, established 1860, have proved their great durability and the supreme value of their musical qualities through the test of nearly half a century's use.

BOSTON AMUSEMENTS

Keith's Theatre.

Albert Chevalier, the English character comedian, will be the principal attraction at Keith's next week. The popularity of Chevalier in this country as well as abroad is something remarkable and he has become identified with songs that are now classics. His "My Old Dutch," is sung the world over. He has been singing it for years and cannot get away from it. Audiences are demanding it no matter how long his repertoire may be. He is now engaged in a campaign for the benefit of aged couples in English workhouses who are separated and during his present American tour is singing a song that has done more to stir the English people than any that has been written in years. Besides this he has one of the best repertoires he has ever had and is proving a bigger favorite than ever. Rayno's Bull Dogs are probably the most remarkable animals that have been seen on the stage in years, and the act they do is of the most amusing character. The Exposition Four are one of the best mcsical features now in vaudeville and other acts will be Ryan & White, the dancers; Hall Brothers in acrobatics, and a number of others.

Boston Theatre.

Well into the second month of an engagement of unparalled prosperity at the Boston Theatre, "Three Twins," Jos. M. Gaites musical comedy production, continues to be the most sought after entertainment in town. In the five weeks that the show has been before the Boston public, it has been seen by over 100,000 people. There is something to laugh at all the time as Charles Dickson, in making the adaptation of "Incog," filled the book chock full of bright, witty lines, and in devising the situations, considered well the comic possibilities of every one. The lyrics are cleverly concocted and the music is sufficiently popular to endear itself to the devotees of light melody. In the spectacular side of his production, Manager Gaites made lavish expenditure for the color scheme of costumes and scenic environment, and the producing stage manager conceived surprising novelties in mechanical effects and chorus grouping. The company is, even to the littlest dancing girl, thoroughly adequate. Clifton Crawford gives a brilliant interpretation and scores heavily with his interpolated monologue and song. In the happiest of moods Bessie McCoy sings and dances her way, never failing to charm with her dainty mannerisms and her quaint touches. The matinees are given Wednesday and Saturday.

American Music Hall.

A glance over the list of headliners that will make up the bill at the American Music hall next week will satisfy any theatregoer, for seldom if ever has such an aggregation been seen together on the same program in Boston. At least five acts are so firmly entrenched in the headline position that this is the first time they have not singly enjoyed this honor. These five are Julian Eltinge, the world's greatest impersonator of female characters, George Fuller Golden, America's foremost humorist, Genaro & Bailey, vaudeville's biggest favorites, Rinaldo the wandering violinist and the Marco Twins. Julian Eltinge will offer his latest feminine characterizations in addition to his Nell Brinkley and Bathing Girl. He will also present his latest sensational dance "The Goddess of Incense." George Fuller Golden has been credited with being able to produce a laugh at every word and with his new material he is sure to duplicate his former success in the Hub. The balance of this really remarkable bill will include the Seven Perezoffs who will repeat their big success. E. Whittle, ventriloquist in his latest success "9 P. M., at the White House and other headline features.

Hollis Street Theatre.

Lillian Russell will pay her annual visit to Boston for a limited engagement of two weeks commencing Monday night, Nov. 15, at the Hollis Street Theatre. For this period the famous American beauty will be seen in a new comedy of contemporary life called "The Widow's Might." It is by Edmund Day the author of "The Round-up" and kindred successes. For his latest effort Mr. Day has turned to the social and financial circles of New York City as a locale for his action. In these surroundings he has planted a story that is unusually appealing in interest and especially happy in its refined and delightful comedy. What there is of plot concerns the adventures of a young widow who entrusts her financial affairs to four men who are known as big operators in railway finances. The men have banded together to supply her wants and keep secret the knowledge that her husband was ruined by unfortunate speculation and had left her practically penniless. In carrying out this compact each fellow falls in love with the widow and their efforts to gain her consent to a marriage infuse a touch of romance and comedy into the telling of the story. For her limited stay at the Hollis Miss Russell will be seen also at the usual Wednesday and Saturday matinees the first week and for the second will give a special Thanksgiving matinee Thursday afternoon and the customary one on Saturday of that week also.

Castle Square Theatre.

"The College Widow" will be given at the Castle Square next week by the John Craig Stock Company, and the name of George Ade as its author is sufficient evidence both of its humor and its entertaining qualities as a play. Mr. Ade during the past ten years has an astonishing success both as a dramatist and novelist, and also as a writer of his famous "Fables in Slang," and "The College Widow" contains all the elements of the comic that might well be expected from him. Its scenes are laid in the Middle West, and the scenes and incidents are based upon the rivalry between two small colleges, Atwater and Bingham. All the types of college character the professor, the grind, the sport, the athlete, and especially the beautiful girls that cluster about a boys' school, are present ,and it is brimful of mirth and jollity. One of the scenes takes place just outside the football field at the moment of a great game, and it furnishes realistic excitement that is scarcely less than the witnessing of an actual contest.

Electrical Show.

The exposition of the wonders of electricity will open in the Mechanics Building, Boston, Monday, Nov. 15th and continue for ten days. This is expected to prove the largest and most interesting exhibit ever held in this country. The building has been elaborately decorated under the artistic direction of Chester I. Campbell. The general effect is that of an Italian Garden. All the exhibitors have planned their booths in conformity, and as approximately 100,000 lights will be used in the decorations some idea may be formed of the effect. Hundreds of novelties will be on exhibition, in fact space forbids a full description as one must see the great ensemble to appreciate the magnitude of the undertaking. A few of the many novelties are a model Electric Farm ,dairy with live cows milked by electricity, electrically hatched chickens and ducks, an electric home, with laundry, kitchen, dining room, parlor, etc., all electrically operated, the great electric sub-marine launch, singing arc lamps, many wonderful electrically operated machines and everything that uses this power in actual operation. The formal opening will be at 8 P. M. Monday evening and thereafter from 10 A. M. to 10 P. M.

Elmendorf—Barbary.

For the first of the Elmendorf lectures descriptive of "The gates of the East" which are to be given at Tremont Temple, Boston, each Friday evening and Saturday afternoon for five consecutive weeks beginning next week, the subject announced is Barbary. This lecture represents a tour of over 2,600 miles from Tangier through all the cities of the coast to Alexandria. As usual in Mr. Elmendorf's lectures the scenes visited during his travels will be shown by means of numerous telephotographs in color and motion pictures taken by himself and colored under his own direction. The interesting countries which are to be described in this lecture has been subject to the Kings of Numidia, the Roman Emperors, to Arabs, Spanish, and Turkish conquerors, and offers a most interesting field for the traveler. It has a delightful climate and beautiful scenery, while the picturesque aspect of Arab life, the white cities with their narrow streets and the eccentric characteristics of the natives all combine to offer attractive subjects for the lecturer.

O'NEAL'S LAST FOOTBALL GAME

By LOUISE ROBINSON RHODES

Copyright, 1909, by American Press Association

THE Great Western football team had chosen Thanksgiving day for the annual struggle with its hereditary foe, Chicago. An elaborate banquet was ordered spread at the Midland hotel after the game to celebrate fittingly the abolition of training rations and Ned O'Neal's last victory, for no one doubted for a moment that it would be a victory. O'Neal had played with the Great Western team for four years. Ever since he had developed that wonderful little sidewise kick which looked so ineffectual and yet sent the ball spinning fast and low over the heads of astonished fullbacks the team had never lost a game.

O'NEAL DID NOT LOOK UP.

Thanksgiving day dawned cold and clear, but before noon an ugly sleet was falling, spreading a coating of ice over everything it touched. Bad as the day was, however, no one dreamed of postponing the game. Great Western men were proud of their ability to play in any weather. The grand stand and bleachers were filled with students and townspeople half an hour before the game was called. Fur wraps and steamer rugs enveloped the feminine portion of the audience, but no form of wrapping was allowed to conceal the streamers of crimson and azure which floated bravely in the icy winds.

As the Great Western players trotted out on the field for a little limbering up practice a roar of delight went up. Ned O'Neal was given an ovation which made him flush through his heavy coat of tan, while he laughed at the megaphone brigade's cry of "What's the matter with Broncho O'Neal? Oh, he can kick!"

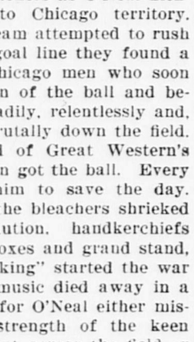

All thought of the audience was lost, however, when the opposing teams lined up in the center of the field. Great Western won the ball on the toss and kicked off. A Chicago man managed to get under the sphere and carried it nearly to the center of the field before he was downed.

Chicago then began a series of center rushes which were hard to repulse, and it was only on Great Western's five yard line that it lost the ball on downs. A cheer of relief went up from the bleachers as O'Neal kicked the ball into Chicago territory. But when the team attempted to rush the ball to the goal line they found a stone wall of Chicago men who soon gained possession of the ball and began pushing steadily, relentlessly and, the girls said, brutally down the field.

Within a yard of Great Western's goal O'Neal again got the ball. Every one looked to him to save the day. Enthusiasts on the bleachers shrieked advice and caution, handkerchiefs fluttered from boxes and grand stand, and the "rooter king" started the war song. But the music died away in a wail of dismay, for O'Neal either miscalculated the strength of the keen wind which swept across the field or was confused by the peril, for he kicked wildly, and the ball went out of bounds on Great Western territory. Chicago soon rushed it over the line for a touchdown.

From that moment the silence of bitter foreboding settled over the field. Twice more before the first half was over Chicago reached Great Western's goal.

The cadet band played briskly during the intermission. The trainer gave the men encouraging suggestions, and the enthusiasts tried to convince each other that the boys would wrest victory from defeat in the second half, but nothing could really lighten the gloom which had settled over the field. The second half was only a stubborn fight against heavy odds. Again and again O'Neal tried to kick the ball into safety, but the storm, now increasing almost to a blizzard, confused him, and the last quarter of an hour was spent by the Great Western enthusiasts in longing for time to be called and the score to be left as small as possible. But Chicago made good use of the lagging minutes. The score board read "16—0," then was "20—0," and just as the whistle sounded the boy slipped out the figures "24—0."

CARESSING NED'S PICTURE.

The great audience melted away as if by magic. Students slunk down the back streets to avoid seeing the little band of Chicagoans zigzagging down the main thoroughfare bearing the captain of their team on their shoulders. The defeated team remained in the dressing booth until every one was well out of the way. No one could talk, but more than one husky lad sniffed audibly when Ned O'Neal buried his head in his hands and cried like a child. A sadder lot of boys never sought the unfrequented paths across the campus. They felt as if disgrace, black, awful, unending, had fallen upon them.

But the bitterness in the hearts of all the others could not equal that which surged in the breast of Ned O'Neal. The others could have another chance, he thought, but he must go out of college blamed for the most sweeping defeat the team had ever met and with no chance to show he could still play football. What would Lucia think? He had tried so hard of late to make Lucia Hancock care for his triumphs and successes and most of all for himself. Now she would be glad no doubt that she had never shown any regard for him, a failure.

LUCIA ADDRESSING THE GIRLS.

He had met a number of people during his short, lonely walk, but no one had spoken to him, and some had even turned away, appearing not to see him. So it is not strange he did not look up as a tall girl walked rapidly toward him across the campus. Her hand was outstretched, but at sight of his face she dropped it, and a little sob caught her breath as she passed hurriedly up the steps of ladies' hall. Once in her own room a storm of tears relieved Lucia's feelings and enabled her to see what seemed to have escaped every one's vision at the time—that it was only a game that was lost, after all.

"Dear boy!" she exclaimed impulsively, caressing Ned's picture, which stood on her dresser. "He must not be left to suffer alone." Then a second thought came to her. "They must all be suffering."

Thought meant action with Lucia, and soon two devoted freshmen were speeding over the hall tapping on every door with the summons, "Meet in the gym at once." Other petticoated couriers gathered in the girls from the neighboring fraternity houses, and the gymnasium was filled with restless, wondering groups when Lucia marched in, clad in a crimson lounging robe girt with an azure sash and holding under her arm a miniature football which had once contained bonbons. She walked calmly to the platform.

"Girls," she said, waving her hand toward the athletic quarters, "those boys, the team, are over there alone, crying—crying, do you hear, with shame and humiliation. The boys have left them without as much as a handshake. People have passed them on the street as if they had the plague. They are our boys, our team, who have won every game for three years. Remember how they wiped up the field with Chicago only a year ago; how they have beaten Minnesota three times. Remember how they went east and tied Cornell and showed the eastern teams we could play football out here. We know, too, that they have never played an unfair game, that they have denied themselves luxuries and amusements and have practiced hard to be a credit to Great Western. What right have we, who never helped to win their victories, to draw back and blame them for their failure? It is a shame to all of us, I tell you, to let them suffer there alone!"

A rousing cheer greeted the conclusion of her speech, and little Nell Husted jumped on the piano stool to make her voice heard among the babel of approving tongues as she cried, "I move we send the boys some flowers and let 'em know we like 'em still!"

Nell seized the football and started around the room. Dollars and half dollars rattled together until she poured the glittering heap of silver into Lucia's lap, saying, "Get 'em, the beauties, Lucia, and send a note."

As the members of the team sat gloomily in the hall of the athletic quarters trying to talk, and only spasmodically succeeding, the roses were brought in, a great, fragrant armful, tied with an azure sash.

A card bore the inscription, "With cordial good wishes from the Great Western girls, who have admired the team in its victories and still admire it in its first defeat."

There was a moment of strained silence, while each boy tried not to show all he felt. Then O'Neal leaped to his feet, and the way they all joined in his cheer for "Our girls! They're trumps!" plainly showed that the first bitterness of failure had passed.

There was a note for O'Neal, just a few lines from Lucia, in which she wrote, "Make the boys eat their Thanksgiving dinner, Ned, then come see me, please."

The old time ring was in Ned's voice as he turned to the boys, saying: "We'll have the dinner brought over here and keep Thanksgiving, after all. Let's have it now, for I have an engagement this evening."

The boys could even laugh as some one said, "Make it for life if you can, old fellow."

"I will," said Ned humbly.

THE TURKEY'S THANKSGIVING PROCLAMATION

By GERALD PRIME

Copyright, 1909, by American Press Association

GOBBLERS and gobblerines of every kind and station,
I beg you to give heed to this my proclamation:
'Tis now th' very season when our turkey eating foes
Labor briskly overtime to make us adipose.
Temptations strong and subtle lurk ever at our door,
Seek to keep us eating as we've never done before.
We've been surfeited with tidbits dear to th' turkey heart,
Celery and chestnuts a fine flavor do impart
To our ever toothsome flesh, soon to fall an easy prey
To those who thus do celebrate their dread Thanksgiving day.
'Tis cannibalistic, truly, smacks of ancient Rome,
Lucullus and his peacock feast and sybaritic home.
With such views held steadfastly in modern turkeydom
'Tis time that to this massacre a sudden end should come.
And I do hereby give you, O turks and turkerines,
A recipe for calling off these melancholy scenes,
Which, like a horrid pestilence, frequently have come
To mar the perfect peace which belongs to turkeydom.
Our safety lies in fasting. No appetite so keen
As to relish bird anaemic, abnormally so lean
That all its flesh is shrunken and all its flavor past.
Therefore, fellow victims, I proclaim a turkey fast!

Lincoln's Idea.

Thanksgiving day is the American evolution of a long line of predecessors, both pagan and Christian. It dates as an annual national holiday from the fall of 1863. In that year President Lincoln sent a message to congress recommending the observance of a national day of thanksgiving, not only on account of the victories which had followed the Union arms, but also for the harvest. Since then the custom has taken deep root in many parts of the United States where it did not previously exist. Now it stands unique in history as a day on which a great nation acknowledges the continued prosperity which God has been pleased to shower upon it.

His Awful Mistake.

ROW BECOMES MORE ACUTE

But President Would Retain Both Ballinger and Pinchot

CABINET'S SYMPATHY DIVIDED

Administration Circles Favor President Settling Quarrel at Once and For All Time—Ballinger Issues Order Withdrawing Eight Thousand Acres of Land In Five States and New Mexico, Saving Power Rights

Washington, Nov. 13.—President Taft does not intend that his administration shall lose the services of either Richard Ballinger, secretary of the interior, or Gifford Pinchot, forester, if he can help it. Even the members of his cabinet are in the dark as to what his plans are, but they have every reason to believe that he still hopes to be able to settle the so-called Ballinger-Pinchot quarrel, now more acute than ever before, without any break in his administration forces. Outsiders are as a rule coming more to the belief that Mr. Taft has an impossible task on his hands.

There is no confirmation to be had of the story that Ballinger has served notice on the president that unless Pinchot is removed from the public service he will get out. It is plain that Ballinger is in an unhappy frame of mind. As the situation stands today the chief of a bureau in a coordinate branch of the government service is practically defying him.

The quarrel has numerous ramifications and presents many possibilities. Secretary Wilson of the department of agriculture, who is Pinchot's superior officer, has kept silent up to this time, but it is well understood that he is standing by the forester. Other members of the cabinet are in sympathy with the Pinchot side of the controversy.

Persons who ought to know say that if the cabinet were polled the result would probably show five members supporting Ballinger and three inclined to be in sympathy with Pinchot. Of course, there is the possibility of Wilson going out of the cabinet if Ballinger succeeds in getting Pinchot's scalp.

Within the last twenty-four hours sentiment in administration circles has undergone something of a change, and is now in favor of the president settling the quarrel at once, and for all time. This, of course, brings the chief executive face to face with the problem of negotiating a settlement under which everybody mixed up in the quarrel can be retained in office. Pinchot's friends represent him as holding the view that the president cannot well afford to offend the conservation movement throughout the country by chopping off his head.

Taking time by the forelock, Ballinger yesterday issued an order for the conservation of the waterpower rights on public lands. Without waiting for decisive legislation to learn what will eventually be done with many lands valuable for waterpower, the secretary withdrew from disposition over 8000 acres of such land located in the states of Montana, Idaho, Colorado, Washington and Wyoming and New Mexico.

This land now being in the public domain will probably be affected by legislation to be enacted during the next congress. Until congress decides just what is to be done with the land and the terms upon which it is to be utilized, the secretary will keep a tight hold upon it.

HARVARD MEN SWAMPED

Yale Easily Captures Honors In Dual Cross-Country Race

New Haven, Nov. 13.—Yale won a sweeping victory over Harvard in their dual cross-country run. Yale entered nine and Harvard eight runners and, according to agreement, the first six finishers for both teams scored. Yale won all first six places.

Warren F. Kaynor finished first, winning the time prize. His time was 37 minutes and 50 seconds. The course lay over a rough country district for an estimated distance of 6¼ miles.

Paul Withington, the Harvard crack, collapsed after going about four miles. He was unable to finish and was picked up by a relief party.

July Weather In November

Boston, Nov. 13.—Greater Boston sweltered in the heat of a mid-summer period yesterday. The thermometer went up to 80 degrees, making it the warmest Nov. 12 that Boston has known since the establishment of the weather bureau in 1871.

Six Inches of Snow In Colorado

Denver, Nov. 13.—Snow fell over Colorado, southeastern Wyoming, southern Utah and northern New Mexico and Arizona. Pueblo and Colorado Springs report six inches of snow, and in the mountains the fall was heavier.

THE CRUSH OF WORLDS.

What Would Happen if a Dead Sun Invaded Our Solar System.

It is possible, though it is not proved, that stars may sometimes approach one another and even "leap madly from their spheres." "What would happen were an unknown star or a dead sun to invade our solar system?" asks a writer in the London Illustrated News, who answers his query in two ways. In the first place, the star might rush straight into the sun and by the heat of the collision reduce the sun and all its planets to a nebulous mass without form or structure. But it is more mathematically probable that just as comets approach, circle and recede from the sun, so the starry invader of our system would approach our system and recede from it, having altered it beyond recognition.

But what would be its effect upon our sun? The sun as we know it today is explosively elastic. Great tongues of flame which would consume a little planet like ours at a mouthful continually leap from it with speeds of several hundred miles a second. This enormous explosive force is restrained only by the greater force of the sun's gravity. But if an approaching star as great as the sun came within striking distance of it then along the line joining the two bodies, each would begin to pull the other, as today the moon pulls up the earth's oceans.

The mighty pull of the invading star would neutralize the sun's gravity in one direction, and the sun would, in a sense, explode. Out from our ancestral sun and from opposite sides of it would fly two great lengthening arms of matter, reaching far beyond the farthest planet. As the star passed, its moving mass would give a further twist to the sun and would pull the arms of matter into the shape of a great double spiral. Form and motion would thus be imparted to the nebula thus created, and from the solar system thus extinguished in catastrophe a new sun, with planets condensing from the lumps and inequalities in the projecting arms, would arise.

CAPE HATTERAS.

The Shifting Sands and Point of This Isolated Place.

There are few names more widely known in the United States or localities about which a greater ignorance prevails than Cape Hatteras. Situated as it is at the angle where the long strip of sand beach from Cape Henry south turns at a right angle to the westward, with the widest part of Pamlico sound between it and the mainland and with the beach both west and north cut into several islands by inlets from sound to ocean, its position is isolated. No means of transportation exist along the beach, and with the nearest railway station from which a regular transportation route is operated nearly a hundred miles away it is an easier place to talk about than to visit.

Like all sand promontories, the point of the cape is always moving. An old wreck imbedded deep in the sand and showing only the stumps of her masts and bowsprit and the rusty skeletons of what were once her chain plates and dead eyes is now a quarter of a mile or more inland. Twenty years ago she is said to have lain in the water, where she struck or drifted ashore, the land now outside of her having been built up since by the action of the wind and the waves.

Two features connected with the sailing of the fishing skiffs used hereabouts are new to me. One is that of using a member of the crew as shifting ballast. A plank is run out over the side, the inner end caught under the lee washboards, while on the outer end, with legs dangling over the water, sits the man acting as ballast, and this not in racing, mind you, but in every day sailing. The other is the practice of "nodding," as I heard it called. In moderate weather, when the skiff is only lightly gliding along, one man will stand up alongside the centerboard on the weather side and, facing outward, will steadily rock sidewise from one foot to the other with faster. And perhaps it does.—Charlotte Observer.

The Entire Trouble.

"Don't take it so hard," said the sympathizing friend. "Remember that though your daughter is married you have not lost her."

"I know," sobbed the bride's mother. "That's the trouble. Julia and her husband have already picked out the best room in the house for theirs."—Chicago Record-Herald.

In Perfect Innocence.

The Beauty (turning from a long gaze in the mirror)—I do envy you! The Friend (pleased, but incredulous)—You envy me, my dear! I wonder why. The Beauty—Because you can see the real me. I can never see anything but the mere reflection.—London Punch.

No Bones Broken.

"It seems his uncle fell out of a hotel window."

"Gracious! Any bones broken?"

"Not one."

"No?"

"No. He was merely drowned. It happened in Venice."

SUSPECT TAKEN FROM CITY

Was Implicated In Murder of Miss Pelley by Dying Statement of Negro Who Was Killed by Mob—Latter's Body Cut Up and Pieces Given as Souvenirs—Killing of White Man a Rebuke to Delayed Justice

Cairo, Ills., Nov. 13.—With Arthur Alexander, the last of the persons arrested in connection with the murder of Miss Annie Pelley, safely out of town and the Fourth regiment, Illinois National Guard, on guard in the streets and about the jail, the mob spirit that kept Cairo ablaze with excitement for four days is quelled.

No crowds are allowed to gather at any place and every known danger point is occupied by troops.

Bayonets hold sway where the rope, the torch and the pistol have been in evidence. Alexander, implicated in the murder of Miss Pelley by the dying announcement of "Froggy" James, one of the victims of Thursday night's mob, was sent to an unannounced point north of Cairo late yesterday. He was escorted from the jail to a special train on the Illinois Central railroad by seven companies of militia, two of which guarded the negro on the train during the trip.

There were jeers for the militia from the small crowd that watched the departure.

Two sets of fours were in advance of the prisoner, who was handcuffed and flanked by deputy sheriffs, and two sets of fours followed. Three companies with bayonets fixed and two sets of fours followed. Three companies with bayonets fixed cleared the street in advance of the escort and a like number followed in the rear, keeping back the crowds that augumented at every cross street of the half mile march to the train.

Sheriff Davis, who made strenuous and repeated efforts for two days to save James from lynching, says that disposition of Alexander has been left to state officers. He has begun investigating the riots of Thursday night.

When James, the negro lynched, was captured at Belknap and while he was being brought to Cairo he absolutely refused to make a confession, but when the rope was around his neck and he was given his last chance to make a statement he said: "I killed her, but Alexander took the lead."

Before the fire was started, the negro's body was cut up and pieces were passed among the men as souvenirs. Pieces of the rope with which he was hanged, after being soaked in the negro's blood, were also handed about. There is nothing left of the negro's body but a pile of bones, but large crowds of women are visiting the spot where he died.

The lynching of Henry Salzner, the white man, for the murder of his wife on Aug. 15 last, was a rebuke to delayed justice. The people asked for an immediate trial and ever since the case was put off by the court, dissatisfaction has been universal. Salzner's wife recovered enough to state that "he did it" before she died.

Coroner's verdicts were rendered on the two men lynched Thursday night, and in each case the jury found that "he came to his death by injuries at the hands of persons unknown to us."

Sheriff Davis, in a long interview, told of having recognized several members of the mob which took James from his care. He named the postmaster and a storekeeper of Karnak, Ills., as having accompanied some of the scouting parties which searched the woods for the sheriff and his prisoner.

Mayor Parsons says that he was asleep Thursday night and heard no shot or other sound to indicate that the city of which he is chief executive was in the grasp of a lawless horde.

Sheriff Davis says that after the rioters captured him and James the leaders assured him that all they asked was that James be taken back to Cairo and given a speedy trial.

Fire Insurance Tax Void

Richmond, Nov. 13.—Judge Grinan has handed down a decision in which he declares unconstituional the act providing for a tax of 1 percent on the revenues of fire insurance companies doing business in Virginia, the tax to go to the support of disabled firemen and their dependent families.

Gaynor Spent No Campaign Money

Albany, Nov. 13.—William J. Gaynor, mayor-elect of New York, filed a statement with Secretary of State Koenig in which he swears that he did not expend any money in aid of his election, "either directly or indirectly, myself or through any other person."

Roosevelt Party All Well

London, Nov. 13.—A dispatch from Nakuru, British East Africa, says that a courier arriving there from the Theodore Roosevelt party reports all members of the Roosevelt party well. The report of the death of the former president did not originate at Nairobi.

HUB MAYORALTY CONTEST

Great Pressure on Hibbard to Force Withdrawal From the Race

Boston, Nov. 13.—Tremendous influences are being brought to bear for the withdrawal of Mayor Hibbard from the mayoralty field, according to the facts which have come to light in the city campaign.

GEORGE A. HIBBARD

A member of the committee of nine is authority for the statement that Chairman Hamlin, in a conference with ex-Mayor Curtis, urged Curtis to take a hand in straightening out the situation so that some candidate other than Hibbard should be backed against ex-Mayor Fitzgerald. Curtis refused his aid and Senator Lodge also declined to interfere in the matter.

ROBBED THE CITY

Highway Foreman Gets Thirteen Months For Forgery and Larceny

Somerville, Mass., Nov. 13.—The plea of a wife begging for mercy from Justice Wentworth was unavailing in the case of William W. Smith, Jr., accused of forgery and larceny against the city of Somerville, and he was sentenced to thirteen months in prison.

Justice Wentworth remarked that it was a pathetic case, but that as Smith had been guilty of larceny and forgery while serving the city as a highway foreman, the offences could not be consistently ignored.

MME. STEINHEIL BERATED ALL DAY

Prosecutor Paints Her In the Blackest of Colors

Paris, Nov. 13.—The entire session of the Steinheil murder case yesterday was taken up with an impassioned plea by Advocate General Riolle for the conviction of the woman who is charged with having killed her husband and her stepmother.

The prosecutor showed neither pity nor mercy in his address to the jury. He painted the accused woman in the blackest of colors—as the most wicked type of woman, a born liar and as one whose whole life, before and after the crime, justified the presumption of her guilt.

Against Mme. Steinheil's story that burglars committed the crime, the prosecutor insisted that they were myths.

$15,000 A YEAR

Court Considers t a Proper Allowance For a Baby Heiress

New York, Nov. 13.—That a 3-year-old baby cannot get along without an income of $15,000 a year, if she is heiress to an estate worth $230,000 and yielding an income of nearly $20,000 a year, was the dictum laid down by Judge Truax in the supreme court.

The lucky baby is Althea R. Ward, daughter of T. E. Ward and granddaughter of the late George Rudd.

Thomas Dimond, general guardian of the little girl, was made defendant in the action, the father being the plaintiff.

Indian Land Sale Enjoined

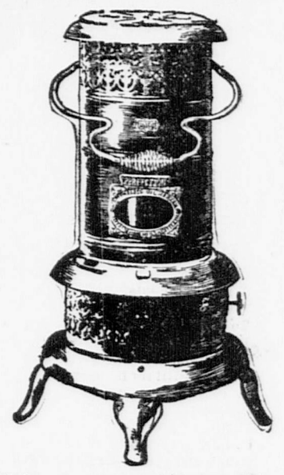

Muskogee, Okla., Nov. 13.—Federal Judge Campbell has granted an injunction to the department of the interior restraining the thirty-seven counties of eastern Oklahoma from selling Indian lands for taxes. The question involves the right of the state to tax lands of Indians that were exempted from taxation by Indian treaties.

"Choir."

Churchgoers who follow the service in their prayer books would certainly miss the "dear old phrase" concerning "quires and places where they sing," and in time the old fashioned "quires" may be made new fashioned again by the coming of rationalized spelling. "Choir" was a most unnecessary outrage upon the language. The old English "quer" or "quere" became quite naturally "quyer" or "quire," and so it remained until the end of the seventeenth century, when somebody seems to have introduced "choir" beause it looked more like the French "choeur," as if that were a valid reason. There could have been no danger of confusing a church "quire" and a "quire" of paper, which is a different word, the French "cahier," probably from Latin "quaternarium," a collection of four leaves.—London Standard.

HYDE PARK WINS

Quincy High was defeated by the Hyde Park High at football yesterday by the score 6 to 0. It was played at Hyde Park and was one of the hardest fought games of the season, and i fleft strictly on its merits would have resulted in no-score game, but the referee got busy in the second half and there was no chance for Quincy to come away from the field a victor. In the second half, with the ball on Quincy's one-half yd. line and first down, the Hyde Park team was thrown back ten yards in two rushes. On hte second rush, however, Lakin who had been the mainstay of the line was hit by the half back of Hyde Park, and because of this mix-up the referee put Lakin out of the game. Instead of banishing the half back of Hyde Park to the side lines, he put the tackle who at the time of the trouble was no where near the scene, out of the game. On the next rush the half back who should have gone out of the game, went over the line for the only touchdown of the game.

WARD ONE CANDIDATE.

Among the new candidates for Councilman from Ward One is the well known builder, Charles A. Ericson. He is a large property owner and pays a substantial tax into the city treasury. Mr. Ericson is 36 years of age and has been a resident of Quincy for the past fourteen years. He is one of the largest building contractors, having during the past four years constructed in Ward One alone, twenty dwelling houses. At the present time he has under construction on his property on Euclid avenue three apartment houses. Of the seven aspirants for the Council from Ward One he is the only resident of Precinct 1, with its large property interests. Mr. Ericson lives with his family on Glendale road.

TODAY'S COURT.

Samuel Greenough was arraigned for non-support at Braintree. He was ordered to pay $4 per week for the support of his family.

Annie Lewis was arraigned for setting up a lottery at Quincy. Case continued until next Saturday.

David Frazier was arraigned for assault at Braintree. Case continued under $50 bonds to keep the peace for one month.

Mr. Gifford of the Y. M. C, A. is anxious to meet the fellows, who are iuterested in basketball, in his office tonight at 8 o'clock.

UNITED CHARITIES

A Novel Plan Inaugurated to Raise Funds

There has been started in Quincy a plan which if well worked out will bring in a good deal of money to the three charities for which it is intended. A party of eight is invited to any kind of an entertainment—cards, musicales, riding, trolley, parties, etc. These eight in turn each invite eight more, who in turn ask eight others, and so on. The circle can be widened indefinitely in geometrical progression. The first of these parties was held yesterday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Theophilus King on Adams street, and proved a most enjoyable affair.

No hostess spend more than 25 cents on the entertainment, and each eight gives 25 cents apiece. The money accruing from this plan can be sent with the lists o fnames to Walter E. Burke, Adams street, who is the treaurer. At the end of the season the money will be divided between the City Hospital, the Woman's Auxiliary of the Y. M. C. A. and the Anti-Tuberculosis camp. Any one in Quincy may start a circle oftheir own of eight.

The plan is so simple and the expense so small, it is hoped that all the people in Quincy will be interested, and that young and old, men and women, will begin at once to work on this movement and so secure to our united charities a good sum of money with very little trouble.

LOTTERY ALLEGED

Annie Lewis of New York in Quincy Court

A woman who gave her name as Annie Lewis, and her residence as New York, was arrested by Inspector McKay last night for setting up a lottery. The woman claims to be a collector for the Metropolitan and Suburban Real Estate Co., owning land at Westhampton Park, Long Island, New York.

The story of the dealings of the land company dates back to last summer. Visitors to Paragon Park one week in August were comfronted by a large sign announcing that 100 house lots at Westhampton Park were to be given away absolutely free.

Visitors as they entered the gate were given a numbered ticket to which they were asked to sign their name and address and drop in a box near the entrance. Some weeks later fully 25 Quincy people received letters informing them that they had been awarded lots, and if six cents in stamps were forwarded, full particulars would be received. Those who forwarded the six cents received in turn a plan of the land. Also the statement that the lot awarded was 23 by 100 feet. The letter urged the receivers to purchase a second lot for $75, which would give them a good building lot.

Some Quincy people bit among them Agda V. Erickson, a maid employed by W .R. Lofgren. She paid $15 in cash to the agent and was to pay the balance of $60 at a certain time. In the meantime a letter sent to the firm in New York had been returned with the post office stamp "fraudelent" marked on it. Yesterday the Lewis woman called on the Erickson girl to collect the $60, and was told to come in the evening.

In the meantime hte police were notified, and when the woman called Inspector McKay was there to receive her. The woman claims that she is simply a collector for the land company and that it it is a legitimate company. The case went over until next Saturday for trial.

Success is assured for the dramatics to be given under the auspices of the Wollaston Free Kindergarten the advance sale having been such that the committee has decided to give two performances.

☞ Is there a boy in the city who wants to earn a bright five dollar gold piece? The boy selling the most Ledgers between now and New Years will be awarded five dollars in gold, beside earning good commissions each day on the papers sold. The contest is open to any boy commencing Nov. 15 and ending Jan. 1, 1910.

WHY FUNDS ARE NEEDED

Many Patients at Hospital Unable to Pay

Hospital Week began Sunday with an announcement in the churches, and in some parts of the city there were meetings of the collectors preparing plans for the coming week. Enthusiasm seems to run high among those who have interested themselves in the work of collecting and all are hoping for a successful week.

There seems to be a wonderment on the part of some people as to why a public collection is necessary for the hospital. These people argue that since one has to pay for treatment at the hospital they cannot see the necessity of a second contribution. The fact is that everybody who goes to the hospital for treatment does not pay. Those who are able to pay are expected to contribute to the support of the hospital by paying board and other incidental expenses but this charge is always less than the cost.

Those who are unable to pay are admitted free and no case that is a proper one for administration, is ever turned away, no matter whether the patient is rich or poor, influential or friendless, so long as there is a bed in the hospital. It can be easily understood that under these conditions the yearly cost of maintenance falls below the amount of money received from patients, and each year the public is asked to contribute, as a work of charity, to a deficit which generally amounts to $4000 or $5000.

It is a fact that of late some patients have been refused admission because of the lack of room, but this has been the only reason. This condition will be remedied in a few weeks when the new pavilion will be opened and the city will have as fine a hospital, both as to building and internal equipment, as it is possible to find in a modern and up-to-date institution of this kind.

As there seems to have been some doubt as to the need of this annual collection, so there has also been some apparent misunderstanding about the physicians who can attend the hospital. Dr. John A. Gordon, the oldest and best- known physician of the city, explained Saturday that any patient who pays all the hospital charges can have the services of his own physician if he so desires; otherwise patients are allotted in regular order to the members of the staff on duty, according to their school of medicine. In all such cases the services of the staff are free. Patients who pay all hospital charges and also for medical attendance may, on admission, select any member of the staff to attend them. Private patients not belonging in Quincy, are expected to pay their physician. The hospital staff consists of eight regular and four homeopathic physicians. Each one is on duty three months. Three are on duty at the same time. All the physicians in Quincy, in good standing, have the right and privilege of treating private patients in the hospital.

In the little paper called "Our Hospital, which was issued today, were some letters from appreciative patients who were obliged to use the hospital during the past year. Other letters for the hospital paper were received after the edition had been closed and so were too late for publication in that little journal, much to the regret of those who had the little publication in charge. Some of these letters follow:

J. McClay, of 15 Wibird street, writes: "Last July I fell from a tree and broke a number of ribs. I was taken to the Quincy Hospital. The doctors had given up all hopes of me but through the good treatment and careful watching of the nurses I recovered and was able to be home and about inside of three weeks. I am now working and feel as well as I ever did. I advise anyone who is very sick to go to the Quincy Hospital for good treatment."

James J. Stevens of 31 Quincy avenue, who had one of his legs amputated at the hospital last winter, writes of his experience in the hospital as follows: "I was taken to the hospital Feb. 28, 1909, and a few days there convinced me of the kindness and sympathy shown to all both rich and poor. Miss Thayer, the matron, shows sincere interest in her patients and the nurses under her charge are always most attentive and ever ready to help in any way possible to alleviate the pain and suffering that is about them. I can truthfully say after four months experience at the Quincy City Hospital that I received

TRIBUTES TO H. B. BLACKWELL

The Earnest Unflinching Advocate of Woman's Suffrage

A notable memorial service was held at the Park Street church, Boston, Saturday afternoon for Henry B. Blackwell of Dorchester and Atlantic. Ex-Gov. John D. Long presided, and loving tributes were paid by Mrs. Julia Ward Howe, Francis J. Garrison, Edwin D. Mead, Prof. F. C. de Sumichrast, Meyer Bloomfield, Mrs. Isabel C. Barrows, James L. Stark, Moses H. Gulesian of Boston and Rev. Charles G. Ames of Boston.

Mr. Ames described Dr. Blackwell as one of the youngest hearted men in Boston, and as one who stood stoutly for the freedom of his own faculties, at the same time wishing everyone to do the same. He was a life-size representative, of our best Anglo-Saxon traditions—the traditions of ordered liberty and public spirit. He was a champion of equal suffrage because he was a thorough democrat, a believer in popular rights, in human rights, and also because he honored the head and heart and soul of woman. And with good reason, if only because he met Lucy Stone, for all that was best in himself was quickened, enlarged and elevated by what was best in her. Their wedded life was like a sacramental cup. They championed woman suffrage not that woman might become more like man, but that at last she might become truly and fully woman. These faithful toilers died in full confidence of the ultimate triumph of their cause, and their spirit rests like a mantle on one not less devoted or less capable and persistent than themselves.

BROCKTON FAIR.

The Brockton Agricultural Society held its 37th annual meeting Nov. 12, when E. M. Thompson, treasurer, gave a most gratifying report of the 1909 Brockton Fair, the net receipts being $21,743. It was voted to give $500 to the Brockton Hospital and $500 to the Wales Home for Aged Women. Dates for the 1910 fair have been set for Oct. 4, 5, 6, and 7 and improvements and special features are already under consideration.

HOUGHS NECK SCHOOL LOT.

It is expected that the papers transferring the Cavanagh lot at Houghs Neck to the city, for the new school building, will be passed today. There has been considerable unavoidable delay in the passing of the papers. This was due to several reasons, one of which was the death of John Cavanagh who was one of the parties at interest, making it necessary that executors of his will should be appointed by the probate court before the transfer could be made. Mr. Cavanagh's will was allowed last Wednesday, and it was said at the Mayor's office this morning that the papers would probably be passed today.

MARSTIN—DOBSON.

Cards have been received from Mr. and Mrs. George Richard Dobson of Braintree announcing the marriage Saturday of their daughter Vesta May, to Dr. Clayton Raymond Marstin of Braintree and Quincy. Dr. and Mrs. Marstin, who are both extremely popular, stole a march on their friends by quietly going to New York, where the nuptial knot was tied. They left Saturday afternoon via the Clyde line steamship Iroquois for Florida where they will pass their honeymoon. Upon their return they will reside at 343 Washington street, Braintree, the home of the groom's parents, where they will receive their friends Friday evening, Dec. 3, from 8 to 10 oclock.

—The new gymnasium at Wellesley college has very appropriately been called the Mary Hemenway, as a memorial to the founder of the Boston School of Gymnastics.

Goods for the Rummage Sale to be held next week Thursday, Friday and Saturday in the store at the head of Merrymount road on Hancock street may be sent there on or after Tuesday or Mrs. D. E. Wadsworth, president of the Day Nursery association or Mrs. W. E. Blanchard president of the King's Daughters may be notified by telephone or letter and the goods will be sent for. Anything will be accepted, clothing of all kinds, furniture, ornaments etc.

NEW YORK PASTORATE

Rev. Alfred Ray Atwood Receives a Call

Rev. Alfred Ray Atwood of our city has received a call to the pastorate of the First Presbyterian church of Patterson, N. Y. Rev. Mr. Atwood was educated at Berlin, the University of Vermont, Harvard and Andover. He came here from Cotuit, Mass., about five years ago, and the Washington Street church at Quincy Point has grown during his ministry. It has always been a church whose pastors have been sought by the stronger churches. Among its recent pastors are the Rev. Morris H. Turk of Natick, the Rev. W. Sherman Thompson of Somerville, Rev. H. A. Yontz of Rochester, N. Y., Rev. Edward Anderson, D. D., of Quincy, and Rev. Leon H. Austin of Roslindale.

Rev. Mr. Atwood has been asked to succeed in the New York pastorate, the Rev. O. S. Deane, D. D., formerly of Holbrook, Mass. Mr. Atwood, when seen by a Ledger reporter acknowledged the call, but said he had not come to any decision in the matter. The call is under consideration and he has consulted with his deacons about it.

Mr. Atwood is also interested in matters outside of his church. He is the late president of this Sunday School District, Secretary of the Pilgrim Club of Boston, and chaplain of Rural Lodge, F. & A. M.. The Ledger congratulates him on the call but hopes he will continue in our city.

AN INTERESTING BOOK.

"The Ships and Sailors of Old Salem" is an interesting book by Ralph D. Paine, circulated by A. C. McClurg & Co., of East Ohio street, Chicago. From the Atlantic seaports, particularly from Salem there was during the years between the wars of the Revolution and 1812, a commerce that extended to all parts of the world. At that time there were no ships superior to the American. The exploits of these ships against pirates, and blockading British warships makes interesting reading. Their traffic and discoveries and the fmae they brought not only to Salem but to their country are told graphically. The book is profusely illustrated and deals with facts gathered from logs, letters, archives and original sources. It will while away many winter evenings by the fireside and prove an entertaining companion for its reader. Ralph D. Paine the author has also published "The Greater America" and "The Romance of an Old-time Shipmaster," and other books widely read.

FOOTBALL CHAMPIONSHIP.

The Wollaston A. A. by defeating the South Weymouth A. A. 27 to 0 on Saturday won the 140-pound championship of the South Shore. There was nothing to it but Wollaston all the way, Weymouth not even getting the ball once in Quincy's territor, and gained ground but two or three times. McDonald, Robbins and Johnson played well for the winners and Clarke for the visitors. The home team included: Hendrickson, Morton, Wickstrom, Flynn, Gerstib, Johnson, Osberg, MacDonald, Clapp, Mansfield, and Robbins.

EXTRA

BATTLESHIP CONTRACTS

Expected by the Fore River Company

It is more than possible that within a few days the Fore River Shipbuilding Co. will be awarded the contract by the Argentine Republic to build two battleships for that country. Some days ago the government opened bids for the building of two battleships and 18 destroyers.

President Bowles of the Fore River Co. is now in Europe, and submitted bids for building the new navy, for that is practically what it is. Newspaper dispatches state that the bid of the Fore River Co. for the battleships was a million dollars less than any other shipbuilding firm.

All of the bids of the Fore River Co. called for the American Curtis turbine engines, whose superority over the Parsons or English turbine was shown in the recent government trials of the battleship North Dakota.

The specifications of the Argentine Republic called for the Parsons turbine but since the trials of the North Dakota these specifications have been changed, and the American Curtis turbines will be used in both the battleships and eighteen destroyers.

The latest dispatches received indicate that the 18 destroyers will be decided between English, German and French shipbuilding companies, and these it is understood have already been awarded.

The two battleships, it is understood by dispatches received, will be awarded to United States shipbuilding firms, and as the Fore River Shipbuilding Co. was the lowest bidder, as well as the builders of the American Curtis turbines it seems almost a foregone conclusion that the two big fighters will be built in Quincy.

The navy of the Argentine Republic is today an obsolete one, and the two battleships and 18 destroyers are intended to put her on a naval footing with other powers.

It is hard to estimate just what these contracts for those two battleships means for Quincy. In the first place it means steady employment for thousands of men for several years.

In addition it means that Quincy will receive a world-wide reputation as a shipbuilding centre.

The American government has been slow to recognize the superiority of the Curtis turbine over the English Parsons, for up to the time of the North Dakota they have not really had a fair test.

The first steamship to be equipped was the Creole, where unfortunately they did not develop the speed. Then they were installed in the scout cruiser Salem. At the trials of the Salem they did not come up to the standard, for the reason, as was later developed, a bolt had in some way been introduced into the engines. Although in later trials the Salem more than made good the fact that she fell down at the first trials gave her a black eye.

In the case of the battleship North Dakota, however, the Curtis turbines proved their superiority in every particular. Naval officers on board were astounded when, after cutting out four boilers at the time of the accident, she continued on her run and more than met the requirement of the government. Again in the four-hour runs with but few of her boilers in use she was able to meet all the requirements of the government.

On the four-hour runs, when government officials learned the number of boilers that were to be used, they were emphatic in declaring that it would be a physical impossibility for her to do it. Chief Engineer John Cain, who was in charge of the engine room, was just as emphatic in his declaration that she would make the speed with the reduced number of boilers, and she did.

Before the trials of the North Dakota were over the skeptic government officials had become fully convinced that the Curtis turbine was a winner ,and from now on the English Parsons would have to take a back seat.

OF PUBLIC INTEREST

NO KNOCKING.

Editor Daily Ledger:

The owners of Music hall have been more than circumspect in the past when leasing or letting the hall for entertainments and I am sure that they would not tolerate or approve the coarse jokes and uncalled for "knocks" that have been given our city and some of our most respected citizens by the vaudeville crowd from Boston or elsewhere that held forth during the past two weeks.

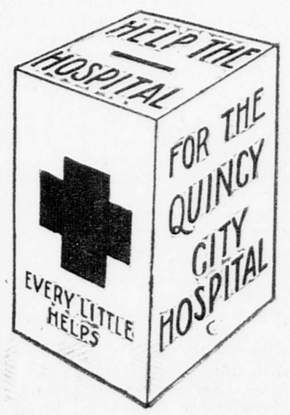

If those histrionic artists cannot entertain without resorting to the cowardly expedient of "knocking," they might as well discontinue their efforts. That sort of thing does not prove acceptable in Quincy; we prefer something having originality. It requires neither heart nor brains to say things about a man behind his back.

Should Quincy lose its energetic pastor of the Washington Street church, Rev. Alfred Ray Atwood it would be with considerable regret. His influence has extended beyond the Quincy Point parish where he has been successful in a marked degree.

Although it is already known who will be Democratic candidate, the Republican candidate, and the Socialist candidate for Mayor of Quincy, the voters should attend the caucuses tomorrow evening and make the best possible selection for candidates for the City Council. Ward Four usually elects three Democrats, and the caucus will have seven names from which to make their selection of three candidates. The Republicans of the city are called upon to nominate five councilmen-at-large from a list of seven. Republicans of Wards One, Three and Five are also called upon to select three from a larger number. The Socialists have no contest but an opportunity to show their strength.

It is not improbable that in a few years, the great American cities, which have been distinguished heretofore for nothing except shops, department stores and factories, will become art centers, like Rome, Dresden and Paris. New York has built a real theatre where the classic drama alone will hold sway, as it does in the Theatre Francaise in Paris. New York and Chicago millionaires are spending millions for art treasures. Washington is distinguished among other cities as an art centre. Our European critics glibly charge us with an inordinate love for the mighty dollar but the experience of American tourists abroad is to the effect that Europeans and Asiatics are as avaricious for the almighty shilling or mark or franc or rupee as the American is for his dollar, and far more loath to part with it, and by no means as unselfish in expenditure as is the American.

The rascals in New York that have been cheating through the Customs House to the extent of millions are after Collector Loeb . They represent hundreds of millions of dollars. No previous Collector has had the nerve to make them disgorge. Unless they succeed in overthrowing Loeb he must go to jail. A procession of them are on their way to Washington with charges against the Collector. They will see the President. Who are these people? They are New York millionaire importers, whose thefts have been detected. They are backed by thousands of their customers, and also by thousands of tourists, who have been smuggling in a smaller way, but the aggregate of whose thefts through smuggling amounts to millions. It is but another phase of the tariff question. Under the Common Law, a man, a merchant o· a woman has a right to purchase where he or she pleases and to sell without restriction, but the tariff which has reached a monstrous development in this country imposes restrictions unheard of in the annals of trade, with the result that the man, merchant and the woman are beating the law. Against this formidable array of smugglers big and little, Collector Loeb stands upon the tariff law. He undoubtedly ought to have the support of the administration. There is some question as to the methods by which he has detected these great and aristrocratic smugglers but does not the end justify the means. Will the Government stand by to the last? If not, the procession of smugglers on its way to Washington to interview President Taft, will return to New York and resume their profitable dishonesty.

MODERN HAIR DRESSING

has played havoc with the tresses of the fair sex, and druggists everywhere comment on the fact that they are selling large quantities of sage for making the old-fashioned "sage tea," such as was used by our grandmothers for promoting the growth of their hair and restoring its natural color. The demand for this well-known herb for this purpose has been so great that one manufacturer has taken advantage of the fact, and has placed on the market an ideal "sage tea," containing sulphur, a valuable remedy for dandruff and scalp rashes and irritations. This preparation, which is called Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur, is sold by all leading druggists for 50 cents and $1 a bottle, or will be sent direct by the Wyeth Chemical Company, 74 Cortlandt St., New York City, upon receipt of price.

WHAT COLD STORAGE DOES.

Omaha dealers are said to be rushing butter to the cold storage warehouses and predicting that consumers will be paying 50 cents a pound for the product before Christmas. It does not require a long head, nowadays, to see that butter will be higher in price in winter than in summer; in fact, from time immemorial butter has always advanced during the winter months. But when there were no cold storage warehouses the prices of butter were lower at this time of the year because there were no speculators buying the product up, right and left, rushing it to the cooler, and predicting tremendous advances during the winter. The cold storage warehouse is beneficent in many ways but the speculative feature of its utilization has raised the summer prices of butter and eggs and poultry and also boosted the winter rates for these products. None of these products will ever again sell long at low prices, because the moment the prices ease a little the speculator jumps in and clears the market of the surplus.—Framingham News.

SAFE PRESENTED.

A pleasant surprise was tendered Oscar Frisk, the Insurance man, by over sixty of his friends at Electa hall, Saturday night. Otto Gelotte made the presentation speech, and after assuring him of the hearty friendship of all those present and presenting his wife a bunch of chrysanthemums, informed Mr. Frisk that a new safe had been purchased for him and was ready any time he wished to take possession. Dancing was then enjoyed until nearly midnight. During intermission refreshments were served. The committee in charge of the surprise party was composed of Oscar Funke, Otto Gellote, Miss S. Gustafson, Annie Johnson, Charles Pierson, Charles Ericson, Henry Johnson, Andrew Anderson, Richard Westland, Nels Akerson and Nels Lodengard.

BRIEFS

Hospital week.

City Council meeting tonight.

The George L. Gill associates hold a dance Wednesday night.

The speaker at the Presbyterian brotherhood this evening will be Dr. William J. McCausland.

Mrs. Hollis H. Rogers of Grand View avenue is at Alamo, Georgia, for the winter.

Arthur M. Tingley left Saturday for Superior, Wisconsin, where he has accepted a position.

Mrs. William D. Purdom of Newport avenue is the guest for a week of her sister, Mrs. William Waller of Lowell.

The Frank E. Clevelands of Farrington street are now occupying their new and attractive home on Cheriton road.

Mr. and Mrs. Herbert H. Albee of Warren avenue moved last week to their attractive new home on Highland avenue.

Many Quincy people learned with regret of the death in Boston of A. Frank Bussell an old time resident and business man of this city.

Charles Grassick has been re-elected president of the Makaria Fraternity. Frank Ewen has also been appointed manager of the base ball team for 1910.

The men's class of the Wollaston Baptist Sunday school is to have a social and supper in the chapel Wednesday evening. Rev. Herman S. Pinkham of Somerville will be the speaker.

Dr. George L. Smart of Newton will be the speaker on Wednesday evening at the annual banquet of the Makaria Fraternity at Bethany chapel; subject, "The lost art." There will be other addresses and also reports and a good time.

The newly reorganized Men's club of Bethany church will holds its first meeting and banquet this evening at 6.30. Mr. O. W. Dimock of Watertown, a veteran of the Civil war, will speak on "Personal Experiences." All men interested in the church are invited.

—Does our eagerness to record a good deed indicate the scarcity, and therefore the surprise? I hope this is not a logical inference. I am optimist enough to think that such deeds are numerous, but the doers conceal them. On the other hand, the evil deeds are forced into prominence by the reporters, the police, and the law. In one short paragraph of my daily paper are three good deeds by three different parties. One could almost wish that the same electric search light could be turned on every town and city for similar deeds that is used when crime is rampant.—Sciolus of Milford.

☞ Is there a boy in the city who wants to earn a bright five dollar gold piece? The boy selling the most Ledgers between now and New Years will be awarded five dollars in gold, beside earning good commissions each day on the papers sold. The contest is open to any boy commencing Nov. 15 and ending Jan. 1, 1910.

STEAMER CUT ALMOST IN TWO

Disappears Beneath the Waves Inside of Two Minutes

A HUNDRED LIVES ARE LOST

Victims Nearly All Natives of India—Disaster Came So Quickly That There Was No Time For Panic or to Lower Boats—Many Trapped In Their Berths—Sharks Make Work of Rescue Extremely Difficult

Singapore, Nov. 15.—The mail steamer La Seyne, running between Java and Singapore and on her way to this port, was in collision Sunday with the steamer Onda of the British-India line and sank within two minutes.

Seven European passengers, including Baron and Baroness Beniczky, the captain of La Seyne, five European officers and eighty-eight others, comprising native passengers and members of the crew, were drowned.

The accident occurred about 4 o'clock in the morning in a thick haze. The vessels were steaming at a good speed and the Seyne was cut almost in half.

There was no time for panic nor for any attempt on the part of the officers of the foundering steamer to get out the boats.

The majority of those on board were caught in their berths and carried down with the vessel.

The force of the collision brought the Onda to almost a dead stop and her engines were at once slowed down and her boats lowered.

The rescue work proved thrilling, for not only were the rescuing parties impeded by darkness, but shoals of sharks were already attacking those clinging to pieces of wreckage in the water.

Sixty-one persons from the ill-fated steamer were finally dragged into the boats and brought by the Onda to this port. Many of them had been bitten by sharks and several are severely injured.

SUFFRAGE FOR WOMEN

Federation of Labor Goes on Record as Being In Its Favor

Toronto, Nov. 15.—The convention of the American Federation of Labor went on record as favoring woman suffrage , an eight-hour day for post-office clerks, legislation for better protection of actors and actresses from the "extortion and corrupt business methods" of so-called theatrical employment agencies, a postal savings bank act, deep waterway projects, a continuation of the fight against tuberculosis, granting American citizenship to the people of Porto Rico and the construction of a 26-foot channel through the great lakes from Buffalo to Duluth, and from Buffalo to Chicago.

Resolutions looking to the establishment of a national defense fund by the federation to assist unions in distress were voted down after a spirited debate.

LEAVES WIFE DESTITUTE

Insurance Agent, an Ex-Clergyman, Sought by Police of Halifax

Halifax, Nov. 15.—Somewhere in New England, probably Boston, the Halifax police believe, is M. C. MacLennan, local manager of the Excelsior Insurance society and a former Presbyterian clergyman, whom they charge with defaulting with $3000 of the society's funds.

As a clue to aid in his apprehension the police state that he is accompanied by a woman.

His wife is living here in her home, which, it has since been found, her husband mortgaged for as much as possible before leaving. Even the furniture is no longer hers.

COLLEGE GIRL KILLED

Suffered Concussion of he Brain In an Automobile Accident

Somerville, Mass., Nov. 15.—Miss Myra L. Swift, the Wellesley college girl who was injured in an auto accident while on her way from the Dartmouth game Saturday, died Sunday afternoon at the Somerville hospital of concussion of the brain.

Her fiance, Percy A. Hall, who had kept ceaseless watch at the girl's bedside since the accident, collapsed when the physician told him the end had come.

Miss Swift, who was 19 years old, was a member of the class of 1912. She lived with her father in Medford.

To Pay For Use of Streets

Detroit, Nov. 15.—The Detroit United railway has acceded conditionally to the city's demand for $200 per day for the use of streets upon which franchises have expired. The company waives no rights and the city waives none as far as an ultimate readjustment is concerned.

Three Killed In Tenement Blaze

Pittsburg, Nov. 15.—Three unidentified men, all foreigners, are dead, five others are seriously injured and twelve are suffering from bruises and shock, the result of fire in a Polish lodging house on the river front.

BEST MAN IN QUINCY

Dr. E. N. Hardy Defines His Characteristics

Dr. E. N. Hardy did not name "the best man in Quincy" in the second of his Sunday evening addresses on civic problems, but told of his characteristics both negative and positive. He did not expect all to agree. Young matrons might say "my husband," while young maidens would say "my lover." Children would say "my grandpa" and others: my physicians, my teacher my priest, my father, etc.

The welfare of the future will be determined by our ability to produce a higher type of man. It is a serious indictment of the modern school system that there is not more emphasis placed upon character building and the social equipment for actual life. But a similar indictment must be placed upon the home the church and the juvenile code of law. We ought to produce a generation of contributors to, and producers of, the common good. The best man is at the center of the great problems.

Dr. Hardy by the elimination process showed that the best man in Quincy is not the apathetic man, not the coward, not the bigot, not the pessimist, not the crank, not the supersensitive man, not the social exotic, not selfish, not lazy, not irreligious.

Someone has said, "I suppose that the best man is the one who does the most good in the city." This is certainly true providing the proper definition be given to the term good. There are some truly good people who have little force. The best man in Quincy is aggressively good, one who makes enemies because he is progressive, energetic, positive. I think the best man in Quincy is a good man in his social as well as individual virtues. He will be sensitive to the evils practiced and the good things which are left undone, but he will not rest there. He will lift up his voice and protest against the evil, and to awaken interest in the good things which might be done. He is in part a reformer because there are many municipal conditions which ought to be reformed. But he will be more of a former than a reformer. The constructive, progressive, vision seeking man is what we need . The best man in Quincy is religious as well as moral. Altruism, service, fraternity, unity, sacrifice, justice, honor and love, will be the great words of the future. Religion will be the real life of the better day to come. The best man in Quincy is he who is most thoroughly giving his life in serving his fellow men. Let us be more eager to measure up higher towards that ideal ourselves.

SCHOOL ATTENDANCE.

The average daily attendance at the public schools in October was 5970. The High and Massachusetts Fields buildings led in percentage. The John Hancock and Lincoln had the fewest tardinesses. Supt. Barbour's report follows:

PHOTOGRAPHER BUSSELL

Passes Away Suddenly at a Boston Hotel

A. Frank Bussell, for many years a resident of Quincy, was overcome by a stroke of apoplexy Saturday afternoon at the rooms of the Boston checker club in the American House, Boston ,and died shortly after at the Relief hospital, where he was taken. Mr. Bussell was about 57 years of age. When a young man he established himself in the photographers' business in Boston, where he remained some years. About 1874 he came to Quincy and opened up a studio being located first in the building adjoining the Hancock cemetery, which later was occupied by the district court. From there he moved to the building on the corner of Chestnut and Maple streets. When the Adams building was erected he moved his studio to that building.

Ten years ago he retired from active business, selling out his studio to F. A. Skinner. He then leased the building on the corner of Hancock and Saville streets, and put on a store front. There for a time he was in business with Henry P. Kittredge, but soon sold out and moved to Boston where he has since made his home with his nephew, Alfred R. Haskell, at Roslindale. He still retained his interest in the building and was more or less engaged in real estate in Boston and other places.

He was an enthusiastic and an expert checker player, and was a member of the Boston Checker club. Saturday he played a few games and then retired to a side room where he was found unconscious. He was a member of the Masonic and Odd Fellow fraternities. He leaves two brothers, H. A. Bussell of South Framingham and Pinder Bussell who resides in the west.

The funeral will be held from his nephew's home at 4275 Washington street, Roslindale, at 2 P. M., Tuesday, Nov. 16. Relatives and friends are invited.

THE JEWETT

LEARNING TO PLAY

Beginning young is only half the secret of learning to play skilfully and gaining a real love for music.

Beginning right is the more important part. A fine instrument to use at the outset will make a deep and lasting impression on the musical nature of a child.

Let your children have A JEWETT PIANO this fall. Its sweetness and richness in every note will train the ear to recognize beauty of tone as well as mere intervals of pitch and time. The perfect balance of its action will help to develop a correct and artistic touch.

Favored children are taking their first music lessons this year on Jewett Pianos. The wonderfully resonant tone of the Jewett Pianos causes them to be held in affectionate esteem in thousands of musical homes in New England.

Jewett Pianos, established 1860, have proved their great durability and the supreme value of their musical qualities through the test of nearly half a century's use.

DEMONSTRATION LECTURE

Mrs. Wade Tells of Inexpensive Desserts

The second of a series of five demonstration lectures by Mrs. Mary L. Wade chairman of the Home Economics committee of the Quincy Women's club was given at the clubhouse Friday afternoon. "Apparently the interest is growing as several new faces were noted in the audience.

Her subject was "Inexpensive Desserts," and they were practical inexpensive, wholesome, delicious, nourishing and easily digested. Mrs. Wade first made a Tapioca mocha pudding, served with a caramel sauce and it was just as good as the name sounds. Mrs. Wade explained in detail each step and how to prepare the caramel which adds much to the flavor.

Jellied peaches, made and moulded in sherbet cups or one large mould could be used. They were made with a vegetable gelatine which seemed to be new to every one judging by the conversation it caused. That a dessert could be made of a gelatine, that could be unmoulded and eaten within an hour, on a warm day like Friday without the use of ice was a revelation and many thought it a better flavor than the animal gelatine.

Oatmeal pudding was made of apples, raisins, sugar milk, cinnamon and rolled oats. It was a good dessert and certainly a healthy one for children.

In a cold fruit pudding, oranges, bananas and figs that had been stewed were used and Mrs. Wade gave the brand of figs she used and told how she cooked them. It was a dessert easily prepared and much liked.

Lemon cream in which cornstarch was used, most people do not cook enough, ten minutes is the least time, then it will be clear and easily digested.

Orange dumplings, were tender, light and pronounced excellent. A cupful of mashed potato was one of the ingredients used in the dough. They were served with an orange sauce which was thickened with arrow root.

Mrs. Wade not only gave details as to making all these good things which the ladies enjoyed eating but gave valuable hints as to the easiest and best way of doing things and it was a most instructive afternoon.

The next lecture Nov. 19th will be "A Marketing lecture", and Mrs. Wade will have a butcher there to cut meats and explain about the different cuts and she will tell of the nutritive values of each and how they should be cooked—regarding temperature, etc.

STEWARD COGAN.

Popular with All on Trial Trip of North Dakota.

A department which contributes much to the pleasure of those on the battleship trial trips is the commissary. The Fore River Shipbuilding Company has an experienced steward in J. T. Cogan, and in place of kicking often heard on ship board, Mr. Cogan always comes in for praise and usually souvenir gifts. On the return from the recent trial o fthe battleship North Dakota, Steward Cogan was presented a solid silver shaving mug by the commissary crew. The mug was handsomely engraved by Sandberg Bros., where it is now on exhibition ,as follows:

"Presented to J. T. Cogan by the commissary crew of Battleship North Dakota, Nov. 13, 1909." Steward Cogan also received a large purse of money from members of the trial board and others. Mr. Cogan is considering an offer from the New York Shipbuilding Company to serve as steward on their new destroyers which are nearly ready for trials.

MILTON.

Milton is honored in the selection of W. Cameron Forbes, a former resident, as governor general of the Philippine Island.

Col. Edward Anderson is to speak on the Civil War and the Outcome of the War at the East Milton Congregational church on Thursday evening.

Work was begun last week on the new school building on Brook road. The name selected is the Vose school, in honor of one of the early settlers of the town.

Henry H. Barnes of Maple street one of the town auditors is to be a candidate for selectman.

The house of Mrs. Nathan Buck on Adams street was damaged some fifty dollars by fire Thursday afternoon, caused by a spark from the chimney.

JUMPS TRACK ON BRIDGE

Car With Fifty Passengers Aboard Almost Plunges Into Creek

Portsmouth, N. H., Nov. 15.—A trolley car filled with passengers just escaped being precipitated into Sturgeon creek from the wooden bridge over that stream. Many of the women on board fainted, others screamed their loudest and all the passengers were badly shaken up.

The car left South Berwick for Portsmouth, and about fifty men, women and children were on board. Just before the bridge over Sturgeon creek was reached the car jumped the track and ran half way across the creek on the woodwork of the bridge. When in the centre of the bridge the axle of the forward truck snapped in two with a loud report.

It seemed as if nothing could prevent the car and all on board from tumbling into the water, ten feet below. The passengers were panic stricken. When the car came to a stop the rails were found twisted together between the rear end wheels, while the forward truck was hanging over the side of the trestle of the bridge.

TO FIGHT EXPULSION

Mrs. Stetson Arrives In Boston to Face Officials of Science Church

Boston, Nov. 15.—Mrs. Augusta E. Stetson, "admonished" leader of the New York Christian Science church, arrived in Boston last night prepared to face today the directors of the mother church, who will sit as a trial board and hear evidence intended to prove that Mrs. Stetson should be excommunicated.

The crisis in the struggle between Mrs. Stetson and the local directors came unexpectedly so far as her partisans in New York were concerned.

The summons to Mrs. Stetson to come to Boston was not sent to New York until Sunday morning, but as soon as it was received the deposed leader prepared to face the situation.

BURGLAR AROUSES TAUNTON PEOPLE

Enters Ten Houses Before Posse Makes Fruitless Hunt

Taunton, Mass., Nov. 15.—Many daring burglaries of private houses in East Taunton and Lakeville, committed by an audacious young man, who walked from house to house barefooted early Sunday morning, caused much excitement in that locality.

In nearly every one of the houses to which he gained admittance the burglar woke up some one.

Armed with revolvers, clubs, rifles and shotguns, a good sized posse of indignant citizens were soon out hunting for the intruder. The chase was a hot one, but the burglar succeeded in eluding his pursuers.

The burglar entered ten houses and stole jewelry, works of art, clothing and cash to the amount of nearly $500. He is described as apparently about 20 years old and weighing about 120 pounds.

SKELETON IN WOODS

It Is Discovered by a Boy While He Is Rabbit Hunting

Ayer, Mass., Nov. 15.—A man's skeleton was found in the woods near Harvard, near the Ayer line, by Victor Fillebrown, 15 years old. The boy was out hunting for rabbits.

A vest was the only article of clothing on the skeleton. About fifty-five feet away was a coat in which was a bottle of some kind of medicine, which has not yet been analyzed. Several books, including a diary and notebook, were found on the ground near the coat. Rain had made the writing illegible.

GREAT NERVE OF BURGLARS

Enter Brilliantly Lighted Store, Blow Safe and Get Away

New York, Nov. 15.—Within range of the brilliant lights of Broadway, expert cracksmen blew open the safe of a shoe company's store some time early Sunday and got away with $4000 in cash. The robbery was not discovered until many hours later.

In the store itself the lights were all on, one brilliant cluster directly over the safe, which was within four feet of the street window. Nitroglycerine is supposed to have been used, with burlap to deaden the sound.

Letter Carrier Goes to Jail

Boston, Nov. 15.—Julian F. McKenney, a letter carrier, who was arrested on the charge of stealing money from the mails, was arraigned before Commissioner Hayes and was held in $1000 for a hearing. In default of bail he was committed to jail.

Hangs Self With Necktie

Boston, Nov. 15.—George Donnelly, 54 years old, committed suicide in a cell in station 9, by hanging himself to the door of his cell with his necktie. Donnelly had been arrested charged with drunkenness.

Waltham Girl a Suicide

Waltham, Mass., Nov. 15.—Miss Susan Cosgrove, 21 years old, living with her parents, drank some carbolic acid and died before the arrival of a physician. No reason is assigned for her act.

—By decisively rejecting Francis Heney, who sought election as district attorney that he might complete political purification commenced with conviction of Schmitz, Ruef and lesser rascals, San Francisco writes itself down as deficient in appreciation of civic decency. It was well understood that the election of Fickert ,so-called Republican and union labor candidate, would mean discontinuance of efforts to bring bribing capitalists to justice. By its vote the city indicates its belief that lay should be a respector of persons who have "money to burn."—Boston Record.

BRIEFS

Dr. McCausland is to address the Brotherhood of the First Presbyterian church tonight.

Councilman R. R. Freeman won the treasurer's cup in the finals of the Wollaston Golf club on Saturday.

The Citizens' Gas Co. has completed laying gas mains along the Furnace Brook parkway.

The Vermont may be a larger battleship than the New Jersey, but the football team of the latter won in Boston Saturday 22 to 6.

Rev. Richard Armstrong, rector of Christ church, occupied a seat on the bench at the district court this morning as a guest of Judge Avery.

A staging is being erected on the front of the Savings Bank building in order that repairs may be made to the coping.

Mrs. Arthur Loud of Wollaston was a guest for a few days last week of Mr. and Mrs. Norman Sampson of North Warren avenue, Brockton.

Miss Blanche Burkett has returned to her home in Groveland after a visit of several months with Quincy relatives.

The Hospital Aid association will meet Thursday afternoon, November 18, with Miss Charlotte Burgess at the home of Mrs. Wilson Tisdale, Hancock street.

The Quincy Y. M. C. A. clock also did the business in fine style. Great is the man who invented that useful toy that has such a magnetic power of drawing money from the pockets of the people!—Brockton Enterprise.

The Men's club of the North Weymouth Universalist church hold their regular monthly meeting this evening with Judge Avery of the Quincy Court as the speaker of the evening.

Mrs. Horace M. Willard and Miss C. Belle Kenney of the Quincy Mansion school attended the meeting in Brockton last week of the Federation of Women's Clubs.

Letters remain unclaimed for a week at the Quincy post office for: Andrew Arntsen, Willie Avery, E. W. Binns, Elvira Lozzi, Mrs. McLean, Mrs. Maria Perkins, Miss Merle Sampson, R. A. Spence.

It is probable that one of the important questions to come up for action at the City Council this evening will be the order appropriating $20,000 for the erection of a four-room school building at Houghs Neck.

Although A. Frank Bussell was a 33d degree Mason, the funeral services on Tuesday at Roslindale will be conducted by the Odd Fellows. He retained his membership in Mt. Wollaston lodge of this city, and a delegation has been detailed to attend the services.

Col. Edward Anderson was elected one of the board of directors of the Gen. Joe Hooker Association at the meeting and dinner held Saturday to celebrate the anniversary of the birth of Maj. Gen. Joseph Hooker. The meeting was a memorable one as Maj. Gen. Daniel E. Sickles, was the honored guest at the dinner and made an address. Previous to the dinner, Gen. Sickles held a reception and shook hands with 300 of his old comrades in arms, among them being several from Quincy.

BRIEFS

Mrs. Ellis McTear of Beach street has gone to Fairbanks, Maine, to visit her mother who is seriously ill.

G. L. Gill lodge associates will give a dance in Faxon hall on Wednesday evening.

The Men's club of the Wollaston Methodist church holds its next meeting on Thursday evening.

Mrs. H. A. Jones has rented the house on Hancock street recently occupied by J. S. Swingle.

John A. Boyd camp, will hold a whist party in Protection hall this evening.

The Nov. 13th issue of the Scientific American has a good picture of the battleship North Dakota, the fastest dreadnought afloat.

Over twenty flock of geese have passed over the city since Saturday, indicating that cold weather is coming.

The Ladies' Benevolent society of the Wollaston Congregational church will hold an all day sewing meeting in the vestry on Thursday.

David Fulton is nursing a broken arm received as the result of a fall while at work on a house on Rawson road.

The Queen Esther circle holds its next meeting with Miss Cherry L. Newell of Brook street on Wednesday evening.

Miss Grace Schermerhorn of Arlington street will entertain the Nearer and Farther Lights society tomorrow evening at a sewing bee.

The Women's Foreign Missionary circle of the Baptist church will meet with Mrs. Walther at the chapel on Wednesday at 3 o'clock.

A rich musical program was rendered at Bethany church at both the services on Sunday being prepared by Madame Morey as a memorial to Dudley Buck.

Ray Jordan of Worcester formerly of this city visited friends in Wollaston over the week end and attended the Harvard-Dartmouth game on Saturday.

W. H. F. Browne of Elm avenue sailed Saturday from New York for Liverpool, England. Mr. Brown will be in Europe for sometime in the interests of the Jordan Marsh Company.

Quincy was represented in the Sunday school parade in Boston on Sunday by members of Christ church, Wollaston Congregational, Wollaston M. E., the Washington Street Congregational, and other societies.

At the regular meeting of Maple lodge K. and L. of H., on Wednesday evening, D. D. G. P., Carrie L. Ingram, and other grand officers of Boston, will be in attendance to enjoy the entertainment provided by an able committee.

Owing to the regular meeting day of the Hospital Aid association coming on Thanksgiving the November meeting will be held one week earlier, on Nov. 18th, with Miss Charlotte Burgess, at the home of Mrs. Wilson Tisdale, Hancock street.

Mrs. Nellie S. Blaine, wife of John Blaine, passed away this morning at her home 7 Morton street, West Quincy, aged 35 years. Mrs. Blaine was a member of the Ladies' Auxiliary of Division 10, A. O. H., and of Pride of Granite lodge, No. 30, I. O. O. F., M. U. She leaves besides a husband, three sons and one daughter

An intersting meeting of the Wollaston Young People's Religious Union was held on Sunday evening with Miss Marjorie Fay as the speaker. Miss Fay took for her subject "Customs in religion, old and new." She told of the ancient burial rites the pillar saints and the English customs of observing the various religious holidays. Interesting little poems illustrating these were interwoven. Miss Marion Brown was the leader for the evening.

E—YAH DANCE.

The Adams A. A. held their E-Yah dance Friday in Hibernian hall, and the hall was filled. The floor was in charge of William O'Neil, and he was assisted by Fred Malcolm. The aids were Benjamin Tenney, Charles Oswald, Robert Mitchell and William Kain. Dancing was enjoyed from 8 until 12 o'clock, then with the last, "Goed night waltz" they left for home with the two step "Come to our next" still ringing in their ears.

GETS NO NEW TRIAL

Decision of Judges Who Presided at Trial of Chester Jordan

Cambridge, Mass., Nov. 15.—The motion for a new trial for Chester S. Jordan, convicted of the murder of his wife, Honora, was denied by Judges Stevens and Bell, the presiding justices at the trial which resulted in his conviction.

CHESTER S. JORDAN.

The judges find that Juror Willis A. White of Maynard, whom the Jordan lawyers claimed was insane before and during the trial, was of sufficient mental capacity to arrive at a rational decision.

Jordan was absolutely indifferent when told of the decision. The news was broken to him by his father and his brother-in-law, who went to the jail.

Jordan greeted them with a smile and then resumed the same indifferent attitude that he has borne throughout.

GREATER BOSTON SUNDAY SCHOOLS

Turn Out Five Thousand Men In a Big Demonstration

Boston, Nov. 15.—With martial step, 5000 men marched along several streets yesterday afternoon and sang, to the accompaniment of a band, "Onward Christian Soldiers" as they passed "Brimstone Corner" on their way to Tremont Temple. The marchers represented the Sunday schools of Greater Boston, and their outpouring was the closing feature of the twentieth annual meeting of the Massachusetts State Sunday School association.

Sidewalks were lined with men and women watching the unique parade.

Tremont Temple was the goal of the great demonstration and the marching throng found the hall altogether too small for accommodation, so Park Street church was used for an overflow meeting.

SOUGHT AS KIDNAPPED

Body of Child Who Was Strangled Is Found In a Chimney

New York, Nov. 15.—The body of 5-year-old Frank deRosa, who it was supposed was kidnapped ten days ago, and for whosm wide search was made, was found jammed in the top of a chimney at his aunt's house on East Sixty-third street, where he was visiting with his mother when he suddenly disappeared. It is the coroner's opinion that the boy was strangled and pushed down the chimney.

The boy had been playing with his cousin and other children in the street just before his disappearance and none of his playmates can explain how he reached the roof.

HART WRECK BLOWN UP

No Sign of Eleven Bodies Supposed to Be In the Hulk

Block Island, R. I., Nov. 15.—What became of the bodies of the eleven victims of the collision between the British barkentine John S. Bennett and the schooner Merrill C. Hart on Nov. 8 is still a mystery. The wreck of the Hart, in the middle of Block Island sound, was blown up by United States engineers, but no bodies came to the surface.

The great charge of giant powder removed the Hart as a menace to navigation. The Bennett's wreck lies just south of the Hart, it has been found. The engineers will blow that up, also.

Collegian's Spine Crushed

Washington, Nov. 15.—The injury to Archer Christian, 18 years old, halfback of the University of Virginia team, in the game with Georgetown university Saturday, was followed by his death Sunday, due to cerebral hemorrhage, following concussion and injury to his spine.

Killed by Shifting Engine

Lawrence, Mass., Nov. 15.—Xavier Legendre, 40 years old, was run over by a shifing engine near his home. He died in an ambulance on the way to a hospital. Legendre leaves a widow and four children.

No New Cardinal For United States

Rome, Nov. 15.—It is announced that the next consistory will not be held before Easter, and it is also stated that the plan to create a new American cardinal has been abandoned.

BASKET BALL AT Y. M. C. A.

Physical Director Gifford Is Interested

As the result of a meeting held Saturday night on the gym floor, basket ball at the Y. M. C. A., will be boomed as it has never been before. Never has the Y. M. C. A. team stood for much in the basket ball line but this winter Mr. Gifford the new physical director, intends to make it a part of his work and will insure its success by coaching the teams himself. He is an expert on basket ball, and there should be little difficulty in selecting a winning combination.

Saturday night the members, about 40 strong, elected Dave Morris captain and Richard Jones manager. The second team has not selected a captain as yet. R. H. Marden was appointed assistant manager.

There will be three teams at the Y. M. C. A., the First and Second and the Fore River Apprentices team.

At a recent meeting of the Makaria Fraternity it was decided that they would not have a basket ball team represent them this year, and so it gives the Y. M. C. A. a still better chance with a lot of good players to pick from. Everybody would like to see the Y. M. C. A. make good, as basket ball has been a dead sport practically in this city for a few years.

AT ST. CHRYSOSTOMS.

Musical services are now a regular feature at St. Chrysostoms church on the second Sunday evening each month and a delightful program was rendered on Sunday evening, as follows:

Voluntary, "Largo" Handel
Processional Hymn 511, "O happy band of pilgrims," Glorias 12 Randall
Magnificat Simper
Nunc Dimittis Simper
Anthem hymn 9, "Holy Father cheer our way"
Solo, Eye hath not seen," Gaul's "Holy City"
Hymn 335, "Jesus, lover of my soul"
Offertory, "The radiant morn hath passed away"
Presentation, "Praise God from whom all blessings flow"
Solo, "O Rest in the Lord" Mendelssohn's "Elijah"
Recessional 507 "The Son of God goes forth to war"
Postludg, Tollite Hostias (Final Chorus from the Oratorio of Noel) Camille Saint Saens

Organist, Miss Louisa Allison Ross.
Soloist, Mrs. C. G. Swenning.

Every effort will be made to have these musical services just as attractive and inspiring as this one was. Every one is welcome to attend these services.

FIRE AT WEDDING

Lamp Overturned and Breaks up Reception

A wedding reception at the residence of Filippo Gaudiano at 28 Miller street was rudely interrupted Sunday afternoon, when one of the guests accidentally overturned a lamp, setting the house on fire. Earlier in the day, Miss Raffaela Gaudiano became the bride of Menzialo DiBona and their friends had gathered at the bride's home to give them a reception. While one of the guests was passing a table he accidentally hit a lamp which was overturned and took fire.

In an instant there was a commotion and hurrying on the part of the guests to get out. The table cloth took fire and the room was filled with a stifling smoke. Some of the cooler heads started to beat out the fire while another ran to Box 46 and pulled in an alarm, which was sounded at 5.56. In the meantime the men were putting up a great fight, so that by the time the apparatus arrived the fire was under control, and a stream from a hand chemical finished it.

The room which had been gayly decorated for the occasion was a wreck, for what had not been burned was ruined by smoke. The incident terminated the wedding reception. Chief Williams estimates the loss on building and contents at $30.

BOSTON'S NEWEST HOTEL.

Boston's newest hotel, The Puritan, built by the estate of the late William B. Rice of Quincy, on Commonwealth avenue, is to be thrown open to the public this evening. Charles P. Costello is to be resident manager.

The Puritan is unique in many ways, it has a private roof garden for guests, a sun parlor on the roof and a storage vault for furs, also a safety deposit vault for each suite. It is essentially a Boston institution, all the furniture and fixtures were made in Boston especially for the house, after the accepted colonial designs.

The hotel is typically colonial, simple, but expensive. The lobby is finished in Caen stone and French walnut, and the main dining room is in Louis XVI style. The kitchen, laundry and serving rooms are all finished with tiled floors and walls and have ample sunlight. On the walls of the halls and suites are many paintings by famous Boston artists.

TODAY'S COURT.

Charles Johnson and John Murray were fined $10 each for drunkenness at Quincy.

Dennis Cohan was arraigned for violation of the milk law at Weymouth. Case continued until Nov. 22.

Joseph McCarthy was arraigned for disturbing the peace at Quincy. He was fined $15. Sentence suspended until Dec. 29.

Marchini Mangtatardi was arraigned for felonious assault at Quincy. Case continued under $1000 bonds until Nov. 20.

Charles F. Doble was fined $25 for for operating an automobile at Quincy without a licence.

the best care and attention possible."

Miss Elizabeth Waldron wrote as follows to "Our Hospital": "It gives me pleasure to speak through your little paper of the benefits received by me at the Hospital, this most indispensible institution which we have in our midst. During my recent illness of several weeks I was most fortunate to be able as a patient to enter the hospital where I received the most skilful medical attention and nursing. I can thankfully say that through the kindness and generosity of the matron and those interested in its good cause, I am well and able, through the care received, to attend my work again. I sincerely trust all will appreciate our hospital. May it thrive and prosper and be a benefit to all."

KIND WORDS BY CLERGY

For the Quincy City Hospital On the Hill

Outside of the members of the medical profession of our city, there are no more frequent visitors to the City Hospital, for which a collection is being taken this week, than the members of the clergy. As sickness and disease is no respector of classes or creeds, so the clergymen of all faiths are visitors to the hospital, and are men able to understand the work which the hospital is doing. Some of the clergymen wrote a few words of appreciation to the little hospital publication, "Our Hospital," issued this week, as follows:

Rev. Alfred R. Atwood, pastor of the Washington Street Congregational church—"For nearly five years I have been a frequent visitor at "our church on the hill," the Quincy Hospital. At all hours of the day I have been there to visit members of my family or to minister to members of my parish. It is impossible to overestimate the ministering value of our hospital. Support of this noble institution is the pleasant privilege of every Christian of our city. Your annual appeal for assistance is sure to call for the purses and prayers of our people; let us both pray and pay."

Rev. Edward A. Chase, pastor of the Wollaston Congregational church—"If one has the misfortune to be sick or injured, then a proper hospital, a competent physician and a well-trained nurse. Indispensible surely, and what a profound comfort!"

Rev. A. Edwin Clattenberg, rector of St. Chrysostom's Episcopal church, Wollaston—"I am glad to add my testimony to that of many others who appreciate the good work that is done by the Quincy City Hospital. It is a part of my regular duty to visit the sick, so the hospital gets its visits. Every time I have visited the Quincy City Hospital I have come away with a mental picture of the service rendered by some one of the persons connected with that hospital. Physicians, nurses, the matron, and even the man who does the outside work, have been found doing things over and beyond their duty. Such persons we want to take care of our sick. Let us all support them as best we can."

A letter from a clergyman that came after the hospital paper had gone to press was that from Rev. James A. Matheson, pastor of the First Presbyterian church on Water street, who wrote as follows: "It is a pleasure to me to commend the work of the City Hospital of Quincy. An institution set upon a hill cannot be hid. Its work appeals to every heart, and calls for a ready material response. Gifts given are well invested and bear interest in relieving suffering. The Great Physician was touched by human needs. To the least of these is unto Me."

In the issue of "The Dial," the calendar of the Wollaston Unitarian church, which was distributed Sunday, was the following well-put statement: "Sometime during the coming week you will receive the annual request for funds to help defray the current expenses of the Quincy Hospital. You have but to glance at the annual report to know the great value of this institution. Your imagination need work ever so little to picture to you the blessed comfort and relief it must bring to the afflicted ones who must accept its ministrations as a charity. The wisdom of the board of directors in the regulation of expenditures is unquestioned. During all the year what calls do you have upon your purse, outside your home, which should be more readily heeded than this? As a thank-offering, perhaps no section of the city has so good a reason to respond as Wollaston. Think of these things when the envelope comes to you."

One of the letters from grateful patients which came too late for the little hospital paper, was from Mrs. Julia A. Tracy of 317 Washington street as follows: "I would like to express a few words of gratitude which I feel towards the hospital. I was a patient there for awhile within the past year. On the part of the nurses they did everything they could to make their patients comfortable and happy . The hospital itself is kept immaculate as far as cleanliness is concerned, and I must say that the treatment and care I received was excellent. If again the occasion required it, I would willingly be a patient at the Quincy Hospital."

THE CITY COUNCIL

Debate Pawnbrokers' License and the City Charter

A spirited debate over the adoption of an order granting a pawnbroker's license, and a broadside of hot shot from Councilman Richards when asked why the special committee to consider the advisability of the revision of the City Charter had not reported, were the interesting features that marked Monday night's meeting of the City Council. The absent members were Councilman Flaherty and Nowland.

HOUGHS NECK SCHOOL.

A communication was received from the School Committee approving plans for the Houghs Neck school.

Councilman Bryant asked the City Solicitor if that was a proper certificate, to which Mr. McAnarney replied that it was not. The communication was then laid on the table.

PENSIONS FOR FIREMEN.

The Mayor forwarded a communication from the City Clerk ,stating that the required number of citizens had petitioned to have the question of accepting the act relative to pensions for firemen submitted to the voters for acceptance. Placed on file.

POLES AND WIRES.

The Telephone company petitioned for a location of poles on Sea street, and for attachments on Highland avenue. Referred to Committee on Streets.

The Electric Light Co., petitioned for a location for poles on Brooks avenue, Smith, Stewart and Safford streets and Standish avenue. Referred to Committee on Streets.

Several applications for minor licenses were received and referred.

PAWNBROKERS LICENSE.

The committee on Licenses reported an order granting Samuel Castleman a pawnbroker's license in the Kincaide block, Cottage avenue.

Councilman Bryant hoped it would not be granted. In his opinion a pawnbroker's license was as much to be shunned as small pox. He moved to lay on the table.

Councilman Flynn opposed. He knew the applicant and the Chief of Police has no complaint to find with him. He was a small pox patient once, but there was no relationship between the two. Many believe a pawnbroker deals only in stolen property, but that is not so. This man is as capable as Robert Treat Paine of Boston. He knew of a man in City Square in the jewelry business who intends to ask for such a license . He had made this a personal matter. If licenses are granted you will not see what you do in Boston. There are men in Quincy today loaning money and charging 15 and 20 per cent.

Councilman Whiton opposed the motion. There were many reasons why a license should be granted. Any person who desires to raise money has to pay excessive interest or go to Boston.

Councilman Abele favored the motion. Quincy was not prepared as yet to grant such a license. Such business should remain in Boston. If we have a pawnshop we need a more efficient police force. The present force can hardly take care of the liquor law now.

Councilman Bryant said he had been up against Robert Treat Paine and his system. He did not want to see a pawnbroker's sign in Quincy. The majority of people who pawn goods do so when they do not know what they are doing. They are taking something from their family. He did not want to see the opportunity in Quincy for a man to take something from his house and pawn it to get money to go to Boston and get drunk.

Councilman Whiton did not believe it would make any difference to a man who wanted to get drunk as he could go to Boston just the same. If the business can be conducted in a proper way it was a good thing. He had nothing against it morally.

Councilman Russell said all the money received from pawns was not spent for rum. He considered a pawnshop a necessary evil. If you had a due bill to cash and had to pay the rates some people charge to cash it, you would favor a pawnshop.

Councilman Richards would vote for the order on general principles. Any man with due bills to cash would make up his mind something was needed in Quincy.

Councilman Gardner opposed the order. We make it possible for men to borrow money too quick.

Councilman McDevitt did not see that it would be a bad thing. He be-

MUNICIPAL CAUCUSES

Nominations Today for Mayor and City Council

Municipal caucuses are being held in all wards of the city today by the Democrats, the Republicans and the Socialists. The polls were opened at 12 M. and will close at 9 P. M.

It is a safe prediction to make that William T. Shea of Ward Four will be renominated for Mayor by the Democrats; that Walter F. Nichols of Ward Five, the former president of the City Council, will be nominated by the Republicans; and that Edgar Norton of Ward Two will be nominated by the Socialists. None of these candidates have opposition.

The Quincy ward, which has five candidates seeking the three Republican nominations for ward Councilmen argues well for a good vote in this ward. Up to 1 o'clock 115 had exercised their right, and the total vote of the ward it is thought will exceed that of last year. The same condition in regard to candidates for ward Councilmen that exists today existed a year ago when there were also five candidates for the three places.

On the Democratic ticket there is but one candidate for ward Councilman, and none for school committee from the ward. Names written on the ballot however may place some one in nomination as it has done in other years. The Democratic vote last year was 63 and the Republican vote 350.

The Quincy Point ward has practically no contests as each of the two great parties have but the required number of candidates seeking nomination, while the Socialist party has but one candidate for the Council. A year ago the ward cast 206 Republican ballots and 238 Democratic ballots, but there was a contest for the Democratic nomination for Mayor which brought out the large vote.

There is no contest today and it is not expected that a very large vote will be polled. On the contrary at 1 o'clock it looked like a very small vote.

With Republican contests for ward Councilmen and ward committee the indications are that the South Quincy ward will get out a good vote. Voting was brisk during the first hour but it then fell off and things were quiet during the afternoon. Tonight however business in the voting line will doubtless be brisk. There are no contests among the Democrats or Socialists. The Republican vote last year was 282 and the Democratic vote 63 and fully as large a vote is indicated for today.

The voting in Ward Four started off brisk and showed early indications of the fight being waged in that section of the city for Councilmen on the Democratic ticket. The contest seems to be most bitter between McDevitt and Smith, but both seem confident of pulling out winning.

Between 4.30 and 7.30 the heaviest vote is expected. After 7.30 it is thought that the mission will draw the voters.

Unless the voters turn out better during the remainder of the afternoon and evening, the Wollaston ward will have a surprisingly small vote. Although there is a local contest over the nomination of Councilmen from the ward, there seems to be practically no interest, if anything can be judged by the vote during the noon hour.

The polls opened promptly at 12 o'clock noon with the precinct one officers in charge, and during the first half hour but five voted. The voters came straggling in, and at 1 o'clock the total vote cast reached 15. There was an absence of the usual tellers about the polls, and there seems to be no effort to get out the vote. However, a good vote may be polled during the evening hours.

One usual condition in this ward was absent up to 1 o'clock. That is

EMPHASIS ON PREVENTION

Doctor Talks to Men's Club on Tuberculosis

Before about 40 members of the Brotherhood of the Water Street Presbyterian church, Monday night, Dr. William J. McCausland spoke on Tuberculosis. He first gave a description of the structure and make up of the lungs. He described the forming of ulcers on the lungs, their manner of spreading and eating away of the tissues.

His subject really was divided into three parts, first, the disease; second, cure for the disease; third, prevention of disease. Laying greatest emphasis on the last subject, he outlined the importance of prevention. Speaking earnestly about the utter disregard for other peoples health by the persons who expectorate in the street and sidewalks. Advocating that it was not so much the curing of the disease as the prevention of it, he stated that statistics showed in the last few years that through knowing how to prevent it, the disease rate had decreased nearly one half. In finishing his talk Dr. McCausland gave brief advice as to the care of wounds and cuts.

After this refreshments were served and an informal social enjoyed by the men present.

CHAIN OF EIGHT.

The new idea for raising funds for three worthy charities, the Hospital Aid Association, the Woman's Auxiliary to the Y. M. C. A. and the Tuberculosis Camp is meeting with considerable success and interest is being aroused. A hostess invites eight to an entertainment of some kind the guests paying a quarter each, then each of the eight ni turn gets up an entertainment for eight and so on until the circles of eight constantly increase as does also the money. It is hoped in this way to raise easily quite a sum of money. Mrs. Theophilus King, Mrs. Forrest B. Royal or the treasurer Walter E. Burke will gladly explain the details of the plan more fully.

☞ An illustrated lecture "Historic Quincy "is to be given by Charles H. Johnson at Electa hall, Johnson's building on Thursday evening at 7.30 o'clock for the benefit of St. Paul's church. Illustrated by 200 special views. Admission 25 cents children 10 cents.

Massachusetts is to get its share of the $36,000,000 appropriated by Congress to improve the nation's rivers and harbors, the amounts being: Newburyport harbor, $75,000; refuge harbor, Cape Ann, $500,000; Boston harbor, general improvement, $75,000, 35-foot channel project, $1,200,000; Provincetown, $135,000; refuge harbor, Nantucket, $80,000; New Bedford and Fairhaven harbors, $227,000.

All that has been needed in Quincy of late to improve business was another battleship contract. Now it looks as though the Fore River Company would build two of the mammoth naval fighters for the Argentine Republic. When these contracts are awarded many additional men will be required at the shipyard, and again it will be almost impossible to secure rents. Quite a number of houses are now vacant, but most of these are undesirable. Quincy will need many new houses, and if these are built soon the census of next May will surprise people.

Quincy is in the Metropolitan Park district, the Metropolitan Water district, the Metropolitan Sewer district, and generally her people consider that they are a part of the Metropolitan district of Boston, but when it comes to electric light and power Quincy is just outside the district. One is forcibly reminded of this on a visit to the Electric show in Boston. Most everyone who attends wears a button, but when a Quincy person is asked his residence, he is told there are no buttons for Quincy. The Edison system includes 33 cities and towns from Boston to Sharon, Bellingham, Framingham, Bedford and Woburn.

An important feature of the Edison electric power supply is the uniformity of the cost of it throughout the district supplied. A manufacturer, for example, can locate in any town in the Edison district otherwise most favorable for his enterprise, and obtain his power at the same rate as though he were in Boston, and at as low a rate as any of his competitors can obtain it in any other portion of the district. He can thus seek cheap real estate, healthy surroundings a pleasant place of residence, good railroad connections, competitive freight rates, and any other of the advantages which he would naturally desire, and at the same time obtain his power at as low a rate as though all these favorable conditions were lacking. The Edison Company is fully and irrevocably committed to the policy of equal treatment of all its customers taking electricity under the same conditions. Its rates are uniform throughout its area of supply, and are being constantly lowered as fast as business conditions will permit. Moreover, they are subject to reduction by a board of State officials at any time that they are deemed to be too high.

Haskell Must Stand Trial

UNITED PARTY IN CONGRESS

Necessary For the President to Carry Out His Program

HAS STARTED HIS ROUND-UP

Cummins, Regarded as an "Insurgent," and Other Leading Statesmen to Be Asked to Go Over Recommendations to Congress—Amendment to Interstate Commerce and Anti-Trust Laws Uppermost

Washington, Nov. 16.—President Taft is about to begin a series of conferences with influential Republican members of congress with respect to the tentative legislative program he has prepared. He is exceedingly anxious to bring harmony out of a somewhat chaotic situation which now exists.

Senator Cummins of Iowa will be one of the first men with whom the president will go over the proposed recommendations to congress. The president is particularly anxious to get the views of the Iowa senator on postal savings banks and changes in the interstate commerce law.

During the last regular session of congress Cummins indicated that he would exert all the influence he can command to defeat the enactment of a postal savings bank law unless provisions shall be made for the retention of deposits in the localities from which the money is gathered up. It is pretty well understood that the president hopes to bring the support of the Iowa senator to this proposed legislation. Cummins is also regarded as one of the insurgent senators who has some very positive views on the sort of interstate commerce legislation that should be enacted.

Following the conference with the Iowa senator the president will go over the proposed interstate commerce legislation with Representative Mann of Chicago, the new chairman of the house committee on interstate and foreign commerce. This appointment for Mann was made the day congress adjourned last summer. Many other senators and representatives have been asked here for conference.

Public men have an impression that the president is somewhat nervous over the situation which confronts him. He foresees that unless he can obtain the support of a united party in congress his entire legislative program is likely to be endangered.

President Taft will begin a consideration in a few days of the amendment to the interstate commerce and anti-trust laws which he will recommend to congress in his forthcoming message. Among those he will call into council on the subject are Attorney General Wickersham, Chairman Knapp of the interstate commerce commission, Senator Elkins and other senators and representatives who are members of the committee that will have the amendment in charge.

Driven From City by Labor War

MAJESTY OF THE LAW

Tennesseeans Find That It Is Upheld by the Supreme Court

Washington, Nov. 16.—Ninety days' imprisonment was imposed upon ex-Sheriff Joseph F. Shipp of Chattanooga by the supreme court of the United States for contempt of court in failing to prevent the lynching of a negro, Ed Johnson, convicted of rape, but whose execution had been stayed by the court. Luther Williams and Nick Nolan were sentenced to imprisonment for ninety days for connection with the lynching, and Jeremiah Gibson, the jailer, Henry Padgett and William Mayers, all of Chattanooga, for sixty days.

The six men, four of whom wer members of the lynching mob, were i court when sentence was pronounced by Chief Justice Fuller, who designated the United States jail in the District of Columbia as the place of imprisonment. Attorneys for the prisoners before the bar asked on account of the difference in climate that the federal prison at Atlanta be substituted for the District jail. To this Attorney General Wickersham objected. The court took the request under advisement, and asked the marshal of the court to retain the prisoners in his custody for the time being.

FACES HER ACCUSERS

Mrs. Stetson Said to Have Made Spirited Defense of Her Attitude

Boston, Nov. 16.—For ten hours Mrs. Augusta E. Stetson, leader of the New York Christian Science church, was on trial yesterday before the board of directors of the mother church of this city.

Utmost secrecy was maintained as to the developments in the hearing upon the charges that she practised in a manner not in accord with the teachings of the cult. It is reported that Mrs. Stetson made a spirited defense of her attitude.

Friends of Mrs. Stetson regard the action as one of the final steps to end her power in the Christian Science church. The session, it is believed, will end in her excommunication.

Mrs. Eddy herself took a hand in the war that threatened to disrupt the body in New York. She wrote a letter to Chairman Hatfield of the First church trustees, Scientist, New York—himself an insurgent—and asked that the trouble be settled amicably.

BAY STATE SOLDIERS HONORED IN SOUTH

Blue and Gray Unite In Unveiling of Monument

Baton Rouge, La., Nov. 16.—Erected in the south to the men of Massachusetts who fell in the department of the gulf during the Civil war, the Massachusetts memorial monument was unveiled with most impressive services before an unusual gathering of notables and officials.

Side by side around the huge white shaft, which is more than forty feet high, stood Governor Draper of Massachusetts and Governor Sanders of Louisiana, surrounded by their staffs. Side by side stood Confederate veterans and G. A. R. veterans, veterans of the Mexican war and of the Spanish-American war, future soldiers from Louisiana state university, cavalry and naval reserve detachments from the Louisiana State National Guard, while hundreds of invited guests bared their heads as the impressive prayer commenced. Uncovered, too, was every head as school children sang "The Star Spangled Banner."

Governor Sanders and Mayor Bynum of Baton Rouge welcomed their brothers from the north to the state and to the city. Then, after a speech by General Taylor of the Thirty-eighth regiment the shaft was unveiled.

After the unveiling the shaft was presented to Governor Draper by the chairman of the shaft commission. The governor, after his speech of acceptance, turned the shaft over to the government.

MISSING SEVEN MONTHS

Decomposed Body Identified as That of a Boston Man

Harvard, Mass., Nov. 16.—The decomposed body found in the woods on the outskirts of this town was identified as that of Joseph Arles, a mason, 40 years old, of Boston.

The identification was by his wife and a brother, by means of a labor union card and a pin. He disappeared seven months ago. Death is believed to have been due either to suicide or accident, as the man had been mentally unsound for some time.

Cushman Charged With Manslaughter

Somerville, Mass., Nov. 16.—Leslie D. Cushman, driver of the automobile that collided with a team while returning from the Dartmouth-Harvard game, and from which Miss Myra L. Swift was thrown and killed, was arraigned in court here, charged with manslaughter. He pleaded not guilty and was held in $2000 for trial Nov. 22.

No Jewish Chaplains In Army

New York, Nov. 16.—By a close vote the conference of Rabbis declined to sanction the proposal to ask the government for the appointment of Jewish chaplains in the army.

MRS. DENNETT WINS IN AFFINITY CASE

Husband Must Support Her and Her Two Children

Cambridge, Mass., Nov. 16.—Mary W. Dennett, wife of Hartley Dennett, the Framingham and Boston architect, whose openly confessed love for the wife of Dr. H. L. Chase, with the doctor's approval, created a sensation in the probate court, was granted the custody of her two children in her suit for separate maintenance. Her husband will support her and the children, by the court's order.

The case was not contested. Dennett sat beside Chase during the hearings. The doctor acknowledged the affection between his wife and Dennett, which Mrs. Dennett gave as the cause of her estrangement with her husband. While the case was in session Dennett lived at Chase's house.

HARMON FOR PRESIDENT

Cox Thinks He Will Be a Candidate, Regardless of Results In Ohio

New York, Nov. 16.—George B. Cox, the Republican boss of Cincinnati, is in New York and chatted concerning political conditions in Ohio.

"There is plenty of talk about twenty or thirty Republicans for the nomination for governor," he said. "Of course, the Democrats will renominate Governor Harmon. They cannot do anything else. I cannot see, though, how Harmon can be reelected if the Republicans present a new and strong man against him. But even the defeat of Harmon for governor of Ohio next year would not, in my judgment, take him out of the list of eligibles for the Democratic nomination for president in 1912."

It is said that Cox has decided to bring out Nicholas Longworth, son-in-law of ex-President Roosevelt, as a candidate for governor.

NO STAY FOR LABOR MEN

Appeal by Friday or Gompers and Other Leaders Go to Jail

Washington, Nov. 16.—The court of appeals of the District of Columbia denied an application made by counsel for Samuel Gompers, John Mitchell and Frank Morrison of the American Federation of Labor, sentenced for contempt, for a stay in the issuance of the mandate to the supreme court of the District of Columbia until Jan. 2, 1910. Unless notice of an appeal is given before next Friday night the mandate will be handed down next Saturday.

When application was made for a stay of proceedings, J. H. Ralston urged the engagement of his associate, Alton B. Parker, as a reason for the desired postponement.

PASSENGERS IN PANIC

Explosion and Fire In Street Car, but No One Is Injured

Boston, Nov. 16.—An explosion and fire in the forward end of a Lowell car just leaving the Sullivan square terminal last night caused a panic among the sixty or more passengers.

But for the coolness and presence of mind of Conductor McCarthy, and the heroism of Motorman Fraser, who stuck to his post although enveloped in flames, there might have been serious loss of life.

Following the sheet of flame that blinded the men in the vestibule, came a great cloud of black smoke that threatened to suffocate all of them. Women were screaming or fainting and men were shouting and struggling inside the car.

Although the electric lights on the car remained lighted the smoke was so thick and black that no one could see anything. The windows of the car were opened and some of them were broken to let the smoke out.

None of the passengers were injured. Half a dozen of the women fainted, but quickly revived when carried into the fresh air.

O'NEIL AND STORROW

Both Names Will Be Presented as Candidates For Mayor of Boston

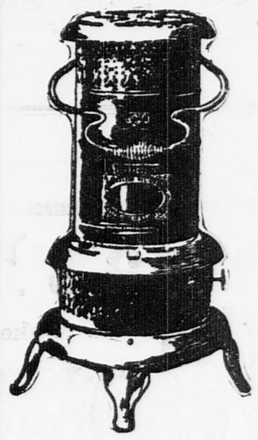

Boston, Nov. 16.—The United Citizens' Movement, to stand behind the candidacy of some one man for mayor, and a ticket of nine men for the city council, has reached the point where the names suggested have narrowed down to Joseph H. O'Neil and James J. Storrow as the mayoralty candidates, so far as the subcommittees are concerned.

The sub-committee of four finished its public hunt for a man and reported to the committee of nine. It is understood that after talking over the merits of all the men in the field the committee stood divided over O'Neil and Storrow, with no other candidate in sight. This will be the report of the committee of 150 and then the main committee must choose between the two. Both are bankers and both Democrats.

NO MORE GRAY HAIR.

It is easier to preserve the color of the hair than to restore it, although it is possible to do both. Our grandmothers understood the secret. They made and used a "sage tea," and their dark, glossy hair long after middle life was due to this fact. Our mothers have gray hair before they are fifty, but they are beginning to appreciate the wisdom of our grandmothers in using "sage tea" for their hair, and are fast following suit. The present generation has the advantage of the past in that it can get a ready to use preparation called Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur. As a scalp tonic and color restorer, this preparation is vastly superior to the ordinary "sage tea" made by our grandmothers, and it can be bought for 50 cents and $1 a bottle at almost any first-class drug store, or will be sent direct by the Wyeth Chemical Company, 74 Cortlandt St., New York City, upon receipt of price.

ELECTRICITY IN TOYLAND.

While Santa Claus still adheres to the good old-fashioned ways, driving the same old reindeer and sleigh, carrying the same old pack ladened with good things to eat, toys and things boys and girls like best, he is not at all adverse to applying modern methods whenever he can. So it is that the best Christmas trees this year will be lighted with tiny electric lights of many colors, completely eliminating the fire risk of the old-fashioned candles, which had spoiled many and many a promising holiday.

Germany leads the world as a maker of toys, exporting more than fifteen million dollars worth last year. France ,which ranks second, shipped only half as much. This country is the largest purchaser of toys in the world as last year we imported nearly twelve million toys and dolls, and it is estimated that we spent not less than thirty millions for foreign and homemade playthings. While we cannot hope to compete with the foreign countries in the manufacture of cheap toys it is nevertheless gratifying to note that our Yankee ingenuity and the expanding demands of American boys has greatly increased our home production of electric toys and model devices which are exceedingly instructive as well as entertaining. The American girl, for the most part, is not so exacting, being content with the old-fashioned doll, but the modern doll house is most complete even to being electrically lighted.

It is only recently that electricity began to take a conspicuous part in the Christmas holiday. Of all the electric toys the little trolley car is the best. It takes its power from the lighting circuit and will run on its circular track quite as well as its larger cousin in the city streets. Toy motors and generators, to run toy machinery, are other electrical novelties for boys.

IT'S YOUR KIDNEYS

Don't Mistake the Cause of Your Troubles.

Many people never suspect their kidneys. If suffering from a lame, weak or aching back they think that it is only a muscular weakness; when urinary trouble sets in they think it will soon correct itself. And so it is with all the other symptoms of kidney disorders. That is just where the danger lies. You must cure these troubles or they may lead to diabetes or Bright's disease. The best remedy to use is Doan's Kidney Pills. It cures all ills which are caused by weak or diseased kidneys. Residents of this vicinity are constantly testifying to permanent cures.

Richard Smith, South Central avenue, Wollaston, Mass. ,says: "I suffered from backache and kidney trouble for a long time. I had dull pains through the small of my back and on arising in the morning, I was so stiff and lame that I could hardly dress myself. Hearing of Doan's Kidney Pills, I procured a supply and in a short time after beginning their use, I was relieved. After I had taken the contents of two boxes of this remedy, I was in good health and I have had no kidney trouble since. I give Doan's Kidney Pills the credit for this change for the better and I gladly recommend them."

GIRL SUPPOSED SHE WAS REAL MAN

Posed as Husband Four Years Before Discovered

San Francisco, Nov. 16.—Revelations in regard to a marriage contracted more than four years ago by Dr. Alice Bush of Oakland to a young woman, who posed as a man and was known as Rollin K. Morgan, a medical student, make a most remarkable story from a psychic point of view and in some respects a story without a precedent.

Not only was Dr. Bush deceived for three and a half years after what may be called a platonic marriage, but it is held that owing to peculiar aberration of the mind, the supposed husband actually believed herself to be a man.

The discovery that Rollin K. Morgan was not a man, but a woman, was not made by Dr. Bush herself, but by a distinguished medical associate.

In 1903 Morgan came to California, and proved himself, or rather herself, a distant cousin of Dr. Bush. The doctor became fond of this new and attractive relative. She did not wish to marry but she accepted the attentions of Morgan, and as she wanted to take Morgan under her care in such a way that there could be no comment or criticism the platonic marriage was arranged.

THANKSGIVING DAY NOV. 25

Official Proclamation Is Issued by President Taft

Washington, Nov. 16.—President Taft has issued his Thanksgiving proclamation, naming Nov. 25 as the date for the observance. The proclamation says, in part:

"During the past year we have been highly blessed. No great calamities of flood or tempest or epidemic sickness have befallen us. We have lived in quietness, undisturbed by wars or rumors of wars. Peace and the plenty of bounteous crops and of great industrial production animate a cheerful and a resolute people to all the renewed energies of beneficent industry and materially aid moral progress. It is altogether fitting that we should humbly and gratefully acknowledge the divine source of these blessings."

PARR REPEATS HIS CHARGES

Says Reynolds Blocked Unearthing of Sugar Trust Frauds

DENIAL IS MADE BY LATTER

Declares That Sugar Men Had No Influence With Treasury Department While He Was Assistant Secretary—Did Nothing to Hinder Investigation—Boston Custom House Under Fire as Result of the General Probe

Washington, Nov. 16.—James B. Reynolds of Boston, former assistant secretary of the treasury in charge of customs and now a member of the tariff board, exhibits serenity over the apparently serious charges brought against him in connection with the New York sugar fraud investigation by Acting Deputy Surveyor Parr.

Reynolds is one of the closest mouthed men in the department, and during all the exciting times of the last two months, while he has been in touch with every phase of it, not a word regarding the details has escaped his lips. Now, however, Reynolds has under his hands documentary evidence of his own position throughout, and in a forthcoming statement he will reply categorically to the charges.

A factor of importance relative to the Parr charges is that the official who can prove himself the original discoverer of the frauds may be in line for a handsome reward. The government will have collected at least $2,0000,000 from the sugar trust as undercharges and fines before the case is finished, and even 5 percent of this sum would make a handsome fortune for a poor man.

As a matter of fact, Parr's relations with Reynolds were of the most cordial and friendly character and the department has evidence enough in his own handwriting to prove that he had no personal cause for dissatisfaction.

"For the moment I must content myself with denying absolutely the existence of any foundation for charge or innuendo in connection with the relations of the treasury department and the sugar trust while I was assistant secretary," said Reynolds. "There has never been any attempt on its part to influence any action of mine, and no instructions were issued by me having any object in view beyond good administration and fair dealing to all concerned."

As the result of the evidence collected by the government in the probe of the sugar trust weighing frauds about a score of men in the customs offices in New York city will be dismissed before Dec. 1. Positive information that the protection given to guilty minor employes of the government who have turned informers will not be extended to the men in the more responsible positions in the service was obtained yesterday.

The assertion of Parr, who has collected the evidence against the sugar trust in the weighing frauds on which the government is basing its cases, that he was hindered in the performance of his duties as a treasury investigator by Reynolds, who placed obstacles in his path, was repeated yesterday.

Surveyor Parr declared that the gigantic sugar trust frauds would have been unearthed months ago, and millions of dollars would have been saved the government if Reynolds had not hindered him in his work.

As the result of the general custom house investigation resulting from the sugar trust exposures, the Boston custom house itself was under fire by former Secretary of the Treasury Shaw, who declared that the Boston custom house is the worst in the country. Headed by Surveyor of the Port McCarthy the officers of the Boston custom house denied the truth of Shaw's charges.

WARRINER IS INDICTED

Order Is Issued For Rearrest of Treasurer of Big Four Railroad

Cincinnati, Nov. 16.—Charles L. Warriner was indicted on two counts for his alleged embezzlement from the Big Four railroad, of which he was the local treasurer. His shortage is admitted to be $463,000. When the indictment was returned he was at his home at Wyoming under $20,000 bond. An order for his rearrest was immediately given.

There were three women subpoenaed before the grand jury when the investigation into the case began yesterday. They were Mrs. Jeannette T. F. Stewart, Miss Lulu Yates and Miss Lena Horton.

Liability Law Is Constitutional

Washington, Nov. 16.—The employers' liability law of 1906 was declared to be constitutional in territories of the United States and the District of Columbia by the supreme court of the United States, despite the fact that this law was previously declared to be unconstitutional when applied to the states.

TELEPHONE EQUIPMENT.

The New York, New Haven & Hartford Railroad Company has placed orders for telephone and selector apparatus for equipping the Nothampton division for telephone train dispatching. The equipment consists of Gill standard bridging selectors and Western Electric telephone apparatus. This will be the first circuit so equipped on the New Haven road and covers a total of 77 miles, with 29 stations.

From the success attending the installation of telephone train dispatching equipments on the other large roads which have adopted this system of handling train movement, the indications are that after the completion of the first circuit by the New York, New Haven & Hartford Railroad it will extend the system to other divisions of the road.

—Friends of Frederick Steiner, a pioneer resident of Cle Elum, Kittitas county, Wash., believe he and his wife deserve a Roosevelt medal for raising a family of goodly proportion. They have 11 children, the youngest of which was born a few days ago. All the children were born in Kittitas county and 10 of them claim Cle Elum as their birthplace. This is believed to be a record with out a parallel in the state of Washington if not in the Pacific Northwest, and, as the happy father remarks with just pride, "Where is there a town of the size and age of Cle Elum on this continent that can beat it?" Governor Marion E. Hay has been apprised of the newest addition to the Steiner family and their friends will bring the matter formally to the attention of Colonel Roosevelt on his return from Africa. Steiner does not go much on the medal proposition, but there is no gainsaying that he is the happiest man in this part of the United States.

BRIEFS

A fine day for the municipal caucuses.

A number of young people of Atlantic attended the Harvard-Dartmouth game.

The Committee on Fire Department will meet Thursday evening and the committee on Health, Friday evening.

A bunch of peanut plants sent to Inspector McKay from the south are on exhibition in the show window of Kittredge's store.

Fred Austin, superintendent of the Electric Light Co., is to occupy the Faxon house on Saville avenue the first of the month.

Congressman O'Connell was in town this morning. Wonder if the caucuses had anything to do with his visit.

The many Quincy friends of Miss Frances Duggan of Atlantic street are sorry to hear of her illness and hope for a speedy recovery.

Mrs. Horatio Tower of Cohasset and her little son spent Sunday with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Elijah Hall of Atlantic.

Mrs. William Lambert of Peabody a former resident of Atlantic, has been visiting her friends around town.

The special committee of the City Council with the City Engineer and Selectmen of Braintree will perambulate the Quincy and Braintree boundary line on Thursday.

There will be a meeting of John A. Boyd Camp U. S. W. V. this evening in G. A. R. hall. Inspection will be held and it is expected that many important matters will come before the members.

Mrs. Elijah Hall, who has been visiting her daughter, Mrs. William Gassett of Mt. Vernon, New York, has returned to her home on Newbury avenue.

The reunion of the Kitualta club, which was held at the home of Mrs. Walter A. Webster of Jamaica Plain proved a pleasurable affair. Bridge was enjoyed and souvenirs were received by each member of the club. During the evening a buffet lunch was served.

TODAY'S COURT.

George W. Rackham was fined $15 for drunkenness at Quincy.

Roland C. Richardson was fined $10 for violation of the automobile law at Cohasset, and W. W. Swett $10 for violation of the automobile law at Milton.

H. Jalmar Lindberg was arraigned for violation of the automobile law at Cohasset. Case continued until next Tuesday.

Robert Burke was fined $10 for drunkenness at Holbrook.

the general complaint of the failure of the ballot box to work. The officer in charge of the box said it was working all right up to date. Before the box was sent down the city messenger ran over 400 ballots through it, and it worked perfectly in every case.

The withdrawal of Councilmen Cherrington as a candidate for Councilman from the Atlantic ward wiped out the only contest there was in that ward, as it leaves but three Republicans on the ticket for Councilman. This ward however has two candidates seeking the Republican nomination for Councilmen at large and that the ward will give them a good vote goes without saying, as both gentlemen are popular in their own ward. The voting was fairly good during the noon hour but no rush is anticipated until evening. A year ago the ward polled 235 Republican votes and 42 Democratic votes.

The Daily Ledger o fWednesday will have the full returns of all the caucuses.

Last year 1468 Republican votes were cast, and 519 Democratic.

LAWSON—VON ARSDALE.

Miss Carrie Teed Von Arsdale and Mr. John Montjoy Lawson were united in marriage on Monday by Rev. Dr. Hardy at his residence on Foster street. The bride, a native of Franklin, Mass., recently returned from a trip to California and the Pacific coast and has been the guest of her sister Mrs. R. W. Lawson of Norfolk Downs. Mr. Lawson was born in Kentucky and is a railroad man. About Jan. 1 Mr. and Mrs. Lawson will locate ni Detroit.

BRIEFS

Charles A. Howland of Adams street has returned from a hunting trip bringing with him adeer as a trophy of the hunt.

Miss Helen Rhines was among those present Friday, at the dedication of the new armory in Hartford, Connecticut, at which President Taft was a guest.

ELECTRICAL SHOW.

The Electrical show in the Mechanics Building, Boston, was opened in a blaze of glory on Monday evening and will continue about two weeks. The members of the Massachusetts Press Association were special guests of the Edison Company on this night and saw the exposition under favorable conditions. At 6 P. M. the officials of the company, the local superintendents, and a young lady from each of the 33 municipalities in the district, and the newspaper men with their wives enjoyed a grand banquet in Paul Revere hall. Vocal and instrumental music enlivened the occasion.

The president of the Edison company addressed the guests. He told of the great advance by the recent introduction of the Tungsten lamp, and outlined the efforts of his company to build up the towns in its district. He said the word "electricity" means so much to all of us in our every day life, and is meaning so much more every day, that we have tried to assist in making this exhibition of intense human interest, not to the classes alone, but to the masses as well. And while we have not, neglected showing the advantages of electricity for manufacturing purposes, we have laid special stress on showing the advantage of electricity in every-day life, not alone commercially but hygienically and practically, as pertains to the comfort of each one of us. We believe it will be one of the most successful exhibitions ever held, because the phenomena of electricity in their present wonderful development interest everyone. The purposes of the Electric show are to stimulate interest in commercial electricity generally and show that it has benefited humanity in a thousand different ways, and if we accomplish this we will feel amply repaid.

Mechanics hall was never more attractive, being brilliantly "decorated" with electric lights. Particularly pleasing was the exhibit of the Edison company on the platform, a vast Italian garden. Among the exhibits one may see how electricity is applied to help in the household as well as in the manufactory.

Sewing machines, washing machines, fans, flatirons, carpet sweepers, etc. are operated by electricity, as well as printing presses, quarry drills and all kinds of machinery. Cows are also milked by electricity.

Several Quincy men are interested, Chester I. Campbell of Wollaston is general manager, E. E. Jameson of the Whitlock press has one of his latest presses, Elisha Packard supplies metal for a linotype, etc. Music by the Empire Woman's orchestra is much enjoyed.

☞Goods for the Rummage Sale to be held this week Thursday, Friday and Saturday in the store at the head of Merrymount road on Hancock street may be sent there on or after Tuesday or Mrs. D. E. Wadsworth, president of the Day Nursery association or Mrs. W. E. Blanchard president of the King's Daughters may be notified by telephone or letter and the goods will be sent for. Anything will be accepted, clothing of all kinds, furniture, ornaments etc.

CIVIL WAR EXPERIENCES

Capt. Dimmock and Col. Porter at Men's Club

Edward Southworth, the president of the newly reorganized Men's club of Bethany church outlined the plans of the club at the opening of the season Monday evening. There was increased interest in the club, and prospects are good for a membership of 100. About 50 enjoyed a roast beef supper served at 6.30. The blessing was asked by the pastor Rev. Dr. Hardy.

Before introducing the speaker of the evening President Southworth read two poems of the Civil war.

Capt. O. W. Dimmock, principal of a Boston school, told of his experiences during the Civil war. He enlisted in a New Hampshire regiment and was in the battle of Petersburg. It was during this battle, early in the morning, that he mistook a rebel detachment for men of his own party and was captured. He was sent to several of the rebel prisons, notably Andersonville and Macon. It was while at the last named prison that he with five other comrades made good their escape. In 30 days they made a 300 mile tramp to Knoxville, being recaptured once on the way but escaping again. It was of his experience while an inmate of these loathsome prisons that Capt. Dimmock spoke largely. He spoke of the food, the exposure, the death line and the brutality of the guards, giving in detail the horrible tortures which were inflicted on the Yankee prisoner.

Col. Charles H. Porter followed him and after highly complimenting Capt. Dimmock for his bravery on the battlefield, he went on to tell o fsome of his own experiences during the four years of civil strife.

The meeting closed with the singing of the hymn, "Praise God from whom all blessings flow."

OAK HILL CLUB.

The Oak Hill club of West Quincy passed a pleasant evening at their rooms on Forest avenue Monday evening. After the regular monthly business meeting there was a guessing contest, Master Wallace Vose being the winner. The prize was presented to Mrs. J. Vose in a short speech by John Hunter, president of the club. J. M. McCormack is vice president and an interested worker for the good of the club. Among those present were: Misses Isabelle McCormack, Reta Hunter, Alice McCormack, John McCormack, Samuel McCormack, Joseph Gibbs, Frank Morrill and Wilfred Torando.

PLATT IS VERY FEEBLE

Because of This Fact Mae Wood Is Likely to Escape Trial

New York, Nov. 16.—Mae C. Wood, indicted for forgery and perjury in connection with the trial of her suit against ex-Senator Thomas C. Platt, whom she alleged she had married, did not appear when the case was called here. On request of the prosecutor the case was marked off the calendar.

THOMAS C. PLATT.

The assistant district attorney said that it was doubtful if Miss Wood was ever tried, owing to the feeble condition of Platt, who is the chief witness against her.

JORDAN'S COUNSEL APPEAL

Exceptions Taken to Finding of Court Against Wife Murderer

Cambridge, Mass., Nov. 16.—J. S. Sulivan and H. L. Pratt, counsel for Chester S. Jordan, convicted of wife murder, filed an appeal with the clerk of the court on the finding of facts by Judges Stevens and Bell, who on Saturday denied Jordan a new trial.

The attorneys also filed a number of exceptions to be presented to the supreme court, including the refusal of the court to consider their seventy-two requests and the finding itself. They further state that, as a matter of law, Jordan is entitled to a new trial, and that he was deprived of his rights.

CITY COUNCIL

lieved the business could be conducted properly. There are a great many money sharks in Quincy who charge 25 per cent for their money. Poor people will not go there unless they have to. Let us settle the question now.

The roll call was asked on the question of laying on the table. The mation to lay on the table was lost, 10 voting yes and 10 no, as follows:

YES—Abele, Beal, Bean, Bishop, Bryant, Cherrington, Freeman, Gardner, Gilson and Richards—10.

NO—Carey, Flynn, Hadlock, McDevitt, Moir, Nelson, Russell, Smith, Walsh and Whiton—10.

The roll call was asked on the adoption of the order. The order was adopted by a vote of 12 yes and 8 no, as follows:

YES—Carey, Flynn, Gardner, Gilson, McDevitt, Moir, Nelson, Richards Russell, Smith, Walsh and Whiton—12.

NO—Abele, Beal, Bean, Bishop, Bryant, Cherrington, Freeman and Hadlock—8.

PUBLIC HEARING.

A public hearing was held at 7.45 on the petitions of the Old Colony Street railway company for a location for poles on West Howard street. Supt. Conway told what the poles were for. Hearing closed and order recommitted.

At 7.55 on petitions of the Telephone company for attachment. John Hyland of the company spoke in favor. Hearing closed and order recommitted.

At 8.05 on petitions of the Electric Light Co., for a location for poles. Supt. Austin explained that they were for street lighting.

Ex-Councilman Donovan opposed the location on Chubbuck street. He wanted the pole removed to the opposite side of the street. Hearing closed and order recommitted.

HOUGHS NECK SCHOOL.

The Committee on Ordinances reported correctly engrossed on the order for $20,000 for a school building at Houghs Neck. Report accepted and order placed in the calendar.

SCHOOL PLANS.

Councilman Bryant moved that the clerk be instructed to obtain from the City Solicitor the proper form for the certification of school plans to the City Council and forward it to the School Committee. Adopted.

ALL-NIGHT STREET CARS.

Councilman Moir moved to take from the table the petition for all-night street cars between Quincy and Neponset and that it be referred to the Committee on Streets. Voted.

This petition was received by the City Council Feb. 1, and was immediately laid on the table, where it was allowed to slumber until Councilman Moir took up the matter and had it referred to the Committee of which he is the chairman.

NEW BUSINESS.

Councilman Moir offered an order for lights on Webster place. Referred to the Executive.

Councilman Gilson offered a resolve requesting the Mayor to confer with the proper authorities of the City of Boston, that the repairs on Neponset bridge may be completed so that street cars and carriages may use it. Adopted.

Councilman Richards offered an order changing the location of a light in front of the Turning plant on Water street to the entrance to the playground. Referred to the executive.

Councilman Flynn offered an order for a fire alarm box on the corner of Winthrop park and South street. Referred to the Committee on Fire Department.

SALARY INCREASE.

Councilman Hadlock offered an order increasing the salary of the City Engineer from $1,200 to $1,500 per year. Referred to Committee on Ordinances.

CITY ELECTION.

Councilman Nelson offered an order for the City election of December 7. Adopted.

HOT SHOT.

Councilman Moir asked of the Chairman of the special committee on the revision of City Charter if it had held any meetings.

Councilman Richards, replying, said that he thought his position was understood when he attempted to have the committee enlarged. He thought he made it clear at that time what he considered the proper construction of that committee. He had hoped that the Council would let the order die. It seemed to him, that the idea was when he introduced the order, that it was political. It was self evident to him that something of that kind did enter into it. He considered it might be of some benefit to Quincy. He came to the Council to represent the taxpayers of the city. It was his duty if there is anything to their interest to do it. He thought the political aspect at that time called for it. We have been sent here to do the legislative duty only. If a person was to ask him if the city was getting a fair return for the money expended he should say no. We have a city second to none, but the streets are not what they should be. When we get away from the rank and file, the citizens do not get a fair return for their money. They want to see something for the money that is paid out. His personal opinion was that some of the boards were not conducting business straightforward. He did not consider this committee well constituted when one of the members stated Richard's order would be killed. He then denied it.

Councilman Smith, in reply, said the statement of the gentleman is not quite right. If citizens are not getting a return for their money it is the fault of the administrative officers, not the charter. As to himself what he said was not that the order would be killed, but that my personal opinion was the charter should not be amended. What I said was, in my opinion, the order should be killed. The question as the gentleman stated it was entirely different.

At this point President Hobbs said that he wished to state that there was no political contest in his ward and no opposition to him.

Councilman Richards said, if the gentleman from Ward Six will move that the committee be discharged I will second it.

Counciman Moir moved that the Committee be dissolved. Voted.

Councilman Bean offered an order for three lights on Franklin avenue and one on Marlboro street. Referred to the Executive.

WHO IS CHAIRMAN?

Councilman Moir asked why the special committee on boulevards had not reported. He asked the Mayor why the committee did not report.

Mayor Shea said he was not the chairman of the committee.

Councilman Freeman said he considered the Mayor was chairman.

There seemed to be some confusion as to who was chairman of the committee.

Councilman Moir moved, and it was voted, that the Committee report at the next meeting.

Councilman Moir asked the Chairman of the special committee on new industries why he did not report.

Councilman McDevitt said the committee would report at the next meeting.

Adjourned at 9.02 until Dec. 6.

BOSTON ART MUSEUM.

The new and beautiful Museum of Fine Arts in Boston is open this week free to the geenral public and that the public is anxious to see this fine setting for priceless treasures is indicated by an attendance of over 700 in three hours up to noon on Monday. Although the attendance was large all through the opening day so commodious are the rooms that at no time did they seem crowded.

Courteous custodians are everywhere to assist the visitors in seeing everything of interest and the present week offers an excellent opportunity to see the Art Museum in all its freshness and beauty.

Blanks	504	81	444	193	183	173	1578

* Nominated.

Walter F. Nichols, nominated by the Republicans for Mayor, ran ahead of all the at-large candidates at the Republican caucuses on Tuesday. He received 69 more votes than ex-Mayor Charles M. Bryant, who is at the head of the nominees for councilmen at large and one more vote than Dr. E. H. Bushnell, who was renominated for School Committee at large.

Over 300 less votes were cast at the Republican caucus than last year and Candidate Nichols received about 300 less than was given Candidate Stone last year. In Wards One and Four, however, he received a larger vote than did Mr. Stone. In Ward One his total was 255, in Ward Two 47, in Ward Three 218, in Ward Four 86, in Ward Five 127 and in Ward Six 95, a total of 828. There were 339 blank votes in the city.

For Councilman at large there were seven candidates for five places, and the successful ones in the order of their votes were Charles M. Bryant of Ward Five, Edward J. Sandberg of Ward Four, Charles E. Cherrington of Ward Six, Ernest W. Branch of Ward One, and Alexander Clark of Ward Three. Two of the present Councilmen fell by the wayside, Dr. A. H. Gilson receiving 49 less votes than Mr. Clark, while Charles A. Hadlock received 144 less than Mr. Clark.

Mr. Bryant was high man in the Wollaston ward, and second high in Quincy, South Quincy and West Quincy.

Mr. Sandberg was high man in three wards, the Quincy, Quincy Point and West Quincy.

Mr. Cherrington was high in the Atlantic ward, and second man at South Quincy and Wollaston.

Mr. Branch run well in all wards, except Atlantic.

Mr. Clark was high man in his home ward, South Quincy.

Mr. Gilson stood No. 5 in his own ward, and was low man at Quincy Point.

The totals were: Bryant 759, Sandberg 634, Cherrington 594, Branch 583, Clark 565, Gilson 516 and Hadlock 421.

For School Committee at large, Dr. E. H. Bushnell had no opposition, and received 827 votes.

WARD ONE.

There was a hot contest in Ward One over the nomination of councilmen from the ward and for ward committee. For councilmen there were five candidates. Of these Mr. Ericson was the man for whom the most hustling was done. The only carriage in use in this ward was in his interest, and this evidently accounts for the large vote which was polled in his interest. Of the three nominated Chas. A. Ericson received 245, Joseph L. Whiton Jr. 209, and James M. Nowland 152. The votes of the other two candidates were: Charles C. Hearn 144, and John D. McKay 122.

Dexter E. Wadsworth had no opposition for renomination for School committee from the ward, and he received 258 votes.

There was also quite a contest for ward committtee two lists being printed on the ballot from which the nine names were to be selectd. The highest vote of the winning man was 179 and the lowest 152. The nine elected follow, the order being according to their vote: George W. Abele ,George T. Westland, Charles H. Johnson, Harry S. Crane, Frederick E. Tupper, Henry P. Furnald, Henry P. Kittredge, John O. Hall and Theodore H. Hermanson.

WARD TWO.

Outside of councilmen at large there was no contest of any kind in the Quincy Point ward. The vote for the three ward councilmen ranged from 52 to 40. The nominations made were as follows:

Councilmen,— George H. Corliss, Percy H. Holman and Harry G. Studley.

Ward Committee,—Arthur W. Newcomb, Rollin H. Newcomb, Edgar F. Hayden, Daniel Scouler, Jr., Albert L. Whitman, Harry G. Studley, Percy H. Holman, Herbert F. Tucker, Eugene C. Hultman.

WARD THREE.

The South Quincy ward had its usual number of contests for it is the DEMOCRATIC VOTE OF CITY.

FOR MAYOR.

	Ward One.	Ward Two.	Ward Three.	Ward Four.	Ward Five.	Ward Six.	City Totals.
*William T. Shea	35	39	32	198	6	17	326
Blanks	14	2	4	38	0	0	58

FOR SCHOOL COMMITTEE AT LARGE.

*George M. Sheehan	38	33	30	165	6	14	286
Blanks	49	8	6	77	1	3	144

* Nominated.

The Democrats have no candidates for Councilmen at large unless it is found that some of the scattering votes were legal.

A smaller vote than last year was cast at the Democratic caucuses and Hon. William T. Shea was renominated without opposition. He received 326 votes out of a total of 384, there being 58 blanks. Last year Mayor Shea received 467 to 41 for George H. Wilson, and there were but 11 blanks. The number of blanks this year were surprisingly large in the West Quincy ward, the home of Mr. Shea, 38 out of a total of 236, over 16 per cent. In Ward One there were 14 blanks out of 49 over 28 per cent. In Wards Five and Six there were no blanks.

Dr. George M. Sheahan was nominated for School Committee at large without opposition, but there were 144 blanks out of a total of 430.

The Democrats made no nominations for councilmen at large.

WARD ONE.

The only contest in Ward One was over the selection of ward committee. There was but one candidate but as names were written on the ballot three were elected: Archie Thayer, Joseph L. Whiton, Jr., and Thomas E. Connelly.

The votes for ward committee elected ranged from 29 to 18, the order being: Edward J. Dunn, Philip D. Cook, Joseph G. Malley, Thomas J. Welsh, John J. Murphy, Thomas E. Connelly Augustus F. Murphy, John W. Ryan and James C. Grant.

WARD TWO.

In the Quincy Point ward there were no contests and therefore no attempt made to get out a large vote. The nominations made were:

For Councilmen—William A. Carey, William H. Flynn and Edward P. Histen.

Ward Committee—William A. Carey William H. Flynn, William F. Cain, Andrew J. Fahey, Joseph J. Kelly, Dennis J. Ford, James B. Oakes, Joseph G. Kennedy and Henry W. Mullane.

WARD THREE.

The South Quincy ward was free from contests and therefore little interest in the caucus. There were but two names for Councilmen from the ward printed on the ballot, but a name written in nominates a third candidate.

For Councilmen—James M. Cantfill, James M. Faircloth, David J. Donahue.

Ward Committee—Cornelius D. Austin, Samuel A. Dougherty, Michael Donahue, Dennis Donahue, William A. Kelley, James M. Cantfill, Patrick Crimmins and Daniel J. Donahue.

WARD FOUR.

The West Quincy ward had a hot contest on its hands and as a result polled 236 votes. For ward councilmen seven candidates were seeking the three nominations. One faction was out after Councilman McDevitt and another after Councilman Smith. When the result was announced it was seen that Councilman McDevitt had a large lead over the others, his vote being 163. Harry T. Boyd was the second man with 122, and Councilman Smith third with 89. Next in order came Charles D. Stanton with 81, Stephen B. Little with 73, Thomas M. Murray with 59, and James F. Edwards with 38.

The ward committee elect are: William T. Shea, Thomas J. Sullivan, Harry T. Boyd, Charles C. McCue, Charles J. McGilvray, James M. Flaherty, Richard H. Joyce, John D. Smith and William C. Martell.

WARD FIVE.

The only names on the Wollaston ballot were for Mayor and School Committee at large. Some scattering names were written in the other places but as a rule were not correct and will not be counted.

For ward councilmen the names of Jeremiah Dineen and Ellis McTeer were written in. Mr. Dineen however is a polic officer and resides in West Quincy.

WARD SIX.

The Atlantic ward polled 17 votes which considering the fact that there were no contests is not bad. But one candidate was nominated for Ward Councilman, Francis J. Mullen.

The Ward Committee elect are: Peter J. Colligan, Martin W. Cuniff, Timothy F. Sullivan, John F. Dolan, Lawrence Curtin, Bernard Cullen, Rednor P. Coombs, Hugh Gilmartin, and Thomas H. Hayes.

"A Song of Thanksgiving," by Maunder to be given at Christ church, Quincy, Friday evening, Nov. 26th by the combined choirs of Christ church and female vested choir of Emmanuel church, Braintree, and the following Boston soloists: Soprano, Miss Emily B. WESTERN UNION IS ABSORBED

In Control of American Telephone and Telegraph Company

AN IMPORTANT CONSOLIDATION

Consummated After Negotiations Had Been In Progress Many Months—Merger Means Ultimate System With $842,000,000 of Assets—Adjustment of Business Relations Cannot Be Worked In One Year or Even Two

Boston, Nov. 17.—Practical control of the Western Union Telegraph company has been secured by the American Telephone and Telegraph company. This control has been obtained by purchase of a substantial minority of the stock and the securing of the voting rights of other stock. From now on the telephone company will have an influential voice in the management and business policy of the telegraph company.

The passing of control of Western Union to American Telephone involves the ultimate creation of a huge telegraph and telephone system with $842,000,000 of assets, over $175,000,000 of present gross earnings, 9,481,188 miles of wires and between 125,000 and 140,000 employes.

It is understood that the telephone company paid 85 for the stock of the Western Union, and in Wall street Western Union quotations advanced to that figure.

The telephone company is believed to have an actual holding large enough to control the Western Union. Forty percent of any corporation, as a rule, will elect the directors, since thousands of shareholders neglect to vote. As a rule, not more than a total of 60 percent is represented at a stockholders' meeting.

The telephone company has been buying Western Union stock for several years. It is also largely interested in the Mackay company. It is proposed to consolidate the offices of the Western Union and the telephone company.

President Theodore Vail of the telephone company, who is a Boston man, has had the matter in hand, and as a result of his skilful work the merging of the two companies was accomplished.

Negotiations have been in progress for several months, and the result has been the most important single step ever taken by the telephone company. No dividend guarantee of any sort has been given by the American Telephone and Telegraph company, but its management considers the Western Union an excellent property, which in time can be made to show a fair return on the investment. Corporation and stockholding distinctions have prevented any measurable degree of co-operation until the present move.

Heretofore the telephone company has not developed the telegraph side of its name, principally because such a move would have meant the creation of a new business from top to bottom. Actually the circuits used by the two systems are such that it is possible to telephone and telegraph over the same wire at the same time. This co-operation is commercially feasible and it is the millions of telephone lines connecting millions of subscribers that make the telephone such a valuable adjunct to the telegraph system if proper co-operation can be secured.

The adjustment of this co-operation is not a matter to be fully worked out in a year or two, but will be a gradual process, involving far less expenditures for property improvements than at first would seem likely.

CUP RACE IN 1911

Way Said to Have Been Paved For a Challenge From Lipton

New York, Nov. 17.—A farewell dinner was given to Sir Thomas Lipton last night by members of the Atlantic Yacht club. Sir Thomas thanked the club for its hospitality and expressed his general appreciation of his reception in America.

With his departure expected on the steamer Lusitania for Liverpool today the visit of Lipton to this country is said to have practically assured an international yacht race for the America's cup in 1911.

It is said that Lipton's negotiations with his friends in the New York Yacht club have paved the way for a forthcoming challenge from the Irish yachtsman.

Lynn Shoe Strike Settled

Lynn, Mass., Nov. 17.—The strike at the shoe factory of A. E. Little, which has kept about 600 men out of work for the last three weeks, has been settled. The one man who refused to join the Goodyear Operators' union, which caused the strike, has been persuaded to throw in his lot with the other men.

Chloroformed Baby Sister

Charlotte, Mich., Nov. 17.—Some time ago Ruth Butler, 4 years old, pushed a baby sister off the bed and the infant strangled to death. Yesterday a 15-day-old babe died from the effects of chloroform playfully administered by Ruth, who had seen the mother use the drug to stop aching teeth.

COTTON YARN LEASE

Millions of Dollars Involved In the Union Mills Deal

Fall River, Mass., Nov. 17.—Property valued at more than $15,000,000 is involved in the transfer, through a lease, of the New England Cotton Yarn company to the Union Mills of Mechanicsville, N. Y.

It is understood that a new corporation will be formed under Massachusetts laws and that the interests of both companies will be merged therein.

The New England Cotton Yarn company operates upward of a dozen single mills in New Bedford, Taunton and this city, the product of which in part is absorbed by the Union Mills corporation, which controls knitting factories in five towns in New York state.

It is understood that the entire property will be managed from Boston. William Endicott, Jr., a Boston banker, is president of the Union Mills.

FEW BIG FOREST FIRES

"Lookout" System Proves Eminently Sucessful In New York

Saranac Lake, N. Y., Nov. 17:—Lookouts at the fire observation and signal stations located on Whiteface mountain, Mount Morris, Blue mountain and Gore mountain will be taken out of service this week. This closes the experimental season of the forestry department with the fire signal stations on mountain peaks in the Adirondacks.

That the territory under observation has been free of any dangerous fire throughout the summer, something which has not happened before in years, is probably due to the fact that all forest fires originating this year were discovered in their incipiency and extinguished before they gained enough headway to be destructive.

STRIKE THREATENS GRANITE INDUSTRY

Six Thousand Men Now Out and More May Follow

Barre, Vt., Nov. 17.—A complete paralysis threatens the granite industry in Vermont unless an adjustment of differences between the Manufacturers' association and the Cutters' union is reached within the next fortnight.

Yesterday 4000 cutters in Barre, East Barre, Montpelier, Williamstown and Waterbury struck because of trouble in the sheds at Northfield, where a pneumatic bush hammer was objected to on the ground that it emitted so much dust that the cutters were unable to perform their work under conditions satisfactory to them.

The strike of the cutters threw 2000 polishers and tool sharpeners out of work. Several other classes of employes are still at work, but if the trouble is not settled within a short time, the 6000 now idle will be joined by thousands of other employes.

JURORS IN TEARS

District Attorney Draws Pathetic Picture In Mullins Murder Case

Cambridge, Mass., Nov. 17.—White of face, yet smiling, Peter C. Delorey and James Mantir stood in the cage in a crowded courtroom last evening and learned that they must wait another night before hearing the jury's decision whether they murdered Annie Mullins.

Unmoved by District Attorney Higgins' arraignment nor stirred by visible emotion when the pathetic picture he drew of the desolation in Annie Mullins' sorrowing home in far-off Newfoundland sent the tears streaming down the jurors' cheeks, the youthful defendants' first show of feeling was when they heard Foreman Clark announce that the jury preferred to take the case this morning.

Found Dead In Her Room

Amesbury, Mass., Nov. 17.—Mrs. Henrietta Osgood was found dead in her room at her home here. It is believed that she expired directly after a meeting of the Elizabeth H. Whittier association, where she had read a paper on conditions existing in Russia, a country she had recently visited.

Ban on Mixed Marriages

New York, Nov. 17.—Just before final adjournment of the conference of rabbis, a resolution was adopted declaring that "mixed marriages are contrary to the traditions of the Jewish religion and should therefore be discouraged by the American rabbinate."

Will Dispose of Blackmailers

New York, Nov. 17.—Chief Flynn of the United States secret service declares that as the result of the arrest of fourteen alleged counterfeiters he has obtained evidence which will result in the stamping out of the biggest blackmailing society in New York.

The Pope's Jubilee

Rome, Nov. 17.—Twenty-five years ago yesterday Pope Pius X was consecrated Bishop of Mantua. While, in acoordance with the pope's wish, no formal celebration of the anniversary was held, he received congratulations by mail or telegraph from all parts of the Christian world.

FOR YOUR WEALTHY FRIEND.

Articles of Small Cost That Are Sure to Make a Hit.

The woman who wishes to make a present to a wealthy friend who has seemingly no need of anything you can afford to buy will be sure to make a hit if she makes her three or four protectors into which can be slipped delicate evening clothes.

Choose a close cheesecloth in any pretty, delicate color. A soft gray is serviceable and washes without fading. Use the width of the material, doubling it across at the top and sewing the two sides and the bottom in a seam.

Cut a small hole in the middle of the top fold and from it cut a straight slit about a yard long down the middle of the front piece. Bind around the hole and down each side of the slit with three-quarter inch white tape. The opening can be cut back and hemmed, if preferred, or can be bound with narrow wash ribbon in a contrasting color to the cheesecloth.

Fasten tapes at each side of the neck opening and about six inches apart to the bottom of the slit. If the covers are intended as gifts and if there are several women in a family it is a good idea to work three initials on the cheesecloth just below the opening. Use white mercerized cotton and pad well underneath to make the letters raised.

This marking is a convenience to tell whose frock the bag contains without opening it.

For the Traveler.

A dainty convenience for traveling is a little safety pin case made of linen and embroidered in a conventional design.

SAFETY PIN CASE.

Two pieces of stiff paper or cardboard are cut the size of the oval in the design, and one piece is for the cover of the case, the other for the back.

The design may be transferred to the linen by means of carbon paper and embroidered in a plain Kensington stitch. The poppy is red and the leaves green, with binding and bows of red ribbon.

Cover each side of the cardboard with the linen and stitch on the ribbon binding. Two pieces of white flannel with pinked edges are sewed in at the top to hold the safety pins. Pins of different sizes may be put into the flannel, and a few black safety pins will be found useful.

It is an attractive little gift and would be thoroughly appreciated by women at home as well as by the traveler.

Something For the Baby.

Something for the baby is one of the most important of Christmas gifts. A sleighbell ring will delight his young fancy, for it has gay ribbon, and when he shakes it the bells tinkle merrily.

A small embroidery hoop is wound tightly with ribbon, and five strands of the ribbon are stretched across the hoop. A bow of the ribbon finishes where the strands are sewed on, and a bell is sewed to the other end.

A practical idea is to take a hoop from a butter tub, make notches in the wood and tie it together tightly before winding with the ribbon.

It takes only a few minutes to make the ring, and the ribbon and bells are inexpensive. Any one who has a few moments to spare might make half a dozen or so and send them to some children's home or hospital, for there is always sure to be some very wee ones there.

Table Cover Design.

An attractive design for a table cover may be carried out in stencil and embroidery. A model was developed in monk's cloth of a warm tan shade stenciled in peacock blue and orange outlined in deeper shades of the same color. Tapestry dyes for stenciling may be bought in any shop selling art materials. Where the desired shade cannot be purchased it is easily obtained by mixing the dyes.

FIGHT AGAINST SUGAR TRUST

It Will Be Taken Up In Earnest When Congress Meets

REMOVAL OF DUTCH STANDARD

Its Advocates Will Be Content If President, Who Is Greatly Aroused Over the Situation, Discusses It In His Annual Message—General Investigation Coming—Sugar Frauds Discussed at Long Session of Cabinet

Washington, Nov. 17.—Senators and representatives who made an effort to have the Dutch standard, under which the sugar trust thrived at the expense of the American people, removed at the last session of congress, have large hope that public sentiment will back them in another attempt to have this so-called "joker" taken from the tariff law at the coming session of congress. They have an impression that now is the time to push the fight.

Within the last few days repeated announcements have been made that the administration purposed to go after the sugar trust at every "turn in the road." It is pointed out that if there really is a serious inclination to conduct a campaign of this sort the administration could not do a wiser thing than suggest to congress that the Dutch standard be removed.

Members of congress say that they will bring the subject to the attention of the president within a few days, and will urge him to discuss the Dutch standard in his annual message. It has been suggested that the president could start a more effective campaign perhaps, by sending a special message to the legislative body, but the advocates of a removal of the Dutch standard from the tariff law will be content if he discusses the matter in his regular message.

Aside from the program which some of the progressives have for seeking the removal of the Dutch standard, developments indicate that congress may be asked to undertake a general investigation of the sugar trust.

Public men who have talked with President Taft within the last day or two say he is greatly aroused over the situation. The department has been engrossed with the New York investigations that little attention has been given to the conditions in any other port. It is the intention of Secretary MacVeigh, however, to satisfy himself whether corrupt conditions exist in Boston, and in due time the situation there will be studied.

The first cabinet meeting since the adjournment of the special session of congress early last summer was held at the White House Tuesday and during the greater part of the time the sugar trust situation in New York was under discussion. Attorney General Wickersham and Secretary MacVeagh, whose departments are directly interested in the inquiry, gave to the president and to the other members of the cabinet a detailed statement of the situation, so far as they understood it, and explained that the rigid investigation into the fraud had really just begun.

The cabinet was in session for two hours and forty minutes. When an adjournment was taken it was admitted that there had been a discussion of the sugar frauds, but it was said that no definite conclusions had been reached. No statement was issued.

PLEADS NOT GUILTY

Bendernagel Appears In Court and Trial Is Set For Nov. 30.

New York, Nov. 17.—A plea of not guilty to the indictments charging him with conspiracy and effecting and aiding in effecting entries of sugar at this port by false weights was entered by James F. Bendernagel, former general manager and superintendent of the Williamsburg plant of the American Sugar Refining company and six minor employes of the company jointly indicted with him.

Attorneys for the indicted men served notice that they reserved the privilege of substituting demurrers to the plea and applying for an adjournment or removal of trial on the ground that the present state of public feeling rendered it impossible for their clients to obtain a fair trial.

The pleadings were made before Judge Hough of the United States circuit court. In the event of motions for demurrers being overruled, then Dec. 30 was fixed as the date and Judge Martin as the judge before whom the case is to be tried. Bendernagel's bail of $5000 was continued until Nov. 30.

Ten Men Suffocated

Winston Salem, N. C., Nov. 17.—Ten men were smothered to death in a excavation near Salem creek. They were at work digging for a new railroad. The men composing the construction gang were Italians and negroes.

Patrolman Fined For Lax Duty

Boston, Mass., Nov. 17.—Patrolman Dalton, who has been on the local force for eleven years, pleaded guilty to three charges of neglect of duty and was fined two weeks' pay.

SAGE FOR DARKENING THE HAIR.

There is nothing new about the idea of using sage for restoring the color of the hair. Our great-grandmothers kept their locks soft, dark and glossy by using a "sage tea." Whenever their hair fell out or took on a dull, faded or streaked appearance, they made a brew of sage leaves and applied it to their hair with wonderfully beneficial effect. Nowadays we don't have to resort to the old-time, tiresome method of gathering the herbs and making the brew. This is done by skillful chemists better than we could do it ourselves, and all we have to do is to call for the ready-made product. Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur, containing sage in the proper strength, with the addition of Sulphur, another old-time scalp remedy. This preparation is sold by all first-class druggists for 50c. and $1.00 a bottle, or is sent direct by the Wyeth Chemical Company, 74 Cortlandt St., New York City, upon receipt of price.

Old Time Quackery.

The eighteenth century was the golden harvest time of the quack, against whom some of the fiercest shafts of Hogarth's satire were directed. The quack loved to surround himself with an atmosphere of mystery, which was calculated to impose upon the credulity of his victims. His room was bedecked with skulls and skeletons. A brisk trade in quackery was carried on by women. J. C. Wright in his book, "The Good Old Times," records the fact that in the year 1789 "a Mrs. Joanna Stephens was awarded £5,000 by the English government 'for a proper discovery made by her for the cure of the stone.' This 'proper discovery,'" adds Mr. Wright, "consisted of a powder, a decoction and pills, the last named being formed from calcined snails, with carrot seeds, hips and haws, the compound being burnt to blackness and then mixed with soap and honey."

The city election promises to be as tame as were the municipal caucuses.

The City Hospital is receiving many kind endorsements by letters, and the Hospital week collectors are being cordially received. The indications are that the popular subscriptions may be larger than in recent years.

One part of the Thanksgiving dinner may be a little cheaper this year as the government has been unsuccessful in creating a demand in the foreign markets. Its unpopularity abroad may result in benefit to the home consumer.

There will soon be a lot of cackling in Portland, Oregon, a prize being offered to the school children exhibiting the best chickens. The real object is to provide outdoor occupation after school and incidentally increase the egg supply.

One or two pawnbrokers shops might not be a bad thing in Quincy, but like the common victuallers there would be no limit if a start was made. There are altogether too many common victuallers in the city. The time to shut down on pawnbrokers is now. The ordinance should never have become a law.

What one public spirited man can do for his town is illustrated this week in Braintree, where the trustees of Thayer Public library through the generosity of Judge Albert E. Avery have opened a branch library in East Braintree. Judge Avery offered the use of his residence on Mondays and Thursdays and the branch opened this week in charge of Miss Wilkinson.

Brockton evidently does not approve of individual civic enterprise for there is considerable feeling on between the superintendent of street and a department store proprietor. The store manager hired a private crossing sweeper, clad in uniform, and put him to work in front of the store. Supt. Thorne ordered the man to stop work, explaining his position thus: "We don't claim Brockton is a spotless town ,nor that sweepers aren't a good thing, but it would give out of town visitors a funny idea of the town to see 'white wings' at work on the public streets with 'Try Blank's for bargains' painted across their backs. No, sir, they can't work."

On general principles, pensions are not in favor among Americans, except to volunteer soldiers of our wars. Some begrudge the sum annually paid by the government to the Civil war veterans, but the United States is only fulfilling its obligations. But if pensions are to be paid to our firemen, they should also be paid to our policemen, our school teachers and to other faithful employes of the city long in service. As long as the city is unable to pay better salaries to these public servants, it is almost a financial impossibility to pay pensions, as much as we would like to do so. City expenses are already excessive and taxes a burden. Whenever citizens have been asked to support entertainments given by the firemen or the policemen in aid of their relief funds the responses have been hearty, and large sums have been realized. If pensions could be paid from a relief fund rather than from the city treasury the city would be relieved. As the burden of taxation increases the property will pass into the hands of a few which is not a desirable condition

☞ As there will be no tickets on sale at the door for Miss Beatrice Herford's recital of original monologues at First church chapel Friday evening, a few have been placed at C. C. Hearn's for the convenience of patrons. They may also be obtained of Mrs. Elsie Russell Bickford at her home on Hancock street, corner of Russell park. The recital is under the auspices of the Art and Literature committee of the Quincy Women's club of which Mrs. Bickford is chairman.

WOMEN'S CLUBS

WHAT THEY ARE DOING AND SEASONS' PLANS

The annual collection of garments for the Needle Work Guild was held Friday afternoon, Nov. 12th at the home of its president, Miss Abigail B. Wood, School street. A goodly number availed themselves of the invitation and attended the meeting. All were enthusiastic in praise of the generous contribution of new garments. Tea was served during the afternoon by Mrs. Perry Lawton, vice president of the Quincy Guild.

An enjoyable meeting of the Junior Friday club was held Monday afternoon with Miss Georgiana C. Lane of Presidents hill. The study of France is proving most interesting and members are putting considerable time into the preparation of the meetings. Mrs. Arthur W. Hall was in charge of the program for Monday afternoon Feudalism being the subject with papers on the "Life of Serfs," "Feudal Castles" and "Tournaments." The usual social and lunch followed the program.

At the convention of the Illinois Federation of Women's club last week it was impressed on club women that in the interests of hygiene they must not use the telephone so much in ordering household supplies but go themselves to the store and select the foodstuff. They were also asked to support the uniform state pure food bill and to favor equal suffrage.

QUINCY WOMEN'S CLUB.

For the Thanksgiving week program of the Quincy Women's club, the program committee has arranged a meeting by the Home Economics committee when Mrs. Mary J. Lincoln of Boston will speak on the "Simplicity of Living."

Mrs. Lincoln is not unknown to many club members as she formerly lived in Wollaston and those who do not know her personally are well acquainted with her writings on household matters and are especially indebted to her for many recipes daily used in cooking. The meeting is called for half past two as usual.

Club life is active this season to strenuosity and so numerous are the classes and so varied the good work going on one almost needs a special club calendar of dates and hours.

The success of the Current Events class, Mrs. May Alden Ward, lecturer, on the second Thursday afternoon of each month is gratifying to the Art and Literature committee, the first meeting last week being attended by over a hundred, and an increase promised. This committee also arranged a recital by Miss Beatrice Herford and a lecture to be given later by Thomas A. Watson of Braintree.

Another busy committee is the Arts and Crafts. The dressmaking class opened Tuesday morning this week at the clubhouse and other classes are well under way. At the meeting of the club Tuesday afternoon there is to be an exhibit in the Arts and Crafts rooms of amateur photography which club members are invited to view.

The Civic committee has all arrangements completed for the annual assembly at Quincy Music hall on the 26th and it promises to be the usual social success of the winter and add to the funds for civic improvements.

Custodians are now to be ornamented with a yellow and white badge so that club members desiring information as to guest tickets, guests, or to secure a seat may apply to any lady wearing a badge.

The Home Economics committee has a successful course of demonstration lectures by Mrs. Wade on Friday afternoons at the clubhouse, and the Woman's Exchange department is well organized. Each club meeting day finds a large display of cookery and household articles in the committee room which is quickly disposed of. Non-members as well as club members can contribute to the exchange. Orders are also taken for mending which appeals to the busy club woman.

The Quincy Young Women's club organized by the Philanthropy committee is gaining steadily in numbers and interest which is gratifying to the committee. Good work is being done in the classes already and members find the lessons enjoyable as well as practical.

With a membership of 350 in the Quincy Women's club and about a 100 more in the Young Women's club the influence of the club is constantly widening and increasing. Almost any good work or object can be accomplished with such a strong backing.

FEDERATION MEETING.

Quincy women attending the State Federation meeting at Brockton Nov. 11th were well repaid and thoroughly enjoyed the day.

The morning session was devoted to welcoming visiting clubs and to business. The principal address was by Benjamin C. Marsh, executive secretary of the committee on congestion of population in New York, whose subject was the Problem of Congestion of Population in American Cities. He said in part:

Congestion of Population may be variously interpreted as the location of large populations in a city or their massing on limited space, such as a block, or their overcrowded per room. As a matter of fact where we have overcrowding per room and per block, we are apt to have overcrowding especially along widely spread lines of transit in very large areas.

It is by no means the largest cities of this country which have the greatest density of population, taking the area of the city as a whole, and this fact sufficiently illustrates the fallacy of attempting to make the density per city a criterion of the healthy organization of the city.

Thus Hoboken, N. J., with a comparatively small population, had a density in 1905 of 53.6 per acre, whereas in New York city, although it has the most desperate congestion by large political units, such as assembly districts, and by block, of any city in the civilized world, the city density in 1905 was only 19.8.

This average density is as fallacious a return as average goodness or average worth, and since against the congested areas of Manhattan, Bronx and Brooklyn, must be counted the Borough of Queens having even now a density of less than three people to each of its nearly 83,000 acres, and the Borough of Richmond, which has only two people to each of its 36,000 acres.

Brockton had a density in 1905 of only 3.4 while Boston had only 21.8 per acre in 1905, just 2 more than that of New York.

That Congestion of Population and City Planning are a national problem is evidenced by the fact that there are 101 cities in the United States with a population of 50,000 or over, and 107 cities with a population of 25,000 or more. Each of these cities has a distinct problem of organization but each has this in common; it is striving to increase its population and wealth. 36 states have cities with a population of 50,000 or over, that is 28.1 per cent of the population is living in cities of 50,000 or over, and 32.88 per cent, practically 1-3 of the population of the United States, is living in cities with a population of 25,000 or over.

In every one of these cities there is a tendency, through the operation of certain so-called economic laws, to increase the density of population and to compel congestion.

Unfortunately we have not yet made a sufficiently accurate study of death rates in relation to overcrowding in this country, but the investigation made a few years ago in Leipzig showed that the death rate for adults in rooms with three or more occupants is often treble the rate in rooms with one occupant, and the rate is four times as great among children under one.

It is well known, too, that tuberculosis is a congestion disease, and that the death rate from this preventable white plague is, in congested sections of the city, double and treble the rate in parts of the city that are only reasonably populated.

So closely is the relation between overcrowding and density of population established, that the Consulting Statistician of the New York State Department of Health, Dr. Walter F. Wilcox, states that "The denser the population the larger the death rate, is a general principle of vital statistics."

The death rate of the city as a whole is therefore absolutely as misleading as the average density per acre of the city as a whole. It was found in an investigation conducted in New York by the State Board of Health in 1908, that the death rate from certain respiratory diseases among children under five of Italian parentage in crowded areas was seven times the death rate among children under five in other sections of the city as a whole.

The death rate from consumption, moreover, in the crowded sections of New York, is much higher than that in areas that are normally populated.

It is necessary to distinguish carefully between the economic causes which are legitimate and tend to the concentration of a large population on a comparatively limited area, that is, to the formation of large cities, and the causes of the unnecessary and undue massing of the population in a very limited portion of the city, that is congestion.

The causes of concentration of population are physical, commercial and economic.

The causes of congestion of population are, on the other hand, although in a sense economic, fundamentally due to conditions within the control of adequate legislation and reasonable training.

Among the causes of congestion may be mentioned:—primarily, land speculation, that is, the intensive use of land. 2d—long hours of work and low wages. 3d—The lack of suitable means of transportation for passengers and freight and the unnecessary concentration of factories.

It is impossible within the brief time allote d to discuss either the costitutionality of the immediate expediency of some of these measures. Sufficient to say that when we recognize, as today we refuse to recognize, that most of our charity and much of our correctional effort is made necessary by conditions which we should prevent but do not, we will frankly face the need for the constitutional amendments and legislation to prevent the exploiting and the demoralizing of those sections of our community which are least able to protect themselves.

Congestion of population is a disease of selfishnes, and it is absolutely imperative that the community should prevent congestion and its attendant and recognized evils by restricting the selfishness of a limited portion of the citizens in the interests of the citizens and the city as a whole.

Rev. John Hopkins Denison spoke on the lack of co-ordination as the trouble of the modern city and of the 1915 movement. He said in part:

1915 MOVEMENT.

The 1915 Movement is one of those spontaneous evolutions in which one cannot but be conscious of the direction of a greater purpose than those which originate in the minds of men. It sprang from the spirit of the times,—that Divine power within us, not ourselves, that makes for righteousness. It had its forerunners in all departments of the city life. That these various local movements should all have come to a focus at the some time, so as to be naturally co-ordinated in one great movement is something which no human mind planned and which was pre-ordained by the counsels of no committee.

Whether this, particular movement will succeed may be a question of opinion. It is, however, increasingly evident that if the problem of the modern city is ever to be solved it must be accomplished along the lines which this movement has followed. This is the only path to the ideal city.

The trouble with a modern city is not lack of intelligence or lack of righteousness,— it is lack of co-ordination. This is due to two causes. First—class, race, and religious prejudice, the results of which are that one man has no sympathy with or knowledge of that which others are doing. When one moves to carry out a good plan that is sufficient reason that the rest should stay out. It results in mutual suspicion and distrust. What Back Bay advocates the workingmen suspect; when the Roman Catholics move the Protestants stay out; when business men are enthusiastic the labor unions are dubious.

The second difficulty is class and institutional selfishness—the disposition of the man of each class, whether laborer or manufacturer or society man, to work for the advantage of his own little group, in disregard of the fact that his success may mean another's loss. This is true of the separate manufacturing trades, of the different unions, of the separate ward organizations, and even of the Churches, where often the main thought is, How best to exploit the neighborhood and to acquire the largest membership and financial support, without stopping to inquire how that Church can best benefit the neighborhood, regardless of its own success. When the men of each ward are working to exploit the city for the benefit of their ward, and the same is true of each corporation and union, any comprehensive plan is impossible.

It is to meet these difficulties that the 1915 movement exists. In addition to certain great unifying movements which began long ago, the 1915 movement embraces four subordinate ones, each remarkable in itself, which came to a climax last year. The first of these was the City Club, started under the influence of Mr. E. A. Filene and Mr. J. J. Storrow, with the distinct purpose of bringing together all classes and all nationalities and all religions in such a way that membership in the Club constituted an introduction

CORPORATION TAXES.

The changes in the apportionment of the corporation tax are favorable to Quincy, but the increase is only $1,501.86. Six of the cities will lose, viz.: Beverly, Fitchburg, Malden, Medford, Newton and Somerville. Many of the cities make large gains, notably Boston, Cambridge, Chelsea, Fall River, Lawrence, Lowell, New Bedford, Salem, Waltham and Worcester. Milton, Brookline, Hopedale and Winchester make small losses. One-half of the tax on each corporation now goes to the city where the corporation carries on business.

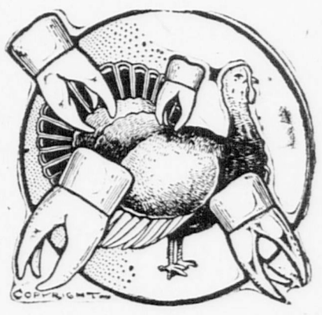

☞ Is there a boy in the city who wants to earn a bright five dollar gold piece? The boy selling the most Ledgers between now and New Years will be awarded five dollars in gold, beside earning good commissions each day on the papers sold. The contest is open to any boy commencing Nov. 15 and ending Jan. 1, 1910.

MRS. PARLIN PASSES AWAY.

Relief came to the sufferings of Mrs. Frank E. Parlin of Wollaston this morning, and sympathy goes out to Quincy's late superintendent of schools in the hour of his bereavement. Mrs. Parlin had been ill for several months with no chance of recovery, but was resigned to her fate and patient through it all. Her maiden name was Hattie Start, being the daughter of Mr. Ozro and Mrs. Mary Start of Bakersfield, Vt. She was a helpmate of her husband and made many friends during their residence in this city.

She was interested in literary work, and a member of the "Tea-Cups" and other clubs. Her death is the first break in her father's family; both parents as well as three sisters and a brother mourning their loss. The funeral service at Wollaston on Thursday will be strictly private, the remains being taken to Bakersfield for interment.

QUINCY CHORAL SOCIETY.

The fifth rehearsal of the Choral society on Tuesday evening added new laurels to the carefully kept records of the season's work. The attendance was large and if it continues so through the entire series Conductor Wonson assures the society that the Messiah concert will be a record breaker. It is not his custom to praise the singers under his instruction but the work of the Quincy Choral has been so far above the average that he has felt obliged, in a way, to express his pleasure. All the Choral rehearsals are so pleasant and instructive that the executive board members earnestly hope that no one who really wishes to join the society this year will wait until the season is too far advanced, as some did last year. The society has cordially welcomed all new comers in these early rehearsals whether the voices were trained or untrained but this policy will have to be changed before long. Only singers with well trained voices, and who know the Messiah music fairly well will be eligible for membership later in the season.

CAUCUSES

policy of the ward to place double lists on the ballots and let the voters take their choice. There were six candidates for ward councilmen and the three nominated with their vote were: John R. Richards 212, Robert B. Craig 169 and George A. Bolster 146. The votes of the other candidates were: Malcolm McKenzie 104, Alexander D. Booth 94 and George Gauthier 89.

The vote for ward committee elected ranged from 236 to 137, the order being: John R. Richards, Alexander Clark, Edward D. Marnock, Robert B. Craig, Daniel F. Tinney, Murdock A. Campbell, George Gauthier, John R. Bissett, John Capaccioli, Jr. Only one of the others received over 100.

WARD FOUR.

The West Quincy ward had no contests outside of the councilmen at large. There were but two names printed on the ballot for ward councilmen. The name of John J. McDevitt was written on the ballots however and he becomes the third candidate.

For ward councilmen, John J. Clark, J. Leonard Ferguson and John J. McDevitt.

For Ward Committee, Edward J. Sandberg, Louis K. Badger, Merton A. Turner, William H. Teasdale, John W. Thompson, Victor E. Serberg, August Williams, J. Leonard Ferguson Charles H. Owens.

WARD FIVE.

Although a large ward, Wollaston did not turn out a large vote. There was a contest for nomination of ward councilmen but this did not act as a magnet to draw out the voters. Of the three nominated for Council, Arthur C. Gardner had 149, Fred R. Snow 138 and Arthur W. Loud 122. The defeated candidate, Felix Favorite, received 48 votes.

Dr. William G. Curtis was nominated for School Committee without opposition.

The Ward Committee elected are: William M. Chase, Richard R. Freeman, Herbert Y. Follett, Walter S. Pinkham, William J. Leslie, Walter G. Field, Felix Favorite, Frederick G. Thayer and William J. Jones.

WARD SIX.

The Atlantic ward had no local contest and the regular nominees had a walk over. For ward councilmen, Ralph W. Hobbs received 99 votes, Washington Woodward 96, and John Moir 90.

The Ward Committee elect are: Frank E. Badger, Herbert S. Barker, Lyndon D. Gurney, Horace T. Jenkins, Robert E. Jones, Louis F. R. Langelier, Edward F. Parlee, Ernest E. Sodergren, Washington G. Woodward.

and they could all meet together and eat together and discuss together. The City Club became self-supporting last year and has now three thousand members in which all classes are represented.

Second—In the business world a similar movement took place. There had been various associations representing different trades and each working for its own advantage. These were gathered together and the Associated Boards of Trade and the Merchant's Association united. A final amalgamation of this body with the Chamber of Commerce was effected last year, with the intention that all should work together for the good of Boston. Committees on civic welfare in all its departments have been appointed.

The third movement was for ward improvement. It was discovered that in each ward there was a little group of men who were working to benefit that ward, often at the expense of other wards. By the efforts of a few men these local Clubs were all got together in the United Improvement Association, of which Judge Michael Sullivan is president.

The fourth movement was religious. It was just at this time that Doctor Chapman came to Boston and in the great revival movement a majority of the Protestant Churches of the city were brought together in one great co-operative effort as never before. At the climax of the revival, on the last Sunday night, Doctor Chapman called all the audience to their feet and pledged them to stand by any movement for civic improvement which might be launched during the year. He had knowledge of the 1915 Movement and felt that the Churches should be a part, and a vital part ,of it.

As has been said, these movements all focused at the same time, and representatives of them, together with the representatives of other classes and movements which were previously organized, constitute the Directors of the 1915 Movement. The first purpose of the 1915 movement is co-ordination. The second purpose of the movement is constructive effort. In the third place it stands for stimulus to civic thought. It puts the question definitely to each organization, "What are you doing for Boston?" It forces each individual to ask himself what he, as an individual, is doing for the city.

In order to bring this stimulus as powerfully as possible to bear upon the minds of the people, an exhibition has been arranged in which are shown plans for the future of Boston on the one hand, and on the other hand an exhibit of the forces which are at hand to carry out those plans if they can once be united in the effort. The exhibition is designed also to show the best things that are being done in all other cities as a help to us in planning for our own. The whole movement is succeeding because it is not so much the plan of any set of individuals as a true expression of the temper of the people and of the spirit of the age. It would have been practically impossible to bring the churches together in any one effort a few years ago. The mere suggestion suffices at this time to bring all the Protestant denominations and the Catholics and Jews together in one exhibit to demonstrate what the united churches of Boston are doing and wish to do for the city. Many have criticized the movement, but there is not one who when it has been truly understood has not been heartily in its favor.

The last speaker, Dr. George Kriehn of New York continuing along in the line of thought spoke on,

THE CITY BEAUTIFUL.

The city beautiful in Europe and America, he said, is but a creation of yesterday. In 1850 Paris, except a few sections cleared in the times of the Revolution, was a dreary, characterless waste of plaster buildings built along dirty, narrow, streets. In 1857 Vienna was the worst capital in Europe, and its Ringstrasse, the most beautiful street in the world, had not even been thought of. Modern Budapest has entirely arisen since 1868. The difficulties which these cities had to overcome were greater than those which stare us in the face. Why then should not we accomplish what they have?

"Our cities have more money to spend. All that we lack is the determination to carry out the ideal of the City Beautiful, and go to work in an intelligent manner, profiting by the experiences of the past. I believe that fifty years from now our cities will rank with those of Europe.

"When we consider what has been accomplished in the last few years, this seems by no means improbable. It was not much before the end of the nineteenth century that the work was taken up. New York led the way by the organization of its Municipal Art Society. At the National Conference on Municipal Art at Baltimore in 1899, we seemed like voices crying in the wilderness. Since that time Municipal Art Societies or similar organizations devoted to the movement have been organized in almost every important city in our land. The American Civic Association, in particular, has distinguished itself, in an efficient campaign for a more beautiful America. Art commissions, with powers to veto on every public undertaking which does not come up to artistic requirements, now exist in most of our principal cities, particularly in New York, where a great work has been accomplished. The ideal of the City Beautiful is beginning at last to be understood throughout the country. It was a great comfort to have the matter taken up at the biennial convention of the General Federation of Women's Clubs at Milwaukee in 1900. I am particularly gratified that work of this character should be taken up by an organization as powerful and as influential as the Massachusetts Federation of Women's Clubs. I have no doubt this will mean, ere very long, the adoption and the realization of the ideal of the City Beautiful throughout your State.

"The first three obstructions to the attainment of our ideal in the American city are dirt, smoke and billboards. Clean streets and modern sewerage are indispensable, and there is no use erecting beautiful buildings if they are begrimed in a few days by soft coal smoke. No one can walk down the chief street of any American city without having his eyes affronted by hideous business signs and by billboards. Not only the business thoroughfares, but even our parks, upon which our cities have spent so much to establish and maintain, are thus spoiled.

"What is the need of such effacement? The legitimate needs of advertising can be accomplished by posters of a reasonable size fixed at specified places. Both posters and business signs may as well be attractive as hideous. This has been proved in Belgium. They say these handsome signs give better returns than the old ones, because while the latter made people angry, the others attracted permanent attention. Why should not powerful women's clubs take such action? Backed by an intelligent public opinion, they might also change the character of public advertising in their own town.

"It may be necessary to proceed against the bill-board nuisance by law, as has been done in Chicago, Buffalo, Rochester and Pittsburg. A very important decision of the Supreme Court on an ordinance passed in San Jose, Cal., confirmed the right of California municipalities practically to forbid bill boards altogether. The opinion seems to be gaining ground that an offence to the eye (as the bill board undoubtedly is) should as well be classified a nuisance as an offence to the nose or to the ear, and should, therefore, be subject to the same police regulations. There are a number of other methods of procedure against them. Among these are the imposition of a heavy license tax, as is done in some European countries, and the assessment of vacant real estate upon the basis of its value for purposes of outdoor advertisements.

"Finally, I would suggest proceeding against them by correspondence. Let every individual member of a club write to advertising firms, protesting against their method, and stating that they will never use an article thus advertised. The great trouble in America is that no one seems to exercise a proper vigilance over what the city is doing.

"The first step to be taken in the creation of the City Beautiful is to secure general and comprehensive plans of improvement. This plan should provide for at least fifty years growth, and be sufficiently elastic to include future contingencies. It should not attempt details, but only provide general outlines: such as sites for public buildings boulevards and avenues to connect great centres of traffic, new parks and playgrounds. The way to get such a plan is to employ competent authority, i. e., a landscape artist, to draw it up. What more fitting present could the members of a club make to their native town than such a scheme of improvement?

"There are a number of principles long recognized by the European cities which future city planning will decree for American cities. Among these are the massing of public buildings. This is the secret of the glory of European cities. One has only to recall St. Mark's Place at Venice, the Place de la Concorde in Paris, and the Ringstrasse in Vienna. These public places should be decorated with such works of art as statues, fountains, etc. Nature's adornment trees, grass shrubs and flowers should not be wanting in these places. It is perhaps unnecessary for me to speak of tree planting in New England, which is better equipped in this regard than any other part of America. But even here there cannot be too much of this good thing. I would have trees, as far as possible, in the very heart of the city. I think I do not go too far when I say that the trees of Paris are as great a glory as its buildings.

"It is often possible for the women's clubs to enlist the commercial interests. The project should prove attractive to any board of trade. There are many other ways in which clubs can render great service in attaining the City Beautiful. Why should not each club of your Federation have a section specially devoted to civic improvement? It might be well to take up some definite line of action, and if I were asked to suggest one, I should say let us begin with the crusade against the billboard nuisance. The women have always been more interested in art than the men, and it is to them that we, who long for the City Beautiful, look for great results in the realization of our ideal."

WOLLASTON SOCIAL.

An interesting evening was enjoyed at the monthly meeting of the Wollaston Young People's Social Society on Tuesday evening. Heading the program was a guessing game which consisted of familiar advertisements, the names of which were missing. The winner of this contest was the recipient of a suitable prize. The evening closed with an "inverted" spelling match, the sides being made to spell the words backward instead of the usual way. Refreshments were served throughout the evening.

An Epitaph.

In the churchyard of Leigh, near Bolton, will be found a tombstone bearing the following amazing sentence: "A virtuous woman is 5s. to her husband." The explanation seems to be that space prevented "a crown" being cut in full, and the stonemason argued that a crown equals 5 shillings.—London Notes and Queries.

Musical Note.

"How do you sell your music?" asked the prospective customer.

"It depends on the kind you want," replied the smart clerk. "We sell piano music by the pound and organ music by the choir."

A Blowing Up.

"Now, Willie," said the teacher to a small pupil, "can you tell me what dynamite is used for?"

"Yes, ma'am," answered Willie. "It's used to blaspheme things with."—Chicago News.

THREE HUNDRED SURELY DEAD

No Possibility of Survivors Being In St. Paul Mine

TROOPS' SERVICES NECESSARY

Authorities Expect Panic Among Mourners When Bodies of Entombed Men Are Brought to the Surface—All Probably Perished an Hour After First Fire—Air Not Cut Off by Sealing Shaft Cuts

Cherry, Ills., Nov. 17.—Troops have been called for to prevent the possibility of any untoward demonstration at the St. Paul coal mine when the bodies of the 300 men entombed by last Saturday's disaster are brought to the surface.

When the bodies will be reached is doubtful. None of the officers believe any of the 800 entombed men are alive, but in this respect nothing more is actually known now than was known the day of the accident.

The fire rages in the mine. A thermometer plunged into the sand scattered on top of the seal over the mouth of the pit showed a temperature of 110 degrees, indicating that the heat in the mine must have been intense.

"It's no use," said Fire Chief Horan of Chicago, to lift the lid now, for it would mean that the whole mine would blaze up and there would be no possibility of recovering even the bodies."

George S. Rice, chief of the field work of the United States geological survey, also was positive that the reopening of the mine would have to be postponed, so the only progress made yesterday was in organizing relief work for the many destitute remnants of families.

In making the rounds of eighty-six of the miners' homes it was found that with the exception of small children all were without males.

Only the most frantic of the women who lost husbands ventured to visit the mine shaft. Funerals of eight of the miners who were killed Saturday were held yesterday. Two of these died while engaged in rescue work.

The opinion is expressed by Mine Manager Taylor that the men in the mine were dead soon after the fire started Saturday.

"The men in the mine are dead," he said. "Under any process of scientific reason there can exist no ground for hope that a single soul could have been found alive an hour after the first fire. To make these poor women think that when the mine is opened their loved ones will be found in some remote portion of the mine, is cruel.

"It is a mistaken idea that the entombed miners could have hastened far out in the galleries and there found oxygen enough to keep them alive. The fire was intense and the smoke and the poisonous gases, known to miners as white damp, were whirled to every corner of the mine. No living thing could escape it.

"It is also a mistake to think that sealing the shaft cuts of the circulation of air. Our anemometers have shown all along a good circulation of air in the shaft, but the damage that was fatal had been done long before the mine was sealed the first time last Saturday afternoon."

President Earling of the Chicago, Milwaukee and St. Paul railway spent the entire day at the mine. An iron pipe was laid from the reservoir to the entrance of the shaft, and from it a long lead of hose was dropped into the shaft. Two hundred thousand gallons of water was then forced to the bottom of the shaft, but it had no visible effect on the fire.

FOUNDER OF RESCUE HOMES

Death of Charles Crittenton, Famous For His Acts of Mercy

San Francisco, Nov. 17.—Charles N. Crittenton of New York, wideiy known as the founder of the Florence Crittenton Home for Girls, died last night of pneumonia. He was 76 years old.

Mr. Crittention founded seventy-three rescue homes in this country, and several in Japan and China, which he named in memory of his daughter, Florence, at whose dying request he entered mission work. He was on a tour, visiting the many rescue homes throughout the country, and arrived in San Francisco ten days ago.

Merger of Large Banks

Lynn, Mass., Nov. 17.—Steps for the consolidation of two large banks in Lynn have been completed by the directors of the National Security bank and the Security Safe Deposit and Trust company. The combined assets of the banks are $4,500,000. The merger goes into effect on Jan. 1.

Probing Deaths of Babies

Providence, Nov. 17.—An investigation to determine the cause of the death of twenty-two babies since June in the Myrtle Baby Home is being made by Dr. Swartz, head of the state board of health.

Dowager Empress Buried

Pekin, Nov. 17.—The body of the late dowager empress of China, which was removed from the Forbidden City a week ago, was buried in the Eastern Tombs yesterday.

VALUABLE WATER RIGHTS

Secured by Borden Through Heavy Purchase of Fall River Land

Fall River, Mass., Nov. 17.—M. C. D. Borden has purchased for the Fall River Iron Works company about 3¾ acres of land in the heart of the city and bordering on the Quequechan river, the narrow stream which supplies Borden's American Printing company and Iron Works company plants with water for bleaching, steam making and condensing.

The transaction involves a large sum. The purchase makes Borden owner of all the land on the Quequechan river from the shore of Mount Hope bay to Main street, except the Pocasset mills and Fall River Manufactory properties, owned by the Pocasset Manufacturing company, and a business block in Main street.

The water rights belonging to Borden's property are very valuable. His seven big mills and the great American Printing company plant depend upon the water. It is supposed that he will use the new purchase to add to his mills.

GETS $2500 VERDICT

High-Heeled Shoes Figure In Woman's Suit Against Employers.

Camden, N. J., Nov. 17.—A jury in the circuit court in Camden decided that wearing high-heeled shoes does not constitute contributory negligence and they awarded $2500 to Miss Esther McTaggart in her suit against the Merrimac Manufacturing company of this city.

Miss McTaggart fell down stairs and was severely hurt at the company's plant, where she was employed. She asserted the stairway was defective. The company retorted that her French heeled shoes caused her to trip and fall. The jury was unwilling to accept that view.

WILL REGAIN OLD PLACE IN CHURCH

Mrs. Stetson Reaffirms Her Loyalty to Mrs. Eddy

Boston, Nov. 17.—Mrs. Augusta E. Stetson last night gave out a public statement reaffirming her loyalty to Mrs. Eddy as the head of the Christian Science church. She wins a virtual victory and will be restored to full and complete fellowship in the church.

She will not be excommunicated, and aside from the statement given out has made no concessions to the leaders in Boston who sought to discipline her.

All Mrs. Stetson's bitter shafts directed at the Boston trustees in the past few weeks have been forgiven and the local Scientists will be advised that Mrs. Stetson is in complete harmony with the leaders.

The ordeal of the past two days has apparently left Mrs. Stetson in a position to retake her place as the leader of the New Yor church and to become, next to Mrs. Eddy herself, the chief figure in Christian Science affairs.

NEGLIGENCE OF EMPLOYES

Said to Be Responsible For Eighty Percent of Railroad Accidents

New York, Nov. 17.—Negligence of employes is responsible for 80 percent of all railroad accidents, according to W. L. Park of Omaha, general superintendent of the Union Pacific Railroad company, at the annual meeting of the New York and New England Association of Railroad Surgeons.

"If we would prevent accidents on our railroads," continued Park, "we must weed out the irresponsible, shiftless and incapacitated employes. The labor organizations must be impressed with the idea that their mission is not to manage the railroads."

ARMY DESERTIONS

Within Seven of Five Thousand During the Last Fiscal Year

Washington, Nov. 17.—Continued extensive desertions in the United States army during the last fiscal year forms the leading feature of the annual report of Adjutant General Ainsworth.

After showing that 4993 men deserted from the enlisted force of the regular army, Ainsworth concludes that only a strict enforcement of severe penalties will diminish materially the practice of taking "French leave" on the part of the soldiers.

Chinese Pact With Japan Sanctioned

Washington, Nov. 17.—The United States government has definitely accepted the agreement entered into between China and Japan on Sept. 4 in so far as it relates to mining interests along the South Manchurian and Antung-Moukden railroads.

Taft Quits Golf For Horseback

Washington, Nov. 17.—Forsaking golf for the time being, because of the press of official matters which keep him at the White House until late in the afternoon, President Taft is taking daily horseback rides.

AFTER HIS THANKSGIVING DINNER.

THE SABINE STUNT

By PETER M'ARTHUR

Copyright, 1909, by American Press Association

HO, ye who in the city toil!
This year's Thanksgiving day for me
Shall be a day to bake and broil
The fruits and flesh of industry.
My turkey young and plump shall be,
My "pure food" cider free from harm,
My pies of proved integrity,
For I am going to work a farm.

Home grown potatoes I shall boil
And hand picked chickens fricassee.
That "yard or two of mortal coil"
I've shuffled off as with a key
I'll wind and pay no doctor's fee.
My health from simple herbs I'll charm
While swings my hammock from a tree,
For I am going to work a farm.

According to the rules of Hoyle,
Authority of high degree,
A farmer in the muck should moil
And guide his plow. Oh, hully gee,
From such a fate I make my plea!
When summer days are long and warm
I'll sit and "taste the barley bree,"
For I am going to work a farm.

ENVOY.

Prince, if a hired man you see
With ample thews and brawny arm,
Pray send that husky man to me,
For I am going to work a farm.

"FOR I AM GOING TO WORK A FARM."

The Gobbler's Plaint.

I'm an unassuming turkey,
And I am not to blame
If by a primogenesis
Upon this earth I came.
They never said a word to me,
And if I'd had my way
I should have gone some otherwheres
To spend Thanksgiving day.

I'm an unpretentious turkey
And do not seek to rise
Above my station to a place
Among the great and wise.
Rich dressing isn't to my taste,
I hate all grand display,
And I don't like the way at all
I'm served Thanksgiving day.

I'm a simple minded turkey
And much prefer to live
In humble circumstances and have
What quiet life may give
Instead of mingling with the great
Who will not heed my "Nay"
When modestly I seek escape
From their Thanksgiving day.

I'm an unoffending turkey
And never quite could see
Just why a horde of thanking souls
Should chase me up a tree.
If I were full of thanks perhaps
That might explain their way,
But I am not and never was—
Goldarn Thanksgiving day!

HIS REASONS WHY

By JAMES A. EDGERTON

Copyright, 1909, by American Press Association

THE grouch approached your Uncle Sam
And said: "I do not see
Why this Thanksgiving thing should make
A hit with you and me.
With prices going up this way
It took a bunch of gall
To make our jolly president
Present us such a stall."

Your Uncle Samuel, surprised
At this discordant wail,
Turned slowly round to see what bug
Had broken out of jail.
With gaze deliberate he scanned
The grouch from top to toe.
His eyes were frosty, but in each
A spark began to glow.

"What is there to be thankful for?
Why, fifty million things!
I'm thankful that right here on earth
Mankind has sprouted wings;
I'm thankful that Americans
Have taught the world to fly
And that the north pole they likewise
Have landed high and dry.

"I'm thankful that my battleships
Around the world have won;
I'm thankful that prosperity
Is rising like a sun,
But most of all," he said, "my boy,
I'm thankful that so few
Of my beloved citizens
Are knockers such as you."

Locked Shah In House of Commons.

A shah of Persia, who made a state visit to England in 1873, had a curious experience in the distinguished strangers' gallery of the house of commons. He soon got tired of watching the legislators at work, but when he made a move to go he was told he could not leave the gallery. It happened at that moment that a division was called, and in accordance with the practice which then prevailed all the doors of the house were locked until the vote was taken. Mr. Gladstone made an interesting comment on the incident. "It is," he wrote in his journal, "probably, or possibly, the first time for more than 500 years that a foreign sovereign has been under personal restraint of any kind in England."—Westminster Gazette.

The Real Thing.

"Well, what did you come to town for?"

"To see the elephant."

"Aren't you slightly mixed on locations?"

"I didn't think so."

"Well, you know a modest burg can't compete with Africa in that line these days."

Pathetic.

Little April's crying.
See, her eyes are red.
Wonder if she's lost her job
Or her folks are dead.

Dry your little weepers,
Brush away the tear
And forget your troubles.
May will soon be here.

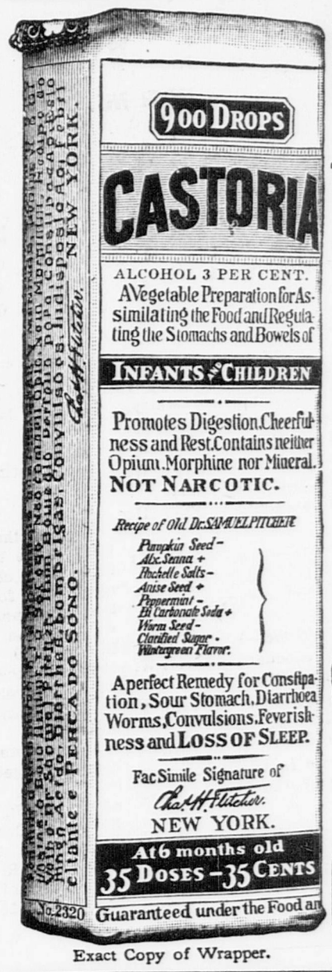

From an Expert.

"Which horse are you betting on?"

"The little brown."

"Think he is fast?"

"He ought to be. I heard my mother say brown was a fast color."

A BOSTON GIRL'S BUDGET.

Footless Questions Are Asked by Fair Visitors at Boston 1915—Bostonese Maids Must Qualify as Mermaids, Says the Hub's School Committee—New Plans for Extermination of the White Plague—Hubbites Are Fishing for an Aquarium at City Point—What a Member of the Grouch Club Said.

The surly gentleman who growls audibly when a lady is obliged to stand on the front platform of a street car because there isn't room inside should bethink himself that perhaps she doesn't like his company any better than he likes hers. If a recent member of the Grouch club expected to have one such lady removed for his pleasure he must have been surprised to be so promptly squelched when he asked the motorman if women were allowed to ride on the platform. "They've as good a right as the men, I 'spose," was his answer, while the woman in question suggested politely that if he had any fault to find he had better get off and take another car. Finding himself in the minority he attempted to smooth over the situation, but did not get over his grouch for some time.

A great pageant is to be given in Boston this coming spring, if the plans of certain public spirited women work out. These women, among whom are Mrs. Barrett Wendell, wife of the Harvard professor; Miss Lotta Clark, a teacher in the Charlestown High school, and Mrs. Mary B. Chapman, a prominent member of the Daughters of the Revolution, have started a movement for a historical and educational pageant, to be held in Franklin park and to last for two weeks. Their object is to impress parents and children with the feeling of responsibility for the conditions of the country and its people. If the Park Commissioners will grant permission to use Franklin park for this purpose, the prime movers in the project feel sure of success.

Annette Kellermans and Divine Myrmas will be every day affairs in a few years, and perhaps even the husky gentleman who swims in an ice-water tank and loafs around the stage on cakes of ice may be put in the shade. The Boston School Committee has issued the dictum that hereafter all high school pupils, girls included, must learn to swim. This is, unquestionably, one of the most praiseworthy rules the committee has established. The only regret is that so many young people attain the age of entering high school without having learned to take care of themselves in the water long before. The pupils are to learn at public bath-houses or at the seashore, during the summer, and obtain from swimming instructors appointed by the city or state a certificate of their ability as swimmers. This certificate will count one or two points toward the final graduation standing of the pupil. Incidentally, it may reduce by one or two hundred the annual death tolls of the vacation season, when so many bathers, rowers and canoeists go down for the last time.

The world's war on tuberculosis has been given impetus by a plan urged by Edward F. McSweeney, chairman of the Consumptive Hospital trustees and editor of one of the Boston daily newspapers. Mr. McSweeney's contention is that the state and the city must cooperate in the battle against the white plague, and points to the fact that Boston has spent $600,000 in the cause in a manner approved by the world's authorities but that the city cannot go on in the work without the adoption of some definite policy on the part of the state as to the care of consumptives. He calls upon the Mayor and the Governor to exert their utmost efforts to arrive at some equitable arrangement for reaching and caring for the 45,000 tuberculous persons now suffering in the state, and to prevent the development of new cases, and puts it up to the Governor to take necessary steps to bring the matter before the next legislature.

Queer questions and bland stupidity mark a few visitors to the Boston 1915 exposition, though the majority, of course, are intelligent and wide awake. A white gloved lady was recently examining gingerly the exhibit of rusted and broken bits of boiler tubes, elevator cables and so forth, which illustrate the causes of many everyday accidents. The attendant in charge ,being of a genial nature, remarked, "If we had expected the ladies would be interested in this exhibit we would have had these things all polished up and gilded over." The lady looked up wide-eyed, "Oh, but that would have cost you a great deal!" she exclaimed. Another visitor was examining a reproduction of a newspaper clipping describing a distastrous school-house fire in which many children were killed and injured, but in which by some miracle the precious jewels in the primary room were all saved. "But," inquired the visitor, "how did it happen that they had so many precious jewels in the primary room? That's a funny place to keep them."

The Boston Art club, inspired by the awakening of artistic and musical Boston, is undergoing a grand rejuvenation. Its galleries are being remodelled, and dining rooms, sleeping rooms and ladies' rooms introduced, so that by the beginning of 1910 the time honored association will be installed in a truly modern clubhouse. The prospect of being able to enjoy a bird and a bottle amidst the pleasant surroundings of the Art club warms the cockles of the masculine heart, but the ladies of their circle—though this is strictly confidential are quite chagrined at the discovery that they are still considered dispensable except on the occasional ladies' nights which have been the custom of the club for years. The fair sex has been hoping that with the expansion of entertainment facilities and the general revivifying of the club the feminine contingent would be allowed to lend its presence at the festive board, but this, apparently, is not to be. The hardened veterans of the Art club's Saturday evening gatherings are perfectly contented with their cigars and good fellowship. Seriously, the Art club should have the support and goodwill of all Bostonians who have for many years had the privilege of viewing at its galleries exhibitions of art which would not otherwise have been seen, and who appreciate the handicaps under which it has occasionally had to work since its founding in 1854 by twenty young artists and amateurs. The Art club's career has never been spectacular, but it has been marked throughout by dignity and conservatism. With the new attractions, it should become the centre of the art interests in the Hub.

Boston is now fishing for an aquarium. Simultaneously with the project for a zoo in Middlesex Fells comes an appeal for a fisheries exhibit at Marine park, South Boston. Hon. J. Frank O'Hare of South Boston at a meeting of the board of aldermen of the City of Boston offered a resolution for an appropriation for this purpose. His resolution calls for $80,000 which probably would be sufficient to establish the necessary buildings and machinery for an aquarium worthy of the second fisheries centre in the world. This money, in the opinion of the men who are interested in the proposition, might very properly come from the Parkman Fund which was left to be devoted to the improvement of Boston parks existent before 1887. Boston is unique among the larger cities of the United States in that it has neither aquarium nor zoological park, and it is hoped that this winter will see both institutions well on their way toward speedy establishment. The project for the aquarium comes at a particularly appropriate time just now, in conjunction with the removal of the old headquarters of the fishing fleet from the famous T wharf to larger and more convenient docks at South Boston. The site at Marine park was originally designed for an aquarium when the reservation was first planned and there are several small ponds in readiness, should Mr. O'Hare's plan achieve the desired results. It was suggested, some years ago ,that Boston should have two aquaria, one for oceanic fauna and flora at South Boston, and one for fresh water at Jamaica pond. Scientists now, however, tend toward combining the two at South Boston, as this arrangement would make both for economy and for convenience, and serve all the purposes of education and amusement equally well. Alderman O'Hare, before submitting his proposition, had a conference with professor E. L. Mark, head of the Museum of Comparative Zoology at Harvard, from whom he obtained details and figures for his plan. To prevent the possibility of political domination it is proposed to make the Massachusetts Zoological society trustee of the aquarium, thus also securing the supervision of scientists and men familiar with the methods employed in foreign countries and in other cities of this continent. The proposition has aroused enthusiastic support wherever it has been broached and there is little doubt but that the requisite appropriation will be forthcoming for an aquarium which will rival in interest and educational value the popular exhibit at the Battery in New York City.

TUTTLE IS RE-ELECTED

New Haven Interests Prevail In Boston and Maine Changes

Boston, Nov. 17.—President Tuttle was re-elected by the Boston and Maine directors at Tuesday afternoon's meeting. This disposes of the persistent rumor to the effect that Tuttle would be ousted under New York, New Haven and Hartford control.

LUCIUS TUTTLE.

The beginning of the New Haven control was more significantly shown by the election of J. P. Morgan, President Mellen of the New Haven, and William Skinner to be new directors. They took the place of Directors Linsey, Rich and Ryder.

In the creation of an executive committee Mellen becomes an immediate associate of Tuttle in the management of the affairs of the company. This committee is composed of Messrs. Tuttle, Mellen, Dumaine, Hemenway, Olney, Morgan, Skinner and Cochrane.

WOMAN ARRESTED IN BIG FOUR CASE

She Is Charged With Receiving Money From Warriner

Cincinnati, Nov. 17.—A dramatic sequel to the sensational turn in the case of Charles L. Warriner, ex-treasurer of the Big Four, was enacted last night when constables and deputies went to the apartments of Mrs. Stewart-Ford and placed her under arrest. She was subsequently placed in jail in default of bail.

The woman is charged with receiving $1000 of the $643,000, which Warriner is accused of embezzling from the railroad.

Wariner appeared in the afternoon at the criminal court and pleaded not guilty to the indictment charging him with embezzlement and grand larceny. His bond was fixed at $20,000. The four men who had come to his assistance when he was first arrested did not renew their pledge and Warriner was taken to jail.

OF RARE WORKMANSHIP

Counterfeit Dimes Are Being Freely Circulated Around Boston

Boston, Nov. 17.—Counterfeit dimes of fine workmanship, bearing the date of 1908, are finding free circulation in Boston. Thousands of them have been passed, it is believed.

The handiwork of the coins is of such rare workmanship that the fine details could not be detected with the naked eye. They were put under a microscope, however, and it was found that the 1908 coin lacked the fine detail of the scroll work in the later one, although the lettering and figuring were almost identical.

It is believed that the coins are being made in Boston, as this is the first city to have discovered the counterfeits, but so cleverly have they been handed out that their origin is a mystery.

FIFTY KILLED IN STORM

Property Loss In Jamaica Estimated at Not Less Than $1,250,000

Kingston, Jam., Nov. 17.—While it is yet impossible to give an accurate statement of the loss of life and damage to property, as the result of the storm, it is variously estimated that about fifty persons were drowned by the floods and that the material damage will total not less than $1,250,000.

The principal loss was to the banana plantations on the north side of the island. The south side of the island was practically uninjured and the situation here is not serious.

Successful Y. M. C. A. Campaign

Chelsea, Mass., Nov. 17.—The ten-day Y. M. C. A. building fund campaign in Chelsea came to a close last night with $71,000 in cash and pledges as the total reached. This is $5000 above the goal which the workers had hoped to attain.

Dies From Effects of Gas

Boston, Nov. 17.—Frank H. Gillespie died at the Relief hospital from the effects of illuminating gas. He was found unconscious in the office of A. A. Harmon, 17 Clinton street. He leaves a mother.

Castro Will Live In United States

Madrid, Nov. 17.—Ex-President Castro of Venezuela says that he will remain at Malaga until the end of the year, and then he will go to the United States to settle.

The Acrobat Artist.

It is in the visible expression of strength, grace and vitality that the artist of the circus holds himself at one with the painter and sculptor, but his art, like that of the actor, is necessarily alive and impermanent. Let the painter set on canvas his fixed presentment of lion, tiger or leopard, and the trainer, by his dangerous medium of whip and training stick, will make the living animals exhibit endless graces of subtle line and lovely color. When he puts his head in the lion's mouth, believe me, he considers it nothing better than a concession to the groundlings, a mere vulgar, necessary potboiler. When he compels the great tawny thing to repeat the grace of a natural movement, the training of wild animals being always along the line of what they do naturally, and leap in a long, gracious curve across the arena to an unstable landing on a rolling sphere, he feels that he is doing something worthy of himself and his animals. Or, again, let the sculptor depict a flying Mercury; Mercury must at least have a point of arrival or departure. But for one brief moment the young woman of the circus, swinging through space from one trapeze to another, is the grace of the flying Mercury. To attain this moment of self expression she has given as long and arduous an apprenticeship as the artist who works in clay, bronze or marble.—Ralph Bergengren in Atlantic.

Wild Dogs In Africa.

The wild dogs in Africa are more feared by the natives than any other beasts, for, while they are not to be dignified by the term of game, they run in packs and seem to know that the native is afraid of them. Native burden bearers will often take their chances in passing around a buffalo herd and will hardly notice a lion, but when they hear the howl of the wild dogs they drop whatever they may be balancing on their heads and take to the trees. There they are frequently held captive until their cries summon assistance. Crossing the trail of large game, these dogs often interfere with the pursuit. At a distance the hunter is likely to mistake them for leopards or some of the smaller game. Intense disgust follows the wounding of a wild dog, for then, according to the ethics of the chase, the true sportsman must pursue and kill the beast. These dogs are not degenerates, but are natural mongrels. They have low bodies covered with hair of coach dog growth, bushy tails and powerful paws.—McClure's Magazine.

Suburban Suburbs.

A flat dweller, having selected what he thought was a pretty good thing in one of the suburban towns as a place of residence, took his wife out to look at it. The rent was delightful, but the house was on the very rim of the town. The wife disapproved.

"What's the matter with it?" he asked testily, for he had had a hard time finding it.

"Well," she replied with feminine firmness, "I am willing for your sake to live in a suburb of the city, but I positively will not live in the suburb of a suburb. It's asking too much, George, and—and"—

She didn't cry, but George prevented it only by superhuman efforts.—New York Press.

Had Sure Chance.

A patient with a malignant disease of the throat consulted a London specialist. The surgeon recommended the removal of the larynx. The patient expressed a fear that the operation was dangerous.

"Oh, no!" said the surgeon. "You are sure to recover."

"But," said the patient, "I understood that the operation was serious indeed."

"Well," said the surgeon, "my reason for saying that you are sure to recover is this: The mortality is nineteen out of twenty, and I've had nineteen deaths already."

Another Way to Escape.

"Papa."

"What is it, Theobald?"

"May I ask you a question?"

"Certainly you may, my child. It is only by asking questions that we can improve our minds and prepare ourselves for our work in the world. I am glad to note a spirit of inquiry in you, and I hope you may never arrive at the place where you think you know it all and cease to solicit information from others. What is your question, my son?"

"I forget, papa."—Newark News.

An Odd Slip.

Dr. Johnson once met the village postman trudging along the dusty road on a hot summer afternoon. The postman observed that he had still a mile to walk just to deliver one newspaper.

"My goodness," exclaimed the sympathetic doctor, "I'd never go all that distance for such a trifle! Why don't you send it by post?"

The Loafer.

"Does the new office boy loaf or make mischief?"

"Loafs."

"Discharge him. We can direct a mischievous lad's efforts into some useful channel, but we can't do anything with a loafer."—Buffalo Express.

Bobby's Query.

"Father," asked little Bobby, "had Solomon 700 wives?"

"I believe so, my boy," said the father.

"Well, father, was he the man who said, 'Give me liberty or give me death?'"—Royal Magazine.

Men must sail while the wind serveth.—Dutch Proverb.

SHOPPING BY TELEPHONE

NO LONGER do you need to sacrifice time and energy to go in town to make some petty purchase.

Every store, large or small, is connected to "Central" by the same TELEPHONE system that connects you.

It is a matter of no worry, and of only a second's time to get in touch with the milliner, the modiste, the dry goods store, or the furniture man, in turn, and instantly learn whether they have just what you want, and then to either order it or call up another house and get it.

No crowd to jostle you, no discomforts to undergo, no carfare to spend. The products of the world brought to your door.

If you can't get what you want in your own city the Long Distance Bell Telephone lines will carry your voice hundreds of miles to the next market. All by telephone.

BRIEFS

Dickens night tonight with the Pickwick club at the home of Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Simmons of Wollaston.

Charles H. Johnson is to give his lecture "Historic Quincy" on Thursday evening at Electa hall for the benefit of St. Paul's M. E. church.

A bridge party is to be given Friday evening in Cochato hall, Braintree, the third in the winter's series of entertainments.

Albert M. Jones of this city has been appointed Sergeant in Company A at the Institute of Technology by Capt. Easton U. S. A., head of the department of military science at the school.

The Young People's Religious union of the Wollaston Unitarian church is to have a Thanksgiving meeting Sunday evening under the leadership of Miss Margaret Hall, with Mrs. Herbert J. Gurney as the speaker.

Joseph A. Webber has resigned his position as lieutenant in the Boston fire department, to accept a position with a fire engine manufacturing company of New York. He is a son of Lewis P. Webber, late of Quincy, once chief of the Boston fire department.

Rev. C. L. Paddock, pastor of the Universalist church, will occupy his own pulpit on Sunday, after an absence of four weeks spent in Michigan and New York. Mr. Paddock attended the Universalist convention held in Detroit.

The social event of the week is the appearance of Miss Beatrice Herford in original monologues on Friday evening under the auspices of the Women's club. Miss Herford has almost a national reputation and those attending are sure of an artistic and delightful evening.

The third in the series of demonstration lectures at the Quincy Women's clubhouse on Friday afternoon of this week promises to be of much practical value to those attending. Mrs. Wade will tell how to buy and cook the cheaper cuts of meat and to illustrate her talk a butcher will be present.

Mrs. G. W. Wheeler of Hancock street entertained the members of the Dorcas society of the Universalist church at her home on Tuesday evening. New members were admitted to the society and an enthusiastic meeting was held. The next meeting will be held in the church parlor in order to make final arrangements for their fair which occurs the second week in December.

The Dorcas society of young ladies of the Swedish Lutheran church held a meeting Tuesday night at the home of Miss E. Witting, Deldorf street. A large number of the members and their friends were present. A short program was rendered, and refreshments served. Every one went home, feeling that they had had a most pleasant evening. The next meeting is to be held Nov. 30 with Mrs. Nils Nilson of Granite street.

DEATHS.

PARLIN—In Wollaston, Nov. 17, Mrs. Hattie Start Parlin, wife of Mr. Frank E. Parlin, aged 44 years, 6 months and 24 days. Services on Thursday afternoon strictly private.

BURGLARY AT WOLLASTON

Store Entered by Smashing Show Window

The store of Charles R. Sherman on Newport avenue, Wollaston, was entered by burglars sometime during Tuesday night, by smashing a large plate glass window on the front by a piece of iron resembling a pinch bar. The plate glass window which was valued at upwards of $50 was ruined. The only thing missed is about $5 in change from the money drawer and two Ingersol watches.

BRIEFS

Banquet this evening of the Makaria Fraternity

The Y. P. C. U. connected with the Universalist church hold their monthly business meeting tonight in the church parlor. Officers will be elected.

The Registrars of Voters are in session at City Hall today, from 12 o'clock until 10 P. M. Today is the last opportunity to add names to the voting lists before the municipal election.

Fragment society of First church made something over $500 at the fair held in the chapel last week, which with the generous donation of Mr. Henry M. Faxon will make a very tidy sum.

It was reported this morning that D. J. Seward McCurdy of Quincy Point was to take out nomination papers as an Independent Democratic candidate for Councilman from Ward Two.

There will be a roll-call and church reunion at the Calvary Baptist church Thursday evening at 7 o'clock. Revs. F. W. Padelford and W. E. Waterbury of Boston, and Rev. Joseph Walther of the Wollaston Baptist church are to speak. After the roll call a social hour will be spent in renewing old acquaintances.

Cockades and Buttons.

The cockade originated simply in the knot of ribbons or strings by which the broad flaps of the seventeenth century round hat were "cocked" or drawn up to the brim in fine weather, and thus originated the three cornered hat as well as the cocked hat of later times. There was nothing specially military about the usage, as the ignorant assert. The same strings survive in the loops of the hats of bishops and other ecclesiastical dignitaries in Great Britain, in the strings of the hats worn by French cures and Spanish and Italian padres and in the cords which are still seen on the hats of some livery servants.

It naturally became the custom for military men to "cock" their hats with the livery color of the prince they served, and as the Hanoverian color was the convenient one of black the "black cockade" became associated in the minds of the people with military uniform. In an old Scotch song of Shirramuir, citing "Woodword's Heraldry," we read of "the red coat lads with black cockades," and a knot of white ribbons was naturally chosen as the badge of their opponents. When the old use of the strings was forgotten the knot, in the form of a rosette of ribbon, survived, just as did the buttons on the backs of our coats, which were intended to fasten back the flaps in riding or marching.—"Justice of the Peace."

Striking a Comet.

If we ask the effect of a comet's striking the earth we will readily see that if the head of the comet were composed of bowlders a collision would have disastrous consequences. A rain of millions of great meteoric stones would, of course, bring catastrophe. If, however, it were merely a rain of small particles or dust we might never become conscious of it, for the particles would never reach us. They would be fused into gas through friction with our atmosphere many miles before reaching the surface. If the gases liberated by friction were in excessive volume we might suffer discomfort or even disaster. It is estimated that hundreds of millions of meteoric particles strike our atmosphere every day. This would be a serious matter if we were not protected by our great sheltering envelope of air. Occasionally a meteoric bowlder is large enough to resist the heat generated by this friction and reaches the surface. This we call a meteorite. The now established connection between comets and meteors is a matter of great interest.—Ralph B. Larkin in North American Review.

TODAY'S COURT.

Robert W. Knowles was fined $10 for exceeding the automobile speed limit at Milton.

John O'Brien was fined $3 for drunkenness at Quincy.

George H. Keefe was fined $10 for drunkenness at Weymouth.

—George F. Maynard of Weymouth was robbed of $16 on Washington street about 1.25 A. M., Tuesday, by three boys aboot 19 years of age. The boys were arraigned in court on Tuesday, and held for the grand jury.

AT PARK AND DOWNS CHURCH

Successful Fair by Ladies Missionary Society

A most successful fair was held in the vestry of the Park and Downs Congregational church on Tuesday under the auspices of the Ladies' Missionary society. The vestry formed a very pretty picture each obtoh having a different color scheme. Much of the success of the fair was due to the efforts of the president, Mrs. W. A. Thompson, who was in charge.

At 6.30 a supper was served by the following young ladies: Mrs. Grace Hanter, Miss Flora Sass, Miss Freda Klingenhagen and Miss Elizabeth Torrey. During the evening piano selections were efficiently rendered by Louis Coombs.

Following are the committees:

Fancy table, decorated with poppies—Mrs. W. H. Howarth, Mrs. O. H. McFadden, Mrs. Leuign Norman, Mrs. Fred Tucker, Miss Annabel Marr, Mrs. George Davis.

Apron table, white lilies—Mrs. Eliza Knowlton, Mrs. Herman Forsyth, Mrs. Reginald Shaw, Mrs. Carl Merrill.

Candy table, peach blossoms—Mrs. Frank Knowlton ,Miss Marion Brown, Mrs. A. J. Podbury, Mrs. Charles L. Gilleat.

Bargain table, pumpkins—Mrs. L. A. Shay, Mrs. Artemus Dingwell, Miss Mary Tobey.

Christian Endeavor table, red and white—Miss Geraldine Scott, Miss Ruth Page, Miss Flora Sass, Mr. Ralph Green.

Supper Committee—Mrs. Clarence Hunter, Mrs. Norman Northrop, Mrs. Israel eHy, Miss Martha Tobey, Mrs. Fred Torrey.

Ice Cream—B. P. Banks.

A Purist.

Most persons believe Stevenson's verses for children may, without correction or amendment, safely be placed in the hands of the impressionable youngster without corrupting either his morals or his English. But there are some who think otherwise, says an exchange.

Little Alice's mother, having taught the child to say, "Time to rise," in which "the birdie with a yellow bill" figures, the child announced that she meant to recite it to her teacher.

"Well, and what did Miss Prim say to 'the birdie with a yellow bill?'" asked Alice's mother when the little girl returned from school.

"She says it is quite a pretty thought. But this is the way she makes me say it now, mamma:

"A birdie with a yellow bill
Hopped upon the window sill,
Cocked his shining eye and said,
'Are you not ashamed, you sleepyhead?'"

"But that was not the way the birdie said it, Alice," the mother remonstrated.

"No, mamma; I know. But teacher says it isn't good English to say, 'Ain't you 'shamed, you sleepyhead?'"

One Accomplishment.

"Do you play the piano?" asked the ingenious young man who was trying very hard to make conversation.

"No," replied the self made man; "I never took music lessons on but one instrument, and that was many years ago."

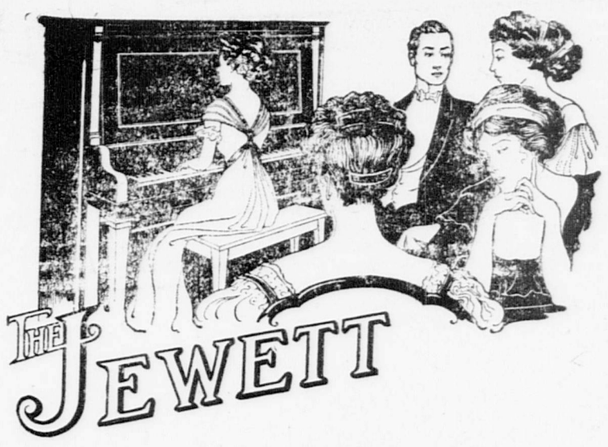

"And what was that?"

"The sawbuck."

—Sarah F. Page secured a verdict of $3,700 on Tuesday in her suit against the town of Weymouth for injuries caused by a defective sidewalk Oct. 7, 1906.

TONE QUALITY

is a vital factor in creating the wonderful magic of music.

Tone is one of the chief reasons the Jewett piano is known and admired in musical circles wherever you go. Tone largely explains why in thousands of homes in New England alone the Jewett is the center of artistic interest and inspiration.

In singing quality, that is, in clearness and sustained resonance, the Jewett tone has no equal among pianos of even nearly as reasonable cost.

The Jewett tone has that supreme characteristic which adds charm to the best playing and supplies to music one of its principal elements of interest.

Jewett Pianos, established 1860, have proved their great durability and the permanence of their musical qualities through the test of nearly half a century's use.

ANNUAL BANQUET MAKARIA FRATERNITY

Enthusiastic Gathering of Young People With Very Interesting Addresses

The Makaria Fraternity has just closed a red and blue contest and increased its membership to 70, and at its annual banquet and ladies night Wednesday evening in Bethany chapel nearly 200 were gathered. There were several guests including men and women prominent in Bethany Congregational church and representatives of the Page Class, Pilgrim Class, and other Sunday School classes. It was an enthusiastic gathering of young people.

From 6 to 6.30 President Charles E. Grassick was assisted in receiving by Miss Esther Wetherell, Rev. and Mrs. E. N. Hardy, and Mr. and Mrs. Theophilus King. Several members of the fraternity acted as ushers. During the reception the Y. M. C. A. orchestra composed of the following pieces played popular music: Pianist, Harry B. Smith, 1st violin, Lee Brooks, 2d violin, Sidney Claflin, 'cello, Charles H. Sayward, cornet, Wendall R. Clark.

The capacity of the large dining room was tested, six long tables being required to seat the guests. Harry Brooks was chairman of the supper committee and served a satisfactory menu, including escalloped oysters, turkey, ham, celery, pickles, cranberry sauce, olives, rolls, ice cream, cake and coffee.

The following young lady friends of the fraternity made excellent waitresses: Jessie Pratt, Mary G. Murray, Christine W. Booth, Isabella S. Mitchell, Elizabeth W. Ross, Alice E. Webb, Helen B. Kingman, Laura S. Hayward, Dulah C. Miller, Louise C. Gifford, Augusta T. Crane, Gertrude A. Shaw, Bertha H. Pearson, Edna A. Thomas, Elizabeth Ruxton, Margaret A. Gardner, and Lillian G. Sutherburg.

President Grassick invited Rev. Dr. Hardy to ask the blessing, and later introduced Theophilus King as toastmaster. Mr. King opened the post prandial part of the program with wit and humor, naming several kinds of toast, and telling how they were made.

President Grassick spoke for the class and extended a hearty welcome. It was an honor to be a member of such a class as the Makaria Fraternity and he felt honored by a reelection as president. He believed the church also was proud of the class. He gave much of the credit to Rev. Dr. Hardy and Theophilus King, the class leaders, Delcevare King the founder, and Charles W. Ganzel the treasurer and friend.

Mr. King read a greeting from a fraternity in Washington, and then in turn introduced Harry Brooks, E. W. Branch, Richard D. Chase, Delcevare King, George L. Thacher of the Page Class, Charles W. Ganzel, Rev. E. N. Hardy and Rev. George L. Smart, D. D., of Newton. Each spoke interestingly introducing many stories and considerable wit.

There was a surprise for Mr. Ganzel, for Mr. King in behalf of the fraternity presented him with a large travelling bag in appreciation of his interest in the class, particularly on the base ball field.

The principal address of the evening was by Rev. Dr. Smart, who spoke on "The lost art." Conversation was the lost art to which he referred. To talk interestingly, he said, one must have the tools. Knowledge and ideas were necessary. We should not have our opinion manufactured by the Quincy Daily Ledger, but have ideas of our own. He asked the question—What are you talking about? Women, about their maids, the vacuum cleaners, suppers, etc., while men talked he said, seemed to be most concerned politics. We are in intellectual undress most of the time. What are we to talk about? The world of existence; of the world as it is to be; the utopia; the el dorado; the better world; the larger world.

NEARLY 6000 VOTERS

Total However 12 Less Than Last Year

The Registrars of Voters were in session Wednesday from 12 o'clock noon until 10.30 P. M. It was the last opportunity to get registered before the Municipal elections and there was quite a rush, 56 names being added as follows: Ward 1, precinct one, 4; precinct two, 13; Ward Two, precinct one, 19; precinct two, 9; Ward Three, precinct one, 2; precinct two, 2; Ward Four, precinct two, 3; Ward Five, precinct two, 4, making the grand total of registered voters 5792, which is 12 less than at the municipal election a year ago.

Since the state election in November six names have been dropped from the lists on account of death.

A comparison of the number of registered voters for the December election with the number a year ago shows that Ward One made a net gain during the year of six voters; precinct one gained 10 and precinct two lost four. Ward Two makes a net gain of 6; precinct one lost 11, and precinct two gained 17. Ward Three vote remains the same, although precinct one gained 4, and precinct two lost 4. Ward Four has a net loss of 8; precinct one gained 8 and precinct two lost 16. Ward Five was not divided into voting precincts last year, so that no comparison can be made by precincts. The total shows a gain of one vote this year. Ward Six shows a loss of 17; precinct one lost 16, and precinct two, 1.

The total registered vote by wards is; Ward One, 1199; Ward Two, 846; Ward Three, 1016; Ward Four, 953; Ward Five, 1011; Ward Six, 767. The following table gives the registered vote of each precinct for the coming municipal election in comparison with the registered vote of December 1908:

THE MAKING OF MANHOOD

Somerville Pastor Addresses Men's Class

The first social meeting for the season of the Walther Men's class of the Wollaston Baptist church was held in the chapel of the church on Wednesday evening.

Following a well cooked dinner served by the men, E. J. Badger, president of the class, delivered a speech of welcome. He said that the interest manifested in the class was on the increase, and in the eight months since its inauguration its attendance although very good, had not grown phenominally but healthy and strong, which after all is the most beneficial for a social. Mr. Badger spoke of the class as a factor in the social life of the church and of its influence in the community.

"The making of manhood" was the subject of Rev. Herman S. Pinkham of Somerville, the speaker of the evening. Reading an extract from Horace Greeley, in which he endeavored to impress his audience with the fact that it was manhood and not riches, fame, or pleasure which was the one object worthy of man's greatest endeavor, he spoke of the Panama Canal. Referring to the various relays of engineers which had been sent to Panama, he said that God was building a canal between the kingdom of this world and the kingdom of Jesus Christ. In turn He had sent the Jews, the Romans, the Anglo-Saxons. Will the latter be equal to the task.

The times, said Mr. Pinkham, require strong minds, great hearts, pure faith and willing hands. Manhood is the need of the hour. If such is the case then the task of the hour is the making of manhood. There are two factors in the making of manhood—nature and nurture. As nature is unchangeable then in nurture is our opportunity. Mr. Pinkham dwelt upon the powers of thought.

Man's ideals, he said, shape his character. Therefore get one supreme lofty purpose and ideal and stick to it. Mr. Pinkham spoke of the power of affection in the making of manhood, and drew vivid imaginary pictures of the father's and mother's love for their offspring.

No one truly loves Jesus without being willing to do something for his sake, and as time goes on you will find many a broken heart that you can heal and many a hungry soul to feed.

Rev. R. J. Davis of South Quincy, who was a guest of the class, said a few words and extended a cordial invitation to the men to visit his church.

GIVES UP JOB AS TRUSTEE

Salary of $5000 Is Also Forfeited by Mrs. Stetson

EXTENT OF HER ATONEMENT

Statement Soon to Be Issued by Directors of Mother Church, Who Have Completed Examination of New York Leader—Independent Movement Believed to Have Been Effectually Nipped In the Bud

New York, Nov. 18.—Mrs. Augusta E. Stetson, the Christian Science leader of this city who was on trial in Boston, arrived in this city last night.

She brought tidings to her followers that she intended to resign her office of trustee of the New York church and also to forfeit the salary of $5000 per year which the church has continued to pay her since she ceased to be first reader.

Virgil O. Strickler, a leader in the opposition to Mrs. Stetson, is the present first reader of the church. The continuance of the salary was practically a gift to Mrs. Stetson.

These concessions on the part of Mrs. Stetson are regarded by her followers as the extent of the atonement that she will be called upon to make by the directors of the mother church.

The latter are expected to issue a statement today as to their finding on the charges against Mrs. Stetson.

Mrs. Stetson slipped away from the Christian Science temple in Boston shortly after 4 o'clock yesterday afternoon. She was taken in an automobile to the Hotel Touraine. There she made hurried preparations for the return trip to New York.

Accompanied by Ella Dunn, her maid, the New York leader boarded the 5 o'clock express. She declared that she had nothing to say on the situation at this time.

The impression has prevailed among Christian Scientists that the hearing would end satisfactorily to the church as a body. It was pointed out that Mrs. Stetson had many times, and particularly in her latest troubles, reaffirmed her love for Mrs. Eddy and her strict adherence to the faith and would be ready to bow to the supreme will in every matter of discipline to prevent any serious disturbance in the church.

The way in which the great New York meeting of Monday accepted Mrs. Eddy's will and renewed expressions of loyalty to her was potent proof to Scientists that any idea of an independent movement in the church was effectively nipped in the bud.

Mrs. Stetson's statement, it is declared, completely changes the situation in New York, removing all opposition which has existed to the authority of the mother church directors, and thus clearing the way for the return of the harmony that existed before the latest trouble over Mrs. Stetson.

CAUGHT IN HURRICANE

Fruit Steamer Had Hard Battle For Nearly Seven Days

Baltimore, Nov. 18.—After battling with wind and seas for nearly seven days, the United Fruit company's steamer Lillie, the first vessel to sail from Jamaica for this port since the great hurricane of last week, reached here with several of her forward ventilators badly damaged and one of her crew laid up with a broken leg as the result of being struck by a huge wave which threw him against the rail.

According to the officers of the ship, the hurricane was one of the worst they experienced in the years they have traded in the tropics, and they said that it will be a long time before the islands recover from the effects of the big storm.

THE IMPOSSIBLE.

It Lies Just Beyond the Limit of Our Own Understanding.

Here is a striking parable by Miss E. Fox Howard, which we take from the "Friends' Fellowship Papers:"

"A dog tried to open a door. He scratched it, threw himself against it, struggled to get his nose under it and burrow his way out, but at last he decided that the door would not open and never could open, so he lay down before it and went to sleep.

"A child was watching the dog, and he laughed and turned the handle with his small fingers, and the door was open. Then he took a book, and, sitting on the floor, he turned over the leaves one by one and gazed at the queer black marks upon them without knowing what they meant, for he was a very little child and he could not read. As there were no pictures to be found he tossed it away.

"But a boy picked up the book and laughed and read page after page of a wonderful fairy tale. Then he went to school and puzzled his head over a sum which had to be brought to the class that morning. Try as he might the sum would not prove, and the boy said: 'I can't do it. I'm sure it can't be done. There must be a mistake in the book.'

"But the pupil's teacher laughed, and, taking the blotted exercise book from the boy, he quickly worked out and proved the sum. Then he turned to his own studies and went into the laboratory, for he was learning chemistry. All the morning he labored among the gases and the acids, but he could not get the right combinations and only succeeded in making a loud explosion. 'It's all rubbish to say that potash and carbon form potassium!' he said. 'They simply explode, and I defy any one to say they don't!'

"But the master, who had heard the noise, came and took it into his own hands, and soon the metal was dropping from the condenser. After school was over the master, who was getting an old man, sat in his study reading a paper on modern scientific thought. As he read his brow darkened, and at last he flung it down and said: 'It is a monstrous idea. How can the creation of the world have taken millions of years? The good old Bible account of the six days of creation is good enough for me.' And he wrote an angry letter of remonstrance to the great professor who had sent him the paper.

"But the professor only smiled, for he was a geologist and had read the message of the rocks. He himself, one of the deepest thinkers of the day, sat late into the night among his books, trying to fit some newly discovered laws of physics into his schemes of things and to bring his mind nearer to a solution of the great why of the universe. At last he bowed his head and said: 'It is impossible. Facts are too conflicting. I cannot explain them, and I doubt if there is any explanation.'

Here is the story of covenanting times in Scotland, of which an old laird of Galloway was the central figure:

Learning that he was about to be raided by Claverhouse, whose dragoons were coming in search of him, the old laird effected his escape disguised as one of his own plowmen. As he was leaving the house he was stopped by the dragoons, who asked if the laird as at home.

"Well," said the old covenanter, "he was there when I was there."

The dragoons went their way, and the old laird went his and lived to tell the truth another day.

His Mite of Sense.

"Well, gentlemen," said Tompkins to a couple of his friends, "you can talk as much as you please about the inferiority of women, but there are lots of them that can discount most of us for brains. Take my wife, for instance. She's got twice as much sense as I have, and I ain't ashamed to acknowledge it, either."

"But don't you think," said one of his auditors, "that you put rather a low estimate on your wife's intellectual powers?"—Liverpool Mercury.

ODE TO A GOBBLER

By R. K. Munkittrick

ALL hail! All hail! Oh, rare and antique bird
That lately on the venerable tree
Rolled in a ball of sleep, the chill winds heard
Moaning in mournful gusts thine elegy!
No more the sun will gild thy red cravat
Or ripple on thy wing,
For time hath caught thee, even as the cat
Catches the gray and agile whiskered rat,
And now thy praise we sing,
Gathered about the board, serene and gay,
Upon Thanksgiving day.

With joy we see thee lying on thy back,
Thy chaste, lush drumsticks sticking in the air;
Thy wings in sweet peace folded and, alack,
The incense of thy stuffing, pungent rare,
Filling our souls with heavenly melody,
The while with fork and knife
Thy dark meat and thy white meat fondly we Suffuse with gravy in our revelry
And then, with pleasure rife,
Each dainty morsel neatly tuck away
Upon Thanksgiving day.

Thou'rt nobler than the canvasback or goose,
The lordly shanghai or the ortolan
Or any other minstrel that is loose
From Tuscaloosa to Cape Mary Ann.
Compared with thee the woodcock is a mere
Delusion—all in all;
The upland plover ne'er can be thy peer,
Beside thee to the epicure and seer
The prairie hen is small;
Thou art the bird of freedom anyway
Upon Thanksgiving day.

—New York Press.

THE FIRST THANKSGIVING.

It Was Celebrated Under Many Perplexing Difficulties.

When in the autumn of 1621 Massasoit accepted Governor Bradford's invitation to join the colonists in a harvest festival the Thanksgiving day troubles of women began. Mistress Brewster and Priscilla Mullins and Constanta Hopkins and little Remember Allerton and the rest of the dozen women who had survived the first terrible Plymouth winter set to work to make ready for the celebration. Their cupboards were not much like the generous larders of merry England, but what they were to eat at this feast should be of their best.

There was the "standby" of hasty pudding and molasses. There were clam chowder and oysters roasted in big clam shells. Wild turkeys were abundant, and one day's shooting determined the characteristic dish of the feast for all the year to come. Plum porridge delighted the few children, and the guests were to introduce childhood to the festive popcorn.

But when Massasoit came he brought with him ninety of his people. The first Thanksgiving dinner, instead of being served to fifty, was served to nearly three times that number. Moreover, the guests stayed three days, and in spite of their present of five fine deer one does not doubt that they left empty pantries and weary hostesses behind them and that for a week thereafter the colonists lived on "picked up dinners."

History repeats itself. The noble autumn festival too often means for "mother" only a week long baking day and little time or strength for the giving of thanks. But we need not reproduce the Plymouth situation. Priscilla could not set her wild Indians to serve her, but today the preparations for the dinner may be divided among the many hands which make light work. Stoning the raisins, picking the turkey, straining the cranberries, splitting the kindling, cracking the nuts, setting the table, furnish occupation for all, from grandfather to six-year-old. For one day in the year "mother" must have more help than she can use, from the busy hour before breakfast until the last dish is washed at night. The guests at this family festival should be at home in kitchen and parlor alike.

So the homemaker may herself answer to the call for gratitude for "the return of seedtime and harvest, the increase of the ground and the gathering in of the fruit thereof."—Youth's Companion.

Be Thankful.

For all the good things of this earth
Of mingled gall and honey,
For maidens, melody and mirth
And, most of all, for money—
This is the day when thanks are due
And should be paid with pleasure
While toothsome turkeys yield for you
A gastronomic treasure.

PRISCILLA PREACHES.

On the Noble Art of Being Thankful Gracefully.

Every girl wishes she was charming. Some girls wish it so fervently that they actually do something to bring around the happy result. Others just build air castles on such foundations and a full pocketbook, which gives unlimited privileges in the matter of choosing frocks and frills.

More arts than you can count on your two hands go to make up that composite gift, personal charm. One of them is appropriate to the season—the art of giving thanks gracefully.

Have you ever practiced it? If not, Thanksgiving is the appointed time to begin. It makes men adore you, old people speak beautiful words of you and young women envy you.

Perhaps you are going to Thanksgiving service if you are the kind of girl who lives up to the good old New England custom. Perhaps you belong to the new idea class with whom football has risen superior even to the turkey dinner at midday. Perhaps you are going for a long day's outing in the frosty country. No matter where, it is pretty sure that he is going, too, and it ought to be written "He." Armed with a chrysanthemum and a purely masculine sense of gratitude for a day away from the grinding cares of office or shop, he will call for you early with a blithe "Well, isn't this a day to be thankful for?"

And what reply will you have ready for him?

If mother could not afford to give you a new frock for the day or if your slender salary forbade quite as stunning a costume as your mind's eye pictured, will you say in cold, careless fashion, "Well, I don't know that I have much to be thankful for," or, "Please do not spring that chestnut on me; you know Thanksgiving day is a mere form in this money making age?"

Girls do say such absurd things—when something goes wrong with their clothes!

Can't you see how you will quench that young man's enthusiasm and his faith in your good temper at the same moment?

One night at a dinner some clever men were asked why they had not married their first love. One man said because she had not spoken to him all the way to the theater. He had been ten minutes late and the curtain had risen. He thought how awful it would be to live twenty years or less with a woman who turned silent and morose over every trifle.

To be thankful in a graceful way learn to look down instead of up when figuring on your blessings. Do not look at Alice May's golden hair and then worry about your own pale brown tresses. Look at Mary Ann's freckles and be thankful for your own olive skin. Real gratitude consists of making the best of things, and it is not set forth in any church ritual.—Washington Star.

CONFESSION OF DELOREY

Probably Had Great Weight With Jury in the Mullins Case

BOTH YOUTHS FOUND GUILTY

Mantir, Who Is Supposed to Have Cut Woman's Throat, Found Guilty of Second Degree Murder, While Delorey Is Convicted of Manslaughter —Story of Crime Which Remained a Deep Mystery For a Whole Year

Cambridge, Mass., Nov. 18.—James Mantir was found guilty of murder in the second degree and Peter C. Delorey guilty of manslaughter for the murder of Annie Mullins. The penalty in Mantir's case is life imprisonment. The maximum penalty in Delorey's case is twenty years' imprisonment.

The jury was out two hours and fifty-three minutes. Both the prisoners were brought into the court room before either the jury or the judges arrived. They were handcuffed, Mantir leading the way. As they came through the doorway at the left of the judges' bench their steps were unsteady. Their faces were blanched and it seemed as thought they must have had some inkling of what awaited them.

When the jury was polled Clerk Ambrose then asked if they had agreed on a verdict. Foreman Clark responded, "We have." His hand shook as he handed the papers to the clerk.

"Peter Delorey," called the clerk. He raised his right hand and was told to look upon the jury. The jury were told to look upon the prisoner. "What say you, Mr. Foreman," asked the clerk, "is the prisoner guilty or not guilty?"

"Guilty of manslaughter," was the hoarse answer of Clark.

Delorey's hand dropped. His whole frame trembled. Recovering himself, he ran his fingers through his hair and dropped to his seat in the dock.

"James Mantir," called Ambrose.

Mantir grasped the railing in front of him with both hands. He pulled himself to his feet and looked steadily at the jurors, even before he was told to. Mantir was much calmer than Delorey. He held his hand firmly upraised.

"What say you, Mr. Foreman, is the prisoner guilty or not guilty?"

"Guilty of murder in the second degree," responded Clark.

Mantir took the verdict calmly. He darted one look of scorn at Delorey. Delorey almost collapsed. Mantir then folded his arms and gazed fixedly ta the judges.

It is reported that a number of ballots were taken by the jury and that strong pleas were made against sending either of the boys to the death chair. When the jurors began to analyze the evidence it developed that most of them felt that the two boys were not equally guilty of the crime.

It was argued, according to a report, that Delorey's confession probably outlined correctly what took place on the night of the tragedy. That feeling finally prevailed in the minds of the jurors, and the verdict of murder in the second degree for Mantir and manslaughter for Delorey was agreed upon.

Annie Mullins was murdered in Squire's field, Arlington, on the evening of March 27, 1908. She had left the home of Professor von Jagemann on Walker street, Cambridge, without having said where she was bound. Her body, with her throat cut, was found the next day about 9 o'clock.

For a year the crime remained a deep mystery. Then, through Mrs. Elizabeth Delorey of Billerica, the police came into information that led to the arrest of Mantir and Delorey. Mrs. Delorey said that the two boys had returned to the farm on the morning after the crime and told about the girl being murdered before the body had been found.

Later, when the police had Delorey in a cell he made a confession that he and Mantir induced the girl to walk into the field, where Mantir cut her throat. Mantir and Delorey both took the witness stand at the trial. Mantir denied that he had left the farm on the night of the crime, and Delorey said his confession was a lie.

Many Persons Bitten by Dog

Binghamton, N. Y., Nov. 18.—Between twenty and thirty persons were bitten by a supposedly mad dog which ran amuck in the streets of Binghamton. The animal was finally killed. There is little doubt that the animal was mad and those who were bitten are almost panic-stricken.

Pay $1000 For Killing Boy

Buffalo, Nov. 18.—Justice Marcus accepted a plea of guilty from William Krulwich, indicted for running down and killing a boy with his automobile, and put Krulwich on probation upon the condition that he pay the boy's father $1000.

New Pennsylvania Tunnels Opened

New York, Nov. 18.—The four Pennsylvania railroad tunnels from Bergen, N. J., to Long Island City, underneath both rivers and through Manhattan, are completed and the first train was run through today.

BOYCOTT IS DEFENDED

Labor Leader Declares It to Be a Right Guaranteed by Law

Toronto, Nov. 18.—Indorsing a report by the committee on boycott, John Mitchell, one of the three officers of the American Federation of Labor under sentence for contempt of court, made a dramatic speech to the convention of that organization at the close of its session.

He asserted that so far as he was concerned, regardless of consequences, he intended while at liberty to declare for the rights guaranteed him by the organic laws of his country.

The report which caused Mitchell's speech and which was adopted by the convention strongly advocated the boycott in certain cases, saying in conclusion:

"We have a right to boycott and we propose to exercise that right. In the application of this right of boycott, to paraphrase the president (Gompers), we propose to strive on and up."

Mitchell said he realized that every statement made by those on the convention floor, and especially by those who on next Monday will have to deliver themselves to the courts, is being closely scrutinized.

ANSWER ONLY ONE CALL

Religious Biddies Refuse to Respond to Anything but a Hymn

Harwich, Mass., Nov. 18.—Mrs. Josephine Berry, a widow, living on her small farm in North Harwich, has a flock of what are known as "religious fowl," and which answer to only one call.

When Mrs. Berry wishes to feed her flock, it is reported, she gathers them together by singing or whistling a familiar hymn, "Come Ye Sinners Poor and Needy," and every bird on the place comes running.

Neighbors confirm the fact that from small chicks the fowl have been called in this way and that they refuse to answer to the general call which brings other flocks to their feeding places.

BACTERIA GERMS IN CONDENSED MILK

Said to Have Caused the Death of Many Infants

Providence, Nov. 18.—Condensed milk, which was infected with bacteria enough to kill half a dozen grown persons, is declared by the health authorities to have been the cause of death of twenty-two infants in the Myrtle Baby Home, East Providence, since June 17.

The large number of deaths caused Dr. Calef, overseer of the poor of that town, to notify Dr. Swarts, secretary of the board of health, and the latter investigated the case at once. He took a can of the condensed milk used there and found 100,000 bacteria in it.

The Myrtle Baby Home is conducted by the Light House Mission, of which Rev. A. H. Tourtellotte is commander-in-chief. It is chartered under state laws and is a charitable institution, the principal business being to furnish homes to children who have no parents.

IF BUDGET IS REJECTED

Liberals Inclined to Think That Premier Asquith Will Resign

London, Nov. 18.—Walter Runciman, president of the board of education, speaking at Hull last night, made the announcement in behalf of the government that it would refuse to entertain any negotiations or compromise with the peers over the budget.

Beyond this announcement all is conjecture regarding the development of the political situation. Some prominent Liberals are still of the opinion that Premier Asquith will resign on the rejection of the budget.

Others believe that he will ask the king to create a large body of Liberal peers, recalling that the Irish church disestablishment bill was allowed to pass the lords on Gladstone's threat to create new peers.

Supreme Court Says Private Concern Can Refuse to Serve Negro

Des Moines, Nov. 18.—The Iowa supreme court handed down a decision holding that a private business concern, under the Iowa statute, can legally refuse to serve a negro.

Mrs. Susie Brown, a negress, sued the J. H. Bell Coffee company for $1000 damages because she was refused a cup of coffee at a pure food show in Des Moines.

Ex-Pastor Accused of Embezzlement

Dover, N. H., Nov. 18.—Malcolm C. MacLennan, formerly a Presbyterian clergyman and later the Halifax manager of an insurance company, was arrested here, charged with the embezzlement of $3000 of the company's funds.

SELECTING THE BRONZE TURKEY.

A Thanksgiving Story.

By PORTE JEFFERSON.

[Copyright, 1909, by American Press Association.]

Amanda Butler cautiously opened the door of the turkey shed and flashed the rays of her lantern until they fell broadcast on the clumsy form of a large turkey in the corner. He roused as she approached and stretched himself for action.

It was the work of an instant for Amanda's nimble fingers to flash up to his legs, and when she darted back there dangled from one foot a strip of bright red flannel. When Amanda locked the door and turned away the victim of her craftiness was protesting loudly against the absurdity of wearing red flannel in August.

Jeremiah sat on the doorstep in his shirt sleeves, smoking a peaceful pipe.

"There," panted Amanda as she put out the lantern and sat down beside him and fanned herself with her sunbonnet; "I've got one job done."

"What's that?" queried Jeremiah lazily.

"Marked the Thanksgiving turkey."

"Which one?"

"The big bronze one. I've had him in mind for some time. He always roosts in the shed, so I caught him asleep just now and tied a red rag on his leg. I'll shut him up come the 1st of November."

"The big bronze turkey always roosts in the walnut tree. That's why I s'lected him for Thanksgiving dinner," remarked Mr. Butler deliberately. "Him a-roosting out of doors shows he has wild tastes, and what tastes better than wild turkey, I wanter know?"

Amanda received this unconscious witticism on her husband's part in stony silence.

"Of course I mean the biggest of them two bronze fellers," added Jeremiah after awhile.

"I marked the biggest," said Amanda acidly.

Jeremiah whistled one stanza of "The Star Spangled Banner," knocked his pipe against the step and went into the house. A moment later Amanda heard him winding the kitchen clock preparatory to retiring for the night.

"A woman that's married might as well give up trying to have her way about anything," murmured Amanda discontentedly. "Just as if I didn't know that there turkey in the shed was the biggest of the two! If I don't eat that turkey I'll not eat any—so there! I'll show Jeremiah Butler I've got some gumption if I am a poor, miserable married woman!"

Having delivered herself of these sentiments, Amanda felt more cheerfully disposed and in her turn retired to bed, where her husband was already breathing loudly and harmoniously.

The next morning when she went out to feed the poultry two big bronze gobblers were stalking about the yard, each with a rag about one leg. The red flanneled turkey ruffled indignantly every time his beady eye caught sight of the objectionable color on his foot. The other one gazed mournfully at a piece of black tape that adorned his extremity.

Jeremiah crossed the yard with foaming pails of milk.

"What's that there black rag?" demanded Amanda angrily.

Her husband looked quizzically at her and then went on. "That there turkey is in mourning because he's going to be killed for Thanksgiving dinner," he said dryly.

Amanda said no more, but her plump face grew very pink, and her smooth forehead was creased in an anxious frown.

That morning the rival turkeys fought bitterly. Whether it was the red flannel which aroused the mourning turkey's gorge I cannot say. It is sufficient to note that they fought fairly and that the red flannel gentleman put the other to open flight. When it was all over Amanda went out and smilingly picked up several handfuls of bronze feathers.

Jeremiah, who had witnessed the battle through a crack in the barn door, grinned openly and went back to his neglected garden.

At night a remarkable thing happened. The victorious wearer of red sought a roost in the walnut tree, while the mourning turkey ignominously found refuge in the shed, and, strange to relate, he chose the very spot vacated by his rival.

All that summer and early fall Amanda and Jeremiah avoided the subject of turkeys. After awhile others noticed that the topic was a disagreeable one, and so it was tacitly avoided by every one.

The first of November two bronze gobblers nervously paced two narrow pens. The red flannel turkey was generously fed by Amanda, while the black tape bird was as conscientiously stuffed by her husband.

Amanda grew nervous and irritable as the weeks wore on toward Thanksgiving. She did not really care which turkey she ate, for it had been a prosperous year with them, and she was thankful in every sense for the fullness of their cellar and granary. What she really did mind was the giving in to Jeremiah. She had always been the one to give in, and this time—it did seem for once as if he might let her have her way. It was true she had her way about everything concerning the household, but—

She baked and boiled and stewed for a fragrant week before the great feast day. There would be cousins from neighboring towns to dine with them, and the turkey must be slain and prepared the day before. Such a huge bird would be plenty for the ten who would be present. Amanda wished she might invite more, so that there would be some excuse for killing both birds, and thus cut the gordian knot of contention without loss of dignity to either Jeremiah or herself.

On the evening of the second day before Thanksgiving, Jeremiah Butler and Amanda sat in the warm circle of light cast by the reading lamp. Jeremiah was reading the county paper, and his wife was sewing.

Suddenly Jeremiah looked up. "Pete Jones is coming around to kill the turkey tomorrow morning," he said, with assumed carelessness. "He'll get it all dressed and ready for you."

"I've been thinking," said Amanda slowly, "that you might as well kill that there black tape turkey of yours. He looks pretty well conditioned, and he's the biggest bird after all. I don't feel like as if I could have any contention this Thanksgiving. We've been so prospered this year."

Jeremiah coughed dubiously. "Amanda," he began rather sheepishly, "I did kind of a fool thing last summer. When you tied a rag on your turkey I went out the next morning and changed them rags. That's why your turkey went to roost with a black rag and mine went back to his tree with a red one. I meant it for a joke at first. I thought I'd have my way about killing the black one, and when we was eating it I was going to tell you it was your bird after all, but it looks silly now."

"It was silly," said Amanda energetically. "I about made myself sick over them two turkeys. I don't know if I wanter eat neither one. If I had known you was trying to joke—why, I don't know as I ever knew you to make a joke, Jeremiah!"

"I never did before," said Jeremiah, with a sickly smile. "I guess I won't again. I'll tell Pete to kill the black rag turkey, and then it'll be the one you s'lected."

"I'd ruther have the wild flavored one," admitted Amanda. "I'm partial to wild turkeys. Then it was your turkey that fit mine and made him run after all." She glanced at the bronze feathers above the clock.

"That there wild one was a gamy bird," chuckled Jeremiah, with another break into unconscious wit.

The next day when Pete Jones came to kill the turkey he found Jeremiah and Amanda busily engaged in cleaning silver.

"Which one of them two bronze gobblers shall I kill? One's as fat as t'other, and each one's got a dirty rag tide around his foot."

Jeremiah looked critically at a fork he was polishing, and then he turned a quizzical smile upon his wife.

"Kill 'em both, Pete, and take one home for yourself."

"And whichever one it is, Pete, enjoy it!" smiled Amanda at her reflection in a teaspoon.

Dilettante Alpinists.

The real Alps are not civilized. Never can they be civilized. True, highways have been built so that horse and motor can go where once only the guide led the way. The modern hotel is beside the clear blue lake under the shadow of the snow clad mountain, sometimes high upon a spur it has thrown out. You can linger over your table d'hote listening to the orchestra, dance all the evening, take baths, stroll on the promenades at the fashionable hour and say you have "done" the Alps. Yet you may only have seen them miles above you and have had not even a taste of the exhilaration, the joy of living, that comes only to the mountaineer. Then there is another way of saying you have been an Alpinist—a day or so walking amid the foothills on the lower slopes along the paths that have been trodden for centuries, worn smooth by peasant feet. Looking from some viewpoint upon the valley a thousand feet below, the visitor imagines that this is indeed mountaineering. But he does not know he is merely going over the pathways where the home people have gone, as their fathers and forefathers went from chalet to hamlet, to sell their cheese or eggs, or in their Sunday dress to hear the good man of the church—and forget it all in the neighborly gossip after service.—Putnam's Magazine.

Fifteen thousand barrels of apples were shipped from Boston Tuesday, bound for England. Wonder if the Britishers have to pay as much for the apples as does the New England consumer? Four and five dollars is a good price to pay for what used to be half that price.

Notwithstanding President Taft has been so busy since his return to Washington that he forgot to get out the Thanksgiving proclamation, the country can safely go right ahead and arrange for its family festival on Nov. 25.

Dr. Cook's records are to go to Copenhagen on Nov. 25, on the Danish steamer from New York, so that who discovered the North Pole first may be settled by the first of the year.

That man out in Wakefield who found the partition walls of his house filled with honey, and has had to tear parts of the house down, may be said to be having a sweet time.

MANY DELAYS.

It seems as though the Cavanagh lot at Houghs Neck would never be transferred to the city. For nearly a week now it was expected every day that the transfer would take place, but some new complication would come up and cause a still further delay. Tuesday it was thought for certain that the papers would pass Wednesday, but that day another delay arose.

The Mayor is determined that everything shall be cleared up, so that the city may get a clear title to the property, so that no future complications shall arise. Last night Mayor Shea said that he had every reason to believe that the papers would pass today. He further said that he was getting impatient over the matter, and unless the papers were passed soon he should notify the Council that he was unable to purchase the lot called for in the order.

This would mean another wrangle over the location of the school lot at Houghs Neck. The selection of a site for the building raised an internal row in the Houghs Neck Associates, and came near dividing the association.

RUMMAGE SALE.

The annual rummage sale in aid of the Day Nursery opened this morning in the store at the corner of Hancock street and Merrymount road, formerly occupied by Rogers Bros. The ladies having the sale in charge were busy all day Wednesday sorting the various goods and tagging them, so that they would be ready for business today. An unusually large amount of clothing has been received and the counters are piled high with it .Then there are Men's women's and children's hats in great variety and quantities of other goods.

MR. SANDBERG'S VOTE.

That ex-Representative Edward J. Sandberg is popular with the people is shown by the large vote which he received at the caucuses, the revised figures giving him 190 votes in Ward Three instead of 90, bringing his total up to 734. He as second man on the list of those nominated for Councilman at large, being but 25 votes below Councilman Bryant the leading candidate. He stood No. 3. in Ward Three.

The total vote of Alexander Clark for Councilman at large should also have been 100 larger, or 665, which was only 94 less than Councilman Bryant.

☞ Is there a boy in the city who wants to earn a bright five dollar gold piece? The boy selling the most Ledgers between now and New Years will be awarded five dollars in gold, beside earning good commissions each day on the papers sold. The contest is open to any boy commencing Nov. 15 and ending Jan. 1, 1910.

BEHIND THE RETURNS

Too Many Blank Votes for Mayoralty Candidate

Now that the smoke of the battle of ballots at Tuesday's joint caucuses has cleared away, it is evident to a close observer of the returns that there is in them much food for thought

On the question of Mayor, the returns show that someone in Mayor Shea's own ward and party was after his scalp, when 38 of the Democratic voters refused to place a mark against his name. It does not need much research to show that evidently Councilman McDevitt had more or less to do with the blank votes for Mayor Shea.

It was well known that Councilman McDevitt was also after the scalp of Councilman Smith, a fact which the latter fully realized. There were rumors that Councilman McDevitt would be defeated for the nomination, but his own section of the city stood by him with the result that he received the highest vote of any of the three nominated, 41 votes more than the second man, and 74 votes more than Councilman Smith.

In Ward One the ballots marked for Nichols-Sullivan and blanks, a total of 14, showed some feeling against Mayor Shea in that ward.

What was true of Mayor Shea was also true of Mr. Nichols, the Republican candidate, for in Wollaston, the latter's home ward, there were 59 blanks for mayor, and in Ward Six 28.

An analysis of the vote for Councilmen at large shows that Councilman Gilson must have been cut considerably in Ward One while Councilman Hadlock owes his defeat for nomination to Ward Five. As for Councilman Gilson, it was openly reported that the Houghs Neck section were after his scalp, all on account of the local fight over the Cavanagh lot. As a matter of fact, however, Councilman Gilson did all that lay in his power to hurry the Houghs Neck school problem along. When he learned that nothing but the Cavanagh lot would satisfy the residents, he almost alone, stood out for that lot, and tried his best to get Mr. Cavanagh to make a price which would be acceptable.

There has been no harder worked committee in the City Council this year than the Committee on Licenses and Ordinances, of which Councilman Hadlock was the chairman. Aside from the usual large number of minor licenses, this committee took hold of the order to revise the ordinances and accomplished the purpose of the order. The order had been before the Council for several years, but it was not until this year that it was taken up. Considering the work of Mr. Hadlock it is hard to fathom just what the Wollaston voters had against him, for this ward gave him the smallest vote of any of the seven candidates.

RETURNS WERE LATE.

Owing to contests in several wards at the caucuses the returns were late in arriving at City Hall. There was the usual number of reporters in the City Clerk's office waiting for the returns, as well as a few of the candidates. The candidates were off early, however, leaving the scribes with the city clerk and city messenger on deck. The first official returns to arrive were from Ward Six which came in at 11.12, between that time and midnight Wards Two, Four and Five were received. This left but two wards to be heard from, Wards One and Three. Ward Three came at 1.50, and then came another long wait until 2.37, when Ward One, the last of the six wards, was received. Shortly after the lights went out and City Hall was dark for a few hours.

OLD-TIME DEMOCRAT.

There was quite a little breeze of excitement in the Ward One polling place Monday afternoon when Galen Vinton Bowditch, a life long worshiper at the Democratic shrine, discovered that the ballot handed him by the election officers was one used by the much despised Republicans. When Galen discovered the mistake he went up into the air like a sky rocket, and then for a few minutes the air was blue and sulphur like.

Among those to ship deer from Bangor, Me., on Wednesday was M. L. Abbott of Quincy.

A PLEDGE NOT TO CONQUER.

Two petitions are in circulation whose purpose is to secure an expression from the United States that it will not increase its territory by conquest. While it is recognized that there would not be binding force in the expression, yet, as in the case of the resolution not to annex Cuba when we went to war with Spain, it is believed that such an expression would have great weight with this country and with all other nations, and would be a strong influence in promoting international peace, especially in advancing the limitation of armaments which has been an unaccomplished purpose back of the Hague Peace Conferences.

These two petitions are identical, except so far as change of form is necessary by the difference between the bodies addressed. One is directly to Congress, in favor of giving an assurance to the next International Peace Conference that the United States will not increase its territory by conquest. The other is to the legislature of Massachusetts, asking it to adopt resolutions to Congress with the same purpose as the direct petition to Congress. The former can be circulated in any state. The latter is adapted to Massachusetts only, but by requisite change of wording it can be addressed to any legislature and circulated in the states respectively for presentation to their legislatures.

Since this movement was begun it has been learned that this effort has been practically anticipated by the people of Brazil, for it is a provision of the constitution that "the United States of Brazil shall, in no case, engage in a war of conquest, directly or indirectly, by itself or in alliance with another nation." By two agreements signed April 23, 1908, severally by the Powers on the North sea and by those on the Baltic sea. including Russia, Germany, Sweden, Denmark The Netherlands, France, and Great Britain, those Powers look to mutual action to keep their territorial boundaries inviolate.

It is hoped that these petitions will meet with public favor. They have been signed by Rev. Dr. Francis E. Clark, Edwin D. Mead and others. There is no fund for a campaign. Every newspaper which is interested is invited to give it mention and to reprint the petitions. Public spirited persons are invited to cut out the petitions and circulate them for separate signing but the same names may be signed to both, preferable the names of legal voters only. Those who circulate the petitions are invited to return them to R. L. Bridgman, State House, Boston, by January 10, 1910. These petitions are as follows:

"To the Congress of the United States:

The undersigned, citizens of the United States, respectfully petition for the adoption of a resolution authorizing and requesting the President to instruct the Secretary of State to transmit to the next International Peace Conference the assurance of the United States that it will not increase its territory by conquest, and to invite the Powers to give like assurance."

"To the General Court of Massachusetts:

The undersigned, citizens of Massachusetts, respectfully petition you to adopt a resolution asking the Congress of the United States to authorize and to request the President to instruct the Secretary of State to transmit to the next International Peace Conference the assurance of the United States that it will not increase its territory by conquest, and to invite the Powers to give it like assurance; also, to invite the co-operation of the other states.

GRANITE CITY WHIST.

There was a good attendance Wednesday evening at the weekly whist tournament of the Granite City Club. Play commenced at 8.30 with eight tables. Twenty-five hands of progressive whist were played, after which a substantial lunch was served. W. O. Wellington was high man with 44 won and 21 lost, or 67.69 percent, while Dr. H. C. Hallowell was second, with 37 won and 20 lost, or 64.9 per cent.

WHIST PARTY.

Tuesday evening the "Jolly Sixteen," met with their new members, Mr. and Mrs. G. Hannon of Quincy Point. Two hours of whist were enjoyed, honors being won by Mrs. Howe, Mrs. Hannon, Mr. Howe and Mr. Stoddard. After whist, a box lunch was served, each member bringing a box, and exhanging it with the one they played the first hand of whist with. One member being very fond of squash pie hoped his lunch would contain at least a small piece, but what was his surprise on opening it to find a whole squash pie of the largest size and evidently it was the finest make judging from the way it disappeared. After luuch a social half hour was spent.

QUINCY MAN PRESIDENT

W. M. Marden Reelected by Court Officers

The first anual banquet and reunion of the Massachusetts Court Officers' Association was held in Boston, Tuesday evening, and proved to be a grand success. This association was organized at a meeting held in this city July 21 last, at which there were representatives from Norfolk, Suffolk, Bristol, Essex, Middlesex and Franklin counties.

The old board of officers headed by Court Officer W. M. Marden of the Quincy court were reelected.

The trend of the after dinner speeches was on old age pensions and there was but one sentiment in regard to it and that was in favor of such legislation. W. M. Marden and Daniel A. Cronin spoke at some length on this subject.

Court officers were present from the Supreme court ,the Suffolk superior court, the Suffolk probate court and the Boston municipal court as well as from the district courts of Chelsea, Charlestown, East Boston, South Boston, Brighton ,Dorchester, Cambridge, Newton, Marlboro, Greenfield, Plymouth, Abington and Hingham, Stoughton, Attleboro, and Lynn.

The organization has been in existence but a few months and has a remarkable growth, and it is expected that before the January meeting the membership will reach the 200 mark.

During the evening Court Officer McDevitt of the Superior court sang several popular songs.

Responses to the presidents toasts were made by Daniel A. Cronin, A. G. McVey, William L. Drohan, Richard J. Murray, Charles F. Riley, Frederick B. Knapp, Dennis J. Collins, Frank W. Brown, Frederick J. Finnegan, Arthur R. Gledhill, Gilmore B. Creelman, Charles H. Colby, Richard Vanston, William J. Leonard, Henry Fox, Thomas J. Condon and Joseph Paine.

BOSTON OPERA HOUSE.

In response to many inquiries from cities in the vicinity of Boston, Director Henry Russell, of the Boston Opera House, announces that, notwithstanding the very large subscription sale for the opening season, there are many good seats available for all grand opera performances during the week Naturally the best opportunity for the general public is at the Thursday and Saturday night performances, which are not included in the subscription sale, and when the entire house is available for the purchase of single performance seats. This week's extra performance tonight (Thursday) will be of a most interesting character. In response to very general desire, and to afford those who were unable to attend the opening performance an opportunity to hear Mme. Lillian Nordica in one of her greatest roles. "La Gioconda" will be repeated, with practically the same cast, including Nordica, Constantino, Baklanoff, Nivette and Mme. Claessens. The same magnificent scenic production and ballet divertissement will be given.

The bill for Friday night will be "Aida," with Mmes. Boninsegna and Claessens and Mme. Hansen, Archambault and Baklanoff. Saturday matinee, there will be a double bill, when Mme. Boninsegna will be heard as Santuzza in "Cavalleria Rusticana" and Mme Bronskaja will sing the role of Nedda in "I Pagliacci" with Christian Hansen, the new Danish tenor as Canio.

For the second debutante performance Saturday night "Lakme" has been selected, and Miss Viola Davenport, a yong Boston singer will make her debut in the title role. Miss Davenport is a soprano of great promise, and this will be a notable occasion for those artistically interested in operatic music as well as for those who enjoy tuneful melodies as a diversion. The supporting cast will embrace several of the Boston Opera Company's leading singers and the production will be superb.

For the second operatic concert, Sunday night, a program of exceptional merit is announced. Wallace Goodrich will conduct, and the full Boston Opera House orchestra will participate. The soloists will be selected from the principal members of the Boston Opera Company. Seats for all these performances may be secured by mail.

—Malcolm Lang, son of the late B. J. Lang, has accepted the position of organist at King's chapel, Boston.

THANKSGIVING PROCLAMATION.

The following proclamation has been issued by Governor Draper for Thanksgiving day on Thursday Nov. 25.

A Proclamation for a Day of Public Thanksgiving and Praise.

In accordance with ancient customs, and by and with the advice and consent of the council, I appoint Thursday, the twenty-fifth day of November, as Thanksgiving day.

Annually, since colonial days, the people of the commonwealth have observed a day of thanksgiving for the mercies which have been vouchsafed to them by Almighty God.

No year has been more appropriate for such an observance than this year of 1909. In material things we have cause for thanksgiving, because our people are prosperous. What is of more importance is that liberty of conscience, which caused the settlement of Massachusetts colony, has been preserved in the laws of the commonwealth and is believed in by the people.

We have great cause to be thankful that the people of this day and generation recognize peculiarly their obligations to each other, and the strong and well-to-do are giving of their strength and means to help their less fortunate neighbors.

May all the people take some time of this day to thank Almighty God for the blessings which have been so bountifully showered on the United States as a nation, and Massachusetts as a commonwealth.

REBEKAH DANCE.

The George L. Gill Associates held a dance Wednesday night in Faxon hall, about 35 couples attending, The floor was in charge of Charles Barron, with Mrs. Barron and Miss Grace Turner as aids. Mrs. Richard Prout was chairman of the committee in charge of the dance. Wilson's orchestra furnished music and ice cream and cake were served during the evening.

THE PARAGUAYANS.

A Lazy, Happy-go-lucky People In a Bankrupt Republic.

The infusion of Spanish blood and customs into the Guarani has produced a people with the faults and good qualities of both in about equal parts. Dark of complexion, with strongly marked Indian features, essentially gentle when unrestrained or not unduly excited, careless of the morrow, poor and honest, hospitable and generous, indolent and uncultured, strongly Catholic in theory, but generally lax in religious performances as to dogmas—this is a rough sketch of the native people of Paraguay. Asuncion, the capital, and even the smaller places—Villa Rica, San Pedro, Villa del Pilar, Villa Concepcion—have their aristocratic families, of which the daughters and sons are sent to Europe to be educated and which maintain an exclusiveness that must be almost isolation. But in general the people mingle readily.

In the early morning in the streets of Asuncion the women gather in their long white dresses and barefooted to sell their wares. The younger women, judged by our standard, are beautiful and from carrying baskets and water jars on their heads have attained an erect and graceful carriage which our young women could well imitate. Besides, when they laugh they show two rows of pearls, and their speech in soft Guarani patois is worth going far to hear.

When you see Asuncion you see Paraguay, for it is the most advanced city in the republic. Its streets are poorly paved, it has mule cars which run at long intervals and low speed, and the hotel accommodations are not exceptional, but there is a kind of lazy, happy-go-lucky gayety about the city that represents the national feeling. Paraguay is hard up—yes, almost stone broke. The currency is paper and the value so small that for a hundred dollars one receives a basketful of ragged stuff, printed in Germany, to represent some nebulous indebtedness of the republic. Gold does not stay long in Paraguay, nor does it often enter the country.—Van Norden Magazine.

EXPLOSIVES.

Best Way to Destroy Gunpowder and Nitroglycerin.

The best way to destroy ordinary black gunpowder is to throw it into a stream under conditions that prevent any harm coming to human beings or animals through the dissolving of the saltpeter. If no suitable stream is available, the gunpowder may be stirred with water in tubs, or the dry gunpowder may be poured out on the ground in a long thin line and ignited with a fuse at one end.

To destroy dynamite cartridges the paper wrappings should be carefully removed, the bare cartridges laid in a row with their ends in contact and the first cartridge ignited with a fuse without a cap. Even with these precautions a simultaneous explosion of the entire mass may occur, so that it is wise to retire to a safe distance. The row of cartridges should be laid parallel with the wind and ignited at the leeward end, so that the flame will be driven away from the mass.

Frozen dynamite should be handled with special care, as its combustion is peculiarly liable to assume an explosive character. A small quantity of dynamite may be destroyed by throwing it in very small bits into an open fire, or the cartridges may be exploded one by one in the open air with fuses and caps.

Dynamite should never be thrown into water, as the nitroglycerin which it contains remains undissolved and capable of doing mischief. Other explosives which contain nitroglycerin should be treated in the same way as dynamite.

Ammonium nitrate explosives may be thrown in small fragments into an open fire or if they do not contain nitroglycerin may be destroyed by means of water. Explosive caps should be exploded singly with pieces of fuse.—Scientific American.

His Vocabulary.

He was an only child. They were very particular about his manner of speech, constantly correcting him so that he would use beautiful English. He, however, was allowed now and then to associate with other children. He played with a neighbor boy a long while one day, and when he came home there was an ecstatic smile on his face.

"I like that boy, mother," he said. "I like him very much. He swears beautifully. He knows every word."—New York Press.

Getting In Deeper.

"Who is that singing so dreadfully out of tune?"

"It is my wife."

"Perhaps the accompanist plays out of tune."

"She is accompanying herself."—Meggendorfer Blatter.

One Recompense.

"That sheet iron clothing a chap had to wear during the middle ages must have been far from comfortable."

"Still, a fellow could have a permanent crease put in his trousers."—Louisville Courier-Journal.

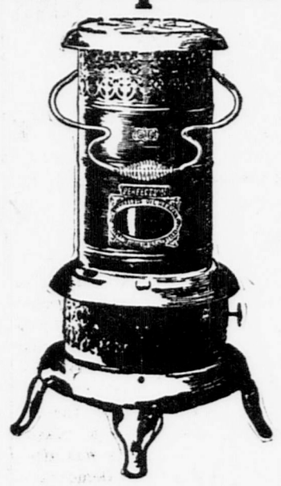

Not a Bark.

"Then you don't have any dog-watch on this craft?" inquired the anxious passenger, according to a writer in Life.

"No. This is a catboat."

For artificial evils, for evils that spring from want of thought, thought must find a remedy somewhere.—Lowell.

300 CORPSES STILL IN MINE

Efforts to Reach Them Are Handicapped by Fierce Fire

DELAY IN WORK OF RESCUE

Agreed After Long Conference of Mine Experts That It Would Only Result In Loss of More Lives to Enter Gas and Heat Filled Mine Under Present Conditions—Troops Are Idle Except For Guard Duty

Cherry, Ills., Nov. 18.—The St. Paul coal mine, in which are still entombed the corpses of 300 or more miners as a result of last Saturday's fire, has refused to give up its dead. Utter failure to devise any satisfactory method of recovering the bodies has left the situation the same is it was before.

The interior of the mine is burning almost as fiercely as ever. The partial opening of the seal over the mouth of the hoisting shaft yesterday allowed puffs of smoke to escape, showing the fury of the internal combustion.

While two companies of state troops were present to prevent possible disorder, they remained idle except for guard duty about the mine.

At a conference of federal, state and local mining experts it was agreed after five hours of deliberation that no immediate descent could be made into the gas and heat filled mine without risk to those who made the attempt. No definite plans were reached for extinguishing the fire or for entering the mine.

To allay the anxiety of survivors and relatives and to satisfy general craving for news of conditions in the mine, those in charge of the work allowed spectators to gather near the shaft. Details of what was done were publicly announced through a megaphone.

When Mining Engineer Rice lowered a thermometer through a hole in the shaft, 300 feet to the bottom of the shaft, the announcer shouted to the crowd:

"One hundred and seven degrees at the bottom."

"That's not bad," cried voices.

The onlookers began to try to convince each other that an attempt to enter the mine would now be made. But the announcer explained to the crowd that owing to the deadly gases the mine could not be entered until the fire was out.

WILL MOVE TO NICARAGUA

How Sioux Indians Hope to Save Remnants of Historic Tribe

Boston, Nov. 18.—In a final effort to save his once renowned tribe from utter extinction, Chief Little Biston, a full-blooded Sioux, sailed from Boston on the steamer Esparta for Nicaragua, to make preparations for the reception of his followers early in the year, when, bag and baggage, the whole tribe expects to migrate to the tropics.

He will receive grants upon his arrival for 16,000 acres of the best government land in the Central American republic, and there expects to recuperate his people and successfully combat the fearful death rate which in less than a half century has reduced his people from a strong nation to a mere handful of wretched individuals.

The movement was started by the American Geographical society. The project is being financed by several wealthy New York people, who are interested in preserving the remnants of the historic tribe. The expenses will amount well above $100,000.

ARGUED OVER LYNCHING

Negro of Cairo, Ills., Takes Life of a Discharged Negro Soldier

Cairo, Ills., Nov. 18.—Henry Small, a negro, shot and killed William Pope, one of the negro soldiers discharged from the United States army after the "shooting up" of Brownsville, Tex.

The shooting followed an argument over the lynching here last week of Will James, the negro accused of the murder of Annie Pelley.

Pope was well liked by the negroes here and there is considerable feeling against Small, who was arrested.

Eight Years For Knife Attack

Cambridge, Mass., Nov. 18.—Gaetano Corselli, 21 years old, an Italian, was found guilty of the attempted murder of Pasquale Dablana, at Newton. He was sentenced to from eight to ten years. Dablana awoke from his sleep to find three boys standing by his bed with stilletos. The others escaped.

King Manuel London's Guest

London, Nov. 18.—King Manuel of Portugual has arrived in London as the guest of the city corporation. The populace gave him an enthusiastic welcome. The king drove to the Guildhall, where he was the guest of honor at luncheon.

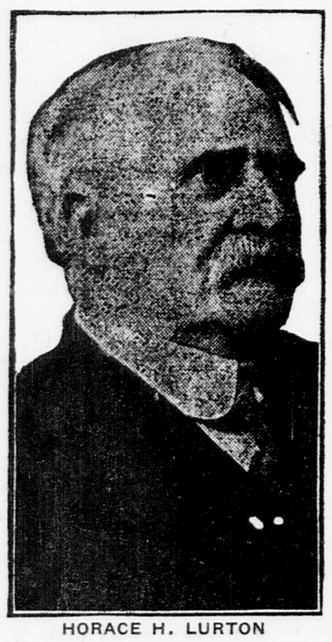

New Gas Plant For Haverhill

Haverhill, Mass., Nov. 18.—A new gas plant to cost $600,000 will be built in Bradford by the new owners of the Haverhill Gas Light company. The company is to change hands, the new management being composed of Boston men.

LURTON'S FRIENDS HOPEFUL

But Judge's Chances For Supreme Bench Are Not Considered Good

Washington, Nov. 18.—Three stories relating to the vacancy on the supreme bench are current here. One is that the president has made up his mind to appoint Frederick N. Judson of St. Louis; a second is that Charles E. Hughes, governor of New York, is to get the place, and a third is that no decision has yet been reached and that the appointment will not be made until after congress meets. Apparently the last story has more backing than either of the others.

HORACE H. LURTON

The friends of Judge Lurton of Tennessee are still hopeful that Lurton will be called to the place, but for several days intimations have come from reliable sources that the chances of the Tennesseean are not as good as they were two or three weeks ago.

CANADA PLANNING EXPENSIVE NAVY

Will Cost Over $7,000,000 For Proposed Fighting Machines

Ottawa, Nov. 18.—Canada's naval plans were laid before parliament yesterday. They provide for the construction of three cruisers of the "Improved Bristol" class and four destroyers of the Improved River class. The cost of the cruisers is estimated at $5,750,000 and the cost of the destroyers at $1,500,000. The annual cost of maintenance is estimated at $2,000,000.

It is estimated that 1408 officers and men will be required to man the ships and that the payroll will be $400,000 and the victualing $100,000 a year.

AN ENORMOUS CARGO

Cymric Sails From Boston With Ten Thousand Tons Dead Weight

Boston, Nov. 18.—In the history of the port of Boston there have been few such outward carcoes as that carried by the White Star liner Cymric, bound for Liverpool. Her merchandise amounting to 10,000 tons dead weight and 16,500 tons measurement, and her enormous cargo space was all utilized.

When she backed into the stream and headed seaward she was drawing 30 feet forward, 34.4 aft, or a mean draft of 32.2 feet, so that in threading her way down the channel she did not have much room to spare between her keel and the channel bed, notwithstanding that she left port at flood tide.

Two other ships which took out record-breaking cargoes were the Allen liner Numidian for Glasgow and the Hamburg-American liner Bosnia for Hamburg.

ENTICING CANAL HANDS

President Taft to Make Action of Certain Contractors a Misdemeanor

Washington, Nov. 18.—Prompt action will be taken by President Taft to prevent contractors engaged in building railroads in South America from enticing laborers away from Panama.

Last month these contractors succeeded in inducing about a thousand laborers to leave the canal zone to embark in their own enterprises. President Taft will shortly issue an executive order making the enticement of these laborers a misdemeanor.

Brown Gets Life Sentence

Cambridge, Mass., Nov. 18.—John W. Brown, a negro, of Cambridge, was sentenced in court here to life imprisonment. He killed Laura Bland, a negress, at Newton. Upon being indicted Brown pleaded not guilty, but he changed his plea to guilty.

Three Men Freeze In Blizzard

Leadville, Col., Nov. 18.—The bodies of Frank Loftus, William Hasty and James Hayes, all of Leadville, were found on the line between Clark and Lake counties. They were frozen to death in a blizzard.

Pennsylvania Bank Closed

Philadelphia, Nov. 18.—The commissioner of banking of Pennsylvania has ordered the American Trust company of Philadelphia closed. The deposits amount to about $400,000.

THE MOTHER ANTELOPE.

Wonderful Manner In Which She Provides For Her Young.

The manner in which the mother antelope protects her young until they are old and strong enough to join the full grown bands in their wanderings is an interesting and wonderful instance of nature's providence. These beautiful creatures live in an open country infested by all kinds of enemies and especially prowled over by the coyote, the gray wolf and the timber wolf, which subsist upon the young of all kinds of animals, yet the mother can easily protect her babies from the fiercest of these marauders. The enemy most dreaded is the soaring eagle.

There is a variety of cactus, a prickly plant which grows in great abundance all over the western plains, which furnishes her the means for this protection. Horses, cattle, buffalo and, in fact, all animals know the danger of treading on this plant. It grows in large patches some four or six inches in height above the ground and forms a thick mat varying in breadth from the size of the top of a man's hat to many feet. It is in the center of one of these patches that the female antelope prepares a place of safety for her young. The thorns of this cactus, while very poisonous and terribly painful to every other animal, for some reason are almost harmless to the antelope. The cactus may lacerate her legs, making them bleed freely, but neither the stickers nor their poison remains, while other animals seldom bleed, but retain the poisonous stickers in their wounds until they become malignant sores, causing excessive swelling of the limbs and very great and long continued suffering.

When the antelope has selected her patch of cactus, backing away a few feet, she will make a running jump, bounding high in the air and alighting in the middle of the patch, with all four feet close together, the hoofs pointing downward. Then, springing out again and repeating this operation until she has chopped the roots of the cactus plant to pieces, she loosens and clears a space large enough for standing room. She then will enlarge it by pawing and digging with her sharp hoofs. Here she gives birth to her young in undisturbed security, knowing that she can leave them in comparative safety during the day and return to them at night to give them suck. Should it be in a locality where eagles abound, however, the mother does not venture far away, as the soaring eagle often swoops down on the young, taking them away if she is not there to do battle for their lives.—H. H. Cross in Century.

Lincoln and the Old Virginian.

Washington was a strong man and a famous wrestler. He was never thrown, which meant much, for wrestling was a favorite amusement with Virginians, many of whom were as nearly invincible as the ancient Greeks. Lincoln, too, could boast classic excellence in the same sport. "It is a curious thing," Lincoln said, when Washington's prowess was first brought to his attention—"it is a curious thing, but that is just precisely my record when I was a youth. I could outlift any man in Illinois, and I never was thrown. If George was round now, I should be pleased to have a tussle with him, and I rather believe that one of the plain people of Illinois would be able to keep up his end against the old Virginian."

Matrimony and Patience.

Matrimony and patience! It is not always a perfect combination, is it? In South Africa the savage tribes have a peculiar ceremony which they put the matrimonial candidate through previous to his entering the holy state. His hands are tied up in a bag containing five ants for two hours. If he bears unmoved the tortures of their stings he is considered qualified to cope with the nagging and daily jar and fret of married life. Such a man would make an admirable husband. He would not be upset by the thoughts of a spring bonnet or grow irritable every time the steak was overdone. The idea of having a patience trial for those about to marry is one that civilized people might adopt.

The Largest Described Snake.

Speke, in his narrative of the journey to the source of the Nile, describes the largest snake that has ever been seen by man. "I shuddered," he says, "as I looked upon the effects of his tremendous dying strength. For yards around where he lay grass, bushes and saplings—in fact, everything except full grown trees—were cut clean off as if they had been trimmed with an immense scythe. The monster when measured was 51 feet and 2½ inches in extreme length, while around the thickest portions of its body the girth was nearly three feet."

MAKES RAPID HEADWAY

Add This Fact to Your Store of Knowledge.

Kidney disease advances so rapidly that many a person is firmly in its grasp before aware of its progress. Prompt attention should be given the slightest symptom of kidney disorder. If there is a dull pain in the back, headaches, dizzy spells, or a tired, worn-out feeling, or if the urine is dark, foul-smelling, irregular and attended with pain, procure a good kidney remedy at once.

Your townspeople recommend Doan's Kidney Pills. Read the statement of this Quincy citizen.

P. J. Garrity, 367 Granite street, Quincy, Mass., says: "Some time ago I suffered so severely from kidney disease that I could hardly get about. I was restless at night and could not find any position that was comfortable. The kidney secretions were too frequent in passage and contained a heavy sediment at times. I was rapidly growing worse and was at a loss to know what to do, as the many remedies I tried failed to help me. Finally Doan's Kidney Pills were recommended to me and I procured a supply at the Cox Drug Store. After I had taken the contents of four boxes I was in good health. I highly recommend Doan's Kidney Pills to other kidney sufferers."

CONVENTION LASTS BUT TEN MINUTES

James J. Storrow Is Nominated For Mayor of Boston

Boston, Nov. 18.—James J. Storrow was nominated for mayor of Boston last night by a convention that beat all records for silence and rapidity. At 8:15 Richard Olney called the meeting to order, and at 8:25 he announced that it had adjourned. In ten minutes not only had the nomination of Storrow been made, but the records of the previous meeting had been read and approved, and the new party had organized into the "Citizens' Municipal League."

The convention applauded steadily for one minute when Charles S. Hamlin presented the name of Storrow as the recommendation of the committee of nine. There was but one man in the hall who said "No" when Chairman Olney put the question. There was one minute more of applause and then adjournment was moved.

FOR AN OUNCE OF OPIUM

Young Girls Are Bartered by the Natives of Sarangani Islands

Manila, Nov. 18.—The natives of Sarangani, a group of islands to the south of Mindanao, are offering in barter young girls, each for one ounce of opium, according to W. S. Lyon, a horticulturalist, who has just returned from a trip through the south coast of Mindanao.

Lyon is engaged in securing specimens of tropical fruits for the department of agriculture at Washington. The horticulturalist reports that there is considerable traffic in opium in South Mindanao carried on by way of Palm island. The government cutters visit that district occasionally, but they are lacking in number and facility to supress the traffic.

POISON IN STOMACHS

Report of Expert Who Examined Two Bodies Which Were Exhumed

Somerville, Mass., Nov. 18.—Arsenic was found by Professor Whitney in the stomachs of Stephen Keliher and Bridget Knowles of Somerville, whose bodies were exhumed last September. The fact came out here yesterday.

The former was the husband and the latter the sister of Mrs. Mary Keliher, who is now in jail under an indictment charging her with murder. There were life insurance policies aggregating $3500 on the lives of Bridget Knowles and Stephen Keliher, $1000 upon the former, and $2500 upon the latter.

Mrs. Mary Keliher collected these sums, and they were the largest amounts of insurance upon the members of the Keliher family which were collected by the woman under indictment.

After Whitney had found that there was evidence of arsenic in the bodies of Annie T. Keliher, sister-in-law, and Mary, aged 2; Katherine M., aged 12, and William, aged 9, all children of Mary Keliher, and upon which evidence the indictment charging her with murder of all four was brought about, the bodies of Stephen Keliher and Bridget Knowles were exhumed.

SUED CITY FOR $5000

Jury Disagrees In Case of Girl Who Claimed Feelings Were Injured

Fitchburg, Mass., Nov. 18.—The jury in the case of Margaret P. Jones, who sued the city of Fitchburg for damages in the sum of $5000 on account of her alleged expulsion from school, reported that they had failed to agree and were discharged. The final vote taken was eight for the city and four for the girl.

Judge Dana ruled that the girl could not recover if the jury found that the school board was acting in good faith and for the interests of the girl, and said that only damages to her injured feelings could be assessed, if they found for her.

EARLY SNOW ON MARS

Two Patches Recently Observed on Antarctic Portion of Planet

Flagstaff, Ari., Nov. 18.—Director Lowell of the Lowell observatory reports the first apparent Antarctic snowfall of the season on Mars. A patch was seen on Nov. 12, and increased in size on the 16th. A second patch was observed for the first time on the latter date.

This is said to be exceptionally early for the first Martian Antarctic snow. The second is where a patch, in melting last August, lingered beyond the rest of the polar cap.

Balloon Travels In Snowstorm

Enfield, N. H., Nov. 18.—A balloon trip of forty miles through a heavy snowstorm encountered at 6000 feet elevation ended at 5:20 o'clock last night, when Pilot Van Sleet got his balloon to earth in this town. The balloon ascended from Rutland, Vt., at 3:30 o'clock yesterday afternoon.

A TRAGIC EXPERIENCE.

The Climax of a Woman's Return Trip to Her Home.

A New York woman had a curious and tragic experience, one that seems more like a grewsome page from French fiction than the plain recital of fact.

This woman started out with her husband to accompany him part way on a business trip he was taking to a southern city. It was arranged that she should stop to visit some friends at a point about halfway on the journey and after a two days' stay should proceed and rejoin her husband at his destination and return with him. She made her visit and when she reached the town where she had expected to meet her husband found that he was not at the hotel where he had been stopping, but had left hurriedly for New York the day before. She waited long enough to send telegrams to her husband's office and to their house in New York asking if he had arrived and to receive a negative answer from each place.

Concluding that he had been unable to reach her by telegraph while she was on the road, she decided to return home. She was disappointed, but not at all perturbed, as she journeyed northward. She had to change cars twice on the way. Each change involved a wait of ten or fifteen minutes at a small junction town. As she was pacing up and down the station platform at each of these places she saw a big, pine covered coffin box unloaded from the express car and put aboard the northbound train. At Jersey City the same box was being unloaded, and it crossed the ferry with her in a hearse. She noted idly that one of the hearse horses was white and the other black. She went first to her husband's office, but the hour was late in the afternoon, and it was closed. Then she went uptown to her home.

As she was about to enter the apartment house a hearse drawn by a white horse and a black one drove up, and the undertaker climbed down and pressed the button below her name on the row of call bells at the entrance. She asked him what it meant. Thinking she was some inquiring stranger, the undertaker told her that he was bringing home the body of a man who had died on a train near the city whence she had just come and that the undertaker who had taken charge of the body had forwarded it in compliance with the dying man's request. In a daze the woman asked the dead man's name. Then she fell fainting to the floor. It was her husband.—New York Press.

JUSTICE IN HAITI.

Why a Trader Was Consigned to Jail by a Magistrate.

In most lands that maintain a court of justice the institution commands the respect of the public. It has in its hands the means of securing an outward show of respect under any circumstances. In Haiti this power appears to be made a source of revenue, according to a story told by H. Prichard in "Where Black Rules White."

A Haitian owed a trader $28. A judgment requiring the Haitian to pay $4 a week into court was given, and the trader agreed to send a messenger to the magistrate every week for the money.

In due time he sent for the first installment and was informed that the Haitian had not paid up, but that he should be put in prison for his failure.

Three weeks passed with the same result. One morning the Haitian went to the trader's store. What good, he asked, would come to the trader if he, poor man, were thrown into prison? Let the trader forgive him his debt and earn thereby untold rewards in a future state.

After some talk the trader gave him a letter of remission, which he went off to present to the magistrate. The affair was settled, but the Haitian was struck by the bad grace with which the magistrate dismissed him.

He forthwith returned to the trader and asked him if he had received the $8 already paid into court. The trader looked surprised and said that he had received nothing.

"Then, since you have remitted the debt, that $8 is mine," said the Haitian.

Accordingly he went to the court to present his claim. The magistrate at once committed him to prison. A consul who had heard the story asked the magistrate what the man was sent to prison for.

"For contempt of court," was the reply.

Where Tipping Is Tabooed.

It may be interesting to mention that it is neither customary nor advisable to give tips anywhere west of the Sierra Madres. I did it on two occasions and in both cases learned to my regret that the waiters became so familiar with the guests and slack in their services both to myself and others that they were discharged from their employment by the Mexican proprietor, whose watchful eye discovered the lax attention pretty quickly and without complaint from the visitors. I felt very uncomfortable about it, for my intended kindness was in both instances the root of the trouble.—Outing Magazine.

What It Looks Like.

Little Elsie, aged three, who was walking in the garden with her nurse one evening, caught sight of the thin crescent of the new moon hanging low in the west and exclaimed in great excitement: "Oh, look, look, nursie! The moon's all gone away and there isn't anything left but just its skin!"—Delineator.

A MEAL WITH A MOOR

The Repast Began With Green Tea Served In Glasses.

FOOD EATEN WITH FINGERS.

Table Manners In a Moorish Gentleman's House—A Particular Mark of Favor by the Host to His Guests That Is Not Always Appreciated.

During my stay in Fez I took every opportunity of gaining a closer insight into the domestic life of the inhabitants, and for that reason, writes Lawrence Harris in the London Graphic, I heartily accepted an invitation to dine with Abdullah el Fasi, the minister for foreign affairs.

On arriving at his home I was ushered into a large room in which were seated five or six guests of high rank. Abdullah took me by the hand and gravely introduced me to the company. A silken cushion was placed on the divan, upon which I seated myself.

The repast commenced with green tea served in small glasses. The custom of preparing this is peculiar to the country. To the principal native guest is given the honor of making the tea. In this case it was Raisuli, who, being under British protection, had been invited to dinner in my honor. He accepted the invitation to do the honors of the evening and ordered the negress to place the native brass tray in front of where he sat cross legged on the divan. The methods of proceeding are not such as would recommend themselves to an English tea party.

Measuring out the tea in his hand, he dropped it in the pot. The negress slave then poured boiling water over it. This was swilled around and the water poured off. The pot was then filled with huge lumps of loaf sugar, broken roughly from a sugar loaf, and a little mint was added. A small quantity of the concoction was poured into a glass, sipped and poured back again into the pot. This process was continued until the required delicacy of flavor was reached.

The company then drank the customary three glasses of this sirupy mixture, drawing it through their teeth with a sound like a horse drinking. As each glass was finished and replaced in the tray it was refilled and handed back by the "keeper of the pot," who was supposed to remember to whom each glass belonged. At a sign from the host the tray was removed, and another slave approached each person with a brass bowl, soap and towel and a bronze kettle of warm water. The guests washed their right hands preparatory to the dinner.

We all sat around a small table about six inches high, upon which was placed the dish. The courses were many and varied. As says the Hadith, "The blessing of God rests on the food taken with the fingers," so all good Mohammedans follow the words of their prophet. No knife must be used on bread, and the small round loaves are broken up and handed around. The tajin, or stew, is not difficult to manipulate, although the olives floating in argon oil slip through your fingers. Miniature tugs of war occur with your vis-a-vis in the effort to dismember a fowl or divide tough meat.

As a particular mark of favor the host will from time to time place before you a little titbit which he has torn off with his greasy fingers. However your stomach rebels against it, you have to swallow the morsel. During the meal the national dish of couscous is invariably served. This dish is made from broken grains of wheat specially prepared by the women. It is served piled up like a huge cone, with the meat on top. Each person scoops out his own little hole in the side and must not trespass on his neighbor's portion.

To the inexperienced it is difficult to manage the couscous without making an awful mess of it. The small grain must be judiciously compressed into a loose ball and then shot into the mouth with the back of the thumb. The Moors take extreme delight in watching the ineffectual efforts of Europeans who are in difficulties with their couscous. Moors are very great eaters, and little conversation is carried on during the meal. A bowl of water is passed from hand to hand for those who require drink. The last course finished, the bowl and water are once more requisitioned and the hands and mouth washed.

The Poor Man's Gym.

"Would you mind telling me," asked Mrs. Bourdalot, glancing admiringly at the athletic shoulders of the prospective boarder, "how do you keep in such splendid physical condition?"

"I go through a few gymnastic exercises every morning," confessed the young man, flushing.

"Well, I'm sorry, but we can't board you. I've had the bathroom monopolized that way before."—Kansas City Times.

One "Take this" is better than ten "God bless yous."—German Proverb.

A SILLY TOY.

The Way the Toothbrush Was at First Regarded.

Colonial diaries and letters make it plain that our unfortunate ancestors suffered much from jumping toothaches, swelled faces and the early loss or forcible extraction of teeth which at a later period might have been saved to render their owners many years of further service. No wonder, since the care of the teeth was little understood, and that little often but negligently practiced.

Toothpicks were known; the toothbrush was not, although rough substitutes were employed, made of flattened sticks, split and pounded at one end to a stiff, fibrous fringe. Toothbrushes when first introduced were regarded as by no means important accessories to the toilet, but rather as minor luxuries and suitable for women only.

The diary of a London merchant trading to the colonies has this entry:

"Bought a Toothbrush for my wife, which, used together with salte water, very strong, and a wasshe of Herbs, she is told will keep her Teethe from falling out or getting hollowe. The salte and Herbes may well prove strengthening to her Gummes wch. are tender, but for the brush it seemes but a silly Toy, hardly like to ware the worth of its price and scarce cleanley save when new. But she must have it, being a new thing late from France."

In the famous collection of the letters of the Verney family, as well, the toothbrush is referred to as "an elegant trifle, now used by the ladies of Paris."

But when Sally Annis, a colonial belle, wrote of it to her sister she had, like the London merchant's wife, good hopes of its proving of more than trifling value. Her seafaring father had just brought her one, along with other gifts.

"Besides these, and ye smalle combe, he brt. me a new mouth-brush made of eyvory," she wrote, "the back parte inlayed very pretty with silver: and ye brissles long and stiffe and sett very firme: wch he is assured will help me of my Tooth Akes: wch. you will guess deer Judy I do pray it may."—Youth's Companion.

FOR THE HOUSEWIFE.

Melted butter will not make a good cake.

Veal should be white, dry and close grained.

The colder eggs are the quicker they will froth.

To make good pastry the ingredients must be ice cold.

Nutmegs should be grated at the blossom end first.

A brush dipped in salt water should be used in cleaning bamboo furniture.

Good macaroni is of a yellowish tint, does not break readily in cooking and swells to two or three times its bulk.

A simple and very efficient disinfectant to pour down a sink is a small quantity of charcoal mixed with water.

Warm bread and cake should be cut with a knife the blade of which has been heated by standing it in boiling water.

Mica Mining.

Mica mining is one of the greatest industries in North Carolina. Mica is found in all sorts of blocks of various thicknesses and shapes and can be split and resplit almost ad infinitum or until it becomes the thin, flexible wafer of commerce. The material is by nature imbedded or scattered through the feldspar in masses large or small, close together or far apart, and is blasted from the rocks by means of dynamite, the purer veins being found between walls of slate. From the mines it is taken to the shops, where it is split into thin sheets, trimmed into regular forms and made ready for the market, the price varying with the size and color of the sheets. The average size is about 4 by 6, though rare sheets of 24 by 18 inches are sometimes found.

Napoleon's Bad Handwriting.

M. Houssaye attributes the muddle over orders at Waterloo to Napoleon's execrable handwriting. This was the opinion of the writing master of Alexandre Dumas: "The emperor never lost a battle except by his bad writing. His officers could never make out what he meant. Remember this, Alexandre, and make your down strokes heavy and your up strokes light." Grouchy declares that during the battle of Waterloo he could not make out whether Napoleon wrote "bataille gagnee" or "bataille engagee," and he conjecturally read "battle gained."—Andrew Lang in London Post.

The Freaks of Fate.

Here is a unique memorial notice from a Georgia exchange:

"Once he was nearly swallowed by an earthquake and shortly afterward was blown nearly a quarter of a mile by a hurricane, but he triumphed over all these afflictions, only to be kicked out of life by a mule that had a mortgage on it and was blind in one eye."—Atlanta Constitution.

Other Objections.

"Gladly would I die for you!"

Her look of hauteur was maintained despite this plea.

"You are in error," she replied coldly, "if you think the color of your hair constitutes my chief objection to you."

The good night was brief and soon.—Philadelphia Ledger.

AN OLD-TIME PRESCRIPTION

is a modern product. From time immemorial sage and sulphur have been used for the hair and scalp. Almost every one knows of the value of such a combination for darkening the hair and making it grow. In olden times the only way to get a hair tonic of this sort was to brew it in the home fireplace, a method which was troublesome and not always satisfactory. Nowadays almost every up-to-date druggist can supply his patrons with a ready to use product, skillfully compounded in perfectly equipped laboratories. Such a preparation is Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur, which is sold by all leading druggists for 50c. and $1.00 a bottle, or which is sent direct by the Wyeth Chemical Company, 74 Cortlandt St., New York City, upon receipt of price.

BRIEFS

James L. Rand of Wollaston has been elected recording secretary of the Massachusetts Sunday School association.

Charles H. Johnson gives his lecture on Historic Quincy tonight for the benefit of St. Paul's Swedish M. E. church.

Rev. Peter McQueen of Boston, the well known lecturer, is to address the Old Colony club of Weymouth tomorrow afternoon.

Cards having a large picture of Walter F. Nichols, the Republican candidate for Mayor, were hung in the store windows on Wednesday.

There was a little flurry of snow at 8 o'clock this morning and for a few minutes it looked as though a snow storm was coming.

The Woman's Guild of St. Chrysostom's church is holding a bazaar this afternoon and evening in the Parish rooms.

One of the large social events of the winter is the annual assembly which will be held this year the night after Thanksgiving and open Quincy's social season.

F. H. Dunstan who is with Bain Brothers, wholesale grocers of Boston, has been promoted from the shipping room to assistant superintendent in the packing department.

The No-License League has reorganized with the same officers as last year ,and the plan of campaign will be the same. Sunday Dec. 5, will be No-License Sunday with special addresses at most of the churches in the morning and a grand rally at Quincy Music hall in the evening.

The post office authorities are looking for a new location for the post office at Atlantic. The office is now located in the Sagamore block near the depot, but the room is much too small and larger quarters are needed. It is desired that the post office should remain in the vicinity of the depot and a new location in that vicinity is being sought.

Councilman Gilson and the City Engineer have a fine day in which to perambulate the boundary line between Quincy and Braintree. The air is just cool enough to make tramping through the woods enjoyable. Then again the leaves on the trees have taken on their autumn tints so that the trip will be in the nature of a fall outing. They are accompanied by the Selectmen of Braintree.

PRETTY WEDDING

Wollaston Bride and Iowa Groom

The home of Mr. and Mrs. S. F. Barker of Farrington street, Wollaston, was the scene of a very pretty wedding on Wednesday evening, when their daughter, Edith Foster Barker, became the bride of Mr. Fred Austin of Waterloo, Iowa.

The ceremony was performed by the Rev. Joseph Walther of the Wollaston Baptist church, the wedding march being played by George Gray of Dover, New Hampshire. Following the wedding, a reception was held by the happy couple, assisted by the parents of the bride. Nearly one hundred guests attended, many being present from Boston, Roxbury, Braintree, Worcester and New Hampshire.

Yellow and white chrysanthemums formed the scheme of decoration. A large number of gifts were on display including many beautiful pieces of cut glass and silverware.

After a wedding trip Mr. and Mrs. Austin will make their home in Waterloo, Iowa. Mrs. Austin is well known in Wollaston and Quincy social circles and her many friends wish her the best of success and happiness in her new home.

Among the guests present were: Mrs. Edward Gowen Miss Gertrude Gowen, Miss Ruth Gray, Mr. George Gray, all of Dover, N. H.; Mr. and Mrs. Charles Barker, Miss Mabel Barker, Mrs. Harriet Barker of Newport Junction, N. H. Mrs. Frank M. Wetherel of Worcester, Mrs. R. Duncan of Woburn Mr. Charles Phelps and Miss Irene Phelps of Cambridge.

Giving the Bride a Tip.

"Here's a little pointer for you," said the bride of last year to the bride of this year. "I'll tell you my own experience, and you can judge for yourself what to do. When we returned from our wedding trip and I began to rummake through George's belongings I found six or seven pairs of gloves and at least nine pairs of silk hose, things that he had never had on. They had been tucked away in all sorts of places. Most of them I at once recognized as presents I had given to him from time to time. Besides them, I found a lot of handkerchiefs still unused, handkerchiefs that I had embroidered his initial on with my own hands.

"What do you suppose I did? Foolishly I gathered them all together and spread them out on the bed where he would see them when he came home and feel ashamed of himself for never using my presents. Just think what a lack of forethought I showed! Consider what a saving of pin money it would have been if I had put the things away and then doled them out to him for Christmas presents or birthday presents one by one. It would have served him exactly right too."—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

Are You a Beggar?

All the beggars are not holding out a hand to passersby in the street. You probably know the man who is ever whining for help. If a farmer, he thinks his neighbors should help him get in his grain or do his plowing. If in business, he is always trying to borrow or wanting some one to boost him or drum up customers. He never seems to think of relying on his own efforts. There is a well known fable about the larks in a grainfield. As long as the farmer depended on his neighbors and relations to come and cut his grain the larks felt perfectly safe. When the man determined to cut the grain himself the larks knew it was time to seek safety elsewhere.

There are times when every one needs help, but help should be asked only when one has made every possible effort for himself.

Too much help given a man weakens his character.—Milwaukee Journal.

A Quiet Rebuke.

An "object admonition" like the one described by Warren Lee Goss in his article, "Campaigning to No Purpose," published in Johnson's "Battles and Leaders of the Civil War," is often more efficacious than storms of reproach.

One day the colonel of the regiment noticed a soldier on parade wearing a badly soiled pair of gloves.

"Corporal," said the officer, "why do you set the men such a bad example as appearing before them in dirty gloves? Why is it?"

"I've had no pay, sir, since I entered the service," returned the corporal. "I can't afford to have them done up."

The colonel drew from his pocket a pair of gloves, spotlessly white. Handing them to the corporal, he said quietly: "Put these on. I washed them myself."

It was an unforgotten lesson to the whole regiment.

Aunt Jane—"Them new neighbors o' yourn look poorer than church mice."

Mrs. Jones—"Yes. That is our minister's family."—Judge.

FINES OF FIVE DOLLARS

For Several Track Walkers at South Quincy

Many complaints have been received by the Police department of damage done to railroad property along the Granite branch. Not only has property been destroyed, but it is claimed that some of the crowd that use the railroad for a highway have even gone so far as to place a hand car on the tracks, and run it back and forth, thus creating a source of danger in case a train should happen to pass. Determined to put a stop to the practice, and break up the gang, Officer Farrell was detailed to watch the tracks and summons the parties into court. Officer Farrell did his work well, and as a result fourteen young fellows were summoned into court this morning on a complaint charging them with track walking. The court imposed a fine of $5 on each of the men, but suspended their sentence until Feb. 26.

SECRETARY DUNCAN

To Represent Barre Granite Cutters During Lockout

Reports from Barre, Vt., are that the situation in the granite lockout is unchanged so far as actual steps toward a movement for settlement is concerned. Secretary Duncan is away at the present time, and it is not thought much will be done until he returns.

It is reported that the matter has been referred to him, but that he will not go to Barre, Vt., to make an investigation but will handle it from the Quincy offices of the association.

Secretary Duncan's absence may lengthen the suspension for several weeks. The members of the Barre union have appointed a lockout committee, who will have general charge of the affairs of the union.

The lockout has not effected the operation of the quarries yet, but should the trouble continue they will have to close down for lack of orders. It is understood that outside work is all that is keeping them busy now, and that they are nearly caught up with the work.

It is said that many of the cutters are already leaving the city, either for other granite centers or for their homes in Europe, where they will spend the winter. A prolonged suspension of business will work a great injury to Barre as work will go elsewhere.

ACTIVITIES AT Y. M. C. A.

Extension Clubs at South Quincy and Wollaston

The activities of the Boys' department of the Quincy Young Men's Christian association are more numerous than ever. The extension clubs are one of the big attractions.

Wednesday evening at the South Quincy club a banquet was held for the members, and one of the most enjoyable evenings ever planned was enjoyed. The ladies of the church prepared the supper and three rousing cheers were given by the boys for the ladies. Rev. Mr. J. A. Matheson spoke after which a debate: "Resolved that Napoleon was a greater man than Washington." The speakers on affirmative side were Charles Bishop and Everett Clark. Negative side, Alex. Robertson and Walter Morrison. The debate was handled exceptionally well by both sides and after a lengthy consideration by the judges was decided in the negative favor.

Tonight the Wollaston club have a banquet at which James Taylor of Chelsea will be the speaker.

A big time is anticipated. Tomorrow night when the College club will have its weekly meeting at the association building.

Saturday morning the regular meeting for younger boys.

☞ Is there a boy in the city who wants to earn a bright five dollar gold piece? The boy selling the most Ledgers between now and New Years will be awarded five dollars in gold, beside earning good commissions each day on the papers sold. The contest is open to any boy commencing Nov. 15 and ending Jan. 1, 1910.

Ancient Greek Training.

The manner in which the Athenians brought up their children is worth remembering. At seven years of age the Athenian lad entered the palestra, which was essentially a playground. All the first and better half of the day was spent in gymnastics, dancing, games and play. In the afternoon there were singing, some writing, some reading, all in the open air, and then came a long period of play again. Such was the schooling of the Greek lad up to the age of ten or eleven, and it did not differ essentially up to the age of sixteen, except in the severity of the exercises. And yet the world has not ceased to marvel at the results of the Greek education. It produced the highest type of man, physically and intellectually, that the world has ever seen, which Galton says was as far in advance of the modern Englishman as the modern Englishman is in advance of the native African. In physical beauty, courage and patriotism, in philosophy, literature, architecture and art, the Greeks have been the unsurpassed models of the ages and are still the inspiration of our schools today. But they placed the emphasis upon hygiene, exercise, games and play, which are too much neglected in these days.—Kansas City Star.

Geographical Knowledge In 1492.

But very little was known in regard to the extent of the world in Aristotle's day, in the fourth century before Christ, and but very little more was known about it 1,800 years later, in the time of Columbus. In 2,000 years the world had in reality retrograded rather than advanced. It was the popular belief in the time of Columbus that the world was flat, though many contemporary scholars thought differently. The great civilizations of the world at that time were grouped around the Mediterranean sea, although England was a considerable power and the Scandinavians were a great maritime people. But Europeans at that time knew but little of Asia and but little of Africa, and America, of course, was undreamed of. Even after Columbus had discovered the latter continent he was perfectly oblivious of the fact. He thought Haiti was Cipango or Japan and for a long time regarded Cuba as a part of the mainland of Asia.

A Famous All Potato Banquet.

One of the most remarkable menus ever drawn up must have been that of the feast in Paris to which Benjamin Franklin, Lavoisier, the founder of modern chemistry, and other distinguished men sat down as guests of Parmentier. Every dish at this banquet was made of potatoes, and even the brandy and liqueurs were the product of the same vegetable. This was Parmentier's final proof to his skeptical fellow countrymen that potatoes were not poison, as they persisted in believing. Louis XVI. himself was one of Parmentier's earliest converts, granted him land on which to grow his plants and did not disdain to wear the potato flower as a buttonhole. Then Parmentier cleverly posted guards round his potato fields by day and withdrew them by night, so that people were tempted to come then, steal, eat and be convinced. The all potato banquet was the climax of the great campaign.—Chicago News.

Horses In Pantaloons.

"Equine sunbonnets are very well," said a veterinary, "but what would you say to equine trousers? You'll see them in Guayaquil. There the mosquitoes and greenhead flies are so thick that horses and donkeys, unless their legs are cased in cloth, become unmanageable with the pain. Guayaquil is in Ecuador. It is directly under the equator. The heat there is insufferable. Up and down its narrow and foul smelling streets in bluish clouds of buzzing insects walk horses and donkeys in sunbonnets and pantaloons."—New Orleans Times-Democrat.

No Accent.

Many stories are told of a former Canadian bishop who had passed his youth in Scotland, but flattered himself that not a hint of his origin could be gained from his speech or manner.

One day he met a Scotchman, to whom he said at last abruptly, "Hoo lang hae ye been here?"

"Aboot sax years," was the reply.

"Hoot, mon!" said the bishop sharply. "Why hae ye na lost yer accent, like mysel'?"

It Didn't Work.

"I haven't anything fit to wear," she said.

"Neither have I," he replied. "Let's stay at home."

Taken up thus, there was nothing for her to do but hurry and get ready.—Buffalo Express.

Time and Life.

What we call time is but a single sun ray thrown across the infinite void of eternity, and life is but a floating flicker or mote that vanishes even as it becomes visible thereon.—Exchange.

IN LINE FOR NICHOLS

Republican Leaders Endorse His Candidacy

Walter F. Nichols, the Republican candidate for Mayor, was tendered an informal reception Thursday evening at the rooms of the Republican City Committee in the Adams building. William M. Chase, chairman of the city committee, presided, and representative Republicans were present from every ward in the city. After an informal reception during which those present had an opportunity to greet the party candidate Mr. Chase spoke briefly. He said that no matter what might be said about Mr. Nichols no man was more familiar with the workings of our city government than was our candidate.

Mr. Nichols upon being presented was enthusiastically received. He said that the nomination was unsought by him. From his seven years' experience as a member of the City Council he felt thoroughly familiar with the needs of our city. He was a Republican and had always supported the Republican candidates for Mayor notwithstanding the stories put out by the enemy that he had not. One thing that had induced him to accept the nomination was the statement that had gone out from certain quarters that there was no man who could defeat our present executive, and that he could continue to be elected as long as he desired to run. He thought differently. It was his purpose to conduct a vigorous campaign from now on until election, and withal a clean campaign free from personalities. There were plenty of live issues upon which the campaign could be fought. It had been said that the present administration was non partisan but it was not. At a later day he proposed to place his platform clearly before the voters of the city, and from what he already knew he felt that the time was ripe for the election of a Republican. He believed that he could win the support of the people and he was prepared to act accordingly.

Ex-Mayor John O. Hall felt that there was a growing tendency among the Republicans to support their candidate. He felt that the issues of the day should be discussed. A non partisan, said Mr. Hall, is one opposed to the dormant party in Quincy, and as a rule an independent is a dissatisfied Democrat who desires to down the Democratic candidate. A few years ago the citizens went to the legislature and had the charter amended so that the board of Assessors should be a continuous board, but the present administration had made it possible for the Mayor to change the entire board every year. It was obligatory upon everyone who had received benefit from the Republican party to support its candidate, and he believed that they would do it and elect Mr. Nichols.

Ex-President Walter E. Piper said that while he was not a member of the present ward committee he was a Republican and always supported its candidate. He knew something about Ward Three and he felt that there was a growing feeling against the present Mayor and a desire to support the Republican candidate.

Albert T. Whitman of Quincy Point said the ward had been going Democratic, but he felt if all hustled the Democratic majority of last year could be whittled down.

Ex-Councilman Ferguson of West Quincy said he could not tell yet what his ward could do. There were but a small number of Republicans in the ward, but he felt that the ward would do as well by Mr. Nichols as any other ward considering the small Republican following, there was there.

Herbert Y. Follett, speaking for the Wollaston ward, said that the voters there were apt to take too much for hearsay. Ward Five likes to be on the winning side, and that was why the present Mayor had received the vote he did. Now, however, there was a feeling that a change was desirable. He felt that the ward would support Mr. Nichols and there was a growing feeling that a change was desirable. He believed in Mr. Nichols we had a man for whom no apology was needed,

UNIQUE PROGRAM

Fore River Draughtsmen Enjoy Annual Smoker

The third annual smoker of the draftsmen in the hull and engine departments of the Fore River Shipbuilding Co., was held Thursday evening at Colonial hall, and as usual was the occasion of a very enjoyable evening. The draughtsmen to the number of about sixty gathered at the hall at 8 o'clock and a few minutes later were seated about the festive board. On the platform was an orchestra composed of members of the drafting force, who with Prof Clarence Fouche at the piano furnished the musical accompaniment to the dinner.

The only guests were George Simpson foreman of the hull department room and Charles Fox foreman of the engine department room. The committee was L. B. Doane, S. T. Torrey and J. C. Wilson of the engine room, and B. G. Barnes, L. Brath and A. R. Kennedy of the hull room Mr. Doane presided and welcomed all to the third, and introduced the foremen Mr. Simpson and Mr. Fox, each of whom spoke briefly.

In addition, there were monologues of an original nature by Bert Spear, a song and dance by Charles Allen, songs by Harry Hudson, and coon songs by Chan Willis. Then there was chorus singing by the party, during the rendering of which the very rafters of the building seemed to shake. Everybody was out for a good time and they had it.

The menu of the dinner included chicken salad, potato salad, cold ham and tongue, celery, escalloped oysters, coffee, pretzels, fancy crackers and cheese.

A surprise was sprung on the crowd during the banquet by the rendition of "My Old Kentucky Home" and other popular selections, by one of the waiters, while serving the menu, the choruses of which were immediately caught up by the crowd and rendered with great effect.

After the regular program had been completed the individual talents of the party were brought out by yarns and songs, each of which received hearty applause.

The official program of the smoker was as usual unique, being a blue print of an original design made in pen and ink by W. Kolbig, one of the draughtsmen. On the first page was a group of flags, in the centre of which was the monogram letter "F.R. D.," beneath which was the announcement that it was the third annual smoker, the date and place. The ornamentation of the title page was a lyre and notes, and individual lunch tables. At the top of the second page was a picture of the North Dakota cutting through the water at full speed with the wireless waves going from her announcing that she was the queen of the seas and that her speed was 22.27 knots. Below were the names of the committee. The ornamentation of the page were pipes and steins, foul anchor and propellor.

The third and fourth pages contained the menu and program. This was a double page across the top being a water scene. In the foreground was the battleship North Dakota while near by were torpedo boat destroyers and a full rigged sailing vessel. The ornamentation of this page were two Turkish pipes, the smoke from which formed the words program and menu. That the program will be preserved as a valued souvenir of the occasion goes without saying.

BARRE AT STANDSTILL.

The Barre Daily Times says: "So far as the lockout of granite workers affects Barre, matters are at a standstill. There has been no move on the part of the manufacturers since the lockout was declared Monday night. With the workmen, there is nothing they can do but wait.

"As the matter stands, it is probable nothing will be done in Barre toward a resumption of work until the Northfield troubles are settled. The union there, having referred the matter to Secretary James Duncan, does not feel at liberty to take any action until he has been heard from.

SUCCESSFUL BAZAAR

Under Auspices of Guild of St. Chrysostom's

The bazaar under the auspices of the Woman's Guild of St. Chrysostom's church Thursday afternoon and evening in the rectory and parish rooms was a most successful affair. The different booths in the rectory were all attractively decorated. At the flower shop where potted plants and cut flowers were sold, was Mrs. Everett B. Goodrich; at the mysterious grabs was Mrs. Vernon S. Brokaw. The candles, jellies and canned goods were in charge of Mrs. John L. Hamilton, assisted by the officers of the Junior Auxiliary, Miss Muriel Wheelen president and Miss Kathleen Jones, secretary. At the stall for aprons were Mrs. Arthur Stanley, Mrs. Alice J. Bainbridge, Mrs. David Fulton and the Misses Clean. An attractive linen table was in charge of Miss Cook, Mrs. Theodore Parker and Mrs. George W. Hight. The table of Girls Friendly Society was in charge of Mrs. Howard D. Fowler, Miss Golding and Mrs. Herbert L. Packard, and on the table were bags and fancy boxes of all discriptions, fancy articles, neck wear, dolls, burnt wood etc.

Afternoon tea was served under the direction of Mrs. Otto Hoelscher and Miss Dorothy Bean. The ice cream was served by Miss Hattie Gurney. Mugs of root beer were served from an attractive table by Mrs. Percy L. Davidson.

The harvest supper was served from 6 to 8 in the parish rooms, Mrs. Daniel C. Miller chairman, and her able corps of assistants, Mrs. Spinney, Mrs. Richmond, Mrs. Parlee, Mrs Croucher, Mrs. Hennigar, Mrs Atkins, Mrs. Muir, Mrs. Walters, Mrs. Bean, Mrs. Poch, Mrs. Wheelen, Mrs. Whitney, Mrs. Schultz, Mrs. Coleman, Mrs. Orr and Miss Compton

UNITARIAN SOCIAL.

A supper and sociable was held in the vestry of the Wollaston Unitarian church on Thursday evening by the Ladies Aid Alliance. The tables were filled and all present enjoyed a well-cooked meal. Vocal solos by Mrs. Frank A. Page were enjoyed as were also duets by Mr. and Mrs. John Norrie.

Following is a list of the ladies serving: Mrs. William Chase, chairman; Mrs. George W. Bennett, Mrs. Charles T. Baker, Mrs. Charles H. Brigham, Mrs Adelaide Armstrong, Mrs. William H. Boynton, Mrs. Willis Clark, Mrs. Charles M. Bryant, Mrs. E. G. Howe, Mrs. Samuel Chapman, Mrs. William A. Burrell, Mrs. George B. Damon, Mrs. Henry Barnes Mrs. H. C. Briggs, Mrs. W. A. Bense, Mrs. Edward J. Cummings, Miss Iva Briggs and Miss Gladys Howe

BAPTIST ROLL CALL

Great Possibilities in Quincy Says One Speaker

The roll call at the Calvary Baptist church Thursday evening was the occasion of a very pleasant reunion of the members all of whom made a special effort to attend, about 100 in all.

The meeting opened with the Doxology, followed by scripture reading by the pastor, Rev. R. J. Davis, and a trio. The roll of members was then called and at its close the congregation sang, "When the roll is called up yonder."

Rev. Willard E .Waterbury, evangelist of the American Baptist Missionary society, was introduced and gave an interesting address, taking as his subject, "Hitherto," and dealing in the past history of the church.

The State secretary of American Baptist Missionary Society, Mr. E. Petalford, spoke of the possibilities of Quincy. He said in part, "there is a great field for work in this city of yours, great possibilities if only you can see them. But there are a number of people in the christian church who act on the principle, that not much more can be done, and they think how lovely it would be to have certain things transpire, but still raise no helping hand. What the church wants is not that kind of men and women but a man, or a woman, or a group of men, or a group of women, who have the ability to see the possibilities. Men and women who, when they have the ability to see possibilities, will say, 'We can do it, and we will.' Realizing a possibility to be God's own duty." He closed with the hope that every man and woman would get together and make their movement for expansion of their field of labor a successful one.

Rev. A. P. Hanson of the Swedish Baptist church gave the benediction, and the company enjoyed a social hour together, during which ice cream and cake were served.

It is said that Candidate Nichols is worrying over those Shea votes cast by Republicans and the large number of blanks, and that Candidate Shea was also surprised at the Democratic votes for Nichols and the large percentage of blanks.

It is not expected that the registration of voters in the year following a Presidential election will show an increase, but Quincy's total shows up well being only twelve less than last December. Truly Quincy is growing.

A movement to have public libraries open on Sundays for reading purposes seems to be growing in the larger towns and cities of the state. Melrose citizens have filed petitions recently with the board of aldermen and the matter is to be taken up with the library trustees. Many in Quincy who are busy through the week would like to use the library for reading and reference and the time may be ripe sometime to arrange for opening the library a few hours on Sunday afternoons.

Whatever may be the outcome of the Ballinger-Pinchot controversy the wide publicity which has been given it is certain to promote a more general interest in the conservation of the country's natural resources. An intelligent public discussion of ways and means for safeguarding coal, timber, public lands, water powers, etc., can not fail to be of service in the formulation of the government's policy for their preservation and use.

The President realizes that, with a divided party in Congress, it will be impossible for him to carry through the programme of legislative reforms which he will recommend in his message. He is particularly anxious to effect certain important changes in the government's control of interstate common carriers. Some of the old-line Republicans fear that an opening up of the railroad question may lead to radical legislation, and accordingly they are not enthusiastic for this feature of the President's programme. On the other hand certain of the Insurgents are fearful that if the transportation laws are amended the result will be an emasculation of the Hepburn act by which the common carriers will profit either through a relaxed or a divided government regulation. The country government regulation. The country will await with interest President Taft's handling of this situation.

In the next few months the Tariff Board which has been appointed by President Taft to make an investigation which will enable him intelligently to apply the maximum and minimum section of the Payne law will have its full share of responsibility. This Board is to ascertain the facts as to whether foreign countries are imposing undue discrimination against the products of the United States. Where such discrimination is found to exist the President has power to increase the tariff duties 25 per cent on March 31, 1910. It is to be hoped that the combined efforts of the tariff Board and the Diplomatic officers of the United States will result in promoting better trade relations with all the nations of the world. In some quarters it has been intimated that a trade war with Canada is possible. The people of the United States desire no commercial upheavel of this character. In many respects there is a common business interest between this country and the Dominion government. It would be most unfortunate to the commerce of both countries if anything like a trade war should come at this time.

DEBATE AT MEN'S CLUB

On Pursuit and Possession of an Object

The regular monthly meeting of the Men's club of the Wollaston Methodist church was held in the vestry on Thursday evening. The program took the form of a debate upon the subject: Resolved: that there is more pleasure in the pursuit than in the possession of a desired object. A. R. Blades and Simpson Kay spoke for the affirmative and J. A. Sedgwick and Herbert Cassidy for the negative.

Mr. Kay the first speaker attempted to prove that from the time of Adam and Eve up to the present day man was never satisfied with what he obtained possession of. "When Peary discovered the North Pole," said Mr. Kay, "what did he do? Why he turned it right over to Mr. Taft."

J. A. Sedgwick, for the negative, in a masterly speech took exception to the arguments of the previous speaker, and endeavored to show that the pleasure was not in the pursuit of a certain thing, which men sometimes had to go through trial and hardship to gain ,but in its possession after it had been fairly won. "It is only," he said, "in possession that the true pleasures of life are received."

A. R. Blades, for the affimative proved to be the star entertainer of the evening and besides establishing a lasting reputation as a humorist kept his audience in a continuous roar of merriment throughout the time allotted him. He took exception to nearly everything that had previously been said, and with anecdotes, both humorous and numerous, attempted to prove his point.

Herbert Cassidy, the last speaker for the negative, reviewed the whole question and summed up the merits of the argument.

Mr. Blades and Mrs. Sedgwick took the rebuttal, Mr. Sedgwick saying that pursuit is like a bird in the bush, always attempting but never accomplishing.

A. N. Murray acted as an "impartial" judge, and after fining some speakers a certain number of points for attempting to influence his decision, and awarding others for their "wisdom," finally declaring the result to be 10 points in favor of the affirmative and 29 against the negative, the affirmative winning by 39 points.

Volume one of the Wollaston Herald, the monthly organ of the club which will be read at each meeting, was presented by its editor-in-chief, Rev. Wesley Wiggin. It contained many hits on club members and articles of interest concerning the club.

After an earnest plea for a large no-license vote this year, by J. A. Sedgwick, the club adjourned, and an appetizing repast was served under the direction of A. B. Cassidy.

APPEAL FOR CHARITY

Overseer of Poor Would Swell Johnson Fund

On December 14, 1887, one of our kind hearted citizens, Cotton Centre Johnson, bequeathed unto the Town of Quincy, $2,000, the same to be permanently invested, and the interest, income and profit thereof, to be annually expended under the direction of the Selectmen of Quincy in the purchase of poultry and goods, the same to be given and distributed among the poor people and needy families of Quincy, on or before the usual Thanksgiving of each year, to the end that the poor people and needy families may have and enjoy a good and substantial dinner on that accustomed day.

When this money was bequeathed to the Town of Quincy we had a population of about 16,000 and it is safe to say that we have now more than 32,000. Last year 78 families, or about 300 people in all ,were taken care of. In addition to furnishing a turkey or chicken, potatoes, turnip and celery was put into each basket.

This year the income from the Johnson fund amounts to $81.00, and I therefore make an appeal to the charitable people of the city of Quincy to contribute something towards making these poor people happy. On Thanksgiving Day, when the most of us are sitting down to our dinner, we do not want to feel that any poor family is suffering for something to eat. Any offering will be thankfully received and used to good advantage by the Overseer of the Poor.

LOCK-PAW IS IT CURABLE?

Many Cases Have Been Cured at Hospital

Cases of lock-paw are among the hardest presented for treatment but a goodly number of cures or benefits are among the many trophies to be credited to our City Hospital. Lock-paw is usually hereditary, but yet it is often contracted in some unexplainable way and, unless relieved, is likely to become chronic, thereby making the sufferer a burden to himself and a lamentable influence in the community.

In its mild form the malady is first noted by the patient's inability to release his grip from a cent. The corrosion following a long-continued idleness of the coin is absorbed by the system and the insidious poison causes the muscles to contract more and more to the extent that often some kind of benevolent surgery or internal treatment must be resorted to.

Our Hospital has succeeded so well in this line that many cases have been cured and the open glad hand shows no symptoms of a tetanous condition even in the presence of a $100 bill. Dynamite has sometimes been tried, but as the real seat of the remedy is the heart, better success attends the use of some softening drops, thereby avoiding a financial shock.

The normal heart (such as throbbed in the breast of one of old who saw the giving of the widow's mite) pulsated with sympathy in the presence of suffering, need and opportunity for well doing, and so all danger of lock-paw is excluded. Our Hospital makes a specialty of lock-paw cases and uses a drawing plaster with great success when dynamite surgery, drops, etc. have failed to release the contracted paw muscles.

Once relieved, it is noticed that said muscles ever afterwards work very freely in the presence of copper, nickel, silver bills and even checks. All institutions and philanthropies are indebted to Our Hospital for its intelligent and successful treatment of lock-paw and all suffering from the malady are advised to take a treatment. Greet the hospital collector with open hand and avoid Lock-Paw.

VISITING NURSE IN SCHOOLS.

Arrangements have been made by the Visiting Nurse committee of the Quincy Women's club, of which Mrs. Williams Ward Whitcher is chairman to have the Visiting Nurse look after cases in the public schools. The present nurse is willing and glad to give her spare time to the work, and will visit the homes of sick pupils and care for the patient and also instruct parents in the care of the case.

NEW STREET LIGHTS.

Mayor Shea has contracted with the Electric Light Co. for 42 additional street lights. Quite a few of these have already been installed and the balance will be put in by the Electric Light Co., as fast as the orders are received. Additional lights have been installed on Smith and Filbert streets, Brooks avenue, Nightingale avenue, Dysart street, Bay View avenue, Maple street, Sea street, Souther place, Beach street and Holmes street.

FIVE THINGS TO WATCH

Words, Actions, Thoughts, Character and Hearts

Thursday evening was a gala night for the members of the Wollaston Boys club, conducted by the Y. M. C. A., when about 65 sat down to a bountiful dinner served by the Ladies Auxiliary in the chapel of the Wollaston Baptist church. The repast was devoured with great gusto, and the appreciation of the boys was shown in the three rousing cheers which were given the ladies assisting.

Edward Bullock acted as toastmaster in a very able manner and the blessing was asked by Rev. Joseph Walther pastor of the church. Watch your words, watch your actions, watch your thoughts, watch your character ,and watch your heart, said Mr. Taylor.

Preparations are being made by the members of the club to furnish several families with a Thanksgiving dinner. Owing to the holiday next Thursday the next meeting which will be physical night will be postponed until one week from that date.

Following are the ladies that served; Mrs. Albert Rhodes, Mrs. David Goodspeed, Miss Carol E. Bates, Mrs. Edward Smith, Mrs. Charles Goodspeed, Mrs Harvey Black and Mrs. D. W. Wade.

Remarks were made by Rev. Edward A. Chase of the Congregational church and Lester H. Clee of the Y. M. C. A., who has the supervision of the club.

The speaker of the evening was James Taylor of the Chelsea Y. M. C. A., who was prominently indentified with the recent clock campaign for raising funds there. He took for his subject the word "Watch." Each of the five letters he said, stands as the initial letter of a certain thing you must watch.

DES MOINES AT PORT.

The U. S. S. Des Moines, which arrived in Port Limon today, to remain pending further developments in the Nicaraguarn situation, is a Fore River built boat and has on board several Quincy boys. The cruiser left Boston last August and until Thursday was at Colon about 150 miles from Port Limon. She was sent to the Republic under full steam and will keep in touch with the state department by wireless until matters clear somewhat.

Boys wanted to sell the Quincy Daily Ledger each day at 3.30 P. M. A good chance to earn money for Christmas. Boys will receive one cent for every paper they sell the week of Nov. 22—27. A prize of $5 in gold will also be given the boy who sells the most papers between now and New Years.

REPUBLICANS

and there was no question but what the ward would give him generous support.

Ex-Councilman Herbert S. Barker said that he was an old-line hard shell-Republican. There are fourteen men here from Ward Six and they are all hustlers, and the ward would give the party candidate good support.

Ex-Representative Frank E. Badger said Quincy is Republican but there had been a feeling that a change was desirable and a Democrat had been elected. He believed this year that the Republicans were coming back where they belong. We intend to see to it that the voters are got out.

Ex-Councilman John E. Poland said that things looked hopeful in his section of the city, and he believed Mr. Nichols would win.

Representative W. R. Thomas said all that was needed was to hustle. He did not mean by that hot air, but that the candidate should get out among the people and see and talk to the voters, and get acquainted with them.

Representative Langelier said he number present tonight from Atlantic showed that there was some enthusiasm in that ward, and that they would all hustle for Mr. Nichols..

Ex-Chief Engineer. A. L. Litchfield said, from what he could see and hear in South Quincy, he did not see how Mr. Nichols could lose.

Candidate Nichols then spoke briefly of some of the issues. He said that he had received much encouragement from what had been said, and appreciated it. He intended to go into every ward of the city and meet some of the business men. He invited the support of all the tax-payers of the city, and, if elected, he would give an impartial administration. All contracts of the city should be thoroughly advertised and the contract given to the lowest bidder. All persons who sell supplies to the city should be treated alike. The time has come for a more conservative administration of our city affairs. The tax rate should be reduced and some regard had for the future. He believed this possible, and unless the present policy of the administration is changed the tax would go even higher than at present. He was satisfied that there was not sufficient publicity. The Water department needs reorganizing, and put on a business basis. If we buy water by the gallon we should sell it by the gallon ,and every gallon should be accounted for.

Mr. Nichols believed that the present administration was rather backward about handling the question. Although the state required it, not a cent had been appropriated for meters this year. If Water department was on a business basis it might be possible to reduce the rates. An effort of the Council to appropriate money for meters was not approved by the administration. He believed that the present administration at City Hall was a political machine. The policy of the administration has been to increase the debt, and more money has been appropriated than should be and he had failed to find where the Mayor had exercised his veto power on appropriations.

GUESTS FROM CAMPELLO.

The Young People's society of the Swedish Lutheran church had a visit from the Young People's Society of Campello, Thursday evening. The program was rendered chiefly by the visitors, who numbered 30 in all, including piano solo by Miss Ruth Murray; dialogue by Esther Viden, Cecilia Nelson and Lillian Carlson; duet by Esther Anderson and Ella Nordberg; piano solo by Miss Esther Anderson; declamation of Gustaf Malmberg; quartet by Alida Johnson, Thea Johnson, Esther Anderson and Ella Nordberg; declamation by Esther Lydeen; solo by Miss Alida Johnson; a piano duet by Ellen Nordberg and Esther Anderson; duet by Alida Johnson and Thea Johnson; a solo by Miss Nordberg, and last but not least a speech by Rev. J. A. Anderson of Campello. After the program candy was served and every one proceeded to C. F. Carlson's store where coffee and cake were served The visitors took the 11.23 train for home.

THE YOUNG WOMEN'S CLUB.

As there has been such an unexpected number of applications for membership in this new department of the Quincy Women's club, it is probable that before the next club meeting, Saturday, Nov. 27, the list will reach 200, and no more can be admitted this season. The classes are too large already, unless more volunteer teachers can be secured.

TODAY'S COURT.

Rose Fay and Mary Fay were charged by Mrs. Taylor for allowing fowl to trespass on her property. Their cases were continued until Nov. 27.

Oswald H. Hils was fined $10 for exceeding the automobile speed limit at Milton.

Thomas Martin was fined the costs amounting to $2 for drunkenness at Weymouth.

OF PUBLIC INTEREST.

A FIRM FRIEND.

Editor of the Ledger:

Having recently been an inmate of the Quincy Hospital, where I underwent a dangerous operation, and as I believe was "watched from the jaws of death" only by the faithful care and attention I received there, I would feel ungrateful if I did not improve every opportunity to say a good word for the hospital, and to urge every one to give as liberally towards the support of this noble institution as their means will allow. I shall never forget the faithful kind attention I received at the hands of every one connected with the hospital.

T. F. Merrill.

Y. M. C. A. THANKS.

Editor of Qincy Daily Ledger:

Notwithstanding the fact the Quincy Y. M. C. A. deeply appreciates the splendid generosity of citizens and others who accomplished the raising of the fund, and purposed to give every person due recognition—it appears that a few names permissable for printing were omitted from published lists.

The compiling was necessarily done in haste, and in absence of definite knowledge it had to be assumed that some names were wrongly classified with the restricted list—which in some cases included names represented by friends who were uncertain as to liberty to publish.

Our cup was filled and running over (not more than is needed however) and in behalf of directors and all concerned we wish to again express our appreciation and reiterate our thanks to all.

Richard D. Chase,
President.

LAND COURT

To Elizabeth Hardy of Hyde Park, Abner Lincoln Baker, H. Frances Pease, Charles W. Pease and Emily T. Turner of Quincy, Alvin R. Sanford, of Milton, in the County of Norfolk, and said Commonwealth; Mary E. Horneman, Charlotte Noltra or Becker and William E. Harmon, Trustee, of Boston in the County of Suffolk, and said Commonwealth; Elhanan J. Williams of Waltham, in the County of Middlesex ,and said Commonwealth; Leon E. Brown of New York, in the County and State of New York; and to all whom it may concern:

Whereas ,a petition has been presented to said Court by Marion A. Wilson of said Boston, to register and confirm her title in the following described land:

Two certain parcels of land situate in said Quincy, bounded as follows:

Parcel No. 1, bounded Northerly by Quincy Shore Reservation, Metropolitan Park Commission 681 98-100 feet; Easterly by a curved line on land of said Commission 23 13-100 feet; Southerly, Southwesterly and Westerly on a private way called the Strand 789.99 feet and containing 1.538 acres of land.

Parcel No. 2, bounded Northerly by Quincy Shore Reservation, Metropolitan Park Commission 164.6 feet; Southerly by curved line on a private way, called The Strand, 167.78 feet and containing 1670 square feet of land.

Petitioner claims as appurtenant to the above described land the use of the Strand in common with others bounding thereon.

The above described land is shown on a plan filed with said petition, and all boundary lines are claimed to be located on the ground as shown on said plan.

You are hereby cited to appear at the Land Court to be held at Boston, in the County of Suffolk, on the thirteenth day of December A. D. 1909, at ten o'clock in the forenoon, to show cause, if any you have, why the prayer of said petition should not be granted. And unless you appear at said Court at the time and place aforesaid your default will be recorded, and the said petition will be taken as confessed, and you will be forever barred from contesting said petition or any decree entered thereon.

Witness, Charles Thornton Davis, Esquire, Judge of said Court, this seventeenth day of November in the year nineteen hundred and nine.

Attest with Seal of said Court.

IN THE LODGE ROOM

Behind the Wicket

The Henry H. Faxon Memorial lodge of the International Order of Good Templars, held a public meeting and installation of its officers on Wednesday evening in Poland's hall Norfolk Downs. It was attended by a large crowd, every seat being taken and some had to stand. The following officers were installed by the lodge deputy Mr. George A. Rumpf and his staff of officers:

Chief Templar—Arthur R. Poquett.
Vice Templar— Miss May E. Young.
Past Chief Templar—Miss Helen Grant, Holbrook.
Recording Secretary—Miss Marion M. Moffatt.
Financial Secretary—Miss Lillian Adams.
Treasurer—John F. Sutherburg.
Registrar—Miss Annie McCarty.
Chaplain—Mrs. John F. Sutherburg.
Marshall—Miss Marion Adams.
Deputy Marshall—Miss Nancy McCule.
Pianist—Miss Marguerite Louise Holbrook.
Guard—Mr. Allan Patterson.
Sentinel—Miss Eldeine Young.
Superintendent Juvenile Work—Mrs. T. L. Spinney.

The installation was followed with the following program: Piano solo by Clifton Fratus, song Mr. George A. Rumpf, remarks by Rev. Mr. Wiggin of Wollaston and Mr. Rumpf, piano duet by Marguerite Louise Holbrook and Eldeine Young, song by H. O. Cassidy, piano solo by Fred Schomburg, monologue by Mr. Rumpf and piano solo by Marguerite Louise Holbrook, Remarks by Mr. Cassidy.

Cocoa and cake were served after the entertainment.

A largely attended meeting of Maple lodge, Knights and Ladies of Honor, was held Wednesday evening at Protection hall. In addition to a large number of visitors from lodges in the immediate vicinity of the lodge received a visit from Miss Carrie L. Ingram D. D. G. P., and Carleton P. Hicks, a past protector and delegate to the Supreme lodge. After the business session there were brief remarks by Miss Ingram and an address on the work and condition of the order by Mr. Hicks. He spoke in detail of the new rates which go into effect Jan. 1, explaining that the change was necessary to comply with the requirements of the National Fraternal Congress talk of rates. His explanation of the new rates was very clearly set forth, and gave his hearers a thorough understanding of the situation. A collation and social hour followed the business session.

The newly elected officers of Rural lodge of Masons will be publicly installed next Tuesday evening. The installing officer will be Wor. Bro. Walter W. Burnham, past master of St. John's lodge, Providence, and Right Eminent Commander of the Grand Commandery of Knights Templar of Massachusetts and Rhode Island, assisted by Rt. Wor. Walter F. Medding Past District Deputy Grand Master of the eighth Masonic district as grand marshall. A quartet will furnish music and refreshments will be served after the exercises. Albert M. Parker who will be installed as master was made a Mason in 1900. He is a cousin of the installing officer. F. A. Reed, the new senior warden was raised in 1889 and H. Everett Crane the new junior warden in 1904.

Norfolk lodge, United Workmen of Massachusetts ,will have an autumn reunion and dance in Atlantic Music hall next week.

The annual masquerade of the Loyal Ladies of Clan McGregor will be held as usual on the eve of the coming holiday. Prizes will be offered.

A new lodge recently organized by the Rebekahs is the Betty Alden of Abington with the following officers: Noble grand, Mrs. Jennie A. Wilkes; vice grand, Mrs. Mary A. Gormley; corresponding secretary, Mrs. Emma E. Whitmarsh; financial secretary, Mrs. Betsy S. Maxwell.

Quincy chapter of the Eastern Star held a social dance at Electa hall Monday evening. About 75 were present.

The annual inspection of John A. Boyd camp U. S. W. V., was held at Grand Army hall Tuesday evening.

Hodenosaunne tribe of Red Men of Wollaston entertained the Past Sachem's association at its meeting on Thursday evening.

Maple lodge, K. and L. of H., received an official visit from D. D. G. P. Carrie L. Ingram and other grand officers Wednesday evening.

The George L. Gill lodge associates held a social dance at Faxon hall Wednesday evening. The dance was well attended and it was an enjoyable evening for all.

Uncataquisett tribe of Red Men of Milton celebrated its 23d anniversary Wednesday evening. Corn and venison was served, and the Chief's degree exemplified by Ketchamankin tribe of Dorchester.

AN EASY AND HARMLESS WAY TO DARKEN THE HAIR.

Who does not know of the value of sage and sulphur for keeping the hair dark, soft, glossy and in good condition? As a matter of fact, sulphur is a natural element of hair, and a deficiency of it in the hair is held by many scalp specialists to be connected with loss of color and vitality of the hair. Unquestionably, there is no better remedy for hair and scalp troubles, especially premature grayness, than sage and sulphur, if properly prepared. The Wyeth Chemical Company, 74 Cortlandt St., New York City, put up an ideal preparation of this kind, called Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur. It is sold by all leading druggists for 50c. and $1.00 a bottle, or is sent direct by the manufacturers upon receipt of price.

MILTON.

Col. E. A. Anderson, former pastor of the East Milton Congregational church, gave an interesting and instructive lecture at church Thursday evening. His topic was, "The Civil War and its outcome."

Tomorrow afternoon the fast Cunningham Gymnasium football team will line up against the Roslindale A. A. On Thanksgiving day they will play the Walworth Manufacturing team of South Boston, and as this is an annual game a great deal of interest is manifested in the result. The Gym. team has had a good season and expects to win out.

Charles Lanstran of East Milton is recovering from a very serious illness.

Chief Choate of the Milton Fire department is expecting his new auto to arrive any day now.

Mr. and Mrs. F. A. Ingersoll and Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Doherty will be among those from Milton who will attend the Harvard—Yale game at the Stadium.

Mrs. Gilbert S. Hamlin will hold a subscription dancing party in Ellsworth hall Thursday Dec. 9. The last one proved so successful that they will be continued every month through the winter.

A large crowd gathered at the first dance and social of the year in the Cunningham Gym. on Wednesday evening and it was a most enjoyable time.

A LOSS TO HOUGHS NECK

Death of William J. Tilley a Prominent Resident

William John Tilley, a prominent resident of Houghs Neck, passed away yesterday afternoon at his home on Sea street after a long illness, aged 61 years. Mr. Tilly was for many years connected with the railway mail service, but was retired several years ago.

He came to Quincy from South Boston and built a cottage at Houghs Neck, which he gave the name of St. Omer, after the commandery of Knights Templar of which he was a member. Since residing in Quincy he has built a number of cottages at Houghs Neck and was quite a large real estate owner. He was prominent in Masonic circles, being a member of St. Omer Commandery of South Boston and Aleppo temple of Mystic Shrine. He was also a member of Quincy lodge of Elks, the Quincy Yacht club, and several fraternal orders.

During the past few summers he has spent much of his time on the water. He was the owner of the power launch "Lady May," one of the finest crafts in the Quincy Yacht club and spent much time cruising.

He was also a member of the Houghs Neck Associates, and took an active part in the work of that organization to make the beach a more desirable place of residence.

Mr. Tilley was one of the prime movers in the effort to have a fire station built and a piece of fire apparatus located at Houghs Neck. In fact he was always first and foremost with his money and help for anything that would tend to improve that section of the city. Mr. Tilley leaves a widow.

UNION THANKSGIVING SERVICE.

The union Thanksgiving service at Bethany church on Thanksgiving day will attract wide attention. The meetings for the past few years have been greatly enjoyed and very successful. The theme for this year is A Better Quincy and it will be considered under three sub-topics by three prominent speakers. "Woman's Contribution to a Better City" by Mrs. Claire H. Gurney, president of the Quincy Women's club. "Man's Contribution to a Better City," by Mr. Theophilus King. "The Church's Contribution to a Better City," by Rev. James A. Matheson pastor of the Water Street Presbyterian church. Mrs. Emma S. Moore soloist, Madame Morey organist.

BUFFERS IN QUINCY.

There are several of the hand surfacing machines, or buffers, as the granite cutters call them, in use in Quincy. These are the machines which caused the strike at Barre. The machines raise an enormous amount of dust, and when used in a closed building, it is something awful. It is understood that several firms have given up the use of these machines on account of the dust.

HOW TO BUY AND COOK

Subject for Mrs. Wade's Demonstration Lecture

The third of a series of five demonstration lectures by Mrs. Mary L. Wade, chairman of the Home Economics committee of the Quincy Women's club was given at the club house on Friday afternoon, and was well attended. "How to buy and cook the cheaper cuts of meats," was Mrs. Wade's subject and with Mr. Macleod of Washburn & Macleod market the subject was thoroughly explained.

The tip, middle and first cut of sirloin, the tenderloin, the back, middle and face of rump, aitch bone, lower and top of round, vein, shin, flank, the different ribs, and brisket were all explained in turn, and with a forequarter and hind-quarter of beef on the table before them it was a most instructive lecture.

Mr. Macleod showed just how the beef is always cut for the New England market, and he kindly answered many questions as to the best pieces for roasting, steaks, prices, etc.

Mrs. Wade said the most expensive cuts come from that part of the creature where muscles are but little used, which makes the meat finer-grained and consequently more tender taking less time for cooking. Many of the cheaper cuts, though equally and some more nutritious, need long slow cooking to render them tender enough to easily digest, and the boiling point and simmering was explained. Many spoil a good piece of corn beef by not cooking it at a low temperature.

Mr. Macleod also took a side of lamb and showed the division into fore and hind quarter. Eight ribs left on the hind quarter are usually cut into chops and known as rib chops. The meat which lies between these ribs and the leg when cut are known as loin or kidney chops. Previously he had prepared a crown of lamb by taking parts from two loins containing the ribs, scraping the flesh from the bone between ribs, as far as lean meat, and trimming the back bone, shaping each piece into a semicircle, having the ribs outside and fastening the pieces together to form a crown. Mrs. Wade said that cubes of fat salt pork should be placed on each rib before putting in the oven to roast, and covered with buttered paper the first half hour.

Mrs. Wade also told just how to cook beef goulash, sweet potato stew and hot pot, which were all prepared with the cheap cuts of meat.

The next lecture January 3, will be "Lenten dishes" and the last one of the series will be given Jan. 10.

THREE WILL RUN INDEPENDENT

James H. Broughton, Dharles A. Hadlock and A. H. Gilson Take Out Papers.

That there will be a lively conest at the Municipal election over Councilmen at large is assured, for in addition to the regular candidates nominated at the caucuses there will be two if not three independent candidates for the offices.

Yesterday ex-Councilman James H. Broughton took out papers as a Republican Independent candidate for this office.

Later in the day Councilman Charles A. Hadlock, who was defeated at the caucuses, also took out papers as a Republican Independent candidate for Councilman at large.

This morning Councilman Gilson who was also defeated for the nomination in the caucuses took out papers. In fact he took out two sets of papers, one as a Republican Independent candidate for Coucilman at large, and one as a Republican Independent candidate for Councilman from Ward One. He will decide later which of the two papers he will file.

Ex-Representative Edward J. Sandberg, who was one of the successful candidates for the nomination of Republican Councilman at large at the caucuses was also nominated by the Democrats as their candidate by having his name written in. His name will therefore appear on the ballot as Republican-Democrat.

DRAMATICS AND DANCE

San Souci Club Entertains Large House

The play, "Down East," presented by the San Souci Dramatic Club, under the auspices of Bay View Lodge, L. O. L., last evening, was a huge success. From the moment the curtain rose until it fell on the last act, an audience which filled every seat in Music hall, was kept interested and amused.

The part of "Bets Fletcher," taken by Miss Anna R. Giles, was one of the hits of the evening. As a member of the family to keep things moving she certainly made good. In the part of the villain Ernest Collins was fine as was also Miss Margaret Craig as the village belle.

The humerous side of the drama was admirably held up by John Q. Giles,, Irving Kemp and Miss Georgie Michael in their respective parts as the colored boy, Old Zeke, the village Justice and his wife, Hanna.

Last but not least the Deacon, impersonated by James Stewart, and Fred Malcolm as Jonas Desmond, miser and schemer, brought the house down time and again. Ernest Robertson made a very good officer of the law, and got a great hand in the last act when he arrested the villian who had been exposed by Charles Desmond, impersonated by Ralph H. Marden.

The San Souci have run many plays, but never was one as successful as this, and another one will probably be given before the winter is over. The play was coached by Mrs. A. Isabelle Davis and showed that care and work had been put into it.

The entertainment was followed by a dance, Thompson's orchestra furnishing the music. Dancing was enjoyed from 10 till 2. The grand march was led by Mrs. F. Chandler and Daniel Tinney. In the grand march the San Souci were in a body and received a great hand.

The floor director was Daniel F. Tinney. The assistant floor director, M. A. McDonald. Aids, M. McKinnon, George Littlewood, H. J. McLeod, and D. McLeod.

Boys wanted to sell the Quincy Daily Ledger each day at 3.30 P. M. A good chance to earn money for Christmas. Boys will receive one cent for every paper they sell the week of Nov. 22—27. A prize of $5 in gold will also be given the boy who sells the most papers between now and New Years.

MISS HERFORD'S MONOLOGUES

Large Audience Delighted at Unitarian Chapel

A large audience assembled in First Church chapel last evening, necessitating a few extra chairs to accommodate all who wished to hear Miss Beatrice Herford in original monologues. Three monologues were on the program "A Sociable Seamstress," "Piazza Ladies" "At the Box Office" and in response to encores two more were given "At the Telephone Booth" and "At the Restaurant."

Miss Herford was delightfully realistic in her delineation of the various characters, especially the last two, their humorous nature appealing to her listeners.

The audience was made up of well known Quincy people with a few from neighboring towns who appreciate artistic entertainments. Miss Herford came to Quincy under the auspices of the Art and Literature committee of the Quincy Women's club, Mrs. Charles Bickford chairman and the committee Mrs. H. B. Bailey, Mrs. Rednor P. Coombs, Mrs. Edward B. Marsh, Mrs. Albert W. Parker, Mrs. Frederic W. Plummer and Mrs. Edward Russell.

The ushers were Misses Miriam Marsh, Gerna and Catherine Saville, Minnie Hardwick and Gertrude Sayward.

WILL NOT STOP INSURGENTS

United States In Sympathy With Nicaraguan Uprising

SHIPS MUST TAKE CHANCES

Government Will Not Insure Safety of Any Which May Be Seized—Preparations For Final Struggle Being Made by Revolutionists—Zelaya Promises Loot If His Army Is Successful—Toledo's Grave Offense

Washington, Nov. 20.—A significant development, inasmuch as it disclosed this government's unyielding determination not to interfere with the Nicaraguan revolutionists, was the reiterated announcement that the state department would not act to insure the safety of any American vessels which might be called up or seized by the insurrectionary war vessels now blockading the government forces at Greytown or elsewhere on the Guatemalan coast.

The announcement was made as a result of several inquiries by American shipping concerns.

The deepest interest is apparent as to the conference between Assistant Secretary Wilson, Senor Calvo, minister from Costa Rica, and Dr. Herrarte, the minister from Guatemala, yesterday afternoon.

It is believed that the infraction of the existing Pan-American treaty, signed here a little over two years ago, was the chief matter discussed.

The violation of the agreement was committed by General Toledo, in command of President Zelaya's forces, when he invaded Costa Rican territory in his advance on Greytown, where practically he is now besieged.

In the threatened trouble between Nicaragua and Venezuela only a short time ago, the United States stood ready to prevent, by force if necessary, the passage of the belligerents across the neutral territory of Honduras. This is pointed to by diplomats as indicative of the gravity of Toledo's offence against the Panaman compact.

That the revolutionists under General Chemarro are making preparations for the final and decisive struggle within the next three or four days was announced last night by Senor Castrillo, the representative here of the Nicaraguan provisional government. The revolutionists have been short of ammunition, and for that reason, he said, have hesitated to take any serious steps looking to winding up the struggle.

The revolutionists are content, apparently, to wait until they are fully prepared before they strike home. Castrillo pointed out that with the coast line in full possession of his compatriots, securing ammunition and arms is now a simple matter of only a few days. In the meantime, he says, Chamarro maintains his position in the steep hills overlooking Greytown and holds the Zelayan forces at his mercy.

The two warships, the Des Moines and the Vicksburg, which were ordered to take up their stations respectively on the Atlantic and Pacific sides of the isthmus, are believed to have reached their destinations, although no word from their commanders was received.

Tell of Zelaya's Cruelty

Colon, Nov. 20.—A wireless dispatch, dated Bluefields, says that an announcement has been made unofficially that the United States government has recognized the revolutionists.

Telegrams from San Juan del Sur and the boundary of Costa Rica declare that President Zelaya is practising horrible means to force the enlistment of troops and to obtain financial assistance.

According to information brought into Bluefields by deserters, the troops of Zelaya are suffering great hardships from lack of food and exposure. The Zelayan detachment of the attacking army was promised permission to loot Rama for two days if the attack was successful.

THAW IS SUSPICIOUS

Refuses to Attend an Entertainment In Matteawan Asylum

Fishkill Landing, N. Y., Nov. 20.—Harry K. Thaw refused yesterday afternoon to enter the theatre at the Matteawan state hospital, where Raymond Hitchcock and his "Man Who Owns Broadway" company gave an entertainment.

Thaw suspected that Dr. Flint, who is a friend of Hitchcock, had arranged the entertainment so that his actions while an auditor might be observed.

Old Carriage Company Bankrupt

Boston, Nov. 20.—Because the automobile is driving the carriage off the city streets, the French Carriage company, one of the oldest vehicle building concerns in Boston, was placed in the hands of a receiver. The bankruptcy was involuntary.

English Cotton Mills Curtail

Manchester, Eng., Nov. 20.—At a mass meeting of spinners the recommendations that the time curtailment now in force in the cotton mills be continued until the end of February was confirmed.

A BOSTON GIRL'S BUDGET.

America's Little Women Aroused over Prospect of Losing the Alcott House— Votes for Women Is Not One of Them 'Ologies —Bostonese Bees Improve Each Shining Bower in a Suburban House—Salvation Army Lassies are Forbidden to Use the Hub's Streets to Gather Funds for Thanksgiving Dinner.

A good joke is being told at the expense of one of the bluecoated guardians on duty at the Boston 1915 exposition. Three visitors inquired where they could find the Equal Suffrage Association's exhibit. "Equal suffrage," said he, "what's that?" When it was explained to him, he exclaimed: "Lord, how you puzzled me, I thought you were looking for one of them 'ologies,' when all you wanted was ' Votes for Women."

Bringing out a new magazine is a sufficiently daring proposition to incorporated and capitalized publishing houses, but the courage evinced by Mrs. Charlotte Perkins Gilman, who has a large following in Boston, in bringing out a magazine in which every line is written by herself is rather remarkable. The first number of the "Forerunner" is in circulation and contains the opening chapters of two serial novels, several short stories, bits of verse, reviews and comments. It is tasteful in appearance and a credit to its author, who is one of the most versatile writers and ablest women of America. If courage and initiative count for anything Mrs. Gilman should be eminently successful in her enterprise .

Less honey and more milk! The family in Wakefield which has discovered a huge swarm of bees and about three years' supply of honey located in the partitions of its domicile has concluded that even the sweetest things in life have their sting. Thanks to the industry of the busy bee it will be necessary to tear down practically every partition in the house in order to remove all the honey fifty pounds of which was found in a comparatively small space. Spaces between the floors are also filled, and it was the sweet liquid oozing through the ceiling which first led to the discovery. Thus doth the little busy bee improve each shining bower and cozy corner.

Americans are criticised, and properly so, for allowing the, Orchard house in Concord, occupied by the Alcotts for twenty years, to fall to ruin and decay. An English writer has suggested that "the little women of America" buy the place and fit it up as a "temporary home for literary ladies." This suggestion is commendable but hardly practicable, since it would require more land than the town of Concord occupies on which to build additions competent to house the indigent "literary ladies" of this country. The fact remains, however, that the home of Louisa Alcott is as sacred in the eyes of nine-tenths of the population as are the homes of Lowell, Longfellow and Emerson, and that in the thought of such people, some means should be adopted of caring for the place where the beloved characters of Meg, Jo, Beth and Amy were molded to bring joy and inspiration into many a home. Hundreds of grown-up little women still treasure their set of Louisa Alcott's works, and turn to them as to a haven of rest and comfort when other works fall short, for they have te rare quality of appealing to the old as well as the young. For this, if no other, reason the readers of the wholesome stories which were penned under the Alcott roof should see to it that te old house is not allowed to pass into oblivion.

The death rate due to tuberculosis in the city of Boston is steadily decreasing, and organized work tending toward mastry of the disease is going on actively. According to the annual report of the Boston Consumptives' Hospital Department just issued one of the important steps toward this end is the establishment of a proposed hospital at Mattapan. A day camp accommodating 200 patients is now being built on the site occupied during the summer of 1908 by the day camp maintained by the Boston Association for the Relief and Control of tuberculosis. Plans for an open cottage building are under consideration and a number of further additions to the present property at Mattapan. On a rising stretch of land comprising about fifty-five acres liberally scattered with birch and oak trees, it is expected that the future hospital will furnish relief from the congested conditions under which the disease has to be fought at present. Among the measures which are to be adopted by the Board of Health in its crusade are compulsory notification and registration of all cases of tuberculosis medical inspection of the home conditions of all cases reported, and enforcement of laws against promiscuous spitting in public places. This work of the Boston Board of Health is commanding the attention of like organizations throughout the country, and will result not only in more rapidly decreasing the ravages of the disease in this community but in inspiring similar work in other cities.

Public sentiment in Boston is aroused over the apparently needless restrictions which have been imposed upon the Salvation Army in its annual effort to give food and good cheer to a few of the many thousands of poor families whose Thanksgiving and Christmas are otherwise tragically pitiful. Owing to the refusal of licenses allowing the Salvation lassies to solicit and receive contributions in public places, they have been forced to seek the shelter of doorways on private property or such places as private owners have given them permission to take their stand. Not only this, but the familiar Santa Claus on the street corner who delights the heart of thousands of children, rich and poor, gazing at him spellbound with wonder, has been tabooed by the injunction that "members may wear only the army uniform." The Board of Overseers of the Poor also ordered that the Salvation Army should furnish as a condition of the issuance of licenses for receiving contributions "a full, complete and accurate list with address of the persons aided by or beneficiaries of money so expended." This seems to many people like unnecessary humiliation of the beneficiaries concerned, and it would seem that a general but careful accounting of money received and expended, the number of dinners and their cost, with the expenses of administration—coupled with personal observation of the happy thousands gathered around the groaning tables at the People's Palace and a peep into homes enjoying the first square meal perhaps in weeks—should be sufficient guarantee to the officials that the public is not being cheated. It is to be hoped that the citizens of Boston will show their disapproval of this arbitrary stand by pouring generous contributions into the treasury of Colonel Gifford, through private subscriptions sent to the headquarters, and that every property owner in Boston will invite the Army lassies to take up their stand thereon.

THE BEY'S GUEST.

He Was Ready For the Emergency and Conquered the African.

A show of force is often the best kind of diplomacy. A writer in the Paris Temps tells a story of the French admiral Dupetit-Thouars, who had been intrusted with the mission of exacting reparation from an African bey who had insulted a French consul.

As Dupetit-Thouars' demands were supported by the forcible argument of loaded cannon, the bey acknowledged that he had been too hasty and proffered profuse apologies. He even invited the admiral to his table and had a sumptuous repast prepared for his guest.

The consul warned the admiral to be on his guard.

"The bey is inclined to be malicious," said he, "and when he strokes his beard and smiles you may be sure that he is concocting some mischief."

"We shall see," was Dupetit-Thouars' reply.

He reached the bey's palace in good time. Profuse compliments and salutations were exchanged. All at once the admiral's foot met some soft, hairy substance lying on the carpet under the table. He bent down and saw a huge lion showing his formidable teeth. The bey smiled and stroked his beard.

Dupetit-Thouars did not wince, but called his dragoman.

"My pistols," was all he said.

The servant saluted, retired and brought back a pair of pistols on a silver tray. The admiral took them and placed them on the table before him. But the bey, still smiling, continued to stroke his patriarchal beard.

"Tell the commander," he said to the dragoman, "that if those pistols are for the purpose of blowing out my lion's brains they are quite insufficient and perfectly useless."

Then, like a skilled fencer countering his opponent's thrust, after the bey's ironical advice had been translated Dupetit-Thouars replied:

"Tell his highness that my pistols are not there to kill his lion, but to blow his own brains out at the first movement of this objectionable carpet."

Gravely, but a little pale, the man interpreted.

The smile died away on the bey's lips, and he no longer stroked his beard.

"My lion," said he, "is too well trained even to scratch one of my guests, but since he is not wanted he shall be sent away."

At a word from the bey the lion slowly and heavily left the room, like an obedient dog.

THE JEWETT

is a vital factor in creating the wonderful magic of music.

Tone is one of the chief reasons the Jewett piano is known and admired in musical circles wherever you go. Tone largely explains why in thousands of homes in New England alone the Jewett is the center of artistic interest and inspiration.

In singing quality, that is, in clearness and sustained resonance, the Jewett tone has no equal among pianos of even nearly as reasonable cost.

The Jewett tone has that supreme characteristic which adds charm to the best playing and supplies to music one of its principal elements of interest.

Jewett Pianos, established 1860, have proved their great durability and the permanence of their musical qualities through the test of nearly half a century's use.

TAFT HAS BUSY DAY AT NORFOLK

Reviews Military and Naval Parade and Makes Speeches

EFFICIENCY OF OUR NAVY

It Should Be Continued In a Manner Worthy of Great Nation—Favors Fortifying Hampton Roads, the Greatest Strategical Naval Base In the World—President Believes In Peace, but Thinks Millenium Far Off

Norfolk, Nov. 20.—As one of the concluding features of the convention of the Atlantic Deep Waterways association, and to accept again the hospitality of the people of the Old Dominion, President Taft came to Norfolk, reviewed a military and naval parade, made two speeches in which he bespoke his interest in a practical system of waterway improvement to be carried forward on a business-like basis and not merely as a means of distributing patronage; partook of an oyster roast under the shadows of the towering Cape Henry lighthouses, and attended a smoker in honor of a large corps of visiting newspaper men.

The president retired last night on the presidential yacht Mayflower. The Mayflower this morning got under way for Hampton, where the president will attend a meeting of the board of trustees of the Hampton Normal institute, of which he is a member. In the afternoon he will deliver an address to the negro students and then sail for Washington.

The president's visit was made the occasion of probably the most notable celebration the city has ever had.

In his speech the president, after reciting his views as to waterways improvements, spoke a word for the United States navy, declaring that the prestige of the nation demands that the navy be kept at a high state of force and efficiency.

The president also declared that he was in favor of fortifying Hampton Roads, the greatest strategical naval base in the world, by erecting an impregnable fort on an island placed half way between the Virginia capes. He hoped to see the plan adopted during his term as president.

The president referred to the battle of the Merrimac and the Monitor, and said:

"I want a navy to continue to be maintained worthy of this country. We are not knocking anybody's chip off his shoulder and we are not having a chip on our shoulder, but we are a great nation of eighty or ninety millions of people and we must, in order under the present conditions to maintain the prestige that is proportionate to our stand before the world, have a navy that is worth seeing and able to fight if it has to."

To make himself hear in speaking at Cape Henry the president stood on a chair. Next to him sat Andrew Carnegie.

"I am glad," said Mr. Taft, "to be here where, in spite of the views of my distinguished neighbor, Brother Carnegie, we ought to put a formidable fortress right here. Both Brother Carnegie and I are working toward the same end and we believe in peace, though I am not quite so near the millenium as he is. But we are working in the same direction and with the same principles and we don't differ so much."

FRAUD IN COAL DEALS

Charge Against Two Public Weighers and Two Coal Dealers

Boston, Nov. 20.—Henry J. Wade and John J. Haley, public weighers, and Albert A. White, a Boston coal dealer, were held in $1000 each for a hearing Wednesday. Six charges against each man allege conspiracy to defraud the Boston and Maine railroad, the American Glue company and the United Coal company. Each pleaded not guilty.

Charles H. Walker, a Stoneham coal dealer, pleaded not guilty and was held under a similar bond until Wednesday.

BITTEN BY WHITE MICE

Blood Poisoning Sets In and Kills Six-Weeks-Old Baby

Barnwell, S. C., Nov. 20.—Blood poisoning caused by the bites of pet white mice resulted in the death last evening of the 6-weeks-old child of E. W. Holman.

Last Friday the baby was left alone on a bed. The mice, which were pets of her elder sister, climbed on the bed and gnawed her hands and caused blood poisoning.

Five Bandits Given Life Sentence

Omaha, Nov. 20.—Judge Munger sentenced to life imprisonment the five men who held up the Union Pacific "overland limited" train at Omaha May 12, 1909, and robbed the mail car. The men were apprehended through some schoolboys and a girl school teacher.

Funeral of Poet Gilder

New York, Nov. 20.—Funeral services over the body of Richard Watson Gilder, the poet and editor who died on Thursday, were held in the Church of the Ascension at 11 o'clock this morning.

PATRICK'S PERSISTENCE

It Results In His Again Securing a Writ of Habeas Corpus

New York, Nov. 20.—In spite of the many defeats he has met in the courts in efforts to regain his liberty, the persistency and legal acumen of Albert T. Patrick, who is serving a life sentence in Sing Sing for the murder of William M. Rice in 1900, succeeded in obtaining another writ of habeas corpus through his counsel from Presiding Judge Hirschberg of the appellate division of the supreme court in Brooklyn.

The writ is returnable on Nov. 29 and directs Warden Frost of the state prison to produce the petitioner in court at the time. Patrick argued his own case before the same court a few months ago, and a decision was rendered against him.

FIVE BODIES RECOVERED

Nearly Three Hundred Corpses Remain In Burning Mine

Cherry, Ills., Nov. 20.—With the fire in the St. Paul mine greatly checked and five of the 300 corpses of men who were killed by last Saturday's fire recovered, it is hoped that much progress towards clearing the mine will be made today.

Charity has poured aid into the homes of suffering survivors, but this could not assuage the grief of Cherry's inhabitants when the sight of the dead blasted their hopes that men might be rescued alive.

Many bodies were seen by explorers working deep into the second gallery, but the searchers were forced to flee for their lives, because falling earth and rock endangered them.

BIDDEFORD PUBLIC BUILDINGS CLOSED

Epidemic of Diptheria Puts Ban Upon the City

Biddeford, Me., Nov. 20.—Because of the alarming increase in the epidemic of diphtheria, which has been prevalent for more than a month, the board of health last night forbade the opening of all schools, ordered the public library closed, placed a man on the holding of any public gathering and on the conduct of all places of amusement.

The order is effective during the coming week and may be extended into a fortnight if the situation seems to demand it. In addition, the pastors of the city's churches are asked to forego the holding of Sunday school sessions for the next two Sundays, at least. The principal religious services will be conducted as usual.

The epidemic has already claimed more than a dozen lives and is responsible for several hundred cases.

ASTOR'S FRIENDS WORRIED

Nothing Heard From Those Aboard His Yacht During Past Two Weeks

New York, Nov. 20.—Every added hour of uncertainty deepes the anxiety felt for Colonel John Jacob Astor, his son Vincent, and Richard Peters, a cousin of Mrs. Astor, all of whom have been out of touch with the world for a fortnight, when the missing yacht Nourmahal was last spoken.

Shipping masters point out that if the Nourmahal was blown out of her course by the late West Indian hurricane, she might have great difficulty in making port again.

Hope for her safety rests on the assumption that she is now in port, but that, owing to the interruption of the cable service, it is impossible to get word of her arrival to America.

WANTS TO BE ALDERMAN

Woman Nominated For the Office at Meeting of Worcester Socialists

Worcester, Mass., Nov. 20.—For the first time in the history of Worcester there will be a woman on the official ballot for alderman for city election to be held in December. She is Mrs. Rose M. Fenner, prominent in society and Socialistic circles.

Mrs. Fenner was nominated for the position of alderman in ward 9 by the Socialists at a union meeting to oppose Alderman Coates of the same ward, who is out as a candidate for re-election on the Republican city ticket.

Death of William M. Laffan

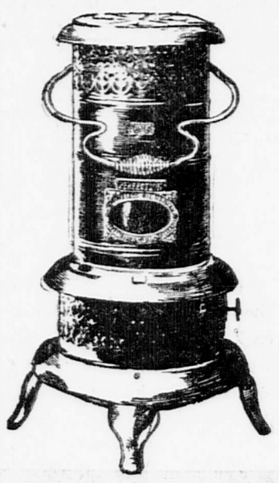

New York, Nov. 20.—William M. Laffan, successor of Charles A. Dana in the management of the New York Sun, and publisher of that newspaper, is dead, following an operation for appendicitis performed on Monday. Laffan was well known as a man of letters and art connoiseur and his influence in journalism was far reaching.

Fishing Pact Is Signed

New York, Nov. 20.—According to announcement made here the agreement between the United States and Canada for the protection of the waters lying between the two countries from conditions endangering the fisheries has been signed and it will probably become operative within a fortnight.

Gold Coinage For Cuba

Havana, Nov. 20.—A bill was introduced in the senate for the establishment of a national currency on the gold basis and similar to that of the United States.

Only One

There is only One Oil Heater for the housekeeper who wants the Best.

By best is meant thorough, all-around work and faultless efficiency down to the smallest detail.

This work must be performed day after day without fuss and fume and without smoke.

PERFECTION Oil Heater

(Equipped with Smokeless Device)

No other oil heater in the world has attained the high heat efficiency and the sure smokeless performance reached by this splendid achievement of modern science.

Turn the wick up as high as it will go—there's no smoke—as low as you please, there's no smell—no fuss.

In raising, the wick is checked before it reaches the point at which it would smoke, by the new, quickly-removed

Automatic Smokeless Device

The flame is at its zenith of power, when the wick is locked, thus getting the heater's full capacity.

The heat is as cleanly as that which comes from a steam radiator—and more certain. You may have it just where you want it—beside the window—in the library—in the bath room or in the living room.

Brass font holds 4 quarts of oil—burns 9 hours. Finished in nickel or Japan. Various styles and finishes. Damper top—cool handle—aluminum window frame.

THE BIGGER LEDGER.

At last we can announce a date for the first appearance of the "bigger Ledger." The new press will start up at two o'clock, Monday afternoon, Nov. 22, and the Ledgers will be on the street a few minutes later. An edition of from 5000 to 10,000 will be printed and more if needed.

The original programs of the Fore River Shipbuilding draughtsmen for the annual smoker, show that their talents do not run wholly to battleships and mechanics, but that someone is decidedly clever as a cartoonist and artist.

Most of the prominent Republicans were at the reception to Candidate Nichols this week, and it looks as though the party were more united than persistent rumors would have people believe. Should there be an active campaign on the part of the Republicans the election may be closer than anticipated.

Have you noticed of late how everything that is undertaken in Quincy seems to be unusually successful? Whether it be the Y. M. C. A.; the Quincy Women's Club and its committees; the churches with their bazaars, fairs and other gatherings; the men's clubs, young men's club, boys' club and the girls' club too.

Advices from Washington are to the effect that the so-called Insurgents are moving on the National Capital with the determination of continuing their fight against the Republican organization in both branches of Congress. This information would be disquieting to President Taft were it not for the fact that some of his most notable achievements have been in the role of peace-maker. In the present situation the President is confronted by a problem which is more difficult to solve then any of the other quarrels in which he has acted as mediator. It will be necessary for Mr. Taft to exercise exceptional diplomacy and great diligence to bring the warring elements together. Bitter language has been used since Congress adjourned by partisans of the factions and neither side is in a mood to make concessions.

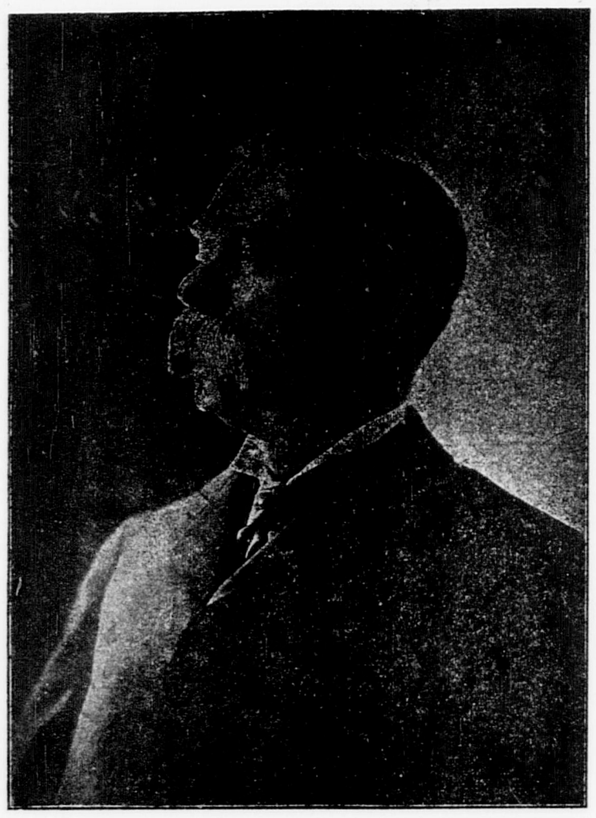

President Taft's success as a diplomat does not appear to have ended with his assumption of the reins of government. The delicacy and tact with which he performed his various missions on his tour around the world again made itself apparent on the occasion of the formal visit to the White House of the Turkish envoys who were dispatched by the Ottoman Empire to notify of the establishment of the new constitutional government. These envoys, Zia Pasha and Colonel Aziz Bey, conveyed the felicitations of the new Sultan, Mehmed V, and told the President that the liberal institutions of the United States and the history of her fight for freedom had proved a source of inspiration to the Young Turks who fought against the tyranny of the former Sultan.

President Taft replied in a happy speech, the effect of which was to send the envoys on their way rejoicing for they had no sooner left the White House than they began an enthusiastic chorus of praise for the President and expressed great gratitude at the cordial manner in which he had received them. So deep an impression did he make on them that A. Rustem Bey, charge d'affairs of the Turkish Embassy, at once made public his conviction that a new era of prosperity, contingent on the friendship of the United States, was about to begin in Turkey and that the Turkish people count on the assistance of America in developing the commercial possibilities of their country. He dwelt on the opportunities afforded American capital in the Ottoman Empire and gave his assurance that citizens of the United States would be met more than half way in any enterprise that might redound to the mutual advantage of both countries.

QUINCY'S BENEFACTOR.

Tribute to Hon. William B. Rice, Founder of the City Hospital.

In the current issue of "Our Hospital," the little publication that is issued each year for hospital collection week, is the following well deserved tribute to the memory of the man who made the hospital possible, a man who was known so intimately in this city that the following words come especially appropriate on this last day of the hospital week:

In the death of Mr. Rice the Hospital lost not only one of the best friends that humanity ever knew but the man who was responsible for the erection and continuation of the Hospital in the City of Quincy. It is over 19 years since Mr. Rice gave to the corporation known as the City Hospital of Quincy the land and buildings where the present Hospital now stands. The Hospital was dedicated during the summer of that year and the name of the man who made such a blessing possible in Quincy was at that time engraven on the heart of every grateful citizen of Quincy and will remain so as long as the Hospital will endure.

Mr. Rice was a man who never sought the glare of publicity to make known his beneficences. The knowledge that he was able to do good was sufficient for him and his life-aim was to bring into effect the philanthropic desires which were generated in his heart. The result of this was the Quincy City Hospital, a work that necessarily brought Mr. Rice prominently before the public but throughout the period of laudation following the dedication of the building and the continued years of praise that have been added to his name, Mr. Rice was the quiet, modest, unassuming gentleman that Quincy had always known; a man who looked upon the work which others praised, as a task of duty; a task which he surely measured up to if any man ever did.

The long years of business life which had been successfully rounded out by Mr. Rice, made him a valuable advisor to the trustees of the Hospital and to those who helped to shape the financial destinies of the institution. Only those who have served on the board of trustees of the Hospital with Mr. Rice will ever know the long and patient hours spent by him in meetings and business dealings for the interest of the Hospital. Everything else in his life seemed to be of secondary importance when any subject connected with the Hospital came beneath his notice. He has talked in public and in private for the benefit of the Hospital, he has presided at countless meetings to arrange for various enterprises for the benefit of the institution; in fact his time and his money and his personal work were ever ready at the call of the City Hospital.

One of the latest public acts of his life was the erection of the new ward at the Hospital which is now rapidly nearing completion. This splendid addition that is being erected at a cost of $25,000 will be long remembered as the last gift from Mr. Rice before his death. His interest in the cause of humanity, however, did not end with the passing of his earthly career for he has made provision for the friendless by a magnificent bequest in his last will.

The City of Quincy is poorer because of his death. The City Hospital of Quincy has lost its best friend. In the years to come when love and science shall have triumphed over pain and misery there will linger around our hospital like a benediction from above, the name of William B. Rice.

BRIEFS

Holy communion will be celebrated at Christ church at 9 A. M. on Thanksgiving day.

The Benevolent society of Memorial church, Atlantic, netted $305 at their recent rainbow fair.

Union Thanksgiving services will be held on the holiday at Bethany church at 10 A. M. Several pastors will take part.

The Whatsoever Circle King's Daughters will hold their next meeting with Mrs. David Whiton, Arlington street, Nov. 22 at 8 P. M.

There was no Junior League or Epworth League services at the Hall Place M. E. church, Sunday, owing to the absence of the pastor and a large number of members in Boston.

The Epworth League of the Hall Place M. E. church are planning for a concert to be given by Prof. J. W. Maynard, the celebrated blind entertainer of Boston.

Deacon Charles Sherburne, superintendent of the Point Sunday school, had a teachers' meeting Friday evening. The Christmas concert and special music for the Christmas season are already under way.

Quincy Alliance solicits articles to fill barrels for the south to be left as follows: for Tuskegee with Mrs. J. Henry Emery, Adams street, for Snow Hill with Miss Dora A. French, Adams street, and for Calhoun with Mrs. George G. Saville, Saville avenue.

The Fowler chapter of the Methodist Brotherhood of the Hall Place M. E. Church attended in a body the Massachusetts Sunday School convention men's meeting held Sunday afternoon in Tremont Temple. A good number were present from this church.

The first millinery class of the Young Girls' club was held at the Quincy Women's clubhouse Saturday. The first lesson of the dressmaking class will be held tonight and the first class in embroidery will be held Monday.

Rev. C. A. S. Dwight, PhD., preaches at the Washington Street church on Sunday, both morning and evening. Dr. Dwight is an author and lecturer as well as a helpful preacher. He has spoken before in Quincy and all who have heard him will delight to hear him again on Sunday.

At an executive committee meeting of the Young People's Religious union of First church, it was unanimously voted to give a subscription dance sometime during the Christmas vacation. Miss Lela Smith was elected chairman of a committee having this dance in charge.

A union Thanksgiving service like the very successful one of last year is announced for the afternoon of the holiday at 5 o'clock at the Wollaston Congregational church. The addresses will be by Rev. Joseph Walther of the Baptist church and Rev. Carl G. Horst of the Unitarian church.

First Church Sunday school is to hold a special harvest service on Sunday afternoon at four o'clock for which an appropriate program has been arranged by Supt. C. H. Johnson. Friends of the school are invited to send fruit and vegetables to the chapel this morning to be used in decorating which will later be distributed for Thanksgiving to deserving people.

Tuesday, Nov. 23, will be Woman's club afternoon at the "1915" Boston Exposition. There will be in addition to the usual attractions, addresses by Miss Georgie A. Bacon, President Massachusetts State Federation of Women's clubs; Mrs. May Alden Ward and Rev. John H. Denison. The many striking and interesting civic exhibits in this Exposition are directly in line with the civic studies in which Women's clubs are now so enthusiastically interesting themselves.

Miss Florence Faxon is to read a paper on George Bernard Shaw at the meeting of the Young People's Religious union on Sunday evening in First Church chapel. The papers given this season are to show the purpose and methods of men who are leaders of influence in the changing human structure of our time. To know what forces are at work is to realize what the result will be.

Officers of Wollaston lodge 174 American Benefit society were installed Tuesday evening by D. D. S. P., M. Morey Pearson M. D., and suite of Boston at Brasee hall. Visitors were present from Malden, Lynn, also a large delegation from Haverhill, After the installation a fine collation was served by the entertainment committee. Officers elected for the ensuing year are: Past President, George H. Church; president, Eliza Miner; vice president, Dr. E. R. Johnson; orator, Cora M. Merrill; secretary, Nina J. Miller; collector, Rosa M. Taylor; Treasurer, Samuel P. Hanson; marshal, Algernon S. Gardiner; chaplain, Samuel Bland; warden, Frank A. Gardiner; sentry, Henry W. Hatfield; pianist, Emily J. Bjorkman.

OF PUBLIC INTEREST.

Anti-Tuberculosis Committees.

Editor Ledger:

In a recent issue of your paper I note in the letter signed "Citizen," that there seems to be a slight misunderstanding among some people interested in the Tuberculosis Camp movement. It should be distinctly understood that there is only one general organization, the anti-tuberculosis association with a president, first and second vice presidents, a secretary and treasurer, and a board of 20 directors. This board has the power to appoint committees which has been done from time to time, viz: Dispensary committee, Camp committee, Relief committee, Educational committee, Finance committee, etc. Each committee has a chairman and at the general monthly meeting of the board each committee reports back to the board through the chairman.

In the case of the Relief committee the action of the committee in cases of need has to be very prompt and the committee a very active one. Certain donations of money were sent to this committee for immediate use in urgent cases from several private individuals and one donation from the Quincy Women's club. The money so donated was not for the general association but for emergency cases, which had to have prompt relief.

It should be distinctly understood that the Relief committee is a part of the whole as are all the committees, but in the nature of things as the name implies it must necessarily be a most active committee because it must be always ready to cooperate with the Board of Health, and as in the cases just returned to Quincy from the Emmanuel movement of Boston, it must be ready to give relief to the afflicted ones and also protection to those who are brought in contact with the disease.

CITY OF QUINCY

IN COUNCIL,

Nov. 1, 1909.

ORDERED: That the City of Quincy take under the provisions of law authorizing the taking in fee of land by cities for the purpose of erecting a school house thereon, the parcel of land hereinafter described and located in that part of said city, known as Montclair, for the purpose of erecting a school house thereon. Said parcel of land is owned by and bounded and described as follows, viz.:

Beginning at a stake on the southeasterly line of West Squantum street at its intersection with the easterly line of Highland avenue, so called, the northwesterly line of said lot runs in a northeasterly direction on West Squantum street a distance of about 220 feet to a stake, thence turning and running in a southerly direction parallel with Highland avenue so called a distance of about 343 feet to a stake in the northerly line of Broadway, so called, thence turning and running in a westerly direction along the northerly line of Broadway, so called, a distance of about 200.5 feet to a stake in the easterly line of Highland avenue, so called ,then turning at 90 degrees and running in a northerly direction along the easterly line of Highland avenue, so called a distance of about 225.4 feet to the point of beginning, all as more particularly shown on a plan made by Ezekiel C. Sargent, City Engineer ,and accompanying this order, dated Nov. 1909.

Said parcel of land is owned or supposed to be owned by the following named persons:—John L. Norrie or Norris, heirs of Horatio N. Holbrook and Henrietta Holbrook.

And that a public hearing be given by the City Council to all parties interested on Monday evening, Dec. 6, 1909, at 7.45 o'clock, in the Council Chamber, City Hall, and that due notice of the intention of the city to take said land for such a purpose, and of said hearing, be given to all parties interested by publishing a copy of this order in the Quincy Daily Ledger, Quincy Advertiser and Quincy Telegram, at least 21 days before the date of hearing, and that an attested copy of this order be served upon the owner or owners of said land by a constable authorized to serve civil process, by delivering an attested copy thereof in hand to said owner or owners or by leaving an attested copy thereof at the last and usual place of abode of said owner or owners.

Adopted Nov. 1, 1909.

The Social Realm

Father of life, I thank Thee, too,
For old acquaintance, near and true;
For old friends who came into my day
And took the loneliness away;
For faith that held on to the last;
For all sweet memories of the past—
Dear memories of my dead that send
Long thoughts of life, and of life's end
That make me know the light conceals
A deeper world than it reveals.

The committee were: Miss Anna Ryden, Miss Louise Skinner and William J. Parker.

NUISANCE AT ATLANTIC.

Considerable complaint is being made by Atlantic residents at the boistrous parties that have been held of late in Music hall. It is claimed that many of the parties are Neponset people, who are unable to hire a hall in their own section, and that they bring more or less liquor with them, and are therefore, a nuisance. A case in hand was a dance held last evening by a crowd who called themselves the "Hall Room Boys." The dance was to have continued until 2 A. M., but it broke up at midnight. As the party left the hall they amused themselves by throwing rocks at the windows in the fire station. Several of the windows were smashed, the broken glass falling onto the bed of Daniel McNiece, one of the firemen. The residents believe that if these parties are to be continued that the management of the hall should be compelled to put on enough police officers to keep the crowd within bounds.

LOEB SPRINGS BIG SURPRISE

Removal of Seventy-Three New York Customs Employes

"MAN HIGHER UP" INCLUDED

Deputy Surveyor Vail Goes on the Grounds of Negligence and Inefficiency and the Office Is Abolished—Collector Satisfied That Men Are Implicated In Sugar Frauds—Theobold Sheds Light on the Subject

New York, Nov. 20.—Collector of the Port Loeb announced the removal from the customs service of seventy-three employes and attaches of the weighing and other divisions of the customs service here. Among those dismissed are James F. Vail, formerly deputy surveyor of the weighing division; George E. Bedell, an inspector, formerly chief clerk of the weighing division; James P. Hyland ad Joseph O. Carroll, ex-foremen of weighing districts.

Besides those enumerated, the removals include ten assistant weighers, three inspectors, formerly assistant weighers, one inspector, formerly an assistant gauger, and one assistant ganger. In addition, the collector states that since March 9 last, the day he took office, he has removed from the service for irregularities in the weighing department eighteen other officials, six of whom are now under indictment.

In other branches of the service he has removed for cause thirty-six officials, making the total number of removals from the service since March 9 seventy-three. In connection with the dropping of Vail, Loeb announces that the office of deputy collector, which Vail held, has been abolished. Of Vail's removal he says:

"The collector has no proof, nor have Special Assistant Attorneys General Stimson or Smith, of any corruption on his part, but he was in charge of the weighing division during the time that the extensive underweighing frauds were perpetrated and the fact that such conditions could exist in his department warrants his separation from the service on the grounds of negligence and inefficiency."

Collector Loeb, in making the announcements, added significantly: "The collector is continuing his investigations."

Vail's Dismissal Unexpected

Vail's dismissal caused a genuine sensation in customs circles, for he was the man "higher up" in the weighing division and any further disclosures must effect one of the heads of the four great branches of the custom house here if they are to go beyond the person of Vail. His immediate superior was on the one hand the collector who appointed him and the surveyor to whose office he was attached. In view of the repeated charges that in the past the customs frauds, particularly as concerning the sugar trust, have been winked at by individuals very high up in the service, those who are concerned in the investigation here are waiting with interest to learn what Vail may have to say as to the responsibility of his superiors for the conditions that existed when he was in charge of the weighing division.

Mr. Loeb did not decide upon the wholesale dismissal until he had thoroughly satisfied himself that the men to go had been guilty of connivance in the sugar frauds. For this reason it is not expected that the discharged men will insist upon any trial before the civil service board. Loeb regards it as likely that they will be satisfied to get out without having their offences aired before the trial board. The men slated for slaughter hold places as weighers of sugar and as assistants in the handling of sugar at the two piers.

As to the possibility of criminal prosecutions of the men, it was said that Loeb was not satisfied that there was sufficient evidence in the majority of cases. He is reported to have given evidence in the cases of some twenty or so to United States District Attorney Wise, and it is said that indictments have been found in those instances, but the others Loeb is not inclined to send to the district attorney for prosecution, only to run the chance of having the men acquitted.

Further evidence that the Washington authorities, back in 1898, knew of the frauds at the Williamsburg pier was furnished by William H. Theobold, a former confidential agent of the treasury department. Theobold was assigned, he says, to investigate the weighing of sugar at the pier in that year, and had been at work three days, he says, when he was called off. He had occasion to know, he declared, that the treasury department knew of his assignment to that work, and he believed it was the treasury department that had ordered him to stop his activities.

Mr. Theobold said the sugar frauds were a comparatively small part of the money the government was cheated out of each year in undervaluation of importations. The sum lost to the government through these fraudulent means, he estimated, would reach $20,000,000 a year.

Federation of Labor Votes Money For the Contempt Appeal

Toronto, Nov. 20.—Emphasizing its approval by a rising vote, the convention of the American Federation of Labor adopted a report of the committee on president's report indorsing the position taken by President Gompers in the Buck Stove and Range injunction case and protesting against "the injudicial and intemperate language" used by Justice Wright in sentencing Gompers, Mitchell and Morrison to jail for contempt of court growing out of the injunction proceedings.

The convention voted to appeal the injunction case and the contempt proceedings growing out of it to the United States supreme court, and authorized the raising of funds for such an appeal.

MRS. STETSON IN SECLUSION

Some Talk of a New Church, With Her as Its Leader

New York, Nov. 20.—Mrs. Augusta E. Stetson, excommunicated Christian Science leader of this city, has secluded herself since the action taken against her by the mother church in Boston, and what will be the outcome of matters in the First Church of Christ, Scientist, here, in which she was formerly the dominant figure, is problematical.

There is much talk of a new church being organized with Mrs. Stetson at the head, but nothing authoritative.

Although dropped by the mother church, Mrs. Stetson is not yet barred from the New York institution. Whether she will be dropped is yet to be decided upon. She is still a member of the board of trustees of the local church.

BURIED DYNAMITE CAUSES A SCARE

Men Who Hid Explosive Have Lost Their Bearings

Lawrence, Mass., Nov. 20.—Fearing 100 pounds of dynamite which is buried in the field where many hundred laborers are making ready to excavate for the new Pacific mill print works, work has been stopped and Patrick Murphy, an expert handler of the explosive, has been hurriedly summoned from New York to locate the mine.

The dynamite was used by the Boston and Northern Street Railway company in their excavating work in the summer of 1898. Upon the approach of winter that year the explosive was buried in the field, which was then a small woods, across from the Boston and Northern car barns on Merrimack street.

The spot was marked, but since the trees and underbrush have been removed and mills built all around the locality the men who buried the explosive have lost their bearings.

Murphy came to this city from New York in response to a telegram. He took immediate steps to locate the mine, but must go carefully. He admits that the search is hazardous.

WAGE CUT IS DUE

Nine Percent Reduction May Be Made InFall River Next Month

Fall River, Mass., Nov. 20.—The 30,000 operatives in the four score cotton mills of Fall River will face a reduction of nearly 9 percent in their wages on Dec. 13, unless the manufacturers decide to waive their right to make a cut, which they will have under the so-called sliding scale agreement which has been in force for several years.

The existing situation is due to the great cost of cotton during the past six months and the failure of the finished product to advance correspondingly.

DOVE OF PEACE TAKES FLIGHT

Mrs. Stetson Not In Harmony With Christian Science

LEADER IS EXCOMMUNICATED

Directors Find Her Guilty of Working Against the Interests of the Church—Thousands of Its Members Expected That She Would Be Exonerated—Had Long Been a Powerful Figure In New York

Boston, Nov. 19.—Mrs. Augusta E. Stetson of New York, for years regarded as one of the most powerful leaders of the Christian Science church, has been excommunicated. This is the unanimous decision of the board of directors of the mother church, the supreme governing authority of the organization, which has been hearing charges against Mrs. Stetson for three days this week. A statement to this effect was issued by Alfred Farlow, local publicity agent of the church, on behalf of the directors.

The statement declares that the offences proved against Mrs. Stetson were of two kinds:

1. "Working against the interests of the members of this church who are not her followers and against the interests of this church.

2. "Persisting in teachings and practices which are contrary to Christian Science."

That the decision of the board of directors could not in any way be foreshadowed by the developments of the week will be admitted by the thousands of Christian Scientists who have been cognizant of the situation.

It was persistently declared by those interested that the calling of Mrs. Stetson to Boston was not for trial or an inquisition, but simply for a conference, and many made bold to declare that all difficulties would be patched up.

Another reason why Christian Scientists were ready to believe that Mrs. Stetson would make proper amends and receive exoneration was because of her persistent avowal of loyalty to Mrs. Eddy and the principles of the church, these people citing as the strongest of arguments Mrs. Stetson's statement to the press on Tuesday night in which she declared herself in entire harmony with the tenets of the faith and ready to render all possible obedience to the highest authority.

It has been pointed out that the directors summoned Mrs. Stetson in no spirit of vindictiveness, but were only too glad to welcome her to full counsel in Christian Science affairs, if she could explain satisfactorily the charges which had persistently been made in the last few years. The trouble in the New York church had assumed so alarming proportions that action of very decided character was necessitated, Christian Scientists declared, and the Mrs. Eddy letter to that body, received in its mass meeting of Monday evening, was alluded to as a clear indication that harmony was in the air and that the dove of peace would visit New York and Falmouth street as well.

Mrs. Stetson was one of the most powerful figures in the building of the beautiful Christian Science church in New York city. There she has been a ruling figure for years, practically dictating the membership of the board of trustees and directing the affairs of the church. In addition to these manifold duties she has found time to conduct large classes in New York. Her pupils are therefore numbered by the hundreds and are located in all parts of the country. It has long been rumored that Mrs. Stetson's chief ambition was to be the leader of the Christian Science church and that she was building up a gigantic organization in her own interests.

For years she was the first reader of the New York church and was forced out a few years ago on the ruling from the governing board that no reader could hold office hereafter for more than three consecutive years. This was regarded by friends of Mrs. Stetson as a direct slap at her, as was also the ultimatum which followed, that no practitioner of Christian Science should have offices in a church building.

Mrs. Stetson was then carrying on her classes in the church that she had done so much to build, as were also about fifteen of her favorite pupils. They were all forced to leave the church building, but Mrs. Stetson, having a beautiful home which adjoined the church, found herself but little inconvenienced.

It was soon after this latest bylaw was promulgated that Mrs. Stetson received her first "admonition." It was charged that there were many "errors" in her teaching. This admonition was accompanied by an order which barred Mrs. Stetson and her favorite pupils from practicing. Mrs. Stetson gave out a letter in which she professed renewed loyalty to the principles of the church and to Mrs. Eddy, and she repeated these sentiments after another "admonition," which, though a severe blow to herself and friends, carried with it no curtailment of Mrs. Stetson's church membership.

HAPPY WOMEN

Plenty of Them in Quincy, and Good Reason for It.

Wouldn't any woman be happy,
After years of backache suffering,
Days of misery, nights of unrest,
The distress of urinary troubles,
She finds relief and cure?
No reason why any Quincy reader should suffer in the face of evidence like this:

Mrs. George L. Nott, 99 North Street, Quincy, Mass., says: "I have every reason for holding a high opinion of Doan's Kidney Pills. I was troubled a great deal by headaches and dizzy spells which were so seaere at times that I had to grasp something for support to keep from falling. My sight was also affected, spots often appearing before me and my back ached intensely. Hearing of Doan's Kidney Pills, I procured a supply at the Cox Drug Store and began their use. I was helped from the first and after I had taken the contents of five boxes, I was cured. Other members of my family have used this remedy with equally good results."

ZELAYA SLAYS TWO AMERICANS

Nicaraguan President's Action Causes Grave Crisis

WARSHIPS GET RUSH ORDERS

President Taft, Who Is Thoroughly Aroused, Refuses Audience to New Nicaraguan Minister and Is Said to Be Ready to Recognize Insurgents as Belligerants—Reports of Ruthless Slaughter Without Show of Justice

Washington, Nov. 19.—Two American warships are rushing to Port Limon under cable orders from the navy department, and it is broadly hinted in Washington that an official announcement that the United States will interfere in Nicaragua may be expected at any hour.

The strained relations between this country and the southern republic reached such a stage on the arrival of a message stating that President Zelaya had executed two Americans in the insurgent army that President Taft refused to see the new Nicaraguan minister. He is said to have determined at once to recognize the insurgents as belligerents.

Every cable brings news of the massacres which attend Zelaya's attitude towards the revolution. It is not that his soldiers are taking desperate measures with revolutionists that will stir the world when the full details are known, but that persons merely suspected are being slaughtered.

No attempt at justice is being shown, as the troops are acting merely upon their own suspicions. Houses are pillaged in the search for evidence, and when the occupants offer resistance they are slaughtered. Many women have been subjected to the most horrible outrages.

The attitude of the United States is shown in a dispatch sent to the Bluefields Steamship company. This showed that the state department is tired of the high-handed actions of the small Central American republic.

An hour later a peremptory note, couched in diplomatic language, but none the less direct, was delivered to Senor Rodriguez, charge d'affaires of the Nicaraguan legation, demanding a full and complete explanation of the execution of the two Americans, Leonard Grace and Leroy Cannon, who were executed by order of Zelaya, when they were found in the insurgent army.

Pending a satisfactory explanation of the occurrence, President Taft has refused to recognize Isidoro Hazera, the new Nicaraguan minister. Mr. Taft is thoroughly aroused by the actions of the Zelayan government, and apparently is determined to make the lives of American citizens much safer and considerably more respected in Central America than they have been hitherto.

For some years the situation in Nicaragua has been anything but agreeable to the United States. Last year Minister Coolidge resigned his place and returned from the Nicaraguan capital. It was said then that he returned merely because of his health, but it eventually leaked out through diplomatic channels that he practically was forced to withdraw in order to save his dignity and preserve the standing of this government. Since then there has been no diplomatic connection between the two governments except through the Nicaraguan legation here.

Attaches of the legation decline to make any comment on the situation. The new minister, Senor Hazera, naturally refuses to discuss it, owing to the fact that his credentials had been waved aside at the White House because of the events of the last few hours. There is an air of genuine anxiety about the legation, however, and from appearances the diplomats regard the situation as grave.

Says Americans Were Dynamiters

Managua, Nic., Nov. 19.—The Nicaraguan government claims that Cannon and Grace, the Americans who were executed for complicity in the rebellion, were tried by a fair court-martial, held under the direction of the government. The men, it was charged, were responsible for placing dynamite mines intended to blow up government steamers laden with troops which entered the river at Greytown.

Railway Company Wants $1,000,000

Boston, Nov. 19.—The Boston and Worcester Street Railway company has filed with the board of railroad commissioners a petition asking the approval of that board for an issue of stock to the amount of $500,000, and an equal amount of bonds, to run twenty years at 4½ percent.

Autopsy on Body of Baby Who Died In the Myrtle Home

Providence, Nov. 20.—Although an autopsy performed upon the body of Inez Johnson, a child who died at the Myrtle Baby Home in East Providence last Tuesday, showed natural causes as the reason for death, the authorities will continue their investigations further. Since June 17 twenty-four babies died in the home.

Under orders from President Hull of the town council, Medical Examiner Allison performed the autopsy.

James Minnick, agent of the society for organizing charity, has asked Attorney General Greenough to find out if there are legal means to close the home.

SPANISH WAR CLAIMS

Government Decides to Reimburse Massachusetts by Substantial Sum

Washington, Nov. 20.—Massachusetts gains nearly $30,000 through a decision of the comptroller of the currency. The question came on the settlement of the first five of the claims of the commonwealth for reimbursement of expenses incurred in aiding the United States to raise the volunteer army for the war with Spain.

The state claimed $262,928.39 and the auditor of the war department allowed $18,217.82 and disallowed $244,710.57. Comptroller Tracewell allows payment of $29,740.70 of the total sum disallowed. His decision is final, as far as the government is concerned.

WAS FAMOUS AS AMERICAN BEAUTY

Duchess of Manchester Dies In Her London Home

London, Nov. 20.—Consuelo, Dowager Duchess of Manchester, died this morning of heart failure following an attack of neuritis.

The duchess had been ill some time from neuritis, but recently complications developed and she failed rapidly. She died in her London residence.

The dowager duchess was famous as a beauty and was the daughter of Antonio Yznaga del Valle of Ravenswood, La., and Cuba. Consuelo became a prominent figure in New York city's social life. Her wedding in Grace church in May, 1876, to Viscount Mandeville was a brilliant affair, and one of the first of the alliances of American girls with foreigners.

A son and twin daughters were the fruit of the union, and on the death of his father Consuelo's son became duke. He married Miss Helen Zimmerman of Cincinnati in 1900 and Consuelo became the dowager duchess. Her two daughters died in young womanhood.

For many years the dowager duchess was a great favorite in London and on the continent. King Edward and Queen Alexandra were her constant friends.

HER THANKSGIVING DINNER

YOUNG Mrs. John Vincent Harris approached the butcher's block timidly.

"How do you do, Mr. Butcher? Please wait on me. I don't know what I want exactly. I want something for a Thanksgiving dinner. No—that is, I don't think I want a turkey unless—perhaps you have one ready filled. Either chestnuts or oysters would do. You haven't? Then I think I won't take a turkey. These all look so—so difficult.

"You see, my husband"—the word comes with difficulty—"has asked his family to take their first meal—I mean they are to dine with us for the first time since we went to housekeeping, so I want everything to look as if I were accustomed to it. No, I am not used to such a large family, and you must help me to calculate. There are his father, mother, the girls and a son-in-law. You see, Alice, the second daughter, was married in an autocar, but maybe you don't care for romantic marriages.

"I MUST NOT KEEP YOU WAITING."

"I asked Mr. John Vincent Harris when he kissed—that is, when he left me this morning what I should buy, and he said to get— I declare, I believe I've forgotten! Oh, yes, now I know. He spoke of 'a bird and a bottle.' Have you any birds in bottles? No? That's too bad. And after I had been so careful to remember too! Perhaps a duck would be nice, only ducks have such homely feet. No, I just couldn't serve a duck to his family. Why, all his sisters are so proud of their feet and wear French heels. There are five of them—sisters, I mean—and they will all be there. I almost wish I could have married a man with half as many sisters. Why, how funny! Then there'd be two and a half sisters, and that's not possible, you know.

"Of course I must not keep you waiting. I don't really mean to monopolize your time, but— Oh, dear! What shall I get? I guess you may send me a squib—that's a young dove, you know. I ate one at a restaurant once just after I was engaged. That's quite awhile ago, because we've been married ever so long. You just ought to see my presents. I've got them all spread out and— What? You don't think a squib—squab, I said—will be large enough? Well, maybe not.

"What shall I get? Let me see. Geese! Yes, you may send me three geeses—not too small. Please be sure to cover their feet, and—no, you need not dress them, because I don't want to make you extra work, and you know I'd have to undress them before I baked them. And, please, Mr. Butcher, see that their eyes are closed, for I never could have the heart to put them into the oven if they were looking at me.

"NOW, DON'T YOU FORGET."

"Thank you. You have been so kind that I have a notion to tell you a secret. Yes, I will. This is my first experience at a meat store. Yes, I think I've done pretty well. I am afraid I did fib just a little to you about being married a long time, because, really, you know I haven't. Why, how did you guess it? We have just got back from our trip to Niagara.

"No, I won't keep you any longer. By the way, I shall want a few pounds of gimlets—no, giblets—for gravy, so please send them. Don't forget about closing the eyes. Thank you. Good day."

She returns hastily. "Oh, I nearly forgot to order salt pork. Mr. John Vincent Harris is so fond of it for breakfast. Please don't send any fat with it, because we are not Jack Spratt and his wife. What? No, they are not neighbors. I thought you might know them. No, they don't trade here. Now, don't forget the things I've told you. Good day."—Chicago News.

THE CONCIERGE.

Tyrant Rule of the Autocrat of the Parisian Flat House.

The "concierge" is considered to be the bane of the Parisian flat dweller's existence. His functions are supposed to be the following:

The first and most important is to collect the rent on quarter day; after that he must see that the tenants do not surreptitiously remove. The latter precaution seems to be somewhat unnecessary, as rents in Paris are always paid in advance.

He should also bring up your letters at least twice a day, but as the concierge is generally a stout, middle aged woman who has a decided objection to climbing stairs the latter regulation remains somewhat of a dead letter.

In Paris the front door of most houses is generally closed at 10 o'clock. After that time admittance can only be obtained by ringing a bell. The concierge is obliged to open the door, and she does this, as soon as she is awake, by pulling a rope which hangs by her bedside.

If she is a sound sleeper and you are accustomed to come home late at night, the best thing to do is to look for another flat, as the concierge will put you down as a "bad tenant" and make things as unpleasant for you as possible.

If you never stop out late at night, receive very few friends and fee her heavily at Christmas, the concierge will consider you as a "good tenant" until you give notice to leave, when her interest in you suddenly vanishes.

As there is nothing more to be expected from you and the incoming tenant is obliged to give a substantial tip, called a "denier a Dieu," she is anxious to "speed the parting guest" as much as possible.

The concierge does sometimes make a final effort to extract something more from you by attempting to make you pay a franc for every nail knocked in the walls of your flat, but this has been decided to be illegal and may be safely resisted.

But the Parisian concierge is really unpopular because she represents a landlord.—London Mail.

A DELAYED LETTER.

And What Happened When the Missive Was Finally Recovered.

The vagaries of the postal service are sometimes beyond the understanding of the layman. In March of last year a man in New York received a letter from a friend in England, written when on the point of sailing for Philadelphia, urgently requesting him to return a loan of $10. The man who wrote the letter needed funds and would the debtor kindly send the money to him, care of the steamship line at Philadelphia? The man in New York saw that his friend would reach Philadelphia within a day or two, so he promptly clapped a ten dollar bill in an envelope and addressed and mailed it. A week later he was apprised by mail that the money had not arrived. Both men made a diligent search for the missing letter. But it could not be found. So the debtor gave his friend a check and forgot about his $10, setting down its loss to the dishonesty of some intermediary who had handled the envelope.

Imagine his surprise when one day eight months later he received his letter from the dead letter office in Washington. It was covered with postmarks and much battered, for it had traveled many thousands of miles back to England, around the United Kingdom and to America again, but the money was safe inside.

Chuckling, he met his friend a few minutes later and showed him the ten dollar bill.

"How's that for luck?" he queried.

"Great," replied his friend. "Say, old man, you couldn't lend me that for a day or two, could you? It's like picking money up in the street for you, and I could make use of it just now."

Sadly the bill was handed over. "What's the use of such wonderful occurrences?" ruminated the "lucky" man.—New York Post.

The Best Laid Plan.

Husband (who is going to the theater with his wife)—There; I took time by the forelock tonight. Here I am an hour beforehand, with my evening clothes all on and everything ready. Now I'll go downstairs and have a quiet smoke while you get ready.

Wife—Oh, darling! Can you ever forgive me?

"What's the matter now?"

"Why, the cook tells me the furnace fire went out this afternoon, as the furnace man failed to come. The baby has a cold, you know. Would you mind going down in the cellar and making it over? You've just got time, love."—New York Herald.

Successful Ugly Women.

Successful women were not always of irreproachable beauty or modeling. Thus the Princess d'Evoli of Louis XV.'s time was one eyed; the slit of Montespan's mouth reached her ears; Mme. de Maintenon was thin, meager, yellowish; La Valliere lame, Gabrielle d'Estrees one armed, Anne Boleyn six fingered.—Hindustan Review.

He Dodged.

Mr. Meek—Did you trump my ace? Mrs. M.—Yes. What of it? Mr. M.—N-nothing, my dear. I'm glad it was you. If one of our opponents had done it we'd have lost the trick.—Cleveland Leader.

GRAY HAIRS BANISHED.

The old idea of using sage for darkening the hair is again coming in vogue. Our grandmothers used to have dark, glossy hair at the age of seventy-five, while our mothers have white hair before they are fifty. Our grandmothers used to make a "sage tea" and apply it to their hair. The tea made their hair soft and glossy and gradually restored the natural color. One objection to using such a preparation was the trouble of making it, especially as it had to be made every two or three days on account of it souring quickly. This objection has been overcome and by asking almost any first-class druggist for Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur the public can get a superior preparation of sage, with the admixture of sulphur, another valuable remedy for hair and scalp troubles. Daily use of this preparation will not only quickly restore the color of the hair but will also stop the hair from falling out and make it grow. It is sold by all druggists for 50c. and $1.00 a bottle, or is sent direct by the Wyeth Chemical Company, 74 Cortlandt St., New York City, upon receipt of price.

BRIEFS

The flag in front of the Elks' club is at half mast out of respect for William J. Tilley, who died yesterday.

The Tuberculosis Relief Committee will meet on Monday at 3. P. M. at the residence of F. W. Plummer.

Many Quincy football enthusiasts are witnessing the yearly struggle this afternoon between the two great college teams, Harvard and Yale.

Monday will be an off night for the City Council, as the next meeting does not come until Dec. 6, the night before the City election.

The new street light on Maple street is much appreciated by the many who use that street going to and from the post office.

The Phipps A. C. football team defeated the Federal avenue team this morning, 10 to 0. For games, address James Sullivan, 11 Phipps street.

The Ladies' Aid Alliance of the Wollaston Unitarian church will be the guests on Monday of the Quincy branch at their regular meeting.

Good progress is being made on the foundation for the parochial school that is being built by St. John's church on Phipps street.

Mrs. A. Isabelle Davis of Spear street has been suddenly called to Woburn by the death of Mr. Davis' mother who died Thursday.

The many friends of Daniel Desmond, who recently underwent a surgical operation at the City Hospital, will be pleased to learn that he is on the rapid road to recovery.

The regular monthly vesper service of the Wollaston Congregational church will be held on Sunday afternoon, November 28, at 4 o'clock. The public is invited.

Baalis Sanford of Brockton died this week. He was at one time district deputy grand master of this Masonic district. Later he became grand master of Massachusetts. Masonic services were held yesterday.

Many will be interested in the address in the "Civic Problem" series to be given tomorrow evening by Judge Albert E. Avery of the District court; subject, "The Riches of the Commonwealth." Judge Avery has a definite message for the Quincy public.

The men from Christ church choir will sing with the female vested choir of Emmanuel Church, Braintree, at Braintree on Sunday afternoon repeating the anthem "From Egypt's Bondage,"—sung at Quincy by the combined choirs on Sunday evening, Nov 7.

The College club held a meeting last night at the Y. M. C. A., and made arrangements for a college night Dec. 10. Also on December 17, they will have a banquet and Capt. Fish of the Harvard football team will be present. The committee of arrangements are: Roy Sidelinger, Roland Estes and Clarence Cassidy.

Many Quincy young men are deeply interested in the wireless telegraph and quite a few have home-made instruments set up at their homes, where they receive and send messages. Several of them report having caught commercial messages that are flying through space but the code is sent so fast that they are only able to make out a word now and then.

C. W. Guy, who was the Democratic candidate for Councillor from the second district at the recent State election, says that while he hardly expected to win out in a strong Republican district that he feels very much complimented on the very flattering vote which his fellow townsmen gave him. Mr. Guy conducted a furniture house for many years in the old coliseum building where he made a host of warm friends. Desiring a larger field he moved his business to Boston several years ago and is now located at 86 Canal street.

DORCHESTER TOO STRONG

Quincy High Unable to Score Against Them

For a few minutes of yesterday's game at Dorchester it looked easy for Quincy, but after being held on the 1 yd. line for downs the local boys seemed to lose their dash and thereafter fought a losing game. The score at the end reading 19 to 0.

Dorchester got one touch down in the first half, and a safety, two touchdowns and two kicked goals in the second.

Fraser was the one mighty man for Dorchester stopping Quincy single handed time after time.

Bates, Harmon, Bugler and Veale shone for Quincy, Bates in his line plunging, Bugler and Harmon in defensive work, while Veale was featuring end runs.

Quincy was outweighed and out played after the first few minutes of the game, and all that they could do was keep the score as low as possible.

This ends a hard season for the light Quincy team, and they have done remarkably well in combating with the heavier and stronger teams of greater Boston.

Billy Manning played a hard aggressive game yesterday and several times was laid out by the heavy Dorchester forwards.

Almost 200 rooters accompanied the team and they kept things busy all the time under their leader "Shadow Kendall."

In the second half Billy Manning fell on a blocked punt behind his own goal line for a safety.

The loss of Hill and Lakin greatly weakened the team, and especially was Hill's punting missed.

The score summary:

BOYS HURT IN RUNAWAY

Were in Grocery Team at West Quincy

Two boys, John Reddington aged 9 years, and George McKenna aged 11 years, both of whom reside on Crescent street were seriously injured this morning by being thrown from the grocery wagon of J. E. McDonald on Willard street, near the corner of Rogers street. The grocery team was in charge of a young boy, and the Reddington and McKenna boys were riding with him.

The horse was not going fast enough to please the boys and the driver struck him with a whip. This started up the horse and the driver struck him with a whip. This started up the horse and the driver lost control of him. As soon as the boys realized that the horse was running away they attempted to get out of the team ,but before they were able to do this the team smashed into a pole. The McKenna boy, who is a cripple, fell out of the front of the wagon, and the wheels passed over his stomach. The Reddington boy was not as fortunate, and he fell beneath the horse's feet, and was trampled upon. McKenna who was apparently uninjured picked himself up and scampered toward home. Reddington, however, was more seriously injured. He had one of his ankles badly lacerated by the horses hoof, and it was also thought that he might be injured internally.

A physician was summoned by telephone and he took the Reddington boy in his automobile to the hospital. The team was badly smashed by coming in contact with a pole and the horse was cut somewhat.

BOSTON AMUSEMENTS

Keith's Theatre.

Albert Chevalier, the great English character actor, will positively appear at Keith's next week. The announcement that his engagement had been postponed caused considerable disappointment but it was a satisfaction to his admirers in Boston to know that the reason for it was his tremendous success in Chicago, for he has made one of the biggest hits known in the history of that city. Mr. Chevalier is unquestionably the foremost artist of his day and as a character comedian has been recognized as such for many years. So closely has he become identified with such classics as "My Old Dutch," that it is now almost impossible for him to get away from them, notwithstanding that during his present tour he is singing character songs that many people believe ti be even better than his earlier successes. For Thanksgiving week the surrounding bill is of a particularly interesting character, one that will please the children and grownups alike. The feature will be Gruber's Animals, which will introduce the cleverest performing elephant in the world and a beautiful horse. DeWitt Burns and Torrance in their dancing pantomime, "The Awakening of the Toys," A. O. Duncan, the ventriloquist, is also on the bill and a new comedienne who has attracted an immense amount of attention in the west will make her Boston debut in the person of Nellie V. Nichols.

Castle Square Theatre.

"A Contented Woman" which John Craig and his stock company are presenting at the Castle Square next week, is the work of Charles H. Hoyt, and that in itself is sufficient evidence of its humor. Year after year, Mr. Hoyt wrote play after play that never failed to meet with the favor of the public, and in "A Contented Woman" he reached the climax of his skill and humor. Its plot deals with the comic aspects of the woman's suffrage question, and the fact that a husband and wife are pitted against each other in their efforts to become mayor of a city is sufficient evidence that it is thoroughly entertaining from start to finish. Husband and wife love each other of course, and therein lies not a little of the topsy-turvy, eccentric humor of which Mr. Hoyt was so fond, and to which he was always able to give the best expression both in plot and in dialogue. The cast of "A Contented Woman" at the Castle Square, will be, under the stage direction of William Parke, as follows:—John Craig will appear as Benton Holme , with Mary Young as Grace Holme, Gertrude Binley as Mrs. Ebsmith, Mabel Colcord as Aunt Jim, Donald Meek as Uncle Todie, George Hassell as Brighton Betts, Al Roberts as Phil Bowls, Wilfred Young as Cutting Hintz, Bert Young as Boyle Dowel.

Boston Theatre.

"Three Twins," the popular musical comedy at the Boston theatre, is now to begin the last week of its Boston engagement. This production during the past seven weeks attained a degree of success that has seldom if ever been equalled by a similar entertainment in the Hub city. In every respect the production has supplied the best that can be given to a light musical show. The book is rich in comedy and is interpreted by a cast of exceptionally clever and well liked artists. Both Mr. Crawford and Miss McCoy have scored pronounced individual hits, which in both instances are thoroughly deserved. The music is of the popular order, being both dainty and catchy ,that lingers long in the memory. The piece has from a spectacular standpoint ,the most startling of mechanical and electrical surprises. It is staged lavishly, the scenes represented being picturesquely arranged and the costuming showing exquisite taste in harmonious colorings. There is a stageful of pretty girls, excellently trained as to voice and dance and wonderful rapidity of action from the beginning to the end of the performance. There will be a special matinee performance on Thanksgiving day, the seats for which are now on sale. Beginning Monday evening the 29th instant, Messrs. Klaw & Erlanger and Joseph Brooks will present the big spectacular show "The Circus Man" for the first time in Boston. The cast is headed by Maclyn Arbuckle.

American Music Hall.

The much talked of Pauline the famous French hypnotist will be the big feature of the all star bill at the American Music hall next week. Pauline first attracted attention when in New York. A body of physicians tested his powers and found not one single thing wanting. Pauline is not a lady but a handsome, well groomed, smooth faced piercing eyed young man who has no equal as a mesmerist. He is positively the scientific wonder of the age and has been rightly termed a mystifier of multitudes. Another big feature of the bill will be Sophie Tucker the young lady with the big voice discovered last summer by Zeigfeld and added to his list of stars in the "Follies of 1909." As a coon shouter Miss Tucker has no equal and to her abilities in this 'ine she adds a personality which is simply irresistable. To these combinations has been ascribed her wonderful success and rise in the theatrical profession. The Ishakawa Japs is another act on the bill that is sure to cause a great deal of comment. They are without any exception the world's greatest balancers and some of their stunts are nothing short of marvelous. The musical end of the program will be well looked after by Diamond & Beatrice who will present something entirely novel in this line. The balance of the bill will include some of the biggest headline features in vaudeville and for many of them it will be their first appearance in Boston.

PUBLIC CONSCIENCE IS FAST ASLEEP

Says Judge A. E. Avery in Address on Civic Problems.

We Must Radically Change the Curriculum in Our Public Schools---The Remedy Is in Our Hands.

Judge A. E. Avery not only criticised civic problems Sunday evening, but he had a remedy. The large audience at the Bethany Congregational church was not confined to the regular attendants of the churches, but others prominent in government and educational affairs and citizens generally were present. Judge Avery's subject was "The Riches of the Commonwealth," which was summed up in true citizenship. "The riches of the Commonwealth," he said, "are free strong minds and souls of health, and more to her than gold or grain, the cunning hand, the cultured man."

We have a glorious Commonwealth and the constitution although 129 years old stands today a model for future states. We as a people do not admire sufficiently its beauties, and whenever I have the opportunity I take pleasure in renewing my allegiance and requesting my friends to recognize the facts, that the preamble which sets forth our scheme of government and which I have always understood came from the pen of John Adams of the old town of Braintree, ought to satisfy the most exacting, even the Communists, Socialists and Anarchists. And it is a part of our civic duty to see that it does satisfy these vague, visionary and restless theorists who are ever seeking to overturn a stable government.

Mr. Avery read the preamble, and commented further.

A recent writer has said that if you trace the present social problem to its source, you will find that the public conscience has been lulled to sleep by the sirene voices of public opinion—swaying influences; that men sell liquor for profit, connive at immorality and crime for profit, adulterate food for profit, enslave their fellow citizens for profit, sell themselves body and soul, all for profit.

Public conscience is fast asleep on the threshold of the temple of Civic righteousness.

And now how are we to secure a more ideal social life and greater civic efficiency. How insure a well trained hand and a cultured brain for coming generations?

First, let us begin with our very selves, our homes. We New Englanders are too self conscious. We need a little of the Frenchman's art "of being domestic in the light of day." We should lead "A life wide-windowed, shining all abroad, rather than curtains drawn to shield from sight profane. The rites we pay to the mysterious I."

Let us forget the gold and the grain, the material things, and take up seriously the civic problems which confront us on every hand. Let us look after and foster the true riches of our commonwealth. Let us lay aside our Anglo-Saxon indifference and supreme selfishness. Give up our dogmatic controversies for Lowell says: "flames that shine in controversial eyes, burn out no brains but his who kindles them."

Let us hold in greater reverence the sacred civic heritage provided for us by the "free strong minds" of our ancestors. Particularly must we beware of the spirit of commercialism. How are we to protect ourselves, "from his unscrupulous curiosity that handles everything as if to buy?"

Judge A. E. AVERY.

The influence of a sweet home is better than ten thousand philanthropic schemes devised to take its place. An intelligent foreigner said to me only the other day that the trouble with the American parent was that he allowed the children to run the household. You and I know how true such an assertion is.

My experience as a magistrate in our District court indicates very plainly that the spirit of irreverence and lawlessness is on the increase in our community and particularly among the young people. And I am forced to believe with Prof. Paulsen, that "everywhere emphasis is put on pleasure, rather than on duty. Everywhere there is a desire to relax requirements. Too many parents have ceased to exact obedience or administer discipline at home. To save our children we must return to the old fashioned ideals. They must be taught to obey. Not by the methods which drove our old friend David Harum from his home; which led him to adopt his baneful philosophy of "do unto others as you would have them do unto you but do it unto them first," but in the manner suggested by Prof Paulsen, whom I quote:

"Learn to obey! By obedience I do not mean a merely outward submission to outward force and authority, but the voluntary subordination of one's own will under the will of a better and higher intelligence. He who has not learned to do this in childhood will have great difficulty in learning it in later life; he will rarely get beyond the deplorable and unhappy state that vacillates between outward submission and uproarious rebellion. No greater wrong can be done to childhood than the one caused by our desire to spare it the necessity of obeying. Whoever conceives the duty of the educator to consist in giving in to all desires of the child, in gratifying all its wishes, makes himself guilty of the gravest sin toward his child. He denies it what, in view of its future mission, it cannot afford to lose, namely, the exercise in voluntarily subordinating its own will under necessity, be it a natural or a social one."

Second,—We must radically change the curriculum in our public schools. I am forced to believe from my experience as a former member of the School committee of Braintree for a number of years, from my experience as an observer of youth, and particularly from my experience as a magistrate, having had something to do with the juvenile offender, that Parker H. Sercombe is absolutely right, when he says that "thinking parents have come to the conclusion that the system which implants the idea of getting something for nothing in the minds of our children and the desire to live upon the labor of others, is the worst form of race suicide; they know that their children are not being made efficient; they know, too, that they themselves are helpless in the hands of professional educators, and that their children under present school treatment grow lazy, anaemic, near-sighted, and naturally drift towards cigarettes, rowdyism and criminality."

The responsibility is ours and the remedy is in our hands. Pray don't continue to look to the courts for the correction of these fundamental errors. We men have been found inadequate to cope with these conditions, but a strong, courageous woman, who is not a voter, has come to the rescue. Mrs. Young the superintendent of the public schools of Chicago has driven the first wedge into our theory perverted school system. She has taken out algebra, a purely logical study from the grammar grades, and has substituted a course of study on the social and civic activities of the city itself.

Third—We must foster a greater regard for law and order. Always remembering that the people themselves make the laws and that the courts are merely umpires, as it were. Every school boy knows the rules of the game of base ball and of football, and he looks to the umpire and the referee for a fair and impartial interpretation. Therefore let us obey the laws even though it hurts, just as the school-boy is compelled to accept the ruling of the umpire.

Judge Avery quoted at this point from Gov. Huges of New York on "Obedience though it hurts." Also from James Russell Lowell's poem "The Cathedral." In closing he said:

I am glad to believe that it seems as if the day was almost, if not quite, at hand when we can answer that indirect inquiry of the poet, and truthfully say, yes, there is today a great moral awakening among all the people, which plainly manifests itself in the many movements now securely underway looking towards the civic betterment of mankind.

Yes! Life's fine loyalties are no longer turned to jest; courtesy is no longer cold and "God is in all that liberates and lifts, in all that humbles, sweetens and consoles.

BRIEFS

Mr. Daniel McGrath of Botolph street well known in political circles, has accepted a position in Providence, R. I.

Two weeks from Tuesday is the municipal election and citizens will be having their say as to who shall govern the city during the year 1910.

The usual number of simple drunks fell into the hands of the police Saturday night. In most of the cases the men were released Sunday morning. Those not released were in court this morning.

Mrs. Mary J. Lincoln of Boston who has many friends in this city, is to speak at the meeting of the Quincy Women's club tomorrow afternoon at the clubhouse her subject being "The Simplicity of Living." The program for the afternoon is in charge of the Home Economics committee. Mrs. Wade, chairman.

The regular meeting of Quincy lodge of Elks will be held Tuesday evening at the club house on Foster street. The meeting will be purely social and will be called to order at 9 o'clock. Arrangements have been made to give everybody a good time. The annual memorial service for departed brothers will be held Sunday Dec. 5, in the lodge room at 3 o'clock.

The rummage sale held Thursday, Friday and Saturday in the building at the corner of Merrymount road and Hancock street for the benefit of the King's Daughters and the Day Nursery was the most successful of any previous sales held. An unusually large amount of articles were on sale and as a rule they were in better condition than usual. Practically everything was disposed of.

THE THANKSGIVING BASKET

BOB placed the big basket between his feet on the floor and looked out of the window of the train.

In Bob's basket was a big Thanksgiving turkey, a surprise for the folks at home. There was no turkey in the basket which a man who sat next to Bob placed on the floor between his feet. What was in it Bob discovered when he undertook to surprise the folks at home. He surprised them all right enough, but he surprised himself also, for he found that he and the man had somehow changed baskets and that instead of a turkey he had brought home a bottle attached to a fine boy baby.

Dire was Bob's disappointment, for the turkey his mother in his absence had provided was far inferior to the one he had unwittingly exchanged for the baby.

Bob's mother took the baby to her arms and her heart, and, to her credit be it said, she did so before she ascertained that the clothing and ornaments of the little stranger indicated that it was a baby of distinction.

ONE OF THE FOUR HUNDRED.

"One of the Four Hundred," she said to her husband.

"No doubt the four hundred and first," he laughed, in spite of having just lost his job.

Next morning, however—Thanksgiving morning—his face wore a different expression. Grave determination shone from his eyes.

"I must be off at once," he said to his wife, "to look for another job."

"On a holiday!" she exclaimed.

"The sooner the better," said he, and he scarcely more than skimmed his newspaper except the columns of "Help Wanted—Males."

"Nothing there," he observed, with a sigh. "Never mind, mother; there's something somewhere, and I'll find it."

Scarcely had he gone when Bob picked up the paper and in a moment more gave a shout.

"There! You've waked the new baby," said his mother, hurrying to the rescue.

"Listen to this! It's the very baby, I do believe."

It was a short dispatch from Mayville, sent out late the previous night, to the effect that Mr. Ray's son and heir was missing with his nurse, and great fears were entertained that the child had been stolen and was being held for ransom.

Then came a knock on the hall door which checked Bob in a war dance. He opened it and was almost brushed down by the man of the railway cars, who was standing there with a big basket on his arm and who dashed into the room like a wild man.

"Here's your wretched turkey!" he cried. "Oh, you're the boy who changed baskets with me, are you? Lucky your address was on that basket. And here's the infant, the beloved baby. If you've not treated it well I'll prosecute you for kidnaping!"

"I say," cried Bob, at last finding his wits, "leave that basket and the baby too! I know all about you. It's you that's the kidnaper! Help! Police! Po-ol-a-ugh-gr-r!"

He hardly got out one yell before the man was upon him with a furious bound, almost choking the breath out of him.

"Do that again," he growled, "and I'll kill you!" And he threw the boy into a corner and darted out of the house with the baby, locking the door from the outside.

BOB SPRANG AFTER HIM.

Bob picked himself up from the floor and tried the door. It yielded nothing. Then he got a chair and pulled himself up to the transom. In a second he was through it, hatless, dusty, choked and panting, but thirsting for revenge. Down the stairs he leaped, three at a time.

Up the street, unmindful of other boys, he darted. Half a block down the avenue he saw a street car plunging along, and on the rear platform stood the kidnaper with the wrapped up baby in his arms. Bob had not a cent for car fare, but he dashed after the car as if he owned the street.

The car gained on him in spite of all effort, but the man did not seem to have observed him. At last it shot out of sight, but Bob did not falter. He was not far from the ferry, where the car stopped.

The boy got there, almost exhausted, but determined still. A ferryboat was just going out. Regardless of a big policeman and a ticket seller, he darted past them on to the pier and down planks like a bullet, with the policeman behind him on an elephantine charge, and caught the boat just as it was beginning to move from the slip.

Now, who should be on the boat but Mr. Ray himself, just going home after a hurried visit to police headquarters. Bob's desperate spring for the deck had made him an object of general attention, and his cry of "That man's a kidnaper!" diverted it to the man with the baby in his arms.

Seeing himself detected, the man, still holding the child, sprang from the rear of the boat into the water. Bob unhesitatingly sprang after him. On the deck everything was in confusion on the instant, and Mr. Ray's voice in tones of strong emotion, dominating the babel, had such an effect that the wheels were stopped, the baby and Bob rescued and the kidnaper hauled on board the police boat, which appeared among a crowd of others. Bob is now one of Mr. Ray's most trusted and best paid salesmen, and the whole family have an indefinite prospect of turkey dinners on every Thanksgiving day to come.—Philadelphia Inquirer.

A "TURKEY DRUNK."

An Old Time Thanksgiving Custom Which Is Happily Now Obsolete.

"I remember when I was a boy that one of the great features of Thanksgiving time was what we called the 'turkey drunk,'" says a native of western New York. "Folks didn't seem to kill their Thanksgiving turkey in those days until the forenoon of the day it was to be eaten, and it was the custom to get the bird most gloriously drunk and kill it while it was in that condition. They used to say that it made the turkey's last moments on earth happy and made its approaching death a matter of unconcern to the bird. More than that, it was believed that the brandy they filled the turkey up with gave the meat a flavor that no bird that died sober could ever have. I don't know whether that was so, but I do know that I can't get any turkey nowadays that has the peculiarly delicious flavor those brandy soaked birds of my beloved boyhood had. The turkey drunk was a great occasion. It was witnessed by the whole family and all the invited guests, if there were any. Two hours before killing the turkey the head of the family would fill a teacup or a tin cup or sometimes a small gourd with brandy. This he would take out to the poultry yard where the turkey which was to provide the Thanksgiving dinner would be cooped up by itself in one corner and place it on the ground in front of the turkey. Those fowls appeared to be fond of brandy, and the doomed bird would gobble up the intoxicating liquor with the relish of a confirmed old toper. Sometimes a particularly large and fat turkey would drink the entire contents of the cup.

"As soon as the bird was through drinking it would be let out of its coop, and in less than three minutes it would be staggering about the yard with as elegant a jag on as any rounder ever enjoyed. If the victim was a gobbler his efforts to maintain his dignity under the influence of his load were as funny as a circus clown's. Steadying himself by an effort, he would throw his head up, thrust his chest out, lower his wings till they dragged on the ground and then try to strut among his hens with the domineering pomposity of his sober days. His strut invariably ended in his falling ignominiously on his nose, and his struggles to regain his equilibrium were equal to the drunken gymnastics of Toodles.

"The exhibition the intoxicated gobbler made of himself created unmistakable surprise, if not disgust, in his harem, and the hens would draw apart in groups and watch the antics of their lord in shocked silence. The turkey never failed to get drunker and drunker and at last would totter and fall and give up to the influence of the liquor. Then was the time to kill the bird, and its head was cut off while the turkey was in its stupor. That custom is fortunately obsolete now. I don't think it would be a very inspiring sight for one to witness nowadays, but in the old times the stiffest teetotaler didn't seem to see anything wrong in making the Thanksgiving turkey drunk. I suppose that would come under the head of cruelty to animals now. At any rate, it should."

No More Cradles.

"A cradle?" said the salesman. "Oh, no! You don't want a cradle."

He smiled.

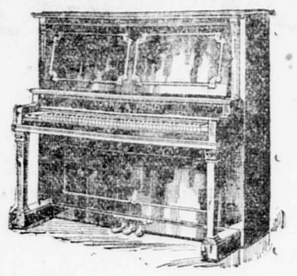

"First kid, ain't it?"

"Yes," admitted the young father, frowning.

"I knew you weren't experienced, or you wouldn't ask for a cradle," said the salesman. "You see, they've gone altogether out. We don't sell two a year."

"Why did they go out?"

"Because they're unhealthy, bad for the kid. They lower the temperature, hurt the heart and bring on nausea, colic, regular seasickness. It stands to reason that the violent rocking of a cradle can't be good for frail little baby any more than the violent rocking of a ship in a storm is good for the passengers. Moreover, they keep somebody busy rocking the baby to sleep. Now the baby goes to sleep of its own accord."—Philadelphia Bulletin.

LEWIS NIXON.

Lewis Nixon of New York has made his mark in two fields so widely separated as shipbuilding and politics. He was graduated from the United States Naval academy at the head of his class in 1882 and designed some of the best of the older vessels of the navy. Later Mr. Nixon went into the shipbuilding business on his own account. He succeeded Richard Croker as leader of Tammany Hall in 1901, holding the office until May, 1902.

BRIEFS

City election two weeks from tomorrow.

What do you think of the Daily Ledger today?

Miss Lizzie Prescott of Federal avenue has gone to Concord, N. H., to spend the Thanksgiving season with her sister.

The government has issued orders to have the repair work on the Androscoggin at the Fore River shipyard completed before Dec. 1

James Duncan of Quincy was on Saturday elected first vice president of the American Federation of Labor at its convention at Toronto, Canada.

The funeral services of William J. Tilley are being held this afternoon at Houghs Neck, conducted by St. Omer commandery Knights Templar. Other orders are represented.

Charles C. Haines formerly principal of the Adams school, was on Saturday elected on the executive committee of the School Men's club of Boston.

Over fifty young ladies attended the Saturday evening classes of the Girls' Club at the Women's Clubhouse. About 35 received instruction in dressmaking, and 15 in stencil work. The attendance exceeds all expectations.

But one county in the state is stronger No-License than Norfolk. The majority against license in Middlesex in 1908 was 13,639; in Norfolk 7,096. Plymouth was third with 3,801. Ten of the 14 countries are against license.

Ex-Commodore C. F. Adams of the Quincy Yacht Club has placed an order with Lawley for a new Sonder yacht to take the place of the Crooner which was sold to the Germans. The Quincy Yacht Club may issue a challenge for the Quincy cup.

The granite labor troubles of 1908 are past history, but the annual report of Chief Gettemy of Bureau of Statistics is just out. It shows that in no city were so many establishments involved as in Quincy, 201 in all. In Lynn 80 establishments were involved in strikes; in Springfield, 54; in Brockton 27 and Boston but 23. In Lynn, however, more men were involved than in Quincy.

Boys wanted to sell the Quincy Daily Ledger each day at 3.30 P. M. A good chance to earn money for Christmas. Boys will receive one cent for every paper they sell the week of Nov. 22—27. A prize of $5 in gold will also be given the boy who sells the most papers between now and New Years.

FINAL ARBITERS OF OUR AFFAIRS

Supreme Court, to Whose Decision All Must Bow, Body of Able and Venerable Jurists.

President Taft May Have to Fill Several Vacancies on Highest Bench Before His Term Ends.

By JAMES A. EDGERTON.

THE death of Justice Rufus W. Peckham of the United States supreme court and the prolonged illness of Justice William H. Moody indicate that President Taft will have to appoint at least one member of that tribunal and may have to appoint more even if he cannot enjoy his lifelong ambition of being a supreme justice himself. It may even be that before his term ends he may name a majority of the court, since Chief Justice Fuller and Justices Harlan and Brewer have already passed the age limit and Justice Holmes will do so in 1911. The law provides that at the age of seventy a supreme court justice may retire on full pay provided he has served ten years. Fuller and Harlan are each seventy-six, the chief justice having been in office twenty-one years and the senior associate justice thirty-two years. As for Brewer, he is seventy-two and has been on the supreme bench twenty years. Thus all three are eligible for retirement. Holmes will not be seventy until March 8, 1911, and will not have served ten years until Dec. 8, 1912, but as both these dates come within President Taft's term there will be four possible retirements, which, with the successor of Justice Peckham, constitutes a majority of the court. This is on the theory that Justice Moody recovers and that there is no death in the court before March 4, 1913. At that time Fuller and Harlan will be in the neighborhood of eighty, Brewer seventy-six, Holmes seventy-two, McKenna nearly seventy. White sixty-eight, Day sixty-four and Moody sixty. Of course the mere fact that four of the justices will be eligible to retire on full pay is no indication that they will do so. Indeed, the probability is that they will not. The only reason that supreme justices usually retire is ill health. Of the sixty-two that have been members of the court since its inception only seventeen have retired and thirty-five have died in office. Many of these were over seventy when they left the bench. Chief Justice Taney was eighty-seven, Justice Gabriel Duval was eighty-four, John Marshall eighty and Justice Samuel Nelson eighty. The old saw about officeholders that few die and none resign is not absolutely true of the supreme court justices, but nearly so. They are not the kind of men who are willing to draw a salary without working for it, nor are they the sort that willingly relinquish power until death, disease or feebleness break their hold.

CHIEF JUSTICE MELVILLE W. FULLER.

Power of Our Highest Court.

And they have power of an actual, substantial kind. They can nullify the acts of congress and hold a rein on the president himself. They can veto the statutes of any state or the ordinances of any city. They can regulate the findings of courts and pass upon their findings, from the federal circuit to the justice of the peace. No official is independent of them, and no individual is beyond their reach. True, this almost appalling power is not arbitrary. It is bounded by the constitution, by law and by precedent. But within these limits there is still a wide scope of choice. No king or emperor has arbitrary power, but is hedged about in a thousand ways.

It has been said that the United States supreme court is the most powerful body on earth. That probably is not true, as the British house of commons perhaps surpasses it. The commons is a body of over 600 members, however; our supreme court of nine, commerce and personal desires, assailed not by ambitions or fears, clamors or temptations, it is in an ideal position to stand for the supremacy of the law and to uphold the public good as against private interest. The American people look at it in this light, and as nearly as they have made a fetich of anything they make it of their supreme court. The president they cheer or abuse, call him by his first name or by a shorter and uglier one. Congress they vituperate and on occasion blaspheme. But the supreme court is set apart in their minds. Some of them may disagree with one or another of its decisions, but the disagreement is accompanied by no disrespect. People do not think of applauding or abusing it, of taking liberties with the names of its members, of cartooning it, of making it the butt of jokes or ridicule. Though the salaries of its members are comparatively small and though its work is exacting, the most eminent men are willing to give up leisure, comfort and princely incomes to be honored in its service. No wonder that Judge Taft turned from his dream of it with a sigh, even though he turned to the power and distinction of what is perhaps the most conspicuous position now on earth.

Only Eight Chief Justices.

Since its inception under President Washington the supreme court of the United States has had eight chief justices and fifty-four associate justices. Perhaps technically there have only been seven chief justices, as John Rutledge was not confirmed by the senate, although he sat for a short time before congress convened. The other chief justices were John Jay, Oliver Ellsworth, John Marshall, Roger B. Taney, Salmon P. Chase, Morrison R. Waite and Melville W. Fuller. The most distinguished of the list and the one with the longest term of service was John Marshall, who was in office thirty-four years. Two associate justices, Joseph Story and Stephen J. Field, had an equal length of service. It is a point worthy of note that most of the members of the court were not greatly distinguished in other fields. They were not politicians, though some of them had been senators and cabinet officers. For the most part they have been lawyers pure and simple, men chosen for learning and character. The last two chief justices, Waite and Fuller, had scarcely held any position prior to their appointment. Of many of the associate justices the same is true. One looks among them almost in vain for names highly distinguished outside of law reports. Bushrod Washington of Virginia, who served thirty-one years, we recognize because he was a Washington. John McLean of Ohio and Philip P. Barbour of Virginia stir some faint recollection of connection with the government or politics or something. Anyway, we have heard of them. David Davis we know from his connection with Lincoln and Lucius Q. C. Lamar and some others from their service in the cabinet or in congress. Some, like Joseph Story, we recognize as eminent law writers, but with most of them their sole title to fame—and they could scarcely have a higher—is that they were members of the United States supreme court.

Court's Impressive Opening.

Most writers in describing this body call it an "august tribunal." It has been quite a task to keep from ringing in that hackneyed and bromidic phrase. Well, the supreme court is august. All that is needed to realize the fact is to attend one of its sessions. A few minutes before noon silken ropes are stretched from the robing room to the chamber, and between these ropes the justices advance in solemn procession. Chief Justice Fuller is the smallest one of the number and Harlan, walking immediately behind Fuller, the largest. Then come Brewer of Kansas, who is the orator of the court; White, who was once a Democratic senator from Louisiana; McKenna, who was McKinley's attorney general; Holmes, who was named for his poet father, Oliver Wendell Holmes; Day, who was for a short time secretary of state under McKinley, and Moody, who was secretary of the navy and attorney general in the cabinet of Theodore Roosevelt. Before his death Justice Peckham walked between White and McKenna. Most of the justices are smooth of face, although Fuller and Holmes have mustaches and McKenna a closely cropped beard. Despite his shortness of stature, the chief justice is an impressive figure, with his literal mane of snow white hair and fine and scholarly face. He was born in Maine in 1833 and was educated in Bowdoin and Harvard. For a time he was editor of a Democratic paper and was president of the Augusta council and city solicitor. He then went to Chicago and became one of the city's leading lawyers. He served for a short time in the legislature and was several times a delegate to Democratic national conventions. Mr. Fuller has been chief justice since 1888.

John Marshall Harlan was born in Kentucky in the same year as the chief justice. He was educated in the colleges of his own state, was a Union colonel in the war, was a candidate for congress and governor, delegate to Republican national conventions, member of the Louisiana commission and became a justice of the supreme court in 1877. Despite his age, Justice Harlan is an enthusiastic golf player.

David Josiah Brewer was born in Asia Minor, where his father was a missionary. He is a nephew of the famous Field brothers, David Dudley, Cyrus W. and Stephen J. Field, who was himself a supreme justice. He is a Yale graduate and began the practice of law in Kansas, where he was a judge, going from the district to the state supreme court. He was promoted to the federal supreme bench in 1889.

Confederate Veteran on Bench.

Edward Douglass White was born in Louisiana in 1845, served in the Confederate army, was justice of the state supreme court and United States senator, taking his seat on the United States supreme bench in 1894.

Joseph McKenna was born in Philadelphia in 1843, but went to California when a boy; served in the legislature, in several congresses and as United States circuit judge; was made attorney general in 1897 and the same year was promoted to his present position.

Oliver Wendell Holmes was a captain in the Union army and was three times wounded. He has written various law books and served on the supreme bench of Massachusetts before being appointed to the United States supreme bench in 1902.

William R. Day was born in Ohio in 1849, was common pleas judge, secretary of state, chairman of the Spanish treaty commission, United States circuit judge and was made supreme court justice in 1903.

William Henry Moody is the youngest member of the court, having been born in Massachusetts in 1853. He was a member of congress for several terms before entering the cabinet and took his place on the supreme bench in 1906.

ALL EAT GUMDROPS NOW.

Dr. Cook's Story Brings About a Boom In the Confection.

Confectioners of Cleveland, O., and other cities report an increased sale of gumdrops this fall. Candy factories that a few weeks ago were turning out "kisses" and advertising for "kiss wrappers" are now working overtime making pink gumdrops.

It is Cook's story of his arctic explorations, in which he declared that his Eskimos would do anything for gumdrops, that his caused the boom in gumdrops.

Look over the Ledger advertisements today and see if your every want cannot be supplied right here in your own city by our own merchants. He is hard indeed to suit who fails to be interested in the features of trade so attractively set forth in the advertising columns.

A large number should be interested in the theme for the union Thanksgiving service at Bethany church on the morning of the holiday. "A Better Quincy" is the subject, and will be considered from three view points. Much is being said and done of late to improve the city, and interest is being awakened which will have good results. The improved Daily Ledger hopes to cooperate.

In recent years the straight Republican ticket for Councilmen at large has always been successful, but chiefly because there was no particular opposition. With three Republicans running independent this year it now looks as though the City election next month would be more interesting than it promised to be, and the nominees may not have a walkover.

Several new features appear in the "Bigger Ledger" today, and will be continued. A new serial is started, and there will be a daily instalment. There will usually be a complete short story an illustrated woman's column, a column or more of sports, several columns of up-to-date articles from the leading papers of the country, timely features like the Thanksgiving stories, and suggestions for Christmas presents. But primarily the Daily Ledger will be a local newspaper with home news on every page and a larger number of columns than ever. The new Ledger has 56 columns where the old Ledger had but 28. Citizens of Quincy should appreciate the large outlay to give them a good home daily paper.

Few small cities are as fortunate as Quincy in the number of the public benefactors. Oftentimes a town has one family that does much for the community, but in Quincy it is different. Probably the list below is not complete, but it is quite lengthy:

President John Adams who bequeathed school funds.

Dr. Ebenezer Woodward who endowed the Woodward Institute.

Thomas Crane who gave the Thomas Crane Public Library building and grounds.

William Coddington who left school funds.

Charles Francis Adams who gave Merrymount Park of 75 acres.

Henry H. Faxon who gave Faxon Park of 30 acres .

William B. Rice who founded the City Hospital and built additions.

Cotton Center Johnson who left a fund to remember the poor at Thanksgiving time.

To this list should be added those who have bequeathed money to the endowment fund of the City Hospital.

UNDER CHURCH BAN

Fitchburg Scientists Warn Against a Negro Healer

Fitchburg, Mass., Nov. 22.—Charles Huskins, a negro who has been attending the First Church of Christ, Scientist, in this city, is no longer an attendant at the church. The board of directors have published notices that Huskins is not a member of the Christian Science church in this city, nor a member of any other church of the denomination, nor in any way connected with the Christian Science movement.

Huskins was a regular attendant at the Christian Science church here for several months past, and was said to be recognized as one of the best healers in the denomination. He took an active part in the local congregation.

There was said to have been considerable opposition to admitting Huskins as a member of the church, and it is stated by some that the fact that he was of another color than the other members had a large part in deciding the question. He was not admitted and notices were published in all the local papers and an announcement was made to the members of the church of the action taken by the directors.

OLD OFFICERS RE-ELECTED

Labor Men Cheer Gompers, Mitchell and Morrison

Toronto, Nov. 22.—After unanimously re-electing President Gompers, Vice President Mitchell, Secretary Morrison and other executive officers, and selecting St. Louis as the place for holding the next meeting, the twenty-ninth annual convention of the American Federation of Labor adjourned.

Uncertainty as to whether an appeal to the United States supreme court will be allowed in the Bucks Stove and Range contempt proceedings and the possibility that Gompers, Mitchell and Morrison may have to go to jail in the near future, hung like a cloud over the closing days of the convention, and the renomination of the trio was the signal for noisy demonstrations of approval.

HUSBAND WILL NOT SEE HIS BRIDE

Blind Man Wins the Love of a New York Heiress

New York, Nov. 22.—When Miss Vera McFarland Moses, whose father is a multi-millionaire, leaves St. Thomas' church on Dec. 1 as the bride of Edward M. Chamberlain, hers will probably be the most pathetic wedding procession that has ever walked down the aisle of that famous church.

The white satin and tulle and orange blossoms with which she will be arrayed, will be unseen by her husband, although she will lean proudly on his arm.

The prattle of the two little flower girls, her niece, Lydia Merrill, and his niece, Edith Clendenin, will be heard by him, but their happy faces, their baskets of posies will count for nothing, for Chamberlain, who comes of an old Virginia family, is blind.

The bride-to-be, a beautiful young woman, is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James Moses of the Hotel Savoy.

POSTAL CARD DESIGNS

Heads of McKinley, Lincoln, Grant and Washington on New Series

Washington, Nov. 22.—Designs for the new postal cards to be issued by the government have been approved by Postmaster General Hitchcock.

On the ordinary card, the head of the late President McKinley will appear, as now, but a much better likeness has been selected. On the new small card, a likeness of President Lincoln will appear. The 2-cent international card will bear a portrait of General Grant.

On the first half of the double or reply card will appear a portrait of George Washington, while the stamp on the second or reply half will be a likeness of Martha Washington.

SAFE A WEEK AGO

Astor's Yacht Nourmahal Was In San Juan Harbor at That Time

Willemstad, Curacoa, Nov. 22.—John Jacob Astor's steam yacht Nourmahal was safe in the harbor of San Juan, P. R., on Nov. 15, according to the report brought here by the steamer Caracas, which reports that the Nourmahal arrived at San Juan on Nov. 14 and that she was still there on the 15th, safely anchored inside the harbor.

Guide Mistaken For a Deer

Colebrook, N. H., Nov. 22.—Still another of the fatal mistakes of shooting at a man in the belief that he was a deer caused the death at Diamond stream of Henry Bresette, a guide. Harry Marsh fired the gun, the shot of which penetrated Bresette's heart. Marsh is held blameless by the authorities.

Tragedy on Famous Battlefield

Manassas, Va., Nov. 22.—Miss Ella Smith was murdered for her money and her body was incinerated in the ruins of her home on Bull Run battlefield. The authorities are looking for a negro who is missing.

NICARAGUA MUST ANSWER

Reparation to Be Demanded by United States

KILLING OF TWO AMERICANS

Discussed by President and Secretary of State at White House—Transport Buffalo Ordered to Sail at Once For Panama, Her Commander Receiving Explicit Orders—Marines May Figure In Expedition

Washington, Nov. 22.—After a conference with the president at the White House last night on the Nicaraguan situation, Secretary of State Knox authorized the following statement:

"Certain representations of fact which have been made to the state department concerning the Grace and Cannon case are verified by inquiries that have been made. This government will at once prepare a demand on the Nicaraguan government for reparation for the death of these two men."

For two hours President Taft conferred with Secretary Knox on the Nicaraguan situation. The secretary of state, accompanied by Henry M. Hoyt, counsellor of the state department, reached the White House shortly after 9 o'clock. Previous to going to the executive mansion, Knox held a conference in his home with Assistant Secretary Wilson.

The secretary carried a formidable array of papers when he entered his carriage to drive to the White House and Hoyt also carried a bulging portfolio.

The only other event of importance during the day was the dispatch of orders to the transport Buffalo, on duty on the Pacific coast, to sail at once for Panama. The navy department's instructions to the commander of the Buffalo were explicit, and the vessel was expected to set sail last night from Pinchelinque bay, Cal., after taking on adequate supplies of coal and provisions.

This hurried ordering of the Buffalo southward is taken to mean that this government is making ready to set a column of United States marines in the Nicaraguan turmoil for the protection of American lives and property. While the 500 marines are scattered generally over the canal zone, they can be quickly concentrated by means of the railroad at Panama, where there are military stores and supplies.

An expedition against Nicaragua in which the marines figure would be undertaken on the Pacific side of the isthmus. The Buffalo would land the men at the port of Corinto, which is forty miles from Managua.

The authorities insist that the dispatch of the Buffalo is not to be accepted as meaning that an expedition is to be launched against the Zelayan government, but that the vessel is ordered south to be in readiness should occasion suddenly arise.

The Buffalo carries six guns, is of 6888 tons burden and her engines develop 3600 horsepower. The vessel will be driven at top speed to Panama, where on her arrival her commander has been instructed to report immediately to Washington.

JEALOUS MAN A SUICIDE

Said to Have First Tried to Poison Girl Before Taking His Own Life

Manchester, N. H., Nov. 22.—John Gilrud, an actor at the Olympian theatre, is alleged to have attempted to kill Miss Mae Dewaire, an actress in the same company, by poisoned liquor because of jealousy.

He afterward turned a revolver upon himself, inflicting a wound in the head from the effects of which he died. Gilrud was insane, it is said. He was infatuated with Miss Dewaire and jealous because others paid her attentions.

Gilrud, who was 25 years old, began acting queerly on learning of the death of his baby when filling an engagement at a Boston museum several weeks ago.

FOOTBALL FINANCES

Yale and Harvard Split $74,000 as Result of Saturday's Game

New Haven, Nov. 22.—The Yale Football association is counting up its receipts for the season. They will reach about $70,000. Of this Yale gets about $34,000 and Harvard about $40,000 from last Saturday's game. Harvard's large slice came from the temporary seats which were erected.

Yale and Princeton each get about $33,100 from the Princeton game and Yale received aout $7000 from the match with Brown. From the minor games of the season Yale will receive about $4000.

OF PUBLIC INTEREST.

QUINCY IN 1915.

Editor of Ledger:

The statistician of the street railway gives the population of Quincy five years hence as over 40,000 people. What, if anything, are we doing to further the Boston 1915 movement. This is bound to be of vital interest in the near future affecting us all. Many believe that the greater city will embrace all the territory from Salem to Cohasset and west to Natick. Even then it would be surpassed in area by Chicago and Philadelphia. There is considerable prestige for a business man to register from a big city. The argument is advanced by some that we would lose our identity. Not at all. Charlestown, Brighton and Dorchester are as distinct in many ways as ever. The advantages are many. We already have Metropolitan parks, sewer, water, light, telephone and post office; with a great central police and fire department our persons and property would be still better protected. The need of that has already been felt in the Atlantic district. This future great city will probably be governed by a small board of councilmen or a Commission, with a nominal mayor with little power—a sort of figure head.

The school question is important. Already there is a movement on foot for state management of the public schools so that the child in the smallest town in the state can have equal advantages as in the city. While that may not materialize we should be prepared to find some time that the children in the primary departments at least will be fed and bathed at the public expense, as in many cases at present they do not come in a proper condition to receive instruction.

Many of the towns about us are interested in the greater city movement and have publicity bureaus and keep themselves well advertised. Winthrop claims beauty of location; another town surrounded by parks; a third quick and frequent railway service and lovely drives. Quincy has all of these and also a very fine coast line which is to be much improved. To be sure, we should appreciate a few more trains out in the evening especially one leaving at midnight, giving us a little more time if we wish to spend the evening in some of the towns north of Boston. I refer, of course, to steam road. While the street railway is a great convenience the frequent stops make it absolutely impossible for a business man to use them. Great strides have been made in railway traveling. Thirty years ago it took over eight hours to New York; now we go in five, and I expect yet to make the trip in three, or at the rate of 70 miles an hour.

Some will say that if we were a part of Boston we would have license. Not necessarily. There is no license in Brighton or in Neponset. I may seem to be ahead of the times but I believe that after a few years the public will begin to find out that the present method of controlling the liquor traffic is a mistake and a farce. It would seem to me the proper way to absolutely prohibit the manufacture and sale of alcoholic liquors. Then, if there could be constructed in central locations large ,magnificent halls with baths and gymnasium, brilliantly lighted and decorated, with an orchestra and all at the public expense where food and light drinks could be furnished at reasonable prices, then rich and poor could gather at all times, meet upon the level and enjoy themselves in a rational manner.

A discussion was held recently by some of the wisest men in Boston. The subject, "Will the Temperance Coffee Room ever supplant the Saloon?" I should have very much liked to have heard the arguments, but was unable to be present. We know however, that the average workman ,after a hard day's labor, likes the companionship of his friends whom he finds in the saloon. It is their meeting place—not always for liquor, that is incidental. In order not to appear mean they feel they must spend some money. The saloon is generally well lighted, presided over by jovial well-fed attendants and everything is made pleasant. On the other hand—what do the temperance societies offer? Their coffee rooms generally are cheap low-posted illy lighted rooms, quite often in a basement, presided over by some half-starved looking individual, the wall adorned with cheap prints and mottos; the furniture generally of the plainest description, and the whole hedged in by stringent rules and regulations and serving coffee at high prices that no one wants. There is no comparison.

I am glad to see that Councilman Flynn has taken the matter in hand to induce the street railway to provide a waiting room in City Square. Thousands of people, especially in the summer transfer here to eight different lines, among them old people and children that must at times suffer because there is no waiting room or proper toilet. I asked a prominent member of the Women's club, why if they wanted something to do, they did not look into that subject, and she replied it was too delicate for her. Nothing is wrong that is natural, except that we make it so, and I hope Mr. Flynn will be successful. When he gets through that I would respectfully suggest he make a tour of the New York, New Haven and Hartford station. There is a chance for improvement there.

This is certainly of public interest and if the Board of Trade and Citizens Association would also look into those matters, they would find an interesting subject.

Elisha Packard.

KEEP PEDLERS OUT.

Editor Daily Ledger:

I wish through your paper to caution housekeepers against pedlers and agents who are about the city. The safest thing is to keep all doors locked and to instruct every member of the family, particularly the servants, not to admit a stranger.

Several families has been bothered of late by men walking boldly into the kitchen and they did not stop at this but asked impertinent questions as to the size of family, the number of men in it, etc.

These visits may well be the forerunners of midnight calls later on. Do not allow strange visitors to get familiar with the inside of your house or the number of people in it.

Early evening visitors are about in some localities, scaring people with their actions and it is a pity some way can not be devised to put a stop to it.

I hope our townswomen will heed the word of

LOAN ORDERS EXCESSIVE

Total for 1909 Is Already Over $150,000.00

By request, the Daily Ledger prints a list of the loan orders which have passed the City Council during the year 1909. The list is taken from the City Auditor's statement of Nov. 1, and probably is not complete, as two meetings of the City Council have since been held, and some of the October loans may not have reached the Auditor.

The total called for in the loans below is $158,530.00, and but a small proportion is for school purposes. Aside from water and sewers, the loans are largely for the Street department. A large appropriation for a schoolhouse at Houghs Neck is pending, also an appropriation for a school lot at Montclair.

OUR NEW PRESS.

Herewith we show a picture of our new newspaper press. It is a press that feeds itself and delivers its product into the hands of the carrier boys completed and ready for delivery to our patrons. No man has to stand up at a rack and feed the papers through. The paper comes in a big roll which unwinds mechanically and the paper passes through the press, being printed on both sides and folded in perfect form. The press is a "Duplex Press" made in Battle Creek, Mich., by the Duplex Printing Press Co. It does what was formerly a half day's work in thirty minutes and makes no unnecessary blaster about it. It goes about it as quietly and as considerately as the family doctor would go about the amputation of an infected leg. It is a press that will entertain you if you will drop in and see it work some afternoon about 3 o'clock. The great rolls of paper which feed it weigh a thousand pounds, and if the roll of paper were stretched out its full length you would have a strip of paper 70 inches wide and over two and one half miles long without a break in it. Our new press is capable of delivering 6,000 printed and folded papers each hour, so you see they hurry through. It has been a long step from the old hand press to the present day electrically propelled perfecting presses, but in no department of mechanical progress in this country has the progress been more decisive or more rapid than in the development of the printing press.

It is not an infrequent thing for a prospective customer to bring a two days' job into a printing office and evidence a willingness to sit down and wait while you "run off a few." Well, our new press will "run off a few" a whole lot quicker than the old press would do it and in that way it will help our delivery service. The press as it stands on the floor weighs about thirteen tons, 26,000 pounds. A special concrete foundation was built for it a concrete lined pit extending under the full length of the press in order that the press men may get under the machine to oil it up, thread the paper through and look after the mechanical adjustments that can be reached from no other place. The roll of paper unwinds as the press starts into operation and weaving its way through the press is driven over the beds that carry the type forms, and two cylinders pass quickly over the paper pressing it down upon the forms and perfecting the impression. The paper hesitates just long enough over the beds to receive the impression and then journeys on its way towards the folder and out into the waiting hands of the carrier, an automatic numbering machine ticking off the accurate registration of the output.

The press left Battle Creek after being thoroughly tested on Oct. 13, (which we by no means regard as a hoodoo but as an omen of good luck) and reached Quincy Oct. 20 being only a week on the road. A special machinist was sent on from Battle Creek and under his skilful direction we are enabled to come out today with a brand new eight-page Ledger.

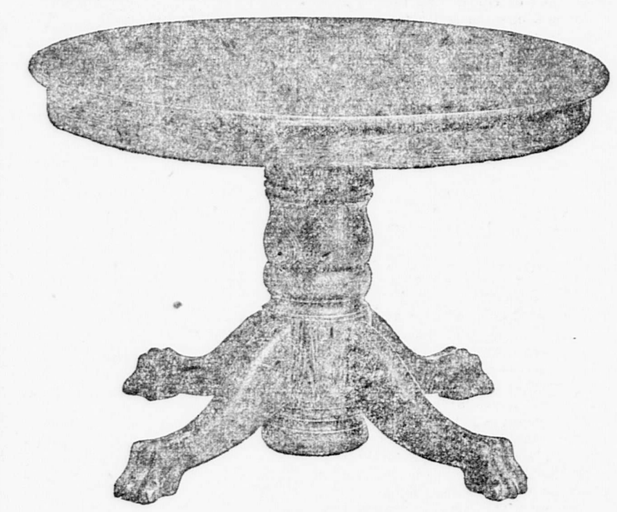

The Ledger is indebted to Dimock & Patten of Wollaston for preparing the room for the press, the cement pit, and foundations and to Mr. Buzzell who had charge of the work; to the Electric Light Company for motor and connections; to the W. A. Bradford Co., for steam fittings; to William Loud & Son who moved the press so carefully and expeditiously from the freight car and lastly but by no means lest to William Duncan the expert machinist who came on from Battle Creek to set up the press. He is young and boyish looking but he knows presses all right and wheels, and all manner of pieces of machinery slipped into place like magic under his direction.

HOSPITAL COLLECTORS

Will Cover City Thoroughly But May Be Late

Owing to the large amount of territory to be covered in the distribution of the envelopes for the City Hospital, it may be several days yet before the collectors call at your house. It is the intention to cover the city as thoroughly as possible and this means a lot of work for the number of collectors who have kindly volunteered their services. Every collector is provided with a book and an indentification card, printed in black lettering and a red cross signed by Timothy Reed for the trustees of the Quincy City Hospital. The collectors for the various wards are as follows:

Ward 1—George E. Adams chairman, Benjamin F. Macomber, Arthur H. Dunham, Stephen E. Wilson, Henry J. Mathews, William M. Marden ,J. Edwin Glover, Harry S. Bates, Thomas M. Butler, James McConnell, Charles A. Ericson, William J. Parker, John A. Weeden, Otto Backman, Charles G. Torn, Carl F. Carlson.

Ward 2—Arthur W. Newcomb, chairman, Joseph A. Delorey, Charles C. Mueller, Thomas B. Pollard.

Ward 3—Alexander Clark, chairman, William G. Spargo, E. M. Clark, Richard Bishop, James Marr, Andrew Johnson, John S. Anderson, Nicholas Le Count, Edward Mundie, John McKay, A. N. Weeden, R. J. Howard, George Gauthier, Malcolm McKenzie.

The names of the collectors in the other wards will be published as soon as the chairmen make up their complete lists. It is hoped that those who intend to give to the Hospital will have their contribution ready when the collectors call at their homes.

HOLIDAY GAME.

The Walworth Manufacturing company eleven of Boston and the Cunningham Gym of Milton will clash in their annual game on Thanksgiving day at Milton, and speculation is already ripe as to the winner. Last year after a hard fought game the Milton boys held their heavier opponents to a 5 to 5 tie, much to the surprise of even their most ardent supporters. This year, while the Walworths are out for revenge the Cunninghams feel they have a good chance to at least equal their last year's showing and possibly defeat their rivals. Both teams have a good preliminary schedule to round them into form and should be in first class condition for the final struggle.

In the Milton line-up will be seen Powell the crack 100 yard man, Mullen of basket ball fame, Hearn formerly of Milton High, Leary and Hathaway both former High school stars. Among the Walworths, Donovan who played quarterback for Roxbury High in the memorable 0 to 0 tie with Quincy High in 1905, will be seen in his old position Kane formerly with the University of Vermont and several Navy teams will play in the back field while there is also a possibility of Farrell formerly of Harvard getting into the game. The rest are former High school and college players. While the odds are at present on the Walworths a few victories by the Cunninghams will make them favorites as the game is to be played on their home grounds.

Ward Four, Hon. W. T. Shea, James F. Burke, Edward J. Sandberg, Walter T. Monahan, James Allen, Henry Williams, James H. Elcock, William T. Lyons, John W. Burke, Jr. and J. C. O'Connor.

THE PIANO THAT SINGS

That is what someone called the Jewett recently while trying to describe the marvellous resonance of its tone.

The Jewett piano has not only the richness and power which every pianist admires, but it has also the rare sympathy and sustaining quality of tone so necessary in accompanying the voice.

Its musical superiority makes the Jewett the favorite piano among well informed people in New England. So great is its popularity that each year probably more Jewett pianos are sold in this territory than of any other make of equal grade.

Purchasers of Jewett pianos secure—

Dursbility proved by actual test since 1860, rare musical quality recognized by competent authorities everywhere, case designs of unsual attractiveness, workmanship of the most reliable and skillful order, and finally, the absolutely dependable guarantee of New England's largest piano house.

A variety of styles at from $375 up.

The retirement of Sir Charles Rivers Wilson, president of the Grand Trunk railway, will add to the power in the great Canadian road possessed by Charles M. Hays, general manager of the road. Mr. Hays is an American who has worked his way up on several lines of the United States. He began his railroad service as a clerk in 1873.

BRIEFS

Councilman Thomas Bishop has returned from a trip to New York.

The streets are in a very dusty condition and the least wind sends dust rolling in great, blinding clouds.

Mrs. George Gray Bush, who has been spending the summer in Quincy and other New England cities, left last week for Bellevieu, Florida, where she will pass the winter.

Mrs. George Gary Bush, who has tween Harvard and Yale was promptly bulletined at the Ledger office, and the final score was posted two minutes after the game was finished.

Miss Marion Barker of Wollaston a former resident of Elmwood park who has been teaching for the past two years at Braintree high school has taken a position in the Boston schools.

William Stackhouse is building a fine large motor boat at the residence of his sister Mrs. Cross on Liberty street. The boat is almost completed and some fine pleasure trips on it are anticipated.

Charlotte, the five year old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Fisher, celebrated her birthday Tuesday by entertaining a party of her young friends at her home on Elliot street. There were games, music and a collation was served. The young Miss received a number of pretty gifts.

The Union Thanksgiving Service of the churches of Weymouth and East Braintree will be held on Wednesday evening, Nov. 24th, at 7.30 oclock, in the Universalist church of Weymouth. Rev. M. S. Nash the pastor of the church will have charge of the service, and the Rev. Robert H. Carey, pastor of the Baptist church will preach the sermon. The public is cordially invited.

FUNERAL OF MRS. KEMP.

The funeral of Mrs. Isabella Kemp was held from her late home 38 South Payne street, Sunday at 2 P. M. Rev. E. N. Hardy officiated and the burial was at Mt. Wollaston. A large number of relatives and friends attended, and there was a profusion of floral tributes.

AN EXCELLENT OPPORTUNITY of securing one-half ton of coal, free of charge, is offered by the Berman Tea Co., whowill deliver this amount of coal with each HUB Range purchased of them before Jan. 1st. The HUB Ranges displayed by the Berman Tea Co., are fitted with the newest, up-to-date improvements and features that are a source of great convenience to housekeepers.

WOODBURY—FRASER.

At the Bethany Congregational church Sunday evening, Everett S. Woodbury and Miss Jennie Elizabeth Fraser were united in marriage by Rev. Edwin Noah Hardy. The groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles E. Woodbury of Edwards street, Quincy, and the bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Fraser of East Braintree. The couple left that night on their wedding trip and will reside on their return in Braintree.

FIRE IN MINE IS SMOTHERED

Hundred and Ninety-Eight Men Are Still Missing

TWENTY ARE RESCUED ALIVE

Belief That They Are the Only Survivors of More Than Three Hundred Who Went Under Ground a Week Ago—Young Scotchman's Pathetic Letter—Stories Disagree as to Chivalry Displayed by Entombed Men

Cherry, Ills., Nov. 22.—Hope aroused by the rescue alive of twenty entombed men from the St. Paul mine, just one week after the fatal fire started, was dashed, or at least deferred in fulfillment, for not one more of the 310 men caught by the fire was found Sunday.

The day was spent in searching the mine and in burying the corpses heretofore recovered. The records show that of the 310 men left in the mine a week ago last Saturday night 198 are still missing, while 92 bodies have been found and 20 men have been rescued alive.

The fire that broke out afresh Saturday night was smothered Sunday to such an extent that explorers were able to work in the mine, but black damp in one of the galleries defied the men, as did cave-ins and debris.

It was not even discovered whether there are more alive in the mine galleries, although the explorers, urged by the extreme condition in which the twenty men saved Saturday were found, worked with almost superhuman strength and rapidity.

Letters written in their underground prison by some of the miners rescued alive have come to light in various quarters. One of the most touching was written by John Lorrimer to his wife. Lorimer is a young Scotchman. He came to America ten years ago from Ayrshire.

Lorimer received, in his bedroom, many callers who wished to congratulate him on his escape. Lorimer's letter follows:

"Dear Wife: I am still living, although it is now 5 o'clock Sunday morning and there is little hope, as the black damp is getting the best of us. There are 21 of us all together here. Dear wife, do not grieve; we will meet again. God bless you; believe in Him. He will take care of you. I guess we will meet in a better land. When you get over this let them know at home (Scotland). That is all, dear. God bless you.

"YOUR LOVING HUSBAND."

All of the farewell letters were written on pages torn from the time books carried by Mine Boss Waite. Waite had the only lead pencil in the group, and it was passed from hand to hand so that all might write.

One instance of the self-sacrifice of the more sturdy imprisoned miners was related by Lorimer.

"Walczinski, I think that was his name, was 60 years old, and the weakest among us," said Lorimer. "Our greatest sufferings came from thirst, for only thimblefuls could be got from the seepage. Walczinski grew so exhausted that he could not stoop over, but had to lie on his face to drink. We made holes in the ground with our fingers and then waited for the oozing water to fill them. When water filled a small hole there wasn't a man but craved it madly. But the stronger men frequently passed their turns to let the old man drink."

Lorimer's account of the chivalry of the stronger toward the weaker miners is disputed by Ine Autoniese, one of the rescued men.

According to Autoniese, the sick old man was able to get enough to drink only after a brawny miner, who believed in the survival of the fittest, had been felled with a pick handle and beaten into a sense of brotherly love.

This miner, whose name Autoniese would not divulge, drew a knife to enforce his belief that the water should be reserved for those who had the best chance to survive the longest, but nearly all the able men in the sealed gallery attacked him and took away his knife.

This fight occurred about the third day of the entombment. Afterward, the probability of death for all became so strong as to unite the men in common charity.

Japanese Woman Dies of Burns

Boston, Nov. 22.—Miss Hino Kato, a Japanese student, who accidentally set fire to her clothing while cooking over an alcohol lamp in her apartment at the Hoffman House, died at the city hospital. Miss Kato had been a student at a school of expression in this city and was a woman of prominence on the Japanese stage.

Long Burial Ceremonies Completed

Pekin, Nov. 22.—The ceremonies in connection with the interment of the late dowager empress of China terminated Sunday, when the sacrificial tablet was returned from the tombs and placed in the dynastic temple of the Forbidden City.

Gloucester a Sober City

Gloucester, Mass., Nov. 22.—Not an arrest was made by the police for the week ending Saturday night. The police say that this record cannot be duplicated for the same period in fifty years.

DYING MAN'S ACCUSATION

Said He Was Shot by Girl Who Has Mysteriously Disappears

Waltham, Mass., Nov. 22.—Hattie LeBlanc, aged 18, accused of fatally shooting Clarence F. Glover, in whose home she was employed as a maid, was successful in eluding the police, and still remains at liberty. Miss LeBlanc is reported to be Mrs. Glover's cousin.

The police have abandoned their first idea that the girl had drowned herself immediately after the tragedy in the Waltham laundry. For reasons which they have not made public they are inclined to think that Glover's death was not the result of any sudden quarrel in the laundry, but rather the result of a carefully planned plot.

It is pointed out that the relations of Glover and his wife's pretty maid were such that she would scarcely have attempted to murder him. It is true that Glover accused her when he was dying, but it is thought possible that he may have had a reason for not telling the exact truth.

Those who hold to this theory think that the pair were surprised in the laundry by some sweetheart of the girl or by someone else.

CASTRO PLOT FEARED

Former President's Friends In Venezuela Are Faring Badly

Caracas, Nov. 22.—Former President Castro, an exile in Santander, Spain, is accused daily by the highest officials of the Venezuelan government of attempting to foment a revolution against the Gomez regime.

The continued agitation and the wholesale arrests of Castro partisans has stirred political feeling until a spirit of unrest and uncertainty exists.

Everyone believes that Castro will never rest until he has made another effort to ruin those who were responsible for his ignominious downfall. His friends in Venezuela are now languishing in the same prisons which they once filled with their enemies.

KNIFE THRUSTS IN RIOT OF ITALIANS

One Man Is Killed Another Loses His Nose

Winchester, Mass., Nov. 22.—One man is dead, another had his nose cut off, and a dozen received wounds from knife slashes during a riot in which a score of Itallans battled with stilletos and knives on Florence street late last night.

The entire police department was called out to quell the mob, and two men were locked up on the charge of murder, and nine others were held as witnesses.

The dead man, who is an Italian, was stabbed through the right lung. His name is not known. Santo Salemo is the man whose nose was cut off. The police say that a score of others were cut, but have concealed themselves, fearing arrest.

Rocca Fotera andVincenzo Cheracal are the men under arrest charged with murder. They are also charged with assault with intent to kill Salemo.

The row started in an Italian boarding house. The police say that fully a score of Italians were drinking and playing cards. Salemo accused one of the number with robbing him of $40.

The next instand knives were drawn and a general fight started. The Italians battled all over the house and out into the street. Most every man in the party that left the house had a knife in his hand, and in the riot that followed on the street they used them promiscuously.

RETRACTS ACCUSATIONS

Mme. Steinheil Apologizes to Burlingham and He Withdraws Suit

Paris, Nov. 22.—Mme. Steinheil has made public a letter in which she apologizes for her accusation against Frederick H. Burlingham, an American newspaper man, and as a result the latter withdrew the damage suit which he had instituted against her.

Following the murder of her husband and stepmother, of which crime she was recently acquitted, Mme. Steinheil made charges against several persons, including Burlingham, alleging that they had a part in the murders.

Suicide Arranged For Funeral

East Chelmsford, Mass., Nov. 22.—John Wheeler, aged 85, committed suicide by shooting. Wheeler had been a sufferer from heart trouble and it is believed ended his life while despondent. He had arranged with a Lowell undertaker for his funeral and paid all the expenses that would be incurred.

Charged With Attacking Girl

Fitchburg, Mass., Nov. 22.—Alonzo S. Bliss, 71 years old, was arrested, charged with attacking Florence Lipton, aged 14. The mother of the girl reported to the police. Bliss has a wife and two grown up children.

STANDARD OIL MUST CLOSE UP

Great Combination Declared by Court to Be Illegal

ITS DISSOLUTION IS ORDERED

Sweeping Victory For United States Against Parent Organization—Appeal to Supreme Court to Be Made by Defendants—Cannot Assume Other Form With Intention of Stifling Competition—Case Long In Courts

St. Paul, Nov. 22.—In an opinion written by Judge Sanborn of St. Paul and concurred in by Judges Vandeventer, Hook and Adams, with a special concurring opinion by Judge Hook, the United States circuit court for the eastern district of Missouri handed down a decision declaring the Standard Oil company of New Jersey an illegal combination operating in restraint of trade and ordering its dissolution.

The opinion of the court was filed simultaneously in St. Louis and in St. Paul.

In this direction the government of the United States wins a sweeping victory, and, according to Frank B. Kellogg of this city, who was the government's special prosecuting officer, the government has won every point for which it contended.

The case will be appealed direct to the United States supreme court, inasmuch as the judges who signed the decree are in effect the judges of the United States circuit court of appeals, although they were sitting to try this case as the circuit court for the eastern district of Missouri.

FRANK B. KELLOGG.

The decree of the court dissolving the Standard Oil trust becomes effective in thirty days, when, no doubt, a stay will be granted for an appeal.

When the decree takes effect, unless a stay is granted, an injunction will issue restraining the Standard Oil company from a further continuance of its business under its present formation.

It appears from the concurring opinion written by Judge Hook that the company cannot do business under any other form with the object of stifling competition, for, he says on this subject, that it is thought that with the end of the combination the monopoly will naturally disappear, but should it not do so, and the members of the combination should not retire from it, except one who might perpetuate the monopoly by the aggregation of the physical properties and instrumentalities, it would constitute a violation of the decree of the court.

In the trial of the case the point was made that the Standard Oil company was a beneficent corporation, in that, by reason of economy in operation, it reduced the price of its product. This, Judge Hook says, can have no weight.

The suit terminated by the decision was begun, by direction of the attorney general, in St. Louis on Nov. 15, 1906. Frank B. Kellogg was appointed special prosecutor, assisted by Charles B. Morrison of Chicago, Frank H. Poole and J. H. Graves of the department of justice, W. H. Higgins of Minneapolis and Cardenio A. Severance of St. Paul.

The Standard Oil company presented a formidable array of legal talent, led by John G. Milburn of New York. Their defense was that the present organization of the Standard Oil corporation was the result of natural growth of a great industry and no statute had been violated.

JOSEPH B. FORAKER.

Since his retirement from the senate in March of the present year Joseph B. Foraker has devoted his time to his law practice and business interests in Cincinnati, his home city.

BRIEFS

D. E. Cameron of South Quincy has returned from a business trip to New York and Pennsylvania.

Tonight is an off night for the City Council. No meeting will be held until the night before the election.

Mrs. Elizabeth C. Follett of Putnam street and Mrs. George T. Waldron of Granite street, have returned from a week's visit in Georgetown.

The engagement is announced of Miss Alice Bigelow, formerly of Lexington, and Mr. Henry Whitcomb Porter, son of Hon. and Mrs. Charles H. Porter of Adams street.

The weekly duplicate whist tournament under the Howell system will be held tonight at the rooms of the Granite City club. Play will commence at 8 o'clock.

James Duncan Secretary-Treasurer of the Granite Cutters union is attending the American Federation of Labor convention at Toronto and is directing the Barre, Vt., strike from there.

Sunday was an ideal Indian summer day. In fact it was a rare day for this season of the year and many people were about. Those who were owners of automobiles improved the opportunity for a trip through the wooded country to enjoy the foliage.

The Granite city club is planning for a good time the night before Thanksgiving. In addition to the weekly whist tournament an orchestra will be present and give a concert during the entire evening. Refreshments will be served.

GRANITE SHIPMENTS.

Returns from the two railroad terminals for the month of October show that the amount of rough and finished granite shipped from Quincy that month was 19,054,588 pounds, which was but a few hundred pounds less than the amount shipped during the month of September. Of the October shipments 12,451,665 pounds was forwarded from West Quincy and 6,602,923 pounds from South Quincy.

PROFESSIONAL CALLED IN

Necessary to Revive Victim of an Amateur Hypnotist

Bellefontaine, O., Nov. 22.—Miss Viola Hass went with a party of friends to see a hypnotist perform at Kenton. Afterward they went to the home of Miss Ella Marshay, where Jack Spencer playfully sought to hypnotize Miss Hass.

He was almost instantly successful. Her body became rigid and the young people were frightened when their efforts to revive her proved unavailing. Finally doctors were called, but they did not bring Miss Hass to.

Finally, after twelve hours had elapsed, the professional hypnotist was sent for and he brought her out of the hypnotic state. Since then she has been afraid to go to sleep, saying that she suffered dreadful distress of mind during the time she was under the spell.

MEN LOSE $12,000 A DAY

No Change In Granite Lockout Situation In Vermont

Barre, Vt., Nov. 22.—The granite lockout situation in this city, Montpelier and Northfield is unchanged. The total payroll of the 4000 cutters now idle in this valley is $12,000 a day.

The falling off in shipments of granite is felt by the railroads entering this city and they are laying off night yard and freight crews.

One important phase of the situation is the orders for work that have already begun to go elsewhere.

One $10,000 order from a granite wholesaler that would have come to the city went to South Ryegate, where Barre granite is cut. Such business once lost is always hard to regain.

STEAMER BURNED TO WATER'S EDGE

Hundred and Eighteen Persons Aboard Are All Saved

Los Angeles, Nov. 22.—The passenger steamer St. Croix of the North Pacific Steamship company burned to the water's edge at a point three miles off Point Duma.

The lives of eighty-two passengers and the crew of thirty-six were saved by vigorous action by the officers and the crew, aided by a calm sea. All on board escaped in lifeboats and rafts and were landed at Point Duma on the beach.

The fire started in the second cabin and had made such headway before it was discovered that the greatest difficulty was experienced in launching boats and life rafts and placing the passengers, who were mostly women, safely aboard them.

A panic among the passengers was prevented by the officers and crew, who gave the passengers no chance to save their personal belongings.

The sole reason for those grim missives, so far as could be fathomed by District Attorney Coles and one of his sleuths, was their sender's desire to frighten her spouse so he would gladly flee back to Scotland.

Incomplete fragments found in her writing desk match letters which went through the mail.

A GREAT IMPROVEMENT

But Few Union Laborers Are Out of Work In Massachusetts

Boston, Nov. 22.—The report on the condition of employment in the organized industries for the quarter ending Sept. 30, 1909, just made public by the state bureau of statistics, reveals that only 4.0 percent of the labor union membership reported was idle, as against 10.62 percent for the corresponding quarter a year ago.

The principal cause of idleness was lack of work or material. Of the total 3.41 percent were idle for this reason, 1.06 because of sickness or old age, .15 because of strikes and lockouts, .07 because of unfavorable weather, and .11 for other reasons.

The Battle

By

Cleveland Moffett

Copyright, 1909, by G. W. Dillingham Co.

No person who is grappling with the vital perplexities of life can afford to pass this great novel by without reading it. The never ending battle between capital and labor, between duty and pleasure, between man and woman, between man and man and between purity and vice is here shown by a student of the conditions of which he writes. The story teaches the lesson of hope to struggling mankind. It deals with the socialistic problems of the hour in a sane way, revealing to the rich their mistakes and to the poor their opportunity. Stirring action as well as captivating romance fills its columns and conveys the intended lessons the more effectively.

CHAPTER I.

DAWN IN HAGGLETON'S TENEMENTS.

THE night workers had long since begun their weary tramp home through the darkness in the crowded tenement district of which Market street is the congested center, the most densely populated thoroughfare of New York. The streets were still empty in comparison with what they should be a few hours later, but quiet—never.

At no hour of the day or night is that quarter of the city without its noises. They succeed each other in a regular, daily repeated order. One can tell by them each hour of the twenty-four. And as the street has its noises, so has each house.

An alarm clock rattled in a large room in one of the towering tenements, built of brick, without ornamentation, made hideous by row upon row of narrow windows.

A young woman seated at a table in a corner of a squalid room had not looked up or stopped for a moment in her occupation of gilding plaster figures with a brush which she dipped from time to time in a pan. A lamp, shaded so as to throw all the light it gave directly upon her work, stood beside her. The rest of the room was dark.

A man's sleepy, quarrelsome voice came from somewhere beyond the room.

"What time is it, Jenny?"

"After 7. You'd better get up."

The girl was strikingly handsome in a buxom, sensuous way, but the droop of resignation of her mouth struggled with the line of revolt that met it from the delicate nostrils downward. Her eyes shone dark under the arched eyebrows. In them there were unrest and knowledge of good and evil, a vague wonder and a look of hunger of mind and heart.

The room as she turned around to survey it was seen to contain two iron bedsteads, in one of which there were a man and two children, while the other contained a younger man. Both beds were tousled and untidy. The young man's clothes had been thrown in a heap on the foot of his. The elder man's lay partly on a chair, partly on the floor beside it.

Moran, Jenny's father, sat up in bed. Jenny returned to her work, sitting down with her back toward the beds.

"Can't sleep with that kid coughing and kicking," grumbled Moran. "Didn't sleep a wink."

He slid his feet on to the floor, drew on his shoes, hitched up the trousers in which he had slept, crossed over to the sink and washed his face and hands. Then he turned to a bare table, which, with three cheap, rickety chairs, completed the furniture.

He cut off a hunk of bread and ate, grumbling the while, his watery eyes wandering along the wall, staring unseeingly at the cheap color prints of the rulers of Europe that formed its incongruous ornament.

A large picture of a young man in diving costume, a veritable Hercules, his heavy helmet resting on his arm, occupied a place of honor all by itself on another wall.

Moran had a weak, discouraged face, with incongruously scowling eyes.

The younger man had propped himself up in bed, lighted a candle and was now reading a paper. He was Joe Caffrey, the widower of Jenny's elder sister, who had died three weeks before. Now, like the two children, he was a "boarder" of Jenny's.

"Hello!" said Joe, looking up from his paper. "Here's a description of John J. Haggleton's private yacht. He sails today on a cruise."

"Haggleton!" growled Moran. "That's our landlord. I'd like to have him here!"

Joe Caffrey kept on reading.

"Oh, say, listen to this!" he exclaimed: "The walls are paneled in satinwood; under foot are velvet carpets twelve feet wide, and"—

Moran jumped up in a rage.

"D——d millionaire!" he shouted.

It was broad daylight now. Jenny extinguished the lamp; Joe blew out his candle. Through the cheap, draggly lace curtains of the windows a superb view of the East river and the Brooklyn bridge was revealed.

CLEVELAND MOFFETT

As Moran opened the door his daughter stopped him.

"I wish you'd stop at Mrs. Binney's," she said, "and ask her to come around and look at Benny's cough. He might have croup."

"Benny!" snarled Moran. "It's a rotten idea having those kids here, anyway. Why don't they stay with their father?"

"Their father," answered his daughter practically, going over to the children's bed, "their father pays us $4 a month for their board."

Moran turned to go. But before he closed the door behind him he growled, "This is a h— of a home!"

The children, a girl of ten and a boy two years younger, whimpered. Benny coughed again, then wailed. His sister put her arms around him and soothed him.

"Don't cry, you star boarders," called Joe good naturedly. "You are going to have presents, do you hear? Beautiful presents. Santa Claus forgot you at Christmas, but that was a mistake."

The two youngsters sat up in bed and gazed at him with eager expectancy.

"What are you telling them that for?" asked Jenny indignantly.

"Never you mind. Come here, Emmy."

The girl clambered out of bed and went to him in her nightgown. Benny started to follow, but was restrained by Jenny.

"Now, listen," continued Joe. "In a minute, just as soon as I get up, that sympathetic and good looking lady over there, my sister-in-law, is going to lend me $2.

"Not on your life," said the sympathetic and good looking lady with much energy.

"That $2," continued Joe, without paying the slightest attention to her, "I am going to take over to Wallace's pool room and play it on a sure thing—Corn Cob."

"Corn Cob!" repeated Emmy uncomprehendingly.

"Yes. It's a sure pipe. Why don't you laugh? It's a cinch at 15 to 1. So I'll come back this afternoon with thirty bones."

"Gee! Thirty bones!" The child's eyes shone.

"Of which thirty bones," Joe explained distinctly, watching Jenny, "ten go to the sympathetic and good looking lady, leaving twenty for personal expenses and miscellaneous charities. Ahem!"

Jenny patted Benny's pillow.

"Fifteen to one—a sure thing," repeated Joe impressively.

"Nothin' doin'," said his sister-in-law.

"That means," resumed Joe, again pretending not to hear her and addressing himself to Emmy, "a new doll for you, and—what do you want, Benny?"

"I want a yacht," shrilled the little fellow.

"Ha, ha! He wants a yacht like that millionaire Haggleton! All right, my son; you get a yacht."

Jenny faced him.

"Better cut out pool rooms, Joe, and look for a job."

"I might find one," he shrugged.

Joe, who, like Moran, had slept half dressed, now rose, washed himself hastily and made his simple toilet.

"You hinted at looking for a job Jenny," he observed, "but that supposes a desire for work, and in me that would mean sweeping reform. Now, reform may suit you, my dear sister-in-law, but"—

"Cut it out," said Jenny sharply. "That's enough."

She blushed painfully and her eyes filled with tears at the thought of her sodden past.

Joe fished in his pocket, pulled out a cigarette, and threw it at her. She caught it deftly, lighted it and inhaled the smoke with keen relish.

"If a girl will be an idiot," continued Joe. "It is all right to keep straight, but why go to extremes?"

She had "reformed," given up finery and ease, but why?

Why had she suddenly returned to poverty, squalor and grinding toil? She was young, handsome; she loved comfort; she hated work.

A gleam of intelligence came into Joe's face.

"I know why you done it," he said suddenly enlightened.

"What do you mean?"

"It wasn't for my poor dead Liz that you reformed; it was for him!"

He pointed at the picture of the diver on the wall.

"Yes, for Phil," he repeated.

"You're not such a fool, Joe."

"Oh, that was easy," he returned modestly. "You always have your eyes on that picture. All right," he said, "I'll stand in with you. But we'll have to sidetrack the other maiden."

Jenny burst out:

"The high toned girl at Mrs. Binney's boarding house?"

"Sure. The trained nurse. Miss Margaret Lawrence. She's the only peach on the tree for Phil."

Jenny clinched her hands.

"She'll never get him! Never!"

A knock at the door caused them both to look toward it.

The knock was repeated. Joe looked at Jenny.

"Come in!" she said.

The door opened, admitting a handsome, stalwart young man of twenty-five or so. His face was tanned by exposure, and he carried his broad shoulders with an air of responsibility that rose to the dignity of authority in his frank, manly, somewhat stern face. It was the original of the diver's picture on the wall—Philip Ames, a man placed above his environment by the arduous training of his work and its ample wage. It showed in the decisiveness of his movements, the alertness of his look, the controlled readiness of all his faculties. But his smile was engaging, almost boyish. He removed his hat and said in a deep, clear, pleasing voice:

"Good morning."

Jenny had surreptitiously hidden her cigarette under the tray of images.

"Good morning, Phil," she said. "I am glad to see you."

Joe looked at his sister-in-law. Even without the confession of her love of a moment ago he would have been made sure of the correctness of his surmise by the adoring look in her eyes.

"Your father stopped at the boarding house a moment ago," explained Philip. "He says that Benny is sick."

"Yes; he has been coughing a good deal."

"That's too bad. Mrs. Binney sends me over with this croup kettle."

"Thanks!" said Jenny.

Behind his turned back she motioned Joe to leave the room.

Her brother-in-law suddenly became quite businesslike. Here was a chance for a bargain. Corn Cob at 15 to 1! He must have that $2.

So, just as Philip turned, he significantly held up two fingers.

Jenny nodded eagerly.

"Shall I get that medicine you wanted?" he asked with tender solicitude.

"Yes. Here's the money."

She produced her purse, always carefully guarded, often strenuously defended, and handed over the money.

Jennie had hidden her cigarette.

It nearly left her penniless for the rest of the week, but what did she care? To be alone with Phil!

Philip took the chair nearer Moran's bed and brought it forward to the table at which Jenny had seated herself to resume her work. The tray she pulled forward a little more, completely hiding the cigarette she had been smoking.

The young diver seated himself and watched her for a little while. Under his gaze she became confused, dropped her brush and looked up, meeting his clear, deep blue eyes timidly.

He laughed a little.

"Will you mind if I smoke?" he asked.

"You know I don't, Phil. I love a good cigarette."

He had already taken out of his pocket the little box, placed a cigarette between his lips and returned it to the pocket of his coat. Now he produced it again and held it out to her hesitatingly, almost unwillingly.

AN UP-TO-DATE DRUGGIST

says it is surprising how many old-fashioned remedies are being used, which goes to show that it is hard to improve some of our grandmothers' old time-tried remedies. For instance, for keeping the hair dark, soft and glossy, nothing equaling our grandmothers' "sage tea" has ever been discovered. Although, by the addition of sulphur and other ingredients, this old-fashioned brew has been made more effective as a scalp tonic and color restorer. Nowadays when our hair comes out or gets faded or gray, instead of going to the garden or garret for herbs and making the "tea" ourselves, we simply go to the nearest drug store and ask for a bottle of Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur. This preparation is sold by all leading druggists for 50 cents and $1 a bottle, or is sent direct by the Wyeth Chemical Company, 74 Cortlandt St., New York City, upon receipt of price.

ACTIVITY IN QUINCY CHURCHES

Many References on Sunday to Thanksgiving Season.

Over One Hundred Religious Services Held in the City of Presidents.

The assertion that there are over 100 religious services in Quincy each Sunday may be questioned by many, but have they ever counted the churches of the city, and the number of services announced for a Sunday. Most of the churches hold morning and evening services, one or two sessions of the Sunday School, a young people's service, and sometimes there are junior leagues, concerts, etc. All the Catholic churches hold several masses and vesper services, and there are also religious services at the Y. M. C. A., at the Sailors' Snug Harbor, National Sailors' Home and other institutions. Most of the churches of the "City of Presidents" are successful both in work and finances, although it is probably a fact that Quincy is over-churched, for there are over 30 churches or religious societies, and the population is not much over 30,000.

In inaugurating the new church department of the Daily Ledger today we wish to extend thanks to the pastors of the city who have cooperated to make it a success. The department will hereafter be a Monday feature of the Daily Ledger.

HARVEST SERVICE.

The annual harvest service of the Sunday school of the First church was held Sunday afternoon at 4 o'clock and was very largely attended. The service was held in the chapel and the platform was decorated with fall vegetables. There were squashes, potatoes, onions, apples, and the like which had been brought by the children, and they formed a very attractive decoration. Today these vegetables will be distributed among the poor people. The program was an interesting one, and opened with the reading of a verse of scripture by Superintendent Charles H. Johnson. This was followed by the reading of a harvest service. There were recitations by Floyd McDonald, Doris Taylor, Donald Parker, Frank Johnson, Willard Crocker, Seth Taylor, and Elinor Gow. These were interspersed with songs by the school and Psalm 23 by the "Peace Makers." Rev. C. Ames, the assistant pastor, read the Governor's Thanksgiving proclamation, and the superintendent gave a short talk on Thanksgiving. At the Thanksgiving offering $14.68 was collected. This sum will be expended in the purchase of Thanksgiving dinners for the needy poor who have children.

WELL ORGANIZED CHURCH.

Five services were held Sunday at Bethany Congregational church, including a Norwegian meeting in the afternoon. The music at the morning service included Thanksgiving hymns and anthem, and the pastor's theme was "On the King's Highway." Dr. Hardy made several quotations from the poem, illustrating each verse. The Bible school meets in six departments, each having a different room: —the adult, senior, intermediate, junior, primary and beginners. Miss Margaret Gardner was leader of the Young People's meeting. The address of the evening by Judge Avery is reported at length in another column. The soloist of the evening was A. L. Hayden.

The Intermediate Christian Endeavors will meet this evening with Robert Pratt. Tomorrow evening the Endeavorers will hold a social and present "A Straw Man."

Rev. George H. Hubbard of Haverhill will address the Bible Reading Club on Wednesday evening.

The ladies of the church are preparing to send a barrel of clothing to a home missionary.

MISSION CLOSED.

Services at St. Mary's church on Sunday were held at 6.45, 8, 9.45 and at 10.30 A. M., and during the masses a short sermon was given by the Rev. Fr. Grady and the Rev. Fr. Duffy.

At 7.30 came the closing of the men's mission and a sermon by the Rev. Fr. Gannon followed by the benediction. He was assisted by the Rev. Fr. Grady and the Rev. Fr. Duffy. After paying respects to the reverend fathers present and their short instruction, Fr. Gannon also thanked those who aided the Mission Fathers during the past week in keeping the altar in condition and decorated with flowers, and others who helped in the sale of articles which the congregation needed. One of the most beautiful sights that was ever witnessed in the church was when each one present held a lighted candle above the head while the Mission Father blessed those present and then bid them goodby.

Tuesday night at 7.15 the Ladies Sodalaties will meet, and Sunday afternoon the Holy Name Society.

THANKSGIVING EVERY DAY.

"Every day should be thanksgiving day. One thanksgiving day during the year is not enough, especially when we are only thankful for the big dinner over which we are to preside. It is no doubt well that there should be one day set apart for thanksgiving unto God, but it is much better to make every day a thanksgiving day, beginning with the day and continuing through until retiring. God is so good to us it becomes us to spend less or our time in asking Him for favors, and more of our time in thanking Him for all He has done for us. Above all He has shown his care for us in and through our Lord Jesus Christ. Let us daily praise God, for common mercies; common as we frequently call them and yet so priceless that when deprived of them we are ready to perish. But the sweetest and loudest note in our songs of praise should be of redeeming love."

This timely reference to the holiday this week was made by Rev. R. J. Davis of the Calvary Baptist church Sunday morning when speaking on the theme "The Spirit of Praise." He told at length why some do not praise the Lord, and also what will cause us to praise the Lord more.

SWEDISH BAPTIST.

The pastor Rev. A. P. Hanson, preached Sunday forenoon in the Swedish Baptist church in Boston. When he returned home for the evening service, he was accompanied by Rev. John Verner of Norwood. Rev. Verner preached a very interesting and instructive sermon on the words of Christ: "Be of good cheer."

During the week there will be choir rehearsals Monday and Wednesday evenings preparatory for a union temperance meeting to be held Sunday, Dec. 5, at 3 P. M.

On Thanksgiving day a Swedish union service will be held in the Swedish Congregational church. In the evening at 7 o'clock will be held a large gathering in the Baptist church. There will be singing, address by Rev. E. A. Lagerstrom; offering for some special purpose and refreshments will be served.

Beginning Friday evening and continuing over two Sundays, Rev. Lagerstrom will assist the church and pastor in evangelistic work. Services will be held every evening except Saturdays. It is hoped these will be well attended and bring great blessings.

HALL PLACE CHURCH.

The services at the Hall Place M. E. church were well attended Sunday. In the morning, the pastor, Rev. C. H. Raupach, took for his subject, "Help from other days," the text of the lesson being found in Psalm 22: 4. "Our fathers trusted in thee: they trusted, and thou didst deliver them.

The Sunday school attendance was larger than it has been for some time. Twenty-four members were present at the Junior League at 3 P. M. Miss May Williams has been recently appointed assistant superintendent of the Junior League. A very helpful service was held by the Epworth League at 6.15, with Mrs. C. H. Raupach, leader, the topic being "Bringing in the guests."

At the evening service the congregation took a public individual part by repeating a verse which contained the word thanks or thanksgiving. A large number took part in this service. After the regular service a special altar service of thanksgiving was held at which a goodly number were present. The evening sermon was very helpful and inspiring.

REVIVAL MEETINGS.

A series of evangelistic services are to be held in the Swedish Congregational church on Garfield street during this week, Nov. 23-28, being the dates set apart for the campaign. Tomorrow evening is the opening night and Sunday the closing day. Rev. Malcolm Magnuson, the noted evangelist from Chicago, is the speaker engaged by the church. Mr. Magnuson—though very young, not yet rounding out a quarter of a century—has a remarkable record in the evangelistic field. The largest Swedish Congregational churches from the Atlantic to the Pacific have been visited by him. Only last summer he conducted a successful campaign in Seattle, Washington. Numerous conversions, increased membership and a general spiritual uplift of the churches are the constant results of the young evangelist's zealous and warmhearted preaching.

So pleased have several of the strong churches been with Mr. Magnuson's work that they have endeavored to secure him as permanent preacher and pastor. These offers, however, always being declined.

Mr. Magnuson comes to Quincy from Boston where his second campaign is just closed. Before coming to New England, he conducted a four weeks' revival in Jamestown, N. Y., with marked success. Having been born in Chicago, Mr. Magnuson masters the English language fully as well as his mother tongue. The meetings in Quincy will be held in Swedish, the Sunday afternoon service being the only exception. At that hour Mr. Magnuson has promised to deliver a sermon in English.

It is to be hoped that great interest and increasing enthusiasm will be shown by the Swedish population of the city for this series of meetings.

WOLLASTON BAPTIST.

"How David prevailed" was the subject of the sermon of Rev. Joseph Walther at the Wollaston Baptist church Sunday morning.

The Junior Endeavor society met at 4 o'clock in charge of Mrs. Kendall F. H. Harriman.

Miss Eleanor Dunn was the leader at the meeting of the Y. P. S. C. E. with the subject, "The blessing of a thankful heart."

In the evening the pastor preached his third sermon in the series on the "Buts" in Scripture, with the topic, "But when it is grown."

Friday the regular prayer meeting will be held with "The 103 Psalm" as the subject.

Contributions of fruits, jellies or groceries are solicited for the Frances Willard Settlement, Boston. Mrs. A. D. Albee, 80 Prospect avenue, or Mrs. Mills, 186 Arlington street, will receive all donations.

WOLLASTON UNITARIAN.

A good congregation listened to the pastor's sermon on "Lessons from Nehemiah" Sunday morning. In the evening there was a large attendance to hear Mrs. H. J. Gurney, who spoke in her usual interesting, instructive and helpful way on "Thanksgiving." The devotional service was led by Miss Margaret Hall.

We rejoice in having with us our tenor, Paul R. Bennett, who after several months' illness is able to be out again.

Rev. and Mrs. Carl G. Horst are at home to parishioners and others this evening.

The fifth congress of the International Council of Unitarian and other liberal religious thinkers and workers will be held in Berlin and other cities of Germany next August.

ST. CHRYSOSTOM'S.

At St. Chrysostom's church Sunday morning Rev. A. Edwin Clattenburg took for his text St. John XVI, 33: "In the world ye shall have tribulations: but be of good cheer, I have overcome the world." He said in part: The Lord Jesus Christ came into this world of ours to conquer it. "To wipe away all tears from off the faces of those who lean on Him." Tribulations come upon all the children of men. The best way of meeting them will be the way followers of Christ will adopt. Causes without or within, it matters not with Christ. The power He exerted to overcome the evil He may exert now for us. Only those who do not possess Christ are comfortless. Those without the pale of His great love and care are the only ones conquered by the world.

WOLLASTON METHODIST.

Rev. Wesley Wiggin of the Wollaston Methodist church had "Jesus, the miracle worker," for his subject on Sunday morning. The Epworth League met at 6 o'clock with Mrs. George Crothers as leader and "Bringing in the guests" as the subject.

On Tuesday evening there will be a class meeting in the vestry led by Mr. Bjorkman.

The Bible study class meets on Wednesday evening with Miss Ethel Smith, 9 Prospect avenue. On Friday evening, the usual prayer meeting will be held.

The Queen Esther circle will visit the Medical Mission at 36 Hull street, Boston, on Saturday, taking the 1.16 train.

A BOY'S POCKET.

At the Wollaston Congregational church, Rev. E. A. Chase preached on the novel subjects "A boy's pocket" and "A boy's confusion of thought" at the Sunday morning service.

John C. Blake was the leader at the Sunday evening meeting of the Christian Endeavor society with the subject, "The blessings of a thankful heart."

The monthly dinner of the Men's club will be held on Tuesday evening, Rev. Edward Cummings of Boston speaking on "Boston 1915."

On Wednesday evening the girls' choir club will meet in the parsonage. The union Thanksgiving service for Wollaston will be held in the church on Thursday afternoon at 5 o'clock. The regular prayer meeting will be held on Friday evening.

ATLANTIC CHURCHES.

The Junior Endeavor Society of the Memorial church has been reorganized, and a Girls' Friendly Society will be started under the leadership of Mrs. Chase Pope. With these two societies and the new Boys' club special efforts are being made to interest the young people.

At the Atlantic Methodist church the pastor, Rev. W. J. Heath, preached on "The Beautiful Gate" suggesting some features of the Christian religion. He said: "It is beautiful to win admiration. The mind of man is so constituted that in proportion as he is gratified to judge he responds to beauty of form or sound the figures used to represent it the description given of it, the manifestations made all emphasize its beauty. Exception may be taken to the last statement, but we see it exhibited through an imperfect medium, and the purest saint is only in process of ripening.

It is a gate for entrance. We are not to be content with admiration as many are. They admire its literature, its effects, its manifestation, but there they stop. That is better than hostility, but is not sufficient for safety. Nor is it reasonable. If false, it should be driven from the earth. If true, it should receive unqualified allegiance. More or less than more admiration is absolutely demanded.

When entered, what is more beautiful, will be found? The path of the just shineth more and more unto the perfect day. Its experiences grow richer and its institution more satisfying. Its consequences here are a sufficient reward, but the crown of glory is held in reversion.

That gate shuts out the world, its anxieties its sins, its pollutions. Just in proportion as the worshipper apprehends its purpose will sin its practice, penalty and pollution be left behind.

That gate may me approached from many directions. From Dan on the North, or Beersheba on the South, from Galilee on the east or the Mediterranean on the West. When reached there will be no quarrel as to the route by which one has come. So the Lord Jesus is lifted up. Some may reach Him oppressed with sorrow, others filled with joy, some because reason is convinced, others because affections are stirred. This is matter of indifference. The important thing is to get to Christ and so build on the only sure foundation. The gate is accessible. Why not enter now?

UNION THANKSGIVING SERVICE.

The union Thanksgiving service at Bethany church on Thanksgiving day will attract wide attention. The meetings for the past few years have been greatly enjoyed and very successful. The theme for this year is A Better Quincy and it will be considered under three sub-topics by three prominent speakers. "Woman's Contribution to a Better City" by Mrs. Claire H. Gurney, president of the Quincy Women's club. "Man's Contribution to a Better City," by Mr. Theophilus King. "The Church's Contribution to a Better City," by Rev. James A. Matheson pastor of the Water Street Presbyterian church. Mrs. Emma S. Moore soloist, Madame Morey organist.

TODAY'S COURT.

James Scanlon of Milton was fined $10, Charles Sibones of Weymouth $10, James Harnett of Quincy $10, Albert Johnson of Weymouth $10, Joseph Lapietre of Quincy $15 for drunkenness.

Esther Slater was fined $10 for exceeding the automobile speed limit at Quincy.

Margaret Shea was arraigned for neglecting to send her children to school at Quincy. She was fined $10. Sentence suspended until Dec. 18.

Dennis Cleman and Daniel Riley were arraigned upon two complaints for violation of the milk law at Weymouth. Cases continued until Nov. 30.

John Guerino was arraigned for gaming at Quincy. Case continued until Saturday.

Frank Rosino was arraigned for breaking and entering at Cohasset. Case continued until Friday.

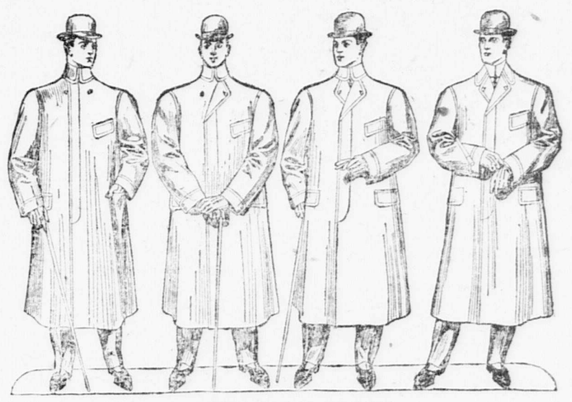

Mr. R. Harvey and son Roy of Willard street will spend a few weeks with relatives in Nova Scotia.

HOLIDAY FOOTBALL.

On Thanksgiving morning at Merrymount Park, Wollaston A. A. will meet in some team in a football game. The Wollaston team has played four games this season and have won three. The lineup of the local team will be the same as it has been the whole year. In the backfield, Gourlie, Clapp and Robbins with McDonald in quarter-back. From end to end will be: Osberg, Mansfield, Morton and Johnson, Gerstel and Rice with Flynn at center. The game will be called at 10 A. M. and will be the last of the season for the local sport fans to watch, so be on hand and root fr one or the other. Last Saturday the Wollaston A. A. played the fast Wellingtons of Mattapan and were defeated 6 to 0. Possibly the Wellingtons may come here for a return game, if so it promises to be red hot.

Mr. Adams and son of Hall Place have returned from a pleasant vacation spent with relatives in New York.

The performance of Maunders "Song of Thanksgiving" will take place in the First Congregational church, Braintree on Wednesday of next week instead of this. The Quincy service will be held in Christ church Friday, November 26.

NEW PRESS IS A WONDER

Mayor Shea and City Merchants See First Edition Printed.

A Proud Day for the George W. Prescott Publishing Company ----Means Much to the City.

At about half past two Monday afternoon the new Duplex press commenced printing the "Bigger Ledger," and there was a representative gathering of old subscribers, business men, newsdealers and newspaper men to see the "wheels go round."

George Washington Duncan who came on from Battle Creek, Michigan, to set up the press, was master of ceremonies, ably assisted by Foreman Frank P. Hill who has been connected with the Daily Ledger Office for over a quarter of a century, and at the lever to start the press in motion was Jo Mischler, one of the younger employees.

Every thing went well and soon the eight-page Ledgers all trimmed and folded were coming out of the press with lightning rapidity. Two or three miles of paper were run through before the press stopped after registering 8,152 papers.

Among those present were Mayor Shea, City Clerk Keith; most of the merchants in City Square; Fred F. Green of the Advertiser; T. J. Collins of the Boston Globe; Galen Bowditch, who today is observing his 72d birthday; Rev. Matthew McDonnell of St. Francis church, Braintree; all the directors of the George W. Prescott Publishing Company, Frank F. Prescott, Eben Prescott, Dr. John F. Welch, Miss Etta M. Prescott, Miss Annie L. Prescott and Mrs. Russell C. Low; also all of the employees of the company and several newsboys.

Seeing the "wheels go round" proved very interesting, all conceeding the press to be a marvel in its rapidity, rythm of motion and work accomplished.

After a thorough inspection an adjournment was made to the editorial rooms where Frank F. Prescott is chief, and A. J. Thompson served hot coffee and sandwiches. After the edition was run off the employees also gathered for a social lunch and rest after the strenuous hours of labor in getting up copy for the first edition, which included many large advertisements.

Mrs. A. B. Packard always a near and interested neighbor sent in as an expression of good will some sprays of ivy and pinks, which were placed in the main office beneath the portrait of the late owner, George W. Prescott who passed away a year ago.

Any one desirous of seeing the new press in action is cordially invited to drop in at the Daily Ledger office any afternoon at three o'clock.

PAPERS REFUSED FOR UNKNOWN

William J. Sullivan Wanted to Run Independent Candidate for Mayor.

City Clerk Keith Insisted That Nomination Paper be Filled Out With Name of the Proposed Candidate.

An application was made to City Clerk Keith on Monday for nomination papers for an independent candidate for Mayor. William J. Sullivan was the party to make the application. He refused to state who they were for, however, and the City Clerk refused to give him the papers unless the name of the candidate was affixed to them. This Mr. Sullivan refused to do and the City Clerk stuck to his stand so that no papers were taken out. Mr. Sullivan left the office threatening to take the matter before higher authorities.

City Clerk Keith says that he can find no law that obliges the City Clerk to provide papers for any person, and that the only reason that he provides them is to save himself bother and that he can be assured the papers are in correct form.

The City Clerk also says that any paper made out with pen and ink is just as good as a printed nomination paper provided that it complies with the law and is in correct form.

All nomination papers must be passed upon by the Registrars of Voters before they can be accepted. That is the Registrars must be certain that the paper has the required number of names of registered voters.

The time for filing nomination papers expires Wednesday night, at 5 o'clock, and it is absolutely necessary that they be filed long enough before that time for the registrars to see that the names are correct and that the required number are affixed to each paper. Should anyone file a paper just before 5 o'clock the chances are that it would not be accepted.

LATER.

Mr. Sullivan changed his mind and had his own name inserted as the Mayoralty candidate, on nomination papers which were issued by City Clerk Keith . His party designation is "Anti-Graft."

The nomination papers of Charles A. Hadlock as Councilman at large have been filed with the Registrars of Voters.

Councilman Gilson who took out papers for Councilman from ward and for Councilman at large has decided to become a candidate for Councilman at large.

The Registrars of Voters will meet tonight to examine nomination papers.

Nomination papers have been taken out by Mayor Shea as a Citizens candidate for Mayor.

The time for filing nomination papers of candidates to be voted for at the municipal election expires Wednesday at 5 o'clock .

Some question has been raised as to the legality of the nomination of Charles E. Cherrington, as a candidate for Councilman at large. On the ballot used at the caucus after his name were the words "candidate for reelection." This it is claimed was illegal and that the name should have been thrown out. City Clerk Keith when asked about the question said that the nomination papers were opened in public by the Republican City Committee, and that it was for them to decide what should go on the ballot. The papers were forwarded to the City Clerk, whose only duty was to prepare the ballot in accordance with the papers forwarded to him by the City Committee.

The particular claim made as to the name of Mr. Cherrington that he had never been a Councilman at large and therefore could not be a candidate for reelection or renomination for that office.

---Much of the objection to the new corporation tax is due to the provision requiring reports. But undoubtedly too much fear is felt over this requirement. As a matter of fact the information given in such reports will never be made known outside of the government offices, and even if some of it did leak out, little or no real damage would result. Most business concerns know how their competitors do business and any corporation whose success depends on secrecy as to its methods, is not established on a very firm foundation. One of the strongest objections to the law is that it levies a tax on a corporation while a competitor of such corporation, even if it be in receipts of a larger net income ,if it is a co-partnership, pays nothing, which is an injustice. —Banker and Tradesman.

MANY LODGES REPRESENTED

At Funeral Services of William John Tilley

The funeral of William John Tilley was held Monday afternoon from his late residence at Houghs Neck, and was very largely attended. Aside from many of his neighbors and friends, delegations were present from many of the organizations with which he was affiliated. These included Adelphi lodge, A. F. & A. M., St. Matthews chapter, R. A. M. St. Omer commandery Knights Templar; Quincy lodge, of the Eastern Star; Quincy lodge of Elks; Norfolk lodge, I. O. O. F., George L. Gill Rebekah lodge, the Quincy Yacht club, Gettysburg post 191, G. A. R., and Paul Revere Women's Relief Corps.

The services were conducted by Rev. A. E. Clattenberg of St. Chrysostoms church, after which the Masonic burial service was performed by St. Omer commandery, Henry Hazlett, Eminent Commander and John Murray prelate. During the services the Adelphi male quartette sang "Lead Kindly Light," "No Sorrow There," "Now the Loved One's Task is O'er," "Abide with Me" and "Sleep on Beloved."

The flowers were many and beautiful, all of the organizations of which he was a member sending set pieces. In addition to these there were floral tributes from many of his neighbors and personal friends. The flowers were grouped about the casket which was almost hidden beneath them. At the conclusion of the services an opportunity was given his friends for a last look at him who in life they had known so well. The burial will be at Providence, R. I., where the remains were taken this morning.

—Postmaster General Hitchcock has given instructions that packages not properly wrapped shall not be accepted for mailing. This action is taken in consequence of many complaints, especially from abroad, that parcels are received in a damaged condition because they are not prepared securely by the senders. The conditions reported illustrate the carelessness in many quarters and the remedy applied should be effective. It is just as easy to tie up a parcel in such a way as to make transmission safe as it is to do the work in a slovenly manner, incurring the risk of loss and of damage to the package and to other contents of the mail pouch. Beyond question the postal authorities have often been blamed for failing to deliver a parcel or for the damage that resulted when the sender was really the one at fault.—Framingham News.

Mayor Shea has called a meeting for tonight of the special committee to inquire relative to boulevards. The meeting will be held in the Mayor's office.

REUNION AND DANCE

The A. O. U. W. Open Series of Entertainments

The autumn reunion and dance of the Norfolk lodge A. O. U. W., held Monday evening was largely attended and proved one of the most successful affairs held in Atlantic Music hall this year. There was a large number present from Neponset and Quincy, besides special guests from outside lodges.

From 7 until 8 there was a regular meeting of the order, during which Deputy H. E. Milliker of Everett lodge of Dorchester addressed the members.

At 8 o'clock Goularts orchestra struck up and from 8 until 12 dancing was enjoyed. During intermission refreshments were served. The floor was in charge of James Morrison assisted by Charles Kolstud.

The committee of arrangements consisted of James Morrison, James Cahill, J. C. Ward, A. C. Brown, Benjamin Osburn, Cornelius O'Connell, Colin Goodwin.

This is the first of a series of entertainments to be given every fourth Monday during the winter, by the Norfolk lodge.

The social committee of the C. E. society of the First Presbyterian church are preparing a farce entitled "My Turn Next," to be given in the chapel of the church at an early date. Members of the San Souci Dramatic club are included in the list of characters which assures a fine entertainment. The proceeds go toward the organ fund.

A meeting of the City Council Committee on Ordinances will be held tonight.

Lt. Col. Henry L. Kincaide has been appointed adjutant general on the staff of Col. E. J. Gihon, commander in chief of the Spanish War Veterans.

BEAUTIFUL GRANITE

Shaft of 45,000 Pounds Successfully Quarried

The Granite Railway Co. on Saturday hoisted from its new quarry a most beautiful piece of extra dark Quincy granite intended for the shaft of a monument to be cut and polished by Messrs. Birnie & Diack.

The dimensions of the shaft were 28.6 x 2.8 x 2.8 and its scale weight was 22 1-2 tons (45,000 lbs.) The shaft was loaded at the Granite Railway quarry Monday afternoon on car N. H. 41966, and was shipped direct to Quincy Adams to be handled by the electric crane at that station. It was loaded on two teams hitched together at 9 A. M. today and hauled by twelve horses owned by A. M. Deane & Co. truckmen, to Birnie & Diack's yard.

The shaft is of very unusual length for extra dark stock and was obtained in direct competition with Barre granite. Manager L. S. Anderson and Quarry Foreman Frank Welch were most anxious to show what could be done in the new quarry of the Granite Railway Co. toward keeping up the prestige of Quincy granite in the markets of the country, and the result, as shown in the production of this shaft in an almost perfect pattern, amply justifies their efforts.

Mayor Shea has signed the order granting a pawnbroker's license to Samuel Castleman. Mr. Castleman states that he does not intend to display the three ball sign usually used by pawnbrokers.

—The total excavation now made in the Panama Canal to the end of September last is 87,172,058 cubic yards, which is only about three hundred yards short of one-half the total excavation required. As the average daily excavation is over 100,000 cubic yards, it may safely be said that half the work was done by the end of the first week in October.—Scientific American.

Von Holstein's Dress Coat.

Prince Bulow once invited Herr von Holstein to dinner, telling him that it was to meet the emperor. "But," replied Holstein, "I don't believe that I have a dress coat at present. I will try, however, to get one made in time, and if I can't perhaps the emperor will take me as I am." This, the Times says, was reported to his majesty, who said that Herr von Holstein was to appear in any garb he pleased.

When the meeting took place Holstein was in his usual frock coat, and the emperor laughingly tapped him on the shoulder and said: "I see that dress coat wasn't ready. It doesn't matter." —London Standard.

FIRE AT BRAINTREE.

That Mayflower Park has need of the water main recently extended through there was demonstrated Saturday morning at the burning of the residence and stable of Charles Hogan on Arbutus avenue.

At about eight o'clock a neighbor noticed the roof of the barn was on fire, and notified Mrs. Hogan. Word was sent to the other neighbors and a messenger started for the nearest box, over a mile away. When the fire department arrived, the barn was past saving and the flames were gaining great headway on the house. The firemen were handicapped by the poor quality of the hose, which burst in several places, making it necessary for the hose-wagon to go back to the engine-house after more.

The house could not be saved, but the most of the furniture was rescued some section men from the railroad aiding Mrs. Hogan also the neighbors Mr. Hogan was at work but was notified and arrived on the scene in the afternoon.

Thomas Murphy's house about fifty feet to the windward of the burning barn, caught fire several times, but was extinguished first by buckets of water, later by streams from the hose.

It is not known how the fire started although various theories are entertained. The barn was empty at the time.

AXE PREPARED FOR ZELAYA

Nicaraguan President Will Soon Lose His Official Head

WARSHIPS GET RUSH ORDERS

Battleship Missouri and Gunboats Paducah and Dubuque, All In Atlantic Waters, Will Lose No Time In Sailing—The Vicksburg Ready For Business at Corinto—State Department Has Recognized Insurgency

Washington, Nov. 23.—At the cabinet meeting today President Taft and his advisors will be asked by Secretary of State Knox to give official indorsement to the plan of eliminating President Zelaya finally from any position of power in Nicaragua.

Although the official news given out at the state department is that Knox is awaiting Zelaya's explanation of his execution of the two Americans, Cannon and Groce, it is known on excellent authority that the state department has already decided the time has come to put an end to the official life of Zelaya.

The battleship Missouri, while engaged in torpedo practice at Newport, received orders yesterday afternoon to proceed at top speed for New York. Preparations were made to sail within a couple of hours.

Naval rush orders were also received at Portsmouth in connection with the outfitting of the gunboats Paducah and Dubuque, both of which have been preparing to return to their stations in the Caribbean sea.

The first American warship to arrive in Nicaraguan waters was the gunboat Vicksburg. Her presence at Corinto, on the Pacific side of Nicaragua, was announced to the navy department. The little gunboat is in command of Commander Halstead. She is equipped with six four-inch guns and eight guns of smaller calibre, and is said to be in condition to give a good account of herself in any emergency that may arise.

Secretary Meyer returned to the navy department from Boston and immediately took up the Nicaraguan situation with Assistant Secretary Winthrop, who had been in charge of the department during his absence, and Rear Admiral Potter, chief of the bureau of navigation, with a view of determining how the navy would be able to comply with any request which the state department might make upon it. In general, the officials told the secretary that the navy was ready for any emergency which might arise.

The state department's action in recognizing the blockade of the port of San Juan Del Norte or Greytown is in effect a recognition of insurgency, but this action in all probability will be followed by what is much more important, recognition of belligerency.

Recognition of belligerency is a matter of the highest consequence to the insurgent forces. Once their belligerency is recognized, Zelaya would be held to strict accountability for any prisoners he might take, as the United States would undoubtedly see to it that they were treated in every respect as prisoners of war according to civilized standards.

Secretary Knox and President Taft intend their move shall be no bluff. They are determined to carry out their plan and will not evade military action.

TOLSTOI SCORES WAR

He Appeals to World's People to Refuse to Act as Soldiers

Geneva, Nov. 23.—Count Leo Tolstoi has given another message to the world at an anti-military meeting held at Bienne.

The appeal was written especially for the recent peace congress at Stockholm and would have been greatly embarrassing, on account of its violence, to the Swedish authorities, who were saved by the timely strike which caused a postponement of the congress. Later at Berlin the police prohibited its reading.

Tolstoi's appeal is to the good sense of the world's peoples to refuse to serve as soldiers, either voluntarily or under pressure, even if that refusal entails punishment. Killing by soldiers, he asserts, is a criminal act.

RIZZO ELECTROCUTED

Slayer of Two Children Shows No Emotion as He Meets Awful Fate

Auburn, N. Y., Nov. 23.—Theodore Rizzo was electrocuted here for the murder of Theresa Precopio and Ferdinando Infusino, two children, at Utica, on Sept. 12. At the same time he wounded little Fannie Infusino.

Rizzo went to his fate with an assumption of stubborn indifference. No emotion marked his expression as he was strapped in the electric chair. Three shocks were necessary to kill him.

Jailed For Fleecing Brokers

Boston, Nov. 23.—William H. Woodhall, charged with obtaining $2700 by false pretences, was sentenced to nine months in the house of correction. Woodhall was charged with having obtained money from brokers in this city by pledging fictitious credit accounts.

STRINGENT LAWS NEEDED

Rhode Island Aroused Over "Slaughter of the Innocents"

Providence, Nov. 23.—As an outcome of the investigation into the cause of the deaths of twenty-four babies in the Myrtle baby home in East Providence since June 17 there is now a most urgent demand for the passage of an act by the legislature which will bring all such institutions under the direct supervision of the authorities.

So serious do many Providence citizens consider the wholesale demise of little ones, numbering thousands yearly, that it is termed "the slaughter of the innocents." The whole state is aroused. Medical Examiner Allison states that he will advocate the enactment of a law covering the regulation of baby homes.

Among other things it has been found that impure condensed milk was the cause of most of the deaths, but there are other causes besides, it is stated.

HUGGER GETS SIX MONTHS

Citizens Donned Female Attire In Hunt For Paterson Pest

New York, Nov. 23.—Caught by angry fathers and husbands, who dressed as women to hunt him, Edward Miller of Paterson was sentenced in that city to six months in jail for hugging women who ventured out alone at night on the streets of the Riverside section of the city.

Miller is known as "Bug the Hugger." Policemen in plain clothes and several citizens who received permission from the police to don women's attire, started out to capture the hugger. Charles Mang had not gone far before he was followed by a man who afterward proved to be Miller.

Miller was roughly handled by indignant citizens before the police got him into a patrol wagon.

LAWYERS PREVENT LAWS FOR WORKERS

Opinion Expressed by Gompers Before Civic Federation

New York, Nov. 23.—President Gompers of the American Federation of Labor paid his respects to the legal profession at the opening session of the National Civic Federation's annual meeting.

He was discussing the need in this country of new laws to cover the subject of employers' liability and to provide adequate compensation to wage earners injured by accidents.

"The lawyers will prevent our getting the best and the wisest laws in this matter," he said. "All we can hope for is a little progress. For the present let us be satisfied with establishing some semblance of the justice which is demanded by such disasters as this most recent one at Cherry, Ills., the justice that would take from the shoulders of the worker the risk and burden of these losses."

END STAY IN QUARANTINE

Aliens Arrive In Boston After Being Held Up For Two Weeks

Boston, Nov. 23.—Health boat Vigilant, which does duty at quarantine, came up the harbor last evening with 150 aliens who arrived two weeks ago on the steamship Canopic from the Mediterranean and who were obliged to spend the interim at the quarantine station because during the voyage of the liner they were exposed to smallpox. The incubation period has ended without any fresh outbreak, which is considered quite remarkable considering the nature of the exposure.

Ninety others on the island were brought up today. The aliens were taken direct from quarantine to the White Star dock in Charlestown, there to submit to the immigration regulations just as if they had newly arrived on a liner.

DEPARTMENT OR A BUREAU?

One or the Other to Look After the Nation's Health

TAFT CONSIDERING PROBLEM

Department of Agriculture Would Be Deprived of Considerable of Its Business and Prestige Should Change Be Made—Commerce and Labor and Treasury Departments Are Also Interested—Congress to Consider It

Washington, Nov. 23.—In his annual message to congress it is expected that President Taft will recommend the establishment of a new bureau or department of public health. If a sufficient showing is made he will recommend the creation of a "department," the head of which will be a cabinet officer. Otherwise he will probably content himself with recommending a "bureau" under one of the departments now existing.

There are already nine departments with cabinet officers, and a prejudice exists in congress against increasing that number. Oncea department is created its field of usefulness, and incidentally the number of employes and expense of conducting it, seems to increase by leaps and bounds.

On the other hand, those interested in the questions appertaining to public health insist that nothing short of an independent department will serve to protect the health of the nation in an adequate manner, that such work must be carried on independently and without subservience to interests of wealth-production or wealth-accumulation.

What view President Taft will take is as yet unsettled, but he is giving the matter his close and personal attention. Surgeon General Wyman of the marine hospital service has submitted a report on the subject. Dr. Reed of Cincinnati, chairman of a special committee representing the American Medical association, has prepared his views at the request of the president and will, it is understood, shortly present them in person. The American Medical association is one of the numerous organizations which would prefer a department to a bureau.

A number of the departments are concerned in the matter. The departmentof commerce and labor has always felt that questions affecting the manufacture of foods should come within its jurisdiction. The treasury department has already a skeleton bureau known as the "bureau of public health and marine hospital service," of which Dr. Wyman is the head. The department of agriculture, now charged with the enforcement of the pure food and meat inspection acts, with the bureau of animal industry, is vitally interested.

A new bureau or department would take over all existing bureaus or divisions relating to the public health and would deprive the department of agriculture of considerable of its business and prestige. For this reason Secretary Wilson is put down as opposing any change in the situation. It has been felt, however, that the enforcement of an act regulating drugs and manufactured foods should have been left to some department better equipped for the purpose and whose existing work was more allied to the subject, than to the department of agriculture, which is concerned with matters relating to the farm and whose scientists are trained in that direction.

HAD NO WRONG INTENT

Members of Health Board Are Freed From Charge of Graft

Newburyport, Mass., Nov. 23.—John T. Pike, Alden Moody and Furmer Greeley, members of the Salisbury board of health, were accused of illegally accepting $25 from each of certain Amesbury and Newburyport ice cream dealers for the privilege of making sales at Salisbury Beach last summer and were summoned into court for a hearing.

The officials said that they had not taken any money as "graft," as some persons alleged; any that had been accepted had been for inspection service. Judge Simpson dismissed the complaint, saying the Salisbury officomplaint, saying the officials had not acted with wrong intent.

MILLS EVICT STRIKERS

Prediction of Trouble When Time Comes For Men to Leave Homes

Ludlow, Mass., Nov. 23.—The Ludlow Manufacturing associates yesterday took the first steps to evict their striking employes who are occupying the company's houses. A majority of them are tenants of the company, but only twenty notices to vacate were served.

The strikers have until Friday night to vacate and it is predicted there will be trouble over the matter.

Earthquake In California

Salinas, Cal., Nov. 23.—The heaviest earthquake recorded here since the shock of April 18, 1906, was felt in this city yesterday. Buildings rocked and creaked for fifteen seconds and people rushed into the streets.

No person shall publish or cause to be published in a newspaper either in its advertising or reading columns, any paid matter which is designed or tends TO AID, INJURE, OR DEFEAT ANY CANDIDATE FOR PUBLIC OFFICE, unless the name of the chairman or secretary or the names of two officers of the political or other organization inserting the same, or the NAME OF SOME VOTER WHO IS RESPONSIBLE THEREFOR, with his residence and street number thereof, if any, appear therein in the nature of a signature. Such matter inserted in reading columns SHALL BE PRECEDED OR FOLLOWED BY THE WORD ADVERTISEMENT in a separate line, in type not smaller than that of the body of the newspaper.

NO REASON FOR IT

When Quincy Citizens Show the Certain Way Out.

There can be no just reason why any reader of this will continue to suffer the tortures of an aching back, the annoyance of urinary disorders, the dangers of diabetes of any kidney ills when relief is so near at hand and the most positive proof given that they can be cured. Read what a Quincy citizen says:

James P. Daugherty, Hammond Place, Quincy, Mass., says: "I have used Doan's Kidney Pills and am glad to let other sufferers know what they have done for me. I was bothered a great deal by back ache and had but little strength or energy to do my day's work. I took many so-called kidney cures, but did not succeed in finding relief until I began using Doan's Kidney Pills which I procured at the Cox Drug Store. I was surprised and gratified at the prompt way in which they relieved me. My back was soon strong and free from pain and I felt better generally. I would go to considerable trouble to induce anyone to use Doan's Kidney Pills, as I have so much confidence in them."

For sale by all dealers. Price 50 cents. Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, New York, sole agents for the United States.

A THANKSGIVING PRAYER

CLORINDA, in the meeting house
The worthy parson prays,
And goodly thanks he gives for these
Most prosperous of days.
Your stately parents on their ways
Besought you not to stay,
But hasten with your meed of praise
On this Thanksgiving day.

Clorinda, oh, I watch you go
In flowered satin dressed;
You wear my heart upon your sleeve
That all the town may jest,
And when you kneel among the rest
Give thanks for this, I say:
You've not the grief that tears my breast
On this Thanksgiving day.

Clorinda of the rose red lips
That laugh me into scorn,
Must I alone mid happy folk
Be saddest of men born?
Ah, give me, sweet, this gracious morn
The word I needs must pray,
And grant unto a swain forlorn
A real Thanksgiving day.

—Theodosia Garrison.

Her Thanksgiving.

Oh, have you got the turkey picked,
And is the oven hot
And ready for the pumpkin pies?
I'll have to bake a lot,
And currant cakes and ginger snaps,
Of each a heaping tray.
Our boys and girls are coming home
To spend Thanksgiving day.

I'll make some sugar cookies too.
They used to like them so
When they were little toddling things
It seems so long ago!
And apple tarts for daughter Jane
With eyes of tender gray.
She's bringing both her babies home
To spend Thanksgiving day.

I rose before the peep of dawn,
I had so much to do,
But never have I felt so spry,
Though I am sixty-two.
To cook and bake and boil and brew
Seems only just like play
With all the dear ones coming home
To spend Thanksgiving day.

I thank the Lord who gives to us
The sunshine and the rain
That here in one unbroken band
I see them once again—
Our children and their children, too,
All hastening to obey
The voice of love that calls them home
To spend Thanksgiving day.

—Minna Irving.

On the Mexican Border.

Along the southern border of Mexico the natives still prepare their Thanksgiving feast with the primitive tools of ancient times. Beans and corn are ground into meal by the laborious aboriginal method to make bread and frijoles for the Thanksgiving dinner.

Thanksgiving Conundrums.

Here is a collection of conundrums which may be served up while the turkey is being served on Thanksgiving day:

What part of the turkey assists my lady in making her toilet? Comb.

What part of the turkey opens the front door? Last part—key.

What part of the turkey will appear on Wednesday, Dec. 1? Bill.

What part of a turkey is part of a sentence? Claws (clause).

What part of a turkey is used for cleaning purposes? Wings (for dusters).

What part of a turkey does the farmer watch with anxiety? The crop.

Why is the man who eats too fast like a turkey? Both are gobblers.

What part of the turkey is an oriental? The first part—Turk.

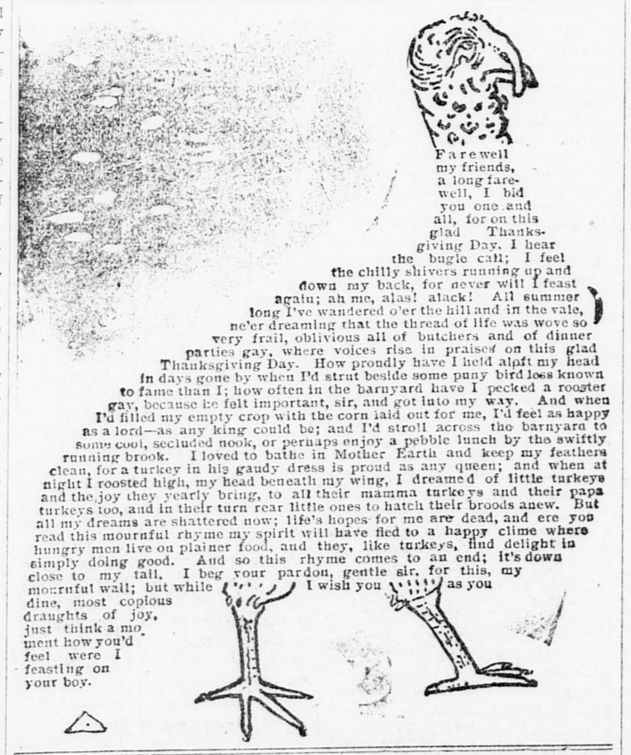

Why ought the turkey to be ashamed when he is being served? Because we see the turkey dressing.

What color gets its name from the turkey? Turkey red.

When the turkey is cooking, in what country is he? In Greece.

Turkeys and People.

I'd hate to be a turkey—
Wouldn't you?—
Getting roasted or else being
In a stew;
But, though we have no feathers, we are collared and we're cuffed,
And Thanksgiving day the turkey's not the only thing that's stuffed.

ABE'S THANKSGIVING PUDDING

The Tidbit That Delighted a Black Boy's Heart.

"Granny, is Thanksgivin' day for us poo' colored pussons as well as for de rich ladies you wash fur?"

"Why, Abe Lincolm, chile, what is you talkin' about? Hab I done brung you up to ask sich fool questions? Don't de good Lord say as how we mus' be thankful for our marcies ebery day?" answered the old woman, looking up from her ironing board at her small grandson, who was paring potatoes by the stove.

"But, granny, you said as we be too poo' for any sort o' puddin', and ef we got cabbage an' bakin dat's all we might 'pect, an' I do lub a puddin' mighty well." And Abe seemed ready to set up a wail of sorrow.

"It am a fearful sin to lub a puddin'. De good book says you mus' lub your enemies, boy, but it don't gib us no 'couragement to keer fur tings fur our stomach," granny replied severely.

"I ain't got no enemies to lub 'cept dey is de boys on de nex' street dat calls me 'de bowlegged nigger kid,' an' I kan't lub 'em as much as a puddin' nohow. I do so want real bad de sort Miss Gray done sent me las Kismus when I broke my leg."

"Plum puddin'! Well, you air mighty 'bitious to want dat, but you keep on with your potatoes, an' granny will see what she kin do," declared she more kindly as she stared at her crippled little grandson, the last one left of her once large family. "I'll done gib Abe Lincolm a spree," she thought as with a flash of joy she called to mind a pudding of the old time.

And this is the pudding that delighted little Abe's heart on Thanksgiving and made him feel as if he, too, participated in the feasts and good things of the day:

Cut up two cups of bread fine, half a cup of chopped suet, half a cup of molasses, one egg, one cup of raisins, one cup of sweet milk in which half a teaspoonful of soda is dissolved, half a teaspoonful of cloves, one teaspoonful of cinnamon, a pinch of mace and salt. Boil two hours in a tin pudding boiler. Eat with foaming sauce, which is made thus: Beat half a cup of butter to a cream, add one cup of granulated sugar and stir until it is white and foaming. Just before serving pour on one cup of boiling water and stir a moment.—Christian Work.

Our Thanksgiving Pie.

Oh, pumpkin, smiling on the vine,
I ween, a handsome fellow!
But listen to these words of mine
Which I'm about to tell, oh!

"All, all is vanity, I trow,"
Thus truly saith the preacher,
And vanity is lurking now
In every pumpkin feature.

I grant thou hast a mellow cheek
And very fairly rounded,
But on that happy fact this week
Thy downfall will be founded.

Since thou'rt so handsome on the vine
(Which well I can't deny, oh!),
Methinks thou sure wilt look divine
In our Thanksgiving pie, oh!

—Elsie Parrish.

Hard on the Chairs.

Among the ancestors of Wendell Phillips were several Puritan clergymen. Perhaps it was a push of heredity which made him at five years of age a preacher.

His congregation was composed of circles of chairs arranged in his father's parlor, while a taller chair, with a Bible on it, served him for a pulpit. He would harangue these wooden auditors by the hour.

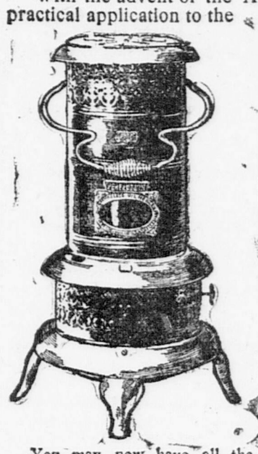

"Wendell," said his father to him one day, "don't you get tired of this?"

"No, papa," wittily replied the boy preacher, "I don't get tired, but it is rather hard on the chairs."

Smokeless

Until science discovered a way to construct the Automatic Smokeless Device, and make it completely dependable, all oil heaters had one common great fault—smoke.

With the advent of the Automatic Smokeless Device, and its practical application to the

PERFECTION Oil Heater
(Equipped with Smokeless Device)

the smoke problem was successfully solved.

The Perfection Oil Heater is the only heater equipped with this

Automatic Smokeless Device

which insures a steady, full-glowing heat, with the wick turned up as high as it will go, without a shred of smoke. Reverse the motion, turn the wick down—there's no odor.

The smokeless device automatically locks and prevents the upward movement of the wick beyond the proper exposure. That is the secret. This splendid result gives leadership to the Perfection.

You may now have all the heat you want—when you want it—and where you want it—without the annoyance of smoke or odor.

Brass font holds 4 quarts of oil, which permits a glowing heat for 9 hours. Brass wick tube—damper top—cool handle. Cleaned in a minute.

The Perfection is beautifully finished in Nickel or Japan.

HOLIDAY NOTICE.

Thanksgiving day will be observed as a holiday by the Daily Ledger, no paper being issued on Thursday. The office will be closed all day.

Since the Standard Oil Company is declared illegal there may be no one to sue to recover that $13,000,000 fine.

The Forest Hills extension of the Boston Elevated is now open. When will the extension to Fields Corner be opened?

A little of that black stuff used on the streets last summer would have been good Monday. The dust blew in clouds.

April showers bring forth mayflowers and why not mayflowers in November in the vicinity of Boston when out in Chicago the school children have been making money picking and selling violets.

An unusually large number of religious services are announced for Thanksgiving thereby perpetuating the purposes of the day to give thanks. Union services are announced for Quincy in the morning and Wollaston in the afternoon, also by the Swedish churches at the Swedish Congregational church. Special services will also be held in the two Episcopal churches in the morning, and the Swedish Baptist in the evening. There is much for Quincy people to be thankful for, and our good old New England customs should be continued.

The publishers of the Daily Ledger wish to thank the pastors of Quincy for their cooperation in inaugurating a Church department for the Monday Ledgers. Where there are so many churches we cannot devote more than 200 words to a church, for we desire all creeds and societies to be represented. It is not our intention to print abstracts of sermons, but short pithy quotations from the same, and the church news of Sunday, together with announcements for the week. We hope to have the continued assistance of pastors, superintendents, and leaders of all religious societies.

The Daily Ledger of yesterday was so large and strange that many did not recognize it. Eight pages of seven columns every day now—a total of 56 columns. All the improvements contemplated have not gone into effect yet, but the publishers have no apology for the Daily Ledger of yesterday or today. Local news is printed on every page and also other articles of interest. There were 26 columns of good live advertisements and 30 columns of reading matter, all for two cents. It costs money to print such a newspaper, but our new Duplex press is doing excellent work and also our linotype machines, and we believe the public will appreciate more and more our efforts to give them a good clean home newspaper, that is a newspaper.

During the year that has passed since the International Congress on Tuberculosis met at Washington, one institution or organization for the treatment or prevention of tuberculosis has been established every day, Sundays and holidays included, according to a bulletin of the National Association for the study and prevention of tuberculosis. Fifteen new beds in hospitals or sanatoria have been provided also for every day of the year. The association declares that at least 70,000 more beds in hospitals are needed for advanced cases of consumption. Until these are provided, tuberculosis cannot be wiped out. If everybody in the United States gave $5 to provide hospitals for the dangerous consumptives, sufficient funds would be procured to destroy forever the threat of tuberculosis from this country.

The address of Judge Avery is very generally endorsed in every particular. Certainly there is need for more respect of the constitution and the law. We have a country which is the mecca for all peoples of the world, but when they come from foreign countries they should not attempt to upset customs which have made the United States the land of the free. They would not if they fully understood our form of government, which is much different from the old countries. Yes, there should also be obedience among the boys and girls and respect for their parents and their neighbors, and love for the city and its institutions. They are favored as the youth of no other age, and they should not forget their obligations. We quite agree with Judge Avery that there should be changes in the school curriculum, especially at the High schools, for in many it seems to be the sole aim to fit for college. The Ledger regrets that it was able to print only half of the address of Mr. Avery for it was a thoughtful essay from one who realizes the importance of arousing the public to action. It is generally too late to reform people after they get into court.

DRIFT OF OPINION.

Only a well-led movement is needed to abolish the game. If the coaches wish to save it they will have to act quickly. There must be less mass play ,the game must be opened up. Success has attended the movement in this direction. This time half-way measures should not be countenanced. Entirely open play must be the rule. Otherwise the game seems doomed.—Providence Bulletin.

This notion that New England is played out or playing out is ridiculous. It is the busiest and most prosperous part of the country today and it is constantly building more mills and increasing its industrial activity. The railroad that brings it raw material and carries away its product and moves its population this way and that has the richest field to work in the country, and, if this is worked so as to aid the industries they and the road will have a future more prosperous than their past.—Hartford Courant.

Unless the increased cost of living is accompanied by increased income two inevitable consequences must follow. In the readjustment economies must be introduced, by the elimination of some things which have hitherto entered into the cost schedule, in order to keep from sacrificing others whose comparative value is more fundamental. Outlays for this purpose may be classified as necessities, comforts and luxuries for each class of income. These comprise a different group of articles in each case ,since what is luxury to one may be necessity to another, or only comfort to a third. Naturally the elimination must begin with the last of these and extend to the first to some degree in every case, with the emphasis on the least essential.—Wall Street Journal.

SMALL PAY FOR JANITORS

Good Arguments Why School Men Should Receive More

Editor of the Daily Ledger:

I believe you will be doing a service to the citizens of Quincy if the following facts are printed in your valuable paper and in that manner brought to the attention of the public.

The city of Quincy employs twelve men as janitors who take care of the school buildings which belong to the city, and I have no hesitancy in stating that if there is one particular body of men that are underpaid by the city it is the twelve men who serve us in the capacity named.

When the salaries of these men are compared with the salaries paid in other cities and towns for a like service the comparison does not show our city in a very favorable light, and in addition to the small salaries paid the janitors are compelled to buy their own supplies, namely, soap-powder, brooms and brushes, etc., in fact everything necessary to clean the interior of buildings, which amounts approximately to $25.00 per year.

The total amount paid in salaries to our janitors per year is $9,350. The janitor of the High school who has 36 rooms to attend to is paid $1,800. The janitor of the Willard who has 20 rooms to attend to is paid $1,050. These salaries may appear large on have to pay for all extra help in consideration the fact that these men have to pay for all extra help in connection with their work, which practically means continuously paying an extra man ,and very often two or three others, to help in their work of cleaning our schools.

Deduct the salaries of the two janitors named from the total given, a balance of $6,500 is left, and when this amount is divided among the other ten janitors it practically means that each man receives $650 per year, and when the $25.00 which he is compelled to pay for supplies is deducted from that amount a balance is left of $625, which means simply $12.00 per week, and the average number of rooms in our schools, leaving out the High and Willard, amounts to 10 rooms plus, so that these men are paid at the rate of $12.00 per week for attending to the number of rooms named.

With one exception our janitors are all married men, and when you think of the living which can be obtained for a family on $12.00 a week, more especially when the cost of living at the present time is taken into consideration, in my opinion at least it is a shame that such a condition of affairs exists in our city. And another matter is that the salaries are supposed to be paid monthly, which is a bad feature in itself, as it practically eliminates the possibility of having a cash account at the stores where these men trade and necessitates the running up of bills for goods purchased. In other words, it practically means that these men are living on a salary which they have not received. By that I mean, that the salary received for any one month has to be simply turned over to the grocery man for goods received up to that time.

Compare the salaries paid by the city of Somerville with those paid by our city. For instance, in Somerville the janitors are paid weekly and for a four-room school they receive $12.00 per week. The same amount which Quincy pays for a ten-room building. For an eight-room building the janitor is paid $13.50. For a ten-room building $15.00. A twelve-room building $17.50. The janitor of the Somerville High school is paid $20.00 per week, which amounts to $1,040 per year. The High school contains 32 rooms, but he does not attend to the fires in boilers, neither has he to do any scrubbing in connection with keeping the school clean, as women are hired by the city of Somerville, and in addition to all this the city of Somerville pays for all supplies used by the janitors employed.

Another matter is, that the salaries of our Quincy janitors are apparently rated in a haphazard manner. For instance, the Cranch, Massachusetts Fields and Gridley Bryant schools are practically built on the same plan, all being nine-room buildings. The janitors of the Cranch and Massachusetts Fields are paid $625 per year. The janitor of the Gridley Bryant is paid $600 per year, and the janitors of the two last-named schools have large lawns to attend to. The Coddington, Quincy and Lincoln schools have twelve rooms each. The Coddington having a large assembly hall in addition to the rooms named. The janitor of the Coddington receives $750, the Quincy school $700, and of the Lincoln $775. The janitor of the Quincy school at Atlantic has a large lawn to attend to, so that it is very evident that a readjustment is necessary with a liberal increase to all concerned.

Gentlemen of the School Committee this matter is up to you, and I would ask any one of you how you think it possible for a man to live on $12. per week. Of course I know the old answer to a question of this kind, namely, that if the men now employed are not satisfied with the conditions why don't they get out, because someone else would be found willing to take the jobs, but even if that was done, what about the other fellow who takes the job? He has to contend with exactly the same conditions as his predecessor, and it is not a question of changing men but it is certainly a question of changing conditions, and when you think of the responsibility of these men who have to pass a civil service examination in order to be able to get appointed as janitor of any of our Quincy schools, which in itself means that a man in order to pass the examination must have qualifications not ordinarily held by the average man, all this has to be done in order to get what,—a salary of $12.00 per week.

I have talked about this matter to a large number of the members of our City Council. They know my views on the subject, and I am glad to state that they are shared by quite a few of the members of our present City Council, but as this matter is not in the province of the Council to deal with, but is entirely under the consideration of the School Committee I trust that the gentlemen on that committee will see that in a spirit of all fairness the janitors of our city schools are dealt with in a humane way and at least get a living wage, and when yo think that these men have to expend $25.00 of their salaries in order to buy supplies which are required to clean the buildings, it certainly makes one feel that it is really too bad that such a condition of affairs exists, especially when it is known as a fact that all the cities and towns in this vicinity buy the supplies which are used by the janitors. In fact the city of Cambridge has what is called a chief janitor whose duty it is to keep on hand the supplies referred to, and deal them out to the subordinates when they are required free of cost to the janitors named.

We are of the opinion that the city deals fairly with its employees and no doubt when this matter is looked into by our School Committee they will readily see that something has to be done in order to see that the matter is righted, which in my opinion would be that the city supply the janitors with the necessary supplies and also give an increase in pay, and it certainly does seem strange that a janitor in Quincy should be asked to clean a ten-room building for $12.00 a week while a janitor in Somerville receives $15.00 a week for the same labor performed.

I know that some of the readers of this letter will ask what about the ten weeks vacation in the summertime. I may state that it is a well known fact that these men have to attend to the duties of cleaning the schools during that time. In fact the schools are properly cleaned from top to bottom during the vacation. In a large number of instances additional help is hired during that time and when it is realized that a number of our janitors have to attend to flower beds and lawns it must be admitted that although the scholars have a vacation the flowers and lawns have to be attended to just the same in addition to the cleaning already mentioned because we all know that the grass on these lawns continues to grow although the scholars are not at school.

The above is a plain statement of facts and are at least worth investigating, and I know for a fact that the average citizen of our city does not wish the employees of our city to endeavor to exist on a salary which is practically starvation wages, making it practically impossible for a man to live on same and hold body and soul together. I know that the business of our city is generally conducted in a business-like manner ,and no doubt when the matter of janitors' salaries is looked into, something will be done to right a wrong which apparently exists. I also know that the officials of our city are willing to pay for all work performed, and in my opinion at least the janitors of our schools perform work for which they receive inadequate compensation.

In all fairness to the members of the School Committee a copy of this letter has been furnished the secretary of that committee.

OF PUBLIC INTEREST.

THE DEPOT SITUATION.

Editor Daily Ledger:

There has been so much complaint lately in the press and individually about the Quincy station; the station as a whole and the baggage room, that I have been led to investigate personally. I found much to complain about, also the reason for considerable of it. Perhaps the rott of all the trouble is that the depot is a very small part of a big corporation and the concern is too big to comprehend the needs of the city in a personal way. The corporation makes up its mind that a stated sum should be enough to run the depot on hence it means economy in help and service and the public suffers.

Inadequate pay means inadequate help, consequently poor service. Mr. Coffin, the man in charge, is helpless, his duties keeping him at the freight house most of the time, leaving the depot to practically run itself. The ticket agents have all they can attend to, and the small amount paid in the baggage room would hardly call for the best service there, or what Quincy people have a right to expect.

Now, on the other side, the railroad has to care for a great many people who use the station as a place of rendezvous, a loafing place, or a public toilet, with no idea of using the company's trains or paying anything for the privileges they use so freely.

If the city maintained a public toilet room in City Square, or if the Old Colony Street Railway was made to keep open a proper waiting room, much of the nuisance at the depot would be abolished.

Quincy Square is the transfer place for street cars in all directions and it is up to the street railway, to maintain a well appointed waiting room with a few settees or chairs, also toilet rooms.

A night man has been put on at the depot, whose duty it is to look after things, and also clean the waiting rooms ready for use the next day, so that each morning now finds everything neat and tidy. It looks as though Mr. Coffin was doing all in his power to give good service, and if it does not result in better conditions an appeal should be made to the N. Y., N. H. & H. R. officials.

VETERAN OF CIVIL WAR.

Editor of the Ledger:

In your edition of Saturday a notice of the death of William J. Tilley, was inserted, stating that he was a member of several fraternal organizations, but no mention was made that he served his country in the War of the Rebellion. Comrade William J. Tilley was probably the youngest veteran residing in this city, having inlisted on the 26th day of May, 1862, as drummer in Company H, 10th Regt., Rhode Island Vol. Infantry, at the age of 13 years, 11 months and 9 days. He was at the time of his death a member of Gettysberg post 191, G. A. R.

I wish to correct an item in the Ledger, of Nov. 20, concerning the Hall Room Boys dance at Music hall, at Atlantic, Friday Nov. 19, as the crowd composing the Hall Room Boys are not what you represented them to be. The dance was under the auspices of two young men of the Atlantic district. They are respectable law-abiding citizens of Atlantic. The dance was conducted in every way in an orderly manner. We are not responsible for actions outside the hall, and we have proof that there was no liquor in the hall. Kindly contradict the item and oblige two representatives of the Hall Room Boys.

VOTE ON LICENSE.

A Big Majority Each Year Against The Sale Of Liquor.

Quincy is the banner No-License city of Massachusetts. Twenty-eight times the question has been submitted to the voters: "Shall Licenses be granted for the sale of intoxicating liquors?" And each time the verdict has been decisive. Previous to 1901 the majority was always less than 1000, but at the last four elections it has been in excess of 2000. In 1908 the "NO" vote was 3,470, the largest ever cast, while the "YES" vote was not as large as in 1896, 1899, 1900 or 1902. The number of blanks or silent votes was 331, about the average in recent years.

Quincy's enviable record since the local option law went into effect follows:

BUILDING ACTIVITY

Permits Recently Issued to Value of $40,000

Building in Quincy has taken a sudden boom, and the Inspector of Buildings has been kept busy issuing permits. Since the first of November permits have been issued for new buildings to the value of $40,000. This does not include the new parochial school being erected at a cost of $50,000.

Most of the new buildings are dwelling houses. There is however one new factory building to be erected by the Tubular Rivet and Stud Co. This building is near their present plant on Hancock street, Wollaston. It is to be of brick, three stories high and 125 feet long and 58 feet wide. The estimated cost of the new building is $12,000.

Recent building permits issued are as follows:,

John Curtis, auto house Franklin street.

N. Y. N. H. & H. R. R., store house Quincy Adams.

Abbie Fenno, dwelling Charles street.

NO LACK OF SUITORS

But Mrs. Chapman Will Not Wed Until Heart Tells Her to Do So

New York, Nov. 23.—"I shall not marry till my heart tells me to do so—and it really hasn't talked for publication as yet," smiled Mrs. William H. Chapman at the Hotel St. Regis.

MRS. WILLIAM H. CHAPMAN.

Mrs. Chapman is probably the most proposed-to woman in New York at present. The siege began the very day after the death of her late husband, who left her an estate valued at $10,000,000.

Since then she has contradicted the report of her engagement to a Russian general, only to be confronted with an "exclusive announcement" of her impending union with an English lord—and has denied that sweet impeachment just in time to hear of her next fiance, a Parisian count.

CLARKSON'S SCALP GOES TO WOODRUFF

Old Political Warrior to Lose Fat Billet In New York

Washington, Nov. 23.—The positive announcement that James S. Clarkson, surveyor of he port of New York, will not be reappointed on Jan. 1 to that office, is made by Secretary of the Treasury MacVeagh. The decision against the retention of the former political warrior from Iowa in one of the choicest billets in the federal service in New York state will not surprise those familiar with political conditions in that state.

Timothy Woodruff, former lieutenant governor of New York, demanded Clarkson's scalp, it is said. The trouble is said to have had its origin in the desire of the upper New York state Republican politicians for the patronage. The office pays $8000 a year.

JOKED THE REAL CARNEGIE

Washington Policeman Makes a Somewhat Embarrassing Mistake

Washington, Nov. 23.—William Curtis was the policeman on duty at the east end of the main portico of the White House yesterday. He saw a little man in a plain business suit and slouch hat walking along toward the state, war and navy department building. He looked like a navy department clerk whom he was in the habit of twitting on account of his resemblance to Andrew Carnegie, the "Iron King" and philanthropist.

"How are you, Mr. Carnegie?" shouted the policeman, jovially.

"Fine, thank you," said the little man, going over and shaking hands. Curtis was about to add, "You ought to give me a check for $5000 for paying you that compliment" when a suspicious twinkle in the little man's eyes caused him to beg pardon and attempt to explain the mistake.

It was the real Carnegie.

HEADING FOR CUBA

Artist Christy Hustling Out of Reach of Wife and Her Lawyer

Cincinnati, Nov. 23.—Howard C. Christy, the New York artist who is fleeing from his wife and her lawyers, together with his sister and his little girl, is on his way to Cuba. Stopping here he told what he is going to do:

"I have been the victim of my wife's people," he said. "They want to run our house in New York and I don't want them to. Then, too, I want to be out here in Ohio on my little country place near Zanesville. My wife wouldn't stand for it. She wanted to be near the ballrooms, while I want to be out in the open. These two reasons are the cause of our separation."

$10,000 Colt Dies

Mexico City, Nov. 23.—Howard, a bay colt, 2 years old, died in his stall at the Peralvillo race track. He was imported from the United States for the $25,000 Mexican derby of 1910. He was owned by George I. Ham, who valued the colt at $10,000.

MORE CORPSES ARE RECOVERED

Forty-Two Are Taken Out of the St. Paul Mine

"STILL ALIVE DOWN THERE"

Watchword of Willing Workers Has Little to Support It—Hope That Many of the Nearly Two Hundred Men Still Missing May Have Retreated to Some Extremity of the Mine and Escaped Death

Cherry, Ills., Nov. 23.—Efforts to reach men possibly still alive in the St. Paul mine have been in vain in two parts of the underground workings.

Although excitement was caused by finding a dead miner, who was at first thought to be alive, the net result of yesterday's work was the recovery of forty-two corpses which were discovered Sunday.

Rain fell all night, and during the forenoon turned to snow. Scarcely a kinsman of the missing men was at the mine. But efforts to explore underground continued with unabated vigor. Dozens of volunteers worked against exasperating impediments to extend their explorations.

"They're still alive down there" was the watchword of every worker, although evidence in support of it was meagre.

The first tangible evidence that the men in the east workings were not killed when the fire broke out on Saturday was the failure to find any corpses where it was predicted a large number would be found if the men were smothered in their first rush for safety.

Many mining implements were found, but not a dinner pail was to be seen. From this it was argued that the men, unable to escape when the fire was discovered, retreated to some extremity of the mine, carrying their food with them. But this was the extent of inspiring discoveries for the day.

The man who it was supposed was still breathing when found was pronounced dead by the physicians of the hospital car and his body was removed to the morgue. The body was still warm, and this led to the belief of the rescuers that he was alive. While uncertain as to the time of his death, the doctors believe it occurred at least twelve hours before the body was placed on the stretcher.

The temperature of the mine, which is higher than 60 degrees, caused by the fire, as yet unextinguished, undoubtedly was the cause of the warmth of the body.

The situation of the disaster to date is as follows: Number trapped in mine, 310; rescued alive, 20; bodies recovered yesterday, 42; bodies recovered previously, 59; still unaccounted for, 189.

DROPS OUT OF CHURCH

Mrs. Stetson Will Not Accept Annual Payment of $5000 Hereafter

New York, Nov. 23.—Mrs. Augusta E. Stetson of this city, who has been living in seclusion since her excommunication recently by the First Church of Christ, Scientist, in Boston, generally referred to as the mother church, announced last night that she had resigned from the membership of the First Church of Christ, Scientist, New York, of which she was formerly first reader.

After her excommunication in Boston she continued to be a member of the church here, although it was reported that the board of trustees would eventually drop her.

With her resignation Mrs. Stetson declines to accept hereafter the annual payment of $5000 which she received for her services in the church.

MATRIMONIAL FAILURES

Rate Is Three Times Greater Than Two Score Years Ago

New York, Nov. 23.—Federal statistics in the matter of divorce show that the people of the United States are severing the marital tie at a rate of about one divorce to every twelve marriages.

The number of divorces granted in this country in 1867 was 9937. Forty years later, in 1906, the number was 72,062. Taking the census years of 1870 and 1900 as a basis of population, this was a percentage increase of from 28 to 73 per 100,000 of population. The rate of increase was nearly three times, and the evil has been growing in even greater proportions during the last half dozen years.

Bail Refused In Murder Case

Woburn, Mass., Nov. 23.—Charged with murdering Francesco Stagliano, Santa Salamo was arraigned in court here and held for a hearing Nov. 29. Four other Italians were held in $500 each as witnesses. Stagliano was fatally wounded during a quarrel in a boarding house. Bail was refused.

Rock Island Head Out?

Chicago, Nov. 23.—Despite denials from many sources, the rumors that Benjamin F. Winchell, president of the Rock Island railroad, had resigned because of a difference with W. H. and J. H. Moore and D. G. Reid, refuse to down.

ARRESTED AT PORTLAND

Woman Thought to Be Miss LeBlanc Is Held For Waltham Police

Portland, Me., Nov. 23.—A young woman, supposed to be Harriet LeBlanc, the young maid who was with Clarence F. Glover, the night he was killed, was arrested at the station here last night on arrival of a train from Boston. She is being held for the Waltham police.

Waltham, Mass., Nov. 23.—That the shooting of Clarence F. Glover in his laundry office on the bank of the Charles river, and his dying accusation of his wife's 16-year-old cousin, Hattie LeBlanc, were the sequel to a quarrel begun here three weeks ago, is indicated by facts unearthed last night.

A Waltham woman was found who asserts that Mrs. Glover told her two months ago of domestic troubles resulting from her husband's attentions to Miss LeBlanc.

PHILANTHROPHY CHECKED

Objection to Use of Cleveland Cottage For Tuberculosis Preventorium

Lakewood, N. J., Nov. 23.—The controversy over the establishment of a tuberculosis preventorium for children in the cottage occupied by the late Grover Cleveland here resulted in the arrest of Superintendent Wheelwright of the institution.

He was charged with "importuning minor children into the state" under a law passed in 1907, and aimed principally at immigrants. Until a legal test is made, however, it may prevent a group of well-known philanthropists from bringing children here.

A citizens' committee was recently organized to protest against the location of the institution in Lakewood, but this committee denies any connection with the arrest. Wheelwright was released on his own recognizance for appearance Friday.

ARMED MEN ROB BOSTON JEWELLER

One Stands Guard While Three Loot His Safe

Boston, Nov. 23.—Edward B. Randall was robbed last night, for the fourth time in less than a year, while alone in the curious jewelry store at 776 Tremont street, of which he is the proprietor.

Randall, who is over 70 years old, was alone in his store, fixing a watch, when he was startled by a command to throw up his hands. Looking up, he saw four men armed with revolvers, and immediately took refuge under the counter.

One of the robbers stood at the door while the others rifled the open safe. With the three or four trays of jewelry, watches, lockets, chains and rings that were uppermost in the safe, the robbers ran out, dropping jewelry as they ran.

Randall has the reputation in the district of being odd. In his store he has collected innumerable antiques, from furniture to jewels. He is always alone in the store, and his age has made him a mark for thieves.

THE NOURMAHAL MYSTERY

Nothing Definite Known Concerning Whereabouts of Astor's Yacht

Tampa, Fla., Nov. 23.—Brief wireless communication between Key West and San Juan, P. R., served to complicate rather than to clear the situation surrounding Colonel John J. Astor's yacht Nourmahal. But, after sifting down, there is nothing to indicate that the yacht is not safe at San Juan, or was at least there on Nov. 15.

The fact that the wireless operator at San Juan could not state off-hand that the yacht was in the harbor gave rise to a report that the vessel was still missing. But this interpretation according to a statement issued by the operator at Tampa is unfounded

NEW APPEAL FOR MORSE

Banker's Counsel Charges Alcoholism on Part of Jury

New York, Nov. 23.—Martin W. Littleton, counsel for Charles W. Morse, the convicted banker, argued a motion for a new trial before the United States court of appeals.

In the course of his argument Littleton alleged that there had been promiscuous drinking among the members of the jury which convicted Morse, and that one member was suffering from alcoholism to such an extent that a cot had to be carried into the jury room.

Carlisle Shows Improvement

New York, Nov. 23.—Continued improvement in the condition of John G. Carlisle is noted at St. Vincent's hospital, where the former secretary of the treasury has been seriously ill for some time.

Eight Men Killed In Building Collapse

Wilson, N. C., Nov. 23.—Eight men are known to have been killed here when a new building collapsed. Four more are believed to have been buried in the ruins.

Ty Cobb Fined $100

Cleveland, Nov. 23.—Ty Cobb, outfielder on the Detroit baseball team, was fined $100 and costs for asasulting George Stanfield, a night watchman in a hotel.

BRIEFS

A full moon Saturday night.

The City election comes late in December this year, as Wednesday is the first day of the month.

Miss Elizabeth A. Brooks of School street passed away this morning. Funeral services will be held Friday.

The many friends of Mrs. McMahan of Crescent street will be happy to know that she is recovering from her recent illness.

Roy Harvey and son of Willard street have gone on a two weeks' vacation trip which will be spent with relatives in Turo, Nova Scotia.

Patrick Caven, formerly of Grove street, who is now a member of the U. S. Navy on the battleship New York, is on a few weeks' furlough and can be found in the rooms of the Bryant A. C., of which he is a member.

The many friends of T. Stanton of Bates avenue will be happy to know that he is recovering rapidly from the fall from the tree in Newton, which occurred recently. His ankle was broken.

It was fortunate that cold weather and snow held off long enough for the paving of Brook street to be completed. It would have made a bad mess if there had been a heavy fall of snow last week.

A pleasant surprise party was tendered to Miss Emma E. Nelson at her home 54 Garfield street, Saturday evening by a number of her friends. Games were played and refreshments were served, and all had a merry time. Miss Nelson was presented a ring and cuff links. The presentation was made by Oskar Dahl. Misses Anna Nelson Ellen Johnston and Emma Lawson were the committee. Among those present were: Anna Nelson, Ellen Johnston Bessie Bassell, Elizabeth Hedman, Emma Lawson Jennie Stevens, Fannie Lawson, Ellen Linquist, Annie Nelson, Oscar Dahl, Chris Daly, Lewis Joss, Birger Bassell, Franfl Gustafson, John Erickson Martin Anderson Joseph Robinson, Harold Gullickson, Edwin Lawson, Edwin Johnson, Lewis Ross and John Greenough.

GOOD WORK.

The Boys' department at the Young Men's Christian Association are planning to provide a turkey dinner for about 20 families on Thanksgiving. All of the plans have been made and carried out by the boys themselves and their charitable efforts will certainly be a great source of pleasure to many homes in our city.

KEEPING IN TOUCH WITH HOME

THANKSGIVING time is particularly sacred to all New Englanders. Then it is that family ties are welded more strongly than ever before.

The old folks are thrilled once more with joy and happiness when their children come back to the old home for Thanksgiving dinner.

At this time there is nothing like the TELEPHONE for getting the family together and in aiding in making all the arrangements incident to the homecoming.

Then, too, if any member of the family is unable to be present at the reunion, he may send his personality and cheering voice over the telephone wires to the gathering from and to any point within the scope of the great Bell Telephone System of the United States.

ALEXANDER BERKMAN.

Since his release from prison in 1906, after serving fourteen years for shooting and wounding Henry C. Frick, Alexander Berkman has devoted his time to preaching the tenets of anarchism in co-operation with Emma Goldman and others.

BRIEFS

A fair, clear and crisp fall day is the weather prediction for Thanksgiving day.

Mrs. Thomas B. Emery of Wollaston, whose husband died on Sunday, is seriously ill having sustained a shock on Friday of last week.

The repairs to the southerly end of Presidents bridge are about completed so that the bridge can again be opened to public travel.

The Needham Chronicle says: "Thoroughly conversant with the details of an auto express business J. Gilbert Miller of Quincy gave an interesting talk along these lines before the Board of Trade Monday evening, Nov. 15. Many questions rapidly propounded by sceptics and the "men from Missouri" received equally prompt and satisfactory replies. The sentiment is gaining much ground that the time and conditions are favorable for an enterprise of the kind here. The speaker was introduced by C. W. Woodbury of the committee."

NAVY PLANS.

The British navy is exercised by the discovery last week that a set of plans of the latest British submarine has disappeared.

This is the fourteenth theft of secret naval an dmilitary plans that the authorities have discovered since January, 1909, and not a single thief has been apprehended. The admiralty is determined to show no mercy if the thieves can be found, as it is known that all of the missing plans have gone to Germany.

UNION SERVICE.

The Union Vesper Thanksgiving service held in All Souls church, Braintree, Sunday at 4.30 was a very happy occasion. The church was filled with interested people, extra chairs being brought in from the Sunday school room. The program follows:

Organ Prelude "Largo," Handel.
Responsive Evening Service, Rev. Thomas Simms.
Sentences and Invocation, Rev. Thomas Simms.
Quartet, "Jubilate Deo," Dudley Buck.
Scripture Reading, Rev. J. A. Mitchell.
Prayer Rev. C. F. H. Crathern.
Trio, "Father in Heaven," Stearns
Congregational Hymn 112.
Thanksgiving Proclamation, Rev. G. H. Parkinson.
Address, Rev. Charles E. Park.
Offertory Quartet, "Peace I leave with you, Roberts.
Congregational Hymn 143.
Benediction, Rev. Charles E. Park.
Postlude.

Rev. Charles E. Park gave a practical discourse upon the occasions of being thankful. Mr. Park referred to the beginning of things as described in Genesis. That probably when Noah and his sons and his wife and his son's wives went forth from the ark and builded an altar unto the Lord, they were thankful for smaller or personal blessings and failed to realize the great goodness of the promise of a regular seed time and harvest, cold and heat, summer and winter, day and night.

SKIPPER BEN'S GIRL.

The Treasure That Came to the Lonely Fisherman.

By FRANK H. SWEET.

[Copyright, 1909, by American Press Association.]

If in your travels you ever visit the rugged coast of New England you may come upon the Cove, with its cluster of brown, gray and black wooden houses, having queer, uneven roofs and crooked chimneys, and its narrow strip of pebbly beach, backed by high, forbidding rocks.

You are very likely to find boats drawn up upon the beach, some of them overturned for calking, and great heaps of kelp and seaweed and layers of salt hay, showing how far up the water comes at high tide.

And climbing over the boats or playing along the beach I am quite sure you will find a little girl—a brown faced, barefooted little girl in a faded pink frock, whose hair is like seaweed, a rich chestnut underneath, but faded to a sort of nutty tinge where the sun strikes it.

If you ask this little girl who she is she will peep shyly up at you through her tangled hair, with a pair of eyes that will win your love and admiration at once, and will answer, "Dolly!"

LYING ON THE BEACH WAS A LITTLE GIRL.

Then she will run away and hide among the boats, with her brown curls shaken over her blushing cheeks.

But if you ask any one else, say the old lobster man yonder examining his lobster pots beside his warped and leaky old dory, or, better still, old Captain Graves as he stands on the wharfs every day or sits by the stove in Lisha Tucker's store telling of the fishing when he was young, he will say:

"Thet? Oh, thet's Skipper Ben's gal!"

It is a strange story, and it all happened some years ago—a great many years ago, Dolly would say—when Skipper Ben was not a skipper at all, but merely a brown skinned young fisherman.

He lived with his old mother in the little brown house that stands quite by itself by the waterside and whose eaves almost touch the ground. And over in the blackish looking cottage, with the shingles down the sides, lived his sweetheart, a rosy lass named Dolly.

They had always been friends ever since they were old enough to go about and sailed boats together in the pools among the rocks or fished from the wharfs. As they grew older the cove "just kind of understood" that they were to be married as soon as Ben should become owner or part owner of a fishing vessel.

Ben was an industrious fellow and was always off on the banks. Each time he came home he laid a little money away in an old stocking, for he was saving up to buy his boat, and once while he was on a fishing cruise with Captain Pratt the captain told him of a prime little schooner he had at home in the cove, which Ben might secure for the contents of his stocking and in payment for his services that season.

Ben came home a happy youth. He had already christened his new possession the Dolly. And as he walked up the narrow, crooked street of the little fishing town he wondered why all of his old comrades should look at him with such solemn, pitying glances.

Poor Ben! He soon learned why they all looked pityingly at him. His sweetheart, Dolly, was dead. Two weeks before she had been buried in the little graveyard on the hill.

Poor Ben, indeed!

He was never the same man afterward. He kept the Dolly and took a pride in her, going off to the banks and becoming in time one of the first fishermen in the Cove. But he never was a boy again. All his old light heartedness had vanished, and he became grave, moody and silent. For some years he lived, when he was at home, alone in the little brown house—for his old mother was dead, too. A lonely time he had of it when he was not at the banks. In the evenings he would sit for hours with his pipe, staring into the fire and thinking how different it all might have been if only Dolly had lived.

One night there was a terrible storm, and Skipper Ben sat by his lonely hearth smoking and thinking. The wind blew and howled about the little brown house. It rushed down the chimney and beat against the side of the house until it rocked. But Ben does not notice a bit of wind.

Presently his gloomy thoughts got the better of him. The tiny room seemed to grow as narrow and as suffocating as a grave, and he rushed out into the night and the storm, where he could draw in deep breaths of the wild salt air.

There was no rain, but the clouds were scurrying swiftly across the sky. And well they might with such a wind at their heels.

Such a wind! If Ben had not been the broad, sturdy fellow that he was it would have blown him off his feet. But as it was he strode up and down the beach with long, fierce strides and heeded neither the wind nor the roaring surf.

Was it strange that, with the fierce storm ranging without and the equally fierce storm raging within, Skipper Ben should not have heard the shrieks and cries of distress that night? Not so very strange, I think, but what was strange was that above all the din and commotion he should have heard a feeble wail—the faintest little wail in the world.

But he heard it at any rate and hurried to the spot whence it came.

There, lying on the beach, with its frock securely fastened to a broken spar, was a little child.

"Why, you poor little creeter!" exclaimed Ben as he unfastened the dress. "How'n the world did you git out here?"

The baby stopped crying as soon as she saw him and, stretching out her tiny arms, gave a little chuckle of delight.

He picked her up tenderly and, wringing out the soaked little garments, which were like cobwebs and were trimmed with the finest lace, buttoned her up inside his heavy jacket.

Then it was that he heard the shouts and cries for the first time and saw men running helplessly up and down the beach and gazing seaward.

What were they looking at? Looking at nothing. They were staring and gaping at the place where a good ship had just gone to pieces. Could no one be saved? No; it was impossible. No boat could live in such a surf, and there is, moreover, no lifeboat at the Cove.

The ship went to pieces where she struck. Of all the crew not one lived to tell the tale, and of all the passengers not one was saved except the little baby buttoned up under Skipper Ben's rough pilot jacket.

But the baby lived and was like a sunbeam in the little brown house, for no one talked of putting her in the asylum. Nor is there any orphan asylum at the Cove, though there are orphans in plenty, for many a good fellow goes to the banks never to return, not supposing that he has said goodby for the last time to the youngsters at home.

The baby cried for "mamma" a little at first, but she soon learned to say "Ben" instead. And from that day on the little room never became narrow and stuffy, and Ben's pipe was the pipe of peace and comfort.

The next year, when he went to the banks, he left her in the care of Lisha Tucker's wife at the store, but the year after she cried so hard when he was going that he took her with him. And ever since she has been his constant companion, and he named her Dolly.

Five years have passed since that stormy night, and Dolly is six years old. She is a bright, happy little girl, and she loves the grim old ocean dearly, even if it did so nearly become her tomb.

Sometimes in the evening when the wind is blowing and shaking the little brown house and the fire is roaring brightly and merrily up the chimney Skipper Ben will tell Dolly how he found her lying on the beach securely fastened to a broken spar.

Then he will pull out a little old, worn leather trunk and will take from it the once dainty baby clothes. They are yellow now and still stained with sea water. He will hold the delicate fabric in his hard, rough hand with reverential awe and look with wonder at the little faded blue ribbons that once were shoulder knots.

"I wonder who your parents was?" he says to Dolly. "Only think what you might ha' been! Why, you might ha' been a markis!"

Skipper Ben's round blue eyes become rounder and blue at the thought, and he takes his pipe from his mouth.

"You might ha' been a dorchess!"

But Dolly shakes her head with her brown curls and lays her cheek against Ben's rough coat, saying: "No, no! I'd rather be Skipper Ben's girl!"

A Man and His Room.

"Play cards with a man for an hour and you will know him better than if you had met him in the drawing room every evening for a year," says a German writer. But Sonia in the Paris Figaro suggests another character barometer. A never failing test is the hotel room. The way a man arranges his room in a hotel shows whether he has been well reared, what his ideas of propriety are, whether his bump of order has been developed, whether he is methodical or slovenly, and one may even know by the way wearing apparel, ornaments and baggage are disposed of in a room which the occupant knows he will remain in only a few days whether he is thoroughly or superficially educated. "If I had a daughter for whom a young man sued," says Sonia, "I would have him go to a summer resort where I could surprise him in his hotel room. In less than fifteen minutes my verdict would be rendered on the basis of the room's appearance."

Suggestions About Hand Wrought Jewelry --- Ingenious and Useful Handkerchief Case --- Novel and Attractive Waist Hanger

Watch fobs are favorite presents to men from girls who are clever at designing and making hand wrought jewelry. Fobs of copper set with variscite, a pretty green stone, and mounted on tan suede of a heavy quality are very smart. It is a fashion, too, to have belt buckles made out of old watch cases and from old picture frames, not to mention charming girdles from old fashioned chased and fretwork napkin rings. The ring is cut into perpendicular strips, the strips being fastened together with silver chains in an ornamental design. Old coins are often joined together for dog collars, and quaint buttons are set in metal bands for fillets. These are only a few suggestions for girls who are interested in arts and crafts work.

Useful Handkerchief Case.

A useful handkerchief case can be made by purchasing flowered ribbon with a satin edge. Get the ribbon the width of a handkerchief when it is folded into a square, allowing a little for the finish. Turn both ends over a little more than is required for a pocket handkerchief and overcast the edge of the strip and of the turnovers together to make the two pockets. Hem the edges and fold the pockets together for packing. This little case is particularly nice to carry one's mouchoirs in when traveling.

HANDKERCHIEF BAG.

For the Woman Who Cooks.

Few women can resist the appeal of a daintily made apron. For sewing or at a chafing dish an apron is indispensable, and many persons like to wear one around the house at light tasks that do not require them to be enveloped in more serviceable aprons.

A dainty affair of this kind, one that would make a nice Christmas present, is so simple in construction that any one can develop it.

All that is needed is a square of thin material—Persian lawn, sheer nainsook or fine barred dimity. The size of the square can be varied from a yard to forty inches or even more, according to the height of the wearer and the desired length of the apron.

Make an inch wide hem on the four sides and hemstitch it on one or both edges of the drawn threads, as preferred.

Hold the square to you with a point at the bust line, and at the waist line shape it by several groups of fine lengthwise tucks to form a small bib top. On each side of the point so formed put ties of the material two inches and a half wide. These may be hemstitched all around, or they can be hemmed on the edges and finished in a deep hemstitched hem at the bottom.

This dainty apron is capable of many variations. In addition to the hemstitching, a bowknot design can be worked in the corner that forms the bib and at the bottom corner directly below it, or the four corners can be embroidered, those opposite the bib line taking a smaller motif.

An individual touch can be given by hemstitching as described and working in the bib corner a large oval medallion with a monogram in the center. Touches of color could be introduced in the embroidery with good effect.

A Novel Waist Hanger.

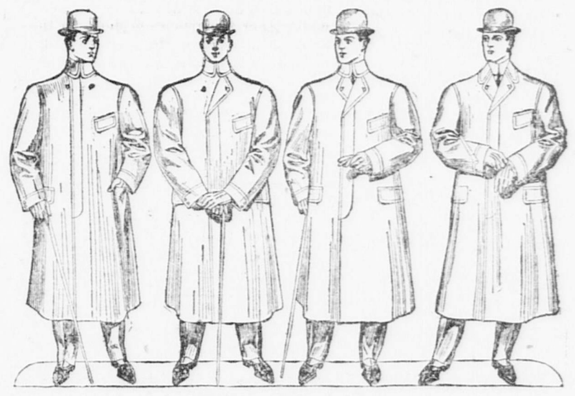

Here is a new shirt waist holder that is made by cutting white cardboard twenty-one inches in length and nine inches in depth in the form of the illustration. Cut a floral design from wall paper and paste on the front. Make two holes in the top for the baby ribbon loop, one yard being necessary, and the holder is completed.

Why Should Women Suffer?
Housewives, salesladies, mothers clerks—in fact many women, are forced to keep on their feet, when every muscle, every nerve, seems to be crying in agony for rest. Much unnecessary suffering—your suffering, maybe—comes at such times, because good general health is lacking. A little, natural help to health will save a lot of suffering.
BEECHAM'S PILLS
give natural, proper help to health. They tone up and stimulate the whole system. The headache, the backache, the nervous breakdown—the troubles which cause undue feminine suffering and make so many women old before their time—may all be avoided, (or made of little consequence) by use of the health-giving, strength-giving, health-promoting Beecham's Pills.
They act gently. They are so certain and effective that Beecham's Pills may be relied upon to improve bodily conditions and in every way to

BRIEFS

The recent land boom in Atlantic-by-the-Sea is resulting in the erection of fourteen cottages on Conant street.

The veteran newspaper man, Galen Vinton Bowditch, is 72 years old today.

Miss Florence Hill, who has been confined to the house for several days with a sprained ankle, is much better and able to be out of doors.

Miss Helen Grant Holbrook has gone to Alberg, Vermont, to spend the holidays with Mr. and Mrs. Henry Poquett.

The many friends of Lucius Bassett of Walker street will learn with pleasure that he is able to be out after his serious illness.

Arthur Russell Poquett left Saturday for Alberg, Vermont, where he will spend the Thanksgiving holidays with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Henry Poquett.

Great interest is being taken in the young ladies choir at the Atlantic Methodist Episcopal church. They hope soon to have a choir of twenty voices.

The Coughing Bean.

To the ordinary housemaid the falling of a house plant into a violent paroxysm of coughing is naturally disconcerting. Yet there are plants which will do this when the broom or the duster begins to make dust fly. This singular plant is the "coughing bean," known to the botanist as the Eutada tussiens. It is a native of warm and moist tropical countries and cannot and will not stand dust. When dust settles upon the breathing pores in the leaves of this plant and chokes them a gas accumulates inside the leaves and when it gains sufficient strength forcibly "blows off," clearing the pores of dust and making a sound exactly like coughing. At the same time the leaves tremble and the plant actually "gets red in the face" through the sinking of the green chlorophyll grains and the appearance of red particles on the leaves. This plant is sometimes used as a house plant, and sweeping the room sets it coughing, to the intense astonishment of persons not familiar with its peculiarities.—London Chronicle.

Paid For the Kiss.

Lord Northcote was once made curious use of while governor general of Australia, says London M. A. P. Strolling one night through an avenue of somber trees to a friend's house to dinner, he was suddenly pounced upon by a maidservant, who kissed him effusively and pressed a little parcel into his hand. "Here's a sausage for you. I can't come out tonight, as master has company," she whispered and as mysteriously disappeared. When he got to the house he found one of his servants loitering by the gate. "What are you doing there?" asked Lord Northcote. "I'm waiting for my sweetheart," the man stammered. "Where is she?" "In service here." "Ah, then, I am right. Here is a sausage from your sweetheart, and she wishes me to tell you that she cannot come out tonight, as her master has company." Seeing that the man looked nervous, he added kindly: "She also gave me a kiss for you, but perhaps you would rather wait until you see her. Here is 5 shillings instead."

Round About Dorking.

The neighborhood of Dorking, where George Meredith lived, has many literary associations independent of its connection with that famous novelist. It was at Burford Bridge, near Dorking, that Keitts completed "Endymion" in November, 1817; close by, at the Rookery, was born Father Malthus, the popular economist, and at West Humble Frances Burney, after her marriage with General d'Arblay, built Camilla cottage with profits of her novel of that name and settled down. Sheridan resided at Polesden and John Stuart Mill at Mickleham, while other illustrious residents in the locality in earlier times were John Evelyn and Daniel Defoe. To most people, however, the chief literary association of Dorking is with Dickens, for was it not at the Marquis of Granby's, variously identified with the White Hart and the Old King's Head, that Mr. Weller, Sr., made the fatal blunder of proposing to a "vidder?"—Westminster Gazette.

English Difficult to Pronounce.

The difficulty of English for strangers does not lie in its orthography, but in its pronunciation. Abroad people will constantly say that they can read and write English readily, while unable to utter a word or to understand a word of the spoken language, as, of course, vice versa, a great many English and Americans can read and write French long before they can understand or make themselves understood. The other languages are just as difficult for them to pronounce as English is for others. The only difference is that English stands alone with its system or lack of system of pronunciation. When a Frenchman knows how to write German he is at the same time able to speak the language, if not beautifully, at least so as to be understood. The same holds for a German speaking French.—Professor Albert Schinz in North American Review.

The Battle of the Nations.

The conflict called the "Battle of the Nations" was the battle of Leipsic. It was fought on Oct. 16-18, 1813, between the soldiers of Russia, Prussia, Austria, Sweden, Denmark and Holland, under Schwarzenberg, on the one side, and Napoleon's army of allies, on the other. It was one of the greatest battles of modern times. A half million of men were engaged, and the casualties on both sides were 94,000. It resulted in overwhelming defeat for Napoleon and the liberation of Germany. Troops from every nation of Europe participated in it, hence the "Battle of Nations."

Over the Limit.

Husband (reading from his paper)—Here, they say, is a comet coming toward the earth, traveling at the rate of a million miles a minute. Wife (awaking from a doze)—Why don't they enforce the speed laws better?—Baltimore American.

It Makes a Difference.

In Lever's "Charles O'Malley" the hero's boast while on his way to a duel, "I can break the stem of a wineglass at fifteen paces," was met by his friend and mentor with the comment, "Yes, but the wineglass hasn't a pistol in its hand."

Fate.

"They used to say I was a man with a future."

"And now?"

"Now they refer to me as a man with a past. Wish I could have a present once."—Cleveland Leader.

CHAPTER II.

JENNY MORAN.

"YOU mean you don't want one?" Phil said.

"No, no," she answered hastily. "I have—I have given up smoking, you know."

She looked down at the trembling hands in her lap. Her cheeks burned, tears sprang to her eyes. Everything seemed to remind her—and him—of that brief past which she so regretted for his sake. It was always thus when they two were together. A chance word innocently spoken always must bring up what she wished that she could forget, still more that she could make him forget.

Now a sudden thought gave her an added stab of pain. She had lied to him, meanly, despicably. To appear worthier in his eyes she had refused his proffered cigarette—she had told him that she had given up smoking. And under the tray before her, within reach of his hand, lay the crushed butt she had been enjoying with all the eager relish of the confirmed cigarette fiend at the moment of his knock.

Phil looked at her for a little while longer in silence, then said easily:

"Well, and how are things going?"

"Rotten, thank you."

The man leaned forward sympathetically.

"Don't you feel—er—happier?" he asked softly.

Her self control gave way. What was the use of keeping straight? What was her reward? Misery and unrequited love. So she burst out:

"Happier? This is where I live, in one of John J. Haggleton's tenements! Do you see anything here to make me happier? I get up at 6, I cook and scrub and wash and paint these plaster creatures with that stuff for ten hours a day! At 6 cents per dozen! Do you see anything in that to make me happier?"

The man, unaware that he himself was the cause of this outbreak, looked at her in helpless distress. He was dumfounded. He felt staggered, frightened. Then he said very gravely:

"You must be glad that you have given up the old life? You are doing right, anyhow."

"Doing right?" she echoed scornfully. "Who cares whether I do right?"

"You know we all care."

"All? Who, all?" she persisted. "Does Joe Caffrey care? Nit! He'd rather have me go back to the old life so he could work me for a ten or twenty when he was broke! Oh, I guess yes!"

She sat quiet now but for her trembling fingers, nervously jerking and twisting at her dress, and the trembling of her lips, which she bit viciously with her small white teeth. She stared stonily before her, but her eyes were dry. If she had only wept his task might have been easier. His understanding of women did not go beyond tears.

"Then," he stammered at last, "then it is only your promise to Liz that makes you do this!"

"It isn't even that," she explained patiently. "Yes, I promised Liz that I would keep straight, but Liz is dead. She'd never know what I do, or if she did know she would see that this life is too hard for me."

She looked around the miserable bare room and continued:

"The only thing that keeps me from going back"—

"Don't say that."

"It's true, Phil; it's true. The only thing is I don't want to make you feel bad. That's the only reason."

She asked softly, with infinite longing:

"It would make you feel bad, wouldn't it, Phil?"

"It certainly would, Jenny."

"I know," she said gratefully, "I know Liz died only three weeks ago, but it seems a year. She made us both kneel down by her bed. I had on a big hat with red feathers. You remember? Then she made me promise, and she made you promise to help me."

"I'll keep my promise. I'll help you."

The girl added sadly:

"Ah, if I hadn't married George!"

"Jenny!"

"Well, it spoiled my life all right. It's true. My life—look at it! I say I never had a chance!"

"You have a chance now, Jenny."

The words aroused in her a false hope. Could it be? She leaned nearer him, her face close to his.

"You used to think me pretty," she whispered. "Phil, you couldn't, you wouldn't!"—

He hastily shrank back, regretting the impulsive action instantly. But Jenny had understood.

"What a fool I am!" she cried. "How can you care for me when you love another woman? Oh, I know!"

"What do you know?" he asked sternly, rising.

"I know that you are struck on that girl—that trained nurse at the boarding house."

"Miss Lawrence! Who told you?"

"No one has told me. I am a woman."

She glanced at him searchingly and read the truth in his face. Controlling the pain at her heart, hiding the desolation that had suddenly blighted her life, she asked question after question, bravely taking each blow.

"Have you asked her yet? Did you ask her last night? And she said 'Yes?' I want you to be happy, Phil. I congratulate you."

She, too, had risen. She was pale, but quiet.

"You won't be different with me now that you are in love?"

"Of course not, Jenny."

He held out his hand, which she shook loyally. She added pathetically:

"Because that's all I have in the world—your friendship, Phil."

A step was heard on the stair. It approached the door.

"Here she is," said the diver, his eyes alight with joy.

The door opened, to admit Margaret Lawrence, her neat nurse's uniform partly hidden under a dark coat.

She was not so tall as Jenny. The two women formed, indeed, a striking contrast. Margaret was dark and healthy looking, carried herself well and had the tranquil assurance of movement and speech of her profession. Jenny, her golden hair piled in a disorderly mass on top of her head, her cheap black dress unfastened at the throat, had the discouraged, indifferent ways of the woman erty has already conquered.

Margaret gave Philip a dazzling smile, nodded cheerily to Jenny and said:

"Good morning."

Philip took her hand, pressed it and said:

"How beautiful you look this morning!"

"You foolish boy—have you been thinking of me?"

Philip, who had bent forward as if to kiss Margaret, shrank back, turned around to Jenny and said:

"I beg your pardon—I forgot. Margaret, I want you to know my old friend, Jenny Moran—Miss Lawrence."

Jenny nodded.

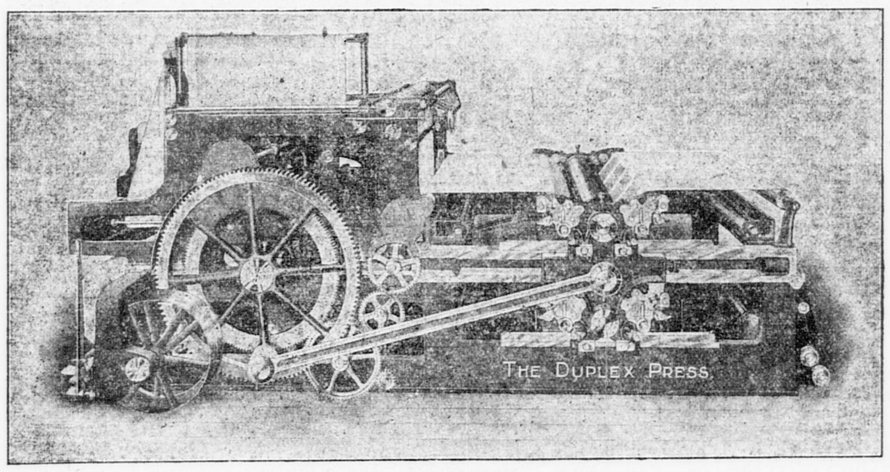

"Happy to make your acquaintance," she said, but her tone was hostile.

She could not bear to see these two together.

OUR NEW PRESS.

THE DUPLEX PRESS.

Herewith we show a picture of our new newspaper press. It is a press that feeds itself and delivers its product into the hands of the carrier boys completed and ready for delivery to our patrons. No man has to stand up at a rack and feed the papers through. The paper comes in a big roll which unwinds mechanically and the paper passes through the press, being printed on both sides and folded in perfect form. The press is a "Duplex Press" made in Battle Creek, Mich., by the Duplex Printing Press Co. It does what was formerly a half day's work in thirty minutes and makes no unnecessary blaster about it. It goes about it as quietly and as considerately as the family doctor would go about the amputation of an infected leg. It is a press that will entertain you if you will drop in and see it work some afternoon about 3 o'clock. The great rolls of paper which feed it weigh a thousand pounds, and if the roll of paper were stretched out its full length you would have a strip of paper 70 inches wide and over two and one half miles long without a break in it. Our new press is capable of delivering 6,000 printed and folded papers each hour, so you see they hurry through. It has been a long step from the old hand press to the present day electrically propelled perfecting presses, but in no department of mechanical progress in this country has the progress been more decisive or more rapid than in the development of the printing press.

It is not an infrequent thing for a prospective customer to bring a two days' job into a printing office and evidence a willingness to sit down and wait while you "run off a few." Well, our new press will "run off a few" a whole lot quicker than the old press would do it and in that way it will help our delivery service. The press as it stands on the floor weighs about thirteen tons, 26,000 pounds. A special concrete foundation was built for it a concrete lined pit extending under the full length of the press in order that the press men may get under the machine to oil it up, thread the paper through and look after the mechanical adjustments that can be reached from no other place. The roll of paper unwinds as the press starts into operation and weaving its way through the press is driven over the beds that carry the type forms, and two cylinders pass quickly over the paper pressing it down upon the forms and perfecting the impression. The paper hesitates just long enough over the beds to receive the impression and then journeys on its way towards the folder and out into the waiting hands of the carrier, an automatic numbering machine ticking off the accurate registration of the output.

The press left Battle Creek after being thoroughly tested on Oct. 13, (which we by no means regard as a hoodoo but as an omen of good luck) and reached Quincy Oct. 20 being only a week on the road. A special machinist was sent on from Battle Creek and under his skilful direction we are enabled to come out Monday with a brand new eight-page Ledger.

The Ledger is indebted to Dimock & Patten of Wollaston for preparing the room for the press, the cement pit, and foundations and to Mr. Buzzell who had charge of the work; to the Electric Light Company for motor and connections; to the W. A. Bradford Co., for steam fittings; to William Loud & Son who moved the press so carefully and expeditiously from the freight car and lastly but by no means lest to G. W. Duncan the expert machinist who came on from Battle Creek to set up the press. He is young and boyish looking but he knows presses all right and wheels, and all manner of pieces of machinery slipped into place like magic under his direction.

MODERN HAIR DRESSING

has played havoc with the tresses of the fair sex, and druggists everywhere comment on the fact that they are selling large quantities of sage for making the old-fashioned "sage tea," such as was used by our grandmothers for promoting the growth of their hair and restoring its natural color. The demand for this well-known herb for this purpose has been so great that one manufacturer has taken advantage of the fact, and has placed on the market an ideal "sage tea," containing sulphur, a valuable remedy for dandruff and scalp rashes and irritations. This preparation, which is called Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur, is sold by all leading druggists for 50 cents and $1 a bottle, or will be sent direct by the Wyeth Chemical Company, 74 Cortlandt St., New York City, upon receipt of price.

CRACK KICKERS OF FOOTBALL.

Stars Who Won Fame by Their Booting Ability.

O'DEA A GREAT TOE ARTIST

His Long Punts Will Never Be Forgotten—De Witt, Great Drop Kicker. McBride Another—Coy the Greatest Today.

Discussion as to who is the greatest kicker in the last decade of college football is again warm. The principal argument is over the merits of Pat O'Dea, Wisconsin's fullback in 1896; John De Witt, star guard of Princeton in 1903, and Ted Coy, Yale's great fullback.

Pat O'Dea could drive the leather farther than any other player who ever lived. Time and again in games he sent the ball through the air a distance of eighty yards, only thirty yards less than the length of the field. He consistently punted sixty-five to seventy yards. His punts were high spirals that traveled so rapidly that no end on earth could get down under them. As a drop kicker he was good, but not the equal of De Witt and several others.

De Witt could not kick as far as O'Dea, but he sent a high floater that made it easy for his ends to be under the ball. He was absolutely accurate in placing his punts and never had a kick blocked, no matter how badly the line was leaking.

In drop kicking he shone resplendent. Twice his wonderful foot staved off defeat by the Yale eleven and won victory for the Princeton Tigers. In 1902 he scored a difficult drop kick from the forty-eight yard line. The final score was 12 to 5 in favor of the Tigers. In 1903 he scored eleven points for Princeton, sending a place kick over from the forty-five yard line and running the length of the field for a touchdown. Princeton won, 11 to 6.

Malcolm McBride, a Cleveland boy, who was a Yale fullback, was one of the stars of the kicking game in 1899. He sent a long, low punt that was exceedingly hard to handle. It usually struck the ground and bounded some distance before the backs could recover it.

While Coy leads the booters this season, as he did last year, he does not compare with O'Dea as a punter or with De Witt as a drop kicker. He can punt the spiral sixty or sixty-five yards or perhaps a little farther, but O'Dea with his eighty yard toe boots overshadows Coy's kicking. While Coy has made many drop kicks from the thirty-five and forty yard line, De Witt outclassed all these performances by many times scoring from the forty-five and forty-eight yard line. The only way one can size up the greatest kicker in the history of the game is to call O'Dea the greatest punter, De Witt the best drop kicker and Coy the stellar light among the toe artists during the season of 1908-9.

It will be found in going over the list of worthy kickers that with few exceptions they have been fine players in other respects. Kicking was just one of other gridiron accomplishments.

Cases to prove this are numerous, as this list will show: Brooke, Butterworth, Coy, Burr, Haughton, McBride, Hudson, Douglass, De Witt, Baird, Sharpe, Harlan, Hollenback, Walder, Hirschberger, Eckersall, Mount Pleasant, Brewer, Reid, Veeder and Kernan. Away back before the time of any of these players, however, were kickers quite as good as those who have played since.

Two of them were Alexander Moffat of Princeton and Eugene Richards of Yale. Both of these men were star kickers.

McBride was a left footed kicker, and he and O'Dea measured skill in a game once. That was in 1899, when the Wisconsin team, coached by Phil King, played Yale in New Haven. O'Dea tried one drop kick in that game, but it didn't go through, and his punts were not so much better than McBride's that they could keep Yale from winning. Still, they kept the score down.

Billy Bull of Yale was a natural kicker and one of the best. There have been few since his day who could drop kick as well and only one at Yale who approached him as a drop kicker. That one was Al Sharpe, one of the very best in the kicking hall of fame.

Was there ever a more strategic kicker than Harlan of Princeton in his own particular line? Not all of the O'Deas, De Witts, Brookes or Butterworths could worry an opponent more. The little Tiger star was the first to make the most of the onside kick provision allowed by the new rules.

And how about Walter Eckersall of Chicago university as a kicker? If ever there was a fine kicker he was one, and that fact would have stood out more clearly had not Eckersall been such a sterling all around player that his ability to kick was partly obscured in his general ability as a quarterback.

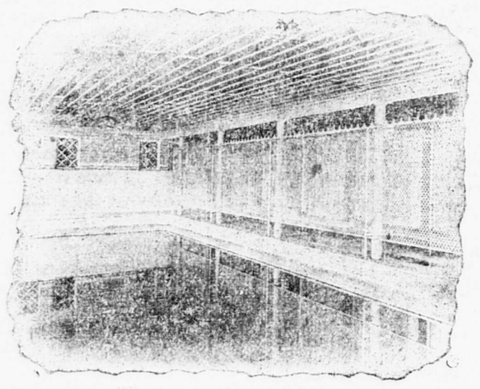

Burr, Kennard and Hollenback were all punters who timed the flight of the ball well, showed good judgment in placing it and also got good distance nearly every time.

Coy was the most effective punter in the matter of consistency and distance of last season and this. No kicks were blocked on him, and he was not to be harassed into making a poor kick.

SPORTS

ARE A DAILY FEATURE OF PAGE 8 OF THE LEDGER.

TO TEACH ALL BOYS TO SWIM

"Help! Help!" came the excited and panicky cries from two boys struggling in the water near an up turned canoe.

Help! Help! sound the accompanying cries of two other boys who are rushing up and down the bank in pitiable helplessness, unable to lend aid to their beloved and perishing companions.

A few more struggles on the part of the boys in the water, and then with a last piercing, reproachful cry they disappear from the sight of their distracted and horrified companions on the bank, and the scene and their helplessness shall follow them like an awful dream throughout their lives.

The above incident and others similar to it, are all too common in the United States and her sister country on the north. Most of them need not be. They should not be allowed to continue. One of the pathetic things about America is the large number of deaths which annually occur needlessly. The toll in deaths from violence, from preventable disease, from ignorance of what to do in emergency is lamentable. There is a careless disregard in the matter of training for life, of proper fitness for emergency to which one is daily exposed.

Swimming is an accomplishment in which all should be expert. Every person at some time in their experience is likely to be exposed to danger from drowning. Furthermore they may have the opportunity of rescuing others from danger. It is an experience that hangs like a nightmare over one's memory throughout life to have seen a person drown without being able through the absence of an attainable accomplishment to lend a saving hand.

The custom of spending the summer vacations at points having a waterfront is increasing greatly on the part of countless persons and thus many people are engaging annually in aquatic sports. Hence the great increase in accidental drownings each year. In 1905 in the United States alone there were 3,389 accidental drownings and all but 304 of these were males. Boys and men because of more common participation in aquatic and greater daring in taking risks, suffer a greater loss in lives. We have not added to the figures mentioned 296 drownings through suicide.

Most drownings occur between 10 and 24 years of age, the highest five-year period being 15 to 19. Almost ten out of every 100,000 die through accidental drowning every year. In some localities as for illustration in Connecticut this rises to 20 per 100,000 in the rural districts. Of course, in the summer time this rate more than doubles. In New York state last August there were 167 drownings. In Canada in 1901 there were 671 fatalities from drowning, 618 of which were males; half of these occurring between the ages of 15 and 34.

Every person should know how to swim. By means of modern methods of teaching, the art of swimming is acquired easily and quickly. The Young Men's Christian Association have decided to undertake to teach every boy and young man who does not know how to swim. It is a gigantic undertaking, but the physical directors have unanimously determined to do it, and they can accomplish a great deal.

Within the next year not only hundreds but many thousands will be taught to swim by the associations and Quincy will be a part of this movement. Just as soon as the swimming pool is completed in the local association "and work will be begun at once," everything possible will be done to teach the man or boy in Quincy who cannot swim.

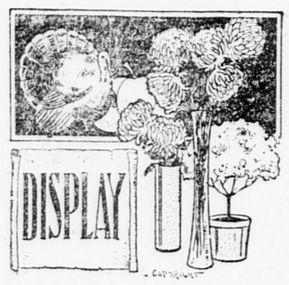

HOLIDAY RUN OF Y. M. C. A.

Three Mile Course to Wollaston and Return

The Cross-Country run on Thanksgiving morning will take place as usual and all members of the Y. M. C. A. are eligible. The course is as follows: Start Association building to Beale streeet, Wollaston, via Hancock street. Return via Newport avenue to building on Washington street.

Owing to the short time the boys have had to train, the committee thought it best to make the course about half the usual distance (three miles.) Three beautiful prizes will be given the first three to finish. Start promptly at 9.30 A. M.

WHIST AT GRANITE CITY

The Boards Eratic and Only Two Have Plus Scores

The Monday night whist tournaments under the Howell system at the rooms of the Granite City club are growing in popularity, as was shown Monday night, when eight pairs participated. The boards were rather eratic, but one out of the 21 boards being even. The final scores showed but two pairs finished with a plus, one even and five pairs had a minus score. The result:

J. W. Nightingale & W. H. Rideout	plus 6
Ralph Currier & G. T. Magee,	plus 5
C. W. Garey & R. T. Anthony,	even
H. A. Jones & W. R. Thomas,	minus 1
W. W. Mitchell & H. H. Hill,	minus 1 1-2
J. Q. Cudworth & W. E. Piper,	minus 2
J. H. Johnson & H. F. Tilden,	minus 2
G. H. Field & E. L. Saunders,	minus 4 1-2

WHIST FOR TURKEYS.

There were 40 tables in play at the whist party Monday night in St. Mary's hall, given by Jack Joyce and among the winners were Misses Irene Reinhalter, Agnes Galvin, Josephine O'Brien, John Corella, George Reinhalter and Joseph McTernie, who will be presented with turkeys the day before Thanksgiving.

WEST QUINCY GAMES.

Football games will be played on Thanksgiving day on the Ward Four playgrounds as follows:

Copeland Club vs. West End Club.
Arawarners vs. Hardy A. A.
Shamrocks vs. Rail Reds.

GOOD PRICE FOR TROTTER.

At the Old Glory horse sale in New York on Monday, the highest price was paid for the great trotter J. Malcolm Forbes, which was sold to J. R. Magowan of Sterling, Ky., for $3,750. The horse has a record of better than 2.30.

PRESENTATION TO GOLFER.

Tom L. McNamara, the professional golfer of the Wollaston Golf club, was presented a gold watch and chain by the members of the club Monday evening. Mr. McNamara left today for Texas to take charge of the golf end of the Houston Country club. Mr. McNamara is without doubt the leading home-bred professional golfer in the country.

—A good example of the economy often accomplished by chemical investigation and discovery is furnished in the case of ultramarine. Many years ago when this was made by powdering the mineral lapis lazuli, it sold for more than its weight in gold. Now that the chemist has discovered how to make the same material from such cheap substances as kaolin, sodium sulphate and carbonate, charcoal, sulphur and rosin, the price is only a few cents per pound. —American Machinist.

The Planet Mercury.

Though Mercury is one of the smallest of the planets, it is perhaps the most troublesome to the astronomer. It lies so close to the sun that it is seen but seldom in comparison with the other great planets. Its orbit is very eccentric, and it experiences disturbances by the attraction of other bodies in a way not yet fully understood. A special difficulty has also been found in the attempt to place Mercury in the weighing scales. We can weigh the whole earth, we can weigh the sun, the moon and even Jupiter and other planets, but Mercury presents difficulties of a peculiar character. Le Verrier, however, succeeded in devising a method of weighing it.

He demonstrated that our earth is attracted by this planet, and he showed how the amount of attraction may be disclosed by observations of the sun, so that from an examination of the observations he made an approximate determination of the mass of Mercury. Le Verrier's result indicated that the weight of the planet was about the fifteenth part of the weight of the earth. In other words, if our earth was placed in a balance and fifteen globes, each equal to Mercury, were laid in the other the scales would hang evenly.—"Story of the Heavens."

When Her Turn Came.

The Journal had taken on a "woman editor," whose duty was to look after the "woman's page." Space being scarce in the "local room," a desk was given her in the managing editor's room, directly adjoining. For a week or two no fault was found with her work, but one morning the managing editor said to her:

"Miss Penfield, your style of writing is a little too terse and epigrammatic for the needs of your department. You must study expansion."

"Very well, Mr. Ringgold," she answered. "I will try."

Thereafter her work appeared to give entire satisfaction, for there was no further criticism. About six months later, however, the managing editor after a morning spent in working at his desk suddenly wheeled in his chair and said:

"Miss Penfield, I want a wife. I want you. Will you marry me?"

"Mr. Ringgold," she responded, with a mocking smile, "that is rather terse and epigrammatic. Don't you think you ought to study expansion a little?" —Youth's Companion.

A Word of Warning.

"You never proposed to her on your knees!" cried the veteran married man in dismay.

"Sure I did; sure," the youth repeated, a glad, proud light shining in his eyes.

"Well," said the veteran, "you'll regret it about twice a week for the rest of your life. After you get married the slightest argument, the first impatient word, will cause your wife to say, 'You weren't like this when you went down on your knees and begged me, with tears in your eyes, to marry you.'

"It's pretty bad to have an angry wife read out your old love letters reproachfully," said the veteran, "but that is nothing to being reminded of your kneeling proposal every week till you are a great-grandfather."

"You proposed on your knees yourself?" the youth hazarded.

But the veteran frowned and made no reply.—Los Angeles Times.

The Seven Wise Men of Greece.

The seven wise men of Greece were Thales of Miletus, Periander of Corinth, Cleobulus of Lyndus, Chilon of Lacedaemon, Solon of Athens, Bias of Prienne and Pittacus of Mitylene. Some fishermen of Miletus sold a draft of fishes to a bystander. When the net was drawn in it contained a golden tripod, and the purchaser claimed it was his, while the fishermen contended that they sold only the fish that might be in the net. The dispute was referred to the oracle of Delphi, who awarded the tripod to the wisest man in Greece. Thereupon it was taken to Thales, who declined it and suggested that it be given to Bias. He in turn refused to accept it, and thus it was successively declined by all the seven, and they were thereafter known as the seven wise men of Greece.

The Number 4.

There are four cardinal points, four winds, four quarters of the moon, four seasons, four rules of arithmetic, four suits of cards, four quarters to the hour, four legs for furniture, most animals go on four legs, the dead are placed between four planks, the prisoners between four walls. We have four incisor and four canine teeth, and our forks have four prongs. All animals when butchered are cut into four quarters. The violin, greatest of all string instruments, has but four strings. Four of a kind is a pretty good hand at poker, even if they are only fours.—Exchange.

Dressed For the Part.

"What subject have you taken for your address at the Civic club?"

"Woman's moral obligations as a citizen."

"What a lovely subject! And what are you going to wear?"

"That new gown I brought home with me from Paris. And just think! I had it so cleverly packed in with my old clothes that the customs house inspector never discovered it was there." —Baltimore American.

An Explanation.

"How in blazes did the compositor happen to head my foreign travel letter with the words 'Foreign Drivel?'"

"I don't know. Perhaps he read it." —Cleveland Plain Dealer.

THE ELKS ENTERTAIN

First Social Night of the Season a Success

A large number of Elks and their friends gathered at the club house on Foster street Tuesday evening at the first social night of the lodge. It was the evening for the regular meeting but business was tabooed and the time given up to enjoyment. Exalted Ruler William J. Coleman was the master of ceremonies, and he made everybody feel at home.

Cuff's orchestra was present and rendered a fine musical program throughout the evening. There was no set program for the entertainment, but that did not matter. One of the chief entertainers was Fred Parker Ham, a member of Somerville lodge. Mr. Ham was a member of the old Boston Museum and Boston Theatre companies from 1878 to 1891, and his recitations were a rare treat. He was frequently called upon to render some well known selection, which he did in a masterly way. His rendering of that well known selection "Death at the Feast," of which he was the composer, was exceptionally good. In addition to this Andy Dinegan, the well known end man of many a minstrel show circle, gave some of his best numbers. There were also vocal selections by Daniel Ring and Edward Cuff.

The only Galen who was celebrating his natal day dropped in during the evening ,and was prevailed upon to render one of his old time selections.

At 11 o'clock, the mystic hour among all Elks, the lights were dimmed and to the soft accompaniment of the piano, Mr. Ham gave the Elks toast to the departed brothers. At its close all united in singing "Nearer My God to Thee."

A buffet lunch was served during the evening in the dining room. Quite a few applications for membership were received and Mr. Coleman was showered with congratulations at the success of the first social night, and it is safe to say that there will be others of a similar nature in the near future.

WIND, RAIN AND SNOW

Worst Storm of the Season Raged All Night

The storm which started in early last evening was the most severe of the season. At first the high wind was accompanied by a heavy rain but the temperature dropped and the rain turned to sleet and almost snow. It continued thus all night, although during the night it grew considerably colder.

This morning the wind was from the northeast, and was blowing almost a gale. With the wind came rain that was almost sleet, so that it cut like a knife when it struck the face. Clearing weather, however is promised before the day is out, and Thanksgiving day promises to be clear and cold.

IRVING—CLARK.

Mr. Ronald P. Irving of Taunton and Miss Mary J. Clark of Quincy was married in the presence of friends, by Dr. Edwin N. Hardy at the parsonage at noon today. Mr. Irving while employed here in the city several years ago met Miss Clark and the acquaintance thus pleasantly begun culminated today in a very happy union. Mrs. Irving has a wide circle of friends in the city and is one of the popular young ladies of Bethany church. Mr. and Mrs. Irving after a wedding trip will make their home at 7 Couch street, Taunton, where they will gladly meet any of their Quincy friends. The Ledger extends congratulations and best wishes to Mr. and Mrs. Irving since the groom was formerly a newspaper man. Mr. Irving has now a fine position as electrician in Taunton.

PRESENTATIONS AT MASONIC INSTALLATION

Retiring Master and Secretary of Twenty-Six Years Remembered.

Grand Commander of the Knights Templar the Installing Officer----Ladies Among the Guests.

Albert M. Parker, the newly-elected master of Rural lodge of Masons, was publicly installed Tuesday evening under auspicious circumstances. Nearly 200 brethern and ladies assembled. The beautiful Masonic apartments were doubly attractive because of the presence of the ladies in evening dress and the artistic grouping of small palms from the greenhouses of Bro. William Patterson.

The installing officer was Wor. Bro. Walter W. Burnham, past master of St. Johns lodge, Providence, and Right Eminent Grand Commander of the Grand Commandery of Knights Templar of Massachusetts and Rhode Island, assisted by Right Wor. Walter F. Medding past district deputy grand master of eighth Masonic district, as grand marshal; and Worshipful Brother Joseph P. Prout of Rural lodge. Musical numbers by the Weber Quartette enriched the installation services. The installing officer is a cousin of the new master of the lodge, and evidently they are close friends, and the Masonic reminiscenses recalled were interesting. Wor. Bro. Burnham said he was made a Mason by his father, and that he in turn made his son a Mason; he also had the pleasure of initiating Bro. Parker as a member of South Shore commandery, Knights Templar. He hoped to assist in making Masons of Bro. Parker's sons.

These officers were installed:
W. M.—Albert M. Parker.
S. W.—Frank A. Reed.
J. W.—H. Everett Crane.
Treas.—Alexander Falconer.
Sec.—Walter E. Simmons.
S. D.—Fred E. Tupper.
J. D.—Henry P. Hayward.
Chaplain—Rev. Alfred Ray Atwood.
Mar.—Horace E. Spear.
Tyler—Clarence E. Bestick.
S. S.—Andrew S. Johnston.
J. S.—Harry S. Bates.

Presentations followed the installation ceremonies and Worshipful Master Parker had the pleasure of presenting to Charles Sampson, the retiring master, a beautiful past masters' jewel, with name of lodge on bar, and monogram on pendant, with jewel below.

Bro. Sampson responded, saying it was the kindness of the lodge to his father that induced him to become a Mason. At his home he had the Masonic charts of his father and grandfather as well as his own. It had been his pleasure for nine years to serve the lodge as an officer.

Past Master F. W. Brett in an exceedingly clever speech presented to Secretary Walter E. Simmons a beautiful Secretary's jewel, similar in style to a Past Master's jewel which was inscribed as follows: "Rural lodge, A. F. & A. M. to Bro. Walter E. Simmons, for long and faithful service as secretary; 1884-1909; Nov. 23, 1909.

For once Bro. Simmons was surprised but he responded with much feeling and appreciation of the gift.

The flowers on the Master's pedestal were then formally presented to Mrs. Walter W. Burnham, the wife of the installing officer; the flowers on the Senior Warden's pedestal to Mrs. Walter F. Medding, the wife of the installing marshal; and the flowers on the Junior Warden's pedestal to Mrs. Albert M. Parker, the wife of the new master of the lodge.

The brethern and guests were then called to refreshments in the banquet room, where the blessing was asked by Rev. Alfred Ray Atwood, the chaplain. The supper was served by Henry P. Furnald and gave good satisfaction. It included escalloped oysters, salads, turkey, cranberry sauce, olives, celery, biscuits, ices ,cakes and coffee.

CIVIL WAR VETERAN.

Word has been received of the death at the National Soldiers Home at Togus, Me., on Tuesday, of William F. Coolidge of Quincy. Mr. Coolidge was a shoemaker, which business he followed for many years. When the war between the north and south broke out he enlisted and served his country faithfully for three years, being a member of the 11th Mass. Infantry, Co. K. He was 76 years of age and leaves a son and daughter. His daughter is the wife of Chief of Police Frank E. Burrell.

Funeral services will be held from the home of his daughter, 422 Washington street, Friday, at 2 o'clock.

BRIEFS

The Daily Ledger will not be issued tomorrow.

An illustrated Thanksgiving Ledger today. The story on page 3 cannot escape your notice.

Quincy cannot complain much of stormy weather this fall. Warm and pleasant days have prevailed.

Please send to the Daily Ledger a list of your out-of-town guests for the Thanksgiving season.

Citizens generally are invited to call at the Daily Ledger office at 3 P. M. any day to see the new press print the paper.

Are you reading "The Battle" our new serial. A free copy with the first instalment may be obtained on application to the Daily Ledger office.

A special effort should be made to attend the union Thanksgiving services at Bethany church at 10 A. M. tomorrow. "A better Quincy" is the theme, and the cooperation of everyone is necessary.

Mrs. McGregor of Quincy Point was awarded the turkey dinner at the meeting of the Irish National Forresters at A. O. H. hall on Tuesday evening. Ice cream and cake were served and a social time enjoyed. Officers will be elected at the next meeting.

WILL CANCEL DEBT.

The Woman's Guild of St. Chrysostoms church met Tuesday afternoon in the parish rooms and when Mrs. Vernon S. Brokaw treasurer, announced that the bazaar held last week netted $350,00 she was heartily applauded. Mrs. David L. Jewell of Grand View avenue then gave a donation of $5.00 to each of the different tables which brings the amount to $400.00. Every one was highly pleased that the bazaar funds will be more than sufficient to wipe out the church mortgage debt.

CAPTURED IN GLOVER HOUSE

Hattie Le Blanc Is Found Hiding Under a Bed

POLICE GET GREAT SURPRISE

Were Going Through Home of Murdered Man In Search of Clues—Widow Is Virtually a Prisoner, as It Is Believed That She Concealed Girl Who Was Accused by Her Dying Husband of Having Shot Him

Waltham, Mass., Nov. 24.—Hattie Le Blanc was found by the police last night hiding under the bed of Clarence F. Glover, the man whom she is accused of having murdered in his laundry Saturday evening. The girl was placed under arrest, while Mrs. Lillian Glover, widow of the slain man, who, it is believed, has concealed the girl, is virtually a prisoner in her own house.

An officer is stationed in front of it with instructions to allow no one to enter nor to permit Mrs. Glover to leave. The police are convinced that the woman knows more about the tragedy than she has yet told.

The discovery of the much wanted maid took place after Glover's funeral had been held in the house, and while Mrs. Glover, who had barred the door to visitors and detectives alike, was at the grave.

All during the services the girl kept hidden in the bedroom, which is next door to the parlor in which the casket containing the dead man had been placed. None at the funeral was allowed access to this bedroom, and none of the few relatives there dreamed that in the next room to where they sat lay hidden the girl Glover had accused with his dying breath.

Immediately after she was taken into the station house a stenographer and a French interpreter were summoned and the police began their interrogation. The police refused to give out anything that had occurred. Whether or not she had made a full confession, or implicated anyone else in the death of the wealthy laundry proprietor is not known.

When the girl was taken into the station house she did not appear very much excited. She was pale, but apparently cool and far from hysterical. While the police were waiting for a stenographer to arrive Miss LeBlanc asked for something to eat. A generous lunch was brought in, and she ate as if she had been hungry for some time.

It was hinted that her story was strongly implicating another, but the police refused to affirm or deny this. Thousands of men and women filled the streets and vacant land about the police station, and not in years has this city been stirred as it was when the news of Hattie LeBlanc's arrest became known.

The suspicions of the police were first aroused that the pretty, petite Cape Breton girl was being concealed by Mrs. Glover during the funeral yesterday afternoon. Sergeant Currin was off duty, being a night officer, and he went to the house to see that the crowd did not become unruly while watching outside the house when the services were being held.

He made his way inside several times, and saw something that caused him to have an interview with Chief of Police McKenna as soon as the services were over.

At 8 o'clock last evening Currin and McKenna left the police station in a closed carriage and drove quietly to the Glover home on Main street. They were admitted after some argument, and at once began a thorough search of the house. They went from room to room, peering into closets, hardly realizing what they were looking for, but suspicious that some clue of the greatest importance would be found.

They came to the bedroom where Glover himself had slept. Sergeant Currin stooped and glanced under the bed. Then he gave a cry of amazement, and dropping onto his knees reached his arm underneath. He pulled out Hattie LeBlanc.

The scene that followed, what explanation was made by Mrs. Glover, what Hattie LeBlanc said or did the two officers have not yet revealed to the newspaper reporters. Hattie was forced to put on her wraps and was taken quietly down stairs, placed in the closed carriage and driven to the police station.

Double Drowning Accident

Newburyport, Mass., Nov. 24.—Two men were drowned and two rescued from a capsized dory in the Merrimack river. The dead are David McKenzie, foreman of the construction work on the new chain bridge, and an Italian. McKenzie took three of his workmen out in a dory to pick up an anchor rope, and a wind squall overturned the craft.

Urging Broader Church Union

Paris, Nov. 24.—The more liberal sections of the French Episcopate are beginning to question the wisdom of the militant section, who favor the formation of the league of Catholic voters in the coming elections. The Liberals are advocating a broader union, which shall include with the Catholics other conservative forces.

RETRIAL OF MULLINS CASE

Motion Is Formally Filed by Attorneys For Mantir and Delorey

Cambridge, Mass., Nov. 24.—A motion for a retrial of the Mullins case, in which the defendants, James Mantir and Peter C. Delorey, were convicted last week, the former being found guilty of murder in the second degree and the latter of manslaughter, has been filed with the clerk of courts of Middlesex county by attorneys for Mantir and Delorey. A new trial is asked on the ground that the verdicts were against the weight of evidence and against the law.

The day after the findings were returned the Greek consul in Boston visited Mantir in jail and was in conference with him more than three hours. The prisoner was urged to state if he knew anything about the murder of Annie Mullins, but he, as stoutly as ever, maintained his innocence.

SLEUTH HAD NO WARRANT

Liable to Damages For Searching a Bag Full of Lobsters

Boston, Nov. 24.—The supreme judicial court sent down a decision to the effect that an officer of the fish and game commission has no right to stop a man on the street and search a bag that he may be carrying containing lobsters without a warrant. It makes no difference whether the bag happens to contain lobsters of a size prohibited by law or not.

As a result of this decision Samuel J. Lowe, a deputy of the fish and game commission, is liable in damages to William T. Dunn of Dartmouth. The latter was stopped by Lowe as he was walking through the streets of New Bedford with a bag full of lobsters over his shoulder and a search made among the contents.

WOULD RESTRAIN HORDE OF ASIATICS

Action Is Begun to Place Ban Upon Their Citizenship

Boston, Nov. 24.—The right to American citizenship of all the Armenians in this country, estimated at 50,000, is threatened by proceedings started before Judge Lowell in the United States circuit court here by the department of commerce and labor, which is seeking to prevent Armenians, Syrians and other races coming from Asia attaining American citizenship.

The action of the department is said to be due to an attempt on the part of the immigration authorities, who are attached to the department of commerce and labor, to restrict in some way the so-called "horde of Asiatics" from swarming here.

Immigration from eastern Asia, which has consisted principally of Chinese and Japanese, has already been restricted, and similar restrictions are desired, it is said, on immigration from western Asia, the home of Armenians, Syrians, Arabs and Turks.

TAYLOR LEAVES JAIL

Boston Banker Has Been In Confinement For Eighteen Months

Providence, Nov. 24.—Thomas D. Taylor of Dorchester, Mass., who has been in jail in this city since March 27, 1908, having been arrested in a civil action alleging conspiracy with reference to the disposal of assets of the New England Trust company of this city, was released from jail yesterday afternoon.

The release was the result of a decree entered by Justice Tanner of the superior court, authorizing John P. Beagan, receiver of the trust company, to enter into agreement with Taylor for the settlement of the claims against him in connection with the suspension of that company.

NECK BROKEN BY FALL

Carpenter Sues His Employers and Is Awarded $5000 Damages

Fitchburg, Mass., Nov. 24.—Isaie Rosseau, a carpenter, whose neck was broken in May, 1907, by falling from a staging, has been saved from death by the physicians, who say his recovery is miraculous, and yesterday he recovered $5000 damages for his injuries.

Suit was brought against Deschenes & Charron, contractors and builders, for whom he worked when the accident happened, a superior court awarding him damages after one jury had denied him and the supreme court had ordered a new trial.

Heavy Seizure of Opium

El Paso, Tex., Nov. 24.—Customs officers seized 400 cans of smuggled opium, valued at $7000. No arrests were made. Within the last month more than $20,000 worth of smuggled opium has been seized in Texas.

Lasters on Strike

Auburn, Me., Nov. 24.—Part of the crew of lasters at the shoe shop of the National Shoemakers are on strike. The men say they went out because three of their companions were discharged.

Morse Can Ask For New Trial

New York, Nov. 24.—The United States circuit court of appeals granted the motion of counsel for Charles W. Morse to apply to the United States circuit court for a new trial for Morse.

TAKE CANNON AT H.S WORD

Insurgents Planning New Campaign Against Speaker

WILL ASK HIM TO RESIGN

Democrats' Aid Will Be Sought to Accomplish the Undoing of Uncle Joe—Cannot Be Unseated, but May Lose Presiding Officer's Position—He Has Parsons' Charges and Fowler's Opposition to Face In Congress

Washington, Nov. 24.—Speaker Cannon's western speeches are coming back to plague him and bring about his undoing, if the plan of Victor Murdock of Kansas, chief of the irreconcilable insurgents, is carried out.

On the trip down the Mississippi Cannon repeated his celebrated dictum that a majority of the house always ruled and declared that if that majority wanted him to step down and out, he would do so. The Murdock group propose to take the speaker at his word and are preparing a petition asking the speaker to retire, which they will circulate as soon as Murdock reaches town.

This plan could succeed of course only with the aid of the Democrats. A count of noses shows about forty-five insurgents of various kinds in the house, but only a fraction of this number probably would dare to go so far as to request the Republican master of the house to abdicate.

The Republican rebels are almost balanced also by the Fitzgerald Democrats, who voted with the house machine in favor of the old rules last spring. The Republican leaders of both house and senate always have handled the minority with the greatest tact, and while this diplomacy has had a little or no effect on questions decided by straight party vote, it has given great strength to the regular organization when personal issues were at stake.

Again there are two kinds of insurgents, as Gardner of Massachusetts pointed out. One kind must vote against Cannon, first last and all the time, or retire from public life. Another wants a new tariff revision, or some radical legislation, and would find fault with the rules if their power were turned in favor of these special projects.

Mr. Gardner occupies the middle ground of desiring the rules so amended to give the majority actual power of initiative in legislation, thus placing responsibility upon the majority and not upon the speaker and permitting the majority to revise the tariff or stand pat as it pleases.

Speaker Cannon is re-elected for two years, and no power probably can unseat him. His real trouble will come from the charges of Herbert Parsons, that he made a deal with Tammany to save the rules last spring. He must stand up also against the bitter opposition to him in everything of men like Fowler of New Jersey, Cooper of Wisconsin and others who have been unseated as chairmen of important committees; and a straight fight for further amendments of the rules per se will be made in which all but the Cannon Democrats and the machine Republicans can join cordially.

FIFTEEN THOUSAND OUT

Shirtwaist Operators Quit Work to Enforce Demand For More Pay

New York, Nov. 24.—Fifteen thousand shirtwaist makers, of whom 12,000 are women, went on strike in New York and it is expected that ultimately all the shops in the city, employing 40,000 persons all told, will be involved.

The workers' demands are for an increase in the wage scale and shorter hours. The working weeks of fifty-two hours in place of a 9½-hour day, now in force, and an advance of from 25 to 30 percent in the rates for piece work, are asked.

ASTOR'S YACHT IS SAFE

Was at Anchor In Harbor of San Juan Just a Week Ago

New York, Nov. 24.—The Astor yacht puzzle is solved. Mail from Colonel John Jacob Astor and his party reached New York on steamship Harry Luckenbach, which sailed from San Juan, P. R., Nov. 17.

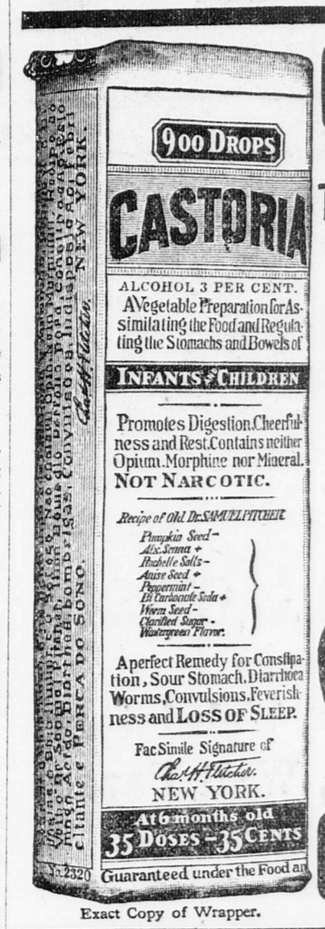

On that date an officer from the yacht Nourmahal came aboard the Luckenbach with the mail just before the latter sailed for New York. At the time, according to Captain Dalton of the Luckenbach, the Nourmanal was safely at anchor and showed no signs of damage.

Actress Weds Rich Indian Prince

London, Nov. 24.—Dolly Parnell, a musical comedy actress, was married here to Prince Nesir Ali Khan, the son of one of the most powerful of the native rulers of India. The prince presented his bride with jewels valued at $100,000.

Kills Grandfather Who Punished Him

Franklin, Ga., Nov. 24.—Because he had been punished by his grandfather, W. S. Carrington, Will Carrington, 17 years old, shot and killed the former at the family home. The boy was arrested.

A Dinner That Walked Away

A THANKSGIVING STORY BY FRANK H. SWEET

THE way it began Hannah was cross that day. For one thing, she had a big Thanksgiving baking to do in an old fashioned house where pies and cakes were made by the quantity.

Then, while she was out of the kitchen a minute, Margery in a frolic with puss had upset the churn with its load of cream all over the snow white floor.

That made plenty of extra work, but the crowning disaster was to find when she went to the pantry for the beans she intended to bake that a bottle of brandy that she had kept last summer to bathe her ankle, which she had sprained in falling down the cellar stairs, had been upset.

It stood far out of the way on the top shelf, but unfortunately the dish of beans was directly under it, and the brandy had dripped over them, soaking them so thoroughly that it was not possible to use them.

But the worst was yet to come. On finding the beans ruined she simply emptied them into the pail which stood at the kitchen door and, washing her hands, set to work to knead her big pan of puffy bread dough.

Now, the kitchen door opened into a woodshed, and the ash pail, with the beans on top, was supposed to be safe enough, but unfortunately on this special afternoon the outside door was ajar.

The beans had not been there long before the turkeys came around to be fed, as usual, and one of them, of a prying disposition, noticed the open door and, probably remembering the good things that came out of the door, quickly hopped on to the step and walked in.

Nothing to be seen but piles of wood for the season, now getting severe, and —yes—a pail with something in it.

"Ah, that looks good! I'll try it," thought the curious turkey (no doubt).

She did try it, and, not being sensitive in either taste or smell, she never stopped trying it until she had swallowed all the top ones, soaked in brandy, and then turned to go.

The effect was sad.

Her head whirled around, it is supposed. At any rate, her legs refused to hold her up, and she fell to the ground insensible.

A GLANCE TOLD THE SHAMEFUL STORY.

Half an hour later Hannah went out for more wood to replenish her fire and in the gathering darkness stumbled over the turkey, still lying there.

A glance at the fowl to see that she was not outwardly hurt and another at the pail told the shameful story.

"Here's a fine bit o' work!" exclaimed Hannah, turning the limp turkey over. "The idiot has gone and killed herself entirely with those beans. I'd like to know who left open that door! Well, well, I want a turkey for Thanksgiving, and this one died by accident, and its meat will be as good as though I'd wrung her neck."

So, muttering and grumbling to herself, after fixing her fire she attacked the turkey, for, though she was sometimes cross, she was always economical, and she knew no questions would be asked as to how it came to its end, provided it was fat and was roasted well.

In a few minutes she had the feathers off, except those on the wings and tail, and she laid the picked turkey on a bench to cool, shutting the door to keep out the cat while she finished some other work.

Meantime tea time arrived. The family came home and were all at the table when the door burst open and Hannah rushed in, evidently frightened out of her wits.

"Oh, Mr. Winslow," she cried, "there's something in the woodshed, all in white, and it ran after me when I went for some wood, and I daren't go out there, if you plaze!"

Mr. Winslow, supposing some animal had got in, left the table and, arming himself with the poker as he passed through the kitchen, threw open the door.

Silence and darkness only.

Yet in a moment came an audible rustling on the wood pile and an indistinct glimpse of something white.

"Bring the light, Hannah!" called Mr. Winslow, and, taking a candle from her trembling hand, he led the way to the strange object.

"It's a white—why, no, it isn't!" he interrupted himself as he drew nearer to the fluttering, frightened thing. "It's—I declare, it's a picked turkey! Where on earth"—

"A picked turkey!" screamed Hannah. "Sure, and can it be the one I picked myself this evening has come to life?"

"How did you kill it?" asked Mr. Winslow.

"I didn't kill it at all. The botherin' crater killed itself atin' beans that got soaked in my brandy, and I had to stop my work and dress it before it cooled."

"Well, it evidently was not dead," said Mr. Winslow. "But now it's dressed you better cut off its head."

"Oh, no, papa!" cried Margery, who stood on the steps. "Don't kill the poor thing! I'll take care of it somehow."

"PLEASE LET ME," PLEADED MARGERY.

"But it'll freeze, dear," said papa, going back into the kitchen.

"No; I'll fix it up. I'll make it something to wear. Please let me," pleaded Margery earnestly.

"Well, I don't care, child," said her father, laughing. "Do as you like and dress it up. I want a fat gobbler and not a five pound hen turkey for Thanksgiving."

After some trouble the shivering, naked turkey was caught and carried into the warm kitchen. It was carefully wrapped in an old skirt for the night and tied into a basket.

The astonished creature rebelled and fought against the indignity of wearing a flannel skirt, but cold conquered it, and at last it cuddled down quietly in its strange new bed.

Through the long Sunday that followed the turkey was kept a close prisoner, and by the next morning many plans had been thought out for its comfort.

That was a great day for Margery, who was confined to the house by delicate lungs and who longed for something to pass away the hours when lessons were over and the daily sewing "stint" finished.

Here was something to do! The new pet was fed and the lessons and sewing hurried through, so that by noon she was free to carry out her plans.

MARGERY FED HER.

By this time the turkey had found out that Margery wouldn't hurt it and was not so frightened as it had been last night, so when the little girl took it in her arms it made little objection.

"Now you must have a name," said Margery softly, carrying her new plaything off into her especial corner of the big kitchen, where work and Hannah never came. "Let me see," she went on. "I'll name you after my lovely doll that got broken—Kristine—and I must make you some clothes so you can walk around and not be hobbled up so."

With the help of mamma the busy little girl contrived a sort of coat for Kristine. It was made of an old shawl and was bright scarlet, with black and white plaid.

It came pretty well up on the neck and of course covered the naked legs. The wings were left inside. It was fastened together at the breast and was really a pretty good fit—considering.

As ornament Margery sewed some of the fringe of the shawl around the neck like a ruff, at the edges where the wings ought to be and around the legs. So when dressed the unfortunate, or, rather, naughty, turkey looked like a new plaid variety of the scarlet flamingo, with side pockets and fringed drawers.

The appearance of Kristine stalking around in her new suit was very funny. How the boys did laugh! And even papa had to wipe away the laughing tears.

In this dress the next morning, after she had been fed daintily, Margery introduced her to her old friends of the poultry yard by opening the kitchen door and letting her walk out where the turkeys were taking their breakfast.

Margery thought they would be glad to see her; but, alas, this distinguished stranger in gay attire was not recognized. They stared and scolded at her, and the old gobbler ruffled up his feathers and dragged his wings on the ground and came up to her, saying angrily:

"Gobble, gobble, gobble!"

Kristine seemed to be disheartened at this coolness on the part of her family and slunk into a corner, as though ashamed of her fine dress. Then the family crowded around her to punish her impertinence in coming among them and actually began to peck at her.

Margery, who was watching from the window, could hardly believe her eyes at first; but, yes, they were actually pecking at the poor outcast, who finally fled screaming across the yard. Margery flew to the door, and Kristine hurried in just in time to escape the whole family, who were close upon her.

"You poor, dear Kristine!" she murmured over her when she had her safely in her arms. "Did they peck you? The naughty things! You shan't go with them any more! You shall stay with me in the house."

So it came to be at last. Hannah grumbled a little; but, after all, she couldn't say much, for it was by her own fault that the poor thing lost its own winter coat. Before long the family grew quite attached to Margery's pet, whose name they shortened to Kris.

On her part Kris was a very bright bird. She would come when called by name, and she never failed to be on hand at mealtimes, when she would walk around the table and receive delicate bits from every one.

While her little mistress was studying or sewing Kris would stand and look at her, turning her knowing head first one side and then the other and sometimes saying in a reflective way:

"Quit!"

As soon as books and work were put away she was ready for play. In fact, she enjoyed her strange life very much and grew fat under it, so that pretty soon the boys began to tease Margery by suggesting that her pet was ready to take her place on the table.

SAYING IN A REFLECTIVE WAY, "QUIT!"

The only time she seemed to be uncomfortable was when the cheerful kitchen was scrubbed.

No sooner did Hannah appear on the scene with scrubbing brush and go down on her knees to polish the floor than Kris would hop by a sort of ladder which one of the boys had made for her up to a corner of the high mantel over the fireplace, and there she would sit, all humped up and miserable, till the work was done or till her little mistress came and took her into the sitting room.

The place where Kris was intended to spend the time of her banishment from the yard was a large chamber over the woodshed, which was kept warm by the kitchen chimney, and there's where her bed, or roost, was prepared for her and where she was shut up every night. But she was so lonely and unhappy and tried so hard to get out and Margery was so fond of her for a playmate that she generally got down before breakfast and did not go back until bedtime, which is at dusk in the turkey family, you know.

Well, the winter passed away, and spring came. Kris grew a new sort of feathers under her plaid dress, and when the weather became warm mamma said she must leave off her dress and go out of doors with the rest. So the first really warm day Margery took off the red dress and drove her out.

Kris had not forgotten her cool reception in the winter, so she at first was careful not to go too near the turkeys, though they did not object to her now in her feather dress. After a few days she stayed most of the time with them, only coming when called and generally making a visit to the table for her usual treats.

She had not been out very long when one morning Margery went out to see her and she was gone. No one had seen her since breakfast. Margery felt very bad and after looking all about came to the sad conclusion that she had strayed away and got lost, for the whole flock wandered far off to feed. But the next morning at breakfast time Kris walked in, as usual, and began to beg for food. Margery hugged her and fed her, and she ate as though she was starved.

When she had finished her meal she went out again, and about noon her little mistress sought her again, and again she was missing.

This now became the regular thing with Kris. Every morning she was on hand for her breakfast, and in spite of watching she would slip away and hide so that no one could find her again.

Poor Margery was almost heartbroken at this tendency to vagrancy in her pet, but Hannah only smiled and said:

"Wait a bit and you'll see something nice."

But, though Hannah had her suspicions, she was not prepared for what really occurred one day.

After this strange conduct had been going on for a few weeks there came a day when Hannah had another scare. She declared that tramps or thieves were up in the woodshed chamber. She heard them, and she dared not go up.

While she stood in the woodshed telling Margery in a whisper about it the child heard a step that she knew.

Kris hopped down on to the top step of the stairs which led to the room overhead. After a moment she hopped to the next, and after her came, one by one, twelve baby turkeys.

Margery screamed with delight and ran to catch Kris and pet the whole family, while Hannah rushed upstairs in dismay and saw a sight that shocked her more than the fear of tramps.

In that room trunks and things not in use were stored, and a month or more ago Hannah had carried up there a large square "squaw basket" with a cover, a basket such as the Oneida Indians of New York state make for various household uses of their white sisters.

This basket was nearly full of the winter supply of woolen stockings, all neatly mended and laid away till fall. In this basket, on these soft stockings, had Madam Kristine made her nest and hatched out her interesting family.

She must have found the door ajar and managed to pry off the cover, which lay on one side, and here she had hidden all these weeks.

The room was put in order and the door closed, and Kristine was provided with a place in the yard. Every day she wandered off with her babies, but she never started until she had visited the breakfast table with her whole brood to get her regular morning meal.

At first it was funny to see them run around and pick up crumbs, but as they grew it began to be troublesome to have a flock of turkeys so much at home in the house. So mamma made a new law that Kristine and her family must be fed at the door.

After that her life was like that of the other turkeys, only she knew her name and would come when called and never failed to run up to Margery whenever she saw her.

And the dinner that walked away last year supplied twelve tables with dinners this year and provided Margery with a fine lot of pocket money for her pains.

Thanksgiving Day.

Now the turkey roosting low
Finds his spirit full of woe;
Notes that popularity
Is not all 'tis said to be;
Wishes that he had been wise
In his corn fed paradise.
He'd by far the wiser been
Had he rested 'mongst the lean;
Had he dieted a bit,
Keeping all his muscles fit,
'Stead of, like a prideful fiat,
Gorging unth plump and fat.

See! In state at last he lies,
Flanked about by pumpkin pies,
Flanked with fresh cut celery,
Giblet sauce and cranberry;
Covered with a pall of crisp,
Here and there a parsley wisp
Lying softly on his breast;
Stuffed with spice and nuts of chest
Poor old turkey! Victim he
Of his gobbling vanity.

Gladsome day for young and old,
Whether winds be soft or cold;
Day that gives a nation pause
For its grateful "Deo Laus;"
Day that brings us face to face
With the fount of love and grace—
It were blessing past compare
That we have a day so rare;
Day from others all apart
Given over to the heart,
To a reali ing sense
Of the great beneficence
Of the hand divine above
That hath ruled us but through love.

HOLIDAY NOTICE.

Thanksgiving day will be observed as a holiday by the Daily Ledger, no paper being issued on Thursday. The office will be closed all day.

For food and raiment, and increase
Of charity, good-will and peace
For health, kind friends, and faith and love,
For blessings showered from above;
For harvest plenty, fireside cheer,
For hope's bright rainbow in each tear,
Our hearts this day to God we lift
In gratitude for every gift!
—Henry Coyle.

With the coming of the Thanksgiving season it is good news to hear that there is less idleness in Massachusetts than for many years. Only in a few localities are the conditions in an unsettled state mostly in large manufacturing places where adjustment is already looked for. In Quincy the outlook for merchant and manufacturer is unusually bright and a prosperous winter is an assured fact. Money seems to be plenty as has been practically demonstrated recently in generous contributions to charitable causes.

As one man said yesterday the article on the first page of Monday's Ledger, giving Judge Avery's address at Bethany church Sunday night, was alone worth the price of the paper. It certainly contained much food for thought. The East Norfolk District court is fortunate to have as judge of its criminal and civil sessions a man so broad and alert to civic problems and needs.

DRIFT OF OPINION.

When Samuel Gompers was re-elected president of the American Federation of Labor at the meeting in Toronto last week, he declared that the enthusiastic vote for him was the best that he had ever received, and, indeed, it was. But his re-election at this time was never in doubt, and the conjecture was merely over the unanimity of it. Through the court action, which was hanging over President Gompers because of his zeal for the cause, it was encumbent upon other labor men to give their leader their undoubted mark of approval; and they rallied to the occasion well, with what is reported to have been a unanimous election. At least, it was a most tumultuous one and brooking no opposition. But, aside from the fact that Gompers was aided to it by his martyrdom for labor's cause, he, without doubt, is one of the most astute men in the forefront of labor today; and, through his years of service in the position of president, he has had the opportunity to learn—an opportunity which he has not failed to grasp. He is no doubt fond of the adulation of the public and courts it; but underneath it there is a sincere interest in the cause of labor, which makes him a too valuable man to drive from the office at the present time. That was realized by the delegates at the A. F. of L. Convention in Toronto, and known well, too, by the few men who are secretly covetous of the powerful position which the president of the great labor organization holds. —Barre Daily Times.

The Springfield Union, contemplating the telegraph and telephone merger, is inclined to grow a bit sarcastic as it thinks over the "economies" that will redound to the advantage of the owners in this great coming together of the forces. However, the Union is a bit doubtful whether the general public will ever realize anything from these economies, and the Union is doubtless right. Whenever there has come a merger on interests in any great commercial factor there has always been issued a statement in which somewhere the public will be told of the beauties of saving and how the new plan would, by dropping people from work and running two games where one game ran before, enable the merger folks to run more economically than had been the case previously. Doubtless this has always been the truth; but how does it effect the dear public? Do they get anything cheaper, generally speaking, by reason of these mergers? They do not. They pay the same prices as before or even more, and the benign beauties of the "economy" in the plan merely mean that more people are to be set adrift to hunt a living and compete with those already out of work. We always feel glad, no doubt, that hitherto "wasted" money is now to be saved to the merger folks, but there is no actual dollars and cents benefit to us to cause that joy to bring us to open laughter and a desire for a day off.—Brockton Enterprise.

OF PUBLIC INTEREST.

MORE ABOUT THE DEPOT.

Editors of Ledger:

I read with much interest the communication in the Ledger of Nov. 23 about conditions at the Quincy Depot and wish to state that I do not think some of the conditions there are much improved.

Monday evening I had occasion to go to the depot to speed some guests on their way. Notwithstanding the signs "No Smoking" men were enjoying his pleasure to their hearts content. Intoxicated men also appeared to be very much at home and expectorating on the floor of the station and platforms was a common occurrence. Ladies found the station platform a more agreeable place to wait for the train than in the waiting room.

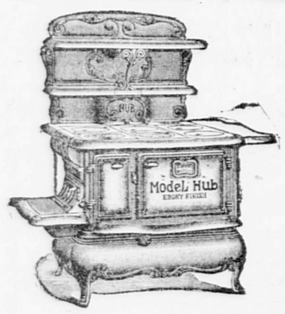

Now where is that night man that is looking after things? If he is there let him make his presence felt, goodness knows he is needed.

LAND FRAUDS IN OREGON

Sensation Is Promised When Heney Takes Up the Prosecution

Washington, Nov. 24.—A shakeup in the administration of the general land office and prosecutions for land frauds in the west that will create a sensation throughout the entire country is predicted by close friends of the administration as the ultimate result of the so-called Ballinger-Pinchot controversy.

FRANCIS J. HENEY.

The appointment of Francis J. Heney, the graft prosecutor, to his old post in charge of the land cases in Oregon is said to be but the beginning of the upheaval promised in the general land office.

STRONG ADVOCATE OF GREENBACKISM

Maine Loses a Noted Citizen In Death of Solon Chase

Chase's Mills, Me., Nov. 24.—Solon Chase, aged 86 years, the "sage of the Chase's Mills," the man who won a world-wide reputation for his radical political views and his adherence to the Greenback party, died very suddenly yesterday afternoon.

Mr. Chase was born at Chase's Mills Jan. 14, 1823, the son of Isaac Chase, one of the early settlers, who cleared his own farm and established the village of Chase's Mills.

His life was uneventful until he was about 50 years of age, when he "got the Greenback religion and felt a call to preach," and for ten years he was a prominent figure in the political world, stumping nearly every state in the union, advocating the principles of Greenbackism.

"Them steers," and "too much hog in the dollar" became household words, and his ideas and principles were admired by thousands who never saw him or heard him speak.

Mr. Chase was twice nominated for congress, but was defeated each time.

NEW TREASURY OFFICIAL

Curtis, Harvard Golf Champion, Is Selected by President Taft

Washington, Nov. 24.—Harvard's golf champion of 1899 has been drafted to Washington to be assistant secretary of the treasury and have direction over the reforms which are being instituted in the customs service. He is James F. Curtis of Boston, captain of the Harvard golf team and intercollegiate prize winner.

Curtis is expected to arrive in Washington on Monday to enter upon his work and golf practice.

He would have come earlier to the desk vacated by James B. Reynolds on Nov. 1 but for his participation in the trials of the Boston steel cases, where he is an assistant district attorney.

A MAGNIFICENT SPECTACLE

But Flow of Lava Threatens to Destroy Island Settlement

Teneriffe, Canary Islands, Nov. 24.—Several foreign scientists yesterday climbed the Mountain of Las Flores and made observations of the newly opened craters. The volcano continues to shoot out incandescent masses to a great height, affording a magnificent spectacle at night.

The shower of stones and sand and the flow of lava are so dense as to threaten the complete destruction of the valley of Santiago. The lava flow, however, is slow. It is now within a half mile of Santiago, but is not expected to reach the town for six or seven days.

Baby Now Has Three Eyes

Burrville, Conn., Nov. 24.—Esther Defilles, a year old, thought that the eyes of a toy cat she was playing with were candy, and after working one loose, which was attached with a pin, she swallowed both. The baby is apparently as well as ever, although the eye and pin have not been recovered.

Supposed Black Hand Outrage

Danville, Ills., Nov. 24.—An explosion of dynamite in the fruit and wine house of Joseph Mascari damaged twenty-five buildings in the business district of the city to the extent of $50,000. Mascari believes the "black hand" is responsible for the explosion.

No Likelihood of Men Being Rescued Alive In St. Paul Mine

Cherry, Ills., Nov. 24.—Hope that there still might be alive some of the 189 men known to be entombed in the St. Paul coal mine has been abandoned.

An exploration into what is known as the second vein, where it was thought that the miners probably had barricaded themselves and managed to exist on oats and corn kept there for mules, showed that great portions of the tunnels have collapsed.

It is thought many men were buried under the debris and that if the obstruction is not soon cleared away at least 100 bodies may never be recovered. Fire is still raging in these tunnels, and those portions of the mine in which imprisoned miners might have found a retreat are said to be full of the fatal black damp.

NEW ERA FOR THE NEGRO

Laying of Cornerstone For Science Hall at Howard University

Washington, Nov. 24.—Within the Howard university grounds there was laid the cornerstone for the new science hall, which is being constructed at a cost of $90,000, the amount appropriated by congress.

The occasion was significant in that this will be the first institution intended for the advanced training of physics, chemistry and biology ever erected in connection with a college for negroes.

It will be devoted to the instruction of not only the largest body of negro students in the world, but also for the more careful training of the 400 negro students in the school of medicine of the university.

UNCLE SAM AWAITS RESULT OF PROBE

Trying to Ascertain Status of Groce and Cannon

Washington, Nov. 24.—The delay on the part of the United States in taking any action with respect to the killing, by order of President Zelaya of Nicaragua, of the two Americans—Groce and Cannon—is occasioned by the inability of the government up to this time to fix the exact status in Nicaragua of the slain men.

Every effort is being made through government agencies to determine whether these men were members of the revolutionary army or whether they were acting on their own responsibility.

If it can be proven, as seems very doubtful, that they really were responsible for the planting of mines for the purpose of blowing up troopships of the Nicaraguan government and were acting in this matter on their own responsibility, their status would be very different from what it would be were they acting as a part of the revolutionary forces.

It is this point that the state department is trying to clear up before it takes any aggressive action against Zelaya.

MRS. CHAPMAN WEDS

The $10,000,000 Widow Becomes the Bride of Philip Von Valkenburgh

New York, Nov. 24.—Mrs. William H. Chapman, the $10,000,000 widow, surprised her friends by being married at her apartments in the Hotel St. Regis to Philip Von Valkenburgh.

Although several men's names have been mentioned as aspirants for her hand, Mrs. Chapman seems to have kept her own counsel, and Von Valkenburgh has not been mentioned as one of her suitors.

Everywhere she went in Europe an army of noble suitors, rich and otherwise, mostly the latter, followed her. She is said to have received upward of 700 love letters.

Von Valkenburgh is a descendant of an old Dutch family of this city. His personal fortune is estimated at $20,000,000.

ROOSEVELT FOR GOVERNOR

Woodruff Thinks It Would Be Profitable to New York Republicans

New York, Nov. 24.—Timothy L. Woodruff, chairman of the Republican state committee, speaking of a report that a movement was on foot among certain of the Republican leaders, himself included, to have ex-President Roosevelt nominated for governor of New York upon his return from Africa, said:

"If Roosevelt would consent to run for governor it is my opinion that he would be nominated and elected, and it would be a matter of great advantage to the Republican party in the state of New York."

Congressman Burned to Death

Kansas City, Nov. 24.—Representative David A. DeArmand, one of the most prominent Democratic members of congress, and his grandson, Waddie, aged 6, were burned to death in a fire that destroyed the DeArmond home at Butler, Mo.

Chinese Viceroy Dismissed

Pekin, Nov. 24.—An imperial edict has been issued, dismissing three high government officials, including Tuan Fang, viceroy of Pe Chi Li, for offenses committed in connection with the funeral of the late dowager empress.

BLIND MUSICIAN

Highly Entertains a West Quincy Audience

Seldom has an audience so thoroughly enjoyed an entertainment as did the large number at the Hall Place M. E. church Tuesday evening, when they were royally entertained by Prof. J. N. Maynard, the celebrated blind musician of Boston, assisted by Mr. William E. Thomas, a humorous reader and a member of the famous Boston University Quartette.

The entertainment was held under the auspices of the Epworth League, with Miss Maud E. Hodgkinson, fourth vice president of the league, as chairman. The concert consisted of songs, piano solos, imitations and witticisms by Prof. Maynard, interspersed with readings by Mr. Thomas. Prominent among Prof. Maynard's selections were: Piano solo, "Way down upon the Swanee River," with variations by Prof. Maynard, march entitled "Strenuous Life," dedicated to Theodore Roosevelt, songs, "In the harbor of Home, Sweet Home," Ocean song, and several others.

Prof. Maynard spoke of his course at the Perkins Institute and also of his experience in later life. Among other things Prof. Maynard said he thought blind people did a great many things that people with good eyesight never dream of doing, but said that this was not due to the fact that blind people had better hearing brighter intellects or a finer sense of feeling than people that see have, but was due to the fact that blind people early in life learn to depend upon these faculties in the absence of their sight. They train their minds to remember those things they have once heard and have greater confidence in themselves. Prof. Maynard told several funny instances which had occurerd in his life, and also many very funny questions which had been asked him relative to his blindness.

After the entertainment there was a sale of aprons and towels in charge of Miss Beryl Hannant and Miss Katherine Hodgkinson, also a candy sale in charge of the following committee: Miss Hilda Francis, Miss Carol Parris, Miss Florence Manhire and Miss Edna Burke.

BURGLARS FRIGHTENED AWAY.

The 5 and 10 cent store of Henry L. Kincaide & Co., on Hancock street was entered by burglars sometime Tuesday night, but as far as known nothing was taken. The parties gained entrance through one of the side windows in the rear of the Wilson block. They cut out the putty from the upper sash and then removed the glass. They then moved the articles on the shelves near the window, so that no racket would be made. No evidence that the parties visited the store was visible from the interior. The cash registers were not molested, and as far as could be seen none of the articles in the store were taken. It is thought that possibly the burglars may have been frightened away.

VOTE ON LICENSE.

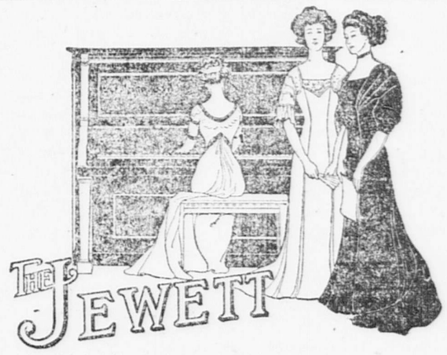

A Big Majority Each Year Against The Sale Of Liquor.

Quincy is the banner No-License city of Massachusetts. Twenty-eight times the question has been submitted to the voters: "Shall Licenses be granted for the sale of intoxicating liquors?" And each time the verdict has been decisive. Previous to 1901 the majority was always less than 1000, but at the last four elections it has been in excess of 2000. In 1908 the "NO" vote was 3,470, the largest ever cast, while the "YES" vote was not as large as in 1896, 1899, 1900 or 1902. The number of blanks or silent votes was 331, about the average in recent years.

Quincy's enviable record since the local option law went into effect follows:

THE PIANO THAT SINGS
That is what someone called the Jewett recently while trying to describe the marvellous resonance of its tone.
The Jewett piano has not only the richness and power which every pianist admires, but it has also the rare sympathy and sustaining quality of tone so necessary in accompanying the voice.
Its musical superiority makes the Jewett the favorite piano among well informed people in New England. So great is its popularity that each year probably more Jewett pianos are sold in this territory than of any other make of equal grade.
Purchasers of Jewett pianos secure—
Dursbility proved by actual test since 1860, rare musical quality recognized by competent authorities everywhere, case designs of unsual attractiveness, workmanship of the most reliable and skillful order, and finally, the absolutely dependable guarantee of New England's largest piano house.
A variety of styles at from $375 up.

WOMEN'S CLUBS

WHAT THEY ARE DOING AND SEASONS' PLANS

Tuesday was club day at the 1915 Exposition in Boston but as it was also club day in Quincy members of the Quincy Women's club could not take it in.

* * *

Mrs. Theodore Hardwick is hostess next week for the Friday club and Mrs. George W. Morton will have the program in charge.

* * *

The December meeting of the Mothers' association comes on the first day of the month and will be held as usual in Bethany chapel at three o'clock. Mrs. A. G. Coffin will conduct the devotional exercises and Mrs. Henry W .Tirrell will be the soloist. The paper of the afternoon will be by Miss Edith Randall, who will talk on "The Mother Instinct."

* * *

Lynn clubwomen are much pleased with their new $75,000 club house and it is in daily use. It is already a source of income being in demand for many purposes. The clubhouse will be dedicated Dec. 9, when Gov. Eben S. Draper will be the special guest. Each stockholder in the club house will be entitled to one ticket for the dedicatory exercises.

* * *

At the Dec. 1st meeting of the Wollaston Alliance the program will be in charge of Mrs. Frank A. Page and Mrs. Chandler W. Smith which promises to be very enjoyable as they are well competent to make much of the afternoon's subject "Great Hymns and their Writers."

* * *

The household economics committee of the Milton Woman's club has arranged an interesting program for the winter. The next demonstration lecture will be given by Miss Nellie Ewart of Arlington Nov. 29, on "Soups and Breads."

* * *

Mrs. Mary E. Atkins, president of the Medford Women's club entertained many guests at a meeting of her club last week when Miss Leila Simons read Edmond Rostand's play "The Princess Far Away." Among the guests were: Mrs. Pfeiffer ,ex-president of Hyde Park Current Events club; Mrs. Chandler Smith, ex-president Quincy Women's club; Mrs. Richardson, ex-president of the Home club of East Boston; Mrs. Phillips of the Fortnightly club, Sharon; Mrs. Dow, ex-president Philergians of Braintree; and Mrs. Dennett, president of the Arlington Women's club, and one of the directors of the State Federation executive board. These ladies formed part of parliamentary class conducted by Mrs. Harriet E. Shattuck last winter, and have held many enjoyable reunions together. At the last one, held in the Robbins Spring house in Arlington this fall, a permanent organization was formed with Mrs. Chandler Smith, president; Mrs. Mary E. Atkins, vice president; Mrs. Phillips, secretary; and Mrs. Plummer of Lynn, treasurer, Mrs. Proctor of Boston, was elected historian.

* * *

Mrs. Dorothy McTaggart Miller of Boston whose rich contralto voice gave so much pleasure in the Westland quartet concerts last season, will sing at the Elsie Leighton Livermore recital of Clyde Fitch's play "Captain Jinks" at Bethany chapel on the evening of Nov. 29th. Miss Marion C. Whiton will accompany Mrs. Miller and also open the program with a piano solo. Miss Whiton is a musician of much ability, and her exquisite playing at the Quincy Women's club last year, won for her many admiring friends in Quincy.

* * *

The assembly to be given on Friday evening of this week at Music hall, is the annual party given by the Quincy Women's club to raise funds for civic improvements. A large party is anticipated. It will open the social season in Quincy and probably be a brilliant affair.

JUNIOR ALLIANCE.

The Junior Alliance of First church held their meeting Monday evening in the Ladies' parlor with a good attendance of members and friends. After the usual opening exercises led by the president, Miss Elsie Turner a short business meeting was held at which it was announced that about $29, would be realized by this society from their efforts at the fair last week. A Flower committee for December was then elected, Misses Catherine Saville and Bee Morrison being chosen. It was also voted to buy flower vases for the church with part of the fair money.

The speaker of the evening Miss Mary C. Wiggen of the Consumers' league was then introduced who held the closest attention of her audience throughout her interesting talk. After a short introduction of her subject Miss Wiggen said all probably knew something of the cruel wrong of child and slave labor and something of the Consumers' league. She cited one product as an example of slave labor namely cocoa. One-seventh of the cocoa we drink is made by slaves some of them mere children stolen and put to work. England and Germany have refused to drink this cocoa but America still accepts it.

As an example of child labor she asked, How many people you hear, returning from Switzerland tell of the beautiful laces, etc., bought at such very low prices. Do they know or do they stop to think why it can be sold so cheaply? Do they know that little children work ninety hours a week with the equivalent of four cents in our money for those ninety hours' work?

Coming nearer home Miss Wiggen compared several states in regard to child labor shorter hours and better conditions. She said there were five states which had rigid laws concerning ages and eight hours' working a day. Massachusetts was by no means the most careful in this respect, especially was the general public interest lacking. She mentioned one little fellow she knew working in a cut-glass factory inhaling that consumptive giving dust which with modern appliances could have been prevented if the public had demanded it. The little fellow a short while before was strong and well but his lungs were now slowly becoming deceased.

Miss Wiggen then asked, What are we to do? First we must cooperate. There were three ways to do this. First have the employers cooperate. From this source however it was quite conclusively proved little or no help could be depended upon. Some of course were interested, for instance the moving picture men had cooperated to have all their slides inspected. Second was the cooperation of employees. But our Trade unions have shown the impractibility of this. The employees demand wages, hours, etc., without reason and in a hostile manner.

Third, cooperation of the purchaser. Here lies the real power to bring about lasting results. This Consumers' league was made up of purchasers working to overcome the evils already told of as well as the so called "sweat shop" work. Miss Wiggen then told how the League went to work to remedy the evils. She said her duty was, when a manufacturer wanted the league label on his goods to visit the factory ,thoroughly inspect the wages, hours, ages, pay, cleanliness, light and sanitary conditions. If everything was approved that manufacturer could label his goods.

Some years ago 90 per cent of the factories were thus labeled but today the per cent was much less, and why? Simply because consumer does not demand the label insuring well paid help sanitary conditions and so on. By this Miss Wiggen said she did not mean to wear old fashioned garments because the modern ones were unlabeled but merely for the consumer to express the wish that the garment were labeled. This would help the league and the poor employees more than could be imagined for this reason; the clerk has to report any customer asking for labelled goods and if the majority of the consumers do ask the employer is sure to want to please his customers.

Miss Wiggen then told of the wretched condition of some of the sweat shop people, tailor establishments with only artificial light dirty bakeries, overworked laundresses, little children working at home and so on.

Miss Wiggen ended her talk by impressing upon her audience the great good they could do by always asking for the Consumers' league label.

QUINCY ALLIANCE.

There was a large attendance of Alliance members and guests at the meeting Monday afternoon in the chapel of First church, members of the Wollaston Alliance being special guests.

Announcement was made of a bequest from Mrs. Annie L. Pierce of $100 to be known as the Annie L. Pierce Trust Fund, the interest to be used for Alliance purposes.

Following songs by Miss Emily B. Willson of the church quartet, accompanied by Mrs. Paul R. Blackmur, members of the Alliance gave the drama of Job, the parts being taken by Mrs. Isabelle Davis, Mrs. Henry W. Tirrell, Mrs. E. B. Marsh, Mrs. Charles Bickford, Mrs. George G. Saville, Mrs. Frank S. Davis, Mrs. John W. Sanborn, Mrs. Wilson Marsh, Mrs. William F. Hodgkinson, Mrs . William B. Nichols Mrs. E. C. Butler. Mrs. John Christiansen, Mrs. George T. Magee and Miss Mary Nightingale the last four being messengers.

The afternoon closed as usual with a social hour and tea the hostesses being Mrs. E. B. Marsh and Mrs. W. B. Nichols.

QUINCY WOMEN'S CLUB.

Cloudy skies and the nearness to Thanksgiving did not prevent a good sized gathering of club members at the clubhouse on Tuesday afternoon for the regular meeting, the fourth of the season. Promptly at half past two Mrs. Herbert J. Gurney opened the meeting calling for the secretary's report, which was followed by reports of committees.

In the absence of Mrs. Shaw of the Civic committee Mrs. Gurney stated for her that the committee had for sale the Red Cross stamps, costing one cent, which it was hoped members would buy liberally as the money raised was used in the work of the anti-tuberculosis society. The bright little stamp on letters and Christmas packages was a pleasant messenger.

In the absence of Mrs. Whitcher of the Visiting Nurse committee Mrs. Royal told of the committee extending its work on the line of a diet kitchen where the Visiting Nurse could always find beef tea and simple things needed in her work. The committee could find no spare room or closet at the clubhouse to be used for this purpose and asked if any club member had an extra cupboard or bureau they could send to the club house for this purpose.

Mrs. Bickford for the Art and Literature committee read a letter from the Art Museum in Boston explaining how club members could visit the Museum in groups of twenty and be personally conducted through the vast building.

In the absence of Mrs. Wade, Miss Mary L. Hinkley announced that Mrs. Wade had gone west for a few weeks and the cooking lectures held at the club-house on Friday afternoons would be postponed until January. All those holding tickets could use them then and single tickets could also be secured then for the lectures.

Mrs. Tenny for the Arts and Crafts committee invited all to inspect the exhibit of photographs in the Arts and Crafts room also to patronize the exchange in the Visiting Nurse's room.

Mrs. Parks of the Program Committee made an appeal for a needy family for Thanksgiving.

Miss Turner for the Philanthropy committee said the Young Women's club was such a success it was doubtful if more girls could be accommodated because of lack of room.

A vote of thanks was extended to Mrs. Lucius W. Lawton for the gift of the sideboard in the tea rooms which she loaned the club at the time the house was renovated and which had been of great use to the Hospitality committee.

The by laws which have been under consideration for two months by a committee, will be read at the Dec. 14 meeting and brought up at a later meeting for consideration and adoption.

Mrs. Bishop one of the delegates from the club to the Federation meeting at Brockton Nov. 11th gave a comprehensive report of the day; the greedings and hospitalities extended by the Brockton club; also a brief sketch of lectures and discussions of the morning and afternoon sessions.

This closed the business for the afternoon the program being in charge of the Home Economics committee, Miss Hinkley making the announcements. For the musical part of the entertainment which was in charge of Mrs. Nickerson was a trio of piano, violin and cello, the artists being the Misses Alexander of Presidents hill. Their selection was received with appreciative applause and many would have liked more.

Mrs. Mary J. Lincoln the speaker of the afternoon said it was like coming home to see so many familiar faces in the audience as she lived for several years at Wollaston. Her subject the "Simplicity of Living" proved an interesting one and one if taken to heart and lived up to would surely do away with much of the strenuousity of life. She said have a singleness of purpose. Few women dare to come out boldly and live simply. There was a neighborly rivalry, to have as good or better. Have an honest home without pretence. Don't have the house too large or too good to live in. Have it all usable and comfortable and don't insist on everything being in its own particular place. Never buy things you do not need or things not genuine. Unless it was an extra burden have pretty things about the rooms in all the rooms. In the kitchen simplify by having things handy. Have table appointments in the dining room simpler, less dishes, less flat silver and above all have simple nutritious food. Rich foods were bad for the health and took time to prepare. It is impossible in a brief account to bring out all the strong points emphasized by Mrs. Lincoln, but one important factor was cheerfulness. Nothing would so simplify life as a cheerful disposition. In closing Mrs. Lincoln said to simplify classify, jollyfy and glorify life to reach the highest ideal and to make life a blessing.

Tea was served during the social hour by the Hospitality committee, Mrs. C. C. Hearn and Mrs. William L. Russell being hostesses. The pourers were Mrs. N. G. Nickerson, Mrs. C. S. Adams and Mrs. Albert E. Avery assisted by club members whose names commence with B.

Many visited the Arts and Crafts room and were loud in praise of the exhibit of photographs as arranged by Mrs. W. W. Jenness, Mrs. George Taylor, Mrs. Herbert W. Beattie, and Mrs. Arthur F. Capen . Some fine as well as cute pictures were exhibited including landscapes, houses and people. The gift room exchange in the Visiting Nurse's room was well patronized as was also the food exchange in the committee room.

DINNERS TO THE NEEDY

Johnson Fund Allows Many to be Sent

Overseer of the Poor James H. Elcock, is busy today sending out baskets of good things to the worthy of the city, that they may have an enjoyable dinner. Mr. Elcock says that the demands this year have been more numerous than usual, and that he will have to send out between 90 and 100 baskets. Each basket besides containing a turkey, will have a peck of potatoes, turnips, onions, celery and cranberries.

Some days ago, Mr. Elcock issued an appeal for funds and as a result, $30 has been forwarded to him to use at his direction. This in addition to the C. C. Johnson fund will enable him to see that no worthy family goes without a Thanksgiving dinner.

Unfortunately there are always some who apply for turkeys who are not considered to come within the meaning of the terms of the bequest of Mr. Johnson, and these have to be refused. Every case reported to the overseer is carefully looked into and no worthy family is overlooked.

BRIEFS

Lester Clee, the boys work director at the Y. M. C. A., is ill at the Association rooms.

The no-school signal at 7.30 this morning was a welcome sound for the school children.

The sixty-fifth annual meeting of the Massachusetts Teachers' association is to be held Friday at Worcester at the English High school. There will be morning, afternoon and evening sessions.

Wendell H. Hull, chairman of the Ward Five hospital collection committee, has completed the work of collecting in that ward and has made his report. A substantial sum was realized.

A letter has been received from Daniel Nelson formerly of Hall place and member of the Bryant A. C., stating that he has received a furlough from the battleship Wisconsin of the U. S. N., for this week and will be home to witness the game between the Bryant's Arawarners and the Hardy, A. A.

Paul Revere Woman's Relief corps has had an interesting contest under the leadership of Mrs. Alberta Hewson chairman of the executive committee which ended Tuesday evening, netting the corps $26. Mrs. Albert Meyers of Rosemont street, Dorchester carried off the honors and was presented a turkey and all the fixings.

ELMENDORF "THE SUDAN."

At Tremont Temple next Friday evening and Saturday afternoon Mr. Dwight L. Elmendorf will continue his series of lectures on "The Gates of the East." In this the third lecture of the series, Mr. Elmendorf will take as his subject "The Sudan." In preparing for this lecture Mr. Elmendorf enjoyed especial facilities for photographing the scenes about the Great Dam built to check the flow of the Nile and the pictures he will introduce will give his audiences a vivid idea of the immensity of this structure. Among the examples of ancient architectural work to be shown in this lecture are reproductions of the exterior and interior of the great temples at Esna and Edfu and the double temple at Kom Ombo. After studying the great rock temple at Abu Simbel Mr. Elmendorf will show his boat journey to Wady Halfa where the Sudan is entered by railroad across the Nubian desert to Abu Hamed and thence to Khattum. It may be well to call attention to the fact that there are still desirable seats for sale for both Friday evening and Saturday afternoon at these lectures.

PORTLAND BOATS SAFE

False Rumors That One Had Been Wrecked

There were many rumors about City Square this morning in regard to the steamship Bay State of the Boston and Portland line, that the steamer left Boston last night and that nothing had been heard from her since that time. The fact is, however, that the Bay State is securely tied to her wharf in Boston.

From Thomas G. Smith of Quincy, who represents the express company that operates on this line of boats the Daily Ledger learns that the Bay State left for Portland Tuesday night. When near Thatcher's island she ran into a northeaster. With some difficulty the captain put about and came back to Boston. Mr. Smith says that he can vouch for the truth of his story, as he was on board the Bay State this morning.

The Gov. Dingley of the same line of steamers left Portland Tuesday night as usual and arrived in Boston this morning on schedule time. The captain of the Gov. Dingley is Levi Thorn, who is well known to many Quincy people. Capt. Thorne says that it was a rough night but as he ran before the storm he experienced no trouble.

WOLLASTON LEARNS

Of the 1915 from Dr. Edward Cummings

"Boston—1915" was the subject of Dr. Edward Cumming's of the South Congregational church, Boston, in his address before the Wollaston Congregational Men's club on Tuesday evening.

The speaker said he was glad to help along an understanding of the movement and in opening told of the various charitable and other institutions at present in force which tend toward the betterment of conditions in Boston.

Continuing, Dr. Cummings said the verdict that religious, economic and sociological history teaches is that the only successful kind of life is that of the family. The only organizations said the speaker, which are to any degree successful are family organizations. If we should run our business as a great industrial family it would be more successful and many of its problems would be solved.

Ministers said Dr. Cummings know a great deal about the past and future and very little about the present. It is the same way with our schools and colleges. In order to make useful citizens we must teach them how to meet the problems of life.

The object of the "Boston—1915" movement is to make Boston the best city that it can possibly be made. The date 1915, he said, simply stands for the time when certain problems will be solved.

The program of the movement briefly outlined will be as follows. Beginning this year by holding an exposition and engaging the interest and cooperation of everyone possible it will next year deal with the transportation problem; in 1911, with the tenements and housing, and so on until in 1915, a half a dozen of the fundamental problems have been tackled.

Roman Grecian and all other previous civilizations have died because they were unable to find the law of success, and did not realize that it was not material riches that count.

First, said Dr. Cummings, comes the material riches of a nation, then the decay of morals, and then the death of its civilization. There is no doubt, he said, that our own civilization is sick and slowly dying of the same disease that affected Rome and unless we take this seriously and devise a remedy the nation is surely doomed.

Dr. Cummings referred to the 1915 Exposition as the most remarkable that has ever been held in this country and described in detail many of its various exhibits.

As a guest of the club was Rev. Carl G. Horst of the Wollaston Unitarian church, who asked the blessing. The usual roast beef dinner was served.

FAVORABLE TO CANAL

Quincy Representative Returns from Convention

Frank Fessenden Crane, the dock and water front commissioner, returned Sunday night from the convention of the Atlantic Deeper Water Ways Association at Norfolk, Va. He is enthusiastic over the convention, which he says was not only filled to the brim with enthusiasm, but was also very largely attended. Mr. Crane was cordially received by the representatives from the south and west, and was made to understand that the canal from Narraganset Bay to Boston harbor stood in the front rank.

The government survey for this canal is now being made, but it will be next spring before it will be completed, and the report submitted. Then congress will be asked to make an appropriation to build it. As this is the first canal to be surveyed the chances are greatly in favor of the appropriation being made.

While at the convention, Commodore Crane hob-nobbed with all the big guns of the country, including President Taft, beside whom he stood on the reviewing stand during the parade and reception given the president.

Mr. Crane is preparing an exhaustive report of the convention which will be forwarded to the Mayor, and will probably be published in Saturday's issue of the Daily Ledger.

LAST DAY FOR NOMINATIONS

Some of Papers Out Not Yet Filed

Up to the present time, James H. Broughton, who took out nomination papers for Councilman at large; and William J. Sullivan, who took out papers as an "Anti-Graft" candidate for Mayor, have not filed their papers with the City Clerk. The time for filing these papers expires tonight, but should either of these two gentlemen hold back their papers until the last minute it is doubtfull if they would be received as the Registrars would not have time to look them over. Some doubts are expressed if they will be filed at all.

The Registrars were in session Tuesday night and passed upon several papers.

These placed in nomination William T. Shea as a Citizens candidate for Mayor; Alfred H. Gilson and Charles A. Hadlock, as Councilmen at large, and D. J. Seward McCurdy as candidate for the City Council from Ward Two, the Quincy Point ward.

KEEPING IN TOUCH WITH HOME

THANKSGIVING time is particularly sacred to all New Englanders. Then it is that family ties are welded more strongly than ever before.

The old folks are thrilled once more with joy and happiness when their children come back to the old home for Thanksgiving dinner.

At this time there is nothing like the TELEPHONE for getting the family together and in aiding in making all the arrangements incident to the homecoming.

Then, too, if any member of the family is unable to be present at the reunion, he may send his personality and cheering voice over the telephone wires to the gathering from and to any point within the scope of the great Bell Telephone System of the United States.

BATTLESHIPS TO SAIL

Vermont, New Jersey and New York to Leave Boston

Work is dull at the Boston navy yard and the Transcript says:

Evidently there is not much sentiment attached to the conduct of navy yards, for many of the Charlestown Navy Yards' manufacturing department men will receive discharge cards as Thanksgiving reminders. Some already have theirs and from now until Thursday they will be visiting the pay office for their envelopes. It is not an uncommon thing to have such discharges immediately before Christmas, a little earlier than usual. Anyway, the men say, they come at a bad time for those who are without resources and who will have little to cheer them at Thanksgiving.

Three hundred and fifty men are to be laid off this week. The officials announce that this is due to "lack of work," as contrasted to the overtime rush of a few weeks ago, when the men not only were worked longer hours than regularly, but the Government had to pay them one-half more for the extra time.

Work on the battleship New Jersey and the armored cruiser New York is almost completed, and both ships, together with the battleship Vermont, are under orders to sail next Monday for the fleet rendezvous. There is still considerable work to be done on the Vermont, but that is about all the ship repairing work there is in hand at the yard. The scout cruisers Salem and Birmingham are both under orders to sail Dec. 4. No large amount of work remains to be done upon them.

No official announcement has been received from Washington as to when the work will begin on the battleship Illinois. She is out of commission, under orders to be completely remodelled a task which will take nearly two years and cost more than $1,000,000. Unless orders to begin work are received within two weeks it is expected that the present working force will probably be cut in halves before the middle of December. There are about 2,500 workmen in all departments at the yard.

BRIEFS

Mark Twain's Daughter Becomes a Wife—Spinster at Seventy-four at Work Forty Years—An Educator at Eighty.

THE marriage of Miss Clara Clemens, daughter of Samuel L. Clemens (Mark Twain), to Ossip Gabrilowitsch, the Russian pianist, at the home of the bride's father in Redding, Conn., Oct. 6 was of more than ordinary interest. There was a bit of romance in the courtship that resulted in a wedding. About a year ago Mr. Gabrilowitsch saved Miss Clemens' life in a runaway. Some months later when he underwent a serious operation in a New York hospital Miss Clemens was an anxious caller, and following his recovery they were together a great deal of the time, but there was no formal announcement of the engagement until a day or two before the wedding. Then only close friends of the bride were let into the secret. Both Mr. and Mrs. Gabrilowitsch have attained fame in music, the bride having made her debut as a vocalist three years ago. Another interesting incident in connection with the wedding was that the officiating minister, the Rev. Joseph H. Twitchell, pastor of Asylum Hill Congregational church of Hartford, married Miss Clemens' parents thirty-nine years ago. The bride and groom first met in Vienna eleven years ago while both were studying music in that city.

Woman Ticket Agent Forty Years.

Miss Harriet L. Hartwell has been ticket agent at Waltham, on the Fitchburg division of the Boston and Maine railroad, for nearly forty years. In order to be at her post on time she rises every week day morning at 3:30 o'clock, reaching the station an hour later. She returns home at 7 in the evening. On Sunday she is again at her post, but for half a day only. Her home is half a mile from her work, but she walks the distance summer and winter. All the responsibilities of the situation are hers. She keeps the books and is the custodian of all moneys. Her only assistant works but a few hours each day. Miss Hartwell has but few vacations, and holidays are her busiest ones. The remarkable thing in connection with her history is that she is seventy-four years old. She is a member of no organization and seldom leaves her home after returning from her work.

An Octogenarian Educator.

Fraulein Angelica Hartmann of Germany recently celebrated the eightieth anniversary of her birth. She was the recipient of felicitation and presents from the kaiser and other members of the imperial family and from many friends in Europe and America. Fraulein Hartmann is the mother of German's industrial schools and kindergartens. Through her efforts the ideas of the great Froebel have been realized in the fatherland and emulated in other countries. She is the daughter of a Lutheran minister and in her girlhood was a governess. That was sixty-eight years ago. Her work then suggested that which has made her famous all over the world, and especially in all educational societies. After she had established the kindergarten system she organized the Karl Schmidt institute, a sort of normal school for the training of kindergarten teachers. She has been blessed with health nearly all the time and is active mentally and physically. She is still president of the Froebel society, which she organized.

Womens' Orders In England.

No order to which women were eligible existed in England until 1862, when the Order of Victoria and Albert was founded. It is composed of four classes, the first and second exclusively confined to members of British and other royal families. The third class are all peeresses and the fourth other ladies.

MOUNTING PRINTS.

Good Advice For the Amateur Photographer.

By far the most effective method of mounting photographs is that in which the print is superimposed upon a series of art shades of paper and otherwise known as the multiple system.

This system consists of mounting the photograph upon a series of papers, each to a varying extent smaller than the one immediately below it, the result being that a border or borders of varying width show round the print, thus giving it an environment in keeping with its color and characteristics.

The series of papers which are specially manufactured for this method of mounting are of many shades and thicknesses and possess very fine and suitable surfaces, varying in texture from rough canvas downward through all the shades of grays, browns and greens, so that one must be very difficult to please who cannot find something to exactly suit his requirements.

These nature papers, to use the correct term for them, are obtainable in various sizes and thicknesses as well as in a specially thin substance called "paste on tints." A very convenient size of mount for quarter plate pictures is 10 by 8 inches, although 8 by 6 inches is by no means unsuitable for the purpose in view.

It is, however, advisable to keep to one size of mount.

Having made a number of prints, each on suitable paper and trimmed down to the required size, they are ready for mounting. A supply of nature paper in various tints and thicknesses, a roller squeegee, some sheets of clean paper for pasting upon and a pot of good photo mountant of the kind specially manufactured for the purpose will be needed.

Having selected the print, which we will assume is on platinotype or bromide paper, it will be found that grays are the most suitable colors to mount this upon. Take, therefore, four or five pieces of "paste on tints" and a thick 10 by 8 inches sheet as a foundation, place one or two of the lighter or darker pieces upon it with the print upon the top, observe the effect by examining one of the corners and keep varying the width of the art papers showing under the print until a satisfactory combination has been secured. It may be that the print is a nice little seascape with a sailing boat and good clouds and a soft effect generally. It will probably look well with a very narrow dark border upon a wider light one of gray, and the foundation may be of a color somewhere between the two. A very little experience will be necessary to enable the right combination to be found.

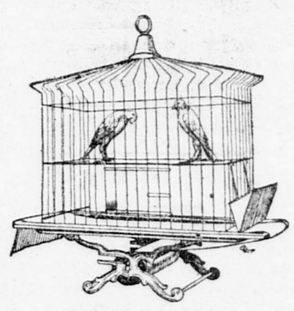

In the case of warm prints, such as toned bromides, sepia platinotypes, etc., there is an infinite range of colors available from straws down to the darkest of browns.

The mountant should be used sparingly, the best plan being merely to paste round the edges of the tints and photograph to the extent of about one-quarter of an inch, not more, running the paste round with the finger. There will be then no risk of cockling, or, if preferred, only the top edge of the print need be pasted down.

FOR YOUR BIRDCAGE.

A Simple and Clever Invention That Saves Much Trouble.

A recent invention provides a very convenient means of removing the paper in the bottom of a birdcage and replacing it with a new strip. The arrangement is such that if desired the paper may be changed without removing the cage from its suspending hook. As shown in the accompanying illustration, the birdcage is provided with two downwardly extending hangers, which also serve as legs for the support of the cage when it is placed on a table or the like. These hangers have inwardly extending slots that terminate in depressions which form bearings for the spindles of a paper roll holder. The paper from this roll extends over one edge of the cage and thence along the bottom of the cage to the opposite edge. At the point where the paper enters the cage a hopper is secured in which fine gravel is stored. When it is desired to change the paper in the cage the soiled strip is drawn out and torn off on the edge of the cage bottom, which is sharpened at this point. The fresh length of paper which is thus brought into the cage is covered with a thin layer of gravel, which is fed out of a slot in the bottom of the hopper. Thus by a single and very simple operation the cage is cleaned and refitted with fresh paper and gravel. The hopper for gravel is held in place merely by two hooks and can therefore be removed when desired. The paper holder also can be readily removed owing to the slots which connect with the bearings. This affords a quick method of replacing the roll with a new one when the paper is exhausted.

THE NEW ATTACHMENT.

THE KEY OF TEBALDO

Curious Messenger of Death Invented by an Italian.

TRAGIC LEGEND OF VENICE.

Unique Weapon With Which the Man of Mystery and Murder Sought to Slay His Way to the Hand of the Woman He Loved.

The chronicles of Venice tell that in the earlier part of the seventeenth century a certain stranger, a man of dark and sinister aspect, arrived in the city. His name was Tebaldo. He appears to have been a man of unruly passions, of great intellectual power, but one whose talents found their chief outlet in crime.

One day he observed a beautiful girl leaving church, attended in a manner which showed she belonged to a family of high degree. She was, in fact, the daughter of an ancient and noble house. He fell violently in love with her. Though far removed from him in station, his blind passion took no count of this fact, and he determined to sue for her hand.

There proved to be, however, a more insuperable obstacle to his suit. The girl was already betrothed to another, a young nobleman of almost equal rank and fortune. The knowledge did not deter Tebaldo, who boldly presented himself before the girl's parents in the capacity of a suitor for her hand. As might have been expected, he met with a curt and unceremonious rebuff.

The repulse rankled in his mind. Enraged beyond measure, he shut himself up in his own house and there secretly studied a means of revenge. Profoundly skilled in the mechanical arts, he allowed himself no rest until he had invented a most formidable and death dealing weapon. This was a large key, the handle of which was so constructed that it could be turned at will. When it was thus turned a secret spring was disclosed, which, on being pressed, launched from the key head a fine needle or lancet. The latter was of such delicate construction that it penetrated the body of the victim and buried itself deep in the flesh without leaving any external trace.

The marriage of the betrothed couple was fixed to take place in the principal church in Venice on a certain day. Before the ceremony Tebaldo, cunningly disguised, stationed himself at the church door armed with his diabolical weapon. As the bridegroom was about to enter the building the concealed watcher pressed the spring and sent the deadly steel lancet into the breast of his victim. The young nobleman had no suspicion of injury at the moment. In the midst of the ceremony, however, he was seized with a sharp spasm of pain and sank fainting on the steps of the altar. He was hurriedly conveyed to his home, where the leading Venice physicians were summoned to attend him. In spite of their unremitting efforts he sank and died, nor were they able to discover the nature of the mysterious and fatal seizure.

With the removal of his rival, Tebaldo once more presented himself before the girl's parents and renewed his request for her hand. Their refusal to listen to him sealed their doom. In what manner he accomplished it is not known, but within a few days both had been done to death in the same sudden and mysterious fashion.

The exalted rank of the victims created a profound sensation, and when, on examination of the bodies, a fine steel instrument was found in the flesh terror became universal. The citizens feared for their lives. The utmost vigilance was exercised on the part of the authorities, but as yet no suspicion fell upon Tebaldo.

The bereaved girl retired to a convent, where she passed the first months of mourning in sorrowful seclusion. Tebaldo, however, sought her out in her retreat and begged to speak to her through the grating.

His dark, evil face had always been displeasing to her, but since the death of her betrothed and parents it had become repulsive. When, therefore, in the course of the interview he pressed her to fly with him he met with an instant and indignant refusal. Her scorn stung him to the quick. Beside himself with rage, he brought his deadly weapon once more into play and succeeded in wounding the girl through the grating, the obscurity of the place preventing his action from being observed.

On her return to her room the girl felt a sharp pain in her breast. Examination of the spot showed that it was dotted with a single drop of blood. Physicians were hastily summoned. Taught by past experience, they wasted no time in vain conjecture, but cut into the flesh and extracted the slender steel, thus saving the girl's life.

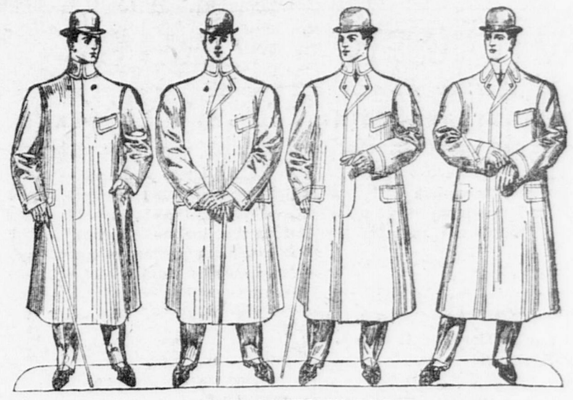

The dastardly attempt occasioned a public outcry. The visit of Tebaldo to the convent became known and caused suspicion to turn upon him. The emissaries of the law descended suddenly upon him, his house was searched, and there the abominable invention was discovered. Swift justice followed, and he ended his days upon the scaffold.

The key is still preserved in the arsenal at Venice.—Chambers' Journal.

BRIEFS

The Copeland club hold their annual sunlight party Thanksgiving day.

Pickwick club has a theatre party next week Wednesday evening.

The meeting on Monday evening of the Brotherhood of the Presbyterian church will be for business and a social time.

The practice of making Washington street near the First church a feeding stable is becoming rather of a nuisance. There is scarcely a noon but half a dozen or more teams are hauled up there feeding.

The Elliot club of Wollaston meets next week Wednesday evening with Mrs. Lewis. Inventors will be the subject discussed, part one by Mrs. Nickerson and Mrs. Thompson and part two by Mr. and Mrs. Pinkham.

BOSTON OPERA HOUSE.

The third week of the season at the Boston Opera House promises to keep up the high record already established at Boston's new temple of music. The repertoire for the week is a most interesting one and while some of the operas are repeated music lovers will have an opportunity to hear at least two that have not been given here for some time. Tonight (Wednesday) Alice Nielsen, who returns from remarkable artistic success with the Metropolitan Opera Company in Philadelphia and New York, will be heard again as Mimi in "La Boheme "with Constantino as Rodolfo and Matilde Lewicka as Musetta. "La Boheme" will be repeated Saturday night at the debutante performance when Ruby Savage will make her first appearance as Mimi, and the cast will be practically the same except that Vincenzo D'Alessandro will sing Rodolfo.

On Thursday evening there will be a double bill. "I Pagliacci" will be given with Matilde Lewicke as Nedda, and "Cavalleria Rusticana" will follow with Mme. Boninsegna in the role of Santuzza.

Another important event of the week will be the presentation on Friday evening of Donizzetti's opera in three acts "Don Pasquale," The role of Norina will be sung by Alice Nielsen, who has already won great distinction in the part, not only in this country but also at Convent Garden. The Don Pasquale will be Antonio Pini-Corsi, who has the reputation of being one of the world's greatest grand opera comedians.

For Saturday matinee the announcement is made that Mme. Lydia Lipkowska will return for a single performance of Delibes' "Lakme." Since her appearance here Mme. Lipkowska has made her New York debut and won a success that is seldom accorded a new singer in that city.

The splendid Sunday night operatic concerts are already an established and popular institution at the Boston Opera House.

Indispensable.—There are some simple remedies indispensable in every family. Among these, the experience of years assures us, should be recorded Perry Davis' Painkiller. Wasted All Three Wishes.

An Irish legend has it that a good fairy once visited an old couple and promised them that any three wishes they would make would be granted. After racking their brains for some time in an endeavor to discover what they desired most the couple decided to visit the county fair to see if something there would suggest what they wanted. They did so, and, after rambling around all day and not seeing anything that exactly suited them, toward evening they found themselves before a display of kitchen utensils. Among them was a soup ladle, cheap, but likely to appeal to a woman, so the old woman in an absent moment said, "Oh, I wish I had one of those," and immediately she had it. The old man was so enraged because his wife had thoughtlessly thrown away one valuable wish that he retorted, "I wish that was stuck down your throat," and immediately this was done. Thereupon he was at once sorry at what he wished, and the only thing left to do was to wish the ladle out again. So all three wishes went for naught.

How Snakes Get Over Ground.

Although the snake appears to have no legs or feet, it may be said to be practically supplied with upward of a hundred pairs of them. In fact, each joint of the backbone bears a pair of ribs, which are mobile and have their points attached to the inner surface of one of the large transverse, platelike scales which clothe the undersurface of the body. Thus by the movements of the ribs attached to it each plate can be drawn forward and its margin applied to the ground. By the successive application of these multitudinous plates the body can be drawn forward in a straight line without its being thrown into undulations from side to side. But rapid movements are also effected by such undulations, and serpents can by pressure and appropriate muscular action climb trees and sometimes spring forward. They also swim easily by lateral flexures, but no serpents advance by vertical bendings of the body, though they are so often drawn in such an attitude.

Bolivia's Electrical Storms.

Owing to the peculiar topographical formation of Bolivia, electric and other phenomena are of constant occurrence, the principal zone where such disturbances take place being the Altiplanicie, or grand plateau. As the atmosphere is heavily charged with electricity both in summer and winter, dry or electric storms are of frequent occurrence both on the plateau and in the valleys. Before the rainy season sets in electrical accumulation becomes considerable on the plateau region, its most violent manifestations taking place toward the eastern section of the tablelands. An electrical storm in these regions is always a most imposing spectacle, as the tremendous force of the wind, almost equal to a hurricane, and the heavy electrical accumulation in the clouds produce terrible atmospheric explosions and violent detonations, while the surface of the ground sparkles and crackles.

Vacation by Think.

Make a compact with your soul to take a vacation and the way is simple. There are portions of your time over which you have control. Probably your evenings and your Sundays are your own. Set apart a month or so. Eliminate the self assigned tasks for those hours out of business and give yourself up to the pursuit of pleasure. Get others to join you. Call a vacation club. Adopt a real vacation spirit and go in for a good time. Resolve never to speak of work out of business hours, but to fill to the full that time which is your own with recreations which most appeal to you. Did you ever sing? Sing now. Did you ever paint? Paint now. Remember nature's gifts to you and find occasion to praise nature within as well as without.—Exchange.

Upon which the lady whose gown had been trodden on, turning round, replied with a sweet smile:

"Pardon me! It was the angel who stood in the way and the ass which spoke."—Tit-Bits.

The Battle

By Cleveland Moffett

Copyright, 1909, by G. W. Dillingham Co.

"How beautiful you look this morning!"

"Sorry that I cannot stay," she added, "but I must be at the factory at 8."

Margaret looked at her, a little astonished at the curt tone in which the girl spoke, but she answered readily:

"I will write down the instructions for the treatment of the child."

"All right," said Jenny, almost insolently. "Goodby."

She stared for a moment into her unconscious rival's eyes, then left the room, slamming the door behind her.

"She's a little crude sometimes," explained Philip apologetically, "but she has a good heart."

Their eyes met; Jenny was forgotten. Philip drew Margaret, unresisting, into his arms, against his mighty chest.

She looked up into his eyes and offered him her tenderly smiling mouth. He kissed her fondly, reverently, thankfully.

The woman was the first to return to the present and the work at hand. She softly, regretfully, freed herself from his clasp.

"This is most unprofessional. I am here to look after a sick child."

She glanced about the room.

CLEVELAND MOFFETT

"Where is the patient?" she asked.

"In there. Do not go in yet, Margaret."

She temporized, half unwillingly.

She sighed a little to herself at the untidy tenement house room and contented herself with saying:

"This is one of John J. Haggleton's tenements, is it not?"

"Yes. He is Moran's landlord. You should hear him talk about him—the robber!"

"And this is 'lung block,' where there is so much consumption?"

"It is."

"And that little child is coughing already? No wonder—in such an atmosphere!"

She seated herself in Jenny's chair by the table, Philip taking the one he had occupied when the poor girl had made her confession to him.

"Just think!" he began. "We meet in a boarding house where I belong and you do not. Naturally I fall in love with you because you are a splendid, beautiful girl—yes, you are—and all of a sudden—bang!—you have promised to marry me."

She glanced at him curiously.

"You big, strong man, why do you say that I do not belong in a boarding house?"

"Because you are a lady. You never lived in a boarding house before, did you?"

"No."

"You were never brought up in the expectation of having to earn your own living?"

"No. My father was ruined in business, and I had to choose between marriage and earning my own living."

"I knew it," said Philip with quiet conviction. "I—I never loved a woman before, and this—your love means everything to me. I am only a workingman, but I am going to rise. It's in me. I know it, and if you will trust me"—

"I do trust you Philip, dear."

"I feel that I can do anything if I have you to work for—anything! I have had a wonderful feeling of power lately since—I have come to love you—Margaret. I will gain the big prizes for you—the money prizes of this world."

"I do not want money, Philip. That is why I took up nursing, because my family would have insisted on my marrying a stupid idler who happened to be rich. Listen, dear. I love you because you are working for something better than money—because you have high ideals and because you give time and thought to helping the poor."

His face glowed.

"We will help the poor in a big way, you and I, before we get through," he promised her.

"That's what makes me love you, dear," she repeated.

A whistle sounded in the street. Philip stood alert.

"That's Gentle's signal," he announced—"you know, dear, my friend at the boarding house?"

"He has a fine face. I like him."

"He has been like a father to me. I owe everything to him. My real father"—

He broke off abruptly, his face clouding over.

Gentle entered, took off his cap and bowed to Margaret. He was a man some fifty-five years old, of middle height, stockily built, and tanned by exposure. He was simply dressed in a blue pea jacket, dark trousers and heavy boots.

He was a diver, like Philip, who had learned under his guidance the trade of which he was now an acknowledged master.

The girl gave him her hand.

"I have just seen the captain," said the old diver, turning again to Philip. "He says you can have the day off. I told the captain this was a special day for you."

Gentle looked at Margaret with an apologetic smile.

"Does Mr. Gentle know?" she whispered to Philip.

"Oh, yes; I know, Miss Lawrence. Philip has no secrets from me—and such a secret. My children! You know," he added in explanation to the girl, "he is like a son to me."

"Then I will be like a daughter," she rejoined promptly and sweetly.

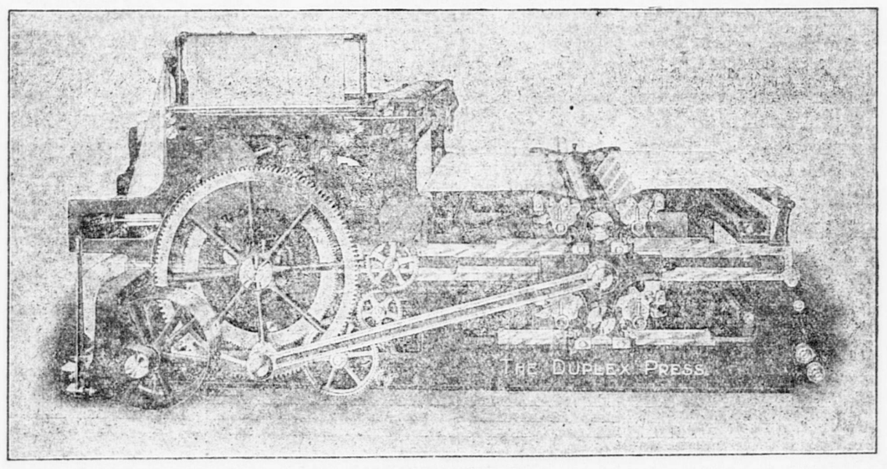

"My daughter Margaret!" Gentle exclaimed. Then he added reverentially: "It was the name of Philip's mother. She would be very happy at the choice her son has made."

OUR NEW PRESS.

Herewith we show a picture of our new newspaper press. It is a press that feeds itself and delivers its product into the hands of the carrier boys completed and ready for delivery to our patrons. No man has to stand up at a rack and feed the papers through. The paper comes in a big roll which unwinds mechanically and the paper passes through the press, being printed on both sides and folded in perfect form. The press is a "Duplex Press" made in Battle Creek, Mich., by the Duplex Printing Press Co. It does what was formerly a half day's work in thirty minutes and makes no unnecessary bluster about it. It goes about it as quietly and as considerately as the family doctor would go about the amputation of an infected leg. It is a press that will entertain you if you will drop in and see it work some afternoon about 3 o'clock. The great rolls of paper which feed it weigh a thousand pounds, and if the roll of paper were stretched out its full length you would have a strip of paper 70 inches wide and over two and one half miles long without a break in it. Our new press is capable of delivering 6,000 printed and folded papers each hour, so you see they hurry through. It has been a long step from the old hand press to the present day electrically propelled perfecting presses, but in no department of mechanical progress in this country has the progress been more decisive or more rapid than in the development of the printing press.

It is not an infrequent thing for a prospective customer to bring a two days' job into a printing office and evidence a willingness to sit down and wait while you "run off a few." Well, our new press will "run off a few" a whole lot quicker than the old press would do it and in that way it will help our delivery service. The press as it stands on the floor weighs about thirteen tons, 26,000 pounds. A special concrete foundation was built for it a concrete lined pit extending under the full length of the press in order that the press men may get under the machine to oil it up, thread the paper through and look after the mechanical adjustments that can be reached from no other place. The roll of paper unwinds as the press starts into operation and weaving its way through the press is driven over the beds that carry the type forms, and two cylinders pass quickly over the paper pressing it down upon the forms and perfecting the impression. The paper hesitates just long enough over the beds to receive the impression and then journeys on its way towards the folder and out into the waiting hands of the carrier, an automatic numbering machine ticking off the accurate registration of the output.

The press left Battle Creek after being thoroughly tested on Oct. 13, (which we by no means regard as a hoodoo but as an omen of good luck) and reached Quincy Oct. 20 being only a week on the road. A special machinist was sent on from Battle Creek and under his skilful direction we are enabled to come out Monday with a brand new eight-page Ledger.

The Ledger is indebted to Dimock & Patten of Wollaston for preparing the room for the press, the cement pit, and foundations and to Mr. Buzzell who had charge of the work; to the Electric Light Company for motor and connections; to the W. A. Bradford Co., for steam fittings; to William Loud & Son who moved the press so carefully and expeditiously from the freight car and lastly but by no means lest to G. W. Duncan the expert machinist who came on from Battle Creek to set up the press. He is young and boyish looking but he knows presses all right and wheels, and all manner of pieces of machinery slipped into place like magic under his direction.

NO MORE GRAY HAIR.

It is easier to preserve the color of the hair than to restore it, although it is possible to do both. Our grandmothers understood the secret. They made and used a "sage tea," and their dark, glossy hair long after middle life was due to this fact. Our mothers have gray hair before they are fifty, but they are beginning to appreciate the wisdom of our grandmothers in using "sage tea" for their hair, and are fast following suit. The present generation has the advantage of the past in that it can get a ready to use preparation called Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur. As a scalp tonic and color restorer, this preparation is vastly superior to the ordinary "sage tea" made by our grandmothers, and it can be bought for 50 cents and $1 a bottle at almost any first-class drug store, or will be sent direct by the Wyeth Chemical Company, 74 Cortlandt St., New York City, upon receipt of price.

McDEVITT VS SMITH

Will Line-up in Great Football Game

Much interest is taken in the foot ball game between the Copeland and West End clubs tomorrow morning at 10.30 on the Ward Four playgrounds, on account of the fact that Councilman McDevitt and Councilman Smith will play against each other as they have been placed in the line up.

Smith has decided that McDevitt's team will not win, and McDevitt has decided Smiths' team won't win, so it has the promising of a great game. The line up:

FULLBACKS PLENTIFUL.

Line Smashers In Demand Despite Opening of Game.

Since the introduction of the new rules football has seen the production of a long list of wonderfully good fullbacks. That this has been due, in part at least, to the distribution of the defense is in a measure true. The line plunger of the past few years has had less resistance to overcome than had the great backs of the old game. Still, in a game in which ends and tackles, broken field runners, quarterbacks and speedy players of every description are supposed to come into their own the record of the heavier line smashers is a brilliant one.

Last season saw a number of excellent fullbacks, Coy, Hollenback, Marks,

MINOT, HARVARD'S STURDY FULLBACK.

Walder and Ver Welbe being but a few of the many effective players in that position. This year there are Coy and Marks again, while Minot of Harvard, Hart of Princeton and Hutchinson of Pennsylvania are newcomers of more than ordinary ability. Minot, next to Coy, is the leading fullback of the 1909 season. As a line plunger he is one of the greatest Harvard ever had.

BROWN, NEW A. A. U. HEAD.

Chicago Man Who Has Succeeded Sullivan Veteran Sculler of Wealth.

Everett C. Brown of Chicago, who has succeeded James E. Sullivan as president of the Amateur Athletic association, is one of the leading athletic authorities of the country and at the present time is president of the Chicago Athletic association. His term will end in January, but on account of his executive ability and popularity it is considered likely that he will be re-elected at the next annual election. He joined the C. A. A. in 1901 and at once became a factor in the organization. He was elected a director in 1903 and became chairman of the athletic committee, a position which he held until elected president in 1908. He also served on the house, finance and other important committees of the Cherry Circle organization. Last year he was elected vice president of the National A. A. U.

IT'S "GUNBOAT" SMITH NOW.

Frisco Sports Discover Pugilist Whom They Hail as Future Champion.

"Gunboat" Smith is now the sensation of the Pacific coast because he floored Jack Johnson in the training quarters when the latter was preparing for his contest with Ketchel. The spectacular sailor lad, who has already cleaned up three husky heavyweights—Joe Collier, Lew Taylor and Young Peter Jackson—is hailed as a coming champion by the Frisco disciples of swat. Smith is now after a bout with Mike Schreck.

University of Missouri students will give jiu jitsu wrestling a trial.

Harvard, Yale and Princeton have played Penn and Carlisle at various times, but all have dropped both these teams as opponents. Now Pennsy and Carlisle are thinking of dropping each other.

Before next fall the question will be considered by the rulemakers whether to the list of officials shall be added one to decide when players are "all in" and to send exhausted or apparently exhausted players to the side lines.

Up and down the lines at the two last Minnesota games a young chap was to be seen rolling another in a wheeled chair. The chap in the chair was Johnstone, the plucky Gopher halfback, whose leg was broken in the game with Nebraska. So excited did he become at times that he could hardly keep his fractured leg at rest.

NO CHANGE IN SHERMAN ACT

Present Condition Loaded With Political Dynamite

THE STANDARD OIL DECISION

Does Not Kill All Trusts, as Restraint Must Be Proved of Every Combination—Prime Purpose of Government Fulfilled If Oil Company's Officers In Good Faith Carry Out Decree of Circuit Court

Washington, Nov. 24.—No important or sensational moves by the administration are expected to follow the decision of the United States circuit court at St. Paul declaring the Standard Oil company a combination in restraint of trade.

It has been broadly assumed that the decision was of such a blanket nature that all holding companies could be put out of existence under it, and that a vigorous campaign by the administration could easily result in dissolving all the trusts in the country. This view does not represent the attitude of the administration. Said a man who does represent it:

"The decision of the circuit court is effective and satisfactory as far as it applies to the Standard Oil company, but notwithstanding this decision every anti-trust case must stand on its own merits. The holding company as a legal entity is not attacked by the decision, and wherever suit is brought to dissolve a holding company the prosecution must prove that the combination is defacto operating in restraint of trade. The decision is extremely important as indicating the possibilities under the Sherman act, but it does not of itself make all trade combinations illegal."

Neither it is believed here that criminal action will be instituted against John D. Rockefeller and his associates. The object of the prosecution was to resolve the Standard Oil combination back into its constituent parts, and it is held that if the officers of the company in good faith carry out the decree of the court, which compels a separation of the various branches of the business, the government will hold that the prime purpose of the action has been fulfilled. Should the officers of the company ignore the decree their status might be different.

An interesting result of the decision will be probably to put a quietus upon the purpose of the administration to amend the Sherman act at the coming session of congress. While it cannot be said that President Taft has abandoned this purpose, influential members of congress have pointed out to him that the country will be very suspicious of any legislation which seeks to weaken a law under which it has been found possible to dissolve the Standard Oil trust.

The real defect in the law is that it is too drastic and makes illegal even the most harmless of trade restrictions; nevertheless the lawyers understand this point better than the populace, and with the approach of a congressional campaign in which Republican supremacy in the house is threatened, the leaders may think it well to wait before correcting a condition which, however unjust, is loaded with political dynamite.

COPPER TRUST HALTS

Magnates Are Somewhat Disturbed by Standard Oil Decision

New York, Nov. 24.—The proposed $800,000,000 copper combine has been held up, temporarily at least, according to Wall street reports, until lawyers for the interests concerned can figure out the effect the Standard Oil decision will have upon the merger which is contemplated.

Prominent corporation lawyers are quoted as advising that it would be unwise to proceed with the merger plans in the face of a decision as drastic and apparently prohibitive as that of last week.

AT QUINCY INSTITUTIONS

People Thoughtful for Happiness of Others.

Thanksgiving was distinctively a day for home gatherings. By the thoughtfulness of others it was a happy day in most of the homes of Quincy as those successful remembered those less favored. It was a day of praise and feasting. The day was observed in the institutions as well as the homes.

AT QUINCY HOME.

Thanksgiving at the Quincy Home was observed after the usual custom. Only such work as was necessary was performed by the unfortunates, and the day was given over to one of pleasure. Overseer Elcock had served at noon a genuine New England Thanksgiving dinner and all had their fill of good things. There were turkey and vegetables of all kinds, not forgetting the time honored New England plum pudding. After dinner the inmates followed such amusements as their tastes dictated.

AT SAILORS HOME.

At the National Sailors Home the old salts observed the day as one of rest. The regular routine work of the sailors was soon over, after which they gathered in the smoking room and whiled away the time until dinner was announced. The menu served included turkey and vegetables, pies etc. After dinner the old sailors gathered in the recreation room, and as they smoked their pipes discussed some of the stirring events of their lives when they trained the guns on the enemy.

AT SNUG HARBOR.

At the Sailors Snug Harbor at Germantown a similar program was carried out. A typical New England dinner was served, and only necessary work was performed. The storm of the night before formed the chief topic for the conversation. Many of these old sailors had weathered such storms often during their lives, and the recounting of experiences would make interesting reading. Others were silent and smoked their pipes while absorbed in deep thought, and apparently their minds were far away from their present surroundings. Still others amused themselves with checkers and other games.

AT THE HOSPITAL.

The unfortunate sick at the City Hospital were made, as far as possible, to forget their illness on Thanksgiving day. The Young People's Society of Christian Endeavor of Atlantic sent flowers to the hospital, which served to brighten up the rooms. Although ill, all of the patients except two, had the privilege of enjoying some of the good things served on Thanksgiving day. Many received visits from their friends and the day was thus made bright for all.

THANKSGIVING IN CHURCHES

Notable Union Services at Quincy, at Wollaston and by Swedish Churches

Considering the inclement weather there was a good attendance Thanksgiving morning at the union service at Bethany Congregational church. The speakers were Mrs. H. J. Gurney, president of the Quincy Women's club, Theophilus King and Rev. James Matheson, pastor of the Water Street Presbyterian church. In addition to these Rev. Dr. Edwin N. Hardy pastor of the church Rev. Ellery C. Butler of the First church, Rev. Richard Armstrong of Christ church, Rev. R. J. Davis of the Calvary Baptist church and Rev. A. M. Thompson of the United Presbyterian church were present and assisted.

Madame Beale Morey, presided at the organ, and the musical selections were by Mrs. Emma S. Moore. The services opened with a prayer by Rev. Dr. Hardy followed by scripture reading by Rev. Richard Armstrong. Reading of the Governor's proclamation by Rev. Ellery C. Butler and prayer by Rev. R. J. Davis.

Dr. Hardy spoke briefly, stating that he was pleased to see as many present on so stormy a day. It was evident that services of this kind had a place in Quincy and our civic life and he believed that there was an awakening in Quincy for better things. He stated that the offering to be taken would be given toward the anti-tuberculosis movement and urged a generous response.

The first speaker was Mrs. Gurney who Dr. Hardy said would speak on what women can do to better Quincy. Mrs. Gurney spoke for fifteen minutes in an interesting manner bringing out many truths in regard to woman's place in the community. She said in part:

The Daily Ledger desires to give the address of Mrs. Gurney at length, and has therefore postponed it until Saturday. The Quincy Women's club is proud of its president and her address which was well received.

Theophilus King was introduced to speak on what men may contribute to the city. Mr. King said that his chief answer to the question was common sense. It teaches us that God is the giver of all things. People of centuries ago do not begin to have what we have today. The telegraph, telephone and railroads, the comforts that are brought to our homes at a small expense. The newspapers that tell us of the world, a whole barrel of water for a cent. Think what comes to every home under the present development. So our hands ought to reach out in thanks and praise to our Heavenly Father for these things. There is no greater need than common sense to secure the larger expansion of things. In all of our public affairs it is common sense in the end that has to be found out and utilized. He believed that we had begun something that would do more for religion, for the directors of the Y. M. C. A. have decided that the time has come to break down the barriers of that association. The bringing nearer together of our churches is another good thing. Let us be careful to call the best there is in us that we may present to the world the common sense as we see it.

Rev. James Matheson was the last speaker, his topic being what the church is doing for our city. In opening the speaker said the first business of the church is a broader field. To know the conditions and needs. To live what we know and teach. No one need to go hungry if he makes known his wants. The church should be optimistic. He had little use for the church that was running down the church and the city. He believed there were better things here than have ever been brought out.

Speaking of recent magazine articles on why people do not go to church, he said they were written by people who did not go to church and were doing harm to the church and to Quincy. If we can not give an optimistic view of Quincy give nothing. We should have a deeper breadth of thought. Our lives to be bigger and broader should not travel by narrow gage. Let every man travel on the broader rail. Let us act in cooperation with the press of our city and give them the best thought we can give. Here the speaker took occasion to speak of the church column which the Daily Ledger has inaugurated as a regular Monday feature, and to say a word in commendation of it. The press he said can do much.

Continuing, he said, strive for social salvation. There was a new religion in the world today, the saving of another man with yourself. Save yourself by saving other men. Save the other family. The Kingdom of God is made up of households. Do nothing in your parlor you would not do in the open. Preach personal effort and purity.

This closed the speaking and the singing of America by the audience concluded the program about 11.30.

AT SWEDISH CHURCHES.

The Swedish Congragational, Baptist and the Methodist churches had Thanksgiving services together at the Congregational church Thanksgiving afternoon. Five ministers and two missionaries too part and a large congregation was present.

AT WOLLASTON.

Opening with the reading of the Thanksgiving proclamation by Rev. A. Edwin Clattenburg the union Thanksgiving service of the Wollaston churches was held in the Congregational church on Thursday afternoon. On the platform were: Rev. Joseph Walther of the Wollaston Baptist church, Rev. Carl G. Horst of the Wollaston Unitarian church, Rev. Wesley Wiggin of the Methodist and Rev. E. A. Chase of the Wollaston Congregational church.

The congregational singing was particularly inspiring with Miss Ada F. Hinckley presiding at the organ. The devotional services were led by Rev. A. Edwin Clattenburg, Rev. Wesley Wiggin and Rev. E. A. Chase.

Rev. Joseph Walther, who delivered the first address, took for his text, Deuteromony XVI: 13, which reads, "Thou shalt observe the feast of tabernacles seven days, after that thou hast gathered in thy corn and thy wine."

This, said Mr. Walther, is the oldest Thanksgiving proclamation on record and the most original, it coming from God through the prophet Moses. There were three reasons for its issuance, said the speaker. First, to bring the people into a realization of their indebtedness to God. Another reason is that the thought might be instilled of our relationship one to another resulting in the kindling of patriotism. The third reason is that we may recognize our stewardship and not merely worship God and think of our fellow men but bring practical tributes of praise to God. Mr. Walther went on to tell of our personal relationship to God, and closed with a poem of Thanksgiving by Will Carlton

Rev. Carl G. Horst declared that while it was an excellent idea to set apart this day for Thanksgiving, we should make every day a Thanksgiving day and not only make it a Thanksgiving day but a Thanksliving day. It is only by service that the highest in mankind may be developed. The final test will be: What service has a man rendered? All can serve whether well known and influential or not. We need the help of influential men but we also need the help of the common people who render a more in conspicuous but not less useful assistance.

The service closed to the grand old strains of the tune "America," and a benediction by Rev. E. A. Chase.

SEVERE STORM SWEEPS CITY

Damage Along the Shore--Wires Down--Trains Late

In common with other New England cities Quincy experienced one of the most servere storms Wednesday afternoon and night that has visited us for years. It was a reminder of the memorable storm of 11 year ago during which the steamer Portland was lost with all on board. It began to rain Wednesday morning and while the weather predictions were for rain clearing weather was looked for later in the day. Instead of abating however the storm seemed to increase in fury as the day advanced. The temperature fell to a freezing point and the rain was turned to sleet that cut like a knife as it struck the face. Then came snow and quite a little fell. Accompaning the storm was a high northeast wind and those obliged to be out found it unpleasant.

The tides were unusually high, and it is fortunate that it was not a high course of tides or much damage would have been done. At Quincy Point the morning tide rose to the planking on the bridge, and the waves as they dashed against the bridge threw its spray over the street cars as they passed. At the Neponset bridge it was equally as bad.

Along about 5 o'clock the snow turned to a hard rain, and then the sidewalks and streets were covered with an inch or two of slush. Wet feet were common, and doubtless many head colds resulted.

It continued to rain hard all the evening. In fact the storm seemed to increase in fury. The streets as a rule were deserted by all except late shoppers and these were in reduced numbers.

It was a hard blow to storekeepers who always have a good holiday trade the night before the holiday. It continued to rain all night. Thanksgiving day was far from being pleasant. While the rain at any time was not as hard as the day before, it was cold and disagreeable. All day and evening the rain continued and this morning there was but little change but the wind has abated.

Hundreds of Quincy people employed in Boston had a tough time getting home owing to the derailing of a car in the South Terminal yard. The accident happened shortly before 5 o'clock and it was after 7 o'clock before the first outward train arrived, and in it passengers were packed like sardines in a box. All the trains were late. Many finding the trains blocked took the electric cars for Quincy. All went well until Neponset was reached. Here it was found that the City of Boston had not yet found time to repair the bridge,and passengers had to walk several hundred feet to get the Quincy car. The short walk over the bridge was a tough one, as the storm swept across it in all its fury. Many uncomplimentary remarks were hurled at the negligence of Boston officials.

The Old Colony street railway had a large car stationed on the Quincy end for a waiting room in which passengers could wait. One started for Quincy another delay was caused. One of Bruce & Myatt's express teams had broken down on the tracks completely blocking one rail for an hour or more.

At Houghs Neck the small craft that had not been hauled up for the winter had a hard time riding out the gale. The power boats of A. Lane, William Norteman and Dexter Page filled and sank. The Dot owned by A. H. Acorn was blown ashore at the foot of Bell street but suffered little damage. The shore was strewn with drift wood and quite a number of families secured wood enough to last them all winter.

At Wollaston and Atlantic beaches the same conditions prevailed. Fortunately all of the craft at these places that were in the water were taken to place of safety early in the day. The tide was unusually high and the waves rolled in like great mountains throwing spray high into the air. A large amount of drift wood was washed ashore.

GIFTS TO CHURCH.

A Thanksgiving service was held at the Swedish Lutheran church, Thursday evening, when an altar painting was unveiled. This oil painting was presented to the church by Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Johnson of Gotland street, members of the church. The painting was unveiled by their little son, while the choir sang a song appropriate to the occasion. Thanks were extended to Mr. and Mrs. Johnson and also to Mr. Kelberg who presented the church with a number-board of finest material.

BRIEFS

Even the staunchly built houses did not escape in Wednesday's storm, for the rain beat in around the doors and windows, especially on the east side where the wind blew a gale.

The many friends of Mr. Samuel Richards of Common street will be sorry to learn that he is again obliged to go to the hospital. Mr. Richards was confined to the hospital for many weeks a little over a year ago and has not been very well since that time.

The regular monthly meeting of the Fowler chapter of the Methodist Brotherhood of the Hall Place M. E. Church will be held in the vestry of the church Monday evening. Rev. Mr. Lee will speak on the subject of the Brotherhood Missionary work. All men, whether members of the brotherhood or not are invited to be present.

This evening there will be an old-fashioned class meeting in place of the regular prayer service at the Hall Place M. E. church. Methodism is proud of her class meetings and the help which many thousands of her people have derived from these services. The one held last month was thoroughly enjoyed by the many people present.

NEW Y .M. C. A. BUILDINGS.

The Atchison, Topeka & Santa Fe Railroad Company is to erect railway Y. M. C. A., buildings at its division points between Kansas City and the Pacific coast, says the Kansas City Times. The railway company has appropriated $150,000 for this purpose. The intention of the company is to provide well-kept places where its employees may rest when out on their runs. Several of the new Y. M. C. A. buildings, of which there are to be seven in all, will be in the mountains where at present the accommodations are inadequate. At many of these places not only the regular trainmen stop, but extra brakemen also spend much of their time. Each one of the new buildings is to contain reading rooms, where magazines will be provided bathrooms, sleeping rooms and all the accommodations of a hotel except a dining room. The new buildings are to cost about $20,000 each.

WEDDING BELLS SILENT

Won't Ring For Girl's Third Venture Until Court Investigates

Defiance, O., Nov. 26.—Too much publicity spoiled the plans for the third marriage of Mrs. Bessie Speck-Williams-Larcum, aged 19, an intended Thanksgiving event.

The girl was divorced Monday in probate court from her second husband, Edward Larcum, and through a newspaper reporter confided to the public that she intended to be married at once to Benjamin Hill, who had advanced money to pay for the divorce proceedings.

When Hill applied to the same court for a marriage license it was refused and he was informed that no formal decree of divorce would be withheld while the court looked further into the circumstances.

The girl was first married at the age of 16 to Percy Williams and after a divorce married Edward J. Larcum in January last.

TURKEY IS "REAL FOOD"

President Taft's Comment After Enjoying Thanksgiving Dinner

Washington, Nov. 26.—Sated with the 'possum dinners and elaborate banquets he was forced to face in his recent trip from coast to coast, President Taft sat down to a family Thanksgiving dinner.

The piece de resistance was a turkey that was raised on a Rhode Island farm and looked almost mountainous in its proportions. Mr. Taft smiled genially when the dessert was served. He leaned back in his chair.

"Thank goodness," he sighed, happily, "I've had a dinner at which I haven't been compelled to make speeches and where no reception committee lurked in the background. I've enjoyed food—real food—and I haven't had to work to get it."

Shafts In the Deadly Mine at Cherry Are Sealed

Cherry, Ills., Nov. 26.—A meeting was held here between the entire state mining board, Battalion Chief McDonald of the Chicago fire department and W. W. Taylor, general superintendent of the Chicago, Milwaukee and St. Paul company's mines.

McDonald, after an inspection of the work being accomplished by his men who had been throwing water in the east bottom of the mine for more than a week, announced that the water being thrown into the mine was not reaching the fire, and that he saw no use of throwing in any more water, as it was merely filling up the third vein. Bodies of the known dead in that vein are already inaccessible, owing to the quantity of water already thrown into the mine.

After considerable discussion it was unanimously agreed by the meeting that the only thing that would make possible ultimate recovery of the bodies in the mine was to seal up both the main shaft and the air shaft and keep them sealed until the cutting off of the air smothered the fire. The shafts were thereupon sealed.

BUDGET HANGS FIRE

Question of Vote In British House of Lords Not Yet Decided

London, Nov. 26.—There was no vote on the budget in the house of lords Thursday, owing to the length to which the debate is being drawn out.

Lord Balfour of Burleigh occupied most of the session in a plain spoken speech, in which he declared that the lords were menacing their future existence as a body by running counter to the wishes of the people on the question of accepting or rejecting the budget.

Debate will be resumed next Monday, and the question of a vote in the upper house is still undecided.

TRIAL OF LOMBARD

It Will Begin Next Week If Defendant Is Able to Appear In Court

Cambridge, Mass., Nov. 26.—John B. Lombard, former town treasurer of Framingham, may be arraigned here next week on a charge of embezzlement of money from the town, in connection with outstanding notes of $820,000.

Assistant District Attorney Weir states that in the event of Lombard's condition being sufficiently improved to warrant his coming to Cambridge, the trial will probably start then.

So far as can be learned the condition of Lombard is improving.

Ammonia as Substitute For Liquor

Worcester, Mass., Nov. 26.—The members of the Worcester branch of the W. C. T. U. are now preparing a petition which will be submitted to the mayor and Chief of Police Matthews to have the ambulance and patrol wagons carry spirits of ammonia for reviving victims of accidents, instead of brandy and whisky.

FARMING WITH DYNAMITE STICKS

Experiments of "Shooting" the Soil Tried at Pittsburg, Kan.

WATER SAVED BY IT FOR USE

Nearly Three Thousand Persons Saw the New Means of Loosening Earth, and Many Farmers Plan to Use the System In Their Fields—Effect of Each Shot.

Farmers in the vicinity of Pittsburg, Kan., are greatly interested in the scheme of using dynamite to loosen up the subsoil of fields being prepared for cultivation. Three thousand persons watched a demonstration of the system given on the grounds of the Manual Training Normal school at Pittsburg a short time ago.

Dr. William Hamm of Vienna was the first to recommend the use of explosives in agriculture. His idea was that the lowest strata of the soil could not be reached by any of the agricultural implements now in use. To demonstrate the feasibility of the idea a number of interesting experiments have been conducted by agricultural departments over the United States, among them that conducted by the Kansas department a few days ago.

A Gardener a Convert.

The demonstration at Pittsburg was so satisfactory that many farmers are planning to follow up the scheme on their farms as soon as possible. Henry Brinkman, a gardener of Pittsburg, means to dynamite his ground this winter and have it ready for the spring crop. If all the farmers who are talking of trying the explosives in farm work really make the attempt it will soon be a common occurrence at Pittsburg to drive out in the country and see farmers "shooting" their ground as steadily as if they were following the plow.

The place of demonstration on the manual campus was a piece of ground 100 by 280 feet. One-half of the shots were fired by battery, and the other half was by fuse. The dynamite was in stick form and a quarter of an inch in diameter. It contained 25 per cent of nitrate ammonia powder. The sticks were placed twenty-five feet apart, and the holes were drilled to a depth of three feet. The shots fired by the battery seemed to give the best results, seemed to shake the ground better and leave it in a better condition, as the whole surface of the ground was shaken at once.

Each Shot Leaves a Reservoir.

The soil was thoroughly pulverized for a distance of six feet from each shot. Cracks ran in each direction from the shots, showing that the explosives had left fissures in every direction under the ground as well as on top.

It is estimated by those who have experimented in this class of ground culture that each shot leaves a reservoir where several hundred gallons of water can collect and furnish moisture from the bottom instead of receiving all of the moisture from the top, the water thus carried into the ground feeding the roots or whatever is planted much more readily than if all the water came from the surface. The ground that was "shot" at the Manual Training Normal school will be planted in trees and shrubbery.

EXHIBIT OF U. S. WOMANKIND

Feminine Exposition Is Planned In Berlin For 1910.

The American woman in all her glory is to be shown at Berlin's American exposition in 1910. Preliminary arrangements for such an exhibit were recently set in motion by Mrs. Norma Knupfel Lutge, who, despite her Teutonic name, is a native born American, having a short time ago left New York to take up her residence in Berlin.

Mrs. Knupfel Lutge's plan is to exhibit feminine America to Germany from all sides, particularly in the home, in order to show that the hausfrau flourishes in the United States too. She proposed to transplant the interiors of model dwellings, representing every stratum of Yankee womankind, from the working women to the society queen characteristic of America. Kitchens will be seen in the act of turning out such world famous specialties as flapjacks, corned beef hash, pumpkin pies and other things mother used to make.

Special attention will also be bestowed on American feminine toggery, which is so admired by German and other European women. The department, in short, is to be a composite of the things which make American women, in the estimation of their husbands, the best housekeepers, the best dressers and all around best women of the world.

Promoters of the exposition welcome Mrs. Knupfel Lutge's project enthusiastically and promise to devote to the department enough space to make it one of the prime attractions of the show.

First of Its Kind.

The Radium institute of Heidelberg, Germany, to be opened before the end of the year, will be the first of its kind to begin actual work, as an endowment has been raised for it.

TRUNK HAD FALSE BOTTOM

Women Who Tried to Smuggle Laces Into Boston Are Detained

Boston, Nov. 26.—The expectations of the local customs officials that the recent prosecutions in New York of dressmakers caught smuggling would turn the surreptitious trade in women's goods to this port were confirmed yesterday.

A young woman passenger in the second cabin of the Saxonia was caught trying to smuggle a large quantity of valuable handmade laces and embroideries, valued at several thousands of dollars, in a false bottom trunk shortly after the liner docked in East Boston. The woman and two other women who were traveling with her were detained by the authorities.

The trunk in which the laces and embroideries were concealed was a brand new one, apparently made just for the purpose to which it was put. The false bottom was cleated down like a genuine one.

INQUEST IS ORDERED

Result of Inquiry Into Demise of Twenty-Four Little Ones

Providence, Nov. 26.—A coroner's inquest into the cause of death of twenty-four babies in the Myrtle baby home was ordered after a consultation between Attorney General Greenough and Medical Examiner Allison of East Providence. The babies died between June 17 and Nov. 15.

Dr. Allison held an autopsy on the body of the latest victim and said that the case warranted further investigation.

Harmon E. Babcock, coroner, will set the date for the investigation shortly. Dr. Allison said: "I have conferred with several persons and the attorney general and find the inquest necessary."

TRUSTEES ACCEPT HER RESIGNATION

Mrs. Stetson Severs Connection With New York Church

New York, Nov. 26.—The resignation of Mrs. Augusta E. Stetson from membership in the First Church of Christ, Scientist, of which she was the former leader, and from the board of trustees of the church was accepted by the board at a special meeting. With the acceptance of her resignation Mrs. Stetson loses an annual salary of $5000.

In acting on the resignation the board adopted a resolution declaring that "we accept with unfeigned regret, and only at her urgent request, the resignation of Mrs. Augusta E. Stetson as a member of this board of trustees." A glowing tribute is paid to her work.

Cook's Secretary Sails With Explorer's Proof That He Reached Pole

New York, Nov. 26.—Another chapter in the North Pole controversy was opened with the departure of the data and reports which Dr. Frederick A. Cook compiled in the Arctic for Denmark, where they will be submitted to the University of Copenhagen as proof of Cook's assertion that he reached the North Pole on April 21, 1908. Walter Lonsdale, Cook's secretary, is taking them.

The records and reports contain about 30,000 words and the university authorities will probably be several weeks going over them.

STORM SWEEPS THE COAST

Full Extent of the Damage Wrought Is Not Yet Known

Boston, Nov. 26.—Reports of damage done by the severe northeast storm of Tuesday and Wednesday continue to come in. They indicate that the whole Atlantic coast, from Maine to the Carolinas, has felt the effects of the wind-lashed waves, and wrecks or rumors of wrecks are plentiful.

In and around Greater Boston there were broken trolley wires and flooded cellars. The beaches at Revere, Winthrop, South Boston and Dorchester are littered with wreckage cast up by the waves.

MORE MEN LAID OFF

But Little Change In Status of Vermont Granite Lockout

Barre, Vt., Nov. 26.—With the exception of laying off a number of men at the quarries when they quit work Wednesday night, the granite lockout situation is unchanged.

The manufacturers of Barre, Montpelier and Northfield met here to discuss the situation and to consider telegrams that have been received from James Duncan, the national secretary. Nothing was given out for publication, but it was announced that there was no change in the situation.

DISAPPOINTMENT FOR FRANCE

Chagrined by Loss of Military Balloon After Its Value Had Been Proved.

The destruction recently of the French military balloon La Republique, which fell from a great height and was smashed into fragments, while the four members of her crew were killed, has brought great grief and vexation to the minds of the French army leaders. The loss is not, however, irreparable. A day or two after the accident Messrs. Paul and Pierre Lebaudy wrote to the minister of war offering to the army a new dirigible to replace La Republique. The offer was accepted, and the construction is being hurried along. France, besides, has several other military dirigibles.

But the loss of La Republique is still viewed as a most irritating check, if not as a military disaster. It happened at a most untoward time. Never before had army men attached so much importance to the possession of an efficient aerostat, and never before had they been so convinced that La Republique was fairly up to the work required of her. She was a good aerial scout. If France had been engaged in war La Republique would have been of enormous service in campaigning.

The airship had just been tried out in the course of the army maneuvers, and she proved a success. She got into active service in the last days of the maneuvers. She met with an accident on her way to the field of operations, but even this circumstance figures in her favor in the final casting up of results, for the crew attached to her, with some help from the engineer corps, succeeded in making radical repairs without sending her back to the factory. Thus it was established that she was capable of encountering the ordinary hazards of the field and was not likely to be put out of service by minor mishaps. The success of the crew of La Republique in observing the movements of the "enemy" had met with great praise.

THE GREAT PISA CATHEDRAL

Edifice Recently Attacked by Mob Was Begun In Eleventh Century.

The great cathedral at Pisa, recently assailed by a mob of Italians because of rage at the execution of the anarchist Ferrer in Spain, has long been a world's show place.

The famous cathedral, of which the leaning tower of Pisa was a part, having formerly been the belfry, was designed by Boschetto and Rinaldo, famous Italian architects. It was begun in 1063 and was not completed until 1118. In the centuries that followed Pisa was the scene of many violent wars and much bloodshed.

The design of the cathedral is that of a plain Latin cross with an external length of 311½ feet and a breadth of 252 feet. The nave, 109 feet high, is supported by marble arches.

Externally the cathedral has a magnificent facade of four superimposed rows of pilasters and arches and fine bronze doors by Giovanni da Balogna and others.

Near the cathedral stands the round campanile, the leaning tower, which is a fine specimen of Romanesque architecture. This tower is 183 feet high and, counting the cornice at the top, is thirteen feet three inches out of the perpendicular. The walls, which are thirteen feet thick at the base and half as thick at the top, are built entirely of marble. The basement is surrounded by a range of semicircular arches supported by fifteen columns, and above this rise six arcades with thirty columns each.

The baptistry used for the ceremony of immersion is a circular marble structure with a conic dome begun in 1153 and not finished until a century later.

SIR THOMAS' ARGUMENT.

Lipton Says It Is Dangerous to Sail a Racing Yacht Across the Ocean.

Sir Thomas Lipton has come over again to the United States to see whether a race for the America's cup in 1911 cannot be arranged. Sir Thomas has already instructed William Fife of Scotland to draw up plans for a racing yacht and will place another order with Alfred Milne for a second boat, provided his challenge is favorably received. During a recent visit of ex-Mayor Fitzgerald of Boston to England he expressed a willingness to build his yacht on this side of the ocean from designs of British yacht builders. This suggestion is a radical departure from precedents in connection with challengers for the America's cup.

The deed of gift of the America's cup to the New York Yacht club stipulates that a challenger for the America's cup must be made "with a yacht or vessel propelled by sails only and constructed in the country to which the challenging club belongs." This clause, however, may be abrogated by mutual agreement by another clause.

According to Sir Thomas, it is not only impracticable, but also dangerous, to send a racing yacht across the water and that the stand of the New York Yacht club concerning a race for the America's cup is inconsistent with true sport and that, while he does not ask any favors, he is anxious to have such rules as will insure a fair contest without either boat having any advantage. He is willing to build a boat to race under the universal rule, which is the rule that governs all yacht racing here except for the America's cup.

INTERSTATE LAW CHANGED

President In Conference Outlines Suggestions to Congress

READY TO DICTATE MESSAGE

Court to Consider Appeals From Rates Fixed by Commission Is Among Proposed Amendments—Legislation to Prevent Over-Issue and Watering of Stocks—Court Delays to Be Obviated—Railroads May Pool Rates

Washington, Nov. 26.—President Taft devoted an entire afternoon to a series of important conferences, chiefly covering the subject of proposed amendments to the interstate commerce laws.

It is said that he is practically ready now to begin the dictation of this part of his message to congress. There were present at the conference Attorney General Wickersham, Chairman Knapp and Commissioner Lane of the interstate commerce commission, District Attorney Sims of Chicago, who conducted the government's prosecution in the famous $29,000,000 Standard Oil case before Judge Landis, and prominent in other cases dealing with the interstate commerce and anti-trust laws, and Representative Mann of Illinois, chairman of the house committee on foreign and interstate commerce.

It is proposed, among other things, to establish an interstate commerce court of five members to consider appeals from rates fixed by the interstate commerce commission.

The president will also recommend legislation to prevent one interstate railroad from owning stock in a competing line and compelling roads thus owning stock to dispose of their holdings within a given time. Legislation to prevent the over-issue of stocks and bonds and the watering of stocks will be one of the strongest recommendations Mr. Taft will make. The president's proposition will be that no stocks or bonds shall be issued except by permission of the interstate commerce commission after an inquiry has been made into the necessity for the issue.

President Taft believes that one of the great detriments of the interstate commerce law is the delay entailed by litigation in the courts over an order of the commission. In his favoring an interstate commerce court he is backed up by nearly every member of his cabinet and by members of the commission.

The president believes that another change in the interstate commerce law should give to the commission the power to hear and entertain complaints against unjust classification of merchandise for transportation. It is perfectly clear, he declares, that by including articles in the same class, which ought to pay different rates, a railroad can commit exactly the same kind of injustice as it would by imposing an exorbitant rate as to any one class.

The president will recommend that the power of the commission be extended to include not only fixing rates, after complaint, but also readjustment of classification if it proves on complaint to be unjust.

To give the commission power to institute complaints of its own and not to limit it to the consideration of complaints made from the outside, is another of the important changes in the law to which the president and his advisers are devoting considerable attention. The president believes that this authority must be given to the commission to make its work truly effective.

A subject which has given the president and his advisers much concern is the proposal to permit railroads to pool rates. The president takes the position that railroads should be permitted to agree upon traffic rates that shall not exactly be pooling contracts, but shall constitutte agreements as to rates, provided always that such agreements receive the approval of the interstate commerce commission. In this way the operation of the anti-trust law against traffic agreements between railroads will be abolished and for the absolute prohibition of traffic agreements will be substituted a requirement that such agreements shall meet the approval of a properly constituted tribunal.

Alsop Claim Declared Unjust

Iquique, Chili, Nov. 26.—The popular feeling here is that the Alsop claim of the United States against Chili is unjust. An agitation will be made in favor of a boycott upon American importations unless the United States desists from pressing the claim.

Astor Party All Well

San Juan, P. R., Nov. 26.—The American steam yacht Nourmahal, with Colonel John J. Astor of New York and party on board, is still in the harbor here. Astor, his son Vincent and their guests all are well.

Fire Traced to Defective Wiring

Butler, Mo., Nov. 26.—It is now believed that the fire which caused the death of Congressman David A. DeArmond and his 6-year-old grandson started in the attic of the DeArmond home and was caused by defective electric wiring.

BEATS THREE THIEVES

Woman of Weight and Muscle Knows How to Handle Her Fists

St. Louis, Nov. 26.—Mrs. Annie Durkis, a bride of three months, renowned throughout the East St. Louis Lithuanian colony on account of her 200 pounds of muscle and her two-fisted prowess in a fight, battled with three robbers in succession, thrashed two and sat on the third, and then looked about for more worlds to vanquish.

Her "second" in the fight was Miss Julia Zulink, 20 years old, who is to be married in two weeks. Miss Zulink helped sit on the second robber after Mrs. Durkis had overthrown him.

The encounters occurred in a saloon which Mrs. Durkis owned and personally conducted until her marriage. All three robbers are locked up in jail.

SHIPYARDS FOR CANADA

Dominion Government Plans to Build Her Own Navy

Ottawa, Nov. 26.—The cruisers and destroyers for the new Canadian navy will be built in Canada if possible. It is understood that the government feels strongly that the time has come for the establishment of a shipbuilding industry in the Dominion and that the opportunity has arrived with the decision of the government to place orders for a considerable number of important vessels.

Negotiations are going on between the Canadian government and a number of shipbuilding firms for the establishment of one or more modern and thoroughly equipped shipbuilding yards in Canada and there is every indication that an announcement will be made within a short time that a shipyard is to be opened.

THOUSANDS ARE MADE THANKFUL

Boston Salvationists Give Great Spread For the Poor

Boston, Nov. 26.—People's Palace was visited by a great throng of Boston's poor yesterday, where the Salvation Army acted the Good Samaritan to thousands of little mites of humanity as well as grown-ups.

It was the annual Thanksgiving dinner of that charitable organization to the hungry poor of the city, but, unlike the dinners of other years, it was given under one roof and it was the biggest and grandest affair for the poor that has even been held in this city.

The tremendous support given to the Salvation Army this year, despite the serious handicap they were laboring under in collecting their funds, owing to a ruling of the overseers of the poor, made it possible for them to provide a good hearty dinner for 5700 hungry people.

As a result of the success of their efforts, every member of the Salvation Army was jubliant after the last diner had departed.

LICENSE HOLDERS WARNED

Nomination Papers Cannot Be Circulated In Boston Saloons

Boston, Nov. 26.—Holders of liquor licenses were notified by the licensing board that hereafter it would object to the circulation of nomination papers on licensed premises and also to the solicitation on such premises by licensees or their employes of signatures.

The attention of the licensees was also called to a request made July 17, 1906, in reference to the displaying of political posters, portraits, cartoons or advertisements on licensed premises. The board will object strenuously to any such displays.

TO SUCCEED CURRY

Chief Justice of New Mexico Will Be Governor of Territory

Washington, Nov. 26.—Chief Justice W. J. Mills of the New Mexico supreme court has been appointed governor of the territory to succeed George Curry, resigned, and he has accepted the office.

For upwards of twenty years Mills has been a resident of the territory of New Mexico. The new governor's family came originally from New Haven, and the new appointee is a graduate of Yale, class of '77. Mr. Mills was appointed chief justice of the territory in 1898 by President McKinley.

Named For Superior Court

Boston, Nov. 26.—Charles F. Jenney of Hyde Park was nominated by Governor Draper to be a justice of the superior court in place of the late Judge Bishop. Being a judicial appointment, the nomination went over a week for confirmation.

Negro Shot and Burned

Anniston, Ala., Nov. 26.—Ray Rolston, a negro, was riddled with shot and his body burned by a posse of citizens. He had assaulted Mrs. W. C. Cheatwood, wife of a farmer, near Edwardsville. Her condition is critical.

Woman Killed For Eighty Cents

Detroit, Nov. 26.—Mrs. Bertha Story, 60 years old, was found strangled to death in her saloon in this city. The till in which she kept her money was found to be empty. She had been robbed of about 80 cents.

WHAT SAVED THE CHERRY MINERS.

Owe Their Lives to Government's Rescue Corps.

RUSHED TO SCENE OF DISASTER

As Soon as Word Was Received of the Catastrophe Men Trained at Experiment Station In Pittsburg In Use of Oxygen Helmets Were Sent to St. Paul Coal Mine.

It is believed by United States government officers in Washington that the miners who were recently saved from death in the St. Paul coal mine at Cherry, Ill., owe their lives to the work of the government's rescue corps connected with the geological survey. These men, who are stationed at Pittsburg, where the survey has an experiment station for investigating the causes of mine disasters, were rushed to Cherry as soon as word of the catastrophe was received.

Each member of the corps had been trained in the use of what is known as the oxygen helmet, an apparatus that permits artificial breathing in the presence of deadly gases. Equipped with such helmets the government's life savers were able to enter the shaft of the burning mine and fight the fire at close range.

Officials said that had the methods that have been in use in the past been employed the mine shaft would have been sealed until the fire had been smothered for want of oxygen. This, of course, would have meant a delay sufficient to have caused the death of every man under ground.

Much Time Saved In Reaching Miners.

Geological survey officers said that the ability of the government's rescue corps to enter the mine, filled as it was with smoke and gas, saved at least several days' time in reaching the entombed men. To these officers the rescue at Cherry is the most practical demonstration ever given anywhere in the world of the efficiency of the oxygen helmets.

They asserted that this experience would go a long way toward showing mine owners and miners the necessity for having a complete equipment of oxygen helmets at each mine, together with a corps of men trained in their use. It is their belief that hundreds of lives can be saved in this manner and the terrible death rate in American mines thereby reduced to a figure somewhat approaching the comparatively low rate of casualties in European coal mines.

With the government's method this agonizing wait at the shaft for the gas to dissipate is done away with and it is not necessary to pour fresh air into the mine, for the members of the rescue corps in their oxygen helmets can enter any atmosphere, however deadly, and remain for a period of two hours. If there has been an explosion of gas the members of the corps enter the mine at once and look for small fires that usually follow explosions. These fires are extinguished at once, and then the ventilating current is turned on without any danger. In other words, the mine's normal condition is restored at the earliest possible moment, and the men who are in the farthermost recesses of the mine, where the black damp has not yet penetrated, are able to walk out.

The station erected at Pittsburg consists of an explosive gallery, where the powders used in blasting the coal are tested and standardized, and also a large room for the training of miners in rescue work.

Equipment of the Rescuer.

The oxygen helmet and auxiliary apparatus weigh between thirty-five and forty pounds. The helmet is a metallic case inclosing the head with an isinglass front. The helmet proper is connected with tubes leading to two tanks of oxygen, which are carried on the back in a manner similar to a soldier's knapsack, the straps supporting it going over the shoulders.

Each tank contains oxygen sufficient to last one hour. An indicator attached to the oxygen tanks shows the wearer of the helmet just how much time he may remain in the mine. This is absolutely necessary, for if the rescuer has walked half a mile into a mine and it has taken him thirty minutes to traverse the distance he must figure on thirty or forty minutes' time to return.

In addition to the tanks of oxygen, there is a cartridge of potassium hydrogen which takes up the poisonous matter from the breath and absorbs it, thus keeping the oxygen in its purity to do the two hours' work. These helmets are in general use in European coal producing countries and are credited with saving many lives.

Crime Page For Each Newspaper.

Placing all the crime in a newspaper on one page was the idea presented to the Federation of Women's Clubs in annual session at Rochester, N. Y., the other day by Mrs. A. C. Fisk, newspaper and magazine writer. The federation after Mrs. Fisk's address adopted resolutions in favor of the plan, which, if adopted by newspapers, would allow subscribers to tear out the crime page of the paper before their children could read of the murders, robberies, elopements, divorces and other too frank adult doings.

Work for a better Quincy.

Now that Thanksgiving is over it is time to prepare for Christmas. There are many advantages in shopping early, and oftentimes it is more satisfactory to make purchases in Quincy. Trade at home and boom the city.

Not only has Quincy given large "No" majorities in recent years on the License question, but a majority of all the registered voters of the city have been recorded against the sale of intoxicating liquors. It is encouraging to see the "No" vote increasing rapidly each year.

Governor Draper's appointment of Hon. Charles F. Jenney of Hyde Park to the bench of the Superior court will be generally commended. He is eminently fitted for the position. Mr. Jenney was the predecessor of Hon. Eugene C. Hultman of Quincy in the Senate, and always received a large vote in Quincy.

November may not be the best time to inaugurate a sporting page in the Daily Ledger as outdoor sports are practically over until spring, but with bowling, whist tournaments, basket ball, billiards, pool and athletic work at the Y. M. C. A. and High school gymnasiums there will be something doing all winter. Kindly keep the Ledger posted.

That Quincy granite continues to improve in quality, and the supply is inexhaustable, is a matter of pride to the Granite city. When shafts over 28 feet long can be successfully quarried and transported the future of our granite industry is assured. No granite compares with Quincy granite for durability or polish. Congratulations to the Granite Railway Company on its latest output.

Cities do not expect building booms in November, but Quincy is certainly prospering when nearly fifty building permits are taken out in three weeks. An enlargement of the Tubular Rivet works seems to be required almost annually, and a $12,000 addition will allow quite an increase in output. Five other permits were for business purposes and 37 for dwelling houses to accommodate fifty to sixty families. Even then the supply of houses will not meet the demand.

After the two-column letter of Councilman Russell relative to the pay of janitors of the school buildings it would seem as if there was nothing more to be said. He showed very clearly that the janitors were underpaid. But when he says "this matter is not in the province of the Council to deal with, but is entirely under the consideration of the School Committee" we think he errs. It is the City Council that makes all appropriations for city purposes, including the school items. Of late years there has been a disposition on the part of the City Council to materially reduce the estimates of the School Committee, and the department has been compelled to practise economies where it would like to be more liberal. The pay of school teachers is small as well as the pay of janitors. In other departments of the city employees are underpaid, yet there is a law which limits the amount of money which the city of Quincy may appropriate annually for current expenses, and each year the city goes to that limit. To increase the pay of schoolhouse janitors it will be necessary for the City Council to make retrenchments in some other department. Will Councilman Russell please tell where these retrenchments shall be made?

A tunnel for teaming and direct connection between the North and South stations in Boston would solve traffic problems and it is to be hoped the joint board on metropolitan improvements will assist along the project.

Economy seems to be the watchword this winter for states, cities and towns and President Taft sets the example by planning to cut national expenses fifty million. It is a move in the right direction and it is to be hoped money will be saved all along the line.

The advice of Dr. Frank P. Foster in the matter of eating to "Eat what you like and all you can pay for "If you are looking for happiness and a long life, seems like pretty good doctrine but what are you going to do when everything you like costs too much to pay for?

DRIFT OF OPINION.

On the whole, it would be as well if investigation into the sugar scandal were kept out of Congress, and mainly for the reason that Congress will have all it can do to do well what it has to do in a regular way.—Christian Science Monitor.

It is not good for us to have too much success nor to have a too comfortable time. We need the struggles in our youth to develop that which is in us. It is by the struggles and self-denials in our youth that we build up the capital from which we can draw in later days. The young man who draws away from his purpose because the way is hard, is a moral coward. I despise kindly men; that is to say, those men who to attain a purpose are capable of no great efforts or sacrifices.—Rev. Elwood Worcester, D. D.

We should welcome the present unrest because of the promise it brings in of further emancipation of the race. The last century witnessed the greatest material progress in the history of the world, but there was no ethical progress to correspond. No new moral principles were evolved and no new spiritual ideals formulated. The same moral and spiritual principles stand and they are not equal to the demands of present conditions.—Rev. John H. Holmes.

The time has gone by when the publisher of any newspaper, even of the humblest country weekly, goes around asking support out of personal friendship. But the public ought to realize just the same, that the prosperity and progress of its town is judged by outsiders by the kind of newspaper product that is sent out to represent it. A town with poorly printed, ill written ,and generally slovenly newspapers is universally judged to be on the toboggan. A town with enterprising looking sheets gives an impression that there is enterprise in the town that creates the good looking journal. When a man pays down his dollars for a subscription to his home paper, or for advertising in its columns, he is at the same time advertising his home town to the outlying country and neighboring cities. The more a newspaper's subscriptions and advertising increase, the more features the publisher can add ,the faster he can improve his mechanical equipment ,the more nearly can he come to realizing his ideals of newspaper making.—Beverly Times.

An Australian has invented a device which he claims will indicate the location of a wrecked vessel, the date when it is met with the diaster, the depth at which the wreck lies and also the course that the vessel was taking and the port that it was making for when it met with disaster. The apparatus, which is in the form of a buoy, is released automatically from the bridge deck when the vessel meets with disaster, and a wire attachment holds it over the spot where the vessel disappears. The apparatus would prove useful, the inventor claims, should a vessel become helpless in midocean through an accident to her machinery, as specially floating "messengers" could be set adrift in prevailing currents. Such a device would be of value when the vessel foundered in water that was not too deep to be reached by divers. It would also be useful in determining the fate of a vessel and thus reduce the numbers of ocean mysteries. The releasing of messengers would be specially useful. The old method of sending a message afloat in a tightly closed bottle has been so often resorted to by alleged jokers that very little attention is paid to the contents. The messengers mentioned in the claim of the inventor would not be resorted to except by a vessel in absolute distress, and when one was picked up by another vessel it would receive attention.—Lynn Item.

SUPERIORITY OVER ALL

Battleship North Dakota Most Formidable

As the battleship North Dakota is a Quincy product, the people of this city have a right to feel a little more proud of her, even than the people of the country at large. The Sunday Herald devoted a page and one-half to our battleship. See what they said of her:

If the most powerful battleship which Uncle Sam now has afloat should be compelled tomorrow to try conclusions with the most powerful fighting machine which Great Britain has yet put into commission it would be reasonable to expect that the British ship would be the one to strike her flag. This prediction is based upon the weight of the broadsides of the two ships and all other things are assumed to be equal.

The North Dakota is the greatest and most formidable vessel yet built for the United States navy, and the Delaware is practically her equal. England's most-to-be-dreaded ships now in commission are those of the Dreadnought class, of which the Bellerophon and the Temeraire are examples. In a duel between the North Dakota and any Dreadnought yet put on the ocean, there ought to be but little doubt of the outcome. They are practically equals in speed. But the American is the heavier ship and fires two more 12-inch guns to the broadside than does the English vessel.

It is true that the air just now is full of talk about the Lord Nelson and other ships that are to be far more formidable and much larger than the Dreadnoughts. But the Dreadnoughts are the most powerful ships now on the ocean. The other and greater ships are not ready for battle yet. When England does put into commission these heavier and mightier ships the United States will not have to depend upon the North Dakota and the Delaware in the struggle to cope with them.

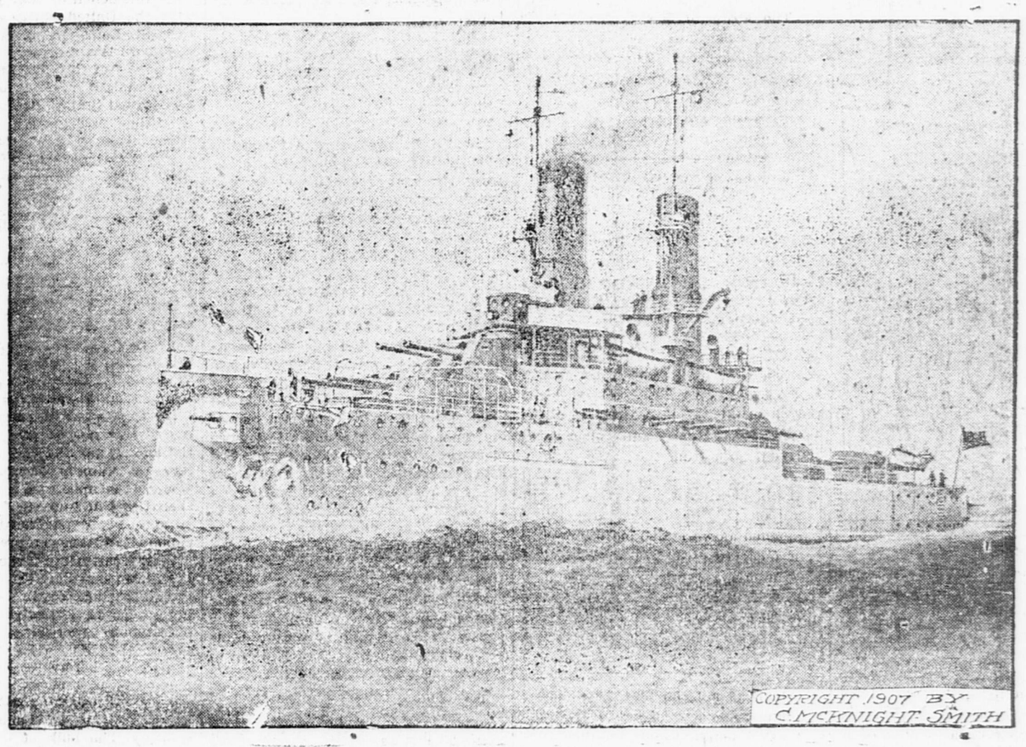

While England is planning and building Uncle Sam also is building and planning. The Utah and the Florida are now building, and they will be much more powerful than the ships of the North Dakota class. Then, too, there have been contracts let within the last few weeks for two ships to which the overworked term "leviathan" may be fairly applied—the Wyoming and the Arkansas. If a comparison were made of the ability of the Lord Nelson and the Wyoming and the Arkansas it would be found that the greatest ship John Bull has yet planned will be overmatched by her American rival.

Now the North Dakota is 510 feet long, her tonnage is 20,000 her speed exceeds 21 knots and her main batteries consist of 10 12-inch and 14-5inch guns. The Temeraire, one of the greatest ships of the Dreadnought class, is not so long within 20 feet, not so heavy within 2,400 tons and while her batteries consist of 10 12-inch and 16 4-inch guns her broadside is inferior at least one-fifth to that of her American rival. In speed the two ships are about equal.

Both ships are equipped with 10 12-inch guns, but the British vessel has a broadside fire that falls below the American's for this reason: The guns in the American ship are mounted in pairs in turrets all in a line down the middle of the vessel while on the British ship the guns also in turrets in pairs, are arranged in a different way. The two turrets at the bow and one at the stern are in a line and can be fired upon either side. But the other two turrets with their four guns are in the waist of the ship and on opposite sides. Therefore the fire of the guns in either of these turrets is restricted to one side of the ship. The Britisher thus has a broadside of only eight 12-inch guns. The North Dakota has her guns so mounted that all the 12-inch rifles can be swung from side to side and thus a total broadside is obtained which is far heavier than that of the Temeraire.

A 12-inch projectile weighs 850 pounds. In addition the North Dakota has 14 five-inch quick-firing guns, seven to a broadside. These carry shells weighing 50 opunds each. They would be fired in actual battle at a speed probably of at least 10 shots each per minute. That would be the total weight of a broadside of this American war machine 12,000 pounds each minute of battle time. Make a similar computation for the Temeraire. Eight 12-inch shells per minute would amount to 6,800 pounds. She has also 16 four-inch guns eight to a broadside. Make a very generous estimate. Suppose they carried shells of the same weight as the American's five-inch rifles and that they were fired at the same speed their total throw each minute would be 4,000 pounds. The broadside would be then 10,800 pounds against 15,500 for the North Dakota.

The personal equation is what always figures vastly in a struggle on either land or water, and it is the thing that can not be estimated in pounds and minutes. But it is well known that the gunners of Uncle Sam have no rivals in the world, and this fact makes the American preponderance all the more impressive.

NOMINATIONS NOT FILED

Papers of Broughton and Sullivan Held Back

The time for filing nomination papers for candidates to be voted for at the municipal election, expired Wednesday night, but none in addition to those filed on Tuesday were received. The only papers out were those of James H. Broughton for councilman at large and William J. Sullivan as "Anti-Graft" candidate for Mayor. These, for some reason, were not filed.

GOOD APPOINTMENT.

Rev. William E. Gardner, rector of St. James Episcopal church of Cambridge, and a former rector of Christ church, Quincy, has been chosen to the position of secretary of the first missionary department of the Episcopal church in the United States. Mr. Gardner is considering the appointment, and it is thought that he will accept. It is reported, however, that he will not leave St. James church until his position has been filled. Rev. Mr. Gardner is a graduate of the academic department of Brown University and of the Episcopal Theological school at Cambridge. During his rectorship in Quincy he made a host of warm friends and it was with genuine regret that he left Quincy for a larger field. His friends now congratulate him on his new appointment.

SELECTING AN OPERA GLASS.

Altho' everybody knows what an opera glass is, and how to use it, not many know how to select one economically.

It is a mistake to suppose that a glass must be good because it is imported, for practically all opera glasses, the very bad as well as the good, are made in France. Some are dreadfully bad, the lenses are unmatched; not centered; not corrected; weakly mounted; the covering is of poor quality, and lacks durability. They are intended for premiums, auctions and "marked down" sales. They are not worth having at any price.

A good glass must have well matched lenses; they should be achromatic, that is, when you look straight through the glass there will be no annoying red or blue fringes around the object looked at. It must be well centered, and strongly mounted to insure durability.

Unless you have a clear idea of the "points" of an opera glass, and how to test them, by far your best course is to go to a thoroughly first-rate house, state what price you wish to pay, and ask to see a selection of glasses at about that price.

You will probably be quite surprised at the assortment of black morocco and brilliant pearl glasses from which you may make a choice. If one style pleases you, you will not be far astray to take that; but if you feel in doubt seek the advice of the selling clerk, who is sure to have had much experience and to be of good judgment. There is one thing you can do; be sure that the seller's name is on the glass. This is not an advertisement, but the responsible guarantee of a good firm.

Opera glasses make very acceptable gifts; everybody who hasn't one wants one. They last a long time, are in frequent use, and are constant reminders of the giver.

QUINCY HIGH SCHOOL

Items of Interest to Students and Graduates

Class 1912 of Braintree High school has elected officers as follows: President, Henry Storme; vice president, Arthur Benham; secretary, Esther Cone and treasurer, William Aitken.

• • •

Officers of the Literary Circle of Braintree high school are: President, Frank Ness; secretary, Jennie Aitken and treasurer, Joseph Mulcahy.

• • •

The scholars are having a longer holiday season than anticipated; because of the rain Wednesday there was no school from Tuesday until Monday next.

• • •

William J. Nolan, Yale Law school, and John J. Nolan of Andover, came up to the Yale-Harvard game Saturday and spent Sunday with their parents on Linden place.

• • •

Miss Mabel Damon, Q. H. S., '09, has returned from teaching school to remain in Quincy until the new term opens.

• • •

Harold Hill, '11, was elected captain of the 1910 foot ball team this week. Hill has played end and half back and is one of the best men Quincy High has turned out for some time. A natural player and leader, he should be able to pull out a great team next fall. Next year will make his third year as a player during which time he has played mostly at end. It was not until late this season that he was placed in the back field where he justly earned the "Shooting star," bestowed upon him by Goldsmith the Globe cartoonist, because of his great work in the Chelsea game.

• • •

Mr. Landers, the head of the commercial department, has returned to his duties, after an illness of over a week.

• • •

The college students began to come in Wednesday from their different institutions to spend the Thanksgiving vacation at home.

The High School boys who entered Amherst Agricultural and Amherst college this fall certainly have made a proud record so far, which bespeaks well for their "prep days" at Q. H. S. Harold Gore and Warren Baker both played on the varsity at quarter and guard. They also, with Howe and Blake made their class numerals on the freshman football team Howe at right half and Blake at center. Their team winning from the sophomores for the first time in 10 years. Allison March, a freshman at Amherst College, made his class numerals in baseball, this fall, and taken all together the Quincy boys have held up their end in fine style as freshmen.

The German club met last Thursday, holding their annual meeting in the gymnasium. The reports of the secretary and treasurer were heard and then Miss Birge entertained the members with charades, hitting each member by means of a short verse in German. A German spelling match was an occassion of much enjoyment and the meeting closed with German selections rendered by the quartet.

• • •

Stanley Sherman and Hammond Pride students at Amherst college are at home over the holidays.

• • •

"Babe" Marceau and Kendell are entered on the Journal cross country run today in Brookline, and it would be no surprise to see "Babe" come home leading the bunch.

Now that the football season has closed a resume of the team's work is in order. Capt. Bates has carried the school through a fairly successful season by practically his own efforts. A little help now and then through the season was afforded him by former Q. H. S. men, but outside of this he carried the burden of both captain and coach upon his shoulders. The team has won 4 games and lost 6, which is about an even break.

From the start the material was light, both in weight and quantity. Also it lacked experience. But gradually these obstacles, although the light weight proved more or less of a handicap all through the season were overcome, and matters ran smoothly until the scholarship rating began to bar men from playing. The fact that the candidates were not able to keep up consistent work in the class room was the most serious obstacle of all and continued down to the last game.

Quincy High however, stacked up against some pretty heavy teams about Boston and in fact not once did they meet a team that was lighter, still by their speed alone they were able to defeat the heavier elevens.

There will be a wealth of material for next year's team, and the most promising fact is that most of it will be able to benefit by a year's experience. In Harold Hill the boys have an able leader and a worthy successor to Russ Bates for the captaincy of the 1910 football squad.

TWO STORE BURGLARIES

One in City and One at West Quincy

The store of Berry Bros. in City Square was entered by burglars early Thursday evening. The parties gained entrance by forcing one of the rear windows. It is not thought that the parties obtained much however. A few cents in the postage stamp box was taken. A bag of fancy crackers was done up, but the parties left without taking it with them. The break was discovered by one of the clerks of the store who visited it about 9 o'clock Thursday evening. It is possible that the burglar might have been in the store at the time, and that upon hearing the clerk enter he made haste to escape, leaving his bag of crackers behind him

The variety store of Mrs. William King at 34 Centre street was entered Wednesday night. Nearly all the cigarettes, cigars and tobacco were taken, both from the case and the boxes on the shelf. One large package of cigarettes, not opened, but laying on the lower shelf was left untouched as were also one or two boxes of cigarettes and two or three pieces of tobacco, showing that the thieves were in a hurry. Two pies were also missing. As far as is known these are the only things the looters secured. No traces have yet been found which would give any clue to the thieves.

This is not the first time that midnight robberies have been committed in this neighborhood as the store of Miss Susan McRitchie on Centre street only a stone's throw away has been broken into three times in about a year and practically the same things were taken each time. Entrance to the King store was effected by removing a pane of glass. The break was discovered by Mrs. King's son William Thanksgiving morning.

SUNLIGHT PARTY.

The most successful Sunlight dance in years was held Thanksgiving afternoon and evening in Hibernian hall, by the Quincy Baseball Association. At 3 o'clock the dancing started and continued until 11 o'clock in the evening. It was estimated that as many as 600 enjoyed themselves during the afternoon and evening.

There were a large number of the prominent base ball players along the South shore present, besides numerous out of town guests. George M. Fallon was in charge of the floor and James Elcock assisted him. The aids were: Joseph L. Ford, J. S. Higgins, Frank Avery, James Michaels and Ted Keohane.

YOUNG—SMITH.

Wednesday at the Point parsonage, 10 Farnum street, Arthur A. Young and Sarah E. Smith, both of Quincy, were united in marriage by the Rev. Alfred Ray Atwood, using the ring ceremony. The bride was stylishly gowned in a princess dress of crushed strawberry color with yoke and sleeves of net of the same shade. The groom wore the conventional suit with white waist-coat. They are to reside in their new home at Atlantic. Their many friends wish for them a long and happy wedded life.

☞Boys wanted to sell the Quincy Daily Ledger each day at 3.30 P. M. A good chance to earn money for Christmas. Boys will receive one cent for every paper they sell the week of Nov. 22—27. A prize of $5 in gold will also be given the boy who sells the most papers between now and New Years.

ANNUAL MASQUERADE

Prizes Awarded at Party of Loyal Ladies

Although it was blowing a gale outside, the 150 couples who braved the elements and gathered in Music hall the night before Thanksgiving, thoroughly enjoyed themselves and were amply repaid for defying the wind and rain.

It was the twelfth masquerade ball held by the Loyal Ladies of Clan McGregor, and the affair was a grand success. Many were unable to arrive until late in the evening because of the mix up in the South Station.

From 8 until 9 o'clock the dancers promenaded in their costumes and many were the speculations amongst the spectators as to whom the masks concealed.

At 9 o'clock the grand march began and this was led by the floor directress, Mrs. Mary Barnicoat, and Harley Smith. About fifty couple took part in the march and at its completion four dances were run off before the dancers unmasked and the judges' decisions were announced.

George Harvey Field, George A. Bolster and Elmer W. Baker were the judges and they reported that in their estimation the best costume was worn by Miss Jennie Grassick who was dressed in a "Red Military" suit. The ladies' prize for comical costume went to Mrs. Elizabeth McIntosh, costumed as Mr. McGinty's mother.

Elmer W. Baker announced that the gentleman's prize for the best costume had been awarded to "A Continental Gentleman" and this proved at unmasking to be James Robbie. In a comic dress as an old town sport, Walter Murray received the prize.

Following the announcement of prize winners refreshments were served and the party adjourned for a short while to the banquet hall.

Thompson's orchestra struck up the music at 12 o'clock sharp and from then until 3 o'clock the dancers had a merry time.

The committee of arrangements consisted of: Mrs. J. Steinbrenner, Mrs. A. Mutch, Mrs. Mary Kennedy, Mrs. May Muckle, Mrs. Jennie Fyfe, Mrs. Katherine McDonald and Mrs. Elizabeth McIntosh. The reception committee was composed of Mrs. Minnie McNeil, president of the Loyal Ladies, and Mrs. Margaret McDonald the vice president.

Mrs. Mary Barnicoat was in charge of the floor with Mrs. Bessie Dunham as assistant and the aids were Mrs. Elizabeth McIntosh, Mrs. Russell Medlin, Miss Elizabeth Boutlier and Miss Elsie B. Martin.

HENNESSY—CORCORAN.

John Hennessy and Miss Annie Corcoran, well known young people of Grove street, West Quincy, were united in marriage on Thanksgiving evening at the home of the bride. The ceremony was solemnized at half past seven by Rev. Fr. Henry T. Grady of St. Mary's church.

Relatives and friends were present to extend congratulations and good wishes, there being a goodly representation from St. Mary's C. T. A. & M. R., of which the groom is a member. Many beautiful presents attested to the popularity of the couple.

Mr. Hennessy is in the employ of William Corcoran & Sons, and has always resided in West Quincy. The bride and groom have known each other since childhood, the long friendship culminating in marriage. Mr. and Mrs. Hennessy will reside in West Quincy.

SISTERS DIE AT SAME HOUR.

It was rather a remarkable coincidence that caused two sisters to pass away Thanksgiving evening about 6.15 o'clock. The two sisters were Mrs. Amelia W., widow of Mr. Henry A. Hall of Davis street, Wollaston, who was 82 years of age, and Miss Helen B. Josselyn, who died at 117 Standish avenue, Wollaston, aged 68 years. Old age was largely incident to both deaths. Mrs. Hall left two sons.

—The compulsory use of water meters in Cleveland, Ohio, has resulted in a reduction of about 45 per cent. in the consumption of water, showing that that amount had previously been wasted. Besides getting pay for the water actually used, the city s pumping expenses have been reduced, and a contemplated increase in the capacity of the system has been found unnecessary. The absence of the same economies in the conduct of municipal affairs that is practised in private business enterprises is the chief cause of opposition to municipal ownership.—Milford Gazette.

STANDARD OIL CASE HISTORY

Great Trust Ordered Dissolved by United States Circuit Court.

When the United States circuit court for the eastern district of Missouri recently handed down at St. Paul its decision ordering the dissolution of the Standard Oil Company of New Jersey it was the second time the courts had grappled with the great oil combination in an effort to break its power.

The government filed its complaint in the Standard Oil case in November, 1906, before the United States circuit court for the eastern district of Missouri. The complaint was directed against the parent organization, known as the Standard Oil Company of New Jersey, with its various subsidiary corporations. It was also directed against seven individuals—namely, John D. Rockefeller, William Rockefeller, Henry M. Flagler, Henry H. Rogers (now dead), John D. Archbold, Oliver H. Payne and Charles M. Pratt. The main company, its branches and these individuals were charged with having entered into an agreement, combination and conspiracy to restrain trade and commerce among the several states, to monopolize the trade in petroleum, in its purchase and its shipment and transportation by pipe line, steamships and by rail; also in the manufacture and refining of petroleum.

The United States asked for a perpetual injunction and for the dissolution of the Standard Oil combination. Hearings were held in New York, Washington, Chicago, Cleveland and St. Louis, about 400 witnesses being examined. The case finally reached the full bench of four judges comprising the United States circuit court of the St. Louis district, of which Judge Sanborn is a member. The arguments in behalf of the government were made by Frank B. Kellogg of St. Paul and ex-United States Attorney Morrison of Chicago, while John G. Milburn of New York was at the head of the Standard Oil array of counsel. The record of evidence was probably the largest ever taken in a lawsuit, exceeding 7,000,000 words.

The government's allegations, which were filed by David P. Dyer, then United States attorney, were based largely upon an investigation of the oil business conducted by James R. Garfield, commissioner of the bureau of corporations, at the behest of President Roosevelt. This investigation consumed a year, and as a result of it various grand juries returned indictments containing 8,193 counts, according to Commissioner Garfield's annual report of Dec. 9, 1906.

The taking of testimony was intrusted to Franklin Ferriss of St. Louis, who was appointed special master in chancery in June, 1907.

The broad generalities of the complaint and answer presaged a considerable latitude in the statements of witnesses, which was borne out when the hearings began Sept. 1, 1907, in New York. From then until the final testimony was given in Chicago on Jan. 22, 1909, 444 persons answered questions before Referee Ferriss. The result was a record of 25,000 printed pages of testimony and exhibits which was filed in St. Louis on March 22, 1909. The bulk of the testimony by the defense was given in New York.

The hearings reached their climax when the defense called to the stand Charles M. Pratt, John D. Rockefeller and John D. Archbold. Exhibits were introduced showing that in seven years the profits of the business had totaled nearly $500,000,000, the statement for the Standard Oil Company of Indiana alone showing profits in 1906 of more than $10,000,000 on a capitalization of one-tenth that amount.

John D. Rockefeller took the stand Nov. 18, 1897, and was not excused until Nov. 24. He admitted that the Standard Oil interests had received rebates on shipments over certain railroads, some of the officers of which were stockholders in the Standard Oil company. He said that he held stock in nine railroads, several of which handled Standard Oil products. Under cross examination he declared that the oil business was hazardous because of the danger from fire or the possible exhaustion of the wells.

Arguments on the case began April 5, 1909, in St. Louis, continuing for a week. Both sides filed voluminous briefs, upon which the arguments by Messrs. Kellogg, Morrison, Johnson, Milburn, Rosenthal and other attorneys were based. The court then took the case under advisement.

SIOUX COLONY FOR NICARAGUA

Indian Chief Sailed From Boston to Get Grant For 16,000 Acres.

To save the remnant of the Sioux tribe of Indians from extinction by consumption and other diseases a colony of the Indians will be established in Nicaragua early in the new year. Chief Little Bison, a full blooded Sioux, sailed from Boston on the steamship Esparta the other day for Nicaragua, where he will receive the deeds to 16,000 acres of land granted by the Nicaraguan government for the establishment of the colony.

The project is supported financially by F. S. Dellenbaugh, head of the American Geographical society, and several wealthy New York people. The emigration of the Indians is expected to begin in January.

BRIEFS

The storm of Thursday night put 56 of the local telephone lines out of commission.

Thanksgiving day was an unusually quiet one in police circles, and but few arrests were made.

Everett Barber of Botolph street and Clifton Hill of Edwin street experienced a rough voyage returning from New York where they have been on business.

The Phipps A. C. will play the Federal avenue Saturday morning at 10 o'clock. This will be the deciding game. For games address James Sullivan, 11 Phipps street.

The meeting of the West Quincy Improvement Association adjourned to Wednesday evening was postponed. It being the night before a holiday, and a stormy one at that, there were not enough present to hold a meeting.

William J. Sullivan of Quincy was the best man Thanksgiving afternoon at the marriage of William T. Fleming, county secretary of the A. O. H., to Miss Agnes F. Martin. The marriage took place at South Boston and was performed by Rev. R. J. Johnson.

A rally in the interest of Candidate Nichols for Mayor was held in Dobles hall Wednesday evening. Although tendance there was a good number the weather was against a large attpresent. Addresses were made by Mr. Nichols and others.

One of the most pleasant dancing parties ever held in West Quincy was by the Copeland club on Thanksgiving from 3 until 11 in St. Marys hall. In spite of disagreeable weather the hall was crowded. Music was furnished by Joyce's orchestra and Harry T. Boyd president of the club had charge of the floor aided by Vice President Andrew Dinegan and members.

The Granite City club kept open house Thanksgiving eve and the latch string was out for all members and their friends. Although the night was stormy there was a good attendance of members and quite a number of guests. Smith's orchestra was present and furnished music during the entire evening. A lunch of fruit of all kinds, nuts, sardines, and hot coffee was served.

After a serious operation and a long illness, John August Hallquist of 19 Curtis street passed away Thursday. Mr. Hallquist was one of the first members of the Swedish Lutheran church on Granite street, which will celebrate its 20th anniversary in December. Funeral services will be held at the church Sunday afternoon at 2.30. He is mourned by a wife and five children.

AT Y. M. C. A.

There was lots doing all day at the Young Men's Christian Association including, running, basket ball, bowling and many minor forms of entertainment. In the morning the three mile race was run off and then a basket ball game between the "Ironsides" and the "White Washers" was won by the former. Many of the bowlers settled the question of supremacy amongst themselves during the day, as also did the pool sharks. The reading room was open all day and well attended throughout. Many took the chance offered by the holiday to inspect the part of the basement where the work of construction of the new swimming pool will soon commence.

A Curious Trail.

All sorts of devices have been used to mark a line of march. A unique method of "blazing the trail" is still to be seen in Africa, and a recent publication prints a picture of one of these memorials of the dervish raid. Arthur J. Hayes mentions the subject in his "Source of the Blue Nile."

In 1889, after a fierce battle with the Abyssinians, the dervishes pursued their foes as far as the lake district. The mahdi's men had small knowledge of geography and little togographical intelligence. So the advance party, in order to mark the route for those who came after and also to guide the force on their return journey, twisted the saplings along the way into living knots. The war ended, but the tied up trees grew and flourished, but uncouthly twisted and distorted, and are now the only reminders of that uprising of the dervishes.

Where Nature Cooks the Food.

In certain parts of New Zealand both native and white women use the natural hot springs to do their cooking. In the Rotorua region it matters not whether the cook wishes to roast a piece of meat, boil potatoes or steam pudding, all she has to do is to step out of doors and place the cooking utensil in a steam hole. The cover is then put on, and a piece of coarse sacking over the whole completes the operation. In a short time dinner is ready. At Whakarewarewa the entire earth just beneath the surface is a mass of boiling springs. Millions of gallons of hot water hiss and steam, sending vapors skyward in great white clouds. Strike the ground almost anywhere with a stick and the hole thus formed fills with hot water. Hot water for baths, the week's washing and for the ordinary purposes of the household is always on hand.

BRIEFS

Still rainy and disagreeable.

It was certainly a stormy holiday,

The School Committee will hold a regular meeting next Tuesday evening.

Charles Sherburne, spent a few days at Bourne, Cape Cod, this week.

Rev. A. R. Atwood and family attended the Atwood reunion at South Weymouth on Thanksgiving day.

Miss Josephine Mitchell of Cambridge was the guest of Quincy friends for Thanksgiving.

Mr. and Mrs. Sangster Troupe announce the engagement of their daughter, Helen C., to Alden A. Sherwin of West Townsend.

"Religious lessons from the poets of the past for the thinkers of today" is the topic for Sunday evening at the Point church. The pastor, Rev. Mr. Atwood speaks especially of John Greenleaf Whittier, the Quaker Laureate of Puritanism. This Sunday evening service opens at 7.30 with a gospel praise service and "The Holy City" will be sung by Mrs. Joseph F. Dunkes.

Maunder's Song of Thanksgiving will be given this evening in Christ church by the augmented vested choir of Christ church and female choir of Emmanuel church, Braintree. The following soloists: Miss Emily B. Willson, soprano; Miss Akeroyd, contralto and Mr. Reynolds, tenor. There are no tickets, the church being open, free to the public. Doors open at 7.30 service at 8 o'clock. A silver collection will be taken to defray expenses.

☞W. T. Arnold has secured a store on Hancock street, opposite Music hall where he will have a fine display of art goods, pictures, statuary, wall papers, etc. It will be a place to interest Christmas shoppers as they can pick up choice articles at prices much more reasonable than in Boston.

WOMAN INSURED FOR A MILLION

She Is Head of a Big Business In Chicago.

LATEST POLICY FOR $300,000

Only One Other Woman, Late Mrs. Leland Stanford, Carried Insurance For Like Amount—Other Payers of Big Premiums.

By taking out a life insurance policy for $300,000 Mrs. Charles Netcher, owner of a big Chicago department store, has become the most heavily insured woman in the world.

The grand total of all Mrs. Netcher's policies is now $1,000,000. As far as is known, this is the most life insurance carried by any woman. The late Mrs. Leland Stanford's line of insurance was a like amount.

The additional $300,000 of Mrs. Netcher was placed by the Chicago manager of one of the big New York companies. Having already insured Mrs. Netcher in his company for its individual limit on a feminine risk, he was authorized to handle the additional for another company, and this company has taken the entire amount.

Mrs. Netcher stated that she was taking out the additional insurance to protect her large business interests. She is following in the footsteps of her late husband in taking out heavy life insurance. When he decided to erect a big building in 1904 Mr. Netcher took out policies aggregating $500,000, so that the extensive plans might not be interfered with. He died in June of the same year.

First Policy For $500,000.

In October of 1904 Mrs. Netcher, having taken up the business, contracted for insurance aggregating $500,000 in four of the large eastern companies. Since then she had increased her line $200,000, and her last addition brings the total to an even $1,000,000.

Before taking out her first policy Mrs. Netcher studied the life insurance proposition for some time and had her own ideas as to just what sort of policy she desired. She discussed the matter for some time with the representatives of the company, and finally an agreement was reached satisfactory to herself and the companies.

Just what yearly premiums she pays on her policies the companies decline to state, but it is understood that her rate is higher than that paid by Mr. Netcher. The annual premium, which he paid only once on his $500,000, was $19,940.

Mrs. Netcher's business acumen has been shown in her successful management of affairs since her husband's death.

Other Women With High Insurance.

Miss Helen Gould, after Mrs. Netcher, is said to be the heaviest insured woman in the country, her policies reaching above the $500,000 mark.

A number of Chicago women carry heavy insurance policies, the list including Mrs. Francis Carolan and Mrs. F. O. Lowden, daughters of the late George M. Pullman; Mrs. Maldwin Drummond, formerly Mrs. Marshall Field, Jr., and Mrs. A. J. Graham, wife of the banker. Their aggregate policies are as follows:

Mrs. Francis Carolan, $250,000; Mrs. F. O. Lowden, $250,000; Mrs. A. J. Graham, $100,000; Mrs. Maldwin Drummond, $100,000.

A number of women of the European nobility carry large lines of insurance to protect their interests where estates are entailed; but, as far as is known, none of these approaches Mrs. Netcher as far as aggregate insurance is concerned.

Actresses and grand opera singers in many cases carry much insurance. Anna Held is insured for $100,000, Mme. Nordica has a line of $50,000, and Maude Adams carries insurance of $25,000.

WANTS NEW COMMANDMENT.

Professor Would Put "Thou Shalt Not Get Drunk" Into Decalogue.

Some changes in the Ten Commandments to make them apply to modern conditions are advocated by Thomas N. Carver, professor of economics at Harvard university.

Professor Carver in particular wants an entirely new commandment dealing with the liquor habit. He would have it take the place of the commandment which reads, "Thou shalt not take the name of the Lord thy God in vain."

His substitute commandment would read, "Thou shalt not drink to drunkenness nor bewilder thyself with strong drink."

"The employment of the word God and like blasphemies as they are uttered today have lost their old time significance," said Professor Carver.

Bar on "So Help Me God."

"So help me God" is to be elliminated from oaths taken in federal courts in Washington if a bill proposed to the District commissioners by Benjamin F. Moore of Washington is enacted by congress. Mr. Moore obtained the passage of a similar bill in the Maryland legislature, and the phrase is no longer employed in courts in that state. The views of the United States judges in Washington will be canvassed before the commissioners decide whether to make the recommendation.

HOMEMADE GIFTS.

Something Made by the Giver Is Always Appreciated.

Christmas is coming, and all the industrious ones are beginning to wonder what they will make for their friends, what kinds of offerings they can design that will have two virtues—evidence of loving care and real usefulness. Under this head will come the lavender sachet illustrated. It is made of cream colored scrim and is embroidered in the cross stitch with a little flower design worked in lavender silk, while a wall of Troy is done around the outer edge of the sachet to hide all evidences of the stitching.

A DAINTY AFFAIR IN SCRIM.

To make this little gift one would require a five cent package of dried lavender, a bit of muslin measuring 6 by 10 inches, a piece of scrim 8 by 12 inches and three shades of lavender embroidery silk. Make a bag of the muslin measuring 3 by 5 inches, of course taking off enough for one-quarter inch seams; fill it with the lavender and sew it up. Fold the scrim so it measures 4 by 6 inches and embroider the design in the middle of one side. The basket should be done with the middle color, the two center flowers and the leaves of the darkest shade and the rest of the flowers in the lightest shade. This done, sew the scrim on three sides on the machine, wrong side out. This will make the bag. Now turn it right side out and sew it like a French seam one-half inch from the outer edge.

This will leave the third side, which will be at either one end or the other, still open, and through this put the muslin bag of lavender. The sachet then needs only to be sewed up on the remaining side, the embroidery done over the stitches, and the gift will be complete.

An Embroidery Apron.

A dainty little sewing apron seen recently struck the keynote of newness and could be easily copied for a Christmas present. It was made of fine muslin in a deep cream shade, and the lower end was turned up about four inches. An inch wide hem at the top of the pocket and another at the top of the apron were run with leaf green ribbons and tied at the ends in soft rosettes. The pocket that extended across the apron and the tiny "hand" pockets above were decorated with brilliant cretonne roses, and a leaf or two were applied to the material by buttonholing in green embroidery silk.

A Smart Hatbox.

This is a gift easy to make and one that will be appreciated by the woman who is short of drawer or cupboard room. This hatbox is a good, strong, ordinary milliner's hatbox (be sure to choose one of large size) glorified into quite an ornamental affair.

GLORIFIED HATBOX.

The hatbox is first neatly lined inside with plain sateen or washing silk and then is covered all over the outside with dainty patterned chintz or cretonne. The sewing is all done at the edges with good, firm stitches, and then each edge is neatly bound with ribbon, galloon or braid to cover the sewing.

This hatbox should be completed by a large, neatly hemmed square of the lining to cover the hat when placed in the box. An embroidered monogram in the corner of this square would form a dainty finish to the box.

Grandmother's Present.

An attractive little workbasket is made in this way: Use for the bottom a soft, pliable woven basket on which a design of daisies and leaves can be worked with raffia in the shades to suit. After this is finished the basket should be lined with green rajah silk, which comes about eight inches beyond the edge of the basket. A casing is made at the top of this and the bag drawn together with green ribbon.

A basket of this sort will be found very convenient for holding a ball of yarn, letting the end come out at the top.

GIRLS AT WORK IN BOSTON

Hospitable Quarters on Paris Lines For Young Women.

It is estimated that there are 15,000 young women students in Boston whose homes are in different parts of the country, some of them being quite remote. This fact was taken up and discussed by a number of public spirited women of Boston last March. Mrs. Edith Talbot Jackson, the resident director of the movement and the new clubhouse, made a report of her investigation of conditions that brought about the purchase of the building and its opening for the benefit of the young women who are in the city for the purpose of benefiting themselves. The building is in St. Stephen street, in the heart of the Back Bay student quarter. The organization is fashioned after the student hostel in Paris conducted by the British-American Young Women's Christian association.

The building has an attractive dining room where young women may get appetizing and nourishing food. There are no meal tickets. The rate for breakfast is 15 cents, for luncheon 30 cents, dinner 40 cents. A fee of $1 a year is all that young women students have to pay for membership in the Boston Students' union. This will give them the use of the dining room and the entire clubhouse, quiet rooms for reading, studying and lounging, assistance in choosing living accommodations under proper conditions, information as to opportunities for general culture in Boston outside of the students' special lines of work and other privileges.

When the women interested in this work found that they were unable to rent such quarters as they wished they purchased a double building containing thirty rooms and had it renovated and arranged so that it is practically new. The surprising thing about the organization is the rapid way in which it assumed its present status after the project was first suggested. It is the work of only a few months. The women interested in it are among the most noted and wealthy of the city.

Mrs. Edith Talbot Jackson, the resident director, is well qualified by her experience and education for her position. She served a rigid apprenticeship in Paris, working among the young women students as an agent of the British-American Young Women's Christian association. She is the daughter of the late Dr. I. T. Talbot, dean of the Boston University School of Medicine, for many years a prominent surgeon of Boston. He died ten years ago. She is the sister of Miss Marion Talbot, dean of women in the University of Chicago. Her husband, Dr. William L. Jackson, died four years ago. With him she engaged in extensive domestic and civic work for years. She has made a deep study of such problems.

MRS. EDITH TALBOT JACKSON.

Mrs. Sumner B. Pearmain is president of the union, Miss Helen Collamore vice president, Miss Emma J. Fitz secretary and Dr. Sarah Sweet Windsor treasurer. The directors are Miss Florence M. Cushing, Miss Elizabeth G. Houghton, Mrs. Edith Talbot Jackson, Miss Mary H. Ladd and Mrs. Frank H. Monks. The advisory board is made up of Miss Sarah Louise Arnold, Arthur S. Estabrook, Miss Edith M. Howes, Francis B. Sears and Winslow Warren.

AMY GRIDLEY AYER.

Wife's Advice to Wives.

Any woman can do a man's work, says Mrs. J. K. Turner of Cleveland, O. A year ago when her husband fell ill she assumed his work, and, although she had never had any experience in it, when he recovered he found that the business had been so well conducted and had increased so satisfactorily that he would have been willing for her to continue if she had so desired. She had charge of what is known as the manufacturers' information bureau, which takes hold of shops and plants that are not successful and by education of the employees and in other ways puts them on their feet. While Mrs. Turner was superintending this work she also managed her husband's farm, giving most of the orders by telephone. She does not advise women to emulate men in their work. She believes that home is a woman's place.

Gray Hair Restored

My hair was getting quite gray and falling out rapidly and I was troubled with a terrible itching of the scalp. My head was full of dandruff, which fell upon my clothes and kept me continually brushing it off. While on a visit to Rochester I heard of your Sage and Sulphur for the hair. I got a bottle and used it. A few applications relieved the itching, my hair stopped falling out and gradually came back to its natural color. It is now a nice dark brown color, soft, glossy and pliable. Several of my friends want to use it, and I want to know what you will charge me for six bottles of it.

Grew Hair on a Bald Head

For two or three years my hair had been falling out and getting quite thin until the top of my head was entirely bald. About four months ago I commenced using Sage and Sulphur. The first bottle seemed to do some good and I kept using it regularly until now I have used four bottles. The whole top of my head is fairly covered and keeps coming in thicker. I shall keep on using it a while longer, as I notice a constant improvement.

SELECTING POULTRY.

Things to Observe When Buying the Thanksgiving Turkey.

To select poultry choose those that are fresh and fat. To determine whether they are young try the skin under the wing or leg. If easily broken they are young. Another test is to press the lower end of the breastbone. If it bends to the touch the chicken is not old. A test that applies to all ages and kinds of undressed game and can be depended upon is that if the eyes are sunken they have been killed for a long time.

Choose a yellow skinned fowl. A hen bird is always preferable as having the finer flavor and usually more meat in proportion to its weight.

All kinds of poultry and meat can be cooked the more quickly by adding to the water in which they are boiled a little vinegar or a piece of lemon. Some cooks think that a bit of soda the size of a pea will answer the same purpose.

The best cooks say that all turkeys, chickens or ducks should be placed in the oven on their breasts, as in this way the juices run down and keep the drumsticks and breast savory and moist instead of dry and tasteless, as when the fowl lies on its back. A few cooks cut off the drumsticks and second joint and lay them in the pan so as to let the moisture of the gravy permeate the meat. Then to serve they fasten in position with a wooden skewer that can be removed by the one who carves.

The regular double roasting pans are being more generally used, as they keep the juices within the fiber of the meat. The top is generally removed for a quick browning just before taking from the oven.

Instead of chicken, many families buy fowl for their Thanksgiving dinner and parboil it and then finish the cooking by roasting in the oven. They say there are few who could or would discover the difference. Of course a fowl is much cheaper at all seasons of the year than a chicken. To test whether a roast fowl or chicken is thoroughly done cut the skin between the second joint and body. The flesh must be tender when pierced with a fork.

The easiest way to singe a chicken—in fact, the modern way—is to pour a little alcohol into a tin or agate ware pie plate and, lighting it with a match, hold the fowl over in different positions, so that the flame will reach every portion.

All meats roasted in an open pan must be basted often, so as to keep the crust soft and the fiber of the meat inoist.

30,000 TON BATTLESHIP

Massachusetts Representative Will Ask Appropriation

A Washington dispatch says naval officers are commenting with a good deal of interest on the published purpose of Representative E. W. Roberts of Massachusetts of the House committee on naval affairs to present to the committee, during the session of Congress now soon to begin, a proposition to have the committee favor the construction of one 30,000-ton battleship, instead of two 25,000-ton vessels. As reported Mr. Roberts believes that it will be of decided strategic advantage to have such a vessel added to the American navy. With its 14-inch guns, which, under the circumstances, will be possible, it would be equal in effectiveness to any two battleships of any other class.

It is understood that the navy department will recommend two 25,000-ton battleships to Congress ,with a willingness, however, to have Congress provide for the one larger ship, should it see fit to do so. Of course, only one ship of this size and cost could be ordered at a single session of Congress, in view of the condition of the treasury. To provide for a 30,000-ton ship would place the United States far in advance of the rest of the world in naval contruction, for which reason Mr. Roberts is said to maintain that the appropriation would be desirable.

Of course, the entire proposition, assuming the willingness of Congress, will depend upon the satisfactory tests of the 14-inch gun, which will be made at the Indian Head proving ground, on the Potomac, next spring, but no one entertains the thought that the new guns will fail to come up to the expectations of the ordinance bureau. There is also no question, according to the opinions of naval experts ,that the 30,000-ton battleship is coming, for which reason there is considerable service sentiment in favor of the Roberts proposition.

Mr. Roberts' program, if carried out, will insure that the entire question will be threshed out pretty carefully by Congress during the coming session.

SYNOPSIS.

CHAPTER I—A young diver know as Philip Ames visit a miserable tenement in New York where he knows a young woman, Jenny who has been reclaimed from the streets. II—The owner of the tenement John J. Haggleton, a multimillionaire, visits the place.

"Gentle," Philip broke in, "I wish you would tell Margaret about the night when you first saw my mother." They sat down.

"It was twenty-two years ago," began Gentle haltingly, "a wild night and bitter cold. Mrs. Binney (I have boarded with her for more than twenty-five years)—Mrs. Binney and I were playing checkers in the basement sitting room when all of a sudden we heard the bell. 'Sakes alive, who's that?' said Mrs. Binney. And when I opened the door, there stood a woman in the storm, holding a little boy by his hand, and she was white as death. 'God have mercy,' said I, 'what are you doing out in a night like this?' 'We are in great trouble,' said she. 'Come in,' said I, 'in the name of God.' And in they came, and I saw that the little boy was so cold that the tears were frozen on his face. That little boy was Philip. He was then barely four years old."

"And to this day I have never heard what sent my mother out into the storm," Philip added.

"She never told you?" Margaret looked thoughtful.

"She died with her secret unspoken unless"—the young man turned to his friend and looked at him inquiringly—"unless— Gentle, I have sometimes thought that my mother told you her secret."

"She told me a little, Philip. There were things which she did not wish you to know."

Philip looked grave and asked peremptorily:

"Is this thing you are keeping back something that this girl who is going to be my wife ought to know?"

"It is not."

Philip gave a sigh of relief. Turning to Margaret, he explained:

"It is something about my father—some trouble between him and my mother, isn't it, Gentle?"

"Don't ask me about your father, my boy!"

Here the little girl Emmy entered the room from Jenny's sleeping closet, crossed it without paying any attention to the three grownups, grasped a chair and began to drag it behind her.

"You little tot!" exclaimed Margaret. "What do you want that chair for?"

"I's going to be Benny's yacht."

"Oh, my patient—I forgot him!" exclaimed Margaret remorsefully.

She got up, grasped Emmy's dirty little hand and darted through the door.

Philip inevitably gravitated toward the door through which Margaret had disappeared. As he closed it behind him Gentle heard him say, "Let me help you put things to rights here."

A few moments passed with Gentle looking expectantly out of the window. He heard a honk and at the same moment saw a powerful motorcar turn the corner of Market street—a rare apparition there, attracting no end of attention and far from friendly comment. A heavy, slow stop on the stairs, a woman's shrill voice giving a direction, then he said distinctly:

"This way, Mr. Haggleton."

CHAPTER III.

"JOHN J."

GENTLE looked curiously at the man who entered the room, glanced sharply around it, and then fixed a pair of cold, commanding, penetrating eyes upon him.

So this was Haggleton—the "John J." of daily parlance, the master of oil fields and coal fields, of iron mines and railroads and steamship lines, of banks and trust companies; the man whose power was felt in Europe and in Asia as in America; the chosen subject of the bitterest attacks of social reformers and revolutionaries; the man who could afford to fight the government of the most powerful country in the world on terms of equality.

"John J."

Gentle saw before him a burly man of sixty, gray haired, with a bristling gray mustache waxed at the ends, a man dressed with unobtrusive taste.

But it was the face that commanded his attention. The steely eyes had held him from the first. He now noted the stern brow, with the fold between the eyebrows; the iron jaw, the lines at the corners of the grim mouth, the straight, short nose, which suggested Kitchener.

But the old diver, accustomed to picking strong, healthy men for the dangerous work of which he had charge, saw something else which the cartoonists failed to suggest in their drawings. He saw as plainly as John J.'s famous physician that the millionaire was not a well man. The pallor of his face, the color of his eyeballs, the wrinkled circles beneath them, the momentary scantness of breath, all this told its tale to Gentle.

Haggleton's eyes flashed a little as he growled:

"Of all filthy places!"

"It's one of your tenements, Mr. Haggleton," said Gentle pointedly. "I wanted you to see it."

"You did? That's not the point." Then, briskly, "You said you had papers to show me."

"So I have, so I have!"

Gentle pointed to a chair.

"I have very little time," continued the master of millions aggressively. "My auto is waiting, and my yacht, too, with guests aboard. I told you that I sail within an hour."

"On a long cruise. I read it in the papers. That's why I called on you yesterday."

Haggleton's eyes were everywhere. They kept Gentle under constant surveillance. His secretary was at the head of the stairs without, his mechanician in the hallway below. He had given no orders, but he knew this. Utterly fearless, he yet did not intend to be caught in a trap.

"I came because what you told me you knew is important, if true. Where are your proofs?"

Gentle drew a bundle of papers from the inner pocket of his pea jacket. Haggleton took the first letter, opened it and glanced at it. He shot a curious glance at the respectable looking workingman seated opposite him and opened a second one.

This he read carefully, the pallor of his face increasing as he read. But his hand did not tremble. Blackmail? Oh, well, he would see about that!

He said at last:

"My wife! It's her handwriting! Then you knew her?"

"I knew her for years."

Haggleton bent forward, the bundle of papers crushed between his clinched hands. A rapid, nervous twitch of the left side of the face was the only outward expression of his feelings, but to those who knew him it would have signified much. Gentle sat perfectly silent, waiting for him to speak again.

A burly man of sixty.

"Margaret!" murmured Haggleton musingly, tenderly. "Margaret! After twenty-two years!"

He mastered himself with an effort and sat up straight in his chair, the commander of men again. There was a battle before him, a battle over a secret, and for a secret—the solution of the mystery of his private life.

Won With Whips.

According to Herodotus, while the Scythians were away on a long campaign their slaves took the opportunity to rebel and seize all their masters' property. The latter on their return promptly attacked them, but were continually defeated until at last one of them hit on the brilliant idea of attacking the slaves with whips only. That, he said, would remind them of their origin and so cow them that they would never dare to stand. The Scythians followed his counsel, and it fell out as he had predicted. When the slaves beheld their masters riding down upon them flourishing the terrible knotted thongs they knew so well they threw down their arms and fled.

Roused His Suspicions.

A naval officer was speaking of the extortions of innkeepers in out of the way parts of the globe.

"In Montenegro once," he said, "I asked for my bill after having slept overnight at a certain inn, and as soon as the document was handed to me I took out my purse to settle it. I did not bother to verify the various items. What would have been the use?

"But my readiness to pay amazed the landlord. He thought a moment, and then he said uneasily:

"'Will you let me have another look at that bill, sir? I think I have omitted something.'"

LONDON APARTMENTS

Renting a Furnished Flat In the English Metropolis.

THE TRICKS OF THE AGENT.

At First Everything Is Pleasant, but After the Place Is Taken the Woes of the Tenant Begin With the Advent of the Inventory Man.

To the uninitiated American the rent of a furnished flat in London seems a very simple and remarkably inexpensive matter. Every one is extremely polite, and your path is made easy. But no sooner have you closed the door of your new quarters than you are beset by the bogy of "extras." While you are taking a contented glance at the new domicile, congratulating yourself on the bargain and thinking how much more a similar place would cost you in New York, your musings are interrupted by the arrival of the man with the inventory. His business is to make an inventory of every blessed thing your flat contains, from a four post bed to a kitchen spoon.

At first you are vastly amused over the listing of such apparently insignificant items as "a linerusta Walton frieze," the number of tiles in the fireplace, the bolts on the windows, the locks on the doors, a description of the handles on the dressing chest and the number of screws therein, but when you have been dragged through every room, going over these—to us—absurd details, you plunge from rage to despair and finally collapse when your tormentor at last departs. For this entertainment you have paid from half a guinea (about $2.60) upward, according to the rent of your flat.

But the real power of the inventory is only felt when you take your departure. You may be morally certain that the only damage you have done has been to break one or two teacups, for which you are quite prepared to pay an extortionate sum without a murmur. You may be sure of this, but presently you will receive a bill all neatly written out and covering several pages of foolscap and entitled "Dilapidations."

You will find that in every room the walls have been "chipped," the enamel on the bathtub "slightly marred," a monogram on a napkin ring "scratched," several saucepans "damaged," a knife handle "bent," a number of plates "cracked," and so on. I am quoting from a list of "dilapidations" presented to friends of mine who had occupied a flat for two months, during which time, after strenuous cleaning efforts, they left the premises in much better condition than when they went in. The bill amounted to £1 18s. 9d., roughly about $9.68.

Here there is no such fact recognized as ordinary wear and tear on furniture.

For the lease, which is here called "agreement," you have to pay from 10 shillings up to 3 guineas and more, according to rent. Then the government stamp affixed thereto, without which the document is not legal, costs you from half a crown (62 cents) to a guinea or more, again according to rent.

You may have taken your flat by "the month," but when your agreement is sent you find out it is for every four weeks! You will probably phone the agent calling his attention to the error, and he will inform you it is correct that way.

In renting an unfurnished flat, the shortest term for which is three years, you discover that the electric light fixtures are not included in the rental. Protest unavailing, you buy them yourself and pay for their installation. You must rent also your own gas cooking stove. You fancy the fenders for the fireplaces must have been overlooked, but not so; you must buy them yourself! As you have been so accustomed to a continuous supply of hot water, it never occurred to you to inquire into the subject. You find you can obtain it only by keeping a continuous fire in your kitchen range.

As the penetrating, clammy gray horror of an English winter draws on you begin to appreciate what it means to be minus steam heat. Your only defense are the coal fires, romantic in story, but totally inadequate to defy this marrow reaching, damp cold of London. Bathroom and halls remain at arctic temperature, for the grate fires do not radiate beyond a few feet, so you may sit close and burn or retire to a corner and freeze.

After having learned through painful experience the futility of struggle against English ways and methods it is amusing to watch the explosive American, who in hotel office, at railway station and on steamships holds forth as to the various things he will not submit to. He is usually listened to with a certain exasperating deference at which the British underling is a past master. But nothing is changed, and he has to submit, and the sooner the lesson is learned the more comfortable he will be.

The impenetrable solidity of the average Briton is not to be disturbed, and the longer one remains in this country the more definitely one learns that the English people have a pretty substantial idea of commercialism and that you are paying for the lesson.—London Cor. New York American.

DROPPED THE "TUB."

And Like a Good Girl Pronounced the Word Correctly.

W. S. Gilbert contributed an amusing article on "Actors and Authors" to a program of the London Drury Lane theater. The following extract will be read with appreciation:

The author's greatest difficulty lies in the necessity of directing an actor's attention to an obvious mispronunciation—a feat that must be achieved without humiliating the actor in the presence of his professional brethren.

Many years ago I was engaged in rehearsing a burlesque, and a very clever young lady had to sing the couplet:

Indubitably if you do
It will be the worse for you.

The clever young lady, whose pronunciation was not always beyond reproach, delivered the lines thus:

Indubitubly if you do
It will be the worse for you.

This, of course, would not do, so I determined to alter the word to "inevitably." The young lady agreed that the alteration greatly improved the verse, but she was not to be deprived of her "tub," so she sang it:

Inevitubly if you do
It will be the worse for you.

This was just as bad, so I made it "unquestionably," and, of course, it came out:

Unquestionubly if you do
It will be the worse for you.

I could think of no other word that would answer the purpose, so, as a last resource, I said to her:

"Do you think it advisable to give the word its French accent?"

"How do you mean?"

"Why, 'unquestionubly'—that's the way it is pronounced in Paris. In addressing an English audience perhaps the simple English version of the word would be better. Try it, at all events, 'unquestionably,' 'a' instead of 'u.' 'Unquestionubly' would be all very well for the stalls, but the gallery wouldn't understand it."

"Of course," she said, "the English accent would certainly be more appropriate."

And she sang it "unquestionably" like the good girl that she was.—Argonaut.

A TUSK HUNTER'S ESCAPE.

So Close a Call the Native Really Thought Himself Dead.

Hunting elephants for their tusks involves courage, patience and infinite cunning. Frequently the hunter becomes the hunted, and the tables may be turned fatally. A writer in McClure's Magazine tells of an escape, vouched for by "an Indian dealer who never lied about anything and who claims to have seen this deliverance exactly as he reported it."

Some natives were hunting elephants in the neighborhood of Lake Rudolph, and he was with them for the purpose of trading cotton cloth for ivory. Elephants like old bunch grass that has become dry like hay, and a herd of them, attracted by "dry grazing," as it is called, came suddenly within an eighth of a mile of the camp.

One native named Juma, from the coast, an unskilled hunter, observing that the wind was in such a direction that it blew news of the herd to him rather than blowing his whereabouts to the knowledge of the herd, ran out in the open with his rifle and aimed at short range at a powerful creature which was watering a straggling shrub with water he had taken in his trunk from the pond.

Once hit, the elephant was correspondingly furious and rushed at Juma after a deliberate scrutiny of the immediate foreground to discover his whereabouts. Having determined where his assailant stood, he tore along, crazy with rage, toward the shaking savage.

Juma, with an oriental's instinct of prostration before such an overwhelming force, merely threw himself flat upon the ground.

The elephant rushed completely over him, but by accident left him safe, although choked and blinded with the disturbed and sandy soil. The great feet cleared him, and the tusks missed him.

Almost twenty-four hours passed before Juma dared believe himself alive and sound, and for the first twelve hours after the excitement he spoke of himself only in the past tense, as of one dead.

The Clothesline Test.

"Let me see her clothes on the line," said an old fashioned woman recently, "and I can tell if she is a good housekeeper." The test lies in the way the garments are hung. If the shirts are scattered around promiscuously the woman lets garbage stand on her kitchen table overnight. The shirts, like we men, should always hang together, shoulder to shoulder, and everything of its kind should hang in a row.—Atchison Globe.

Not Desired.

Having at enormous pains got her length, breadth and thickness about right, the woman heaved a sigh of relief. "No fourth dimension in mine, if you please!" she exclaimed with unmistakable feeling.

Some aver that the feminine mind is not attracted by metaphysics anyway!—Exchange.

Out In the Rain.

It is particularly aggravating when you get caught in the rain with your new hat to see by the official weather report that the precipitation was only six one-hundredths of an inch.—Ohio State Journal.

Idleness makes such slow progress that misery easily catches it at the first turning of the roadway.

SAGE FOR DARKENING THE HAIR.

There is nothing new about the idea of using sage for restoring the color of the hair. Our great-grandmothers kept their locks soft, dark and glossy by using a "sage tea." Whenever their hair fell out or took on a dull, faded or streaked appearance, they made a brew of sage leaves and applied it to their hair with wonderfully beneficial effect. Nowadays we don't have to resort to the old-time, tiresome method of gathering the herbs and making the brew. This is done by skillful chemists better than we could do it ourselves, and all we have to do is to call for the ready-made product. Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur, containing sage in the proper strength, with the addition of Sulphur, another old-time scalp remedy. This preparation is sold by all first-class druggists for 50c. and $1.00 a bottle, or is sent direct by the Wyeth Chemical Company, 74 Cortlandt St., New York City, upon receipt of price.

HOLIDAY FOOTBALL

Championship at West Quincy Not Settled.

The West Ends and the Bryant A. C. struggled for two 15 minute halves Thursday morning and at the end of that time the score of their football game read 0 to 0. Played in a heavy rain it was impossible to do more than simple line plunging and these tactics resulted in no gain for either side, so that the championship between the two teams remains unsettled.

Y. M. C. A. RUN SIX STARTERS

Phelan Was First and Allen Second

The Y. M. C. A. 3-mile cross country run, which was held Thanksgiving morning, was won by J. F. Phelan in the time of 17 minutes and 28 seconds. R. W. Allen of the Fore River apprentices came second and Julius Paluzzi, third. There were six starters, the other three being, Stewart Dineen, John Wilson and John Murray. All finished in good condition except Wilson, who dropped out at Wollaston heights because of cramps.

The finish was an exciting one, as Allen, the Fore River lad, was pushing Phelan close and it was only by a spurt in the last twenty-five yards that Phelan won out. The race was run in remarkably fast time considering conditions. The runners reached Newport avenue, over half the way home, in 9 minutes and continued their fast pace from start to finish.

BASKET BALL.

At Houghs Neck, Thanksgiving day, the Houghs Neck Independents defeated the Germantown A. A. 33 to 3. There was nothing to it but Houghs Neck from start to finish and Kiley, R. F., was the most of Houghs Neck, scoring 7 baskets and 1 foul. For the losers Finlay played a good game getting a one hand shot for the basket of nearly the floors length.

The score:

HOUGHS NECK.	GERMANTOWN
William Kiley, rf	lb, B. Finlay
H. Trask, lf	rb, C. Holmes
H. Hodgkinson, c	c, R. Rich
G. Coughlin, G. Morey, rb	lf, E. Rich
B. Acorn, lb	rf, G. Finlay

Score--Houghs Neck 33; Germantown 3. Goals from floor--Kiley 7, B. Finlay 1, Hodgkinson 4, B. Acorn 3, Trask 1. Goals from fouls--Trask, Kiley. E. Rich, Hodgkinson. Referee--R. Grant. Umpire--B. Acorn. Scorer--F. Baird. Timer, R. Cavanagh. Time--2-20 minute halves. Attendance 70.

The Granite City Club keep open house tonight. An orchestra will furnish music. The regular whist tournament will be played, and there will be billiards and pool for those who desire. Refreshments will be served.

WOLLASTON VICTORY

Defeat Cunningham Gym Team 9 to 6.

The Wollaston A. A. won their fifth victory on the afternoon of the holiday by the defeating of the Cunningham gym. aggregation for the second time this season 9 to 6. The first score came when Robbins, standing on Milton's 35 yard-line, duplicated his trick of three weeks ago and dropped kicked a goal. Toward the latter part of the same half, when Milton had the ball on Wollaston's 10 yard-line and a minute to play, they essayed a play through tackle, but while the players were massed together, Flynn who played center for Wollaston emerged from the pile with the ball, and before the startled Milton players could comprehend, he planted the ball after a 100-yard run behind Milton's goal line for a touchdown. Flynn kicked the goal and the score was 9 to 0 with the first half over.

In the second half Milton managed to score a touchdown but Wollaston put up a magnificent defence, especially Gourlie and Claflin on the left side and the game ended with the ball on Wollaston's 10 yard line.

Powell the star half back for Milton was powerless to gain with Claflin and Gourlie on the line, they nailing him time and again for a loss. A large crowd witnessed the contest despite the wet weather, and it proved to be the best game on the field this year. A large bunch of Quincy rooters accompanied the team over and rooted hard for victory.

The summary:

WOLLASTON	CUNNINGHAM

BOTHNER TO MEET CARROLL.

Veteran Lightweight Wrestler and Englishman to Clash In New York.

George Bothner, the veteran lightweight wrestler, it seems, will never grow old. Today, hitting around the forty year mark, he seems the same lively, slippery wrestler that marked him as a wonder a dozen years ago.

Recently Bothner met Will Bingham, a young and worthy grappler from England, in a bout in Jersey City, N. J., and in the contest, which was marked by some of the finest and cleverest work seen in many a month, won two straight falls. The first one was gained after one hour and fifty-eight minutes of wrestling, in which each contestant was submitted to a great deal of punishment. Bothner squirmed out of many a tight place in that almost two hours, and Bingham, too, showed a great knowledge of the clever end of the game.

In weight Bingham had quite an advantage over Bothner, but the latter, having lost none of his cunning, easily overcame that. George was as slippery as the old eel he was always compared with. Time has not done a thing to him. He is as wiry and strong as in the days when heavyweights found him as tough to throw as men of their own weight. Bingham proved himself to be a first class man, and his defeat by no means is a disgrace. He is sure to win many more bouts than he will lose, and if the game gets the booming it deserves now the Englishman should find plenty to do during the winter months.

Jack Carroll, Ireland's lightweight champion, challenged the winner, and Bothner has agreed to take him on in New York about the middle of December. If Carroll is as good as he says he is followers of wrestling should have the opportunity of seeing a first class contest.

KETCHEL TO FIGHT FLYNN.

Michigan Lad and Pueblo Fireman to Clash In Los Angeles.

Stanley Ketchel, who recently met defeat at the hands of Jack Johnson, the colored heavyweight champion, is again going to exhibit his choice collection of swings and uppercuts in a ten round bout with Jim Flynn, the Pueblo fireman, in Los Angeles, Cal., early in December. Ketchel wanted one more fight before sailing abroad, where he intends to meet several heavyweights.

Ketchel has also decided to forsake the middleweight division. He made this known recently when he was approached on the subject of a match with Hugo Kelly of Chicago. It was only a few days ago that he consented to sign up with Kelly and Papke, but now he has given up the idea.

He feels that he is getting too big for the middleweight class and will retire from that field forever. This will leave the title at the mercy of Billy Papke and Hugo Kelly, the two next best 150 pounders, and it is up to some promoter to pit these men together to settle the argument. Stanley when asked whether he was going to give the title up said:

"Jeffries got in bad by giving it away, and I am going to avoid any mixups. I had to fight to win it; let the others do so. I will retire and leave the title for the next best man. Billy Papke and Hugo Kelly appear to me the men immediately back of me in standing, and let them fight it out. The winner certainly might be recognized as the middleweight champion. Kelly is a wonderfully good fighter, and so is Papke. They can well represent the class I stand head of."

FUTURE SPORT EVENTS

Greece will hold 1910 Olympic games.

Japan university students will organize an intercollegiate baseball league.

The Earlham college basketball team of Richmond, Ind., will take an 800 mile trip during the Christmas holidays.

Willie Hoppe and Ora Morningstar may play for 18.1 balk line billiard honors at Philadelphia about Jan. 1 next.

John A. Heydler, president of the National League of Baseball Clubs, has issued a call for the annual meeting of the league at the Waldorf-Astoria, in New York, Dec. 14.

The flag to flag endurance and reliability contest for automobiles from Denver to the City of Mexico, which was scheduled to start Nov. 22, has been postponed and will be held next summer, as originally planned. It is planned to have the contest in June or July, during the centennial celebration at the Mexican capital.

BOSTON AMUSEMENTS

Boston Theatre.

Klaw & Erlanger will send their first big production of the theatrical year, and the first real novelty of the season to the Boston Theatre, beginning Monday, November 29th. It is "The Circus Man" and Maclyn Arbuckle will be seen as "Fighting Hime" Look. This comedy drama has been evolved from Holman F. Day's story "Squire Phin" by Eugene W. Presbrey, one of the most skilled writers for the stage in America and it comes here after prosperous engagements in Chicago, Milwaukee, Detroit, Pittsburg, Buffalo and Washington. With the scenes laid in the small town of Palermo, Maine, and its story peopled with denizens of that region, the delightful atmosphere of New England is once again transferred to the boards of a theatre, recalling the triumphs and the charms of "Way Down East," "The Old Homestead," "The County Fair," and other plays of the like. The quaint characters of the Maine folk are to some extent indicated by the names assigned to them:—"Fighting Hime," Look; "Squire" Phin; Klebe Willard; the Widow Snell; Caje Dunham; "Hard Times" Wharf; "Figger Four," Avery; "Cap" Nymph Bodfish; Dow Babb; Wat Mayo; Uncle Buck and Amazeen, being some of the personages.

Keith's Theatre.

That Albert Chevalier has lost none of his art but on the contrary has increased his drawing power as an entertainer, is being evidenced at Keith's where he is delighting large audiences with his characterizations of English types with which his name has been for years identified. Those who have seen and heard him can readily understand the great sensation he created in Chicago and it is no surprise to hear that he is being held over for another week at Keith's. For his last week he is surrounded by a bill of headliners, many of them new to Boston. One of the most interesting will be Beatrice Ingram & Company, in a new comedy sketch called "The Duchess," which is said to be a sensation of laughs from start to finish. Will Rogers, the famous lasso expert will also appear. LLillian Shaw, the eccentric comedienne, who is always good for half an hour of sustained laughter, comes with new songs, and others are the Tasmanian Van Dieman Troupe, one of the largest companies of women acrobats in America; Imro Fox, the magician; Browning & Iyvan in a new sketch called "The Recruiting Office," the Three Donals, a musical act, and Doherty & Harlow who will be seen for the first time in travesty.

Park Theatre.

There is no let-up to the popularity

HATTIE WILLIAMS,
In Detective Sparkes,

of that brilliant comedy of Washington life and American ideals. "A Gentleman from Mississippi," which is now in its third month at the Park Theatre, Boston. It has well been described as "The very best American comedy since 'The Senator.'" As a matter of fact, it is something more than that; for, while "The Senator" in its day, was a merry and entertaining play, it never pretended to be the accurate and life like picture of official Washington which "A Gentleman from Mississippi" is admitted to be. Indeed a large measure of the immense success that is come to the latter play is due to the fact that it deals with a live topic, one that is in the mind of every American citizen; and the especial situation of Act III, the defiance of the senate leaders by the new member from Mississippi, is based upon the actual happenings of the last few years, when for the first time in nearly a century, the so-called "plain people" of the United States were aroused to an appreciation of the essential romance and drama in the everyday proceedings of the country's law-makers. Of thrills—thrills that reach the mind as well as the heart, and that stir the thoughts as easily and surely as they stir the emotions—there are no end in "A Gentleman from Mississippi." Night after night there are recalls for the players.

American Music Hall.

The bill which will be presented at the American Music Hall next week will contain so many good features that it is difficult to select a headline but from a comedy standpoint there is no question but that the palm will be carried off by Kate Elinore one of the famous Elinore sisters who with Sam Williams will present the screaming farce "The Last of the Suffragettes." Theatre-goers who have seen the Elinore sisters will recognize in Kate Elinor the comedy member of the pair. Her long lanky arms and her grotesque style of gesture makes it impossible to keep a straight face while looking at her. Pauline the great French hypnotist, surpassed all expectations last week and scored such a success that the management wisely decided to hold him over for another week. Pauline uses from twenty to thirty subjects and the complete mastery he has over them is a decided novelty when other so-called hypnotists are considered. Many doctors have witnessed his act and have pronounced him a legitimate demonstrator of the power of mind over matter. Genaro & Bailey, late stars of "Tony The Bootblack," will present a comedy sketch which has been a winner in every city where it has appeared.

Hollis Street Theatre.

The visit of Hattie Williams to Boston is always a welcome event, for that charming actress has intrenched herself deeply in the admiration and affection of local theatre-goers; but added interest centers in the coming two week's engagement of Miss Williams at the Hollis Street Theatre commencing Monday, Nov. 29, because she comes direct from the Garrick Theatre, New York, in a comedy-drama that would have finished out the entire season there were it not for previous contracts for the production of other plays at that theatre. "Detective Sparkes" in which Miss Williams comes here, is billed as "an original comedy-drama" by Michael Morton, and "original" it is both in theme and treatment. Whether or not Mr. Morton had Miss Williams in mind when he wrote the play, the fact remains, judging from the comments of the New York critics, that the role of Athol Forbes, which Miss Williams interprets, calls for just that vivacity and personal charm that has always characterized that clever comedienne. "Detective Sparkes" is full of mystery and fun. It teems with exciting incidents and the action is fast and furious. During every minute of the four acts the audience is kept guessing as to what is coming next, and not until the very end of the play is the real story ended.

Castle Square Theatre.

John Craig may well be congratulated upon his coming week's production. The play is entitled "Honor," and its author is Hermann Sudermann, the famous German dramatist, who is perhaps best known in this country through his "Magda," which has been produced by Modjeska, Elanora Duse, Sarah Bernhardt and other artists. "Honor" has been widely acclaimed in Germany, the country of its birth, and as well in London and New York, but it has remained for Mr. Craig to bring it to Boston. At the Castle Square next week it will receive its first production here. The theme of "Honor" is the return of a young man to his old home, after a five years' absence in foreign lands, and the plot reveals his feeling when he finds the conditions changed and himself out of all sympathy with the relatives and friends whom he had expected to greet happily on his coming back. It is filled with emotional scenes and fine dramatic situations, and it has something new to say on the everlasting and always popular theme of the Prodical Son. In every way, its production will be a distinct novelty and of undoubted interest to Boston playgoers, and it will give still further evidence of Mr. Craig's enterprise and the popularity and versatility of his stock company.

TODAY'S COURT.

Jacob Sleeper was fined $10, Jean B. Langelier $10, Edgar S. Peck $20, George Edgett $15, Walter Carr $20, Perley R. Glass $10, and Jennie M. Clarke $15, for exceeding the automobile speed limit at Milton. Glass appealed.

James Sullivan was arraigned for drunkenness at Quincy. Case continued until Dec. 29.

Thomas C. McDonnell was sentenced to the State farm for drunkenness at Quincy. Appealed.

LODGE NOTES

The success of the first social night of Quincy lodge of Elks Tuesday evening was such that the members are unanimous in impressing it upon the exalted ruler that there shall be more of them. Fred Parker Ham of Somerville lodge, an old theatical man, added greatly to the entertainment program by his recitations.

The ladies of Clan McGregor, O. S. C., held their annual masquerade ball at Music hall Wednesday evening. As usual it was largely attended and a grand good time enjoyed. The ball is reported at length in another column.

The degree staff of Mt. Wollaston lodge, I. O. O. F., worked the second degree upon several candidates Tuesday evening for Neponset, John Hancock and Mt. Wollaston lodges.

Hon. Edward P. Barry of the Governor's council, gave an address before Weymouth council, Knights of Columbus, Sunday afternoon.

Cornelius M. Duggan, H. S. C., paid an official visit to St. Jeromes court of Boston on Monday evening.

Norfolk lodge, A. O. U. W., of Norfolk Downs, held an autumn reunion and dance at Music hall, Atlantic, Monday evening.

The last regular meeting of Granite lodge, Order Sons of St. George, held in Doble's hall Wednesday evening, proved to be a very interesting one. Officers for the coming term were elected as follows: W. Pres., John Rashleigh; W. V. Pres., Robert Winship; W. Mess., Fred Beer; W. Sec., John T. Pearce; W. A. Sec., Thomas W. Smith; W. Treas., Arthur Tremayne; Trustee, Ed. J. Warmington. Two candidates were initiated by the degree staff in dress regalia, which presented a very pleasing spectacle to those members who ventured out in the stormy weather to attend this meeting. After the meeting was brought to a close, a social hour was enjoyed by all. At the next meeting Dec. 8, the newly elected officers will be installed in their respective positions and any Sons of St. George who are not members of Granite lodge are cordially invited to attend.

Mrs. Elizabeth P. Sawyer, president of the Department of Massachusetts, Woman's Relief Corps, announces in a general order that the membership of the organization in Massachusetts is 14,685, and that during the last quarter $1,123.20 was expended for relief; $1,164.11 turned over to posts of the Grand Army of the Republic, and relife other than money, given to the amount of $435.87. Contributions have been received for the department relief fund amounting to $385.44 but several hundred dollars more will be needed to carry on the work.

GOOD PROSPECTS FOR THE CANAL

Report of Commissioner Crane on the Norfolk Convention.

Where Quincy and Brockton Canal Was Endorsed by Prominent Men.

Quincy has been anxiously awaiting the report of Frank Fessenden Crane, the Quincy Commissioner of Water Front, Water Ways and Navigation, who represented the city at the Atlantic Deeper Waterways convention held at Norfolk, Va., for it has been intimated that the canal project from Boston to Narragansett bay received favorable consideration. Such a canal interests every citizen of Quincy for it is said such a canal would mean a saving of not less than $1 a ton on coal, and a saving on granite shipments. Mr. Crane makes the following report to Mayor Shea, whose instructions to Mr. Crane were: "Keep yourself informed on every movement of both great Waterway parties, and familiar with the Atlantic seaboard matters, and push anything that will help to improve the city of Quincy with its great water front and shipbuilding facilities."

THE REPORT.

To His Honor the Mayor:

The convention at Norfolk, Va., was a very enthusiastic one, and the best authorities of the United States spoke on the Atlantic Deeper Waterways projects, one of which is our canal project of an inland waterway from Narragansett bay to Boston harbor via Brockton and Quincy. This route attracted a large share of attention at the convention.

The Governor of Rhode Island gave a great impetus to our route when he assured the convention that his state would push our canal by every honorable means.

Rear Admiral Sperry, who brought home the fleet, says the Narragansett bay to Boston harbor is the only logical route.

Gen. Mansfield said that Massachusetts was satisfied to await the report of the U. S. engineers who are making the survey for the canal, and felt the utmost confidence that they would give us a proper route from Narragansett bay to Boston harbor.

I had the honor to be re-elected from Massachusetts, and was also elected on the ways and means committee, and on the committee of time and place, and I take great pleasure in informing you that the next convention is to be held at Providence, R. I., and it is my hope that Quincy will send a large and representative delegation to that convention.

The presence of our honored president at the convention added greatly to its importance and national interest. Speeches were made by Congressman J. Hampton Moore, president of the Atlantic Deeper Waterways Association; Congressman Ransdell, president of the Rivers and Harbors Congress; Rear Admiral Sperry; John Barrett, director of the National Bureau of American Republics; Congressman Small of North Carolina; ex-Senator Anthony Higgins of Delaware, Frank D. LaLanne, president of the National Board of Trade, Congressman Goulden of New York and many others.

THE HOSPITALITY

of the city of Norfolk was unbounded, and every delegate was made to feel that he was a distinguished guest, and the memory of the attention we received will certainly be a life-long pleasure.

With the convention coming to Providence, and the whole state of Rhode Island interested to connect the parish canal of Rhode Island with the Narragansett bay and Boston Harbor canal of Massachusetts I think that our city should congratulate its Mayor on keeping in touch with so great and progressive a movement.

Very respectfully yours,
Frank Fessenden Crane
Com. of Water Front, Waterways and Navigation.

EIGHT POINTS.

From this report it is evident that there are eight points for readers of the Daily Ledger to remember:

1st,—No canal that is to be built by the U. S. government can be started, or money appropriated for it, unless a survey is made by the U. S. government engineers, and a report made on it.

2nd,—That the $100,000 survey that it now being made by the U. S. government is the first project of the Atlantic Deeper Waterway Association that can receive attention.

3d,—That our canal project from Narragansett bay to Boston is part and parcel of this survey.

4th,—That Gen. Samuel E. Mansfield tells us to wait and have confidence in that report.

5th,—That Rear Admiral Sperry says it is the only logical route.

6th,—That the governor of the state of Rhode Island says his state will use every honorable means to promote the canal from Narragansett Bay to Boston Harbor.

7th,—That if the canal is built it will be a free Canal and will mean a saving of not less than one dollar a ton to every coal consumer in the city of Quincy, or approximately $200,000 per annum. That it will mean an enormous discount in the shipping of granite to the South, and of lumber to our city. That Quincy cannot help but benefit, as every route surveyed comes out on the channel that passes our wharves.

8th,—The Cape Cod canal, now in process of construction is not a free government canal, is not being surveyed by the U. S. government, has not been approved by the U. S. government and has no appropriation from the U. S. government, either to construct or to buy.

It means much to the City of Quincy to have a

who looks ahead to see that a city that has twenty-five miles of water frontage with channels deep enough to float the largest battleship, must keep advised in such matters, with the canal and deeper inland waterways projects coming into such prominence, that the President of the United States adds to the project both by his presence and advice.

The character and dignity of the men at the head of both the Atlantic Deeper Waterways and the Rivers and Harbors Congress is such, that any city may be proud to have a delegate associated with them.

The fact that it is a business men's movement having no politics of any sort connected with it, men of both parties standing shoulder to shoulder for the good of all means much for the movement.

ON THE RIGHT TRACK.

That our Mayor is on the right track is shown by the best authorities, all stating that any city having water frontage on the Atlantic seaboard could not be too progressive in the matter of harbor terminals and facilities to feed them.

Lynn has alreay adopted a plan for a large and comprehensive improvement of her harbor and will be the first city on the Atlantic Inland Waterway System to begin the work of harbor improvement.

Some three years ago ex-Mayor James Thompson decided that it would be a wise policy for the city of Quincy to have a representative man as a delegate to the Great Waterway Conventions of the country, and selected Commodore Frank Fessenden Crane as the man for the position, and with the Board of Trade and the Citizens' Association endorsement, Commodore Crane was sent to Washington. Our present Mayor William T. Shea, with a far seeing eye to the

of Quincy decided that a man must be educated and made familiar with the doings of both the great Water Ways Association and the Rivers and Harbors Congress, and has had the same delegate attend all the conventions relating to the Water Ways matters that have been held and report to him on all matters that might have an influence on the great water front of our city. His Honor was gratified last year when the delegate from Quincy was made the delegate for the State of Massachusetts, by the convention there assembled, and more than pleased to have learned that Quincy's delegate with Hon. Loyed E. Chamberlain, judge of Probate for Plymouth County, E. E. Mellen, statistician of Brockton Board of Trade and Congressman Greene of Fall River, were able to report that through their efforts a portion of the United States, government survey, which was to be made for a continuous canal from Beaufort, N. C., to Boston, Mass., would include the proposed canal from Taunton to Boston. $100,000.00 was appropriated for this survey and $26,000.00 additional for the employment of local surveyors along the route. This survey will be reported on

NEXT SPRING.

Now comes more pleasing news for Quincy. Its delegate was honored by being reelected State delegate for Massachusetts and was further honored by being one of the committee on Ways and Means and one of the Committee on Time and place, and the place selected for the next Convention was Providence R. I. Our canal project and Rhode Island canal project are one and the same and when that able engineer, Edward Parrish conceived the idea of a canal from Narragansett Bay to Long Island Sound, thus avoiding the dangers of Block Island and Point Judith, he made a supplement to the Taunton River, Brockton and Quincy route that means much to Quincy.

Providence will give the glad hand to as many delegates as our city will send next year. The Governor of the State also extends a welcome to us, every civic organization in the state wants us to come, as our canal project is part of their canal project, and they are with us for success.

FUNERAL OF VETERAN.

The funeral of William F. Coolidge, a veteran of the Civil war, who died at the National Soldiers Home at Togus, Maine, was held Friday afternoon from the residence of his daughter, Mrs. Frank E. Burrell on Washington street. The services were largely attended, Paul Revere Post, 88, G. A. R., sending a delegation. They were conducted by Rev. Alfred Ray Atwood of the Washington Street Congregational church. Following the religious service the burial service of the Grand Army was read by officers of Paul Revere Post. The burial was at Mt. Wollaston.

BROUGHT DOWN A DEER.

John F. Wentworth of Miller Stile road was successful in securing a 191 pound deer on his gunning trip in New Hampshire, which has been shipped to Quincy and is now on exhibition at Johnson Bros.' market. It was shot at Albany, N. H., where he also found excellent partridge shooting.

BRILLIANT ASSEMBLY

Dancing Party a Very Pretty Affair

The one dancing party of the year that calls out the social set is the annual affair known as the Quincy Assembly. That of this year, which was held last evening at Music hall, was no exception to the rule. Not only was the party well attended but it was one of the prettiest dancing parties ever held at the hall. The young set were out in full force, and the gowns were varied and beautiful.

Quincy was more largely represented this year than usual, all sections of the city sending some of the most charming of its younger set, as well as many of its young matrons. Braintree and other adjoining towns were all represented the whole forming a most attractive picture. The modern dances prevailed, although in answer to a request there was a square dance, but this ended with a waltz on an encore.

Mullaley's orchestra furnished the dancing music, and as usual it was entrancing. The matrons were Mrs. W. G. Shaw, Mrs. Eben W. Sheppard and Mrs. W. E. Blanchard. They received during the entire evening.

The ushers were: Edward J. Badger, Carroll M. Bill, Ralph W. Burnet, John J. Crain, William I. Dewson, Samuel W. Ellsworth Richard R. Freeman, Jr., Henry E. Frick, Lorenzo H. Gilson, George F. Hall, Charles R. Hendrie, Nathaniel S. Hunting, Edward E. Jameson, John H. Johnson, W .G. Kendall Delcevare King, N. Gorham Nickerson, Warren G. Ogden, George E. Pfaffmann, Charles A. Price, Walter C. Sampson, Carl R. Sheppard, Joel F. Sheppard, F. Morton Smith, Laurance H. Sturtevant Moreton T. Swallow and Dexter E. Wadsworth.

The patronesses were: Mrs. Edward H. Angier, Mrs. Perley E. Barbour, Mrs. William R. Bateman, Mrs . E. Tyler Brigham, Mrs. John T. Conway, Mrs. Henry P. Dowst, Mrs. Frank A. Emery, Mrs. William B. Ferguson, Mrs. George F. Hall, Mrs. Henry I. Hall, Mrs. Sydney C. Hardwick, Mrs. W. G. Kendall, Mrs. Henry L. Kincaide, Mrs. Carlton C. Lane, Mrs. Jesse I. Litchfield, Miss Maud Macfarlane, Mrs. N. Gorham Nickerson, Mrs. Alvah H. Pierce, Mrs. Forrest B. Royal, Mrs. Charles Sampson, Mrs. Henry H. Schulze, Mrs. Joseph M. Sheahan, Mrs. Carl R. Sheppard, Mrs. Frederick H. Smith, Mrs. Eugene H. Sprague and Mrs. Laurance H. Sturtevant.

The committee in charge to whom the credit for the success of the party is due were: Mrs. E. J. Badger, Mrs. Charles M. Bryant, Mrs. Herbert J. Gurney, Mrs. N. S. Hunting, Mrs. E. E. Jameson, Mrs. J. H. Johnson, Mrs. Theophilus King, Mrs. Herbert Lawton, Mrs. F. J. Moore, Mrs. Charles A. Price, Mrs. W. G. Shaw, and Mrs. W. W. Whitcher.

MAUNDER'S CANTATA

Successful Rendering of "A Song of Thanksgiving"

A rare musical treat was the special Thanksgiving service at Christ church last evening when J. H. Maunder's "A Song of Thanksgiving," was given by the augmented vested choir of Christ church and the vested (female) choir of Emmanuel church, Braintree. These two choirs were assisted by the following soloists: Miss Emily Willson, soprano; Miss Akeroyd contralto, and H. M. Reynolds tenor. The whole was given under the direction of Prof. Frank Wrigley, the organist.

Rev. A. E. Clattenburg of St. Chrysostoms church was present in the chancel with Rev. Richard E. Armstrong, the rector, but took no part.

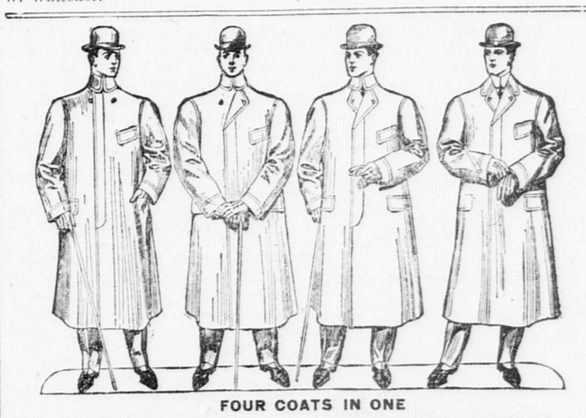

The program opened with a processional hymn, "O brothers lift up your voice, "being followed by versieles and responses and prayer by Rev. Mr. Armstrong. Then came a hymn, "Come ye thankful people, come." This was followed by the cantata, "A song of Thanksgiving." The words of the cantata were printed on three pages of the program, which enabled the large audience present to more thoroughly enjoy it.

The offertory, the hymn "Lord, God, we Worship Thee" was given, and then came the benediction and vesper hymn by the choir and the recessional. "Rejoice Ye pure in heart." The congregation joined in the singing of the hymns, and the edifice was filled with soul inspiring music. It was a rare musical treat and its successful production was due in a great measure to Prof. Wrigley.

BRIEFS

Miss Beatrice Johnson of Maple street spent Thanksgiving with her aunt and uncle, Mr. and Mrs. Henry W. Sprague of Malden.

St. Chrysostom's branch of the Girls' Friendly Society is to hold a sale Friday evening in the parish rooms.

Fragment society of First church is to hold an all day meeting in the church parlor on Wednesday beginning at ten o'clock. It will be a box luncheon meeting.

The storm Wednesday night caused no little disappointment as quite a party of young people from Quincy had planned to attend the dance at the Cochato clubhouse, Braintree, that night.

A meeting of the Federation of Young People's Religious unions is to be held Sunday evening at the Channing church, Dorchester. Delegates will attend from the Quincy and Wollaston Unitarian churches.

Rev. A. Edwin Clattenburg rector of St. Chrysostom's church, has made arrangements for the consecration of the church by Bishop Lawrence February 3d.

The accident on the railroad Wednesday night effected many Atlantic home comers. A number of people suffered the discomfort of a walk across Neponset bridge in the rain and sleet.

WOLLASTON CONGREGATIONAL.

The following musical program will be rendered Sunday morning at the Wollaston Congregational church:

Processional—To Thee our hearts we raise.

Anthem—I have given you every look, Button .

Offertory—Lord we pray thee Roberts.

Response—Turn thy face from my Sins, Sullivan.

Recessional—We plough the fields.

At the four o'clock vesper service the following is the musical program:

Processional—Come ye Thankful people.

Te Deum—Quartet, Kotzschmar.

Soprano solo—Thy great mercies, Mendelssohn.

Quartet and Girls' choir—O Worship the king, Maunder.

Alto solo—The Lord hath fulfilled his promise, Maunder.

Quartet—While the earth remaineth, Maunder.

Recessional—Now sing we a song for harvest.

NOT WORRIED OVER REBUFFS

Young Dutch "Count" Determined to Meet Rockefeller

SALLY WITH AN AUTOMOBILE

Machine Dashes by Guards at Entrance to Oil King's Estate at Rate of Sixty Miles an Hour, Its Occupant Being Fired Upon, but Not Hit—Wants Aid In Scheme to Drain the Zuyder Zee

Cleveland, Nov. 27.—A young man from Holland, who signs himself Count DeVries, has made three furious but futile attempts to see John D. Rockefeller at Forest Hill.

Once yesterday, in an automobile, he dashed past the guards at the entrance to the Rockefeller estate at the rate of sixty miles an hour. He was shot at but not hit, and managed to reach the Rockefeller front door.

He opened the door and walked in, but was met by the butler, who, aided by guards, thrust him out. Then he was forcibly ejected from the grounds.

This automobile sally followed two other attempts, one earlier in the day and one on Thanksgiving day. The count, who is stopping at one of the best hotels, has come all the way from Holland to interest Rockefeller in a scheme to drain the Zuyder Zee and turn its present bed into a smiling land of gardens and homes.

As yet the count has failed to reach the oil king, but he says he will say here until he gets an audience. If he doesn't get a chance here he intends to follow the oil magnate to New York.

The count, who arrived on Monday, did not make an attempt to see Rockefeller till Thursday, when he thought the rich man would be in a mellow mood following his Thanksgiving day dinner. He found the gatekeeper, however, a rock in his path.

Though he explained his mission to Pat Lynch, who has been on the Forest Hill gate for ten years, Lynch was not impressed, and the count was forced to turn back without getting within gunshot of the oil man's mansion. But the count, not worried over his rebuffs, says he will try again.

WOMEN ARE RELEASED

Smuggling Suspects Prove to Be Wives of American Citizens

Boston, Nov. 27.—The three New York women who were held for examination by the customs officials at this port on Thanksgiving day, after the discovery of a false bottom trunk with a large quantity of handmade laces and embroideries concealed in it, have been released because they were the wives of American citizens.

Hilja Nelson, the young woman whose name was on the false bottom trunk, however, is within reach of the authorities, as she left her New York address, so that she might be notified in case she is wanted after the goods are appraised.

In addition to the laces and embroideries, a quantity of jewelry and bric-a-brac was also found concealed in the trunk.

TWO BARGES MISSING

Fears That They Have Gone to the Bottom With Their Crews

Providence, Nov. 27.—Despite a diligent search by a tug, no trace of the two barges, Conewago and E. H. Stetson, which broke adrift from the tug Patience southwest of Montauk, has been found. It is feared that both have gone to the bottom.

The Conewago, bound for Providence, with five men aboard, and the E. W. Stetson for Boston, with a crew of four, were two of a tow of three coal-laden barges being taken by the Patience from Philadelphia. The Patience put into Newport with the third barge, the Kimberton, and immediately put to sea again to search for the missing barges.

GAGE AGAIN MARRIED

Former Secretary of Treasury Takes Bride Many Years His Junior

Coronado, Cal., Nov. 27.—Lyman J. Gage, former secretary of the treasury, was married to Mrs. Ada Ballou, daughter of George M. Ballou, at her parents' home in Coronado. Gage is 73 and the bride a widow of 35.

Mrs. Gage married Robert L. Crane in 1902, but they were divorced two years later in New York. She became later a member of the sextet in one of the "Florodora" companies. Gage has been married twice before.

Chinese Eggs For America

Victoria, B. C., Nov. 27.—Steamer Empress of China brought 116 barrels of eggs from Shanghai. This is the first shipment of this kind to America. Shanghai dealers hope to build up trade in this product.

Volcanic Eruptions Ceasing

Santa Cruz, Teneriffe, Nov. 27.—The volcanic eruptions are diminishing. One of the craters has ceased activity. The lava has divided into six streams, but is advancing slowly.

WIRES PROBABLY CUT

Reason For State Department's Failure to Hear From Nicaragua

Washington, Nov. 27.—The state department is still without information from the American vice consul at Managua, Mr. Caldera, and the strong inference is that his disptches have been intercepted by the Nicaraguan officials under President Zelaya, at least to the extent of cutting the telegraph wires.

The department has no doubt that Caldera has attempted to communicate with it several times during the last week or more. Owing to the absence of specific information which was sought to be obtained through Caldera and other agencies, the officials here undoubtedly will delay at least for a time before taking further action.

A dispatch from Bluefields reassures the United States as to whether American interests or American citizens are being interfered with by the revolutionary army. In effect the dispatch states that Americans are safe.

BAFFALO MAN RUNS AMUCK

Kills a Man and Injures Policeman Before He Is Captured

Buffalo, Nov. 27.—Charles Strohl, an employe of a bakery, walked into the reading room of the Buffalo public library, pulled a revolver and shot and killed Franz Stantz. The murderer rushed out of the building, pursued by a number of people and turned into an alley, exchanging shots with his pursuers, one shot striking an officer in the hand, disabling him.

By this time 1500 people had gathered. Strohl, taking shield behind a brick wall, occasionally looked over and fired. For fifteen minutes he held the crowd at bay. Finally, after the police had fired forty or fifty shots, they executed a flank movement and Strohl was finally cornered and caught.

POLAR RESEARCH TO BE LIFE WORK

McMillan Finds Himself Drawn to Arctic Regions

Freeport, Me., Nov. 27.—That he will start next July on an expedition to explore Crockettsland, the territory discovered by Commander Peary in his dash for the Pole, is the announcement made by Professor Donald B. McMillan, who was one of the Peary party.

Professor McMillan, who has been an instructor at Worcester academy, says that he will give up teaching and make Arctic exploration his life work. He declined to give any details of his proposed expedition to Crockettsland.

COOK BREAKS DOWN

Polar Explorer Has Gone Into Temporary Seclusion In New York

New York, Nov. 27.—As a result of the mental strain under which he has labored in preparing his records for the Danish scientists, Dr. Frederick A. Cook has suffered a nervous breakdown. He is at the home of an intimate friend in New York, but his condition is such that not even his closest personal friends are allowed to see him.

Looking haggard and ten years older than when he arrived from the Arctic regions in September, the explorer left his hotel at Bronxville Wednesday afternoon for a visit to New York. There was such a change in his condition he did not return to Bronxville and Mrs. Cook joined him here.

JAPANESE A WHITE MAN?

Question Is Being Threshed Out In Court at Richmond

Richmond, Nov. 27.—The question whether a Japanese is a white man within the meaning of the federal statute upon naturalization was vigorously debated in the United States circuit court of apepals here.

Namyo Bessho, former enlisted man and steward in the United States navy, is an applicant for American citizenship and the district attorney maintains that he is barred by the law which gives the right of citizenship to "all white persons" and all those of African descent who are of good moral character. The case may not be decided for several days.

King Edward Proposed as Arbiter

Santiago, Chili, Nov. 27.—William Pierrepont, the American charge d'affaires, made a proposal to the Chilian government that the Alsop claim, which is in dispute between Chili and the United States, be submitted to the arbitration of King Edward, who is friendly to both sides.

Two Die of Coal Gas

Lynn, Mass., Nov. 27.—A high wind, which blew down the chimney and closed the damper on a parlor stove, caused the deaths by coal gas asphyxiation of Charles Herrick, aged 80, and Miss Ida Lydston, his housekeeper, in East Lynn.

Home of Murdered Man and His Laundry Building Assessed to His Brother-In-Law, Who Is Mysteriously Missing—Buggy Seen on Night of Tragedy May Prove of Importance In Solving Waltham Murder Mystery

Waltham, Mass., Nov. 27.—It is the belief of the brothers of Hattie Le Blanc, the 16-year-old Waltham girl who is charged with the murder of Clarence F. Glover, that their sister was merely a decoy to lure the victim to his laundry and that he was killed by another. The brothers have been investigating the case on their own beliefs and have accumulated evidence which they will present to District Attorney Higgins. They have detectives on the case and have retained counsel for their sister.

Whether Hattie Le Blanc was in the habit of meeting Glover in the laundry is one of the matters which the police particularly wish to determine. They are searching for witnesses who may have seen the couple enter the building Saturday night, and who may also have seen a third person follow the couple.

The police have learned that the Main street house, where the Glovers lived, and also the laundry building, are assessed to Antonio Le Blanc, a brother of Mrs. Glover, as owner. And with this has come the information which the police regard as very interesting, to the effect that Glover and Antonio Le Blanc have not been on the best of terms. It is said that both Mrs. Glover and her brother Peter have failed to give the police any information as to the whereabouts of Antonio.

District Attorney Higgins and State Detective Charles E. Byrnes, who has been assigned to the case, were in conference with various people who it was thought might throw some light on the matter. Nothing as to the progress towards a solution, however, was given out.

A new and startling discovery in the murder was the discovery that a girl was heard crying out in the alley that leads to the laundry about the time of the tragedy and that a covered wagon, believed to have been a buggy, was seen in the alley near the laundry.

This strengthens the belief that a third person was conected with the tragedy; that this third person reached the laundry where Glover and the girl were by means of a stairway running from the alley, and that the third person escaped in the buggy.

It would be perfectly feasible for a person to reach the laundry in a buggy through this alley, ascend to the collar room by way of the outside stairway, where the shooting took place, and get away in a buggy.

Now, the question is, who was in that buggy? Did the person in the buggy do the shooting, and did Glover think it was Hattie Le Blanc? Was Hattie Le Blanc carried away in that buggy?

Tobey La Blanc Found?

Boston, Nov. 27.—The Post says: Tobey R. Le Blanc, for whom the police have vainly searched in their investigation of the Clarence F. Glover murder at Waltham, has been found by the Boston Post.

Last night a Post reporter found that Le Blanc was living at 5 Taylor street, South End, under the name of White. The English translation of his name was assumed by Le Blanc over a year ago.

The police gave the newspaper men to understand that the much-sought Le Blanc had left no traces by which they could locate him. They told of vain attempts to get the information as to his whereabouts from those they believed should know.

And aside from locating Le Blanc, the Post learned yesterday that but a few hours after the Waltham police had ceased their surveillance of the Glover house Tobey Le Blanc called on his sister and spent many hours in her company.

NEW RECORD FOR WRITING

New York Man Puts Out Fifteen Hundred Words In Fifteen Minutes

St. Joseph, Mo., Nov. 27.—At the meeting of the Missouri Valley Commercial Teachers' association H. O. Blaisdell of New York made a new world's record by writing 1505 words from copy he had not seen before in fifteen minutes.

This was more than one hundred words a minute, the previous high record being ninety-five words a minute.

Two Women Killed In Feud

Williamson, W. Va., Nov. 27.—Firing from the doorway of their home on a sheiff's posse to give their father and brother an opportunity to escape, Mrs. Charles Daniels and her 16-year-old daughter were shot to death near Devon by the officers. The shooting of Mrs. Daniels and her daughter grew out of a family feud.

FIRST CASE OF ITS KIND

Surgical Operation Gives a Man Control of an Artificial Eye

Cleveland, Nov. 26.—The successful transplantation of fatty tissue from the abdominal wall to the eyesocket of Peter Rothgery, a patient at the city hospital, is announced by Dr. Ibershoff. The operation, according to local surgeons, is the first of its kind recorded.

The conclusive proof was obtained that the tissue has resumed its normal and healthy function. The tissue was used as the base for the setting of an artificial eye. This eye is now susceptible to precisely the same control as to movement as the living eye, it is said by Dr. Ibershoff.

Nurse Sprinkles Arsenic on Baby and Causes Its Death

Aurora, Ills., Nov. 26.—A kindly meaning neighbor of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Davis of Salisbury came into their home to take care of their girl babe, 12 days old, while Mrs. Davis was ill, and the well-meant intentions killed the baby.

Under the impression that she was using talcum powder, the nurse, after bathing the child, twice sprinkled her charge with powdered arsenic, and the infant died.

Worcester, Mass., Nov. 26.—As a result of drinking a pint of bay rum, James Cavanaugh, 50 years old, died at the home of George E. Duncan, where he was a boarder.

New Fashion In Birth Cards.

A new fashion in birth cards has been introduced. Instead of the conventional engraved cards of parents and the new baby tied with narrow white satin ribbon, there is a new idea.

It is the hand painted profile of a baby's head on a long white paper slip. One little hand and the careless frill of lace around the neck are suggested in pencil.

On the paper are written the name and the date of birth of the newly born.

The long, narrow envelope is also handmade and sealed with the family crest in wax or a tiny silver seal with the family initial in the center.

The day after the event these cards are mailed to all friends of the couple in all parts of the country.

If one must pay to have them done the cost is not slight, but if one is clever with the brush it proves a pleasant and simple task.

Here is an opportunity for some young girl who is artistic enough to do such sketching to let it be known that she is willing to take orders for a moderate price.

Laziness.

"Laziness is responsible for too much of the misery we see about us," said a clergyman. "It is all very well to blame alcohol for this misery, to blame oppression and injustice, but to what heights might we not all have climbed but for our laziness? We are too much like the supernumerary in the drama," he went on, "who had to enter from the right and say, 'My lord, the carriage waits.'

"'Look here, super,' said the stage manager one night. 'I want you to come on from the left instead of the right after this, and I want you to transpose your speech. Make it run hereafter, "The carriage waits, my lord."'

"The super pressed his hand to his brow.

"'More study, more study!' he groaned."

The Dragon Tree.

The dragon tree of Tenerife is perhaps the strangest vegetable in the world. It is thought to be a kind of giant asparagus, whose dead branches serve as a support for the crowns. New roots as they come into being encircle and conceal the original stem, which is far away inside, and the roots which become detached from the stem may be seen hanging withered in the upper tree. The trunk is generally hollow, and in the case of an old tree which was destroyed in 1867 there was a spacious chamber which had served the natives as a temple for generations. The tree was forty-eight feet around and ninety-five feet high and is supposed to have been originally watered with dragon's blood, which is the name now given to the sap. This is a regular article of commerce.

Worked Too Well.

A hotel proprietor, noticing that some of his customers were evidently trying to eat their suppers in the shortest possible time, lest they should miss the boat which was waiting at the wharf, thought it would be funny to frighten them. Accordingly he went into a back room and gave a remarkably perfect imitation of a steamboat's whistle. The joke worked well. The men heard the sound and rushed to the boat. The joker laughed long and loud until suddenly it occurred to him that the men had gone off without paying for their suppers. Then he stopped laughing.—London Town and Country Journal.

It Didn't Fall Out.

"I see your hair is falling out, sir," remarked the hairdresser, who was getting ready to work the hair tonic idea on the customer.

"You don't see anything of the sort," rejoined his victim. "What you see is the sequel to a falling out between Mrs. Codgers and myself."—London Answers.

OVERTAXED

Hundreds of Quincy Readers Know What it Means.

The kidneys are overtaxed;
Have too much to do.
They tell about it in many aches and pains—
Backache, sideache, headache.
Early symptoms of kidney ills.
Urinary troubles, diabetes, Bright's disease follow.

A Quincy citizen tells here the way to keep the kidneys well.

Mrs. George McDonald, 133 1-2 Quincy Street, Quincy, Mass., says: "I have more faith in Doan's Kidney Pills than in any other remedy I have ever known of and it gives me great pleasure to publicly recommend them. For at least six months I was feeling all out of sorts as the result of kidney trouble. I became tired easily and had but little strength or energy to do my housework. Pains through the small of my back annoyed me a great deal. A friend, knowing of my condition, advised me to try Doan's Kidney Pills and I procured a supply at the Cox Drug store. A short time after beginning their use, I was helped and I now feel like a different person."

MRS. GURNEY'S ADDRESS

Woman's Part in Making Our City Better

The address of Mrs. H. J. Gurney, president of the Quincy Women's club at the union Thanksgiving service, was a thoughtful and interesting paper on woman's part in making our city better, and it is given almost in full:

In an article on "Woman's interest in civic welfare" published in the current number of the American City," Mrs. Philip N. Moore, president of the General Federation of Women's Clubs, says: "The city a home, clean and beautiful, where every citizen finds an opportunity for the development of the highest that is in him, physically, mentally and morally—this is the vision of the earnest women of our country." And we may add that it is also the vision of the earnest men, for, thinking people without distinction of sex, are beginning to see that the administration of municipal affairs does not belong to the realm of politics, but is a matter of home-making and house-keeping on a large scale.

Now house-keeping has, from time immemorial, been considered the legitimate the proper, the important occupation of women, and should not the knowledge we have gained through inheritance and long years of training give us fitness to share in the larger field of municipal house-keeping. If we have ability there is the corresponding obligation, for duty and ability go ever hand in hand. I think that a great many women realize their obligation and are eager to help, although some of us are deterred through timidity, or because we do not know just where and how to begin. Well, the chief starting point is always open to us.

When the Jews after their captivity were bemoaning the ruined condition of their city, Nehemiah said to them, "Let us repair the walls of Jerusalem that they may be no more a reproach to us." And the people began to build each man repairing and rebuilding the wall opposite his own house, until the circuit was completed and the wall was again strong and beautiful. That is the way in which we women may help to make our city better. Start at home!

The same old theme you say—Yes, but with a new meaning. Usually when people say that Home is Woman's sphere, they mean that she ought to stay in the house. That is what the young teacher meant when she said of the mother of two of her pupils, who objected to her free use of a feather duster in the school-room: "I wish she'd take care of her home and not come here meddling with matters that do not concern her." That is what the careless market-man means when he says of the woman who insists upon having clean, well-cared for meat; "She'd better attend to her home and mind her own business."

She is minding her own business and attending to her home when she demands that the places from which the family supplies come shall be kept clean. That food stuffs shall be protected from dust and flies; that the milk her children drink shall be clean and wholesome; that that ancient purveyor of dust and germs, the feather duster shall not be used if her children are to suffer from its effects.

She is attending strictly to her home when she demands that streets and public places shall be kept clean and orderly; that the public schools shall be good; that places of amusement shall be decent; that there shall be proper police protection, and protection from fire; that in the city there shall exist nothing that menaces the health, either physical or moral, of her family. It is her business to see that everything that enters her home is clean and pure and wholesome and right, and to do this properly she must be well-informed and mentally alert.

I believe that the civic conscience of women would be wonderfully roused if we would but take the trouble to inform ourselves thoroughly about municipal affairs. There are many small clubs of women in our city, study clubs, reading clubs, whist clubs, etc. They not for one season, leave the well-beaten paths of study and diversion, and gain a knowledge of Quincy. Study its geography, its history, its divisions natural and political, its administration, its schools, churches and libraries, its problems of transportation, its water-supply, its amusements, its architecture and building laws. There could be no more profitable study and I am sure it would prove most interesting.

But the wires that connect the home and the city run from the home as well as to it. It is in the home that we are training those who are to be the citizens of the future. The first requisites of the home that is to be a strong tower on the city wall is, that it shall be a happy one, a place where the children are glad to stay, for the children who love their homes will later love their city. And there is no surer way of making them love their home than to have a share in its work and responsibilities. Let the boys care for the lawns, be responsible for the cutting of grass, the watering of the gardens, let them and their sisters have a share in planting the gardens. Let the girls have definite duties in house-keeping. Do not have the children do these things when told—but teach them that the home is theirs as well as father's or mother's, and that they are responsible for certain conditions.

The use of the word "Our" is a most excellent thing, and having applied it to the home enlarge its meaning, say "Our Streets." Teach the children to take pride in its appearance, so that they would no sooner think of throwing papers and fruit-peeling upon the sidewalks than upon their own dining room floor.

From our street to our city is but a step. Teach the children to appreciate the schools, the libraries, the parks, that they may be trained to a knowledge of and a love for municipal duties and municipal privileges.

So we lay the foundations of civic righteousness and patriotism, in teaching self-control and respect for the rights of others, and as the children grow older they will unfailingly apply these principles to the deeper matters of morality. Most wrong doing comes from ignorance, somebody's ignorance. Let us see to it that we do not fail in teaching the children aright. Those of us who have no children of our own are not exempt, for there are always forlorn little ones to be mothered. They belong to us who are childless, and we must see to it that they are loved and taught wisely.

Our part in making our city better is plain. Love and wisdom, patience and patriotism, working out on practical lines. There are two legends that have come down to us from the early history of Rome, that are known to every school-boy. One the story of that Roman matron who appreciating the gifts the Gods had sent her, trained her sons to such noble patriotism that they were "jewels" indeed. The other, an earlier legend, of the girl who, through cupidity and love of luxury betrayed her trust and opened the gates to the enemies of her country. The constructive and destructive forces. We women must be either the one or the other; every day the choice is put before us. Which shall we follow,—Cornelia the builder up of the City; or Tarpeia, the betrayer?

CANNON AFTER INSURGENTS

Will Fight Them as He Fights Bryan and His Followers

A DECLARATION OF WAR

Declares That House Rules Will Not Be Changed, That Cummins Alone Read Himself Out of Republican Party, and That New Tariff Has Proved Beneficent Despite "Protectionists For Their Own People"

Kansas City, Nov. 27.—"When Senators Cummins, La Follette, Bristow and their so-called 'progressive' following join hands with Mr. Bryan in making war upon the Republican members of congress who passed the tariff bill and upon the president who signed it, in that contest I know of but one way to treat them, and that is to fight them just as we fight Mr. Bryan and his following."

Such was the declaration of Speaker Cannon, who delivered the principal address before the Knife and Fork club here last night. Mr. Cannon said Senator Cummins alone read himself out of the Republican party.

He defended the rules of the house, saying that they will remain substantially as they have been and are so long as there is a congress. Speaking of the Republican record in congress, he said:

"We have enacted new laws that were denounced as revolutionary when they were under consideration, but which are now looked upon as falling short of expectations.

"The monthly summary of commerce and finance, issued by the department of commerce and labor, shows that for the months of August, September and October under the new tariff law there was a substantial increase in all imports over the imports of the same months in 1908. The increase in imports amounted to $73,000,000 over those for the same period in 1908 and $21,000,000 over the same period in 1907, the greatest year under the Dingley law. Our exports for the same months increased over those for last year by $41,000,000.

"The senators and representatives who call themselves 'insurgents' and who voted against the enactment of the Payne bill, voted to increase or maintain the duties on the industries and products of their own states and sections. They were protectionists for their own people, but they were opposed to protection for other people in other sections.

"There was not one member of the Republican majority who secured in the bill as enacted all that he had contended for. President Taft, Senator Aldrich and myself all accepted more compromises than the so-called 'insurgents' were asked to accept. In Illinois we wanted free lumber, and my constituents wanted a duty on petroleum because they have the greatest independent oil producing district in the world. We were beaten, but we did not make our own interests the only interpretation of the Republican pledge to revise the tariff.

"Senator Cummins complains that I have read him out of the Republican party. Other sensitive gentlemen made the same complaint against President Taft. The senator does me too much honor. I have not the authority to read any man out, nor have I the disposition. I think I may say the same for the president. I have been a member of the Republican party since it was organized and I have never known of any man or group of men being read out of any party except by themselves."

HOUSE CLEANING FINISHED

Ten More Heads Lopped Off In New York Custom House

New York, Nov. 27.—Ten more assistant weighers have been dropped by Collector of the Port Loeb from the customs service. The collector announced that with these dismissals the "general house cleaning" in the customs house as the result of the investigation into underweighing frauds had been completed. Some individual cases remained, however, on which he might find it necessary to take action, the collector added.

Including yesterday's dismissals, a total of eighty-three men have been removed by the collector since the work of readjustment of the staff in the customs service began.

FUNERAL OF DE ARMOND

Rare Display of Affection For the Departed Missouri Statesman

Butler, Mo., Nov. 27.—Hundreds of prominent public men of Missouri and many from outside the state joined the citizens of Butler in paying respect to the memory of Congressman David A. De Armond, who was burned to death here in a fire that destroyed his home. De Armond died in a vain effort to save the life of his favorite grandson, David A. De Armond, 3d.

The bodies of both victims were buried in the local cemetery in one casket, following simple services at the Methodist Episcopal church, where the late congressman had been a member. The burial services were in charge of Masons.

No such honor and show of affection for a departed citizen has been displayed in Missouri in many years. The coffin was banked high with floral emblems and the little church was crowded. Mourners literally blocked the streets leading to the church and hundreds followed the bodies to the cemetery and stood about the grave.

BOSTON GIRL SUES PROVIDENCE COP

Minor Asks That She Be Awarded the Sum of $2000

Providence, Nov. 27.—A $2000 suit for alleged assault and false imprisonment was filed in the superior court here against Patrolman Edward J. Kelly of this city by Willow M. Ashton of Boston, a minor, who sues through her next friend, Rebecca Ashton.

The plaintiff claims that she was taken from a blacksmith shop on Penelope place and dragged to the police station by the defendant July 30. She seeks to recover for torn clothes and bruises, and shock to her sensibilities. She claims that there was no probable cause for her arrest.

BIG BASEBALL DEAL

New Owners of Philadelphia Nationals Consider Team Worth $350,000

Philadelphia, Nov. 27.—The biggest deal in the baseball history of 1909 was consummated in the announcement that the franchise of the Philadelphia National league team had changed hands and that the new owners of the club had purchased the release of John Kling from President Murphy of the Chicago Cubs for $15,000.

In spite of denials by Murphy, it is pretty generally believed here that a part of the $350,000, the price paid for the club, comes from his own bank account or that of Charles P. Taft of Cincinnati, a brother of President Taft, and the reported chief owner of the Chicago National league franchise.

FRENCH SCHOOL QUESTION

Premier Briand Points Out What He Considers Clergy's First Duty

Paris, Nov. 27.—In the chamber of deputies, Premier Briand replied to a speech by Abbe Gayraud, member for Finistere, who had defended the action of the episcopate concerning the public school question and voiced the sympathy of Catholics for the pope.

M. Briand said the time was rapidly approaching when, as several times had been the case in French history, bishops and priests subjected to the domination of Rome would prefer to do their duty as Frenchmen to their duty as Catholics.

Inland waterways are receiving considerable attention and the interest is far reaching. Rivers that have been used but little commercially are now viewed as business, propositions to aid in building up the towns and cities along its banks. A new departure is a steamboat line on the Merrimac to do general freighting from Lawrence, Haverhill and Newburyport to Boston. When the proposed Brockton canal is built Quincy will have more water and river frontage than any city in New England.

Peggy of the Boston Journal asks a pertinent question: "Is it right or just to take the cynical, critical attitude that many assume with reference to the newspapers? I think not. However we may look upon the newspapers—and I know personally that there are many who profess a contempt for them—we must acknowledge their strenuous power for good. They are liable to mistakes like everything else conducted by human beings and their principles may not always agree with individual ideas on the same subjects, but they can and they do wield an influence that is far-reaching and helpful, and this may be said of most of their efforts. They may fall short of the mark in some matters, but they are the first to realize their mistakes and be most sorry for them, usually. Nothing is perfect in this world, and the makers of newspapers do not claim anything like perfection for their papers, but the fact remains that they can and they do do a large share toward bettering human conditions. If one would take count of their doings the good would far outweigh the bad."

DOYLE--MEEHAN WEDDING

Largely Attended Reception on Quincy Avenue

Alexander D. Doyle, and Miss M. Meehan, sister of James J. Meehan of 334 Amory street, Jamaica Plain and daughter of John J. Meehan of Oristown, Kells Comeath, Ireland, were married Wednesday evening at St. John's church by Rev. J. J. Coan. The bridesmaid was Miss K. Starrs of Meehan street, Jamaica Plain and the best man was Joseph Wilson of Belfast, Ireland. James Mortimer gave the bride in marriage. After the ceremony there was a largely attended reception held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. J. Mortimer, 479 Quincy avenue.

The bride looked charming in a white embroidered gown and she carried a shower bouquet of lilies of the valley and in pleasing color contrast was the maid of honor who wore old rose and carried a large bunch of chrysanthemums. Many beautiful costumes were worn by the guests, notably Mrs. Mortimer a cream silk and lace, Mrs. J. Frazier, old rose, Mrs. H. G. Wright, white, Mrs. Harrison, white and the Misses Hilland royal blue and others of pretty light colors.

Mr. and Mrs. Doyle received a great many presents which were not only beautiful but valuable. Mr. Doyle gave his bride a diamond pendant and the maid of honor has as a souvenir of the happy occasion, a diamond pin.

The reception was very informal and music and dancing was enjoyed until a late hour. Among the guests were Mr. and Mrs. James Mortimer, Mr. and Mrs. J. Frazier, Mrs. H. G. Wright, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Harrison, Mr. and Mrs. S. Moore, Mr. Hilland, the Misses Hilland, Mr. Brown, J. Todd, G. R. Wilson, Miss F. Burns, Miss Minnie Howe, J. Roe, A. Miller, J. Barry and others.

Mr. and Mrs. Doyle are to reside at 209 Quincy avenue where they will be at home on and after January first.

The birde was the faithful servant of Mrs. C. F. Guild of St. Johns street, Jamaica Plain whose good wishes and congratulations go with the bride to her new home.

BRIEFS

The Altar Guild of St. Chrysostom's church meets on Thursday evening at eight o'clock at the rectory when it is expected that Father Field will give an address.

Next week will be the last in which the candidates for political honors will have to get in their campaign work, and the week promises to be a lively one. It will be a short but sharp contest.

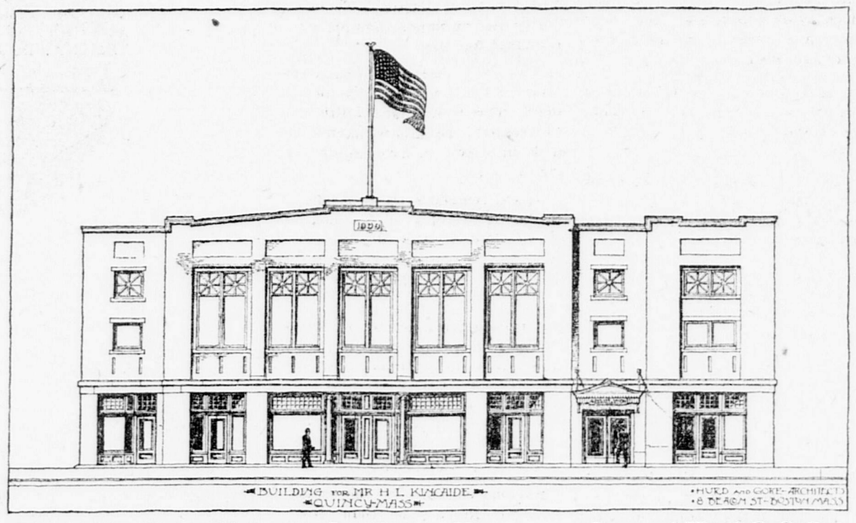

The concluding lecture in the series of four addresses on Civic Problems, which have been given at Bethany church, will be given by Dr. Hardy Sunday evening at 7.30. The subject for this address is "The mightiest force in Municipal life."

St. Andrew's day will be observed at St. Chrysostom's church by a holy communion at 6 A. M.

No meeting of the City Council will be held Monday evening. It was thought that a special meeting might have to be called to draw jurors, but it was found that the regular meeting would be in time.

BRAINTREE FIREMEN

Hold Their Annual Ball at the Town Hall

Last Wednesday evening will go on record as the stormiest night of the season thus far and the firemen were obliged to fight water instead of fire but they were equal to the occasion and carried their dance through to the satisfaction of all concerned. It was the eleventh annual concert and ball of the Braintree Firemen's Relief Association and but for the inclement weather would have been the best one yet held by the organization.

On account of the delayed trains the orchestra, Cuff's was short two men, but the others upheld their enviable reputation for good music. An exceptionally fine concert program was rendered and then the dancing began to continue merrily on until five the next morning. On account of the small attendance the grand march was omitted but the lack of dancers was made up for by the enthusiasm of those who did come.

A number of the town constables and several officers from out of town were on hand to quell any disturbance which might arise but their services were not needed. Everything was orderly and quiet to the last degree and the firemen's dance of this year will be long remembered by those who attended as a good time in every way.

As the hours wore away the attendance gradually increased until there tread light fantastic. The supper was in charge of Westover & Foss the popular caterers of Boston and that it was an excellent one goes without saying.

The proceeds of these dances are placed in the treasury and used for aiding sick or disabled members and it is to be regretted that more money could not have been realized for such a worthy cause.

The success of the affair was due to the following official committee:

Marshal—Chief F. O. Whitmarsh.

Assistant Marshals—Engineers C. V. Cottrell, J. S. Hill.

Floor Director—Joseph E. Hayden.

Assistant Floor Directors—F. J. Mischler W. A. Skinner.

PARKWAY DAMAGED

And Yachtsmen Lose by the Severe Storm

Not since the Portland storm of Saturday night and Sunday of Nov. 26 and 27, 1898, has there been such a gale along this coast as the one of Wednesday. The severest sufferer from the storm was the Metropolitan Park Commission. The beach at Wollaston and Atlantic received a bad pounding, and from Beach street to the Sailors' Home was lowered about a foot and a half. The surf came within a few feet of the curbing. If the storm had held through Thursday, the roadway would have been destroyed. The abutments and granite apron of the Sachem brook bridge at the foot of Beach street were in great danger of being undermined when the lull came. The new work on the Sunny Creek culvert, south of West Elm avenue was buried beneath tons of sand. Immense quantities of driftwood and other debris came ashore.

Dr. F. E. Dawes' fast boat "Thordis" parted her moorings early in the day and came ashore north of Sunny Creek, fortunately with but slight damage. She was hauled off and towed to Hauley's yard by the launch "Maizie."

Mr. Savage's jib and mainsail boat came ashore near the "Thordis."

A large Grand Banks dory was piled up on the beach opposite the police station.

The Wollaston and Squantum Yacht clubs lost their runways. One of the small floats of the former club broke adrift and went up Sachem brook as far as Porter's machine shop. Captain Fenno and crew hauled it off and moored it on the beach between the two club houses.

A. B. Cassidy's launch "Scramble" sank at her moorings, near the first dolphin. Her stern became so firmly imbedded in the sand that the boat was held in a nearly vertical position and had to be dug out.

C. M. Hobbs' tender came ashore from a yacht club float and split into halves lengthwise.

The wash from the beach filled the channel beneath the Sachem brook bridge, holding up navigation.

At the foot of Appleton street the sea crossed the parkway but did no serious damage.

Huge junks were washed out of the bluff in the rear of the Sailors' Home, commonly known as Rye island.

A large sloop came ashore opposite Whitman's gunning stand.

The surf threw sand and debris across the parkway and upon the lawn of the Whiting place.

Two of the new granolithic seats came within a few inches of being undermined.

A bicycle in good order was picked up on the beach at Rufe's Hummock.

—"The 1915 movement," about which much is read in Boston newspapers, should extend to Quincy and every city in the state. Its purpose is municipal and progressive. Co-ordination of all the forces in the city, religious, industrial, professional and commercial, is the preliminary object, or in the words of a Bostonian, the formation of "a clearing house for city planning."

BRIEFS

The weather today is rather more seasonable than it has been for some weeks past.

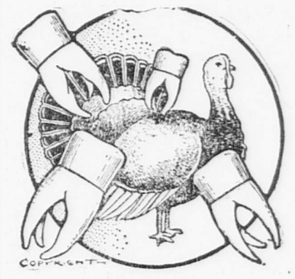

It is reported that there are a number of cases of diphtheria in Quincy, although no cases have been reported to the Board of Health recently.

Owing to the inclemency of the weather Wednesday night and the tie up of the trains it was necessary to postpone the Billiken dance until further notice.

The young people of the Swedish M. E. church held their monthly meeting Friday evening at the residence of Laurence Peterson, 80 Cranch street. A very pleasing program was rendered after which refreshments were served by Mrs. Alida Lagergren. In appreciation of her many favors Mrs. Lagergren was presented with a purse from her friends.

A morning paper reports the marriage at Providence, R. I., Wednesday of Fred S. Walker a prison official at the Concord Reformatory ,to Mrs. Annie Elizabeth Palmer of Quincy. The marriage license states that Mrs. Palmer was divorced on Nov. 13, 1909, and that she is 38 years of age. Up to noon today no return of the marriage had been received by the City Clerk from Providence.

PILES CURED IN 6 TO 14 DAYS
PAZO OINTMENT is guaranteed to cure any case of Itching, Blind, Bleeding or Protruding Piles in 6 to 14 days or money refunded. 50c.

THE STANDARD OIL DECISION

An Estimate of the Missouri Federal Circuit Court's Finding Against the Great Rockefeller Corporation.

Biggest Victory Yet Won by the People In the Move Against the Illegal Restraint of Trade.

By JAMES A. EDGERTON.

NOTWITHSTANDING the ease with which the Standard Oil company slipped out of paying that $29,000,000 fine, it is by no means out of the legal woods. The recent decision against it by the United States circuit court of the eastern district of Missouri is about the hardest judicial blow landed on a corporation since the dissolution of the Northern Securities merger. The trust will of course appeal to the United States supreme court and so gain a little time even if it does get no more substantial benefit. But the delay will be only for a few months at most. After that, what? Under the wording of the decision, written by Justice Walter H. Sanborn and concurred in by all the other judges constituting the circuit court, the Standard Oil Company of New Jersey is not only dissolved, but the members of it are restrained from carrying on a similar monopoly in any other way. That is rather sweeping and should furnish Rockefeller and Archbold, otherwise known as the big and little John D., a rd as at present constituted, but leaves the path clear for criminal prosecutions. Since it is held that the Standard Oil Company of New Jersey is in contravention of the law, what is to prevent bringing suits against the trust by any one who feels aggrieved and assessing fines to three times the amount of the damages determined on. It was under this clause of the law that the famous $29,000,000 fine was assessed, and, while that did not stick, others might do so, especially with the Sanborn decision to back them up. Moreover, the government prosecutors have learned some things from the knocking out of the fine made by Judge Landis and could now avoid some of the legal pitfalls which they then encountered. Yet another point, and a big one, is the growth of public opinion throughout the nation against all oppressive trusts, and, while this has no legal bearing in the fight against the Standard, it has an actual bearing that is not to be despised. At last the American people are getting in dead earnest, and when this body of humanity does become really ready to move in any given direction they will either move in that identical direction or something will happen. It takes much to start a mass of 80,000,000 human units, but once started there is required an equal force to stop it. The American mass is just about started in the movement against the illegal restraint of trade.

JUDGE WALTER H. SANBORN.

little wholesome food for thought. It is all well enough to say they will go on selling oil, as some of their attorneys have already said, but getting into contempt of United States courts is not exactly a healthful occupation even for as rich a concern as the Standard Oil company.

The legal battle against this trust has been a long one, extending over more than a quarter of a century, and this is the biggest victory yet won by the people. If the decision is affirmed by the supreme court the government will then be in a position to bring matters to a final test. What will the trust do in that case? It will hardly dare fight the decree of the courts, and it would seem that its days of evasion are about over. Rockefeller may go on hunting hookworms and Archbold may continue writing letters to "My Dear Senator," but as for carrying on an illegal combination in restraint of trade it would appear that the days of that are numbered. The trust lawyers will have to do some of their finest stunts of legal legerdemain to circumvent this decision. Nor will their occupation be one entirely devoid of danger. It belongs to the category usually known as extra hazardous. Your Uncle Sam is on the job now, and from the way he is dealing with the sugar trust grafters in New York it is evident that the old man is stirred up a bit. Breaking United States statutes is not always going to be a safe pursuit. The benevolent gentlemen of the Standard may find it well to go a little slow and easy just here, or Uncle Sam will get them "ef they don't watch out."

Criminal Prosecution May Follow.

The Sanborn decision not only opens the way to a dissolution of the Stand-

Steps In Advance.

It is impossible to forecast the practical results flowing from the Sanborn decision in case it is affirmed by the supreme court. The actual, tangible effects realized from similar anti-trust decisions in the past are not entirely encouraging, yet it must be remembered that something has been gained at each step, some advance has been made and that the representatives of the government have learned from their very failures. With accumulating precedents and decisions to help and guide and with past experience to warn, the government is constantly in a better position to enforce the law and shows an increased determination to do so. The case against the tobacco trust is already before the supreme court and will probably be decided in December. There are many identical points in the two suits, and the decision in the lower courts was largely similar. There will probably be an effort to have them passed upon at about the same time, provided the Standard lawyers get their appeal before the court in time. At any rate, the matter will be pushed through with all possible haste, so that the decree against both trusts can be put into effect early in the new year.

The case for the United States against the Standard was largely conducted by Frank B. Kellogg and has been going on a trifle more than three years, having been started on Nov. 15, 1906.

HOME IS BROKEN UP

Mrs. Christy Attributes Her Troubles to Christian Science Cult

New York, Nov. 27.—Mrs. Howard C. Christy, wife of the noted American artist, declares that the domestic difficulties which have led her to begin suit for the possession of her daughter, Natalie, were due to the teachings of Mrs. Stetson, who was recently excommunicated from the Christian Science church.

The woman who fifteen years ago, four years prior to her marriage, posed for Christy and brought him his first notice in the art world, declares now that they are separated through the influences of the Christian Science cult. She claims that the teachings of Msr. Stetson and her followers have broken up a home that for eleven years knew naught but immeasurable happiness.

She states that she herself is somewhat to blame in the matter; that she first brought her husband within its influence, first as a scoffer, then saw him become so wrapped up in its tenets that he lost love for her. Finally, following his conversion to Christian Science, she states that Scientists began to run things in her home.

Mrs. Christy is stopping at the home of her brother-in-law. She refuses to make any statement as to whether or not she contemplates divorce proceedings.

ABANDONED TO FLAMES

Nearly Two Hundred Bodies Remain In St. Paul Mine

Cherry, Ills., Nov. 27.—The closing chapter in the St. Paul mine horror was written when the last of the state troops and the army of mine officials and experts departed, leaving the widows and orphans of Cherry to mourn for their 310 dead and the 189 bodies abandoned to the flames in the sealed mine.

With the departure of Company C twelve deputy sheriffs took up the work of guarding the upper parts of the mine, which some of the miners in their anger at the abandonment of rescue efforts had threatened to destroy with dynamite.

The mine inspectors left for Chicago to lay before Governor Deneen their findings.

RED CROSS STAMPS IN GREAT DEMAND

Orders Have Already Exceeded a Total of Fifty Million

Washington, Nov. 27.—The demand for Christmas stamps issued by the American Red Cross has been so great that the aggregate number of orders from the printer exceeds 50,000,000. Of this number 38,000,000 have already been distributed.

Eighty percent of the proceeds of the Christmas stamp sales will be distributed among the several states and other agencies making a fight against tuberculosis and 20 percent will be paid into the Red Cross treasury as a fund from which the expenses incidental to special work may be met.

WON'T ASK FOR PARDON

Gompers Still Thinks That Wright Is Unfit to Be Justice

Washington, Nov. 27.—"I repeat what I have said heretofore. Justice Wright is biased and is unfit to wear the judicial ermine."

In these words Samuel Gompers referred to Associate Justice Wright of the district supreme court, who sentenced Mr. Gompers, John Mitchell and Frank Morrison to varying terms of imprisonment for contempt of court in the Bucks Stove and Range company case.

"If the supreme court of the United States declines to permit the issue to come before it for review or affirms the decision of the lower court will you ask the president for a pardon?" was asked Gompers.

"I will not," he replied.

TWO AERONAUTS KILLED

Had Sailed Five Hundred Miles When Overtaken by Disaster

Berlin, Nov. 27.—The bodies of Dr. Brenckmann and Hugo Francke, members of the Aero Club of Berlin, were found near Fiume, Austria-Hungary. Near by was their balloon, the Kelmar, a huge rent in the envelope telling the story of their death.

The aerial exploits of the two men in the past have attracted much attention and no little alarm on the part of intimate friends. They ascended on Monday from a suburb of Berlin. The point at which the bodies were found is in an almost direct line south. 500 miles from Berlin.

Has Not Begun Work on Message

Washington, Nov. 27.—President Taft again discussed with his cabinet various features of his message to congress. Although the opening of the session is but little more than a week off, the president has not yet written any part of his message.

Shoe Strikers to Return to Work

Lynn, Mass., Nov. 27.—The strike of the Goodyear operatives at the shoe factory of the A. E. Little company has been settled and as a result 500 shoeworkers will return next Monday to the places which were made vacant four weeks ago.

REVOLUTION IS SPREADING

Nicaraguan Rebels Are Maintaining an Effective Blockade

SHOTS FIRED AT GREYTOWN

Official View at Washington That Groce and Cannon Were Not Subject to Death Penalty In Any Event—Clear Violation of Costa Rican Sovereignty—Cruiser Prairie Ready to Sail to Southern Waters.

Washington, Nov. 26.—The revolution in Nicaragua is spreading, in the opinion of Captain Shipley, commander of the United States cruiser Des Moines, which is off the east coast of Nicaragua.

The revolutionary forces are reported to be maintaining an effective blockade and are patrolling off Greytown with two gunboats. Assurance is given that American and foreign interests are being protected.

These are the important facts contained in a cablegram received at the navy department from the commander of the Des Moines at Port Limon.

On Nov. 23 the revolutionary gunboats fired on Greytown, but without effect. The revolutionary forces now have possession of the back country of Nicaragua, including Rama, where fighting is likely to occur. An officer from the Des Moines landed at Greytown, but found only one American citizen.

The department of state received by wireless, by way of Colon, a message of which the following is a translation:

"According to Article 742 of military ordinance, Zelaya had no right to shoot the outposts."

The message was signed "Sub Secretary of State Moreira."

It is assumed that he is an insurrectionist. It was stated that the department would not reply to Moreira.

The only American warship on the west coast of Nicaragua is the Vicksburg, lying off Corinto, but no word has come from that ship in the last two days, interrupted telegraphic communications being the only explanation offered. It has gotten to be a matter of common note that the telegraph fails, even in the most perfect weather, when the United States government tries to communicate with one of its diplomatic or consular agents in times of revolution in Central America.

That the explanation to be made by the Nicaraguan government of the conditions under which the two Americans, Groce and Cannon, were executed, as forecasted in the news dispatches from Central America, will be unsatisfactory to the state department can safely be predicted. From any point the official view is that the men were entitled to be regarded as prisoners of war, and therefore not subject to the death penalty.

Moreover, if they were captured in Costa Rica, as reported, the act was in clear violation of Costa Rican sovereignty, and may easily involve Costa Rica in war with the Zelayan government if the American government turns to Costa Rica for redress.

Marines Ready to Sail

Philadelphia, Nov. 26.—With her hold stored with provisions and ammunition, the United States cruiser Prairie lies at the Philadelphia navy yard ready to sail for Panama or Nicaragua. Four hundred marines who are to be carried by the cruiser to Caribbean waters are anxiously awaiting the signal to start.

Several weeks ago orders were received at the yard from the navy department at Washington to have the Prairie ready to transport marines to the isthmus of Panama in December. After the Nicaraguan incident, in which two Americans were shot, orders were received from Washington to advance the sailing time and the cruiser probably will leave on Saturday.

MRS. ROOSEVELT HOME

Wife of Ex-President and Her Daughter End Their Tour Abroad

New York, Nov. 26.—Mrs. Theodore Roosevelt and her daughter, Miss Ethel, returned from Europe on the steamer Koenig Albert. Mrs. Roosevelt's elder daughter, Mrs. Nicholas Longworth, Douglas and Mrs. Robinson and Collector of the Port Loeb met the returning travelers at the pier.

They stayed over the holiday at the Douglas Robinson home, going later to the Roosevelt residence at Oyster Bay, to which the bulk of their baggage was forwarded from the steamer.

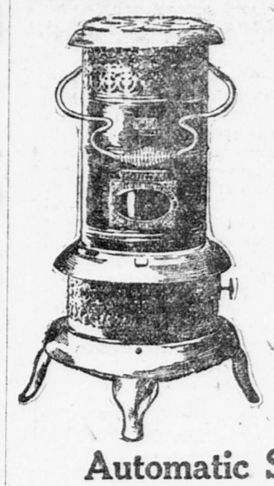

Student For Ministry a Suicide

Chicago, Nov. 26.—William F. McCormick, 31 years old, a student at the Moody Biblical Institute here, jumped from a third-story window of the institute dormitory and died in a few moments. McCormick is believed to have been mentally deranged.

Fatal Ride For Family of Six

Los Angeles, Cal., Nov. 26.—Six persons, father, mother and four children, were killed when a trolley car ran into an automobile in which John Jacobs and his family were riding, near Latin Station.

SYNOPSIS.

CHAPTER I—A young diver know as Philip Ames visit a miserable tenement in New York where he knows a young woman, Jenny who has been reclaimed from the streets. II—The owner of the tenement John J. Haggleton, a multimillionaire, visits the place.

His first question was asked quietly, almost indifferently:

"How was my wife living when you knew her?"

"In the boarding house where I was. She had a little money, but it did not last long. Then she tried to work, but—it was not easy, and—I—was earning good wages, and—I helped her."

Haggleton's mind seized upon this point and registered it in its usual orderly manner. The attempt to establish a pecuniary claim had come earlier in the interview than he had expected.

"You say you helped her?"

"Yes."

"Did she ask you for assistance?"

"No."

"Then why did you help her?"

"Because I loved her." And lower still he added, "I wanted her to marry me."

"Good God!" Haggleton exclaimed.

"That's how she came to tell me her story," continued Gentle.

"What did she tell you?"

"She said," returned Gentle distinctly, "that you were cruel."

"To her?"

"In your dealings consumed with greed for money. That is why she left you."

Haggleton ruminated upon this.

"And that is why she left me."

He thrust the thought away from him.

"Was she—was she living alone?" he asked.

"No; she had with her a child—your son."

The millionaire leaned back in his chair. Yes, this man was no impostor. Thus far he had told a straight story. His desire to know the truth which he had sought for twenty years, and his accurate judgment of the man before him counseled him that it was safe to proceed with less caution now.

"Why did she steal my son and hide him from me?"

"To save him from your influence. He was her son too. She wished him to be an honest man."

"Who says that I am not an honest man?"

"Your wife said so."

Haggleton became impatient.

"I want to know about my son," he commanded imperiously. Then, with a break in his voice, "Is he—is he alive?"

"Living and well!"

"My son!" he added in an eager whisper. "I want to see him now!"

He mastered the softened mood and became his usual strong self again.

"Where is he?"

"You will see him presently."

Haggleton's first suspicion suggested itself again.

"Oh," he said, "you want to make terms! You want money?"

"If I wanted money, Mr. Haggleton, I should have asked for it long ago. I have known this for twelve years. I sent you word of her death."

"Ah, it was you! You covered your tracks well. It is you who have kept my son from me for twelve years!"

"It was his mother's wish—her command!"

"Her command? Then why have you brought me here? What the devil do you want?"

"Let me finish. Your wife saw want and suffering face to face, and it was her dream that some day your son should make atonement for his father's wrongdoing."

"Atonement?"

Both men had risen now, facing each other with growing excitement.

"Yes, atonement with your money, by the right use of it. Some day, when he was strong enough, Philip was to meet you, to know you as his father. That day has come."

Haggleton said snappishly, jeeringly: "I see. He is to show me my evil ways, and I am to be converted. Rubbish! You have made a prig of him!"

"I have made a man of him—such a man as his mother wanted him to be."

"What does he do? What can he earn?"

"He is a skilled workman with the Atlantic Wrecking company—a master diver. He earns from $8 to $15 a day. He stands six feet in his stockings, he measures forty-eight inches around the chest, and he has an arm like an iron bar."

"You don't say!" Haggleton was smiling, his eyes gleaming with pride. Gentle continued:

"And he has a will of his own, and ideas."

"Ideas? What sort of ideas?" There was a sudden suspicion in the question.

"The ideas his mother gave him—ideas of justice and kindness. She was a noble woman. She did not believe that one man should make slaves of thousands and take their earnings. Neither does Philip."

"Philip! She kept his name."

"She kept his Christian name with the name she assumed. She called him Philip Ames."

"You pumped socialism into him," fumed the millionaire. He added scornfully, "I'll soon change that."

"What I have taught him is little," said the diver quietly, and added, with confidence, "but what life and misery have taught him he can never forget. I tell you he is a man!"

"He is my son—the son of John J. Haggleton—my only son—with great things to do in this world!"

"Exactly! The destiny his mother chose for him!"

"I mean he will have great interests to protect, a great fortune to handle," protested Haggleton, adding contemptuously, "He won't care for your petty theories when he knows who he is?"

At this moment the door of Jenny's room opened, and Philip entered briskly. He gave a careless glance at Haggleton, murmured, "Excuse me a moment," and began to search for something, rummaging in boxes, opening drawers, and grumbling to himself, his back to the two men.

"I wish," he said, half aloud, "that the scoundrel who owns this place had to live in it. I'd like to make him sleep in that room. Where the devil is that hammer?"

The moment Philip found the hammer and departed Haggleton said excitedly:

"You need not tell me! I need no proof. I know—the eyes, the chin, especially the eyes! For twenty years I haven't slept without seeing those eyes!"

He started impetuously for the door, but Gentle intercepted him.

"Stop!" he commanded. "Not yet If you speak to him now, you will regret it."

"He is my son, he is mine! He sails with me on my yacht within an hour!"

Gentle stood before the door with outstretched arms.

"Wait," he continued. "You don't know all yet. Here, read this."

He produced an envelope from his pocket and handed it to Haggleton, who snatched it from him and opened it impatiently. It contained two papers. Haggleton glanced at the first one hastily, then suddenly sat down.

"My God!" he whispered.

"Now you understand how things are between us," said Gentle.

"My wife made this document on her deathbed?"

"With a clear mind. The doctor attested it."

"A copy of the order I gave that night." Haggleton's tone was strangely subdued as he locked at the second paper.

"The original is in a safe place," said Gentle. "Don't offer me money for it," he added warningly. "It is not for sale."

"What are you going to do with it?"

"You would not want Philip to read it?"

"No! A thousand times no!"

"Then I will use it to increase your patience. You must be content, Mr. Haggleton, to see your son and be with him on my terms!"

THE LATEST STYLE.

Something Quite English In Baby Carriage Tops.

London seems to be the center from which novel and dainty ideas in perambulators emanate. English baby carriages of stylish builds done up in enameled wood and leather trimmings are the vehicles in which the smartest American infants take their outings. In dark green and in a pearly enameled white these carriages are at their best from an artistic viewpoint. The carriage seen in the illustration is one of the newest and most comfortable models. The striking feature of this importation is the sunshade, which, instead of being of leather, is a canopy affair hung with a dainty awning of chiffon over silk, edged all round with a ruffle of cluny lace. A cover comes with the carriage exactly matching the awning, and to insure warmth there is an extra blanket of wool. The baby's trained nurse standing by the carriage is most attractively dressed in her hospital costume. Altogether the whole turnout is very stunning and new.

IN FASHION'S REALM

A Black and White Season Says Anne Rittenhouse

(In the New York Times.)

We shall see a great deal of black and white this season. It cannot be said that the popularity of the black and white checked suits of spring or Summer brought this about.

It is not a case of cause and effect here; both fashions spring from the one cause; The intention of the manufacturers as far back as last February to put black again on the market.

The addition of white is always a sop to those who will not wear unadulterated black. And many of these women are right. Age demands black or gray for dignity's sake, and youth adopts black because it wants to ape mature clothes; but the sallow, the thin, the negative, the washed out only add to all these conditions by wearing solid black.

There are few women who, even in mourning can wear an unrelieved black surface. It is a color that demands adornment, not by means of another color, but by the skilful addition of braid, grained silk, buttons, jet. It was this necessity that brought out English crepe as a trimming for those whose mourning would permit of no other adornment.

In the new and often elegant house gowns for simple and ceremonious occasions more white is used than has been the custom when black was in first fashion. The modified Louis XV. style, without the distended skirts, which has graciously insinuated itself into the midst of the Byzantine and Russian fashions is carried out in an outer skirt of black over an under skirt of white, and white half sleeves and guimpe above a pointed bodice.

The white is of lace in one of the soft French makes, and the back is cobwebby gauze with deep girdle of lustrous satin. To give color there is a bunch of tarnished gold grapes at the upper edge of the girdle. It is hard to get away from this gold. It is likely to be done to death.

The use of the ultra-fashionable cashmere border, which does not promise to be overdone because it is expensive and does not appeal to the majority, gives an added charm to such a costume of black and white. It is used as a six-inch hem on the border of a white chiffon cloth underskirt, and the long overskirt is of black lace.

You remember these Louis XV skirts part in front and flow loose from the belt, so there is every opportunity to show of what stuff the underskirt is made.

With the all-black panne velvet or chiffon and jetted evening gown there will be added a generous drapery of white tulle at the shoulders and wide, looped bows of it on the arm, probably as a finish to a short, tight sleeve of black. The cartoonists call these aeroplane bows.

It may be a part of the new desire to exploit American fashions as individual and not altogether imitative that these modern gowns made as described above are called "Colonial." And this is correct. The Colonial gown, as it was worn over here, was a costume apart from the dress of that day in Europe.

Those presented to the fashionable women this season are often made of the exact copy of those old, soft brocades with a glint of metal in them. The Pompadour made this fabric famous.

The bodice is narrow and sharply pointed in front and slightly short-waisted at back. To it is gathered the full overskirt under a thick cord. The folds of this skirt hang loosely and without attempt to "ballon" the effect. Underneath is a soft skirt lined with messaline, as taffeta is considered too stiff for any skirt.

The bodice is square at the neck, widely so, and the sleeves are mere foundations of tulle or lace to support jet or metal and white tulle bows. These gowns have little length on the floor. Some, in truth, clear the floor by two inches. We are to go through a phase of short clothes this Winter, and the Colonial gown can lend itself to the fashion without being out of its epoch.

FURS THE FASHION.

Another old fashion that has been revived this season is the trimming of cloth coats and long cloth wraps with fur. The reason of this is that the season is to be a fur Winter.

So many semi-precious pelts have been discovered and made available for women's use that they are first as trimming.

Even soft silk cashmeres, which are to be prime favorites for elaborate house gowns, are banded with skunk, muskrat, monkey, and dipped fox.

Heavy coat suits have the huge shawl collar, short on the left side and long on the right, of fur, and a band of it to run around the hem and the wrists.

In truth, when one gets on a Polish polonaise of heavy cloth trimmed with fur and a Russian Cossack turban of fur, trimmed with a military cockade, and carries an immense muff made from three skins, she will look as though she belonged to the frozen North.

All this mad fashion for fur is not in honor of Peary and Cook. It was sprung upon the fashion world before the arctic pole became the centre of interest. However, the Cook bonnet, the Peary coat, and the Eskimo motoring cap are already on the counters.

CURE OF TUBERCULOSIS.

When consumption is discovered in an individual and the doctor sends him to a sanitarium one of the first questions is—how long must he stay?

Of course no one, not even the doctor, can answer that, though he is probably told that nothing less than six months will be of much service.

There is, however, no more important point for the tuberculous patient to grasp, whether he be affected in the lungs, the joints, the glands or elsewhere, than the fact that tuberculosis is not cured in six months the time that most patients plan to take treatment. In reality the reason why permanent results are not more frequently obtained in the treatment of this disease, is due largely to the fact that both patients and physicians have failed to grasp this important point, namely, that tuberculosis requires four or five years of careful, well regulated living, to effect a successful cure.

This does not necessarily mean that four or five years must be spent at a sanitarium, but there must be years of special caretaking.

It is a curious fact that the majority of patients who, having once regained their health break down again, do so not on account of the work in which they engage, but largely for the reason that they find it impossible for them to give up their play.

A danger with many people is that they feel perfectly well and are apt to forget that they are not quite so; in tuberculosis the symptoms may all cease before the desease is really cured. Don't be impatient and try to do everything at the start if you wish to keep on getting stronger. Remember that the best things in life require patient working for, and to become a cure is no exception to the rule. It is the patient who has the pluck to deny himself pleasures, such as theatres, dances and late hours, who is going to keep well and be able to remain at his work.

At his own home it is hard for the tuberculous patient who comes back apparently well to conduct himself in a different manner from his friends. They are apt to accuse him of overcautiousness or even of selfishness when he looks so perfectly well, yet it is imperative that he avoid all sorts of exposure including late hours and bad air, that he refuse to allow himself to become tired and work on his nerves, that he insist on abundant sleep, and above all that he restrain himself from doing the things which require and consume too much energy.

He must of course avoid games that are long and exciting; dances, meaning as they do late hours, excitement, and getting overheated; and the severer forms of exercise except with the permission of the doctor.

Special care must be taken to guard against colds, coughs, and tonsilitis, which are serious set-backs to a consumptive. Carefully nurse the illness away at the start and avoid exposure of all kinds.

A cheerful spirit does wonders and with it one does not think too much of what to do to keep well but just goes on and does it unconsciously. Brooding and worry hold people back. It is important to be regular about meals and enjoy them all you can. Relax utterly, forget about your work for a little while and converse cheerfully. If you can do this, you will have done a great deal towards making digestion easy, and consequently get more out of your food. If possible, don't eat when you are tired; lie down and rest first even if it is only for a few minutes. Eat slowly, chew your food well, and if you can, rest for a while after meals.

These rules are as valuable for convalescents from other disorders as for the tuberculous patient.—Healthy Home.

HOUSEHOLD LETTER

Eleanor Francis Writes Concerning Cookery

New York, Nov. 25.

The women who have made a notable social or business success through their skill in cookery, have almost invariably achieved this reputation by confining their efforts to a very few dishes, often quite homely ones, but so unusual in flavoring and in delicacy of texture that once tasted everyone longs for more of the same sort.

LADY COOKERY.

There is a certain inimitable something about "Lady Cookery "that escapes even the most skilled professional and the woman who has this knack and the cleverness to exploit it needs never lack success. In almost every circle Mrs. A's coffee or Mrs. B's doughnuts, or Mrs. C's apple pies are regarded as special treats and are considerable factors in the success of any charitable or church entertainment.

Almost everyone has heard the story of the "Pin-money Pickles" that have made a capable Southern woman both famous and financially independent, and have impelled many other women to start in the same way and achieve more or less success. Such work usually begins in a rather small way supplying people who already know something of Mrs. X's culinary skill, but if her skill is real and her methods, business methods good, her reputation spreads out in circles as endless as when a pebble is dropped into water.

A WOMAN CATERER.

In Atlanta, Ga., Mrs. S. R. Dull has made a wonderful success as a caterer because of her skill in delicate Lady Cookery and her knowledge of what appeals to the tastes and palates of her patrons. One of the things for which she is known is a delicious muffin that never varies in its excellence and delicacy of texture. She has been good enough to allow the publication of her recipe in this letter.

RUMFORD MUFFINS.

Sift one and one-half level cups of flour with two heaping teaspoons of Rumford Baking Powder, one teaspoon of sugar and half teaspoon salt. Beat one egg light, add to it one cup sweet milk and pour over flour mixing well. Stir in last one tablespoon of melted butter and pour batter into well greased gem irons made very hot.

MOTHER JOHNSON'S FLAPJACKS.

Everyone familiar with the Saranac region of the Adirondacks knows Mother Johnson's Carry, but not everyone has tasted the flapjacks for which the lady was famous. There was, of course, a little secret in their making which accounted for their peculiar excellence. "Enough flour is added to a quart of sour milk to make a rather thick batter." The secret is that this is left to stand over night instead of being finished at once; indeed it may stand twenty-four hours. If mixed at night however, next morning, add two well beaten eggs, a little salt and half a teaspoonful of soda, dissolved in a teaspoonful of warm water. Cook immediately.

DIPLOMATIC CHOCOLATE.

A certain lady who has achieved great success in Washington, D. C., as a hostess has given this recipe for her famous chocolate. "Allow two sticks of chocolate to one pint of new milk. After the chocolate is scraped, let it stand an hour or so with a tablespoonful of milk to soften it. Bring the pint of milk to a boil and sweeten it to taste with loaf sugar, then add the chocolate that has been mashed to a smooth paste and mixed with a little of the hot milk to insure its even dilution. Let it boil half a minute and beat it with an egg whip. Serve with whipped cream on top or not, as preferred. Miss S. adds a very little brandy to the flavoring and uses a chocolate which is flavored with vanilla. Eleanor Frances.

in a modern product. From time immemorial sage and sulphur have been used for the hair and scalp. Almost every one knows of the value of such a combination for darkening the hair and making it grow. In olden times the only way to get a hair tonic of this sort was to brew it in the home fireplace, a method which was troublesome and not always satisfactory. Nowadays almost every up-to-date druggist can supply his patrons with a ready to use product, skillfully compounded in perfectly equipped laboratories. Such a preparation is Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur, which is sold by all leading druggists for 50c. and $1.00 a bottle, or which is sent direct by the Wyeth Chemical Company, 74 Cortlandt St., New York City, upon receipt of price.

TWO CUPS FOR QUINCY RUNNERS

Took Second and Third Places in a List of Ninety-Three Starters in Boston Journal Cross Country Run

[Cuts kindly loaned by Boston Journal.]

It certainly was a grand achievement for Quincy boys to finish second and third in the Boston Journal cross-country run yesterday among 93 starters. William Hackett took second place, and Franz Marceau third place. Cups were awarded to both and also to Tom Geary of the Orange High school, who finished first. There were no other prizes except a team trophy which went to the Providence Technical High.

Geary's time was 18 minutes, 44 seconds. Hackett was only 2 seconds behind and Marceau but 16 seconds.

The story of the race is best told by the Journal:

The Boston Journal run for the school boys of New England, held yesterday afternoon, starting and finishing on Technology Field, Brookline, was the most successful long distance inter-scholastic event ever held in this country. School boys from the high schools of Greater Boston and from the middle part of the State vied with the Providence schools and while the Rhode Island runners, representing the Providence Technical High School, repeated their victory of last year and won the team prize, it remained for young Tom Geary or the Orange High School to win individual honors by capturing first place.

Geary led all the way, finishing in excellent condition, and was followed across the line by William Hackett of the Quincy Evening High school and Franz Marceau of the Quincy High Day school. These three runners captured the cups offered to the first three men to finish.

The conditions were far from ideal for the contest on account of the poor footing offered, due to the recent rains, although the temperature was all that could be asked for. The time of the winner, 18 minutes 44 seconds, was considerably slower than that of the winner last year. Gardiner Whitney of Brookline High, but Whitney had a perfect day and set a fast pace which several followed. Geary, who was a dark horse yesterday, set a fair pace, and the others seemed to be content to let the supposedly green runner take a commanding lead. With the exception of Hackett and Marceau none seemed anxious to make a race of it until near the finish.

Fully two thousand gathered at Tech Field to witness the race and the roads from the start to a point several yards beyond the field were lined with spectators. The excitement at the finish was intense, as Hackett of Quincy, in a great effort to overhaul Geary, made a gallant effort, but the youngster from Orange would not be denied and the winner of the Brockton Marathon had to be content with second place.

There was some talk that William Hackett, who finished second, was not eligible to receive that prize, but Lawrence A. Sprague, headmaster of the Quincy Evening High school, assured The Journal last evening that Hackett was regularly in attendance at the school and was a student in good standing and was but 19 years of age.

The time of the first eight follows:

1—Thomas Geary, Orange High 18 m. 44s.

2—W. Hackett Quincy Evening High 18 m, 46 s.

3—F. R. Marceau, Quincy High 19m. 10s.

4—W. A. Ferguson, Mechanic Arts 19 m 12 s.

5—Ralph Stolworthy, Providence Hight 19 m 14s.

6—L. Fine, Prov. Tech. High 19 m 16s.

7—F. Capper, Brookline High 19m 18s.

8—L. Hall, Prov. Tech. High 19m 22s.

CENTRE BALL A NEW GAME

Played by the Girls of Thayer Academy

On Wednesday there was held in the girls' gymnasium a centre-ball game which was attended by quite a large number. This is the second centre-ball game that the girls have had this year. As the game is rather a new one for the school many attended for curosity. The game is played by fourteen players seven on a side. On each side of the center line of the gymnasium are three chalked circles two occupying places at the side and one at the end. In each circle are two players, one who must stay inside the circle all the time, while the other is supposed to guard the one inside from receiving the ball. Beside these six in the circle are two rovers or centers, one on each side who can move anywhere. The object in the game is to pass the ball to one of the players inside a circle at the side and then this player in turn must pass it to the one at the end who, in order to assist in scoring for her side, must hold it and not allow it to be knocked out of her hands. If a player who is supposed to remain inside the ring steps out with both feet it is called a foul and a point is awarded to the opposite side.

The boys' basket ball team has now been practising for more than a week and those who are out for practice every day are showing up well. They have lost but one of last year's players and under Edward Avery as captain there are promising signs of a strong team. Their first game will be on Dec. 4, Scituate at Thayer at 2:30 P. M. All are requested to come.

FAIR FOX HUNTER.

Miss Helen Elcock, daughter of Geo. F. Elcock of West Quincy, a 19 year old girl, holds the Bay State record for fox shooting this season. Last week she got her 21st fox skin, and among these there is one black skin. Miss Elcock has a record of several hundred skins since she first began to shoot, and fox hunters say that 21 foxes for this season is a phenomenal record. Miss Elcock is also a camera enthusiast and develops and prints all of her own pictures. If more women were to follow this sport, says the fair huntress, there would be less use for hospitals and sanitariums.

FORE RIVER ATHLETICS.

The six cups won by the Fore River apprentice boys at the meet held last summer with the Apprentice boys of the General Electric Co. have been received and placed on exhibition at Sandberg's jewelry store.

Richard Allen of the Fore River apprentices got second place in the cross country run of the Y. M. C. A. Thanksgiving morning.

The basket ball team of the Fore River apprentices have elected Dave Melville as captain, and Harold MacDowell as manager. The team is putting in ag reat deal of practice and expect to play their first game inside of two weeks. The team promises to be a fast one, and they will make their oponents hustle.

John E. Gourlie of Wollaston has accepted a position with a large contracting firm in Boston.

CHANGES IN THE FOOTBALL RULES

Officials Will Try Hard to Make Game Safer.

CONDITION IS IMPORTANT.

Athletes Should Be Examined Before Playing—Socker Game May Be Introduced—Cannot Hope to Abolish College Sport.

With all the big football games of the 1909 season decided the followers of the strenuous gridiron game have turned their attention to next season's schedules, the All American selections and other post season topics. But this year there is one which is even more important—the changes, if any, which are to be made in the rules to prevent accidents.

Captain Palmer E. Pierce, president of the Intercollegiate Athletic association, has broken the ice by intimating that it might be wise to introduce the English Rugby or socker game. While many agree with him that both are good games and socker particularly is very popular in the United States just now, neither will ever take the place in the hearts of the American public of the good old game of football.

While the accidents which have given the opponents of the college game a chance to start the annual cry of abolishing football is deplored, still it must be said that the accidents, though they have been in every instance sad, ought not to have happened had just a bit more care been exercised.

It would not be just to the coaches of any of the elevens which had members seriously injured or killed in a football game to criticise them. But nevertheless we have the word of Mike Murphy, the noted Penn trainer and coach, and other men famed for their knowledge of athletes and athletics that men who are physically fit are seldom injured in a football game.

However, eliminating the question of condition, what changes could be made in the rules that would make accidents impossible? Several years ago the rulemakers decreed against the mass plays, such as the guards and tackles-back, and made possible the forward pass and onside kick. They also changed the distance to be gained for a first down from five to ten yards. All this was intended to lessen the liability to injury.

Both the forward pass and onside kick are spectacular plays. But when one considers that the man who receives a forward pass is likely to be tackled by a man going at great speed, while in the case of an onside kick all the men on the two elevens are running at top speed, it can readily be seen that if a man is not fit for the strenuous side of football he is in danger of being injured.

Spectators not conversant with football from a player's standpoint think that the line plunges are the most dangerous. They see a tangled mass of players, possibly fourteen or fifteen men on top of one sinner who is carrying the ball, and they think he is being terribly cushed and bruised. As a matter of fact, the danger of injury is not near so great in the line plunges as in the open plays.

Almost without exception the serious injuries to football players this season have been due to flying tackles. That might be legislated against. Yes, but how can you hope to prevent a man who is going at top speed and wants to stop a player from diving for him when he sees that he may not be able to outstep him and bring him to earth at close quarters?

Many years ago a member of the state house of representatives in Harrisburg, Pa., introduced a bill prohibiting football. The students in many colleges appointed a committee and wrote to the legislators for a copy of the bill. After reading it over carefully the committee got busy and started a protest, which carried with it a list of names, which the committee almost had to use a cart to get to the postoffice. Needless to state, the bill did not pass, but one may only imagine that the petition influenced the lawmakers in Harrisburg very much.

However, this is only cited to show that sometimes men who have graduated from high school or college, have stopped playing football or probably never did play the game, become wildly excited and oppose the sport merely because it is said to be dangerous. They do not inquire into the reason for the accidents to players.

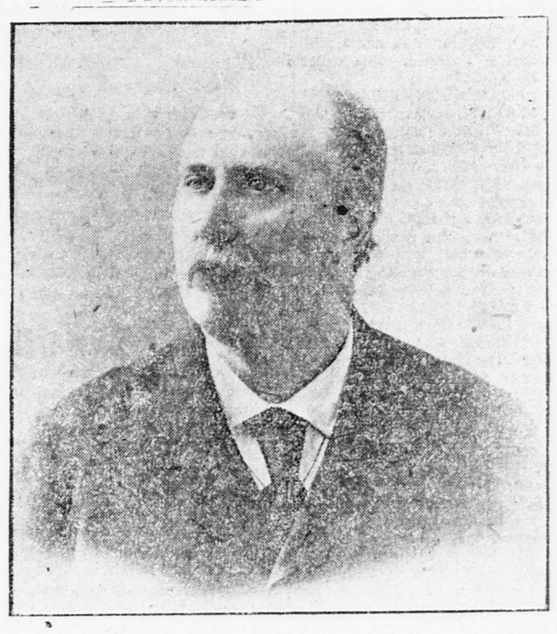

American boys and young men will continue to play football as long as there is a lot on which they can do so. Therefore it seems best not to openly oppose the game, but to try to make it safe. First of all, it should be played only in schools and colleges where they have a competent instructor, who can examine the candidates, be sure that they are in condition and keep them that way. If the committee on rules finds that some changes can be made which will elliminate some of the danger it will undoubtedly make them. But there are thousands who will wager that football will be played in 1910 and many years thereafter.

Willie Hoppe's Sweeping Defi.

Willie Hoppe has posted $1,000 with "Honest John" Kelly for a match with anybody in New York, with a $10,000 side bet, the game to be played in a three day billiard tournament of 500 points a night.

DISTRICT ATTORNEY RESIGNS

Ill Health of Thomas E. Grover Makes the Step Necessary

Thomas E. Grover of Canton, district attorney of Norfolk and Plymouth counties, filed his resignation with Gov. Draper yesterday.

Judge Grover has been in poor health for some weeks, and ill health is given as the cause of his resignation.

Several applications have already been put in circulation by attorneys who would like to fill the position, two of whom are from Brockton.

While there is no petition as yet in circulation for Judge Albert E. Avery of the district court, it would not be surprising if one was circulated within a few days. Judge Avery's name was mentioned in connection with the recent vacancy on the superior bench that was filed this week by the appointment of ex-Senator Jenney of Hyde Park. Judge Avery is amply qualified for the office of district attorney, and a petition in his behalf would secure the unanimous endorsement of the attorneys of the East Norfolk district.

FOOTBALL TODAY.

Wollaston A. A. vs. Wellington's for a purse and the 19 year old championship of South Shore at Merrymount Park this afternoon ,the game to start at 3 o'clock.

The reception to the Quincy High school football squad will probably be held Friday evening, December 10. The Q.'s will be awarded at that time.

The Y. M. C. A. boys will hear Mr. Gilsen speak at the Association tomorrow afternoon ,taking for his subject "Boys and Their Ideals."

BOY ARRESTED.

William A Molander was arrested yesterday by Inspector McKay for breaking into Berry Bros.' store Thanksgiving day. Molander, who is about 15 years of age, was sent to the Lyman school for boys some time ago. Last summer he was let out on parole and for a time did well. Lately, however, he has been acting badly and on two occasions recently, is said to have stolen his father's pay envelope. His parents are unable to do anything with him, and when the break at Berry Bros.' store was reported, the boy's father notified the police to come after him. When brought to the police station he admitted that it was he who had entered the store. The State officers were notified and this morning an agent came to Quincy and took the boy back to the Lyman school.

Boys wanted to sell the Quincy Daily Ledger each day at 3.30 P. M. A good chance to earn money for Christmas. Boys will receive one cent for every paper they sell the week of Nov. 22—27. A prize of $5 in gold will also be given the boy who sells the most papers between now and New Years.

FIRE LOSS $150,000

DESTRUCTION OF BOSTON GEAR WORKS QUINCY'S LARGEST CONFLAGRATION

Valuable Machinery Ruined and Prosperous Industry Crippled---Over 100 Skilled Mechanics Out of Employment

Quincy was visited Saturday night with one of the most disastrous fires in its history, when the large plant of the Boston Gear Works, owned by Frank Burgess and situated on Hayward street near the Norfolk Downs depot, was completely destroyed. The building was one and a half stories high and 225 feet long and 175 feet wide. It was of wood covered with corrugated iron clapboards. Over 100 skilled mechanics were employed.

When the fire was discovered it was in what was known as the stock room situated in the south westerly corner. The fire was discovered by Robert Murphy, who notified Charles F. Veazie the watchman. According to Mr. Veazie, he was seated in the front part of the building and shortly after 9 o'clock detected the odor of smoke. He started out to see where it came from but had not succeeded in locating it when informed by the Murphy boy of its whereabouts. There is an automatic fire alarm in the building but for some reason this did not give an alarm.

An attempt was made with the line of fire hose in the building to extinguish the blaze but owing to the in the building their efforts were fruitless and an alarm from box 612 was sounded at 9.30. District Chief Nyhan lives near by and upon his arrival he ordered a general alarm sounded. This followed as closely as possible after the sounding of the first alarm. It was the first time that a general alarm had been sounded in the city since the fire in the Music Hall block March 18, 1900. This alarm called out every piece of apparatus in the city, with the exception of Combination 3 located at Houghs Neck.

The flames spread with lightning like rapidity and before the alarm was done sounding the sky was brightly illuminated. This with the sounding of the general alarm sent hundreds hurrying toward the scene.

Just east of the building are the houses occupied by A. L. Turner, Levi H. Turner, Joseph Pickering and E. A. Folsom. Some of the occupants had retired for the night and were not aware of the fire until awakened by early arrivals. Some of the families began to move out their household effects when the roofs began to smoke, but a hydrant stream that was directed on them kept them from taking fire.

ELEVEN STREAMS.

As soon as the apparatus arrived, Chief Williams distributed it so that the fire might be fought from all sides. The steamer was located on the corner of Hancock and Hayward streets and threw two powerful streams onto the burning building. On Hayward street were two hydrants. One opposite the office entrance to the works and one at the end nearest the railroad. Two lines of hose were run from each of these hydrants, and two from a hydrant in the rear of the building. In addition to these a line was run from near the corner of Billings road and Hancock street, another from the hydrant where the steamer was located, and another from Billings road near the Norfolk Downs depot, eleven streams in all.

With these streams Chief Williams was enabled to surround the building and to keep the fire confined within the walls. Early during the fire the helmet of Chief Williams was knocked off with a line of hose and thereafter he went about directing the work of his firemen bareheaded and wet through to the skin.

BRAVERY OF FIREMEN.

Many of the firemen displayed great bravery by entering the burning building with their lines of hose. All this time the fire did not seem to abate much in fact it seemed to be growing fiercer as the oil saturated material furnished plenty of food for the flames. They mounted high into the air making an illumination that was seen for miles, causing many out of town to think a conflagration was in progress. Telephone messages were received from some of the departments in adjoining towns offering to send assistance if needed. Their help, however, was declined with thanks by the Chief, who informed them that he would be able to master the fire.

The corrugated iron clapboards doubtless prevented the fire spreading to adjoining buildings. On the west side but a few feet away was the plant of the Wire Fabric Co., while on the east was a small paint shop occupied by A. Shuman. On the south side was a forge shop, stable and stock building all only a few feet from the blazing building, but neither of these buildings took fire, although somewhat scorched by the heat.

FLAMES SPREAD RAPIDLY.

So rapidly did the flames spread that the only thing the early arrivals were able to get out were two automobiles that were in the Hancock street end of the building. The fire was under control at 10.30 but the firemen were kept busy playing water onto it until after midnight, and it was 1 o'clock before some of the apparatus returned to quarters. Then two hydrant streams were left in charge of firemen in case the fire should again break out. These two streams were kept connected up ready for instant use all day Sunday.

Many instances of daring were witnessed during the fire when workmen would attempt to rescue their tools from the flames. On the northeast corner where the fire was the hottest at one time, one workman raised another on his shoulders and with the danger of the tottering walls giving way any moment, he fished with his bare hands among the ruins of what had once been his bench, only to find that everything was gone.

An act appreciated by the owner was preformed by Frank Snell and a High school student named Robertson, when they lead the horses out of the barn which was situated directly in the rear of where the fire started. The heat and smoke made an almost impossible barrier, but they finally succeeded in getting all four horses to a place of safety.

VALUABLE MACHINERY.

As stated above the plant gave employment to over 100 skilled workmen. Many of these had valuable kits of tools, all of which were lost. The value of the workmen's tools varied from $25 to $200, the average value of each kit being at least $50. In most cases these will be a total loss. Some of the workmen were at the building on Sunday, trying to save what they could of their kits, which were not insured.

In the building was much valuable machinery used in the making of all kinds of gears including those for automobiles. Among these machines were three Gleason automatic bevel gear machines each being valued at $2,000. All of these were ruined. On the Hancock side were six valuable automatic machines. The fire here was not so fierce and it is thought that but one of these machines was ruined . Then there were four machines known as Cincinnati millers, each valued at about $1,500 all of which are doubtless a total loss. In addition to these there were hundreds of other expensive lathes, etc., most of which were ruined by heat and water.

SAFE TAKES FALL.

The office was located on the Hayward street side of the building. In this office was a large safe in which the books of the company were kept. This safe is now in the basement with the outer door knocked open. The inner door is apparently intact, and it is thought that when this is opened that the books will be found to be in good condition.

In summing up the loss after the fire it was agreed between the manager and Chief Williams that the loss would be between $150,000 and $200,000. The property of the company is fully covered by insurance.

Just at the present time the company is rushed with orders and so busy are they that the plant was to start in next week running night and day. The fire therefore means a serious interruption in the company's business.

WILL REBUILD.

Sunday it was stated that Mr. Burgess would rebuild at once, although not on as large a scale as before the fire. His new plant will be some smaller and he will confine his operations to the cream of the gear work, accepting nothing but that. Although the plant will be smaller employment will be given to the same number of men.

The power for the old plant was furnished by an oil engine located in the basement. The oil for this engine was confined in a large iron boiler in the rear of the building and it is very fortunate that the fire did not reach this.

STREET CARS BLOCKED.

During the fire the south bound street car track was blocked by a line of hose ,and the loop from Hancock street into Billings road was also blocked by a line of hose. Car service was maintained however, by changing cars near the scene, the cars for Quincy using the outer rail as far as Elm avenue where they crossed over. Supt. Gammon was on the scene and directed the operation of the cars.

The emergency crew of the Electric Light Co., responded to the alarm and cut the high power wires running into the building. These wires were looked upon as a source of danger for sometime. The front peak of the building to which they were attached was blazing fiercely, and it was seen that it must soon topple over and permit the wires to fall to the ground. Spectators standing near shouted a warning to those who got beneath them, so that when they did fall no harm was done. A lineman then went up the pole and cut off the wires at the top, thus eliminating all danger from that source.

THOUSANDS VISIT SCENE.

Sunday being an unusually pleasant day the scene of the fire was visited by thousands. All day long there was a constant stream of men, women and children going to and from the scene, and the extra cars on the street line carried thousands. People were not allowed to enter the building, however, for two police officers were on guard, and no one but workmen were permitted to enter. This was a wise precaution as the gearing was likely to fall at any time and injure someone. As it was, one of the workmen had a narrow escape from serious injury. He was hunting for his kit in the easterly end of the building when a piece of shafting fell, just skimming his nose. It knocked him over, but he fortunately escaped with no worse injury than a skun nose.

Scores of workmen were about the ruins all day trying to locate their kits and save what they could of their tools while other were busy covering the machines with kerosene oil to prevent them from rusting. It will doubtless be possible to save some of the machinery.

ASSESSED VALUE.

The assessed valuation of the property destroyed according to the Assessor's books for 1909, is as follows:

Stock in trade	$3,000.00
Buildings	6,300.00
Machinery	25,000.00
Total	$34,300.00

The kits of tools were extra, as they were owned by mechanics employed. Valued from $25 to $200 each.

ARREST AT FIRE.

During the progress of the fire two young men, who later gave their names as Arthur E. Gustafson, aged 18 years, of 164 Cranch street, and John G. Swanson, aged 21 years, of 107 Cranch street created a disturbance by pushing through the crowd and making insulting remarks. Officer Duffy started after them and the two started to run. In the dark Gustafson tripped over a rock and fell to the ground. The force of the fall was so heavy that he was unconscious for a few minutes and it was thought that he was seriously injured. He soon revived, however, and with Swanson who had been captured in the meantime were sent to the police station and locked up for drunkenness. They were released Sunday morning.

OTHER LARGE FIRES.

While Quincy has had a number of fires where there was a large loss, there were none where the loss approached anything like that of Saturday night. There have been but two general alarms in the history of the city. One of these was Dec. 7, 1899, Box 26 at 1.25 A. M., for a fire in the Quincy & Boston street railway car barns in City Square, on the site of the present Court House building. This was a bitter cold morning, which doubtless accounted for the small number of spectators present. The loss at this fire was $27,100, and included cars.

CHIEF WILLIAMS

The second general alarm was from Box 23, March 18, 1900, at 4.30 A. M. This was for a fire in the Music Hall block. This was also a stormy and bitter cold morning and the firemen suffered greatly from the cold. John O. Hall, who was Mayor at that time, requested aid from out of town, and Milton and Neponset sent steamers. Chief Williams was on the sick list at this fire, and Assistant Chief Packard was in charge. The total loss at this fire was $28,200.

Other large fire were July 5, 1893, when the car barn on nearly the same site of the fire of Saturday night, was struck by lightning and destroyed at a loss of $8,735.

December 28, 1893, the polishing shop of Fagan & Ballou was destroyed at a loss of $7,600.

April 11, 1895, the home of Leroy S. Carter on Squantum street, Atlantic, was destroyed at a loss of $7,000.

Nov. 17, 1896, at 10.50 A. M., a fire started in the basement of the Greenleaf block and worked up into the shoe store of Brainard Dyer. The loss here amounted to $5,674.

This list includes all the large fires since Quincy became a city in 1888. Previous to that was the burning of the buildings that stood on the site of Hotel Greenleaf, and the tanneries that stood on the site of the Kincaide block.

CALLS IT REVOLUTION

Zangwill Defends Militant Suffragettes and Predicts Some Shooting

London, Nov. 29.—Asked if he considered that the suffragists would be justified in attacking cabinet ministers at functions where royal personages were present, Israel Zangwill, the novelist, said:

"They would be absolutely justified. Revolutions are not made with rose water, and this is revolution. The government has refused to pay attention to peaceful methods.

"These women are justified in doing anything they like, subject to their own risk. I do not take up the stand that they can do what they like and not be punished. Nor do they. They glory in the punishment. It is far in excess of the actual crime—assuming that their actions are a crime.

"I am waiting with painful anxiety the moment when someone will be shot on one side or the other. I think such an act legitimate in a revolution. It is also legitimate to hang the person who kills. The action is legitimate on both sides. I cannot see why those who proclaim that might is right object to such procedure."

DOG POINTS TO GAME

Big Batch of Partridges Found Concealed In a Coffin

Lansing, Mich., Nov. 29.—An attempt by market hunters to ship 500 partridges in a burial casket from upper Michigan to Milwaukee, in violation of the state game laws, was frustrated by a hunting dog.

Deputy Game Warden Harrington was at the railway station at Flatwood when a rough box containing a coffin was brought in for shipment. While the intending shipper, armed with a death certificate duly signed by a physician, was talking with the ticket agent, the game warden's dog scented the birds, and came to a "point" on the box.

Finally, the dog began pawing at the box. The deputy's suspicions were aroused and an investigation followed. The birds were confiscated and the man who brought them to the station disappeared.

STRIKERS EVICTED FROM THEIR HOMES

Many Hundreds Are Forced to Seek Shelter Elsewhere

Ludlow, Mass., Nov. 29.—In fulfilment of their announced intention of compelling strikers and their families to leave dwellings owned by the company, officials of the Ludlow Manufacturing associates began having writs served. Fifteen company houses were emptied of their contents and the occupants ordered to seek shelter elsewhere.

The strikers, who left the company's jute and hemp products mills late in September as a protest against a new system of work which they claimed meant lower wages for them, announced that they intended to appeal to the town officials to provide dwellings for the families turned out of the company's buildings.

The company will have a number of families ejected from its houses each day until all are removed. Practically all the employes live in company dwellings.

HOOK CAUGHT IN HIS FACE

Constable Submits to Surgical Operation Under Great Difficulties

Port Jefferson, L. I., Nov. 29.—John Dayton, a constable of this place, was fishing for snapping mackerel and, as he jerked the hook out of the water, it struck him in his face. Another fisherman, who went to his assistance, braced himself in the rocking rowboat, with legs wide apart, and cut the hook out with a fishknife. Dayton sat unmoved while his face was being slashed.

"Sorry to hurt you so, Cap'n," said the amateur surgeon.

"'S got to come out," said the old salt.

A few more slashes and it was cut loose.

HARMON FOR PRESIDENT

Prediction That Governor of Ohio Will Be Next Democratic Nominee

Richmond, Nov. 29.—Former Governor Glenn of North Carolina said in an interview here:

"Judson Harmon, governor of Ohio, will be the next presidential nominee of the Democratic party, in my judgment. Everywhere I have been I have found Harmon as the leading candidate in public and party opinion."

Guilty of Six Murders

Richmond, Nov. 29.—Howard Little, charged with the murder of Mrs. Betty Justis, George Meadows, his wife and three members of his family, was found guilty of murder and sentenced to be electrocuted Jan. 7. The murders occurred at Hurley and the bodies of the victims were burned.

Fierce Battle With a Baboon

Portland, Ore., Nov. 29.—Struggling for his life with a baboon, Fred Wilson, a trainer employed by an animal show, fought desperately for half an hour with a baboon that attacked him in the cage. The trainer is in a serious condition.

MINISTERS WILL FEEL NEW LAW

Rhode Island to Put Barrier Up to Elopers

BECOMES EFFECTIVE DEC. 1

Influx of Prospective Brides and Grooms From Many Parts of New England, Boston In Particular, Expected to Fall Off More Than Five Hundred During Next Year—"Blanket Explanations" Stopped

Providence, Nov. 29.—"Repentance at leisure" as a consequence of hasty marriages will have far less connection with this city and state after Wednesday next than in the liberal past.

On Dec. 1, Rhode Island and Providence drop the application "Gretna Green" and young couples lose the opportunity for speedy and quiet marriages by an act of delay passed by the last general assembly.

In substance, this provides that marriage licenses cannot legally become effective until five days after they are obtained. This, it is believed by those who secured the adoption of the act, will prove to be a prohibitive restraint upon the young couples who in past years have flocked to this state as a certain haven for marriage seekers.

For years Rhode Island has been to New England—Boston particularly—what Gretna Green was to England in the eighteenth century.

It is believed that the local marriage records, not figuring those of other places in the state, will be less by more than 500 next year of the average annual number of marriages.

The enactment of the new law will tend to slim the income of many local ministers, several in particular, who have made a specialty of caring for the speedy needs of "runaway" couples, losing a really considerable portion of their yearly income.

The cabmen who have for years made a specialty of hustling young couples from the train to the registrar's office and from thence to the minister, will also lose a desirable patronage. Hotels, too, will miss the couples somewhat, but as a rule their visits were flighty, stops seldom being made here overnight.

During the last fiscal year 681 couples from places in states other than Rhode Island were married in Providence. Of this number 529 were from Massachusetts. Most, if not all, were elopements or hasty marriages. In addition there were performed in this city 166 marriages in which one of the parties was from Massachusetts. These may, or may not, have been runaway matches. At Woonsocket 40 couples from places outside of Rhode Island were married. In other places throughout the state probably 100 more such marriages were performed.

Under the conditions and laws which will be ineffective after Wednesday it was a comparatively easy matter for young people to be married here. Blanket explanations were required as a matter of form when either of the parties appeared under the necessary age, but there have been only a few who came to Rhode Island and returned without the nuptial knot being tied. Often, as it has later developed, one or both of the parties have been several years short of the legal age.

Fixed, almost as if by regulation, were the hours during which most of the runaway marriages were performed. Each day the arrival of the first train from Boston in the morning or of the last one before the closing of the city hall for the day, late in the afternoon, would be followed by a rush of applications at the registrar's office in city hall. Equipped with the sought-for license, a minister was hunted up. Sometimes the clergyman found objections and refused to marry the pair, but usually a further quest would result in the finding of one willing to unite them.

NEW MICROBE CHRISTENED

"Proteus" Responsible For Disease Which Proves Fatal to Babies

Paris, Nov. 29.—Professor Metchnikoff, the head of the Pasteur institute, has arrived at the conclusion that gastro-enteritis in infants is chiefly due to a microbe christened the "proteus," which is found on fruits and vegetables and in butter and cheese.

Mothers, he says, frequently transmit the microbes to children by handling them or their nursing bottles with soiled fingers. Soap is the remedy.

Uncle Sam's Big Payroll

Washington, Nov. 29.—The personnel of Uncle Sam's establishment is increasing by leaps and bounds, the grand total of all federal employes at present being approximately 370,065, as against 306,141 in 1907.

Sawmill Company In Debt.

Pensacola, Fla., Nov. 29.—A petition in bankruptcy was filed against the Tallahasse Sawmill company, a million dollar firm, owning mills, railroads and large tracts of timber land in Georgia and Florida.

ASTOR DIVORCE SCORED

Boston Pastor Says That Colonel's Death Would Be No Loss

Boston, Nov. 29.—Rev. Cortland Myers, in a sermon delivered at Tremont Temple, scored the divorce courts of the United States and designated them as the ruin of the American homes. At the same time he alluded to the divorce of John Jacob Astor and the excitement caused by the supposed loss of his yacht.

"Here," he said, "is a man with millions who goes into the divorce court and divorces his wife, gives her a few millions and goes away again, a renegade, on his yacht, and the United States spent thousands of dollars and plenty of time and money thrashing about to discover the whereabouts of his yacht for fear that he had been lost in a storm.

"God knows there would not have been any loss if they had never found him. If it was a fisherman, life saver or some other fellow in circumstances of that station, there would have been no such action. Yet a man who could secure a divorce behind closed doors, because the testimony was too obscene and filthy to appear in the papers, must be hunted for at whatever cost.

"I hope we may see the day when that scourge, divorce, that destroyer of the American home, will be cast out."

GOLF IS SIDETRACKED

President Taft Expects to Spend Much Time In Horseback Riding

Washington, Nov. 29.—Since his return from the west President Taft has taken to horseback riding. Although the weather has been ideal for golf during the past two weeks, Mr. Taft has visited the links but twice.

The president realizes that the snows of winter soon will put an end to constant golf playing and he is anxious to get hardened to the saddle, for he expects to do a great deal of riding during the cold months. He rode for more than two hours Sunday afternoon.

WOULD-BE ASSASSIN MAKES A MISTAKE

Shoots Man He Thought Was French Minister of War

Paris, Nov. 29.—An individual having an imaginary grievance against the war department shot and dangerously wounded General Verand on the stairs of the Hotel Continental as the general was entering the hotel.

The man was overpowered and placed under arrest. Later it was learned that he mistook Verand for General Brun, minister of war.

The attempted assassination created a sensation. It occurred a few moments after President Fallieres left the Hotel Bristol nearby, where he was calling on King Manuel. It was first thought that it was an attempt against the life of the president of the republic or the king of Portugal.

Hundreds ran in the direction of the shots, and several officers sprang upon Verand's assailant, who proved to be an Algerian. He was overpowered with difficulty, and was found to be a perfect walking battery of revolvers and daggers.

MISSING FROM GUNBOAT

Nine Men From the Marietta Carried Away During Heavy Weather

Colon, Nov. 29.—Nine men are missing from the United States gunboat Marietta, which is lying off Port Limon, C. R. The gunboat sent out a general alarm by wireless and a request that ships proceeding in that vicinity keep a lookout for her gig and whaleboat.

The gig, which was manned by a crew of four, and the whaleboat, with five men aboard, were carried out to sea in the heavy weather on Friday night. Nothing has been seen or heard of either of the boats since.

GUNNERS HIT BALLOONS

Targets High In Air Brought to Earth In Interesting Experiment

New York, Nov. 29.—Balloons flying about 1000 feet in the air were burst by big shells from guns at the Fort Hancock proving grounds at Sandy Hook. The balloons were used as targets to help Uncle Sam solve the problem of fighting aerial enemies, and the test was a big success.

Picked gunners manipulated the big upright cannon with such deadly aim that the balloons soon completely collapsed and were drawn or fell back to earth in tatters.

London, Nov. 29.—The birch and banishment are gravely suggested in a highclass weekly newspaper as the only methods that remain of dealing with British suffragettes.

Capitol Graft Trial Postponed

Harrisburg, Nov. 29.—Judge Kunkel postponed the trial of Joseph M. Huston, the architect accused of conspiracy in the furnishing of the state capitol, until Jan. 17.

Miners on Strike

Edmonton, Alberta, Nov. 29.—Two hundred miners employed in the Stanley coal mines are on strike because of dissatisfaction with working conditions.

FELT HATS.

Evolution of the Fluffy Fur into the Finished Product.

It is an interesting matter to follow stage by stage the evolution of a little pile of soft, fluffy rabbit fur into the finished hat, whether a light colored crush or a raven black hard hat of the derby shape. The general idea about such a hat is that it is cut and made or molded out of a sheet of felt, so that amazement comes when one is shown bales and heaps of rabbit fur and is told that it is out of this that hats are made. Felt indeed is not so much a primary material, but felting is the process by which wool, fur or hair is matted together and formed into a close fabric. For hats rabbit fur is the material used. The first step in its treatment is the thorough cleansing of the close clipped fur in a machine, which winnows it of all dirt or foreign matter and leaves it in a soft, fluffy condition resembling the finest and lightest down.

Anything less resembling a hat it is impossible to imagine. But the marvelous ingenuity of the next process accomplishes an almost magical change. In the central box of a hopper-like machine a big copper cone revolves. From above the soft, fluffy fur is fed down in a shower, which clings like gray snow on the revolving cone, while jets of water and steam spray on the fur mat and plaster it into a complete covering. In a minute or two the cone is covered to the depth of one-eighth of an inch with this matter and saturated fur, which is now become felt. The machine is stopped, the cone is taken out, and the workman dexterously peels off the felt covering. Being built up on the cone, it is also cone shaped and looks like a gigantic sugar loaf bag. It is the embryo hat.

In this first state it is a soft, wet, felt cone, measuring 24 by 30 inches. Rolled up, it enters upon a series of processes and is shrunk together so that it measures 10½ by 14 inches.

The hat, now a browny-gray felt cone, like a clown's cap, is smoothed by being placed against rapidly revolving sandpaper. It is stiffened by being dipped in shellac, dyed black by immersion in a vat and then passes on to be shaped. Warm water gives the felt pliability again, and the man pulling out or "earsing" the apex of the cone draws and smooths it down to a wooden block of the exact shape and size the hat is required to be. As it dries it takes its destined shape and firmness as regards the crown, while the brim is still flat and untrimmed.

The body of the hat is now practically finished. Then comes the shaping of the brim, which is worked down and bent over a wooden frame of the exact curl and line of the ordained design. Each size and style of hat has its own frame, as it has also its iron mold, wood block, etc., and every alteration in a season's styles and shapes calls for an entirely new set of molds. —Brooklyn Eagle.

Highest Endurable Temperature.

It is difficult to say what the highest temperature is that a human being can live in. In the kitchens of some of the great hotels and in the stokeholds of some steamships the temperature gets to 140 or 145 degrees. Cooks and their helpers and stokers have to endure that temperature for hours at a time, and they seem to get along pretty well. The hottest place perhaps where human beings work is in the vulcanizing factories, where the temperature is 212, the boiling point of water. There are a few who can stand this heat for a little while at a time, but man can endure no more.—New York American.

Vesuvius.

Vesuvius cut but a small figure in history till the latter half of the first century of the Christian era. In 73 B. C. its crater served as a camp of refuge to a band of gladiators. In 63 A. D. the serenity was broken by a violent grumbling that manifested itself in a severe earthquake that shook up the surrounding region. For sixteen years the subterranean rumblings continued at intervals, and in the year 79 A. D. came the great catastrophe in which Herculaneum and Pompeii were overwhelmed. In 1631 there was another terrible explosion, and since that time Vesuvius has seldom been at rest for many years together.—Exchange.

A Culinary Tragedy.

"What's the matter, dear?" asked Mr. Justwed as he came into the house and found his wife crying as if her heart would break.

"I am so discouraged," she sobbed.

"What has bothered my little wife?"

"I worked all the afternoon making custards, because I knew you were so fond of them, and—and"— Here she began weeping hysterically again.

"And what, darling?"

"And they turned out to be sponge cakes."

The Cleverest.

Willy—You see, it was this way. They were all three so dead in love with her and all so eligible that to settle the matter she agreed to marry the one who should guess the nearest to her age. Arthur—And did she? Willy—I don't know. I know that she married the one who guessed the lowest.

Crushed.

"Really, Louise, this bill is outrageous. You must not try to dress like the millionaires' wives."

"My dear Ned, control yourself. I am only trying to appear as well dressed as the shopgirls."

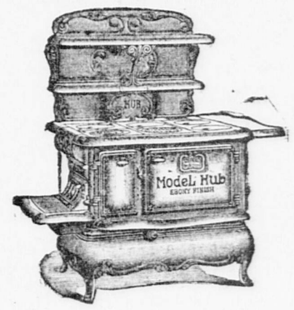

Absence of occupation is not rest. A mind quite vacant is a mind distressed.—Cowper.

MYSTERY NOT YET DISPELLED

Authorities Have But Little Light on the Glover Murder

ARREST OF TOBIE LE BLANC

Judge Orders Brother of Murdered Man's Wife Committed on Charge of Contempt of Court After His Persistent Refusal to Answer Questions at Inquest—Seymour Glover Names Person He Thinks Killed Brother

Waltham, Mass., Nov. 29.—Although Judge Luce sat for seven hours in the second district court conducting an inquest into the death of Clarence F. Glover, who was shot on the night of Nov. 20 in his laundry, and although a number of witnesses, including the widow of the slain man, were examined by District Attorney Higgins, the mystery which has surrounded this most extraordinary tragedy has not been dispelled.

The most sensational happening of the day was the order of Judge Luce that Tobie Le Blanc, a brother of Mrs. Glover, be locked up for alleged contempt of court.

Tobie Le Blanc had been reported to be in California, but Irene and Lillian Le Blanc, sisters of Hattie Le Blanc, the young girl who is now in jail on a charge of having murdered Clarence F. Glover, told of having seen Tobie at the Glover house within a short time of the killing, and the state and city police got on his trail.

Deputy Sheriff Jones of Middlesex county found Tobie in the South End, Boston, and brought him out here as a witness.

The house on Main street which Glover bought some months ago, and in which he and his wife were living at the time of the tragedy, is recorded in Tobie's name.

Higgins wanted to ask him how it happened that he held title to this property, and also as to what truth, if any, there is in rumors which have been going around to the effect that Glover and Tobie had been on bad terms personally, and as to the relations which existed between Glover and his wife, Tobie's sister. Also of interest to the district attorney would have been Tobie's statement as to the reports that he was infatuated with Hattie Le Blanc.

Tobie Le Blanc was called as a witness and it took only a few minutes for the court and the district attorney to realize that they had an unwilling witness to deal with.

Tobie answered the first few questions, as to his name, age and place of residence, but when the district attorney began asking questions tending to reveal the exact conditions of affairs which had existed in the Glover family Tobie refused to answer. He did not plead his constitutional prerogative that to answer the questions would tend to incriminate or degrade him, but merely said: "I won't answer."

Judge Luce spoke to Tobie, kindly at first and then with some sharpness, instructing him that he must answer the questions of the district attorney, unless he claimed to do so would tend to incriminate or degrade him, and that if he did not answer he would be punished for contempt.

Tobie listened to the remarks of the judge with little apparent interest, and when the questions were repeated to him, one after the other, he remained mute.

Finally, when the witness had delayed the progress of the inquest a long time, and he showed no indications of receding from his position, the court ordered Le Blanc committed for contempt.

The name of the person suspected by Seymour Glover as the one who murdered his brother is in the possession of Higgins, having been given to him at a conference in his office when all five brothers of the Waltham laundryman were questioned.

Seymour Glover, who is the only brother of the murdered man to appear as a beneficiary under his will, expressed the belief at that time that some one nearer to Clarence F. Glover than Hattie Le Blanc had fired the shots which caused death, and although he was reluctant to testify at all, he gave the name.

These facts are contained in a statement given out by the five brothers of the murdered Waltham laundryman from the office of their attorney. This statement followed a day of activity on the part of the court and police regarding the case.

Woman Gives Birth to Triplets

Providence, Nov. 29.—Mrs. Harry Richardson, a negress, gave birth to triplets. She has previously given birth to three pairs of twins. The three, two boys and a girl, are perfectly formed, rugged and healthy and weigh about thirty pounds. Both mother and the children are doing well.

Negro Escort Causes Strike

Dawson, Ga., Nov. 29.—Angered at H. C. Gilchrist, superintendent of the Dawson telephone exchange, because he ordered a negro porter to escort one of the young women operators home a few nights ago, the girls have gone on a strike.

SACRED SECRET REVEALED

Dramatic Story With Suicide of Once Prosperous Man as Its Sequel

New Orleans, Nov. 29.—There no longer seems a doubt that Edward W. von Buelow, a cousin of the former chancellor of Germany, has made away with himself. The act, following upon his financial ruin and the breaking up of a happy home he had maintained here for fourteen years, has brought to light a most pathetic and dramatic story.

His fortune was deliberately wrecked, it appears, and his most sacred secret—that his wife was an octoroon—was deliberately revealed to the public by enemies he made in cotton speculation.

More than that, he was arrested under the law prohibiting the marriage of whites with persons having a trace of negro blood. And so, penniless, heart-broken and facing a trial, he vanished and, it is generally believed, killed himself.

Mrs. von Buelow is as light in complexion as most of the south. Her children are flaxen-haired and blue-eyed little German-Americans.

WILL FIGHT DE VOE SUIT

Stay of Proceedings Secured by Attorneys For Frank Gould

New York, Nov. 29.—Frank J. Gould, youngest son of Jay Gould, intends to fight the $200,000 "heart balm" suit brought against him by Bessie De Voe, the stage dancer. This fact is admitted by a close personal friend.

Confirmation of the report that service in the suit was made upon Gould just before his departure for Europe two months ago has been secured.

Miss De Voe, who is at present keeping herself secluded from public notice, has just completed a successful engagement in Boston in "The Three Twins."

It is learned that strenuous efforts were made to press the action to trial in the courts, but that a stay was procured by lawyers for Gould.

EXPLORER COOK HAS DISAPPEARED

His Whereabouts Unknown Even to His Backer

New York, Nov. 29.—Dr. Frederick A. Cook has dropped from public view. Not even John R. Bradley, whose money was behind his polar explorations, knows where he is. Confiding in only one man and perhaps in his wife, the explorer slipped quietly and mysteriously away.

Charles Wake, an insurance man of this city, appears to be the only one who knows Cook's whereabouts, and he is firm in his resolve to keep his lips sealed until Cook himself sees fit to take the the public into his confidence.

In the meantime concern is expressed over Cook's health. Although some of his friends maintain that he has borne up well under the continued strain of lecturing and preparing his data, an intimate associate says that the explorer appeared to be on the verge of a nervous breakdown when he talked with him a few days ago.

HAS $18,000 A YEAR

Burnett Tiffany Declares That It Is Not Enough to Live On

New York, Nov. 29.—Burnett Y. Tiffany, son of the late Charles L. Tiffany, was left the portion of $3000 a year, with a proviso that the executors might add $15,000 to this if the young man's habits improved. When he climbed on the water cart the executors complied with the will and he is receiving $18,000.

But the young man who is harvesting his oat crop—sown wild—avers in a petition to the supreme court, in which he seeks to break the will, that he just can't live on his allowance.

Louis C. and Mrs. Annie T. Mitchell, brother and sister, are contesting the suit.

BARRED FROM HOTEL

Mme. Steinheil's Visit to London Cut Short by Newspaper Men

London, Nov. 29.—Mme. Steinheil, who recently was acquitted in Paris of the charge of murdering her husband, arrived in London Sunday. She traveled under the name of Mme. Dumont.

The woman evaded the crowd of waiting newspaper reporters and proceeded to a hotel. Traced to this place, she declined to see anybody, and the manager of the hotel, upon learning her identity, requested her to leave.

She took a train at Eustis station, it is believed, for Liverpool.

TAFT IS AFTER SUGAR TRUST

Has Decided Opinions as to Where Blame Should Rest

WILL MAKE MEANING PLAIN

Found That Managers of Corporation Own Comparatively Little Stock, It Having Been Unloaded Upon New Englanders, Much of It Being Held by Trustees For Widows and Legatees of Estates—Congress Will Act

Washington, Nov. 29.—There is a kettle heating in the White House for the managers of the sugar trust. Unless something akin to a miracle happens to change President Taft's convictions the men who have been directing the affairs of the American Sugar Refining company will receive an excoriation in his message to congress the like of which no corporation has ever before had.

What Theodore Roosevelt used to say of corporations is confidently expected to sound like an extract from a rhythmical tract when placed beside the personal opinion of William H. Taft as to the acts by which the sugar trust corrupted the employes of the government. He has decided opinions as to where the blame should be laid, and he will make no reservations in his drafting of the English language to make his meaning plain.

Investigation on the part of the government has developed the startling fact that the men who now manage the affairs of the American Sugar Refining company own but a comparatively small percentage of its stocks. Just how this change was brought and when will be an interesting phase of the congressional investigation.

Curiously enough, it appears to be the careful New Englander who has acquired the sugar stock as the men close to the main office of the trust must have unloaded. It developed that 60 percent of the stock is owned in New England, and there has been something of a panic among the representatives and senators from the states of Yankeeland at the prospect of what may follow. Practically one-half of the trust stock, according to the result of the government's investigations, is held by trustees for widows and the legatees of estates.

The president is suspicious of the situation under which it is found that the men in control of the great trust hold so small a percentage of its stock and the distribution of it, which appears to have occurred during a comparatively short time.

Something of the power and vigor of expression which hides behind the president's smile is likely to make itself felt when he says what he has in mind to say of the operations of the officers of the trust.

This determination on the part of the president will operate to the defeat of the campaign of the department of justice to prevent its evidence being opened through an investigation by congress. Unless this argument can be brought to bear upon the president with sufficient force to bottle his wrath, the action of congress in the sugar investigation will come with a rush.

Some of the men in congress who are least in fear of public opinion do not hesitate to admit that they would not dare place themselves in the position of voting against an investigation, even though they doubt its wisdom during the pendency of the trials.

CURTIS IS SWORN IN

Boston Man Is Made Assistant Secretary of the Treasury

Washington, Nov. 29.—James F. Curtis of Boston was sworn in as assistant secretary of the treasury in the office of Secretary MacVeagh. The oath of office was administered by James Fitzpatrick, a notary employed in the department.

There was an informal reception at which Curtis met the various bureau chiefs and heads of divisions of the department. Curtis was congratulated by a number of friends. Former Assistant Secretary Reynolds was not present, being in New York.

JUST IN TIME.

The Squire Wasn't Actually Nigh, but He Was a Little Close.

They were discussing the salient traits of old Squire Gregson's character, the funeral being a thing of the past. "Some way or 'nother, between his goin' an' the buryin', nobody felt free to speak," Abel Nutting had said as an introduction to his remarks. "It seemed more'n likely he'd come to again an' call us to account, same as usual."

"He was free to give to phylanthropy an' the church," said Barton Sedgwick when his turn came, "but in the fam'ly circle I called him kind o' close. I won't go so fur's to say he was actu'lly nigh, but he cert'nly was kind o' close."

"As how?" inquired three voices in unison. They all had plenty of instances of the old squire's "closeness," but it was Barton's privilege to speak first, he being a cousin once removed.

"Well, I was there to a Sunday dinner with him last December," said Barton slowly. "He invited Sally an' me, same as always, once a year.

"Well, Sally had one o' those stuffy colds that make you feel worse'n if you had pneumony, an' she vowed she wouldn't go. She said she couldn't taste anything anyway, an' the mere thoughts o' his cold pork an' boiled potatoes went against her. But she wanted I should go for policy, same as all us relations went, an' I did.

"Well, when I got there an' told squire he said, 'Sally not comin'!' an' clipped it right out into the kitchen, leavin' the doors open all the way.

"'Here,' he said to old Jane Wills, that cooked an' done for him, 'have those potatoes boiled soft yet? That's good. You lift out Mis' Sedgwick's potato, an' it'll be just right to fry for my breakfast tomorrow,' he said, 'for Mis' Sedgwick is kep' at home with a cold. Lift it out careful! That's right!'

"An' when he come back to me he was all creased up with smiles, he was so pleased with himself." — Youth's Companion.

SEEING UNDER WATER.

The Refraction of Light and the Limiting Angle of Vision.

One of the most peculiar things in connection with life under water is what is known as the limiting angle of vision. This applies to fishes, divers, submarine crews and, in fact, any being possessing the power of sight and desiring to look through the water at objects in the air. The effect is not due to a defect in vision, but to the refraction or bending of light, and no telescope or other optical instrument can get around it.

The effect consists of the impossibility of seeing anything on the outside unless the observer directs his line of sight within forty-eight degrees of the vertical. If a forty-nine degree angle or over is taken, the surface, no matter how clear the water is, acts as a perfect mirror and reflects objects at the bottom of the water, thus not allowing anything on the outside to be seen. The consequence of this property is the most startling of all, for everything on the outside can be seen and thus has to be seen in the cone described by the forty-eight degree angle from the eye. This shows all outside objects huddled together and appearing high in air. Thus, if one dives into the middle of a wide river, on looking up the banks will appear close together, but, at a great distance from the observer, high in air.

This angle is called the "critical" angle and of course varies with the two media in contact.

If one desires to make the experiment a square glass box or an aquarium will answer very well. Suspend this from the ceiling or support it on a wall bracket and look under it at an angle. The phenomenon will be observed as indicated. The clearer the water and the stronger the light the more clearly will things appear.—Chicago Record-Herald.

Why He Was a Heathen.

Sir Arthur Fanshaw related an amusing story of a Mohammedan servant who when asked his religion replied:

"Beg pardon, sar, I'm a heathen."

When asked by his master what he meant by a heathen the man answered:

"Beg pardon, sar, a worshiper of stocks and stones."

"Confound it," remarked the master, "I can't keep a man like that in my service."

To which came the immediate rejoinder:

"Beg pardon, sar, in your highness' service no time to worship anything!" —London News.

He Spoke Too Soon.

A well known business man attended his daughter's commencement exercises at an eastern college. He had been greatly pleased with the beauty and dignity of the exercises and was discoursing to his wife upon the refining influences of college life. Suddenly his impressive monologue was cut short. A girl in cap and gown came dashing down the steps of the main hall waving her diploma and shouting, "Educated, by gosh!"—Ladies' Home Journal.

Not Anxious.

"You have quite a number of the poets," said Goodby, who was inspecting Woodby's library. "Ah, there's Browning! Do you understand him?"

"No; I don't," said Woodby.

"Ah," said Goodby, continuing his examination, "have you Praed?"

"Certainly not. What's the use of praying? I ain't anxious to understand him."—Philadelphia Record.

True honor leaves no room for hesitation or doubt.—Plutarch.

Boston is to have a big new department store on Washington street, between Summer and Franklin streets. The location is interesting because it shows that the centre of the shopping district does not yet show a marked tendency to move out toward the Fenway. The South station is nearly in the heart of business notwithstanding the poor street car service accorded it.

Since the addresses of Judge Avery and Mrs. H. J. Gurney it has been suggested that it would be a good thing for the Quincy schools to elect two or three women on the School Committee. In Somerville there are two women who are candidates for the School Board at the coming election. It is too late to nominate women in Quincy this year, but the Daily Ledger would suggest Mrs. H. J. Gurney and Mrs. Wilson Marsh for December 1910.

The movement for uniform motor laws throughout the United States is daily gaining strength through the activities of the various automobile associations in the country. This question will be one of the most important under discussion at the annual meeting of the American Automobile Association to be held at Washington in January. It is not believed that exactly similar laws will be adopted by all of the states but it is hoped that uniformity relative to the examination of drivers, registration and road signs can be obtained. Under present conditions interstate touring is much of a puzzle and in many sections of the country such unreasonable regulations exist that the unwary tourist wishes he were crossing from one European country to another.

Those who can never see anything good in their own city are referred to the recent report of the Massachusetts Bureau of Statistics which shows that only one city of the State had a smaller percentage of idleness than Quincy. The report shows that the percentage of idleness among the trade organizations of the State reporting at the close of the year covered by the record, is 4.80, as against 10.62 per cent, at the end of the previous year. The statistics by six months periods, show that this improvement in the State has been steady and consistent, at least among organized trades, which are all that the bureau seeks to keep records of. Thus, on Sept. 30, 1908, there were 8918 idle, which is 10.62 per cent., while on June 30, 1909, there were 6736, or 6.36 per cent. On September 30 of the present year there were 5451 idle among the unions reporting, or 4.80 per cent.

A question in which many Quincy people are interested was heard before the Railroad Commissioners last week. It was a complaint against the Boston & Worcester street railway for transporting drunkards on its cars. The petition opens up a broad question, and the commission is trying to solve the situation. It was conceded at the hearing that persons who are drunk on the cars constitute a nuisance.

What to do with them is a problem. To keep them off the cars, it was argued, would be a discrimination. A case was cited when a conductor put off a man who was supposed to be drunk but the jury awarded the supposed drunkard $100 for false arrest and assault on his character.

Besides the danger of putting a drunk off the cars there is still graver danger, to which the man is exposed after being put off. On a dark night if such a person is left by the roadside he becomes helpless and may even stumble across the track and be killed by the next car that comes along.

Right here in Quincy, the trouble with this class of passengers is on the Quincy Point line, especially on Saturday nights. Several cars are needed to transport passengers from the late trains that night and there are always more or less drunks. Not only do they make it a nuisance for other passengers, but their foul talk is very annoying, especially if there are women aboard as frequently happens.

The street car conductors are practically powerless to deal with the class of people and if the Railroad Commissioners can solve the problem it will be gladly welcomed in Quincy by the street railway company as well as the public.

If the Supreme Court sustains the decision of the Circuit Court that the Standard Oil Company is a combination in restraint of trade and must be dissolved, the effect will be tremendous on the operating methods of other great commercial and industrial combinations. When Attorney General Wickersham was informed of the decision he expressed great gratification and immediately announced that it was "one of the most important ever rendered in this country." It seems quite apparent that if a number of corporations all responsive to one authority yet each by virture of its nominal individuality relieving that authority from responsiblity, are to be deemed combinations in restraint of trade, the methods of many of the largest combinations in the country must be considerably altered in order to be legal. The Standard Oil Company has justly been considered the pioneer in the construction of legal devices to control trade without being open to serious attack in the courts under the monopoly provisions of the Sherman act. If the constructors of the Standard Oil Company, with their efficiency born of long practice, have been unable to make that corporation immune from technical violations of the law, it is not thought likely that their imitators have been more successful in hedging themselves about with legal defenses. It is expected that on the appeal of this case the Supreme Court will lay down a clear and definite rule of law which, without hampering or impeding commerce, will define specifically the bounds within which the so-called trusts must operate if they are to do business in the United States. President Taft's Attorney General is not hunting trusts with a brass band but he is showing a quiet determination to enforce the law, without regard to power or station.

A Bad Man.

Herman Whitaker wrote a story of the Tehuantepec rubber plantation. Guadaloupe, the mandador on one plantation at which Mr. Whitaker stayed, was informed that he was to be one of the characters in his story. "He never failed to question me each day as to the things I had made him do—in the story," said Mr. Whitaker. "When one morning I informed him that I had killed him off, he expressed great surprise.

"'Porque, senor, porque?'

"'Because you are a bad man, Guadaloupe.' Which was perfectly true.

"'I, senor?' he questioned, greatly surprised.

"'Si, Guadeloupe, you are bad. Think of how many men you have killed, according to your own count.'

"He thought for awhile, then looked up with a humorous smile. 'Oh, well! Did I put up a good fight?'

"'You bet you did, Guadaloupe.'

"Whereupon eyebrows and shoulders went up in a shrug. 'Bueno! Bueno! Then it ees all right.'"—St. Louis Post-Dispatch.

The Colleges of Oxford.

Each college is built round a quadrangle with a large entrance gateway which often rises into a quasi tower. The rooms immediately over the gateway are invariably designed for the residence of the warden, provost or principal of the college, so that the eye of the master may be over all who enter or leave the place. This mode of building still exists in India, having been introduced into Europe by the Moors when they conquered Spain, where we find that the compound, or quad, is still used for the tethering of all kinds of animals. Around the quad are arranged the chapel, library, hall or refectory, president's lodgings, buttery and kitchen. The students' rooms generally occupy the upper floors. William of Wickham, the celebrated architect, wisely placed his taller buildings—the chapel and hall—on the north side to keep off the cold winds, the lower buildings on the south more freely admitting sunshine.

Rainbow Upside Down.

Not very many persons have ever seen an inverted rainbow, although the phenomenon sometimes appears. At the Italian geodynamic observatory of Rocca de Papa not long ago the director and a party of visitors were fortunate enough to see one. The morning was showery, and as the party looked down from an elevation of 2,300 feet they saw in the Campagna a perfect rainbow with its concave side up, the middle point bearing to the northeast. From the Eiffel tower in Paris one has also been seen, in this case the rainbow being double and extending above and below the horizon to form two concentric circles nearly complete. Generally the inverted rainbow is to be seen only in the mountains and then very rarely. The phenomenon, of course, is due merely to the position of the observer, which must be above the refracting agent instead of below.—Pathfinder.

MIMIC WAR ECHOES.

Dubbley was in the militia, and at the operations against Boston, he with his regiment to take part in first, when he was ordered out thought the game was good fun, but after three days of cold coffee, and guard mount, and forced marches of fifteen or twenty miles, he began to think of home and mother. Soldiering was all very fine, but after all three solid meals a day and a taxicab to cover distances were finer, and he began to cast about for ways to get out of the ranks.

The first scheme he tried was a threatened attack of appendicitis, but the regiment. Surgeon was pretty well acquainted with Dubbley and a few stiff doses of castor oil and other equally tasty-remedies soon convinced the warrior that there were worse things in the world than war, no matter what Gen. Sherman had said of the latter. Then he tried to sprain his ankle, but still the Surgeon had his X-ray eye fixed upon the real truth, and nothing came of it, and Dubbley spent a weary night as a picket in the rain, the only thing to keep him warm being the thought of a certain fair Amelia who would give him a hearty welcome on his return to town. Two days later a canny scheme suggested itself to him, which took shape in a telegraphic dispatch received from the office of Dubbley, Peters & Co., brokers of New York. This read: "Come home at once or you'll lose your job."

Dubbley took this to his commanding officer and asked to be relieved, but that gentleman, who had carried a large number of stocks with Dubbley, Peters & Co., on margin, knew quite as well as Dubbley did that the valiant soldier was head of the firm and that if he really did lose his job he could speedily find another for himself in the same office.

"What you need, Dubbley," said the Colonel, smiling pleasantly at the high-private, "is some strenuous kind of occupation that will keep your mind off your troubles. It's my place to see that you get it. We aim to please in this regiment. Wherefore you may report for scout duty tonight at midnight. You will start alone from your tent at that hour and make your way as silently and as quickly as possible up the Dedham road, reconnoitre the enemy's position, and report to me at headquarters at 9 o'clock tomorrow morning the results of your investigations. I want you to find out what the enemy's force is, how many trombones they have in the band and along what roads they are expecting their commissariat."

"All right, Colonel," said Dubbley, ruefully. "But I tell you right now that when I joined the Blankth Regiment if I'd had any idea it was going to be any hired man's job like this I'd have—"

"That'll do, Dubbley," retorted the Colonel, sharply.

At midnight the rain coming down not in torrents, but in hogsheads, the unfortunate warrior started forth on his work, and to execute his Colonel's orders.

"What blanked nonsense it all is anyhow!" he muttered, as he trudged along the muddy road. "Bridges blown up by imaginary bombs. Ships sunk with imaginary torpedoes. Newspapers filled with imaginary losses, 200 imaginary men killed in a game of tag!"

His face suddenly wreathed into a broad smile, for as he dwelt upon these absurdities of the game of war, a great emancipating idea broke in upon his brain.

"By jove," he cried. "I see the way out—I'll do it, and it'll be little Old New York for mine on the first train out of Boston tomorrow."

He plunged on through the dark, and about 5 o'clock in the morning he entered Boston, went to a fashionable hotel, after getting a turkish bath, ate a good breakfast and bought a ticket on the 10 o'clock limited. A deserter? Not Dubbley. A hero he, though like most heroes he may yet have to stand court-martial for serving his country. What he did was this. Just before boarding his train he went to the telegraph office and sent the following dispatch to his commanding officer:

"I have the honor to report that while passing through an imaginary wood on an imaginary trail to Dedham, I was seized by an imaginary detachment of the enemy's forces, given an imaginary trial, found guilty in an imaginary verdict ,and was hanged with an imaginary rope to the imaginary limb of an imaginary tree as an imaginary spy. Please acquaint the Captain of Company I with my decease."

There are those who say that Dubbley's real troubles are yet to come, the Adjutant General's office being entirely void of a sense of humor.—New York Times.

LAFFAN THE PUBLISHER.

How Noted Art Critic and Journalist Helped a Green Reporter.

William M. Laffan, publisher and principal owner of the New York Sun, who recently died of appendicitis at his country home in Lawrence, N. Y., was well known as a man of letters and an art connoisseur of note.

As a newspaper man Mr. Laffan's influence was farreaching. As an art critic and as an aid to J. Pierpont Morgan he did a work that placed him high in the ranks of the men who have helped in the art education of the United States. It was to art that he devoted his time when he could escape from the exacting business of attending to many details connected with the management of his newspaper.

Apropos of Mr. Laffan's interest in art a story is told of his kindness to a green reporter who in 1892 went to the American Art galleries, in New York, when Sutton and Kirby were a craze among the elite to write something about an important sale of art objects. Pretty soon he was in a daze. He had served an apprenticeship at fires, murders, funerals, police courts, ship news, obituaries, etc., but did not know the real meaning of jades, celadon, Flambe and Souffle, eggshell, lacquers, Diamio, Netsukes, coupes, Tisha-Ire, faience, Satsuma, Cinnabar, inros, kinkara, in-deu and a hundred and one things with which the catalogue was packed. He was in a dense sweat of ignorance when a big man sat down beside him and asked if he could be of assistance. "If you understand anything about this sort of rubbish, yes. I don't know what is worthless and what is not."

For more than an hour after the sale ended this man sat there, patiently leading the reporter up to an appreciation of the fictile arts and suggesting a list of objects worth mentioning in a description of the sale. The reporter thanked his good Samaritan without asking his name and hurried to his office.

The newspaper account of the sale attracted more attention in the office than anything in that line that had occurred there for many years, and the green reporter's stock jumped away above par. No one of the subeditors dreamed that he possessed so intimate a knowledge of ceramics as the article indicated, while the city editor made grumptious inquiries concerning the whyness and whereforeness of the youth, who hitherto had scarcely been noticed among the staff. It was fortunate for the reporter that the sale had ended, as that fact alone enabled him to rest on his laurels. But he became curious at last to know who had helped him write so brilliant an article and dropped into the art galleries to inquire. Mr. Kirby listened to his description of the man and guessed he did not know him. There was no one connected with the association that answered it. "Why, there's my man now, over there looking at that picture," said the reporter, having discovered his friend, who, of course, had a way of haunting art galleries. "Oh," said Kirby, "that's Mr. Laffan of the Sun. Yes, he has a way of helping people. Finest judge of art in America."

HAIR RAISING CONTEST.

G. A. R. Members In Germantown, Pa., Growing Whiskers For a Sword.

Barbers in Germantown, Pa., are melancholy, while dealers in a hair restorer are jubilant over a whisker growing contest which has started among the members of Ellis post, No. 6, G. A. R. The veteran having the longest whiskers on Jan. 1 next will be given a sword by N. K. Floyd.

Thirteen soldiers have entered the contest, and, as they have been in battles which have been won by a hair's breadth, they are not averse to a whisker growing race which may not be won by a close shave.

The contest, it appears, grew out of remarks made at a meeting of the post. One veteran who had hair on his head and none on his face called another who had hair on his face and none on his head baldheaded. The veteran with the hair on his face contended that his whiskers contained more hair than the other veteran had on his head. Then all the veterans who were either baldheaded or "baldfaced," as it were, took sides in an argument on whiskers. It was then that Comrade Floyd, to stir the ambitions of the beardless ones, came out with his proposition.

Melville H. Freass, who up to a short time ago had the longest whiskers, is picked as the winner.

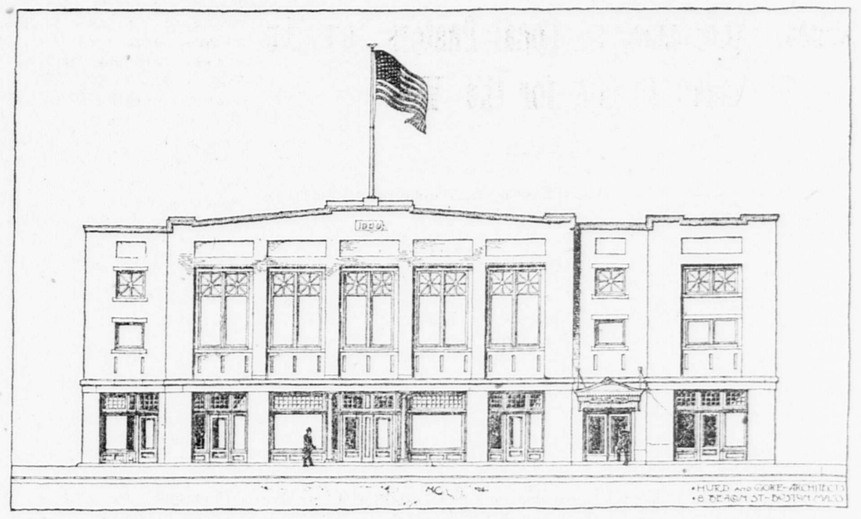

Corridor of Nations For Big Hotel.

There shortly will be a "corridor of nations" on the steam heated roof of the Hotel Astor, in New York, leading to the belvedere, where tropical plants have been massed in profusion. The corridor of nations is named because of the ivory tinted cabinets lining either side of it that will contain flags of different nations. The glass door of each is to have a small flag in view indicating the large flag folded within. When a well known foreigner stops at the hotel it will be easy to select the flag of his country and let it float from the flagpole.

Total Eclipse of the Moon.

There will be a total eclipse of the moon, visible generally throughout the United States, on the morning of Nov. 27. The moon will enter the earth's shadow from the southwest at 2:11 a. m., and totality will begin at 3:14. The total eclipse will last till 4:36, with the middle of the eclipse at 3:55. The moon leaves the shadow at 5:38, and the eclipse is over. The above times are for localities which keep eastern standard time. For central time set back one hour from above.

SUNDAY IN THE QUINCY CHURCHES

Earnest Addresses of Local Pastors and Announcements for the Week

It is impossible today to give as much space as intended to the church services of Sunday because the Ledger composing room has been taxed to its utmost. Some weeks we will be able to use longer reports than others, but contributors to this department are requested to be brief, that all churches may be represented. News from the churches is desired in preference to sermons. Pastors and superintendents are invited to coöperate with the Daily Ledger.

CALVARY BAPTIST.

The pastor spoke to a good size congregation Sunday morning on "The Unity of Believers." The Sunday school was well attended. At the young people's meeting Mrs. W. L. Jones gave a talk on "Giving."

At the evening service, an extra large number was present. The pastor preached on "The serious mistake of two young men." This serious mistake was intemperance and the pastor showed how intemperance ultimately closed the door to opportunities in every walk in life. That it destroyed the mental, moral and spiritual faculties. That it injured many innocent ones. That it was under God's ban of displeasure as a curse. He then made a plea for each one present to not only utterly let it alone, but use every influence to put an end to anything that would tempt young men of Quincy to become intemperate.

AT ST. MARY'S.

Morning services at the St. Mary's church in West Quincy were at 6.45, 8, 9.15 and 10.30 o'clock. Masses were said by Rev. Fr. H. T. Grady and Rev. Fr. W. Duffy, who gave short instructions to those present. In the afternoon at 3.45 o'clock there was a meeting of the Sacred Heart League which was addressed by Fr. Grady. At 4.30 P. M. benediction of the most holy sacrament followed by a meeting of the Holy Name Society.

Tuesday night there will be a meeting of the Ladies' Sodality and will be the first night of the Navena of the Immaculate Conception which will close Dec. 9, after a nine day prayer.

MEMORIAL CHURCH.

The regular Sunday services were held at the Memorial Congregational church, Rev. Mr. Davison preaching his usual strong sermon upon the subject "The Vision of Hope." Musical selections were artistically rendered by the quartet composed of Miss Annie Harding soprano, Miss Maud Read contralto ,Mr. Deans, tenor; Mr. William Harding, bass.

Special mention was made of the boys club which is a junior branch of the Y. M. C. A. The first half hour of their meeting to be devoted to a religious study the remainder of the evening to a good time.

FIRST CHURCH.

A delegation of about eighteen from the Young People's Religious Union of First church attended the Federation meeting at Dorchester, Sunday evening.

BETHANY CHURCH.

Rev. George L. Cady, D.D., of the Pilgrim church, Dorchester, preached Sunday morning in exchange with Rev. Dr. Hardy, and delighted a large congregation. His theme was "Doubt."

An important meeting of the Church committee will be held tomorrow evening.

The Mothers' Association will hold its December meeting on Wednesday. Mrs. A. G. Coffin will lead the devotional service, and Mrs. Henry W. Tirrell will be the soloist. The paper will be by Miss Edith Randall. There will be a cake and candy sale.

Wednesday evening Miss Lucia Witherby will speak at the Young Woman's Missionary Society.

WILLING AND OBEDIENT.

At St. Chrysostom's church Sunday morning Rev. A. Edwin Clattenburg took for his text Isiah 1, 19: "If ye be willing and obedient, ye shall eat the good of the land." He said in part: Old testament prophecy held a good deal of truth that retains its Vigor today. No one should be content in the church of God unless the assurance was present every minute that the truth about God and His Kingdom were believed in, and taught in that church. Men talk about new truths. "I am the truth, the light and the way" said He. Those not content to accept him as the personification of all truth cast aside the truth of the Lord Jesus Christ. When we surrender our whole self to God we will be putting in His service a willing and an obedient soul. It may be a willing or obedient service but it cannot be both until we are wholly and completely God's. Not until we render both will we be getting the good of the land. The real Good, that which our souls need in this life the highest pleasures of a soul fully in touch with God and man.

WOLLASTON CONGREGATIONAL.

A large number attended, the monthly vesper service at the Wollaston Congregational church on Sunday afternoon. Vocal solos were enjoyed besides the fine singing of the choir and young ladies chorus.

At 6.30 the missionary meeting of the Christian Endeavor was held, a collection being taken for the benefit of Mrs. La Cour's school in the south.

This evening the Endeavorers will gather in the vestry to pack a Christmas box of clothes, books and toys for the school.

On Saturday evening the mission study club will meet in the parsonage at 7.45.

WOLLASTON BAPTIST.

The services of Sunday were very interesting and well attended. The pastor preached two able sermons. Morning text was taken from Mark 14: 71—Peter's fall or denial, setting forth the fact that though a man fall he may rise again. The evening text was taken from Math. 24: 13-14. The series on the "Buts" of Scripture is very interesting and helpful. The pastor, Rev. Joseph Walther is a very forceful speaker and yet with great tenderness, presents the plain gospel of Christ.

The Sunday school and Walther Bible class for men are in a good healthy condition.

At the Christian Endeavor service John Charles of Quincy gave a very interesting report on the C. E. conference at Sagamore . Special singing from the Alexander Hymnals. A duett was well rendered by two of the young ladies from the society.

HOUSEHOLD OF FAITH.

At the Atlantic Methodist church the pastor Rev. W. J. Heath preached on "The Household of Faith." Text Galatians 1:10. The apostle follows closely in the steps of the master when he uses the family relation as a type of the christian church. The speaker considered the extent of its boundaries, the loftiness of their origin, the continuity of its existence and the security of their patrimony. Stocks depreciate, banks fail, fire and earthquake swallow up the real estate. The millionaire of today is the pauper tomorrow. But the patrimony of this household is secure. They have an inalienable right to all that divine grace is accomplishing in them, as well as an undivided right to that "Inheritance that fadeth not away." This involves the transcendant excellence of their future.

AGAINST LICENSE.

"Some say we should regulate the liquor tariff, but why regulate or limit a thing that is morally wrong in itself and brings so many to a premature death. The only thing that can be done is to pluck it up root and branch. Some say that no man or state or nation has a right to trample upon man's individual liberty. We admit that every man has the right to exercise his individual liberty, intellectually, morally, socially and politically, so far as it does not infringe the rights of others. But I submit the proposition that no man has any moral right to engage in a business that seeks the patronage of his fellowman who has taken unto himself a companion for life and has given unto him children to care for, to train and educate for usefulness in the world, to create in him an appetite which makes him less of a man and robs the wife and the children of the comforts and necessaries of life, for he who engages in the liquor traffic or indulges in the drink habit wrongs the wife and children of the home."

The above quotation is from the Sunday evening address of Rev. Wesley Wiggin of the Wollaston M. E. church, who spoke in favor of No-License.

TO DORCHESTER PASTORATE.

Rev. Francis A. Cunningham, who was a very popular curate at St. John's church in this city from 1892 to 1904, has been transferred from Georgetown to the vacancy at St. Leo's, Dorchester, made by the recent appointment of the Rev. Francis J. Butler to St. Anne's parish in Somerville.

Fr. Cunningham is prominent in literary work, publishing several volumes of verse and contributing to magazines and periodicals. He is now the editorial writer for the Pilot.

While at Georgetown, where he has been for two years, Fr. Cunningham had two churches under his charge, St. Mary's his home parish and St. Patrick's at South Groveland.

Fr. Cunningham was ordained in June, 1889 by Cardinal Paracchi in the Church of St. John Lateran. Returning to Boston, he was appointed curate to St. Mary's Church, Malden. A year later he was transferred to Lowell, later to East Boston, and in January, 1892, to St. John's Church, Quincy.

In 1904 he was appointed assistant pastor at St. Joseph's Church, eElmont, and two years ago was raised to the position of pastor at St. Mary's Church, Georgetown.

OTHER CHURCHES TOMORROW.

The Church department will be continued in the Daily Ledger tomorrow.

An Old Ash Wednesday Custom.

At one time it was on Ash Wednesday the custom to appoint an official of the English palaces to crow the hours of the day, like a cock, as a reminder of the denial of St. Peter. This practice excited the furious indignation of George II. His ignorance of English made it very difficult for the courtiers to explain that the royal cock crower was not making fun of him. The cock crower was a salaried officer at the English court as late as 1823.

A Boy's Idea of Parsons.

Not long ago a class of boys in an elementary school had an essay set, the subject being "Clergymen."

This is what one youngster wrote:

"There are 3 kinds of clergymen, Bishups, recters and curats. the bishups tells the recters to work, and the curats have to do it. A curat is a thin married man, but when he is a recter he gets fuller and can preach longer sermons and becums a good man."—London Scraps.

A Dreadful Analogy.

The hypothetical question had just been asked, and the prisoner fell forward in a faint. All was confusion in the courtroom.

"What is the matter with the prisoner?" demanded the judge, hammering his desk madly.

"Nothing, your honor," groaned the unhappy man as he came to. "I was only thinking how long I should have to serve if my sentence was as long as that."—Harper's Weekly.

Very Gently.

"How do you tell bad eggs?" queried the young housewife.

"I never told any," replied the fresh grocery clerk, "but if I had anything to tell a bad egg I'd break it gently."—Christian Guardian.

PUBLIC OPINION

The Mightiest Force in Municipal Life.

Speaking on "The Mightiest force in Municipal life" on Sunday evening, at Bethany church, Rev. Dr. Hardy said in part:

Civic values can be estimated only in the terms of human life. Civic problems in the last analysis are always personal problems, for the elimination of the person affected is the dissolution of the problem. Civic problems are problems of citizenship, and that touches everything which has to do with human life. There are no civic values where there is no citizenship. Open cesspools, surface sewage, the gilded saloon, poor sidewalks, inadequate police protection, railroad transportation, schools, churches and a thousand other things are meaningless unless some person is directly or indirectly effected. The civic problem is a personal problem in which the issue at stake is the securing of the highest possible welfare of the individual consistent with the welfare of the whole social organism. Civic problems deal with that which effects the human life, and which at the same time may be changed by human power.

Quoting from the recent address of Judge Avery that "public conscience is fast asleep on the threshold of the temple of civic righteousness," Dr. Hardy said it powerfully demonstrated that public opinion is the mightiest force in municipal life. He also quoted from the greatest statesman who testified to the potency of public opinion. If there were time it might be easily shown that nearly everyone of our cherished social, political and religious liberties has been secured by an intelligent and insistent public opinion. There never was a time when public opinion was more potent than today.

Now here in Quincy we are just awakening to civic consciousness. Heretofore public opinion has hampered by lack of municipal unity. Individuals and separate organizations have done a great amount of good, but might have been far more effective through co-operation. One church may make a protest or an appeal and a definite result may be expected commensurate with its influence. But let all the churches unite in a vigorous protest or a mighty appeal and the city will be moved to its depths. One organization may do much to alleviate suffering and want, but there is needed an organization. The United Charities of Quincy which combining all would eliminate fraudulent cases, would prevent the pauperizing of the recipient of charity, and make impossible the undetected need. One person or organization may propose the remedy for existing municipal evils or plan for the increase of municipal happiness and prosperity and little to be accomplished, while united action might reform the evil and make possible the increase of our welfare. One political party may contend for certain civic improvements and little be accomplished, let the best men of all parties insist on the betterment of municipal conditions and at once something would be done.

In respect to civic conscience and public opinion I wish to lay down five axiomatic propositions.

(1) That no principle is ever settled till it is settled right. Make shifts and compromises may satisfy for a season, but the right principle is like Banquo's ghost it will not down till justice be done. The history of our civic and religious liberties afford a striking illustration of the proposition. Right principles are irrepressible and fly no flag of truce till they are victorious.

(2) The right principle discovered and adhered to will he eventually settled in the right way. Though procrastinating, objecting, retreating, now holding their own, now partially defeated, discouraged, now obedient to the forward march, eventually the ranks shall advance to the colors.

(3) No real ethical progress is made till public opinion is created. The enforcement of law waits on the dictates of public opinion. The strength of the law is the moral conviction of the governed.

(4) There is an innate rectitude of the human life and an intelligent receptivity of the mind which in the end makes every intelligent appeal effective.

(5) There is a real aristocracy in America. It is the aristocracy of the best people. They hold the sceptre of power and as soon as they will wield the sovereign power.

Public opinion is the mightiest force in municipal life.

THE NEW JUDGE

Govenor Draper has appointed ex-Senator Charles F. Jenney of Hyde Park to the vacancy on the Superior Court bench caused by the death recently of Judge Robert R. Bishop of Newton. Mr. Jenney is a lawyer by profession and is 49 years of age. He was graduated from Boston University Law school in 1883 at the head of his class, having been admitted to the bar in 1882. He has been a lecturer on Massachusetts Practice since 1885 in the Law school. Has been in active general practice since 1883, chiefly on the civil side of the court. He was in the House of Representatives 1886, and in the Senate in 1907 and 1908; was chairman of the Committee on Liquor Laws, Constitutional Amendments and Judiciary. He has been town solicitor of Hyde Park for the last eight years and counsel for Norfolk County and several towns. He is a Republican in politics.

FUNERALS OF SISTERS.

The funeral of Miss Helen V. Josselyn was held Sunday afternoon at 1 o'clock from her home on Standish avenue. The Rev. Carl G. Horst conducted the services which included two favorite poems of Miss Josselyn. The beautiful flowers which covered the top and sides of the casket were silent token of the esteem in which the one who had passed beyond was held by all who knew her. The body was taken to Forest Hills for cremation.

The funeral of Mrs. Amelia W. Hall was held Sunday afternoon at 2 o'clock from the home of her son Roderick D. Hall, Davis street. The Rev. Carl G. Horst of the Unitarian society officiated. Many beautiful floral tributes covered the casket silent tokens of love and esteem. The body was taken to Forest Hills for cremation.

OVERCOME WITH JOY.

Early Sunday morning Officer Murray was called to Houghs Neck to take charge of a young man who gave his name as Robert Ayres of 71 Cass street, Roxbury. The fellow was found walking in the mud on the beach, waving his hands in a signaling manner and writing M. V. M. on the flats.

He claimed to belong to the signal corps and said that he was signalling to the warships in the harbor the presence of the enemy at Houghs Neck. He was taken to the police station and later in the day his relatives came and took him home.

It was learned that the young man had recently received a legacy of $10,000 and that he was so overjoyed that he was temporarily unbalanced.

The coming marriage of Miss Lucy Morrissett of Crescent street and James Raftus of South Boston will be solemnized in St. Mary's church Jan. 26, 1910, at 9 o'clock A. M.

Much to the regret of neighbors and friends, Marie the little girl who has made her home with Mr. and Mrs. T. J. O'Connell of Summer street was taken away from them Saturday, back to the Boston home.

John Reddington of Crescent street who was recently injured on McDonald's grocery team, is now able to be about with the aid of crutches. Geo. McKenna, who was also injured, is around and well.

Patrick Caven formerly of Grove street left Sunday to join his mates of the Battleship New York and was given a hearty farewell by the members of the Bryant A. C. of which he is a member. Throughout the evening songs were sung.

William Sleep of Henry street who is connected with the custom house, is being complimented upon his success as a detective for on several occasions he has discovered people in the act of smuggling goods into the Boston port.

Commissioner Bainbridge is to commence work this week making some necessary repairs to the Quincy Point bridge. These repairs will only be of a temporary nature, for next year a considerable sum will be necessary to put the bridge in thorough repair.

Cards received from Clayton R. Marstin who is at Triplet farms, Florida, with his wife announce that he is thoroughly enjoying himself. He is due in Braintree this week and will hold a reception at his father's house on Washington street on Friday, December 3.

Mayor Shea has been in communication with the officials of the City of Boston relative to hurrying along the repairs to the Neponset bridge. It is hoped that the draw may be repaired so that the street cars may use it before severe winter weather sets in.

TODAY'S COURT.

John Abearn was fined $5 and $10 on two complaints for drunkenness at Quincy.

Thomas Foley was fined $10 for drunkenness at Quincy.

John Kelley and Thomas Aever were arraigned for drunkenness at Milton. Cases continued until Dec. 20.

Chester C. Rumrill was fined $10 for violation of the automobile law at Milton.

—Work is being pushed on the Cape Cod Canal. A big granite breakwater is being constructed in Cape Cod Bay to protect the end of the canal and furnish anchorage for shipping. At the other end, in Buzzard's Bay, work is also proceeding at a fair rate.

FADS FOR THE FAIR

Fine Yarns of Artistic Shades For Knitted and Crocheted Objects. Golf Vests For Motorists as Christmas Gifts.

THE vogue for knitted and crocheted objects is steadily increasing. It has taken the place to a large extent of embroidery in the way of fancy work. The objection to wool work was the limited amount of objects that could be made, the clumsiness of the patterns and lack of originality in the designs, but now all that is changed. The number of pretty articles which may be made from wool is almost unlimited. The yarns are finer and of more artistic shades. In fact, everything about wool work has improved wonderfully.

Can anything be smarter, for instance, than the new style sweater here pictured, which is in reality less a sweater than a tailor made little jacket, accentuating every good point in the wearer's figure?

Some of these knitted jackets are made full length, with a belted effect at the back and large pearl buttons. They are usually made in white or pearl gray, although I have seen stunning specimens made of the new buff shade.

For small children there are little sailor reefers knitted of navy blue wool, with the edges of collars and revers piped with red and white and a red and white emblem on the arm. There are also very pretty bathing suits made of white wool edged with red or navy blue bands. Norfolk jackets of heavy gray wool are smart when trimmed with pearl buttons and worn with a white leather belt. There are also skating suits for children made all in one piece, with the leggings of heavy white wool and with the pointed tasseled cap to match.

For women skaters and automobilists there are close fitted hoods of white revel that cling to the head and button under the chin with a single large button.

Even the homely afghan has changed, and now comes in a five paneled design wonderfully shaded and scalloped. Some of the newer knitted afghans also have a flowered design at fixed intervals.

The knitted shawls are lovely. They come in circular effects, edged with fringe. Some have deep points, and others have openwork bands for trimming to head the fringe.

A particularly effective design is a circular shawl done in a striped effect and having a delicate shell edge resembling lace.

Among the small things that are easy to make and effective for Christmas presents may be counted fancy golf vests for both men and women (these have a dotted or pin spotted effect) and sleeveless jackets to be worn under tailor made coats for warmth. The last are made in slipper stitch, using two contrasting colors. Perhaps the greatest novelty of all is a dog sweater done in checkerboard stitch and having a scalloped edge and a high storm collar. Every smart dog will want one of these for cold weather.

HELEN MASON.

Honor For a Missouri Woman.

Missouri has the honor of having placed the first portrait of a distinguished woman on the walls of Continental hall, the new building erected by the National Society of Daughters of the American Revolution in Washington. The portrait is of Mrs. Alice Brevard Ewing-Walker, wife of John R. Walker of Kansas City and a former vice president general of the D. A. R. Mrs. Walker is descended from General William Lee Davidson of North Carolina, to whose memory the nation is now erecting a monument on the Revolutionary battlefield in Guilford, N. C. The portrait is by a Missouri artist.

MISS TEN-YEAR-OLD.

Smart One Piece Frocks In Every Girl's Wardrobe.

In the young girl's wardrobe this season the one piece frock carries all before it, although Miss Ten-year-old may tease mother to let her wear "a blouse and skirt like Dorothy's," the said Dorothy being in high school or college. But the wise parent harkens to the voice of wisdom and ends the discussion by promising her small daughter the longed for costume when she's "a little older" and cheerfully goes on making the one piece frock for the pretty little rebel. If she's a mother that likes to get all the winter sewing over in the fall she will not stop making one piece frocks until the number spells four. With such a goodly array of dresses and a generous supply of guimpes to wear with them the little girl will be kept fresh and neat looking during the school terms. A stylish frock that might serve as a model for one or more of the dresses is in moyen age style. It is developed in striped serge, with mixed colorings, giving a general effect of dark sea green. There are pipings and slight touches of green satin introduced, but otherwise the frock is dependent upon line and the attractive material now employed for smartness. Tucked lawn is used for the guimpe, but if a "best" gown is being made tucked net and lace could be substituted for the more practical muslin guimpe.

IN NAVY BLUE SERGE.

Peter Thompson suits, which most girls loathe, but are beloved alike by boarding school mistresses and mothers, are again displayed. This year they have been vastly improved with yoke skirts and, as usual, are made of navy blue serge. And, apropos of our old friend, a chic little costume for a girl of six or eight is pictured of navy blue serge. The collar at the neck is very new and pretty—crochet lace over an undercollar of pale yellow silk, edged with a kilted ruffle.

GOOD THINGS TO EAT.

A college girl claims to have invented limeade made with lime drops. She uses the juice of oranges and employs lime drops for sweetening. She is particular about where she procures the lime drops, as the real fruit ones are necessary.

Delicious looking as well as tasty sandwiches have an outside coating on the top slice of minced watercress rubbed to a cream with butter. Any filling may be used, but shredded lettuce with mayonnaise is excellent. Cut the shreds of lettuce short so that they may be eaten without awkwardness.

A sparkling fruit punch calls for a grated pineapple, a cupful of freshly made tea and three cupfuls of water boiled to the thread stage with two pounds of sugar. When the mixture is cold, add the juice of five lemons and six oranges, two cupfuls of grape juice and a cupful of maraschino cherries. At the last add six quarts of water and ice. Just before serving turn in a bottle of mineral water. A few sprigs of mint may be dropped in if they are liked.

For Italian spaghetti break it in pieces a couple of inches long and boil in salted water until it is tender. Meanwhile make a sauce of two rounding tablespoonfuls of butter, a cupful of broken cheese, half a cupful of milk and salt and paprika to season. When the cheese is nearly melted and the sauce smooth remove from the fire and stir in the yolks of three eggs beaten with half a cupful of milk. Turn the sauce with the spaghetti into a buttered dish and bake until brown on the top. The oven should be hot.

A woman who never learned the fine art of breaking an egg so that the white will go into the bowl and the yolk will remain in the shell uses a funnel, and the white goes its way and leaves the yolk unbroken. But if she would strike the side of the egg on the edge of the bowl quickly, break it apart and turn both shells upward the white would run out without trouble and the yolk remain. It is worth a housekeeper's while to learn to do this so that she does not even touch her fingers to the inside of the egg. It is one of the early lessons taught in cooking schools.

MABEL'S BUDGET.

Optimistic Outlook Which Belief In Luck Charms Brings.

ON GETTING ACQUAINTED.

How a Small Girl Cut the Social Gordian Knot—A Library of Magazines and Newspaper Clippings—A Valuable Possession In the Household.

Dear Elsa—Yesterday I was almost run down by an automobile while picking up a horseshoe for luck. When I told Dick in the evening about my very narrow escape the unfeeling creature calmly went on reading his paper, only stopping long enough to mutter that in future it would be much more sensible to look out for motorcars instead of horseshoes. "But just think," I sweetly rejoined, "what curiosities horseshoes are going to be pretty soon when we depend upon automobiles and aeroplanes for getting about in! Indeed," I pathetically added, "in a few years Mr. Morgan or some multimillionaire may be offering me ducats enough for the horseshoe that almost cost me my life to make us comfortable in our old age." Yes, dear, this is Dick's reply exactly: "Oh, I say, cut it out and let a fellow read his paper in peace, won't you?" So much for masculine sympathy. But we know that in women at least superstition, which has been called "the poetry of life," dies hard. And in my case it is not anything like dead yet, for the breaking of a mirror still forecasts to my fearful soul seven years of hard luck, while the spilling of salt fills my timid mind with forebodings of coming disaster, and, as for a picture falling or the awfulness of walking under a ladder, it's too serious a subject to speak of flippantly.

All ignorant fancies, you say. Possibly. But, whatever may be said against it, there is in superstition something spiritual, something removed from the hard matter of factness of everyday life that fascinates while it awes. And, as for lucky charms, I would just as soon think of starting on a journey without my piece of jade as without my hat. It has often been said that it is not so much the doctor's physic that heals as the faith felt by the patient in the physician's power to do so. In the same way it is not the charm that brings good luck, but the optimistic outlook which belief in its power for good brings. Doesn't this sound learned?

Just one more illustration of superstition. The people who occupy the apartment across the hall from us moved in last Friday, and such a time as they had! In the first place, the moving men didn't come with their goods and chattels until so late in the day that it was evening before the household gods reached their destination. Then the gas men had not attended to their part of the business, and the rooms were in total darkness; the janitor was off on one of his periodical "good times," and the only saving bit of the whole performance was the mover-in's good humor and the light that an old student's lamp of mine threw on the situation.

Still, my neighbor's bad luck has resulted for me in the good luck of her acquaintance.

And, speaking of getting acquainted, there are a great many women in this town of New York who ought to ponder over the remark of a small girl to her mother, who seemed surprised that she knew another little girl with whom she was earnestly talking.

"Why, I didn't know that you knew that little girl!" said the mother.

"Well," explained the child, "I des smiled at her, and she smiled at me, and then we was attainted."

The child's method of getting acquainted was refreshingly simple, for what a laborious undertaking most people do make of the business of knowing one another! To be sure, you may have more gold in your purse or fewer crooked branches on your family tree than the woman next to you, but what of it? You're both traveling the same road, you will both soon come to the same end, and down underneath in the elemental things of life you are not so unlike, after all.

But it is not easy for women to let down the bars of social distinction, you say—not so easy as for men, who have more in common. Politics, for instance, knows no class distinction. Still, I don't think this fact excuses the snobbish woman. Nothing excuses her when you come to think of it. There is no excuse for snobbishness.

You or I may have more money or better clothes or may manage our subjunctives better than the woman who lives next door, but in the things that count for eternity you have little more to boast of, for human frailties are rather evenly divided, after all.

I am not, my dear, putting in a plea for the woman who does not even wait to smile at you or for you to smile back, but is acquainted at once and straightway bares her whole life history to you because you happen to sit next to her in a railroad car. No, dear; to tell an utter stranger about the divorce suit you are getting or the winter suit that you have annexed, it must be admitted, does smack of the underbred. But such a woman is not moved by the friendly spirit of the little girl who saw nothing more to getting acquainted than an exchange of smiles.

To change the subject abruptly, I wonder whether you are as addicted to the clipping habit as I am, just snipping out good recipes from magazines and papers or sidetracking some funny story or particularly wise or clever remark of wiseacres. And I also wonder whether you have the trouble I do in locating these clippings when wanted.

Well, recently I walked in upon Elizabeth rather unceremoniously and found her in the library, sitting at a table surrounded by piles of old magazines, newspapers, paste pot, scissors and sheets of cardboard and brown wrapping paper.

In reply to my question of what she was doing she replied: "Well, you see, there are heaps of things in the magazines and papers that are worth saving, so I'm going over this mass and taking out what I want. Here in this scientific magazine is an article on the wireless which will be useful to Jack, whose teacher has told him to write a composition on the subject. I shall take it out, bind it in brown paper and file it away for him.

"These piles are magazine stories and articles which I shall send to the binders, who will whip sew them and bind them in convenient sized volumes. Articles from the newspapers, recipes and so on I file away in my vertical file. Then there are so many good pictures in the magazines which it seems a pity to destroy. I began years ago to keep portraits, and when John becomes an editor he will find them very useful. Many of the pictures I mount on cardboard and put them in the children's playroom. I group them according to the subjects, changing the groups from time to time. Here is a collection," she concluded, "of pictures of Japan which I shall put up next week, and we'll have bedtime stories about the mikado's land. You've no idea how useful my library of clippings is. I couldn't run my house without it."

In the evenings now, when no one comes in, I am busily at work upon my library of clippings arranged according to Elizabeth's method. Don't you think it is a good one? Devotedly yours, MABEL.

ECONOMY OF SPACE.

How Many German Matrons Arrange Their Kitchenettes.

The illustration shows how conveniently and compactly a small kitchen or kitchenette may be arranged, and the young housewife will find many good suggestions by studying the economy of space so ingeniously displayed in the fittings of this room. Many of the ideas were borrowed from the kitchen of a certain German hausfrau.

The German matron never hides her own exclusive workshop. She does not screen off its doors as if she were ashamed to own such an apartment. It is to her the most important room in the home, as is evidenced by the scoured pots and kettles and by all the little efforts at beautifying. Her closet shelves are covered not with manila or lace paper or with pointed oilcloth, but with homespun linen resembling our coarse crash. This is fastened by a few buttonholes slipped over small china knobs at the back of the shelf.

The cover hangs down, lambrequin-like, over the front edge of the shelf, and it is on this fall of linen that the German pots, pans and kettles are reproduced in cross stitch in a nice delft blue cotton to match some of the platters and soup plates that stand in rows on the shelves. The patterns only appear at intervals, and the linen is finished by a row of coarse buttonholing along its straight edge.

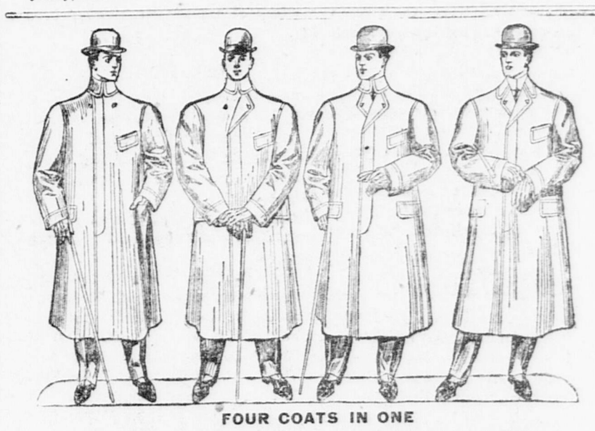

Encouraging Girls.

If girls are encouraged in doing housework they are more apt to have a liking for it. The little girl is taught how to wipe dishes, place the chairs, brush the table, draw the blinds, etc. Later she will want to cook, and she can start by boiling potatoes, baking potatoes, cooking cereals, frying eggs and bacon. Gradually she can be taught how to clean vegetables, and all of these little things add to her knowledge of kitchen work. Don't scold her if she makes a mistake. It is a damper to her enthusiasm. The little beginner should not feel that the kitchen is a place where she is more liable to receive scoldings than elsewhere or it will be only natural for her to try to shun it. A child has the natural desire to want to work or learn the rudiments, and the mother who notes all of this and teaches what is to be learned, yet fails to add the encouraging words, will not find a very ambitious coworker. The mother who never tells her child that her work is nice, but who ever reminds her that it is no more than is expected of her, is not following the right method.

When Ten Miles From a Lemon.

Canned crab meat is a reliance when one is living "ten miles from a lemon." A delicious way to prepare it is to turn it into the saucepan with a tablespoonful of butter and heat it through. Then turn in green peppers cut in rings and divested of their seeds, season with salt and pepper and simmer for eight minutes or so. At the last add half a cupful of rich cream, cook slowly for ten minutes and serve.

SYNOPSIS.

CHAPTER I—A young diver know as Phillip Ames visit a miserable tenement in New York where he knows a young woman, Jenny who has been reclaimed from the streets. II—The owner of the tenement John J. Haggleton, a multimillionaire, visits the place.

CHAPTER IV.

FATHER AND SON.

"YOU say that I must be content to see my son and be with him only on your terms?" he asked.

"You understand that you must not make yourself known to him until the moment comes?"

"Yes, but how can I see him or be with him if he doesn't know who I am?"

"That is easy enough. Show an interest in the problems of poverty, tenement house reform, and Philip will spend his days and nights with you."

"No, no," protested Haggleton; "I want him to take an interest in my affairs, which will be his. He cannot begin too soon. And I am going away on my yacht. Time is pressing."

"Philip will be here when you return from your cruise."

"In three months? Ah, you have never had a son! He is going with me on that cruise."

"It cannot be," answered Gentle. "I must put my promise to his mother before your feelings. I have trained him for a battle with you—a great battle that's coming now. And I will see that you start fair."

"Battle—what battle?"

"A battle," continued Gentle impressively, "between your money and his high purpose. You will try to tempt him—I know it. You will try to make him hard and worldly. That's why I have waited until he was a man, his character formed. Even now he's only twenty-six, and—he is your son."

Philip entered at this moment.

"I have been trying to make that room fit for the little kid to sleep in," he said. "It is a pigsty. Oh, that scoundrel Haggleton! Miss Lawrence says the children should both be sent to the hospital."

"I want you to know a friend of mine, Philip," Gentle said—Mr.—Mr. Jackson. Mr. Jackson is interested in tenement house problems."

The young man held out his brawny hand to "Mr. Jackson," who shook it heartily.

"Pleased to meet you, sir. You have struck the right place for tenement problems. This is 'lung block.' The man who owns it is just starting on a cruise in his million dollar yacht."

"You mean Mr. Haggleton?" asked that worthy expectantly.

"Yes—John J. The doctors say he needs a change. I wonder what his tenants need?"

Haggleton looked around the room once more, taking in every evidence of neglect and dirt. Then his glance fell upon the mantelpiece, with two elaborate but grimy timepieces.

"You wonder what John J.'s tenants need?" he said dryly. "I should say that the ones who live here need more soap and not so many marble clocks."

"Philip," said Margaret, half opening the door and looking through it, "where is the croup kettle?"

He handed it to her, closing the door.

Haggleton asked with interest:

"Whom have you got in there?"

"She's a trained nurse and—she's the girl whom I am going to marry."

"Oh, indeed."

Gentle smiled to himself and caught a twinkle in Haggleton's eye. It suddenly made him like the man a little better.

Phillip then asked:

"Are you a friend of Mr. Haggleton, Mr. Jackson?" he asked. "Do you know him?"

"Why—er—yes."

"You know him," repeated Philip, half incredulously—"personally, I mean?"

"Mr. Jackson is associated with Mr. Haggleton in business," explained Gentle; "he has been helping him in some schemes for tenement improvement."

"I'd like to tell Mr. Haggleton a few things about tenement improvement!" the young man burst out.

"What, for instance?" asked the pseudo Mr. Jackson.

"I'd tell him," he vociferated, "that he owns blocks and blocks on the lower east side that are in such a lovely state that he might as well be running a factory for turning out"—

Gentle made a restraining movement, checking Philip, who ended impatiently:

"Oh, what's the use?"

"No; go on," urged Haggleton. "I am here to learn. You said 'factory for turning out'—what?"

"Thieves and drunkards and wrecks of women!" thundered Philip. He clinched his fists and shook them above his head:

"My God! Why cannot you rich men be decent?"

"I suppose reformers care nothing about money!" said Haggleton sarcastically.

"Even reformers have to live."

"Listen to me, young man." Haggleton was in grim earnest now. "There isn't a reformer in this country who wouldn't stop reforming d——d quick if he found it was hurting his pocketbook."

Philip flared up again.

"That's false!" he shouted. "Besides, it has nothing to do with the question. The question is, Where do you get your money, you rich men? Do you earn it? Do you dig it out of the ground? No. You get it by the toil of men, by the tears of women and children. You get it by grinding human beings down to starvation wages and taking the rest, millions and millions that belong to the workers, but go into your fat pocketbooks because you're strong and cruel enough to take

"I impose secrecy upon both of you."

it, and that's how you get such places as 'lung block' and such monsters as John J. Haggleton."

Haggleton's secretary, a man of middle age, stuck in his head.

"Pardon me," he said. "Mr. Haggleton, you've only a few minutes if you want to sail with this tide."

Haggleton hardly raised his voice, his face barely changed, as he bit out the words:

"When I want you I'll send for you, Grimes."

The man retired hastily. Gentle looked uneasy. But Philip's next words recalled him to the new turn affairs had suddenly taken.

"Are you," said the young man in blank amazement—"are you John J. Haggleton?"

"That's my name."

"But"—he turned in bewilderment to Gentle—"did you think that his name was Jackson?"

"No, Philip. But there was a reason for introducing Mr. Haggleton in that way."

"A very simple reason," Haggleton explained smoothly. "I want to study tenement conditions without newspaper notoriety. Now go on with what you were saying. And, mind you, continue to be frank. I am here to learn."

"I will be frank, Mr. Haggleton. My answer to you is, What's the use? You can't settle the problems of poverty while your yacht waits."

"I can give certain orders, can't I? I can authorize certain improvements. Talk quick."

But Philip only shook his head.

"That's the way with you rich people," he commented in deep discouragement. "You think that you can settle anything and everything by signing a check. Well, Mr. Haggleton, that is your great mistake—of all of you. You can't do it. The only real help for the poor comes through love, and you cannot pay some one to love for you. You might as well pay some one to eat for you, or breathe for you, or sleep for you."

The young man waited for a moment as if searching his mind for a closing argument. Then with a flash of inspiration he concluded:

"You've got to do your loving yourself."

Haggleton started, looked at him intently, shifted his gaze to Gentle's face and repeated thoughtfully, slowly:

"You've got to do your loving yourself. I never thought of that!"

Haggleton paused, then went on:

"A man with the right stuff in him can win out against poverty just as well today as he ever could."

"A man like Moran?" Philip's voice was incredulous.

"Who is Moran?" asked Haggleton.

"Your tenant here."

"He had a small oil business in the west," explained Gentle. "Your system absorbed it. Now he's a baker's assistant."

Haggleton got up again and walked around the room.

"Moran can't be much good if this is the way he keeps his place."

"He's half sick." Philip was impatient now.

"So am I half sick, and more than half. I have been half sick for twenty years. Upon my word, I believe that half the work of the world is done by men who are half sick."

Then he asked briefly:

"How much does Moran earn?"

"Nine dollars a week."

Haggleton made another turn of the room.

"If I only had time," he muttered to himself. And he added, lower still, "I'll have to do my loving myself."

The thought had found its conclusion in the millionaire's brain.

"See here," said Haggleton briskly, squaring his shoulders, tightening his jaw and assuming a combative attitude—"see here, you two. Are you willing to let me prove my contention in my own way?"

"That a man with the right stuff in him can win out against poverty just as well today as he ever could—is that what you mean?" asked Philip.

"Yes."

"I am willing," said Gentle significantly.

Haggleton nodded emphatically.

"I don't quite understand," Philip began cautiously.

"Get me some paper. I am going to send orders to the captain of my yacht—that he sail at once, as arranged, only I shall not be on board."

"He is to sail without you?"

"Without me, and he is to keep away from wireless telegraph apparatus, ports of call, yacht club stations. He is to have no communication with any one, if possible. You understand me, Mr. Gentle?"

"I think I do, Mr. Haggleton."

"I impose secrecy on both of you," continued Haggleton, now blazing with energy.

"Then you are not going on the yacht?" hazarded Philip.

"No, my young reforming friend. I am going to stay here. I am going to win a little bet I have made with your friend, Mr. Gentle. And I am going to show you what John J. Haggleton would do if he had to hustle in a tenement without a dollar."

(To be Continued.)

Sixteenth Century Meals.

Judging from a passage in Harrison's "Description of Britain," breakfast eating in the sixteenth century was held to denote effeminacy. "Heretofore," he writes, "there hath been more time spent in eating and drinking than commonly is in these days, for, whereas of old we had breakfasts in the forenoon, beverages or nuntion after dinner and thereto reare suppers when it was time to go to rest, now these old repasts, thanked be Gods, are verie well left, and ech one (except here and there some young hungrie stomach that cannot fast till dinner time) contenteth himself with dinner and supper onlie. * * * The nobilitie, gentrie and students ordinarilie go to dinner at 11 before noon and to supper at 5 or between 5 and 6 at afternoon. The merchants dine and sup seldom before 12 at noon and 6 at night, especialie in London. The husbandmen dine also at high noon and sup at 7 or 8, but out of the tearme in our universities the scholars dine at 10."

One Was Enough.

The British academy once had printed a few copies of an important work for presentation to some foreigners who, from their prominence in the scientific world, were best entitled to be honored with the gift. Professor Airy, the astronomer royal, was requested to make a selection of the names. A few days after he had sent in his list he was informed by the secretary of the admiralty that "my lords" were struck by the number of unknown names included and that they wished to make an inquiry on the subject. Airy asked the secretary for some specifications as to the names referred to.

"Well, as an example," said the secretary, "here is the name of Professor C. F. Gauss of Gottingen. Who is he?"

"Gauss is one of the greatest mathematicians of the age and stands among the two or three most eminent masters in physical astronomy now living. Who else do you wish to know about?"

"No one else. That will do," replied the secretary.

What Man Owes to Birds.

"It should be realized," said a naturalist, "that without birds to hold in check the insects vegetable life soon would cease and life for man would become impossible upon the earth. Birds are nature's check to the amazing power of insects to increase. If insect life were allowed free course it would soon overpower plant life, and therefore animal life, including that of man, would be impossible. This is an astounding conclusion, but it is the conclusion of science. If the birds were gone very soon the leaves would disappear from the trees, and the limbs would be festooned with the webs of caterpillars or with masses of their nests. These would move from tree to tree, increasing by the million as they advanced. In the course of a few seasons there would be no trees. In the fields other species of insects would destroy the grass and the grain and all vegetable life, and the ground would be as if a sea of devouring mouths had passed over it."

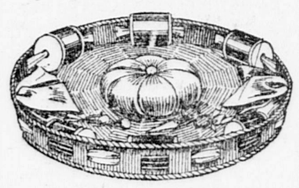

Charity.

It is an old saying that charity begins at home, but this is no reason it should not go abroad. A man should live with the world as a citizen of the world. He may have a preference for the particular quarter or square or even alley in which he lives, but he should have a generous feeling for the welfare of the whole.—Cumberland.

Christmas Presents

Grandmother will appreciate a sewing basket of the straw variety, which will save her the trouble of hunting about in the depths of a bag for her sewing materials. This convenient model is carried out with a straw basket somewhat on the order of a matting tray, which is to be purchased in the shops for fitting with utensils. The basket has an openwork rim of straw, through which ribbon an inch and a half is threaded. On the inside at intervals the ribbon is passed through spools of silk and then threaded in and out of the straw beading until the next position is reached. About six spools of silk or cotton are supplied, and a paper of needles is attached in the same fashion. The ribbon threading ends at the sides of the basket in prettily tied bows. The bottom of the basket is fitted with a sachet pad of silk, and in the center is a tomato-like pincushion of the same silk. To the inside rim is attached with baby ribbon an emery, and a small pair of scissors have their handles decorated with a rosette of baby ribbon, and on the underside is a white dress hook which is secured to a loop of silk made in the ribbon. The scissors when needed are merely unhooked and replaced at will.

THE NEWEST SEWING BASKET.

When Grandma Goes Visiting.

Grandmother will appreciate a sewing bag as a Christmas gift perhaps more than anything else you can give her. This bag is especially suited for a sewing bag, as it is easily folded and can be carried in a small hand bag when she goes visiting. One yard and a quarter each of plain pink taffeta and Dresden silks are required. Both silks are cut on the bias and divided into three pieces, then sewed together alternately, thus—first pink, then Dresden, then pink, and so on. The foundation of the bag is a circle of soft cardboard five inches in circumference. This is covered neatly with pink taffeta silk on both sides, for which a quarter yard of pink taffeta silk is required. After base is covered gather silk and sew on to base. This forms the bottom of bag. To make top, turn in silk about two inches from the top and stitch down neatly, then make another row of stitching one-half inch above this row. This forms a place through which the running string is run. One yard of narrow soft taffeta ribbon is used for a running string.

A Smart Breakfast Tray.

If you are handy with your embroidery needle make one of the smart trays that are the most up to date Christmas presents the shops are showing. The tray is of mahogany or any wood you care to purchase and is a convenient size to send up an invalid's breakfast upon or for the serving of afternoon tea. The unique part of the gift is to be found in the piece of old world embroidery—or modern, if you prefer—which is made on crash or satin the exact size of the tray and covered with a piece of glass. The home carpenter could easily make the tray, which is of oblong shape, with a rather low rail all about it, and decorative brass handles may be bought to make the tray very handsome and professional looking as well.

The Hatpin Vase.

"Auntie" will doubtless be charmed if some of her relations give her a hatpin vase. For this receptacle a pressed glass flower holder is used. A plain surface is best, but a cut vase will answer the same purpose. At the flaring part of the vase are pasted rose petals made of pink satin ribbon, and about the petals to stimulate the calyx are bunches of green baby ribbon. Hanging pendent from the rose are long loops of the ribbon, and at the base of the vase are other bunches of the green ribbon. It is a pretty little hatpin holder and something quite novel.

HATPIN HOLDER.

Certain About It.

Once upon a time, not so long ago, a couple of cowpunchers found themselves guests in the home of a minister of the gospel whose custom was to hold family worship of a morning and to conclude the same by asking each one present to give some quotation from the Scriptures. One after another repeated some text until at last it came the turn of Jim Bulstoke of the Crowfoot ranch.

"My dear young friend," said the dominie as he saw the latter hesitating, "surely can recall some verse from the Bible?"

Jim's face was bathed with profuse perspiration, but at last there came to him some approximation of a memory of something he had read or heard at some stage of his life about the first chapter of Genesis. At last he broke out, "God made the world."

The dominie lifted a hand to hide a sudden smile, but bowed to Jim's neighbor in the circle. Curley was even worse off than Jim had been and for the life of him could not think of anything. At last, remembering the occasional virtue of a good bluff, he twisted one foot around his chair leg and, with all the confidence he could muster, remarked, "He shore did!"—Recreation.

Last English King In a Battle.

The battle of Dettingen, in Bavaria, on the 16th (27th O. S.) of June, 1743, between the British, Hanoverian and Hessian troops (52,000 men), under command of George II., and the French troops (60,000 men), under Marshal Noailles, which resulted in the victory of the allied troops, was the last occasion on which an English king fought on the battlefield. His majesty continued the whole time in the heat of all the action, which was said by those who witnessed it to have been as fierce a conflict as had ever been known.

On the morning of the battle the king appeared in the same red coat he had worn at Oudenarde, thirty-five years before, taking his place at the head of the seven battalions of guards. About noon he ordered a general advance, and during the movements it entailed he was very nearly taken by the enemy, but was rescued by the Twenty-second regiment, who, in remembrance, wore a sprig of oak in their caps upon the anniversary of the battle for many years afterward.—London Tit-Bits.

The Children of the Great.

There is a tendency for children of exceptional parents to regress toward the average stock. Galton terms this tendency filial regression. This, the London hospital points out, applies equally to exceptional physical and mental characters. Thus, though tall stature may run in certain families, yet there is always a tendency to revert to the mean average size. Similarly the children of a genius tend to have somewhat less than their father's power, but more than the average of the race. According to Professor Pearson, distinguished parents are just ten times more likely to have distinguished offspring that undistinguished parents. Still, such cases as the Darwins, father and sons; the two Pitts, Philip and Alexander the Great are exceptional. Similarly also the children of a criminal tend to be less vicious than the father, though morally inferior to the average man.

Why He Was Unpopular.

When first made bishop of Stepney Dr. Winnington Ingram was anything but popular and indeed had occasionally to seek police protection. Greatly worried, the bishop tried to trace the cause and found one lady who was able to enlighten him.

"It's your white shirt, sir," she said. "We don't want no white shirted gentry here. Try a gray shirt and a dickey, like our chaps wear on Sunday."

The advice tendered was promptly acted upon, and thus the present bishop of London made the first advance toward close friendship with his people.—London Graphic.

The Codex Sinaiticus.

The most ancient of the New Testament manuscripts is the one known as the "Codex Sinaiticus," published at the expense of Alexander II. of Russia since the Crimean war. This codex covers nearly the whole of the Old and New Testaments and was discovered in the Convent of St. Catherine on Mount Sinai by the celebrated Tischendorf. It is generally ascribed to the fourth century.—New York American.

Ham With Jelly.

Melt in a saucepan a large tablespoonful of butter and half a glass of currant or other acid jelly. Shake in a little pepper and when hot lay in four or five small thin slices of boiled, cold ham. Let it boil up once and serve quickly on toast.—Boston Post.

Too Much.

Doctor—Now, there is a very simple remedy for this—er—this—er—recurring thirst. Whenever you feel you want a whisky and soda, just eat an apple—eat an apple. Patient—But—er—fancy eating fifty or sixty apples a day!—London Punch.

The Eternal Motorist.

Mrs. Gossip—They do say that her husband has acquired locomotor ataxia. Mrs. Parvenu—I don't think much of those cheap cars. My husband has an imported one.—Smart Set.

Household Hint.

To mark table linen—leave the baby and some jam alone at the table for five minutes.—Judge.

You cannot lead men into truth by tricks.—Aesop.

AN EASY AND HARMLESS WAY TO DARKEN THE HAIR.

Who does not know of the value of sage and sulphur for keeping the hair dark, soft, glossy and in good condition? As a matter of fact, sulphur is a natural element of hair, and a deficiency of it in the hair is held by many scalp specialists to be connected with loss of color and vitality of the hair. Unquestionably, there is no better remedy for hair and scalp troubles, especially premature grayness, than sage and sulphur, if properly prepared. The Wyeth Chemical Company, 74 Cortlandt St., New York City, put up an ideal preparation of this kind, called Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur. It is sold by all leading druggists for 50c. and $1.00 a bottle, or is sent direct by the manufacturers upon receipt of price.

INDOOR BIKE GAME BOOMING

Many Races Scheduled to Take Place In Near Future.

NEW YORK'S SIX DAY GRIND.

New Record Expected In Big Event to Start Dec. 5—Boston, Chicago and Kansas City May Have All Week Races.

If the plans of the promoters do not fail, the indoor bicycle game will be given greater impetus this winter than has been the case in several years. Many short and long distance events have been arranged, and several twelve hour and six day races are scheduled to be held in the near future in different sections of the country.

The first of the big bike carnivals to be held will take place in Madison Square Garden, New York, Dec. 4, when a series of short distance world's championship events will be run off. These will include a motor paced championship as well as middle distance and sprinting races. At one minute after midnight Dec. 5 a field of between fifteen and twenty teams of racing champions gathered from every corner of the globe will be sent away on what promises to be one of the most interesting six day races ever held in New York.

The European contingent of racing men who will take part in the six day grind include the champions of many countries. Walter Rutt and John Stol, who won second prize last year, and Emil and Leon Georget will ride together as a team. Germain, a fast middle distance Frenchman, is teamed up with the English crack Shirley, and the Italian team is made up of the two best men in sunny Italy, Cunlolo and Carrapezzi.

A special prize has been offered for the team that equals or breaks the world's record of 2,737 miles 12 laps, made by McFarland and Moran last year, the race should result in a repetition of the 1908 affair. Every indication points to this year's race being every bit as hard fought as last year's.

In a special match for the world's championship Parent, the champion motor pace follower of all Europe, will race against Bobby Walthour, the American champion motor pace follower. Parent and Walthour met twice during the past season abroad, the first time in the championship, when Parent was returned the winner, and the second time, a week later, in "championship revenge," when the Yankee boy turned the tables and led his rival home by a few inches. Their race in the Garden Dec. 4 will therefore be the "rubber" event.

LAMY OUT OF AMATEURS.

Speedy Ice Skater and Record Holder Declared a Professional.

Clarence Granger has been declared amateur speed skater of America by the Eastern Amateur Skating association. This displaces young Lamy, the speed marvel of Saranac Lake, N. Y., who is to be henceforth classed as a professional. Granger finished second to Lamy in most of the important races of last winter at Cleveland, O.; Pittsburg and Newburg, N. Y.

The International Skating association first took a stand against Lamy's amateurism, and the Eastern association followed suit. Granger is now the national champion in the one and a half miles and two and a half miles as well as international champion at five miles.

The Eastern association has appointed the following officers for the ensuing year: J. C. Hemmett, president; A. C. Dunn, first vice president; J. Mosher, second vice president; F. Coupe, secretary-treasurer; Charles Bowe, handicapper.

FRIEND OF A MONARCH.

How Edward VII. Forgave Dowager Duchess of Manchester.

The striking fact that the king of England forgives with kingly generosity was probably never more dramatically shown than in the case of Consuelo, the dowager duchess of Manchester, who recently died at her home in London.

Two years ago at Biarritz the duchess was said to have violated a state secret in disclosing "privately" what the king in his friendship had told her at a dinner there—namely, that his premier, Campbell-Bannerman, was about to resign and that the present premier, Asquith, had been summoned to Biarritz to form a new British cabinet.

The duchess never admitted that she broke confidence with his majesty, and she never denied it. But the king believed it. The notoriety attaching to the breach of etiquette placed Edward in the position of having been diplomatically indiscreet for the first time in his reign. He had been the friend of the dowager duchess since she first came to court as the wife of the then Lord Manderville, thirty years ago. It is not too much to say that she was made almost the chief informal adviser of his majesty, who had often declared that he had no one man in his cabinet whose advice he esteemed as highly as hers. Her friendship with King Edward and Queen Alexandra was noteworthy and unusual. She entertained them at Kerry House, with other kings and members of the royalty of Europe, oftener than any other duchess of his court.

This honorable friendship was generally known and openly approved. But the king declared that he would never forgive her spreading of the Asquith secret. Campbell-Bannerman was deeply hurt by the announcement of his resignation before he gave it to the king, and when the king, returning to London, appointed Asquith in his place he made it very evident that the dowager had lost the royal esteem.

For a year and a half the famous American woman lived in a lonely and deserted state. She was invited to none of the king's fetes, and the king's set she had formerly led was quick to follow the king's coolness. Then in August of this year the king forgave. He ordered that her name be placed upon the guest list at Lord Desborough's house in Taplow, where the king himself was chief guest, and later he invited her to Buckingham palace, where she had almost resumed her former position when she was taken ill a short time ago.

His majesty called at her Grosvenor square home a dozen times while she lay bedridden, and he kept his own physician at her side after it became known that she might not survive.

PLAN FOR OPEN FOOTBALL.

Pennsylvania to Propose Rule to Avert Serious Accidents.

Pittsburg and Washington and Jefferson colleges will send three representatives to the intercollegiate football revision conference in New York on Tuesday, Dec. 28, and will lay before the intercollegiate gathering a plan for opening up the game if it is decided to avert a recurrence of the number of injuries and fatalities recorded this season, due to the mass plays.

The scheme that will be outlined is to draft a rule which will require the quarterback or any other player to be five yards back of the center, or the scrimmage, line when the first pass from the snapperback is received—that is, instead of the ball being received from the center by a man playing right up against him it must be passed directly back fifteen feet to be a legal pass, and, with five yards to cover before the scrimmage line is reached by the runner, it will be impossible to charge through the opening forwards, who would have ample time to break through and get the man with the ball before he was fairly started forward. No matter how strong the opposing line, this would force a run outside the tackles, a forward pass or a quick kick of some sort and would of necessity open the game.

NEW GEOMETRY PRACTICAL.

Professor Slaught's Text Book Will Illustrate Theorem by Football.

Professor H. E. Slaught of the University of Chicago is preparing a text book on geometry which is expected to make its study by young men and women more popular by giving the science practical application in the lessons.

In the proof sheets of his book is a triangle with a stream flowing through it. There is another triangle with a tree growing up the perpendicular side. A stained glass window is reproduced on another page, and a section of a cut glass bowl, with its hexagonal figures showing prominently, adorns a page. Borders for hardwood floors with their triangular, circular and rectangular tracings are frequent.

There is also a theorem which deals with the vital question of how far to bring a football out to get the best angle from which to kick. There is also one by which, in the author's words, "a tree can be measured without climbing," and all of these are simply the old abstract theorems practically applied.

"The Children's Queen."

Queen Helena of Italy now is called "the children's queen." It is one of the results of her work in behalf of the suffering children following the Messina earthquake and also of her unfailing interest ever since she ascended the throne in the children of Rome.

MARINERS' COMPASS.

Little Known of the Real Origin of the Instrument.

ITS USE BY THE CHINESE.

This Wonderful People Knew of the Magnetic Needle Long Before the Christian Era—The Claims of Gioia, the Pilot, and the Credit Due Him.

Much interest must forever attach to the discovery of that valuable instrument the mariner's compass, and yet there are few subjects concerning which less is known. For a period the honor of the invention was ascribed to Gioia, a pilot, born at Pasitano, a small village situated near Amalfi, about the end of the thirteenth century. His claims, however, have been disputed.

Much learning and labor have been bestowed upon the subject of the discovery. It has been maintained by one class that even the Phoenicians were the inventors, by another that the Greeks and Romans had a knowledge of it. Such notions, however, have been completely refuted.

One passage, nevertheless, of a remarkable character occurs in the works of Cardinal de Vitty, bishop of Ptolemais, in Syria. He went to Palestine during the fourth crusade, about the year 1204. He returned afterward to Europe and subsequently back to the Holy Land, where he wrote his work entitled "Historia Orientalis," as nearly as can be determined, between the years 1215 and 1220. In chapter 91 of that work he has this singular passage:

"The iron needle, after contact with the loadstone, constantly turns to the north star, which, at the axis of the firmament, remains immovable while the others revolve, and hence it is essentially necessary to those navigating on the ocean."

These words are as explicit as they are extraordinary. They state a fact and announce a use. The thing, therefore, which essentially constitutes the compass must have been known long before the birth of Gioia. In addition to this fact, there is another equally fatal to his claim as the original discoverer.

It is now settled beyond a doubt that the Chinese were acquainted with the compass long before the Europeans. It is certain that there are allusions to the magnetic needle in the traditionary period of Chinese history, about 2,000 years before Christ, and a still more credible account of it is found in the reign of Chingwang of the Chow dynasty, before Christ 1114.

All this, however, may be granted without in the least impairing the just claims of Gioia to the gratitude of mankind. The truth appears to be that the position of Gioia in relation to the compass was precisely that of Watt in relation to the steam engine—the element existed; he augmented its utility.

The compass used by the mariners in the Mediterranean during the twelfth and thirteenth centuries was a very uncertain and unsatisfactory apparatus. It consisted only of a magnetic needle floating in a vase or basin by means of two straws on a bit of cork supporting it on the surface of the water.

The compass used by the Arabians in the thirteenth century was an instrument of exactly the same description. Now, the inconvenience and inefficiency of such an apparatus are obvious. The agitation of the ocean and the tossing of the vessel might render it useless in a moment.

But Gioia placed the magnetized needle on a pivot, which permits it to turn to all sides with facility. Afterward it was attached to a card divided into thirty-two points, called rose de vents, and then the box containing it was suspended in such a manner that, however the vessel might be tossed, it would always remain horizontal.—Electrical Engineer.

Stung.

The old gentleman went into the parlor the other night at the witching hour of 10:30 and found the lights out and his daughter and a dear friend enjoying a tete-a-tete in a corner by the window.

"Evangeline," said the old man sternly, "this is scandalous!"

"Yes, papa," she answered sweetly. "It is candleless because times are hard. Lights cost so much Ferdinand and I said we would get along with the starlight."

And papa turned about in speechless amazement and tried to walk out of the room through a panel in the wall paper.—Exchange.

The Difference.

"Father," said little Rollo, "what is the difference between farming and agriculture?"

"Well, my son, for farming you need a plow and a harrow and a lot of other implements, and for agriculture all you need is a pencil and a piece of paper."—Washington Star.

The Mess In the Oven.

"How came such a greasy mess in the oven?" said a fidgety old spinster to her maid of all work.

"Why," replied the girl, "the candles fell into the water, and I put them into the oven to dry."—London Tatler.

Mildew.

An easy method of removing mildew is to place the article in a warm oven for a few moments and then brush it.

When you forget there are others you are nearing a burned bridge.

MISS PACKARD PRESIDENT

Quincy Young Women's Club Elect Officers

The Quincy Young Women's club has a waiting list as well as the Quincy Women's club. Two hundred have now signed and more would like to be enrolled when opportunity offers. Officers were elected at the meeting Saturday evening as follows:

President—Miss Minnie Packard.

First Vice President—Miss Bertha Trepannier.

Second Vice President—Miss Gladys Howe.

Recording Secretary—Miss Ethel Randall.

Corresponding Secretary — Miss Elizabeth Durand.

Treasurer—Miss Gerna Saville.

Auditor—Miss Caroline Wilkinson.

The newly elected officers were vigorously cheered when they came to the front, and the president made an appropriate little speech thanking the members for the honor conferred upon her, and promising to do all she could to make the club a success.

A very amusing little play called "Mrs. Oakley's Telephone" was given by Miss Helen Livermore, Miss Dulah Miller, Miss Ella Packard and Miss Helen Kingman.

The last part of the evening was devoted to dancing. It was announced that the membership had reached 200 and that all those who have sent applications for admittance to the club should pay at once.

The next meeting will be Saturday evening, January 1, 1910, because the last Saturday in December comes on Christmas.

THE WEATHER

Local forecast for Quincy and vicinity:

Monday, showery in morning, followed by clearing and cooler weather.

Fair weather is indicated for Tuesday, with little change in temperature.

The temperature at noon today was 42 degrees; a year ago 49 degrees.

CANDIDACY ANNOUNCED

Councilmnn Whiton Would Like to be President

Although the municipal election will not be held until next week the contest for the presidency of the new City Council is now well under way. The two candidates now in the race are President Ralph W. Hobbs and Councilman Joseph L. Whiton, Jr. Both gentlemen are candidates for re-election at the coming election, President Hobbs from Ward Six and Councilman Whiton from Ward One. There is practically no opposition to either gentlemen and they are practically sure of election.

The news that Councilman Whiton was to be a candidate for the presidency of the Council came out Saturday, and since that time every candidate for the City Council has been seen in the interest of one of the two gentlemen.

President Hobbs has been a member of the City Council for four years, having first been elected in 1906 from Ward Six. He served on the Street and Legislative Committee for two years, the second year as chairman of the Street Committee. He was elected president of the City Council of 1908 and also of 1909.

Councilman Whiton, has been a member of the City Council for six years, serving in 1902, '03, '04, '06, '08 and '09. The first three years from Ward Two and in 1908 and '09 from Ward One. During the present year he has served on the Finance Committee.

ZELAYA A GREAT FIGHTER.

President of Nicaragua, Who Executed Two American Citizens.

The revolt which recently broke out in Nicaragua came as a climax to a series of persecutions inaugurated by Jose Santos Zelaya, titular president and actual dictator of Nicaragua, against whom President Taft and Secretary of State Knox have decided to take drastic action for his summary execution of the two Americans, Leroy Cannon and Leonard Groce. Zelaya is fifty-one years old, and the wonderful thing about his life is that he has lived so long after making himself so many fervent enemies.

Zelaya belongs to the aristocracy of his country. As a boy he was sent to Paris and received his education there, but his success has been obtained by means of the sword rather than the pen. It is likely that he inherited a considerable fortune, but this has been built up since he became ruler of Nicaragua until now it must be estimated in the millions. He owns enormous coffee plantations alone and controls the exclusive rights to many of the industries.

This is not the first time that Zelaya has defied the United States. That has been one of his principal diversions, as a matter of fact. Whenever the United States has sought redress he has set up the cry of aggression.

Zelaya gained his ascendency in 1897 by winning a big battle. He is a fighter and a tactician, and if he has drenched his country and the other little countries that are unfortunate enough to border it in the blood of thousands of their inhabitants he has done it on a military scale that is seldom attained in Central America.

Ever since he first became president he has been combating revolutions or else fighting with some other state that had pluck enough to resist his domineering attitude. In 1899 the Conservatives of Nicaragua rose in rebellion and were defeated with much slaughter. He bullied Honduras and Salvador and Guatemala and even manipulated their politics. After 1901, when he was re-elected president, his rule was unquestioned.

All sorts of stories have been circulated about his cruelties. If one tithe of them have been true, then certainly Zelaya has maintained a rule that, for sheer ferocity has surpassed anything alleged against Russian grand dukes. Those for whom he had personal enmities he is said to have caused to be removed at will. He is credited with having reintroduced the methods of the inquisition and the practices of the Spanish viceroys of the eighteenth century. The dungeon and the firing squad and trial by court martial have been his instruments of justice.

MEMORIAL TO WASHINGTON.

Costly Building to Be Erected In Honor of First President.

The George Washington Memorial association announced the other day that it had begun a campaign to raise $2,500,000 for the erection of a memorial building at Washington as headquarters for scientific, educational, patriotic, art and literary organizations of the United States.

With the support of the Washington Academy of Sciences, National Federation of Art, National Academy of Sciences, American Medical association, Association of American Physicians and other bodies it is planned to raise by popular subscription a building fund before Feb. 22, 1910, the one hundred and seventy-eighth anniversary of the birth of George Washington.

Senator Elihu Root, Dr. S. Weir Mitchell, Dr. William Welch, Professor Alexander Agassiz, General Horace Porter, Professor H. Fairfield Osborn and Dr. Ira Remsen have volunteered to serve on an advisory council with Mrs. Henry F. Dimock, who is leading the movement.

"Among the 80,000,000 of Americans we feel sure we will find enough support to assure the $2,500,000 required to give George Washington this much needed memorial," said Mrs. Dimock, who has headquarters at 25 East Sixtieth street, New York city. "There is not a national organization in the land that will not benefit by the accommodations of this structure that we propose to rear to the memory of Washington. It has long been a constant source of shame to the American people that their capital held no fit meeting place for national and international conventions in the cause of general knowledge, and in remedying this practical defect we can at last gratify the dearest wish of Washington."

New Industry In China.

Among the new industries that have sprung into being in Hongkong lately is a shoe factory, where footgear for Chinese is turned out by modern machinery at a rate unprecedented for Hongkong. In this connection the manufacture of European boots and shoes on a wholesale scale is in contemplation.

Young Prima Donna.

Among the youngest prima donnas is an English girl, Miss Maggie Teyte, who is now singing in London. Though scarcely twenty years old, Miss Teyte has made her debut at the Paris Opera Comique. There she played Mary Garden's role of Melisande and won a great triumph.

Aeroplane Omnibus Next.

Ballin Hinde, speaking at a meeting of a cycle and motor company at Coventry, England, the other day, said that he believed that within the next few years aeroplanes would be built to serve as omnibuses for the carrying of passengers.

HIS OLD SWEETHEARTS

Tableaux Presented by Quincy Catholic Club

That the ladies of the Quincy Catholic club are grand entertainers was self evident to the many who attended the gentlemen's night given by the club Monday evening at Colonial hall. The ladies held a short business session during the early evening and then adjourned to the hall where they received and entertained the gentlemen.

The affair was very largely attended and was a pronounced social success. The first part of the evening was given over to an entertaining program that was very pleasing. Miss Mary L. Gavin, the president of the club, briefly welcomed those present and spoke of how much they were indebted to the gentlemen for the club's success in its undertakings.

The program opened with a piano duet by Miss Bertha Trepannier and Miss Mary McConarty, and was followed by a solo by Miss Helen Galvin, readings by Miss Alice Jordan of Brighton, violin and piano duet by Miss Ruth and Miss Teresa Keating, and solos by Harry Hudson with Clarence Fouche as accompanist.

The last number consisted of tableaux entitled "His Old Sweethearts." The stage was set to represent a den of a college student. On the crimson colored draped walls were the green flags of Dartmouth, white of Vassar and the Crimson of Harvard There was no evidence of the Yale blue. In addition to these there were pictures posters and other souvenirs gathered in by the bachelor occupant. Seated at a reading table was the bachelor occupant, impersonated by Mrs. A. Isabelle Davis. He was reading letters congratulating him on his approaching marriage on the morrow. The last bore the signature "An old Sweetheart." The bachelor in reverie tried to conjure who it could be. As his mind wandered back he first thought of Bettie, the school girl; then Kate, the football girl, and Blanche the actress. In quick succession followed Elizabeth the college girl; Mildred, the skating girl; Clara, his summer girl; Jeannette, the riding girl; Helen, the debutante; Tegia the dashing widow; and last of all Mary the bride and the old sweetheart.

As each of his sweethearts were named they appeared in a panel at the rear of the platform in tableaux. It was very prettily carried out and received well deserved applause. The young ladies to impersonate these characters were:

The Bachelor Mrs. A. Isabelle Davis
Bettie, the school girl, Miss Gertrude Crowley
Kate, the football girl, Miss Mary Dunn
Blanche, the actress, Miss Lulu Crowley
Elizabeth, the college girl, Miss Julia Ford
Mildred, the skating girl, Miss Nellie Coughlin
Clara, the summer girl, Miss Julia Roche
Jeannette, the riding girl, Miss Josephine Collagan
Helen, the debutante, Miss Josie McCarthy
Tegia, the widow, Miss Annie Kelley
Mary, the bride, Miss Teresa Keating

At the conclusion of the entertainment there was a social hour, during which refreshments were served in the rooms of the Knights of Columbus. After which there was dancing at Colonial hall.

The affair was a most pronounced success and reflects great credit on Miss Gavin and the committee in charge who were as follows:

Entertainment,—Miss Annie J. Walsh, Miss Mary Lyons Miss Gertrude Crowley, Miss Katherine Roche, Miss Mary Dunn, Miss Bertha Trepanier Miss Helen Gavin Miss Agnes McGinty, Miss Nonie O'Connor and Miss Emma Biganess.

Refreshments,— Mrs. Charles C. Hearn Miss Elizabeth Walsh, Miss Lora Biganess, Miss Mary Harkins, Miss Nellie Mundie, Miss Elizabeth Keating, Miss Annie Cahill, Miss Ella Norris, Mrs. James Dunn, Miss Mary Coyle and Mrs. J. J. McAnarney.

DROPPED DEAD ON STREET

Dexter Smith Had Spent Day in Quincy

On Sunday, after his usual weekly custom, William Dexter Smith visited his sister Mrs. George H. Wilson of Revere road, Quincy. While returning to his home in Boston in the evening he was stricken while walking on Dartmouth street, Boston, and died instantly. A doctor was nearby at the time and saw him fall. It was not until Monday that his body was identified by his brother, Frank G. Smith of Brookline, and removed to his home at 519 Washington street. He was an old-time newspaper writer, poet, songwriter and dramatic critic.

Dexter Smith, as he was best known, says the Globe, was 70 years old and was born in Peabody. He came to Boston when quite a young man and became a letter carrier.

Mr. Smith first came into prominence as a poet by verses entitled "Ring the Bell Softly, the Crape's Upon the Door." He was delivering mail one day and in passing Miss Fisher's theatrical boarding house on Bulfinch place he noticed crape on the door. The verses followed. One of his later attempts, "Cross and Crown" was set to music and sung with great success by Joseph White, who recently died.

At one time he was associated in a journalistic capacity with the Carl Rosa Opera Co. Later on he was connected with the Musical Record. Later he published a musical journal known as Dexter Smith's Musical Monthly. In the early '70s he conducted a world tour for Camillo Urso, the famous violinist, and was also associated with Ole Bull. For a number of years he lived in New York.

For the last performance in the old Boston Museum Mr. Smith wrote a poem, whose lines included the name of almost every artist who had appeared in the old theatre, and which was read by Margaret Anglin. He also wrote an ode upon the opening of the Majestic theatre.

He was passionately fond of flowers and wrote a poem to nearly every one of the better known varieties. Sonnets to the flowers signed Dexter Smith often appeared in the newspapers.

It was his fondness for nature perhaps that led him into the habits of a recluse. In his later years he shunned society and seldom visited his brother though the best of feeling existed between them.

Much of the popular music he wrote was sung on the stage here and in New York. Perhaps his most successful song was "Put Me in My Little Bed."

Mr. Smith never married. He frequently disappeared for several months and upon his return his friends would learn that he had spent the time in a little log hut on lake Killarney in Ireland. In his trips abroad he rarely wandered far from London or Killarney. He was frequently known to ride about 30 miles out of London and walk back merely for the pleasure of tramping alone through the woods, enjoying nature.

We quote from Mr. Smith's poem "A Sheaf of Song:"

"And what is Life?
A feeble fleeting breath,
While mankind does but temporize with death."

"And what is death?
The path from prison gates
To realms where God's eternal mercy waits."

CAPT. JINKS AT BETHANY

Entertainment Under Auspices of King's Daughters

A most entertaining evening was enjoyed by a large audience in Bethany chapel last evening when Elsie Leighton Livermore read Clyde Fitch's play, "Captain Jinks."

Between acts one and two Dorothy McTaggert Miller of the Westland quartet sang three songs in her wonderfully clear, powerful voice. The songs were "The Hills o'Skyes," "Rockin' in de' Win'" a charming negro song, "A China Tragedy," a dear selection which delighted the audience and as an encore "To My First Love." The accompanist, Marion C. Whiton, played most sympathetically and also gave a pleasing selection before the reading.

The first scene of the play is laid at a wharf in New York just after the steamer from Liverpool has arrived, having on board a young opera singer about to make her debut in America. The newspaper reporters and the three young men, including Capt. Jinks, the dude and the villian, all waiting to get the first glimpse of the great singer were very realistically portrayed by Miss Livermore. Here Capt. Jinks and the villian make the bet on which the plot hinges, that they will make love to the debutante.

Then the young singer herself comes on and immediately captivated the audience with her sweet, impulsive mannerisms so well brought out by Miss Livermore.

Acts two and three are played in the singer's apartments in a New York hotel some time later. Here Capt. Jinks and Miss Johnson, as the singer is called off the stage, become engaged. Miss Livermore gave the love scene between these two most sympathetically and her audience was thoroughly in love with them both.

Then his mother, stern, forbidding and much opposed to the stage is introduced and her austere, sharp voice in contrast with Miss Johnson's sweet one showed most markedly Miss Livermore's versatility.

Of course the villian brings the bet to light and almost causes the lover's separation but the young girl's absolute faith in the Capt. gives him a chance to explain that the bet was made before he had seen her and was broken off as soon as he saw her.

Every character, down to Peter the hotel boy was so well depicted, gestures voice and facial expression and the little points so understandingly brought out that no character could be chosen as being better played than another.

Miss Livermore was so enthusiastically encored that much to the delight of the audience she gave an original monologue "The O'Reilley Family" which kept everyone in roars of laughter from beginning to end.

LOSS BELOW $100,000

No Insurance on Machinery at the Gear Works

A revised estimate by Chief Williams, on the loss by the fire Saturday night which destroyed the plant of the Boston Gear Works, places the loss on building and machinery at $95,000. Of this amount $20,000 is the loss on the building and $75,000 on the machinery.

The Chief has been unable as yet to obtain much information as to the loss and insurance. From a Boston insurance agency, however, it has been learned that there was an insurance of $20,000 on the building, but that the machinery was uninsured.

It is reported that insurance companies had often advised the proprietor to have his valuable machinery insured, but that he refused to do so. Mr. Burgess is very uncommunicative and but little information can be obtained from him as to the loss or insurance.

LAUNCHING DECEMBER 11

Fore River Company to Put Over the Frasch

The Frasch, one of the sulphur boats building at the Fore River shipyard will be launched Saturday morning, Dec. 11, at 9.45. There will be no public function at the launching, but a party of sixty or more from New York will witness the launch. The Fore River Co. will serve them a lunch in the mould loft after the launch.

COMMITTEE SEE MAYOR

Relative to Removal of Stone Chips

The special committee of the Granite Manufacturers' Association held a conference with Mayor Shea on Monday night, in the matter of the disposal of the stone chips in the granite yards at South Quincy. On the committee were John R. Richards, Thomas Bishop, Joseph Walker, Robert Mavers and William L. Saunders.

The argument used by the committee was that as a matter of economy the stone chips should be used by the city on the streets.

The Mayor would agree to clean out all of the stone sheds, taking the ground that the city should not be required to go into the business of clearing out stone yards. He, however said that he was willing and in favor of using stone chips on the streets as far as consistent with the interest of the city. He did not think it a wise policy, if the city was building a street in one section of the city and could get material near at hand, to send teams to South Quincy to haul the crushed stone a long distance.

GYMNASTIC GIRLS.

The West Quincy Gymnastic Girls opened the season in St. Mary's hall last Saturday night, most of the members being in attendance. Some of the girls found it pretty hard to go through their exercises on account of being out of condition, but after two fifteen minute halves of basket ball they were feeling more like themselves. Their next meeting will be on Saturday at St. Mary's hall, at 8 P. M.

Chapter 32, Revised Laws.

PENSIONS FOR FIREMEN IN CITIES.

Section 81. If a petition, signed by not less than two hundred registered voters of a city and requesting that the question of the acceptance of the provisions of this section be submitted to the voters of such city at the next annual or special city election, is filed with the city clerk not less than thirty days before said election, said question shall be so submitted, and if it is accepted, the city council of such city may thereafter, under such restrictions and subject to such provisions as it may by vote or ordinance prescribe, pension any fireman, who, by reason of permanent disability incurred while in the performance of his duty as fireman, is no longer able to perform active service as a fireman.

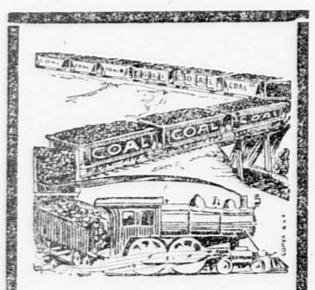

Section 82. If a petition, signed by not less than two hundred registered voters of a city and requesting that the question of the acceptance of the provisions of this section be submitted to the voters of such city at the next annual or special city election is filed with the city clerk not less than thirty days before said election, said question shall be so submitted, and if it is accepted, the city council of such city may thereafter, under such restrictions and subject to such provisions as it may by vote or ordinance prescribe, pension any member of the fire department of such city who has served faithfully in said department for not less than twenty years and who is either sixty-five years of age or over or incapacitated for useful service.

MAGNIFICENT BANK BUILDING.

The Old Colony trust company opened its new and magnificent building on Court street, Boston, on the site of the old Adams building, opposite Young's hotel, to the newspaper men on Monday for a private view and inspection of the splendid utilities and equipment of this great banking institution. It is probably one of the most complete financial institutions of the kind in the country. Apparently nothing has been overlooked in the construction and fitting up of the vast interior from vaults to ceiling. Ex-Councilman H. J. Polk, Walter H. Nichols, Carl F. Prescott and others are among the employees.

Again the Citizens No-License League is reminding us that only a few days remain in which to work for a large No-License majority at the City election which comes next Tuesday. Quincy has a glorious record in its vote for many years on the License question which is brighter and brighter each year. It is important that the adverse majority shall be increased rather than decreased. All wards of the city are enrolled on the right side, and should be kept in line. After the election there should be a united effort made to secure a more strict enforcement of the law, especially on the part of expressmen.

The contest for the presidency of the City Council may put a little life into city politics which never were so quiet a week before election day. There is only one reason for the absence of rallies and newspaper articles, and that is the general satisfaction of the voters with the administration of William T. Shea. Individuals may criticise it, Democrats quite as much as Republicans, but on the whole it has been very satisfactory. It is more important this year to elect a representative City Council which will check reckless loans than to make a change in executive. Mayor Shea might have exercised his veto privilege on appropriations more than he has, but where a majority have demanded improvements he has decided not to stand in the way. There is need of arousing public opinion, however, along some lines.

Commenting on the names for the new hall building for Henry L. Kincaide, a citizen wondered why Omega was not selected in place of Union. Alpha and Omega are almost inseparable, for one reads in Revelations 22: 13-"I am Alpha and Omega, the beginning and the end, the first and the last." This new block is not the beginning of Mr. Kincaide's enterprise, and we hope it may not be the end for Quincy needs more of such enterprise. Many had their doubts when Mr. Kincaide built his four story furniture emporium with basement, elevator and improvements, but the firm has prospered and so have Mr. Kincaide's other ventures, the Annex and the Central block in City Square. We agree with him that the new halls will fill a long felt want in Quincy. It is quite essential in these days that all halls shall have dining rooms and other conveniences. Alpha and Union halls are in the same building and can be used together. Entertainments or dances can be given in Alpha hall, and refreshments can be served in Union hall. The latter is 24x50, so that it will seat comfortably at tables a large number. With Union hall is a kitchen having a gas range, and other conveniences. The halls have many innovations which together with the low rentals are sure to make them popular. Many dates are already booked. The city is to be congratulated that the new building is nearly completed.

One of the most generous contributions of Hospital Week was that of $44.25 by the Finnish Lutheran church. This little church on Buckley street with only a small membership made up of hard working people evidently see their duty to God and their fellow men in a broad and generous way. No contribution of the week probably represented so much sacrifice and real generosity.

There was quite a discrepancy between the estimated loss by fire and the assessed value of Boston Gear Works and one is probably as much too high as the other is too low. We understand the owner has placed no estimate on his loss by fire, and the insurance figures are not public. At best it was a great loss to Quincy, for it means a loss of $10,000 per month in wages to 100 skilled mechanics. We hope that Mr. Burgess' loss is fully covered by insurance and that he will immmediately begin to rebuild larger and better than before. No criticism is heard of the way Chief Williams and the Fire department managed the fire. The building was doomed before the apparatus arrived. Probably a mistake was made in not sounding the alarm earlier. The water pressure was excellent, notwithstanding a report of a Boston paper to the contrary. It was very fortunate that the precaution had been taken to locate three hydrants near the building.

DRIFT OF OPINION.

Every man should have a threefold ambition—that of making a real success of his life, of advancing the well-being of the place in which he lives and the cheerful performance of his duties as a citizen of his country.—Haverhill Gazette.

In the making of memoirs it is just the people we meet at dinner who count. A man obviously dines out with a view to obtaining a good meal, a woman with a view to meeting people.—Ladies' Field.

There is no shop where pleasure is sold—at least there is none where the products are guaranteed under the pure food law. Pleasure cannot even be sought for with any chance of success in the pursuit. If we go gunning for pleasure, we are certain to come home with an empty bag, as well as with empty pockets, and the man who seeks that kind of sport generally starts out with an empty soul.—The Forum.

There is no truer observation than that of Emerson, when nature intends a man to do anything she overloads him with bias. It takes a tremendously hot sun to give even a temperate degree of warmth to the earth. No great cause was ever yet promoted by men who measured their zeal. The cautious student of the movement is a splendid accessory to the leader. But the movement must have a leader. It is well to remember that in municipal reform, as in all other great movements that make for the public good.—Haverhill Gazette.

The suggestion that the Thanksgiving season be changed from the last of November to the last Saturday and Sunday of the same month is well worth thinking about. It is argued that this would solve a problem that has long vexed the church folk—that of having a Thanksgiving feast that would not interfere with the religions observance of the occasion. The new plan would also enable people to travel from distances to join friends, as they could start at the close of business on a Friday and arrive in season for the turkey, and have plenty of time to get home the next day easily and comfortably, and without rushing and hustling. Also, so far as practicable it is a very good idea to have a holiday and a rest day come together. Saturday and Monday holidays are the most popular of all for this reason. Under the present system people have to return to work the next morning after a day that has taxed the digestive powers and after in many cases, long and tiresome rides in the cars.—Framingham News.

BANDS DROWN PRAYERS

Prohibition Amendment Goes Down to Defeat In Alabama

Birmingham, Ala., Nov. 30.—The prohibition amendment to the state constitution was defeated by a majority estimated at from 20,000 to 30,000 votes.

The scenes about the polling places throughout the state were without precedent in the south, brass bands being called in to drown out the prayers of the anti-liquor element.

Thousands of women and children appeared about the voting places, coffee and sandwiches were served without stint, and exhorters on every hand called upon the voters to carry the amendment through. Fights were prolific, and one man dropped dead through excitement.

The result is looked upon by party leaders as indicating a reaction of the great prohibition wave that swept the south two years ago, causing great comment all over the country.

FEARS FOR FISHING CRAFT

New England Coast Is Lashed by a Gale and High Sea

Boston, Nov. 30.—Not since the Portland disaster in 1898 has the wind off Highland light reached anywhere near yesterday's velocity. At 11:45 seventy-two miles an hour was registered, and the sea was unusually high. A driving rain blew in from the northeast so thickly that nothing could be seen a few feet from the light.

At 2 p. m. the violence of the storm was somewhat spent and the gale diminished to sixty miles an hour. By 4 o'clock it was down to fifty miles and the weather was reported clear, with the wind northnortheast.

Much apprehension is felt along the water front for boats that are known to be on their way to Boston. There are several of the small fishing craft out, and it is feared that they will have a hard time weathering the gale.

RAIN-SOAKED GOODS PILED IN STREETS

Three Hundred Persons Homeless In Ludlow

Ludlow, Mass., Nov. 30.—The elements have added to the misery of the more than twenty-five families evicted from tenements owned by the Ludlow Manufacturing associates because of a strike in the mills of the company. The household effects of the evicted persons included furniture, clothing and bedding, and all were piled together in a great heap in the street in front of the houses from which they had been removed.

The owners found shelter for themselves and their families, but there was no shelter for the goods and heavy rain ruined the greater part of the clothing and bedding, and caused great damage to the furniture.

The work of eviction was suspended Monday, but it was announced that on Wednesday the occupants of sixteen other houses owned by the company would be ordered to leave, and their belongings will be carried outside.

Nearly all of the houses from which the strikers were expelled on Saturday were two-family structures, and nearly all of the tenants were Polanders. Each family had a number of lodgers, and it is estimated that at least 300 persons were made homeless by the eviction proceedings.

New York, Nov. 30.—Having arrested Miss Mary Moore and Miss Elizabeth Holland, dressmakers in Boston, federal officers arrested in New York Philip Phillipsen, who was indicted with them for conspiracy to defraud the government out of duties on smuggled women's wearing apparel.

Robert Schwartz, a baggage master on the American line pier, charged with being a party to the conspiracy, was arrested several months ago. The familiar "sleeper" trunk is alleged to have been used.

Phillipsen gave $5000 bail for his appearance.

OF PUBLIC INTEREST.

OUR HISTORIC ADAMS TEMPLE.

Editors Daily Ledger:

There is a great and growing sentiment in civic betterment, in good government, and a desire to uplift the community, throughout the nation, and especially in our immediate section.

At the Thanksgiving Day service held in Bethany church, each speaker seemed to be enthused, almost inspired, on their chosen theme.

But while it is highly proper to hold such a service in this or any other church, still, it seems to me that the one particular place where such a service should be held is in the Old Stone Temple, for it was on that spot where all such gatherings of a similar nature have been held since the first settlement of our country. Indeed, that was the only church building for the first hundred years. In the old building, torn down in 1825, worshipped many of the framers of history. On the Plaza in front of the porch, men gathered at the call to arms for the various Indian uprisings, the Revolution, in 1812 when the British threatened the coast, and many many times during the Civil War.

The present magnificent building is more than a church—it is a shrine, and I hope the clergy and officials will pardon me, but it would seem to be the correct thing to have:

The building constantly open, with elaborate memorial services annually on the birthday of Adams, Hancock, Quincy and Lincoln Decoration Day, etc.

I recollect the great celebration July 4, 1854, when John Quincy Adams read Declaration of Independence there before the children of the public schools. Several other times, before and since, there have been similar observances on festal days.

A church can be simply a religious club, or it might be made a working, living force in the community.

ELISHA PACKARD.

KEOUGH—SULLIVAN.

A very pretty wedding took place on Wednesday, Nov. 24, at 53 John street, Atlantic, when Elizabeth L. Sullivan was married to James H. Keough at her sister's home. Although it was one of the worst storms we have had for a long time her many friends came from near and far to congratulate her on her wedding night. The bride was attired in white hand embroidered satin and wore a veil. She carried a bouquet of orange blossoms. Miss Louise Sullivan was maid of honor and wore white point es prey over white silk and carried white roses. Michael Sullivan was best man, also a brother of the bride. The bride was presented with a gold chain and locket set with diamonds, a gift of the groom. They received many handsome presents. Goolhart's orchestra furnished the music for the evening and dancing was enjoyed. Supper was served at 9.30.

After a short trip to New York Mr. and Mrs. Keough will reside at 53 John street, Atlantic.

A NEWSPAPER TRIUMPH.

One of the finest examples of daily newspaper enterprise was that of the editors of the Christian Science Monitor of Boston in their Thanksgiving or national number. It certainly was national in its scope and as readable in the west or south as in the vicinity of Boston. In the few months that the Monitor has been in the field of daily journalism its growth has been remarkable and it has thoroughly demonstrated in its news and advertising columns that a paper does not have to cater to cheap and low tastes to prosper. The Monitor stands for good clean journalism on broad lines.

KEEP THE KIDNEYS WELL

Health Is Worth Saving, and Some Quincy People Know How to Save It.

Many Quincy people take their lives in their hands by neglecting the kidneys when they know these organs need help. Sick kidneys are responsible for a vast amount of suffering and ill health, but there is no need to suffer nor to remain in danger when all diseases and aches and pains due to weak kidneys can be quickly and permanently cured by the use of Doan's Kidney Pills. Here is a Quincy citizen's recommendation.

Nicholas Albanese, 16 Gilmore street, Quincy, Mass., says: "I was annoyed by attacks of backache for some time, often while at work sharp, shooting pains darted through my loins, causing me great misery. I also had dizzy spells and my sight seemed to be affected. I tried many remedies, but did not receive relief and as a last resort, I decided to try Doan's Kidney Pills. I procured a box at the Cox Drug Store and in a short time after using them, I was helped. I have no hesitation in giving Doan's Kidney Pills the credit for my cure."

For sale by all dealers. Price 50 cents. Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, New York, sole agents for the United States.

AN UP-TO-DATE DRUGGIST

says it is surprising how many old-fashioned remedies are being used, which goes to show that it is hard to improve some of our grandmothers' old time-tried remedies. For instance, for keeping the hair dark, soft and glossy, nothing equaling our grandmothers' "sage tea" has ever been discovered. Although, by the addition of sulphur and other ingredients, this old-fashioned brew has been made more effective as a scalp tonic and color restorer. Nowadays when our hair comes out or gets faded or gray, instead of going to the garden or garret for herbs and making the "tea" ourselves, we simply go to the nearest drug store and ask for a bottle of Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur. This preparation is sold by all leading druggists for 50 cents and $1 a bottle, or is sent direct by the Wyeth Chemical Company, 74 Cortlandt St., New York City, upon receipt of price.

NEW STEAMER ON ROAD.

Quincy's new steam fire engine will probably be delivered in Quincy in a few days and will go into commission as soon as she is tried out. The changing from steel to rubber tires caused some delay as the engine could not be painted until the wheels were ready. The engine itself was fully assembled sometime ago. At the Boston office of the Amoskeg Steam Fire Engine Co. it was stated Monday morning that the engine would probably be shipped from Providence, R. I., Monday if the paint was sufficiently hardened.

MURDERER NOT YET ARRESTED

Opinion Expressed by Four Brothers of Clarence Glover

THIRD PERSON IN LAUNDRY

Latest Claim of Sixteen-Year-Old Girl Accused of Crime—Brother-In-Law of Murdered Man Says He Knew Nothing of Tragedy Until He Read It In Newspapers—Receives Witness Fees After Being Released by Court

Waltham, Mass., Nov. 30.—That they will be able to prove that a third person came upon Hattie Le Blanc and Clarence F. Glover at the Waltham laundry, and fired the shots which killed Glover, is the belief of four brothers of the victim, who are working diligently to corroborate Hattie Le Blanc's own statement about the mystery.

The girl last Sunday stated to her lawyer, it is said, that while she was in the laundry she and Glover heard somebody enter, that Glover put out the lights and assisted her out a window, and it was after that she heard the shots. The girl's lawyer will neither affirm or deny that this was what the girl said.

State Officer Byrnes is also working on a theory that the accused girl is innocent.

So far as the Waltham police are concerned, however, the mystery has been solved. Chief of Police McKenna made public a statement of his opinion that Hattie Le Blanc, the 16-year-old girl now in Cambridge jail awaiting a hearing, is the person who fired the fatal shots.

Tobey Le Blanc, brother-in-law of the murdered man, was yesterday released from custody after deciding to answer questions before Judge Luce. He had been in a cell for two days and a night for contempt of court in refusing to give an account of himself. He told the judge that he did not hear of the murder until Wednesday of last week, when he read of it in a newspaper. He said he visited the home of his sister, Mrs. Glover, last Thursday, Thanksgiving day, but had not been there before for a long while.

Before he would answer any questions, however, he insisted upon being advised by Samuel D. Elmore, who is attorney for Mrs. Glover. Elmore was sent for, but it was about two hours before he arrived. Then the examination of Le Blanc proceeded.

After being released, Tobey Le Blanc was paid $4.50 for "witness fees" by the clerk of the court, although it was supposed he had been locked up for contempt of court instead of as a witness.

He was then hurriedly escorted downstairs to the private office of Chief of Police McKenna, with a crowd of reporters and photographers following. Le Blanc had a long talk with McKenna, and then to escape the waiting newspaper men he left the building by a trap door in the stable in the extreme rear of the police station.

Once on the street, Le Blanc was approached by a reporter and asked if he would not make a statement in regard to himself or his experience. He refused to utter a word or to answer any questions even by a nod of the head.

From the police station Le Blanc visited the Glover house on Main street and called on his sister, Mrs. Glover. Then he returned to Boston.

FIVE MEN PICKED UP

An Equal Number From Gunboat Marietta Not Yet Heard From

Washington, Nov. 30.—Five members of the deck crew of the gunboat Marietta, who were adrift in a gig off Port Limon, C. R., were picked up by a rescue party of the Des Moines Monday, according to a dispatch received at the navy department.

The men had made their way to the shore at Coieta Point, about twenty miles from Port Limon. The gig was not recovered.

The five other men adrift in the whaleboat of the Marietta have not been heard of.

COLD IN RIVER BED

It Induced Wealthy French Peasant to Part With $16,000

Paris, Nov. 30.—A wealthy peasant of Argenteuil lodged a complaint of fraud against Leon Goldsmith, alleged to be an American doctor, and to whom the plaintiff claims he gave $16,000 for an interest in a project to obtain gold from river sand.

The peasant claims that Goldsmith placed in the river bed the samples of gold dust which he afterwards recovered for exhibition. Goldsmith has disappeared.

May Escape Electric Chair

Boston, Nov. 30.—It is expected that the pardon committee of the executive council, which will meet today to consider the petition for the pardon of Warry Charles and Joe Guey, condemned to die during the week beginning Dec. 16, will agree in making the recommendation to the governor that he commute the sentences to imprisonment.

LEFT WINDOWS OPEN

School Might Have Otherwise Been Blown Up by Two Boys

Providence, Nov. 30.—Two small boys, in a prank of looting the Brigham street school, filled the big building with gas, which nearly caused the destruction of the building.

Thomas and Edward Downey, aged 9 and 11 years, have been arrested, and according to Captain Merrill of the police, have confessed.

The lads, it is alleged, went up the fire escape at night, found a window on the fourth story that was not fastened and effected an entrance into the building. They ransacked several of the rooms, opened all the desks and filled their pockets with small articles, after which they turned all the gas jets wide open.

Five of the jets were allowed to remain open while the gas flowed from them in large volume and filled the building.

Then they lighted two jets and made their escape. The fact that the windows were left open by the boys is all that saved the building from an explosion.

THE ALSOP CLAIM

United States and Chile Officially Ask King Edward to Act

London, Nov. 30.—A request that King Edward mediate the Alsop claim dispute between the United States and Chile was made by the United States through the foreign office. The king had been communicated with informally on the subject before, but at that time gave a noncommittal reply to the suggestion.

Later yesterday a similar request was received from the Chilean government. In forwarding these requests to King Edward it is understood that the foreign office advised him that in view of the fact that both parties desire him to act as arbitrator, there was no reason why he should not accept the invitations.

GREAT SHAKEUP IN NAVY DEPARTMENT

Rear Admiral Swift Is to Become Chief Adviser

Washington, Nov. 30.—The most sweeping changes in the navy department since its establishment in 1842 will be inaugurated tomorrow by Secretary Meyer, and the service will be put on a business basis.

The office of the bureau chief will be made subordinate, and four responsible advisers on subjects within the four groups into which the duties of the department fall are to be named.

The principal adviser will be Rear Admiral Swift, commandant of the Boston navy yard, and his title will be aide for material. The other advisers will be Rear Admiral Wainwright, aide for operations; Rear Admiral Potter, aide for personnel, and Captain Ward, who will become a rear admiral on Jan. 9, aide for inspection.

Other essential changes in the Meyer plan are: The grouping of the bureaus into two divisions of material and personnel, according to the nature of their duties; the establishment of a division of operations of the fleet; the establishment of a comprehensive inspection system; the establishment of a modern and efficient cost-keeping system; the separation of navy yard work into two divisions of hulls and machinery; the abolishment of the board of construction; the abolishment of the bureau of equipment.

GIRLS WIN BIG STRIKE

Fifteen Thousand Shirtwaist Makers Return to Work In New York

New York, Nov. 30.—The striking girl shirtwaist makers have forced 116 manufacturers to capitulate, and 15,000 of the young women went back to work Monday on their own terms. Ten additional manufacturers, employing 2200 girls, later yielded.

The leaders of the union declare that it will be only a question of a short time before the 16,000 girls still on strike will also go back to work on the terms dictated by them. All the manufacturers are signing agreements embodying provisions for better wages, better hours and better working conditions for a year.

INQUIRY IN BABY HOME

Death of Twenty-Four Infants Being Investigated by Coroner

Providence, Nov. 30.—An inquest into the death of twenty-four babies at the Myrtle baby home during the past few months has begun by Coroner Babcock. It is expected that the inquest will occupy several days.

While the deaths in some instances have been pronounced due to pneumonia, there have been intimations that impurity in the milk supply may have been responsible for some of the fatalities.

Labor Leaders Ask Delay

Washington, Nov. 30.—Notification of the filing of the petition for certiorari in the supreme court of the United States by Samuel Gompers and his associates was made to the district court of appeals in the form of a motion by counsel for the labor leaders for a further stay of the mandate of the appellate court.

SUGAR FRAUD TRIAL BEGINS

Court Refuses to Grant Motion For a Postponement

BENDERNAGEL IN THE NET

Former Superintendent of Trust's Big Plant at Williamsburg and "the Big Six," Which Formed a Sort of Little Weighing Trust, Lose In First Skirmish With Government—Plea to Quash Indictment Is Refused

New York, Nov. 30.—Another fight for delay which was started in the United States circuit court, criminal branch, when the seven men charged with sugar weighing frauds on the docks of the American Sugar Refining company at Williamsburg were called for trial, resulted in a victory for the prosecution.

JAMES F. BENDERNAGEL.

The indictments charged the seven defendants with conspiracy to defraud the government and they are to be tried before United States Circuit Judge James L. Martin of Vermont, who has been called into this jurisdiction for the purpose of this trial. The government is represented by Henry L. Stinson and his assistant, W. T. Dennison, who have been specially retained for the sugar trust prosecutions.

The defendants are James F. Bendernagel, the former superintendent of the sugar trust's big Williamsburg plant; Oliver Spitzer, former dock superintendent at the Williamsburg plant; and Thomas Kehoe, Jean M. Voelker, Patrick J. Hennessy, John R. Coyle and Richard A. Boyle, former assistant weighers in the customs service. Voelker is now confined in a hospital by illness and his counsel made a plea to have his trial separated from the others. Stimson asked that the ordinary legal proof demanded in such cases be submitted.

Much interest centres in these cases for the reason that Bendernagel, who held his $20,000 job at the Williamsburg refinery of the sugar trust until the day before his indictment a few weeks ago, is the largest fish to be caught in the government's net thus far, so far as criminal prosecutions are concerned, growing out of the sugar weighing frauds.

The other men who now come up for trial were all subordinates, although Spitzer and the five former assistant weighers all constituted a sort of a little weighing trust on the Williamsburg docks and were commonly referred to as "the big six."

Some of these men, it is known, have talked rather freely to the government's investigators and there have been many reports that this testimony involved men higher up even than Bendernagel in the former organization of the sugar trust. Stimson, however, and his assistants have given no intimation thus far as to the possibility of confessions from any of the defendants who are now going to trial and this uncertainty has contributed largely to the interest with which the public is watching the progress of the case.

After Judge Martin had disposed of the proposition to postpone George W. Mackeller, who is in the case as counsel for Bendernagel, moved to quash the indictment on account of certain technicalities in its language. His argument was substantially the same as that which Judge Hough dismissed last week.

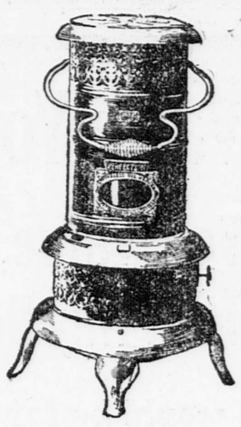

Judge Martin denied the motion to quash the indictment and ordered that the trial proceed.

Patrick Says He Is Legally Dead

New York, Nov. 30.—Albert T. Patrick, convicted of murdering William M. Rice, was brought here from Sing Sing prison on a writ of habeas corpus to make his ninth fight for liberty. Patrick declares that the stay which prevented his execution was not duly authorized, and now he demands that the appellate division pronounce him dead in the eyes of the law and give him his liberty.

Many Lives Lost In Storm

Lisbon, Nov. 30.—Wreckage of a dozen boats apparently washed ashore along the coast of the Azores, having been lost in a hurricane that swept those waters. It is believed the death list will reach 200 at least.

Oil Heat
Without Smoke

No matter how sensitive your olfactory nerves may be, or under what working conditions you encounter the

PERFECTION Oil Heater
(Equipped with Smokeless Device)

you'll not detect the slightest odor of smoke.

The Perfection Oil Heater neither smokes nor diffuses odor. The new positively prevents both. Repeated tests during its incipiency and development, innumerable trials after it had been pronounced perfect by the inventor, demonstrated its utility and sure effectiveness.

Automatic Smokeless Device

The wick cannot be turned up beyond the point of its greatest effectiveness. It locks automatically and thus secures the greatest heat-yielding flame without a sign of smoke or smell. Removed in an instant for cleaning.

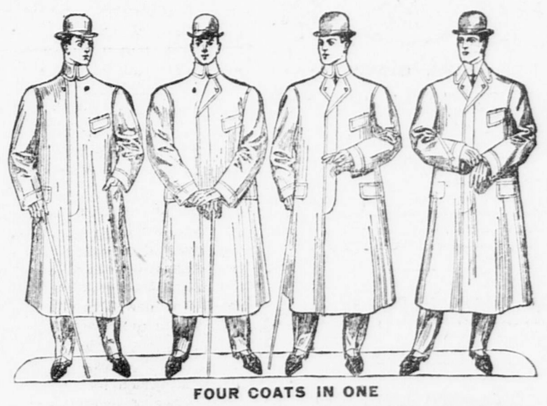

Solid brass font holds 4 quarts of oil—sufficient to give out a glowing heat for 9 hours—solid brass wick carriers—damper top—cool handle—oil indicator.

Heater beautifully finished in nickel or Japan in a variety of styles.

You Value Your House, and Insure It

You Value Your Life too—
Then Why Don't You Insure It?

Its loss would be far greater to your family. You would n't think much of a man who neglected to provide food enough for his family. You would n't think his affection was very real. Providing Life Insurance is just as important as providing food. Every insurable man should carry Life Insurance for his family.

The Prudential

makes it possible for you to secure this protection, no matter what your income.

What is Industrial Life Insurance? } It is a system of Life Insurance designed principally for wage-earners. Premiums range from 3 cents per week up, and are collected weekly by Agents who call at the homes of the Policyholders. The policies are issued from ages 1 to 70, on the lives of both sexes.

Ordinary policies.
Ages up to 66.

CHAPTER V.

HAGGLETON AT WORK.

"I WILL start fair," said Haggleton briefly to Gentle. "I will keep nothing but the clothes I stand in—and $2. That's what I started with the first time. Moran started with more than that. Two dollars will suffice for me. My clothes I can sell and buy a suit more fitting for a penniless man looking for a job. The difference in price I will add to my capital. You will have to explain me to Moran and make him take me as a boarder. I am Mr. Jackson, a small business man ruined by the trust."

Then he added to Philip:

"Call my secretary."

The man entered hastily.

"I wish to be alone with Mr. Grimes for a few moments."

Philip and Gentle withdrew.

"Sit down," motioned Haggleton.

Grimes looked at his watch. "The yacht was to sail in twenty minutes," he remonstrated. "You will lose the tide."

"I'm not going on the yacht."

"Ah! Then I'm to countermand the sailing orders?"

"I mean that the yacht goes, but I stay here—here in this tenement. I'm going to live here."

"Am I to sail on the yacht?"

"Of course. You will take my orders and see that they are executed. I shall write a note for the captain, telling him to carry out exactly the instructions already agreed upon."

"For a three months' cruise?"

"Yes. See to it that the news does not get out that I am not on board. Down here there's not one chance in a thousand that I will be discovered, and—Grimes, I have another reason for wanting every one to think me aboard the yacht."

"Another reason besides—besides your son?"

"Yes. You know how Bates went off yesterday. He hates me—hates me—and he'll pay up somehow, but he'll never stop fighting. Grimes, as soon as those fellows know I'm away they'll start some new deviltry against me, and"—he leaned forward—"it might be amusing and profitable to be right here in Manhattan watching them."

Haggleton opened the door.

"Come in, please," he called.

Gentle and Philip entered.

The old man sat at the bare wooden table and rapidly wrote his instructions. Then he sealed them and addressed the envelope. "There; I think that's all," he concluded, giving it to Grimes, who departed.

A remarkable change had come over Haggleton. His eyes were alert, his face firm, but good natured. He seemed pleased with himself and with things in general. Philip observed this with surprise.

Haggleton looked Philip straight in the eyes.

"I have told you that I am going to show you what John J. Haggleton would do if he had to hustle in a tenement."

He now turned to Gentle and began to fire rapid questions at him. Moran? A morose man, who ascribed his failure to the iniquity of a trust. Quite so. After his first failure he had simply stopped struggling? Just so. He was a baker's assistant? Could he get "Mr. Jackson" a place in the bakery? Mr. Jackson thought that he would like to have a try at the bakery business. Jenny? Hard working, but overwhelmed by her dispiriting environment and the privations of poverty. Just as he thought.

Joe Caffrey? Shiftless? Unmoral? Well, well! Joe must become their charge.

In ten minutes John J. knew all he cared to know. As in the organization of his gigantic undertakings, so now here, in this hovel, he had begun by gauging the possibilities of those with whom he would have to deal. He had watched his son and seen the look of interest, growing into admiration, upon his face. Yes, he had made a good beginning.

Haggleton rose and took a final turn of the room.

"When I came here nearly forty years ago," he announced, "this was a clean district. Now it is a dirty one. American cleanliness has been submerged by foreign shiftlessness. Within a week I will have this home of native Americans as neat as a New England farmhouse."

Where was he to sleep? Joe Caffrey would be Philip's guest for a day or two? All right. That nurse had said that the children ought to be in a hospital? Gentle would see to it that they went that very day and got their father's consent? All right.

Gentle went on his mission, Haggleton accompanying him to sell his clothes and buy cheaper ones.

Jenny returned home with her basket of images and welcomed an addition to their resources in the form of a boarder who would be far less trouble than the two children and more profitable. Mr. Jackson, Philip informed her, had seen better days—in fact, until quite recently he had lived in easy circumstances.

Tired as she was, depressed by the knowledge that she had lost Philip, she began to set the hovel to rights.

Margaret Lawrence, entering from the inner room, found her energetically at work making a distinction between the box that contained the coal and the basket that held the potatoes.

Gentle returned, accompanied by the ambulance. The children were bundled off, with much excitement on their part and many farewells, Margaret—final treat exacted from her—riding with them!

Haggleton—now "Mr. Jackson"—returned soon after, having sold his expensive clothes and bought with the proceeds a simple suit, better adapted to the role he was to play.

Jenny shook hands with Mr. Jackson, whom Gentle introduced, and bade him make himself at home. Gentle went.

The new boarder was certainly handy. He took off his coat and offered to help. Without waiting for an acceptance of the offer he began. He was deferential—he had "beautiful manners," Jenny concluded—asking permission even while he set to work. In this way he brought some order into the chaos of the young woman's domestic economy. It was a mere scraping of the surface, but when it had been accomplished Jenny was firmly convinced that it was she who had made the suggestions, Mr. Jackson who had merely carried them out.

"My, but you're handy," said Jenny, glancing around contentedly at the new arrangement of the room and the various small improvements.

"Well, you see, Mrs. Jenny—may I call you that? They all do. I am an old bachelor and used to doing things for myself. You don't mind?"

"Certainly not. I have so much to do I never seem to get a chance to do any one thing thoroughly."

Jenny looked at the alarm clock.

"Father will be home soon for dinner now," she announced, "and Joe, my brother-in-law."

Moran arrived, worn out, in a vile humor. Jenny introduced the new boarder to him.

The baker's assistant looked Mr. Jackson over with listless curiosity, which changed to ill concealed hostility when he saw the neatness of the newcomer's clothes and his well kept hands. He himself had been like that once! Moreover, the man had an insufferable air of distinction. Who and what was he to look like that? Nothing but a failure, endeavoring to find a new foothold in life.

"'Mr.' does not go down here."

Moran resolved to establish the proper relations at once.

"I am Moran," he said, "and you are Jackson. 'Mr.' does not go down here."

"All right, Moran. Jackson it is."

Joe arrived, having lost Jenny's $2, but cheerful as ever.

The new boarder interested him, and he began to make his acquaintance, his method being the not unusual one of asking innocently impertinent questions.

Haggleton saw another opportunity, and, as usual, he took it. He talked to Joe, but at Moran.

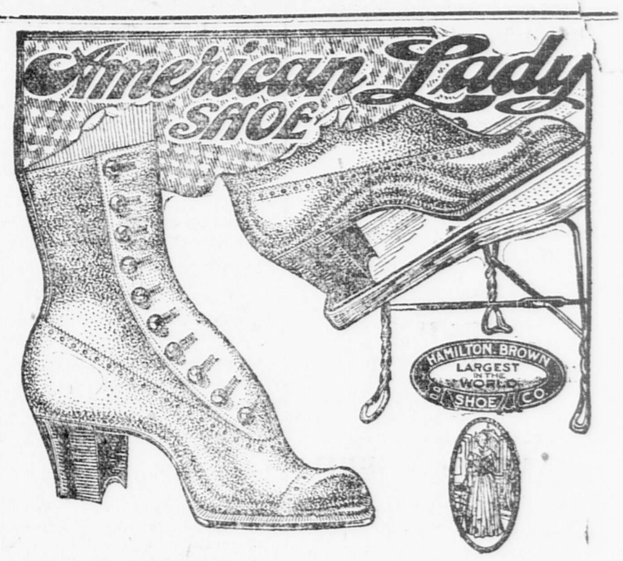

Yes; Haggleton was looking for a job. No; he had not saved a penny out of his failure.

But Moran snorted.

"Once you are down and out you stay down and out," he snarled.

"Well, I will try, anyhow."

HOW TO SAVE DRUNKARDS

Temperance the Subject of Sunday Evening Sermon

Rev. C. H. Raupach, pastor of the Hall Place M. E. church took for the topic of his Sunday morning sermon, "An Apostle's Conflicts." The Sunday school had an increase in attendance over any Sunday for the past two months. There were twenty-seven present at the Junior League service. Miss Ada Williams lead the Epworth League service, the topic being "Abstinence and Strength."

At the evening service the pastor spoke on the subject of Temperance, taking his text from I Cor. 6:10. "Nor drunkards shall inherit the kingdom of God." The pastor gave three reasons for preaching on temperance. First—It is the World's Temperance Sunday; Second—Because the Methodist church has always been foremost in taking a decided stand in the temperance work, and third—Because I hate the liquor traffic in any form.

He emphasized the fact that the pulpit must speak more and more on this question claiming the press is tied up on the temperance movements. He quoted C. H. Mead, D. D., National Temperance Secretary, "that the last battle would be fought at the ballot box" but before that hearts must be stirred. Strong drink is another name for "Hell on Earth." The drunkard is an outcast from the Kingdom of God.

The pastor quoted from the Discipline of 1906, adopted by General Conference, "We regard voluntary total abstinence from all intoxicants the ground of personal temperance" and this with Paul's plea, on the ground of the law of love "a drunkard is one who voluntarily drinks as a beverage either moderately or otherwise."

The pastor spoke in highest praise of work of the W. C. T. U. and No-License Leagues but said there is one phase of the work neglected in our great campaign, that is, work for the individual drunkard and for the prevention of individual drunkenness. They must be saved!

How? By being brought to the Lord Jesus! Three helps toward bringing about this reform are: 1—Individual self-abstinence from all intoxicating liquors. 2—By the employer refusing to employ men who drink. 3—Young women have the greatest power. If every young woman would refuse not only to marry, but refuse to associate with men who drink they would soon bring about a reformation in favor of temperance. But the one important thing to be done in order to save the man is to lead him to Christ!

QUINCY POINT CHURCH.

Large congregations gathered at the Point church Sunday to hear the pastor, Rev. A. R. Atwood preach. In the morning the double quartet rendered appropriate anthems and led the congregational singing, "Cast thy burden on the Lord" (Gottschalk), "Who is on the Lord's side" (Goss), "How firm a foundation" (Adeste Fideles). The pastor preached from the text, "The Spirit of the Lord came mightily upon him," Judges 13:25 ,and emphasized by Biblical illustrations that religious industry is exemplified spirituality.

Deacon Charles Sherburne reported a large attendance in the three departments of the Sunday school, which has begun the practice of its Christmas music.

The 7.30 meeting opened with an enthusiastic gospel praise service from "The Northfield Hymnal." In connection with the Scripture, Galations 6:1-10, the pastor read Whittier's poems "The Kansas Emigrants" and "Snowbound." Miss Mahitable Knight recited "Barbara Frietchie."

Members of Paul Revere Post also sailors from the revenue cutter "Androscoggin" and officers from the "Salem" were present. The pulpit and platform were decorated with the Stars and Stripes by F. Hayden.

Rev. A. R. Atwood preached from the topic, "Religious lessons from the poets of the past for the thinkers of today; John Greenleaf Whittier." He especially emphasized the necessity of christian courage and a spiritual purpose. Nearly every seat in the church was filled.

AT Y. M. C. A.

About forty of the young men of Quincy gathered in the assembly hall at the Young Men's Christian Association Sunday to hear H. W. Gibson's address on "Loyalty." The talk by Mr. Gibson, who is the boy's state secretary of Massachusetts and Rhode Island, was very interesting and also instructive. Next Sunday, H. C. Seggat, boys work director of the Worcester Y. M. C. A., will speak, taking as his subject, "Gold treasures." The service will begin at 3.30 o'clock and during the afternoon selections will be rendered by Wendell Clark, cornetist of Quincy. Refreshments are served each Sunday.

SNUG HARBOR.

Religious services were held Sunday morning. The Davis Trio rendered appropriate selections and led the "Choral Class" in the singing of "Let the lower lights be burning," "Sowing the seed," "Pass me not," "Face to face," "Anywhere with Jesus." The chaplain, Rev. A. R. Atwood, preached on "Sampson and the way to conquer."

BOSTON OPERA HOUSE.

The fourth week of grand opera will add two more operas to the repertoire of Director Russell's organization at the Boston Opera House. "La Traviata" and "Faust" will be given for the first time this season. The former will have its first presentation Wednesday night, with Mme, Lydia Lipkowska in the role of Violetta Valery. It was in this role that Mme. Lipkowska elected to make her debut as the Metropolitan Opera House in New York, and, despite the hesitancy that the New York critics betray in recognizing new singers, won a most pronounced success . In the cast of "Traviata" will be Mmes. Rogers and Leveroni, and Mm. Bourillon, Boulogne, Giaccone, Pulcini, Dunstan, Perini and Stroesco. Arnold Conti will conduct. "Traviata" will be repeated at the Saturday matinee with Mme. Lipkowska.

Gounod's "Faust" will be given Friday night with Paul Bourrillon as Faust, Giusto Nivette as Mephistopheles, Raymond Boulogne as Valentine, Jane Noria as Marguerite, Bettina Freeman as Siebel, and Mildred Rogers as Marthe. The orchestra will be under the direction of Wallace Goodrich. As may be imagined, the opportunities afforded by "Faust" for scenic impressiveness will be taken advantage of to the limit, and a great pictorial production may be looked for.

For the Saturday night's debutante performance there will be a double bill. Elena Kirmes will make her initial appearance as Santuzza in "Cavalleria Rusticana," and Elfriede Schroeder will sing for the first time the role of Nedda in "I Pagliacci." The other members of the cast will be selected from the well-known singers of the company.

For the Sunday night concert a notable program has been arranged.

NOT A CANDIDATE.

While it is generally admitted that Judge Albert E. Avery would make an admirable district attorney, it is doubtful if any steps will be taken to secure him the appointment, as it is understood that he does not desire to be considered as a candidate. Several petitions for the appointment are already in circulation ,and it is thought by those in position to size up the situation that the mantle will fall upon the shoulders of one of the two candidates from Brockton.

SCHOOLGIRLS' DRESSES.

Some Seasonable Suggestions For Becoming and Sensible Suits.

Dressing the schoolgirl becomingly and sensibly is a problem mothers have to face at this time of the year.

Fortunately serges of the rough variety are very smart, and they adapt themselves well to the youthful tailor made. The favorite color is a tawny yellow, relieved by buttons of a deeper shade.

The three piece suit is most useful and universally becoming. Care should be exercised, however, in selecting the color. Broadcloth also is apt to make the average girl look old, and a coarse wale serge is much prettier for her. Very little braided work should be put on a young girl's coat. It is not youthful enough for her and has a tendency under hard wear to grow shabby.

The little university dresses are quite pretty for school wear. These come in the long waisted models, relieved with a fold of plaid and having the full plaid skirt. They are especially effective in black and white, worn with a little toque trimmed with large white wings.

With these separate dresses a long coat of cloth or velvet is a necessity. A black or fawn colored cloth is the best, and the former may be made youthful by preserving its straight lines, also trimming it with large white pearl buttons and white collars and cuffs.

I do not like to see a schoolgirl wearing shirt waists. Her form is too immature, and she has not yet learned how to adjust her collars and belts. If waists must be worn they should be of the same shade and preferably of the same material as the skirt, and the latter should have a belt sewed to it.

The schoolgirl's boots should receive particular attention. For everyday wear a pair of heavy dull kids should be bought, but for dress occasions, instead of patent leather, which is very hard on the feet, I favor the black buckskin, which, if of a good quality and cleaned with a first class liquid dressing, lasts a long time and is very practical.

For dress wear nothing is prettier than the new long waisted, kilted skirt dresses made in white cloth. These white dresses are not extravagant, as they soil all over so that it is not noticeable, and they clean much bet ter than the pale shades, which get a dingy tone through the yellowing effect of the gasoline.

Perhaps it is the schoolgirl's hat which deserves the most attention. In the model illustrated you will notice a smart turban worn with a pretty little serge costume. This is made of beaver and can be worn even in the rain without spoiling it. The broad brimmed black beaver is also very good, but it should be of superior quality, not the limp sort one usually sees, and it is much smarter if turned up at one side and lined with black velvet. For dressy wear the tricorne shape in velvet to match the suit is particularly adapted to youthful faces, but it should be simply trimmed, not loaded with feathers, as some of these hats are. American Girl Dazzles London.

Lady Lowther, wife of Gerard Lowther, formerly connected with the British embassy staff in Washington, was before her marriage Miss Alice Atherton Blight, the daughter of Atherton Blight of New York and Newport. In her girlhood as well as in her womanhood she was universally regarded as one of the handsomest Americans in society. When she accompanied her husband to England she maintained her reputation both as a beauty and as a clever woman. She is not altogether wedded to society, for she has written books that sold on their merit, and now another is soon to be brought out. Her experiences in Morocco were put into print and at once established her name as a writer of more than average ability. During the season at Newport Lady Lowther was a favorite. Her sister, Mrs. William Payne Thompson, is also regarded as one of the beauties of this country.

JOY RIDERS WERE LUCKY

Nearly Come to Grief on Water Street Crossing

Three automobile joy rides nearly came to grief early this morning when their car dashed through the gates at the Quincy Adams station. The hour was about 1 o'clock and the gates at the Water street crossing were down, as the freight known as the Double Iron was coming down the grade from Braintree.

A large 30 horse power Packard touring car in which were three men came tearing down Water street from West Quincy, going at a speed of over 30 miles an hour. No attempt was made to check the speed of the car, and it crashed through the gates smashing the westerly gate. This caused the east gate to fly up and the automobile dashed across hardly a minute before the engine of the Double Iron was on the crossing.

The car ran as far as Doble's corner, and then turned up Franklin street where it stopped to see what damage had been done. There they were overhauled by Officer Broberg. The driver of the car gave his name as Robert W. Emmons of Beacon street, Boston, and said he was the owner of the car, and was on his way to Hingham. One side of his face was badly scratched and he had lost his hat. The two men in the rear seat had also lost their hats. One of the lights on the car was smashed but was otherwise uninjured. The two men in the rear seat were considerably under the influence of liquor and the driver had also been drinking. They did not seem to realize what a narrow escape they had. The men agreed to appear in court this morning, but did not do so. Officer Broberg, therefore swore out warrants against them.

GRANITE CONFERENCE

Efforts to Reach Agreement at Barre

The lockout of the 4000 granite cutters at Barre, Northfield and other points in Vermont was taken up by the officers of the National Association of Granite Industries of the United States in Boston on Monday. The meeting was in session all day, and until late at night. The whole situation was gone over thoroughly but no information as to conclusions reached was given out.

National Secretary James Duncan of Quincy attended the conference to represent the granite cutters' unions of Northfield, Montpelier and Barre.

FORESTERS REUNION

St. Francis and St. Ambrose Courts

A very enjoyable reunion of the members and friends of St. Francis and St. Ambrose courts of Foresters was held Monday evening at Farnum hall. During the first part of the evening there was an entertainment which included piano solos by Miss Zeta Cain, piano duett by Miss Rena Mannix and Rena Bizzozero, and chorus singing under the direction of Mrs. J. L. Fennessey and Miss Della Burke. Brief remarks were made by Rev. Henry Grady Mayor Shea and Cornelius M. Duggan, H. S. C. Martin & Burleigh served refreshments and the evening closed with dancing.

Grief That Kills.

"My poor boy," said the beneficent old clergyman, who had encountered a young waif sobbing in the streets, "what ails you? Some case of dire distress has touched your heart chords no doubt."

"No," sniffed the lad; "you're clear off your base, old kazoozicks. Me an' Snippy an' de rest of de fellies tincanned the mangy old yellow cur up at Schwartz's grocery, an' while old Schwartz an' de gang followed de dog I sneaked back to de grocery to swipe dried apples. De Fido chased into Schmitt's orchard, an' de gang cribbed de swellest peaches you ever seen, an' den dey smoked grapevine cigarettes and set the barn afire. I made a sashay into de apple barrel at de grocery, an' de delivery boy pasted me with a bed slat, an' it hurts yet, an' I didn't get to see de fire an' didn't get nothin' to eat, an' I wisht I wuz dead—doggone it all!"—Bohemian Magazine.

His Advice.

A young genius named McCarthy went to Commodore Vanderbilt and gave him a suggestion which led the commodore to organize all the little railroads between New York and Chicago into one. Before McCarthy went to Vanderbilt he went to a friend for advice. Here is what his friend told him about the commodore:

"Don't let him scare ye. He's as full of power as a turbine. Has a good deal o' whir in him. Likes resistance; so does every great force. He's fought a thousand difficulties. He'll take you for another an' pitch into ye, like as not. Don't let him scare ye. If he jumps on ye, jump on him. He'll enjoy it an' begin to respect ye. It's like puttin' a belt on the turbine—you'll take off a bit of his power and ease him down."—Denver News.

OFFICERS NOT TO BLAME

Deer Island Prisoners Said to Receive Drugs From Visitors

Boston, Nov. 30.—James C. White, secretary to the mayor, yesterday made his report upon the conditions at Deer island, where it has been claimed of late that a wholesale business in morphine and cocaine is being carried on among the inmates of the state institutions. According to White there are persons on the island who are receiving the drug from visitors or have it secreted about their persons, but denial is made that there are any officers at the present time trafficking in the drug.

Mr. White is satisfied that there are not more than forty people among the 1300 inmates on the island who are adicted to the drug. He recommends the segregation of all these persons; the reduction of the visiting list, also that the officers and guards should be sworn as constables so as to attach a greater penalty upon persons found guilty of supplying the drug.

HIS SANITY THE ISSUE

Somerville Youth Is Placed on Trial on Charge of Murder

Cambridge, Mass., Nov. 30.—James M. Harmon, Jr., of Somerville was placed on trial for murder in the superior criminal court for killing Maud Hartley on Dec. 18, 1908, in Somerville, as she was about to board a car. Harmon is 18 years old, and is the son of Sergeant Harmon of the Somerville police department. Maud Hartley was 17 years old, and was the daughter of Dr. R. Agnes Hartley of Somerville.

Judge White explained what questions might be asked of the panel from which the jury was to be selected. He also instructed the men composing the panel that the issue would be as to the sanity of the defendant, as there was no question about his having killed the girl. A jury was secured after 100 talesmen had been examined.

AMERICAN CONSUL IS THREATENED

President Zelaya's Position Has Become Precarious

Washington, Nov. 30.—The United States consul at Managua has been threatened by President Zelaya, and he has been granted permission to occupy the legation premises as being more secure.

The Nicaraguan congress will assemble next Wednesday, and it is rumored that President Zelaya will retire and possibly attempt to escape from the country by the Pacific coast.

Anarchy, it is said, may ensue. Persistent rumors from various quarters indicate that Irias may succeed Zelaya as president.

This information is embodied in telegrams, more or less delayed, to the state department from the consular representatives in Nicaragua.

The first consular telegram says Leroy Cannon was captured on Oct. 21, and Leonard Groce on Nov. 2. They were executed Nov. 12 and no news reached the department of the execution until Nov. 17.

Washing Ashore of Schooner's Hull Tells Tale of Disaster

North Sydney, N. S., Nov. 30.—Thirteen lives are believed to have been lost in the wreck of the coasting schooner Little Jap, the battered hull of which was washed ashore at Red Cliff, on the west coast of Newfoundland.

The vessel sailed from Deer Island, N. F., on Nov. 9, and it is believed that she was one of the many victims of the great gale of Nov. 10. Six widows and fifteen children are left helpless by the wreck.

The vessel registered 50 tons and carried 700 quintals of dry fish. The government had sent out two steamers to search for the Little Jap since the great storm.

COUNT SEES ROCKEFELLER

Trying to Interest Oil Magnate In Scheme to Drain Zuyder Zee

Cleveland, Nov. 30.—Count DeVries was successful yesterday in his efforts to see John D. Rockefeller in reference to draining the Zuyder Zee, Holland, and opening up the bed of that body of water to truck farming. The count is the promoter of this idea and desired to interest Rockefeller to the extent of financing the proposition.

In previous efforts to reach Forest Hill, the home of Rockefeller, it is said the count was repulsed, and on one occasion shots were fired at his automobile.

GOODS SEIZED BY HUB POLICE

Aftermath of Fire In Premises of Dealers In Furs

THREE ARRESTS ARE MADE

Torch Said to Have Been Applied to Establishment After Greater Part of Stock and Furs That Were In Storage Had Been Removed—Owners Claimed Insurance of $35,000—Climax of Long Investigation

Boston, Nov. 30.—Furs and rare skins valued at $5000 were seized by Deputy Superintendent of Police Watts and his detectives in a raid on a building in Intervale street, Dorchester, last evening, following the arrest of Samuel I. Gordon, 33, and Morris Rudnick, 33, who are charged with arson in setting fire to the building at 119 Summer street, where, with Morris August, they conducted a furriers' business. Bernard Davies, 38, was arrested, charged with being an accessory before the fact.

The arrest and subsequent raid in Dorchester are the result of several months of investigation under the personal direction of Watts and Superintendent Leith of the Pinkerton agency. Several more arrests are expected, and the police hope to recover furs valued at $25,000.

Deputy Watts says that furs valued at $25,000, which were stored with the concern by hundreds of Bostonians, were removed secretly and that the place was set afire on the night of June 19 and that the owners of the store immediately claimed the insurance of $35,000 which they had upon the stock and goods in storage.

The insurance was held by the Providence Washington Insurance company, and after a superficial examination of the store on the day following the fire the agents protested the payment of the insurance and placed the case in the hands of Watts and Leith.

Deputy Watts stated last night that the insurance people claimed that all that was left in the store after the fire was a lot of packing cases in which the furs were said to have been stored. These, they claim, were filled with nothing but paper and other combustible material.

August is said to have confessed that the place had been set on fire and that the greater part of the stock and furs that were in storage had been secretly taken from the store before the torch was applied.

Inspector Rooney went to the National Fur company, 564 Washington street, in which Gordon is a partner, and placed him under arrest. Rudnick and Davies, who are partners in a real estate business in the Old South building, were arrested by Inspectors Norton and McCauley.

The prisoners were put on the rack by Deputy Watts, and when they had finished the interview with Davies a visit was made to the shed on Intervale street, where the goods had been placed in a building leased by Davies. Other furs were recovered in Davies' home.

Davies is alleged to have aided in disposing of the goods. He will also be charged with accepting a receipt that set forth that he stored furs with the concern to the value of $3000. The police say that he did not place any furs in storage, but the receipt was made out to increase the amount of damages to be claimed.

Immediately after the fire, Gordon, it is alleged, made a sworn statement to the insurance company as to the goods destroyed by fire. All of the goods recovered last night are said to be included in the list that Gordon is alleged to have sworn were burned up. August is reported to have identified all the goods seized by the police.

COMING TO AMERICA

Red Widow Was Not Well Received In British Cities

London, Nov. 30.—Mme. Marguerite Steinheil, France's "Tragic Widow," recently acquitted of the murder of her artist husband and her stepmother after a trial that stirred the world to protest, because of the torture inflicted upon her, is believed to be on her way to America.

Fleeing incognito from London, where she was virtually ordered out of a hotel, she hastened to Liverpool. In her conversation with a man before she left the Midland Hotel here, a maid heard her say "America" several times.

Held For Manslaughter

Woburn, Mass., Nov. 30.—Santo Saloma, an Italian, was arraigned here on a charge of murdering Francesco Stagliano in a fight at Winchester. The charge of murder, however, was changed to manslaughter, and the defendant was held in $5000 bonds for the grand jury.

Moorish Chiefs Submit to Marina

Melilla, Morocco, Nov. 30.—The chiefs of the Moroccan tribes of Kabyles, Beni-Boufrur and Beni-Sidel, made formal submission to General Marina. The chiefs even offered to raise a native force and join the Spanish chiefs against such Moors as were still hostile.

REVIEW OF FOOTBALL

Generally Regarded as Unsatisfactory Season

The football season is practically over, a few games next Saturday furnishing the wind up and some how it seems to have left an unsatisfied impression. The fact that there have been many accidents have marred the season and may result in the demand for more football legislation in order to eliminate still further the chance of injury or death in the game.

Another disappointing fact is the way in which the much touted teams have failed to come up to the standard set for them. In a majority of the large games one of the teams has generally failed to come up to the mark and their big contests proved a failure. Both in school and college football this has been true and whether or not the game is too varied, the possibilities too wide for the coaches to scope with in their limited time, seems to be the question at present. The Harvard Yale game of this year was not half the contest to watch, which the Harvard-Dartmouth was, simply because Harvard failed to come up to the standard and hopes raised by the coaches. The final contests of interscholastic football have been proved equally disappointing.

The Somerville-Waltham game early in the season proved a walk over for Somerville, yet since that game they have been unable to show anything like that form, being held for a tie the week after by Dorchester which had one of the weakest teams among the Boston high schools.

And so on right through the season the teams have shown no sign of gaining that power and confidence of attack and defense which comes with a season of consistent work, but rather have shown only flashes of this form at various times, and with hardly an exception have ended their season's in poor shape.

The local boys started well and with a college coach, as in most of the other large high schools, they might have made a great showing. As it was they showed the same occasional flashes of strong football only to lapse into the weak and rambling style in most of their hard games. Once against Chelsea and again against Dedham they showed a wonderful attack and defense for such a light team, with limited coaching. Many coachs, including Dan O'Connell of Melrose, the Everett High coach and Dorchester's coach all said that had they had the handling of the team they would have made it one of the speediest elevens around Boston.

The list of injuries throughout the country, a large number of which were serious, tends to show that there is some reform needed in the game. Most of the deaths this year have resulted not from the open game, but from the old style mass plays, a large per cent. of them aimed at the tackle position. Most every team this year had strong tackles and played their tackles a great part of the time and as they would bring all of the backs over behind tackle in mass formations there was little difference in the style of play from the old football, except that the attacks shifted from between the guards to the tackles.

Quincy was fortunate in getting through the season without anything more than minor injuries. Another year may see a decided change in the game although it looks as though the rules committee were satisfied with the result of the past two seasons and will let the rules remain as they are.

"We do not know how to fix it," says the Yale Alumni Weekly, "so that 22 young men can meet in a game that calls for personal contact and which both sides are determined to win, and play it like ping pong. Yet there are limits, and the friends of football do not want the game to fall to the level, and deserve the fate of pugilism."

In commenting on this statement the Boston Globe says:—Those "limits" appear to have been reached this year, with the death of 30 men and the permanent injuries of several hundred others.

BASKET BALL TWO TEAMS

St. Marys Will Open Season On Wednesday

The basket ball season in West Quincy is now opened and the St. Marys will go to West Roxbury Wednesday night to meet the fast St. Alphonsus five. The St. Marys have been putting in some good hard practice and expect to take the coming game. The St. Mary's line-up will be: Dan Duggan (L.B.); John McLaughlin (Center); Frank Mullen (R.B.); J. Robertson (R.F.); Fred Sullivan (L.F.). This five will be the regular team for the coming season, and it will be one of the fastest that the St. Marys ever put on the floor.

The schedule for this year places the first few games away from home, but in a few weeks they will be on their own floor if well supported by the fans.

The second St. Marys also play Wednesday night at the Y. M. C. A. when they will meet the Fore River juniors and their line-up will be: Ed. Bennett (L.B.); J. O'Rourke (R.B.) Peter Duggan (Center); R. Connelly (R.F.); A. Bizzozero (L.F.). They also will play away from home until the first team comes back.

INTER-SCHOOL TOURNAMENT

Massachusetts Fields and Wollaston Now Tie.

The athletes of the Massachusetts Fields school and the Wollaston school will have it out tomorrow on the grounds of the former at 3 P. M. At the first meet of these two schools the Massachusetts Fields school won 20 points to 10 for Wollaston. At the second meet the score was reversed, Wollaston scoring 20 points and Massachusetts Fields but 10. The score therefore is now a tie, 30 to 30.

At these meets five of the school games are played, viz: Dodge ball, straddle ball, side kick, potato race, and a relay race. The girls as well as the boys participate both in classes and individually. The Daily Ledger will have the summary of all events.

HUNTING ROCK HARES.

A Fleet Little Animal Found Among the Sand Hills of Arabia.

How long the Arab has inhabited the deserts of the near east is a much discussed question. How long he has indulged in the old time sport of falconry it is equally difficult to say. Sure it is that this keen blooded race has not lived all these centuries in those sun scorched wastes without some sort of recreation, and his delights today are probably much the same as those of his ancestors a couple of thousand years ago.

Curious to see what natural sport these barren regions could afford, the writer accepted an invitation to join a party of Syrian Arabs for a week's hunting. Our quarry was the rock hare, an animal about the size of an English rabbit, but with very fine developed ears, which frequents these deserts in small numbers, living on what scanty herbage it can find.

We started straight away in search of it by forming a chain about a quarter of a mile long and drawing likely tracts of desert in long semicircular sweeps. The herbage was very scant indeed. These sand hills, being scorched by a tropical sun and having a yearly rainfall of only some three inches, support but few plants of any kind. I noticed a few insectivorous birds pursuing their prey with keen voracity, as though they found it hard to make a living, but saw no trace of wild animals.

On we marched in silent order, merely following the lead of our falcon bearer, whose face seemed invariable, his manner unmoved. Hours passed by. It was now 11 o'clock. The sun was hot above us, drying up our parched lips. I began to think that rock hares must be a myth when suddenly the hound leaped forward with a great bound, our horses instinctively following at full gallop. But we had not far to go. It was only a "garbour." The hound was soon up to it, and I thought it was all over; but, no—the little creature leaped, as it were, right out of his mouth.

One spring brought the greyhound alongside again, but again this agile quadruped had slipped out of the grasp of his sharp teeth. The speed of the tiny thing was so great and its actions so sudden that it was as much as the eye could do to follow it at all. Again its great pursuer sprang upon it; again this nimble animal slipped from his very jaws. But it was no good. It was outclassed in size. These great leaps shook the very life breath from its frail body.

At last it fell an easy prey to its relentless enemy, and one crunch put an end to its miseries. It was an interesting little beast, its body about the size of a rat. It carried a fine long coat, was gray on the back, with white under the belly, having a long bony tail with a pretty tuft at the end. But its hind legs were its great feature. They were very long, being, like those of the kangaroo, specially adapted for jumping. I noted, too, that each hind foot was provided with only three toes, whereas on those of the fore legs, which were very short, there were the normal five. Altogether it was a most interesting and sporting specimen.—"Near East."

Descendants of David.

The history of the Sassoons is one of the most dramatic in the very dramatic story of the Hebrew race. The original Sassoon was a Bombay merchant, but the family is descended from a group known as Ibn Shoshan, who at one time held the position of nossi of Toledo. The name Shoshan, which signifies "lily" in Hebrew, was gradually transformed into Sassoon, signifying "gladness." The family claim Davidic descent, and Abraham Sassoon, who flourished in the seventeenth century, stated that he was a direct descendant of Shephatiah, the fifth son of David. Not only are there many references to the name in Hebrew mediaeval literature, but mention of it is made in the Talmud.—London M. A. P.

Three Tightwads.

Speaking of tightwads, a Texas paper says: It is reported that three of the stingiest men in the state were in town yesterday. One of them will not drink as much water as he wants unless it is from another man's well. The second forbids any of his family from writing anything but a small hand, as it is a waste of ink to make large letters. The third stops his clock at night in order to save wear and tear on the machinery. All of them decline to take their county paper on the ground that it is a terrible strain on their spectacles to read newspapers even in the daytime.

Food Scarce.

"This circular describing the Mountingvue says you can sit at the dinner table and see the beautiful mountain peaks," said the man who contemplated going.

"That is true," replied the one who had been, "and that's just about all you can see."—Yonkers Statesman.

He Wouldn't Die.

Mrs. Peachblow—Why does your husband carry such a tremendous amount of life insurance when he's in such perfect health? Mrs. Flicker—Oh, just to tantalize me. Men are naturally cruel.—Life.

Not Unanimous.

She—There's Mrs. Toozle. She seems quite reconciled to the death of her first husband. He—Yes, but I'm afraid her second never will be.—Illustrated Bits.

In the adversity of our best friends we often find something which does not displease us.—Rochefoucauld.
